MONTREAL, October 31 (Canadian Press). — There was no improvement in the cash grain business here yesterday. The flour market was without new developments. A fair trade continues in millfeed, and the tone of the rolled oats market was steady. Prices for baled hay were firm. A fair trade is passing in eggs. Demands for potatoes continues good. A slightly firmer feeling is reported on the butter market. The cheese market is without special feature.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, October 31 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday:

Demand 4.5450
Cables 4.5475

MONTREAL DAIRY PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, October 31 (Canadian Press). — The egg quotations yesterday were:

Extras, 40 to 42; firsts, 36 to 37; seconds, 31 to 32.

Butter — Special pasteurised, no sales; No. 1 do., no sales; No. 1 creamery, 36 1-4.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, October 31 (Canadian Press). — Cattle, receipts 13,000; good to choice grades matured steers steady; top, $12.00; mixed steers and heifers, $11.00; common fat cows, very dull; bulk, $3.50 to $4.50; bulls strong, bulk bolognas, $4.00 to $4.50; vealers 25c higher; bulk to packers, $9.00 to $10.00.

Hogs, receipts 39,000; strong to 10c higher; bulk good and choice 230 to 350 pound butchers, $7.50 and $7.65; top, $7.75.

Sheep, receipts 16,000; killing lambs strong; sheep steady; feeding lambs strong to 10c higher; bulk fat natives and fed Westerns, $13.00 to $13.25; top, $13.45; bulk fat ewes, $4.50 to $6.00; top feeding lambs, $12.85.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, October 31 (Canadian Press). — Although wheat averaged a little lower in price yesterday, eastern buying brought about rallies. Imports of Canadian wheat had some bearish influence, but sellers were cautious on account of the possibility of Government action, which might give an advantage to bulls. The close was unsettled, at 1-8c net decline to 1-8c to 1-4c advance, with December $1.05 7-8 to $1.06 and May $1.10 1-4.

Corn finished unchanged to 1 1-8c lower; oats 1-8c to 1-8c to 1-4c off; and provisions unchanged to 20c higher.

Reports were current that fully 500,000 bushels of Canadian wheat had been brought into Duluth during the last week, presumably for Minneapolis mills, and, that additional imports were in prospect.

Word of some increase of country selling in the North-West tended also to ease the market here. Selling in Chicago, however, lacked volume, and it gradually became apparent that temporarily the East was supporting values whenever setbacks in price seemed likely to become important.

Some of the current buying was said to be based on an opinion that if conditions in Germany this winter developed to the point of famine the United States would purchase cargoes of wheat and flour, and would give aid similar to that afforded Russia after the war.

Official announcement that nineteen million bushels of United States wheat and flour had been exported during the four weeks ending 27th October, attracted considerable notice. According to a leading authority this total is completely at variance with widespread belief that at present the United States is out of the export business in wheat.

Reasonable readjustment of corn prices from an old crop to a new crop basis led to a drop of as much as 10c a bushel in the value of old corn. New crop deliveries held steady owing to unfavourable weather.

Oats sagged a little with corn.

Upturns in the price of hogs gave strength to the provision market.

MINNEAPOLIS GRAIN.

MINNEAPOLIS, October 31 (Canadian Press). — Flour unchanged; shipments 51,390 barrels. Bran, $28.00 to $28.50. Wheat, No. 1 Nor. $1.12 1-8 to $1.17 1-8; December $1.12 1-8; May, $1.17. Corn, No. 3 yellow, 84c to 85c. Oats, No. 3 white, 37 7-8c to 38 3-8c. Flax, No. 1, $2.35 1-4 to $2.37 1-4.

HE FACES LEGAL DEATH FOR THE FOURTH TIME

SAVANNAH, GA., Oct. 31.—(United Press)—Le Curry, sentenced for the fourth time to be hanged, is scheduled to be executed here November 16.

Curry was convicted four times of the murder of Burleigh Phillips, a taxicab driver, but the supreme court, in three instances, ordered a new trial.

Juries in the four cases have refused to recognize the man's plea for insanity, although in each case he has sat stoically in the court room, his face never expressing emotion at the most damaging testimony.

Phillips was buried alive after he had been hit over the head with an automobile tool when he refused to purchase liquor for Curry, according to evidence presented.

WARM WELCOME BY NORTH SMITH

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pearson Receive Gifts From Neighbors and Band.

On Friday evening, October 26, the North Smith Band and the friends and neighbors of the Wesley church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pearson to welcome Mrs. Pearson to the neighborhood. Mr. Bert Graham was the chairman for the evening and the program consisted of recitations, music, singing, music by the band and games. The bride and groom were called forward and the address of the band was read by Mr. Sam Wood which is as follows:

North Smith,
October 26, 1923.

"To Mr. Howard Pearson:

We, the members of the North Smith Band, have assembled, having learned that you have joined the ranks of the benedicts (heaven bless us for many our are trials) wish to console you in the fate that has befallen you and wish to assure you of our heart felt sympathies and realizing the trueness of the old saying, that when a man marries his troubles begin, it behoves all us benedicts to stick together in mutual fellowship and believing the Band Room is a good place for such fellowship and practicing a good way to blow away your cares and troubles, do press upon you that you forsake not the assembling of yourself with us on practice nights and wishing to press the above very strongly on you we ask you to accept this clock and when you hear it saying "Get to practice" you may heed its voice.

Incidently, we wish you and your wife a very prosperous life and welcome her to our midst."

Mr Gratton Nichols presented the clock and Mr. Pearson replied thanking the members of the band for their gift

Miscellaneous Shower.

Then a miscellaneous shower of presents was given by the friends and neighbors and the following address was read by Miss Mary Nichols:

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pearson:

It is with feeling of joy that we have met here this evening. We, the friends and neighbors welcome you back to our midst who by your good judgment and your gentle personality has won for yourself a very warm place in the hearts of the people of this neighborhood. We also rejoice with you and hope that every success will follow you in your new home and in your new field of service which will be the richer for your coming here.

We hope you will accept these gifts as a tangible proof of the high esteem in which you are held among us and of our love and appreciation of your work and service among us.

These gifts as you use them will be the means of linking you in loving association with the givers, and may serve as gentle reminders of pleasant associations in the past.

We all join in wishing you and your husband a long, happy and prosperous journey through life and may God's richest blessings be the crowning success of your lives.

Signed on behalf of Mrs. Jos. Harris.
Mrs. Fred Armstrong.
Miss Mary Nichols.

The presents were carried in by Mrs Fred Armstrong and Mrs. E. Blewett and presented to the bride. The bride, though completely taken by surprise, thanked the friends and neighbors for their gifts, A dainty lunch was then served by the ladies and the evening closed by the singing of "For he's a jolly good fellow" and "Auld Lang Syne."

No Wild Rush From Toronto for Tickets at Kingston on Saturday.

KINGSTON, Ont. Oct. 31—Varsity has returned to the authorities at Queen's 500 tickets out of their allotment of 1,500 for the game on Saturday between Varsity and Queen's. Varsity asked for fifteen hundred tickets and Queen's are wondering what is the matter as they have received no word of explanation.

BOY SERIOUSLY HURT PUSHED FROM WAGON

Picked Up Unconscious and Is Still Confined to His Home in Omemee—T. B. Laidley Leaves the Farm.

HIS STOCK SOLD.

OMEMEE, Oct. 31.—The ten-year-old son of Mr. Dixon, the G.T.R. station agent here suffered serious injury to his head last week while riding home from school on the back of a light waggon in company with some other boys, he was jostled off and fell on the pavement where he was picked up unconscious. Medical aid was summoned and after careful examination it was found that his injuries were not as serious as was at first feared However, the child is still confined at home, and it is hoped that he will soon be around again.

Farm Stock Sold.

The sale of farm stock and implements etc., belonging to Mr. T. B. Laidley was held on Friday afternoon and attracted a large crowd from far and near. A fair price was received for the cattle but the horses did not average up to their value it is reported.

Mr. Laidley has been a life long resident of this district and has now gone to reside with his daughter, Mrs. A. E. Bryson, of Toronto, where his many friends wish him every joy and comfort, after a life of toil and labor spent on the farm.

Mrs. Boyd his younger daughter, who resided with him will be sadly missed in church work especially, and a short time ago, the members of the Choir, Epworth League, Missionary Society and Ladies Aid presented her with several pieces of ivory and before her departure the boys of her Sunday school class presented her with a wicker jardinere and the following address:

Dears Mrs. Boyd,—

We, the members of the Sunday school class wish you to accept this small token of appreciation for your attendance and good teachings.

METHODIST CHURCH 60TH ANNIVERSARY

Social Aspect of the Occasion Celebrated By Fowl Supper.

HASTINGS, Oct. 31.—The Fowl Supper given on Monday evening on the occasion of the 60th anniversary of the Methodist church, was a grand success in every way, both socially and financially. The tables were laid in the town hall, which was tastily decorated for the occasion, and were laden with everything to tempt the most fastidious A unique feature was the appearance of the waiters and waitresses who wore white caps with the number "60" in red figures across the front. After the inner man had been abundantly satisfied the large company repaired to the auditorium of the church where a good programme was rendered as follows: Anthem, by the choir; address by Rev. D. A. Thomson; solo by Miss Mae Huycke; address by Rev Mr. Pippin; duet by Miss Lily Tait and Mr. L. T. Huycke; address by Rev. Mr. Rogers of Norwood; solo by Mrs. Alex Fleming of Colborne; address by Rev. Mr Kemp of Warkworth; solo by Mr. MacDonald and an address by Rev. Mr Elliott of Campbellford.

Rev. M. L. Hinton ably filled the chair.

The proceeds amounted to almost $230. The committees in charge have every reason to be pleased with the success of the undertaking.

Mrs. Green of Peterboro is visiting friends in town.

Mrs. W. Barrigan of Peterboro was in town on Monday.

WOLVES BOLD NEAR APSLEY

Several Settlers Lose Calves and Yearlings — A.Y.P.A. a Going Concern—Apsley News.

APSLEY, Oct. 31.—The A.Y.P.A. is now established as a going concern for the winter months. The officers were installed on Saturday, October 20, which was followed by a talk by the Patron on the etiquette of the ball-room. On Saturday last the meeting took the form of a musical evening and a pleasant hour was spent in listening to a programme of vocal and instrumental numbers by members. The rest of the evening was devoted to games. Several new games have been purchased, including a crokinole board, and the room is now fairly well equipped in this respect.

A Fowl Supper.

On Friday, the 26th inst., a fowl supper under the auspices of the Glenalda Methodist Church, was given in the shed of the church, and considering a counter attraction was being put on at Coe Hill which took many of the young people, was quite a success.

Holding Services.

Mr. Jackson of Peterborough has been holding services in this district the last two weeks, preaching on the Millenium at Hale's School House.

Wolves A-Plenty.

Wolves are getting quite bold around this locality, several settlers having lost calves and yearlings. They are common north of Apsley and around the Ridge. Bob. Peters and L. Post have both shot one, and the hunters will probably find more tracks of these pests than of deer.

Hallowe'en Masquerade.

The annual popular Hallowe'en masquerade is being held at the parish room this Wednesday evening and will no doubt attract a big crowd. Six prizes are being offered for the most striking costumes. A similar affair is being held at Burleigh Hotel on Friday next, organized by Miss Drain, the popular teacher of that school section.

Personals.

Mrs. Glen Nichols (nee Miss J. Tanner) and little daughter of Chatham are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Tanner.

Judge Huycke and Rev. A. W. Mackenzie were in the village last week.

Miss Mae Hales, who is graduating at the General Hospital, Belleville, is home for a short vacation.

Born—On Friday, October 26, to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith, a son.

Dr. Munro and E. and F. Selkirk of Warsaw were in the village on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie, Pittsburg, are back again at their cottage on Loon Lake for a short visit.

Quite a building boom is reported at Coe Hill, seven new houses being built or in course of erection.

LAKEFIELD VILLAGE AND THE DISTRICT

Hallowe'en of A. Y. P. A. One of the Best Yet—A Few of the Costumes.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 31.—The annual Hallowe'en masquerade of the A.Y.P.A. was held in the Sunday school room on Monday night and was so successful that it may be said to be the best of the nine successive masquerades held by the society. Between thirty five and forty young people were present and spent a pleasant and exceedingly jolly times with Hallowe'en games. The committee: Mrs. J. Sanderson, Miss L. Summers and Percy Stenner provided a programme which left no time for dullness and kept everyone on the qui vive all evening. The costumes were varied but by far the most unique were those worn by Messrs. C. Stenner and S. White representing Spark Plug and his optimistic master, Barney Google. They were a scream and were unanimously awarded the first prize. The room was spooky with its dim light, jack o' lanterns and black and yellow decorations and the procession of ghosts and ghosts which rambled across the front of the room produced the "creepy" sensation quite in keeping with the Hallowe'en season.

A bountiful supper was provided to which all did full justice and with many expression of thanks to the committee the meeting adjourned.

News Nuggets.

The members of the H.A.T. club motored to Peterboro on Monday evening and were guests of Mrs. Wm. Edwards at her home. A delightful evening was spent.

Rev. C. Grant King will give an illustrated lecture to children on "Alice in Wonderland" on Friday evening in the Sunday school room.

OSTRICH FRINGE.

Ostrich fringe is used most becomingly on bouffant frocks, particularly those in blue or pink.

Look in Ten Days

See the whiter teeth appear when you combat the film

Your druggist this week has 10-Day Tubes for a new way of teeth cleaning. Millions now employ it. You see its results in prettier teeth wherever you look today.

Now we urge you to learn what it means to you and yours. The test is delightful, the results are amazing. Go find them out.

The fight on film

Dental science has in late years started a fight on film. Film is that viscous coat you feel. Under old brushing methods, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. That is why teeth lose luster.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Fewer escaped tooth troubles, fewer had glistening teeth, under old-time brushing methods.

Now research has discovered two effective film combatants. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods by many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Careful people of some 50 nations have now come to employ it, largely by dental advice.

Night-and-day aids

Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva — the neutralizer of mouth acids. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva — put there to digest starch deposits.

Those factors act as tooth-protecting agents. Every use of Pepsodent gives them manifold effect.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

The New-Day Dentifrice

A scientific tooth paste based on modern research. Now advised by leading dentists the world over.

New beauty comes

Pepsodent brings prettier teeth. That is why millions of women employ it. But those whiter teeth mean cleaner, safer teeth, and everyone should have them.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

One week will bring a revelaton. It may bring lifetime benefits, both to you and yours. Cut out coupon now.

Cobourg and District

COBOURG, Oct. 31.—Very gratifying was the result of the appeal made by the Board of the Cobourg Methodist church for a special Thankoffering on Sunday. A generous offering was placed on the plates in actual cash and this is expected to be considerably augmented by the givings of some who were unable to be present on Sunday. Rev. R. F. Stillman, pastor of the church, preached to large congregations at both services. There was also special music under the direction of the organist, Mr. Frank Parkinson. Mr. J. Arnold Thompson, baritone of Brighton, formerly of Ottawa, sang at both services, while the local soloists assisting were Mrs. M. W. Sparlug, Mrs. A. J. Gould, Mr. Albert Hircock, Mrs. M. E. Hall and Mr. George Hall, the latter with violin obligato. There was a large choir and the music was good.

Services at St. Peter's

Rev. Canon Moore, of Toronto, conducted helpful services at St. Peter's Anglican church on Sunday. The rector, Rev. Canon F. J. Sawers, is in Toronto conducting a two-weeks mission at St. George's church there.

The Baptist Church

Rev. J. N. Norton occupied his own pulpit on Sunday and delivered timely and helpful sermons. At the evening service his address was based on the pertinent theme, "How and When to be a Christian." Mr. Norton, since coming to Cobourg, has shown a live interest in the work of the Ontario Council of Religious Education and was one of the delegates to the convention for Sunday School workers held at Napanee last week.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian

"The Solidarity of the Early Christian Church," was Rev. W. A. Bremner's theme at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church on Sunday and he drew helpful lessons from the church of those early days as compared with that of the present time. At St. Andrew's the position of organist is vacant and candidates for the position are being heard each Sunday. The Board received a large number of applications which would seem to indicate that the scarcity of musicians of this stamp is not as great as it has been.

Rev. J. W. Pedley Here

Rev. James W. Pedley of Toronto is still taking the work with a very great amount of acceptance at the Cobourg and Coldsprings Congregational churches.

Salvation Army

The Salvation Army here is fortunate in having the services of two such efficient officers as Capt. Dunkley and Lieut. Burrows. These young ladies previously worked with a Toronto corps, where their services were also much appreciated.

Address at Salem

At the Salem Methodist church on Thursday evening, Rev. W. R. McWilliams, returned missionary from Japan, gave an able address outlining what his work had been in the Flowery Kingdom, for the past seven years. The lecture was illustrated by slides showing life and places of interest in that country. Mr. McWilliams was listened to with a great amount of interest and attention. Rev. H. W. Foley is pastor of this church.

Salem Young People

Those who do not think that the Young People's Leagues as they exist today are educative and profitable organizations were not among those who were present at the Salem Young People's League last Friday night. The evening's program took the form of a debate and the interesting topic was, "Resolved that the Consolidated School System is preferable to the present day School System." Three ladies argued well and convincingly in favor of Consolidated Schools and three gentlemen brought out almost unsurmountable arguments in favor of the negative, so that the question was threshed out in all of its bearings.

Scholars Made Merry

The nearness of Hallowe'en has set all of the boys and girls ecstatic over the prospect of preparing for that great festival. The Salem public school children anticipated the event by holding a Hallowe'en social on Friday evening the 26th, when a delightful evening was founded out by the young hosts and hostesses serving pumpkin pie and coffee.

Successful W. I. Meeting

The Wicklow and Vernonville branches of the Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. James Deviney, Haldimand township, on Wednesday of last week. There was a good programme which was in the hands of Mrs. A. Deviney and Mrs. R. Turk.

Calberry—Ferguson

A marriage of interest to many friends in East Northumberland was quietly solemnized at Caro, Mich., on October 8, as the bride and groom were both former residents of this district. Miss Mattie Ferguson, formerly of Castleton, was married to Mr. Charles Calberry of Caro, Mich., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Calberry of Castleton. Old friends in this district tender congratulations and good wishes.

Lecture at Wicklow

Rev. W. R. McWilliams, B.A., of Japan, is giving an illustrated lecture tonight in the Wicklow Methodist church.

Offering for Aid of Japanese

Rev. J. F. Mears of Port Hope was the preacher at the Dundonald church on Sunday afternoon, when the congregation responded to an appeal for funds to aid the people of Japan in reconstruction work to wipe out the devastation caused by the terrible earthquake.

Auction Sales

Mr. A. P. Holton, Murray township, had a sale of his implements, hay, stock and household effects yesterday.

Rev. C. J. Young of Brighton, sold his household effects on Saturday.

Ostrom—Casement

At the Methodist parsonage, Trenton, on October 23, Rev. W. G. Clarke officiated at the marriage of William Ostrom and Marie Casement, both of Belleville.

Poor Canning Season

The canning factories have not had as successful runs as usual in this section. Frost and the late season were the big detriments, and farmers who have grown produce for the factories have not realized the profits they expected. Some are quite discouraged and say they will not sign up an acreage another season. In fact the returns for considerable of the farmers' produce this season are discouraging.

Death of James Prentice

James Prentice died at Kingston on Thursday, aged 81 years. He was a former resident of Tweed and of Thurlow township. He was predeceased by his wife who died three years ago. Two sons survive, William R. of Foxboro, and J. E. of Frankford, and three daughters, Mrs. G. Brower of Belleville, Mrs. Hopkins of California and Mrs. J. Downey of Thurlow. Mrs. R. McGuire of Tweed, is a sister.

Death of John C. Sharpe

Sidney township lost a well-known farmer in the death on Thursday of last week of John C. Sharpe. He was in his 80th year and had been in failing health for some time past. He had spent his whole life in that locality, having been born on the homestead where he died.

Local and Personal

Mr. Gordon Lapp, Brighton, spent the week-end in Peterborough with his brother, Mr. Donald Lapp.

Mr. P. J. Cowan has rented his farm at Codrington to Mr. Geo. Rogers.

Mr. Sam McColl is expected to move from Hilton to the old homestead at Codrington.

Mr. and Mrs. James Nugent, Codrington, have gone to Rochester.

Mrs. Suttle has arrived at Brighton from Bismark, S. D., and will spend the winter there.

Rev. E. W. Pickford, rector of Brighton parish, is conducting a special mission at Warsaw, Young's Point, Houltain, Buckhorn and Deer Bay.

Mr. M. Ostrander, former principal of Deseronto Public School, before going to North Bay, was presented by members of the staif with a beautiful rattan fern stand and metal tray.

Mr. P. C. McGuire of the Bank of Commerce staff at Brighton, has been transferred to Simcoe, and Mr. Kay of Kingston takes his place at Brighton.

Mr. David Gillespie, Wagnetevan, Muskoka, visited his brother in Haldimand township last week.

Miss Palmer, Division St., Cobourg, has gone up to Toronto, where she will spend the winter.

Mrs. C. M. Doheny left town recently for Toronto, and intends to go to Florida for the winter season.

Mr. Arthur Cowan of the local branch of the Dominion Stores is relieving at Long Branch, Toronto.

Rev. Dr. S. J. Shorey, Picton, a former Cobourg pastor, preached anniversary sermons at Hastings Methodist church on Sunday.

The award of a newly founded scholarship at Toronto University is announced. It consists of $1,200 given by the Hollinger Gold Mines for metalurgical research and has been won by Mr. H. F. Farnham, B.A., B.Sc., of Trenton.

Mr. Duquit, Smithfield, has met with loss in the destruction of his blacksmith shop by fire for the second time during this year.

Mrs. O. Drewry, Smithfield, has gone to Rochester to spent the winter.

Picton Junior Methodist church class journeyed to Woodville, where they gave a concert consisting of choruses, solos, duets and quartettes.

MOTHER!

Child's Best Laxative is "California Fig Syrup"

Hurry, Mother! A teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" now will thoroughly clean the little bowels and in a few hours you have a well, playful child again. Even if cross, feverish, bilious, constipated or full of cold, children love its pleasant taste.

Tell your druggist you want only the genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother, you must say "California." Refuse any imitation.

CAMPBELLFORD HEARD ADDRESS GIRLS WORK

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 31—On Tuesday evening, in St. Andrew's Sunday school rooms a meeting of the three Sunday school classes in Campbellford who are interested in Canadian Girls in Training work was held with a large attendance of the girl members and their mothers. The programme was taken by the girls, who were addressed during the evening by Miss May Gemmell of Toronto national secretary of the Canadian Girls' Work Board, who is making a tour of the district at present. Miss Gemmell gave an interesting talk on C.G.I.T. ideals and the progress being made throughout Canada by the girl members of the groups.

"Y" CLASSES TO HELP THE GIRLS

This is Financial Week For Local Y.W.C.A.

Just suppose your daughter or sister or friend were away from home a stranger, afraid, unaccustomed to the city, would you not be glad to hear that the Y.W.C.A. had a place for her?

If she were lonesome and homesick, nobody apparently caring what happened to her, wanting a good time, would you not be glad to know that for her the Y.W.C.A. had planned picnics, parties, suppers, a place in which she could have clean and wholesome fun, a place in which to spend her Sundays, Vesper services, Bible study, inspirational talks, and friends?

If she were earning her own living, getting a small salary, perhaps helping financially at home, trying to make one dollar do the work of two, would you not be glad to know that for her the Y.W.C.A. had planned: an employment bureau to help her find work, educational classes to fit her for her work, reading rom and library, where she may enjoy magazines and good books?

If she were over-tired and needing a holiday, after working in a hot office, store or factory, would you not be glad to know that for her the Y.W.C.A. had planned a camp where she could enjoy the out-of-doors, away from the dusty's city grind?

If she were physically below par, or anxious to keep herself fit, would you not be glad to know that for her the Y.W.C.A. had planned a gymnasium, a swimming pool, hikes, picnics, basketball?

If she were travelling alone would it not relieve your mind to know that the Y.W.C.A. would plan for someone to meet her, and help her in any way?

Just suppose these girls were yours would you not be willing to help?

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir,—In last night's Examiner was contained a letter from Mr. Burnham recalling the fact that John Murphy of Smith street, who saved a number of persons from drowning, had not been recognized by an public organization.

I wish to thank Mr. Burnham for drawing this matter to my attention because it is right and proper that I should be one of those to assist in seeking to obtain public recognition for these acts of bravery.

Apparently Mr. Burnham and I were thinking of the same thing for, on Monday, when I saw that Miss Iris Payne had been recognized by the Carnegie Hero Fund, I got in touch with Mayor Taylor who was responsible for drawing Miss Payne's act to the attention of the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission and he told me I could find the details and address from City Clerk Armstrong. I had a conference with Mr. Armstrong last Monday and obtained the information from him and discussed with him the case of Mr. John Murphy as well as that of Frank Whitehouse, Jr., B. Graham and Mr. I. Abraham who were responsible for the saving of a girl's life at Inverlea Park, last summer.

In the latter case Mr. C. H. Wiggins had drawn the matter to my attention and I applied to the Royal Canadian Humane Society for recognition of them but I was advised by that Society that it had no funds available for the purchase of medals. I thereupon offered to pay the cost of the medals or the cost of memorials if it would present them but this Society intimated it bought its medals in large quantities and could not accept my contribution in that way.

I desired to do that so that the presentation could be made at some civic reception and that it would be understood as coming from the Royal Canadian Humane Society and not from me individually, as I felt it would be greater and more acceptable recognition than if it was understood I was the person responsible and paying for the medals. As the Royal Humane Society could not carry out these arrangements with my assistance I consulted some friends and the conclusion reached was that independent of this Society I would purchase gold medals to be presented and we thought an appropriate time would be at the inauguration of the Mayor and City Council for 1924 and have this done as the first official act of the Mayor for next year.

The friends and relatives of the interested persons could be invited on this occasion and at least some recognition could be given to those whose outstanding bravery has been a credit to this city.

I know Mr. Burnham and the public will see in view of the above explanation that everything has been got underway and that the matter has been drawn to the attention of the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission.

Yours faithfully,
G. N. GORDON.

SPOOK PICTURES ON THE SCREEN

NEW YORK, October 30. — H. J. Osborne, founder of the Society for the Study of Supernormal Pictures and President of the Central Spiritualist Society, both of London, England, threw on the screen at a meeting at the Hotel Astor under the auspices of the New York Spiritual and Ethical Society, what are said to be the first spirit photographs ever taken.

These objective phychic phenomena—and, incidentally they would be eligible for the $2,500 award offered by the Scientific American if they could be proved genuine—were taken in 1865 at Boston, Mass., by G. J. Mumbler, a local photographer. They show a stern featured man of middle age beside whom, with draperies, is a handsome and younger woman.

Mr. Osborne told the two hundred persons in the lecture hall that the Boston photographer was not a spiritualist, but one day had taken these spirit photographs "by accident." He said he did not know who the stern featured man was nor the identity of the spirit lady beside him.

Mr. Osborne was introduced by Richard L. Phillips, president of the Spiritual and Ethical Society. Mr. Osborne is described as a scientific exponent of "spirit photography" in a pamphlet which was handed out to the audience. It is stated that he is a life-long student and has traced his subject along the closest scientific lines in intimate association with the late Sir William Crookes, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, Sir Abraham Wallace and other "leading British researchers."

Mr. Osborne showed other spirit pictures, the genuineness of which, he declared, were vouched for by leading scientists. "These photographs," he said, "were taken under conditions making human intervention or chicanery impossible. I have proof of the reality of my pictures and have one in particular which I think is the best ever taken." He then showed a spirit picture of his wife. "This," said Mr. Osborne, "was taken six weeks after her death. I bought the plates from a man I did not know, marked them for identification in a dark room, put them in the camera, and, after exposure, developed them immediately myself. No one was in the room except a passive medium, and he did not touch the plates. The result was the perfect reproduction of the face of my wife."

SCHOONER RACE WAS CALLED OFF

Was Impossible to Finish The Race Within The Time Limit.

HALIFAX, Oct. 31.—(Canadian Press).—The Columbia, the United States challenger, and the Bluenose champion, started this morning at nine o'clock in the second race of the series for international schooner race trophy. Contest was over number four course. The five minute gun found both boats running along against the weather inside of the line The Bluenose turned first and crossed the line thirty-two second past nine o'clock and the Columbia quickly followed ten seconds later. The wind had freshened slightly as schooners started for the first mark running almost before the wind. Ten minutes after the starting gun the Bluenose crossed the Columbia's bow and headed away for the inner automatic buoy, the first mark.

At two o'clock with one hour to go the boats were sixteen miles from the finish line. It was impossible to finish the race within time limit and it was called off.

The Bluenose had pulled up on the Columbia after passing the third mark. At second mark the Columbia was more than four minutes ahead of the champion.

MISS MAY GEMMELL WILL GIVE ADDRESS

For Benefit of Canadian Girls in Training Groups.

Miss May Gemmell of Toronto, national secretary for the Presbyterian church of the Girls' Work Board of Canada, will address a gathering of 'teen age girls in Knox Presbyterian church to-morrow, (Thursday) evening. Miss Gemmell, who is well known and liked in Peterborough, where she made a very favorable impression on the occasion of the organization of Canadian Girls in Training groups in the city, has just returned from an extended tour of Canada in the interests of the Girls' Work Board, during which she spent much time in the middle west provinces and in British Columbia and the Maritimes. She is now engaged in visiting the district towns in connection with her work, and will speak to the C.G.I.T groups of the city and all girls from the ages of twelve to seventeen years who may be interested in the work, to-morrow evening, explaining the C. G.I.T. programme and the use that is being made of it. 'Teen age girls of the city interested in this work, members of the groups, their mothers and teachers, are cordially invited to attend the meeting.

FIGHT REVOLVER

wriggled desperately. When the police looked for a scar on one of his arms he thrust the arm under a bed cover. The scar was found. It tallied with a description of the escaped convict.

"You're a yellow rat and a squealer," McLean kept calling to Gillen in the hospital ward. In the operating room, when McLean again upbraided Gillen as the man who had "given up" on Brown, Gillen retorted weakly, "I wish I'd killed you."

Silent Before Police.

Gillen refused to say why he and McLean had fought. He told Howard in the hotel that "It's a plain case of suicide. I'm tired of living." He would give no other explanation in the hospital. Nor would McLean talk other than to say, "It was a fight over the women."

Deputy Warden Santee of Eastern Penitentiary and Detective Oeschle of Philadelphia arrived at Bellevue Hospital and positively identified Gillen as one of the fugitive convicts. Meanwhile, Gillen had been identified by hold-up victims.

John Curtle, manager of the Premier Theatre, a motion picture house at 505 Sutter Avenue, Brooklyn, identified Gillen as one of two men who on the night of September 18 held him up at pistol points and stole a satchel containing $1,800. When Finn was arrested Friday night, Curtle identified him as the other robber. Finn was held on a charge of robbery.

Henry Holland, owner of a saloon at 614 Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, visited the prison ward of the hospital and told the police that Gillen was one of two men who on the night of October 21 held up his saloon, taking $85 from the cash register and sums of money and jewellery from patrons. Two policemen who were passing rushed in on hearing a commotion and captured a man who gave his name as Harry Gordon. Gillen escaped.

Gillen, according to the police, was in several other recent hold-ups. They said he was arrested in Jersey City for disorderly conduct. Lieutenant McClunn of the Bergen Street Detective Bureau, said Gillen's arrest would solve several robberies.

Technically, the wounded men were held in Bellevue Hospital for felonious assault and carrying weapons. But if Gillen lives he will be sent back to Philadelphia.

Mother on Her Way.

Lieutenant McClunn said that McLean was wrong in assuming that Brown's capture was brought about by Gillen. A reward of $250 was offered by the penitentiary warden for each fugitive's capture.

When Mrs. Gillen, of 2,314 Furman Street, Philadelphia, was told by telegram from the New York police that her son was in a "serious condition" at Bellevue Hospital, she said her worries were over, now that she knew her son's whereabouts. "He is paying the penalty for others who are walking the streets free men," she said. She has left for New York.

Assistant District Attorney P. Francis Marro questioned several hotel employees and guests. None of the 270 guests, who had been thrown into a tumult by the duel, had seen the fight. The employes said they believed the quarrel was over the two women.

SCHOOL CHILDREN GAVE A CONCERT

Another Round Presentations to Rev. O'Brien.

Last evening, at St. Joseph's School, in Otonabee, the children of the school gave an entertainment in honor of Rev. J. J. O'Brien's jubilee anniversary. The school was packed with the parents and friends of the small performers, who acquitted themselves admirably, doing credit to the careful training of their teacher Miss Helena Heffernan. The programme consisted of dialogues and choruses and solos by the children, with the presentation of a little playlet "Cinderella," followed by the presentation to Father O'Brien of an address and a beautiful large oak crucifix.

The Altar Society of the Sacred Heart parish took advantage of the occasion to present the jubilarian with a handsome set of breviaries. Mrs. Joseph O'Grady is president of this society Miss Helena Heffernan secretary. Father O'Brien thanked the children and the society for their gifts. His Lordship Bishop O'Brien was present also and addressed the gathering briefly. Other clergymen present were Rev. J. McCarthy of Norwood, Rev. J. McAuley of Ennismore Rev. J. Power of East City, and Rev. P. Butler of the Sacred Heart church. The evening concluded with the service of a dainty supper in the school room.

Tanol Calomel Much Better Than Ordinary Calomel

CLEANS AND TONES UP THE WHOLE SYSTEM

Instead of rising in the morning feeling tired, dull, with headaches, bad taste in mouth, sick stomach or after eating a bloated, heavy feeling, indigestion, constipation, kidney trouble, etc., can instead both look and feel as fresh as a daisy by flushing the poisons that have accumulated in the stomach, kidneys and bowels by following a doctor's advice by taking one Tanol Calomel Tablet 15 minutes before meals or two at bedtime. This will flush the previous day's indigestive waste, sour bile and poisons from the system before more food is taken. Tanol Calomel Tablets are recommended because they have no bad after effect. No salts or seidlitz are necessary to remove them from the system, as they are self-eliminating. Get a few of these tablets from the druggist and you will feel 100 per cent. better. Sold by Weber, druggist, Charlotte street.

BROCKVILLE, Oct. 30.—(Canadian Press.)— After fifty years in continuous railway service, Joseph Rowedge, veteran C.N.R. locomotive engineer, to-day made his last run on the "Moccassin" passenger train between here and Montreal before being pensioned. He started as a cleaner in the Brockville shops of the Grand Trunk in 1873 and retires with a spotless record.

PROTECT THE KIDNEYS

The heart and the kidneys are the most important organs of the body.

This time of the year particularly the kidneys are easily deranged from chills and exposure. Excesses in eating and drinking will often cause disease in the kidneys.

Never neglect a backache which is on of the first symptoms and may lead to other complications.

The best remedy for any kidney ailments is Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills. They will keep the kidneys in a sound and healthy condition and free the blood from all poisons.

Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills are sold at Lynch's Drug Store, 168 Hunter street, and if they fail to do what we claim for them your money will be refunded.

The Million Dollar Doll

By C. N. and A. M. Williamson

Authors of "The Lightning Conductor"

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

Miles Sheridan has just learned that the girl with whom he has been taking a yacht trip, under the impression that she was

Juliet Divine, the Million Dollar Doll, a beautiful show-girl, is, in reality Teresa Desmond (Terry), Juliet's innocent half-sister, whom the Doll sent to masquerade as herself. Miles is madly in love with Terry and is eager to divorce his wife.

Betty Sheridan, who is infatuated with

Paul di Salvano, a handsome Italian. Salvano has now deserted Betty for

Rose Callahan, a somewhat ordinary young heiress, travelling in Europe with her father. Betty, learning of Paul's desertion is not anxious to lose her husband also, and goes to Algiers where Miles' yacht is lying.

Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy Greek, long in love with Terry, has almost succeeded in persuading the girl that her only course is to marry him.

Miles and Terry are enjoying a brief sojourn at Bousaada with Miles' servant Mrs. Harkness as chaperone. Miles is preparing to rejoin his wife at Algiers.

CHAPTER LXXIX.

Betty's Message

Miles tipped the head waiter to serve the meal for Terry and himself on the balcony. They had a red-shaded lamp, and a few flowers from an oasis garden sprinkled over a mound of golden oranges. To Terry, it was a feast of romance, as she and her Prince looked into each other's eyes, and forgot to eat, his hand clasping hers as their arms lay across the tiny white table.

A thousand thoughts rushed through the girl's brain. What should she do? Had she the heart to run away while Miles was gone, so that he might believe her cruel, and hard, and put her out of his heart?

People in books were always giving each other up with the noblest motives, and making great trouble for themselves and everyone else concerned. She didn't want to be like that.

But how was she to know for certain, what was right? She was so young! And then, she had no money to go away with, even if it were her duty to go.

Hiding these thoughts she smiled at Miles in the moonlight, with the dearest smile he had ever seen. He believed it a smile of happiness and love, not guessing that it was instead a smile of love and renunciation.

It was not yet nine o'clock when they took their farewell. They bade each other goodbye on the balcony; and when Miles had gone, the girl went quickly to her own room.

She shut herself in, and lay on the bed fully dressed, in the dark, for it seemed as if she could not bear to talk with Harky that night. Presently the old woman knocked, and when no answer came, knocked again. Still Terry did not speak. She hoped that Mrs. Harkness might suppose she had gone to sleep. At last the tapping stopped, but the footsteps she could hear moving away were slow and reluctant.

What if Harky had had something important to say.....a last message from Miles?.....With a revulsion of feeling, Terry switched on the light, slid off the bed and rushed to the door.

She was about to unlock it and call the old woman, or even run along the balcony to her window if she had disappeared: but before she had turned the key, her eyes fell upon an envelope which had been slipped beneath the door.

The girl did not turn the key. She stooped and picked up the letter. There was no name upon it, no writing at all; but of course it must be for her. Most likely, she thought, Miles had scrawled a few words in haste at the last moment, and told Mrs. Harkness to bring the note to her room. She opened the envelope eagerly.

Never had she seen Sheridan's handwriting, but instinctively she knew, at first glance, that this was not his. It was not like him; and this letter had no beginning. A bit of folded paper had been pinned to the top.

'I send you the enclosed, so that you may be sure I told the truth today, she read. 'I beg of you to see me tonight, if only for a few minutes Yours ever, E. N.

Nazlo He had found out the number of her room, and had put the letter under her door, hoping that she would read on, before she guessed who was the writer.

Terry unpinned the morsel of paper from the top of the page. Nazlo had apparently cut it out of a letter: but the embossed heading was only too familiar: a tiny flag, and 'S. Y. Silverwood.

The girl's heart missed a beat. 'I haven't the slightest intention of divorcing my husband, no matter how shamefully he has behaved. The words, in a woman's writing, sprang to her eyes.

Betty Sheen—Betty Sheridan—had written them, Terry was sure.

Why hadn't Nazlo shown Mrs. Sheridan's letter to Miles? Or had he shown it, and had Miles not told, because he wished her to keep up hope—because he was certain of inducing his wife to change her mind for the second time?

As she gazed and pondered, again a knock sounded at the door. Whoever was outside could see the light now, therefore it was useless to keep quiet and pretend to be asleep.

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

QUARANTINE

School and its associations often bring the necessity for quarantine regulations and teachers are to be commended for their help in this matter. Those who break quarantine with impunity are doing much to break down the safeguards of healty. They may be the ones to repent for helping to foster such bad habits in their community.

Habits of this kind are as catching as the infectious diseases which physicians and health authorities are trying to isolate and stamp out. Their own children may later on be the victims of breaking quarantine.

Isolation and restraint must be imposed on patients suffering from infectious diseases, especially the children. Prevention of contact with those who really consider themselves well is often most dangerous. Every one in the community must be taught to obey. Stealing away your health is indeed a dangerous practice.

There should be no favoritism in preventing to the fullest extent the transmission of infectious disease germs from an infected person to a normal one. Although your case or that of your child may be comparatively light, transmission through too early contact may cause a serious or fatal case to your friend's or neighbor's children.

In some diseases the period is fixed arbitrarily. In others, such as diphtheria and diphtheretic croup, quarantine is maintained until cultures from the patient's throat show the absence of these specific bacteria. In eruptive fevers, such as scarlet fever and measles, the quarantine is in force until desquamation has ceased.

AIMS AT BREAK WITH CHURCH OF ENGLAND

CALCUTTA, Oct. 31.—(Associated Press)—The Indian church measure, which provides that India, Burma and Ceylon follow the examples of Canada, Australia and South Africa in breaking off from the Church of England and establishing a national Indian church, has involved both clergy and laity in a voluminous newspaper controversy, and threatens to result in a schism among Anglican religious communities.

The movement advocating a national church in India has been increasing gradually since 1912, when a representative gathering of the Anglican denomination in India expressed a desire that the church in India should have full synodical government. The present proposed measure, which would free the Indian church from the control of Canterbury, is advocated by the bishops in India, and by the clergy generally, but is meeting with intense opposition from many of the English laity.

Those opposed to the measure hold that the English forms of worship, and the English prayer book, are essential to the welfare of the church, and fear that an Indian church, under Indian control, would break away from the English traditions, in respect to both doctrine and ritual. British residents in India, it is further contended, would be unable to find a national Indian church congenial to their interests.

The Bishop of Calcutta is an advocate of the proposed self-governing church.

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made and saves easily $2. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

MERCURY IN HIS NEW DRESS FINDS DIGNIFIED SECLUSION

Clothed in Bronze and With Fingers and Tootsies Restored, This Charming Messenger From The Gods Reposes in Peace

In the dignified seclusion of the studio of the Women's Art Association at the Conservatory of Music, "Mercury" reposes in peace and quietness. Still "charmed with his own invention," the god appears to be more at ease in his coat of bronze color than when he dwelt in the Public Library rooms, the object of curious surprise to those who wot not of the reason why he gazes with such rapture at the turtle-shelled instrument in his hands, the target for mischievous little boys anxious to test the quality of the plaster that composed the figure.

When Miss Katherine E. Wallis presented the cast of "Mercury Charmed With His Own Invention" to the city on condition that a bronze be made of the figure at some future time, the sample of her work was placed for safe-keeping in the Public Library. Through several years it remained there, gradually suffering from the attack of time and minor vandalisms which its exposed position made it subject to, and, as years went by, the face of the infatuated god became more dirty and forlorn. Last February the City Council, reminded of the city's promise to provide a metal replica of the figure, decided to include the necessary half thousand dollars in the year's budget. Ald. J. Crowe, however, objected, declaring that "if someone would steal the danged thing it would help us out," and the Finance Committee, meeting thereafter, decided to label the dilapidated figure as a non-essential, and bar its new costume from the estimates.

Since that time the god has languished, as far as the public was concerned, in that "innocuous desuetede" to which the late Mr. Cleveland was wont to refer, but now it happily reappears in a new home and a new dress, less prominent and probably more acceptable. With the whole figure and stand treated to a bath of bronzing liquid, the cast has lost that "undacent" appearance of which a non-admirer of real high art once complained, and the repairing of its mangled fingers and toes has restored to the volatile god a more pleasing silhouette. There is a satisfied and contented expression on the restored countenance that gazes in bronzed and loving surprise at his new invention in the quiet room at the Conservatory of Music.

NORTHERN LIGHTS FICKLE AS YOUNG SCHOOL GIRL

Says Radio Fan Living Near Polar Spectrum

Jack Wade, Alaska, Oct. 31.—Observation of the Aurora Borealis has regained its position as a popular sport among scientists owing to its supposed interference with radio transmission. Interest in the Northern Lights, as the aurora is always called here, has also been revived through the efforts of the MacMillan Arctic expedition to keep in touch with radio amateurs in this vicinity and in the United States. The following description of the striking phenomenon was written by a member of the American Radio Relay League, who, since his home is underneath the Arctic spectrum has had plenty of opportunity to observe this marvellous spectacle at first hand.

By T. E. PHILLIPS, Member A.R.R.L.

The Northern Lights are as fickle and changeable as a sixteen-year-old school girl. One style starts out on the horizon to the northward in searchlight fashion; darts and zig-zags; spreads out fan shape, sweeps, floats, or drifts. The colder the night the quicker the action and always the motion is fast. At times lights show all colors of the spectrum. They are as good as a lantern.

Sometimes the lights stay steadily fixed overhead for hours and they cut the darkness into two walls, the light showing the trail for miles with a black wall on either side. Apparently they are not more than 1500 feet above the valleys, and on the mountain trails, travellers can get into the heart of things with them.

Once I came from Steel Creek to this place, about sixteen miles, along a high mountain trail with the mail man for this route. It was 9 p.m. We were in the lights for an hour. A light crackling could be heard, as when a cat's fur is rubbed the wrong way, and at times the horses would show blue fire at their ear tips, although they appeared not to mind. The other packer and myself felt no untoward sensation, save possible a slight warmth. It was 34 below.

The lights show up commonly from September to April, though April is getting late and warm for them. They are always different in their daily movements and never fail to attract attention, even from the old timers who have been in the far north since '98. We have men who came here in 1882 and '87, and one old man, Ludecker, raised the American flag when Russia sold out in 1867.

TO MAKE MEAT TENDER.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(Associated Press).—Use of papaya leaves or a powder from the dried fruit of the papaw to make tough meat tender, as is done in Southern climates, is not considered desirable by the Department of Agriculture, whose bureau of home economics has conducted a series of experiments in that line. Leaves crushed and wrapped around meat made it more tender, but gave it a decided taste of the green and bitter juice of the leaves.

A solution of the powder applied to cuts of meat gave it a bitter taste, deprived it of its naural meat flavor and caused it to be dry. Leaves grown in the botanical gardens at Washington and others brought from Miami, Fla., were used. They acted the same. Both the leaves and the powder contain an enzyme which digests protein.

Unsolved Mysteries

"Your Majesty, it is with the deepest regret and the most sincere sympathy that I have to inform you that your mother, the Empress Maria Theresa of Austria, died in Vienna less than an hour ago."

It was on November 29, 1780, that he who was known to Parisian society as Count Cagliostro spoke the sentence which was destined to gain for him the continent-wide reputation of being a magician and which was to play such a prominent part in placing around him an aura of unreality and a mantle of mystery during the following years.

In 1780 the swiftest of messengers could not cover the distance between Paris and Vienna in less than five days. There was no telegraph or telephone system and dispatches were carried only by men on horseback. Therefore, for anyone to say that such and such an event had occurred in Vienna "less than an hour ago" savored of witchcraft or of the omniscient powers which Count Cagliostro claimed for himself.

When word of the Count's statement spread throughout Paris, the majority of people shrugged their shoulders and smiled. "Cagliostro," they said, "has overreached himself. He has merely proven out of his own mouth that he is a charlatan and an imposter." So the talk ran for five days. On the evening of December 4 a messenger, dusty and mud-spattered from his long ride, galloped into the French capital, bearing the news that Maria Theresa had breathed her last on the afternoon of November 29! Cagliostro was vindicated and, from that moment, none of his claims was considered to be too extravagant for belief—not even the statements that he could manufacture gold from baser metals or that he had discovered the elixir of life which had transformed his wife into a young girl of twenty.

To those who questioned him concerning his past life, Cagliostro replied with the words "I am he who is," which many understood to mean that he was the Wandering Jew destined to remain upon earth until the second coming of Christ. As this belief enhanced his claims to knowledge and gave him an additional power over the superstitious fancies of nobles and peasants alike, Cagliostro not only did not deny the report, but fostered it as far as possible, by casually mentioning his acquaintanceship with many of the famous characters of history and giving credit for much that he knew to the teachings of learned doctors who had been dead for years.

So far as his alchemistic skill was concerned, there is still extant a letter from Cardinal Rohan in which the latter declares that he saw the Count manufacture gold and diamonds, but, judging by the ease with which the Cardinal was deceived in the historic matter of the Queen's necklace, it is probably well not to place too much reliance in this statement. Incidentally, it was the same necklace which led to Cagliostro's incarceration in the Bastille—a circumstance which led to another of his historic prophecies to the effect that "The Bastille shall be destroyed.

Before the destruction of the Bastille was accomplished, however, Cagliostro had been acquitted and, with the great wealth which he had gathered in France, had commenced a tour of Europe in the interests of the masonic society which he had instituted. In the course of this journey he had made the istake of visiting Rome, where he was arrested at the instigation of the Pope, condemned as a dangerous foe to religion and sentenced to life imprisonment, dying in his cell in 1795.

During his trial his past was disclosed and it was shown that he was Guiseppe Balsamo, son of a peasant of Palmermo, Sicily, and that he had received his early education in a monastery from which he had been expelled for thieving. The story of his marriage to a young girl, whom he afterwards passed off as a woman of fifty in order to stimulate the sale of his "elixir of life," was also made public—but neither then nor at any subsequent date was the slightest light thrown upon the secret of his remarkable gift of prophesy as evidence by his report of the death of Maria Theresa and his accurate prediction of the fall of the Bastille.

Oct. 31. 1880.—This was the date on which the contract was signed for the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which was begun in 1881 by the Government of Sir John A. MacDonald and later turned over to a group of capitalists which included George Stephens, subsequently raised to the peerage as Lord Mount Stephen, and Donald A. Smith, who became Lord Strathcona, and completed in 1885. The construction of the C.P.R. which covers 12,000 miles, the main line running from Montreal to Vancouver, was one of the conditions on which British Columbia consented to enter the Canadian Federation.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

A HALLOWE'EN SUPPER FOR SPIRITS TO SERVE

Pumpkin pie, apples, nuts and cider seem to go hand in hand with Hallowe'en, but time-honored as they are, there's once in a while a hostess who wants "something different" for her party.

Perhaps the party has dealt heavily with the "occult." What more apropos than a ghost supper seved by the spirits themselves?

Menu for Ghost Supper

Cream of Corn Soup
Toasted Crackers
Shades of Chicken
Spooks Salad Cheese Cups
Orange Ice
Soothsayers Puff-Balls
Coffee

The cream of corn soup is topped with a spoonful of whipped cream. Fresh buttered popcorn can be served with it in place of the toasted crackers.

Shades of chicken, being the "piece de resistance," requires a recipe.

Shades of Chicken

One year old chicken, 1 pint oysters, pound mushrooms, 3 sweet green peppers, cup butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, teaspoon pepper, 1 cup chicken stock, 1 cup thin cream or rich milk, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 2 egg yolks, 1-3 cup minced celery, paprika, hot boiled rice.

Stew chicken in water to cover. The chicken should be tender but not falling from the bones when removed from the fire. Remove from broth and let stand until cold. Remove from bones and cut in neat cubes. Great care should be taken that every bit of skin or gristle is removed from the meat. There should be about four cups. Pick over and wash oysters.

Peel and slice mushrooms. Scald peppers, slip off thin outer film and remove seeds and white ribs. Mince. Melt butter, add mushrooms and cook five minutes. Add flour and stir until smooth. Slowly add stock and milk, stirring constantly. When perfectly smooth add chicken dice, oysters, peppers and celery. Cook until the oysters plump. Add parsley and stir in eggs slightly beaten. Remove from fire and keep hot over hot water. Serve on mounds of rice with a generous dash of paprika.

This rule is calculated to serve 12 persons.

Spook's Salad

Fill apple shells with a mixture of celery, apple and nuts.

The proportions are as follows:

Two cups diced apples, 2 cups diced celery, 2 cups seeded white grapes, 2 cups nut meats, shredded cocoanut, salad dressing.

Mix apples, celery, nuts and grapes with salad dressing. Fill apple cups with mixture and shroud with cocoanut.

To make apple shells cut a slice from stem end of apple. With a grapefruit knife or strong spoon scoop out the inside of the apple, leaving a shell about one-half inch thick.

Soothsayer's Puff-Balls

One and one-half cups sugar, 2-3 cup butter and lard mixed, 1 cup water, 2 cups pastry flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, whites four eggs.

Cream shortening and slowly beat in sugar. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder. Add alternately with water to first mixture. Add vanilla. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry and fold into mixture the last thing before baking. Bake in tiny round-bottomed muffin irons. Capsules containing "fortunes" can be stirred into the batter with the flour.

Use the largest sized capsules known as "double 0." Write a fortune on thin slips of paper and put in capsules. There should be a different fortune for each guest, and care must be observed that each cake contains a capsule.

These cakes are frosted with an icing made with the yolks of the eggs.

Yellow Frosting

Four egg yolks, 1 cups powdered sugar, 2 tablespoons softened butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Beat eggs slightly. Sift in sugar and continue beating. Add butter bit by bit, beating hard. Beat in vanilla. Spread on cakes and let harden.

MOST POWERFUL FIGHTING SHIP IN THE WORLD

U. S. S. West Virginia Claimed to Be Last Word in Battleship Build and Equipment.

RANGE TWENTY MILES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(United Press).—The U. S. S. West Virginia, last of the battleships to be built by the United States Government under the Washington Arms Conference limitation and sixth to be equipped with the electric drive, thereby completing the "Electric Fleet," will be commissioned at the Newport News Shipbuilding Yards about Dec. 1. She will be a sister ship to the U. S. S. Maryland and the U. S. S. Colorado.

The West Virginia will be in every respect the latest achievement of American naval architects. Carrying eight 16-inch guns, the largest ever mounted on a battleship, she will be the most powerful fighting craft in the world. This battery is capable of dropping eight tons of steel and explosives upon the deck of an enemy ship twenty miles away.

There is a secondary battery of fourteen 5-inch guns, four 3-inch anti-aircraft guns, and two underwater 21-inch torpedo tubes for firing the largest and longest range torpedoes.

This vessel is 624 feet long, 97 feet wide at the water line and weighs 32,600 tons. She is expected to make 21 knots per hour and has a cruising radius of about 10,000 miles. She will burn oil, her fuel capacity being about 1,400,000 gallons.

The West Virginia will be commanded by Captain Thomas J. Senn and will replace the U. S. S. North Dakota, of which he was last commander. When commissioned she will take over practically the entire crew of the North Dakota.

Electrical Throughout.

The West Virginia is electrical throughout. Her main propulsion machinery consists of two Curtis steam turbine-generators, designed to develop 12,600 kilowatts at a speed of 2,150 revolutions per minute to drive the ship 21 knots. The motors, among the largest ever built are 12 feet in diameter, weigh 62 tons, and the 32,000 horse-power thus available for propulsion purposes is enough to supply power to a city of 100,000 population.

Virtually every electrical appliance used afloat and ashore has been installed in this new battleship.

It is probable that no ship built by any nation in the past has been so thoroughly equipped for the comfort and convenience of the crew.

A completely equipped hospital will be maintained on board, with navy surgeons to look after the health of the crew, and a dentist to look after the men's teeth.

To Curb Divorce In America

BOULDER, Colo., Oct. 29.—Divorce? We'll always have it, so long as human nature remains as it is.

Thus sadly summarizes Justice Linda Lee after her five years' experience with estranged and quarreling couples.

Gray hairs and wrinkled face reveal the almost completed life of this woman who still refuses to succumb to age. Every day she climbs up the steps to her office on the second floor of the temporary city hall here, where she hears charges by police and plaintiffs and the pleas of prisoners in petty violations that come within the jurisdiction of her police court.

Since June, 1918, after her husband had been stricken with paralysis, and even after his death, Justice Lee has listened to the tiffs and troubles of husbands and wives. She has married many, only to find some appeal to her later for settlement of their difficulties. So she concludes:

Laws No Help

"Laws will help little in curbing the increasing percentage of divorces. Only a change in human nature will help."

And there's little chance for that. "Most divorces are blamable to hasty marriages," she goes on, "but I can see little advantage in laws which require notice of a week or more before a marriage license can be obtained. The divorce evil isn't due so much to marriages on the spur of the moment. It is due mainly to marriages of young people, infatuated with each other, but who have not reached the stage where they are ready to assume the responsibilities of marriage. To such as these waiting a week or so before obtaining a marriage license would, if anything, only add to their fervor and determination.

"Many young wives tell me their husbands refuse to take them to dances or the theater, pleading they are too tired. The husbands tell me their wives care nothing for their home and say it is a physical impossibility for them to go to a dance or theater 'every night' and continue to work all day.

Compromise Needed

"As usual, both are at fault. Even if a husband is tired he should take his young wife to dances, the theater or parties a couple of times a week. A young girl needs some recreation. But she should also realize that her husband is tired after his day's work and be willing to stay home more than half the time.

"It is the same difficulty—neither is willing to assume the responsibilities of marriage.

"Occasionally I come across a quarrel due to a desire for a career by the wife. Marriage is a career in itself. If there is a baby, I can't understand a woman who loves her baby so little that she would permit anyone else to care for it, while she was at an office."

BAPTISTS OF LAKEFIELD CONTINUE CELEBRATION

Dainty Supper Followed By Interest - Retaining Lecture on Sweden By Dr. C. W. Rose of Peterborough.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 31.—The Lakefield Baptist Church celebrated its anniversary by a congregational supper on Monday evening, following the anniversary services, which were held on Sunday. After the supper a lecture on the convention in Sweden was given by Rev. Dr. C. W. Rose of Peterborough. Rev. T. L. White occupied the chair, and after a devotional exercise he called on Rev. W. S. Edgar, pastor of the mother church of Gilmour Memorial, to give greetings.

Rev. Mr. Edgar extended the greetings of his congreation to their daughter church and hopes for future success. Mr. Edgar stated that in too many cases one finds the minister and a faithful few carrying on the work of the church, while others are content to look on. A church to be successful must be a working church and have the spirit of hard work. It must also have the spirit of prayer as no church can be successful otherwise. Prayer is the power house which generates the power to carry on, and it is the national thing. We are never more natural than when we pray. To be successful a church must have the spirit of evangelism—a soul-seeking agency in which every member is active. The primary function of the church is to preach the gospel and not to educate or entertain. Then we must have the spirit of generosity, and if we give generously God will open the windows of heaven and give us His blessing. If these four principles are carried out during the coming year it will ensure success.

Rev. Dr. Rose added his greetings and felicitations to those conveyed by Mr. Edgar and hopes for the success of all the churches in the village.

The convention held in Stockholm last summer was one of the greatest conventions in the world and certainly the greatest in Sweden, Dr. Rose said. Stockholm, the capital city of Sweden, is one of the most beautiful cities in the world, and may be approached by sea by going through hundreds of small islands. Dr. Rose and his party approached by way of Gothenburg and travelled over land. An unusual feature of the city of Stockholm is the presence of the finest buildings, including the King's palace and Parliament buildins, on the water front, which is a great contrast to America. Everything is spotlessly clean and the buildings are especially good.

The girls are very strong and do work which in this country is usually left to the men, but they are not coarsened by it and are much better behaved than many Canadian and English women. The men, too, are a fine type and are trained athletes.

The party attended the Jubilee Exhibition at Gothenburg and were amazed at its magnificance. There were no gambling devices such as one sees in America on such occasions. Sweden is far advanced in its use of electric power, as 85 per cent' of the country is electrified, and there are more telephones in Sweden than in London or Canada. Sweden is practically an iron mine and has some of the finest iron ore in the world, and their methods of mining it are far ahead of our methods in British Columbia.

The State Church.

The State Church of Sweden is the Lutheran Church. There are few Catholics there as they have failed to get a hold. The King and his family are Lutherans. His brother and his daughters attended the Congress and brought greetings from the King.

A Huge Congress.

At the Congress there were 2,500 delegates, of which 1,000 came from America, where at least one-half of the ten million Baptists in the world live. Delegates included 20 from Canada, 400 from England and Scotland, some from Burmah, China, Central Europe, Africa, India and South America. The English and Scotch delegates had their own ship, which was a social centre during te Congress as they entertained groups of delegates very frequently. Messages were received from Lloyd George and the late President Harding (the last to any religious body, and expressing his good wishes to the Congress in which, being a Baptist, he took a deep interest).

The programme began with a reception, which was extremely fine, as the Swedes excell in cooking and sewing. The roll call was extremely interesting as one group after another rose and gave their testimony. The Russian delegates were especially interesting and gave their opinion that the revolution and the subsequent happenings in Russia had done much for the betterment of the people, who were turning more and more to Christ, and the Baptists were increasing day by day till the increase during the past ten years is enormous.

In Roumania, Christians are being persecuted in a most barbarous manner and children are compelled by the priests to take part in religious rites in which their parents do not believe.

The Congress was held in Stockholm owing to the interest felt in Central Europe where missionaries in France, Germany, Italy, Russia and Roumania are winning many souls for Christ, and it is hoped that soon all Europe will accept Him. The ordained missionaries are few, but lay workers are numerous.

The Uplifted Christ.

Dr. W. A. Cameron of Toronto spoke at the Sunday morning service on the "Uplifted Christ," and the Canadians were very proud of him. In the afternoon a gathering of 18,000 was addressed in one of the city parks, in which three platforms were erected. In the evening a meeting for young people was held at which splendid addresses were given and familiar hymns sung, everyone singing in their own tongue. Missionaries from China, Burmah and India spoke and reported encouraging results in their work. The trip was a wonderful one, and Dr. Rose, after leaving Sweden, toured through England and Scotland and spent a delightful summer holiday.

At the close of the address Mr. D. A. MacDonald proposed a vote of thanks to Dr. Rose, which was seconded by Mr. W. MacDonald and heartily endorsed by all present.

During the course of the evening Misses Cullen, Galvin and Nelson contributed much appreciated solos.

QUITS POSITION ON HARBOR BOARD

R. Hone Smith Provides a Surprise Party for His Friends.

TORONTO, Oct. 31.— R. Home Smith has resigned his position as a member of the Toronto Harbor Commissioners of which he was chairman. He made the announcement at a dinner he gave last night to his colleagues on the Board, members of the Board of Control, City Council, Transportation Commission and a number of civic officials. Mr. Smith's resignation came evidently as a surprise to the large gathering. The basis of his resignation was, as he explained, the fact that "the Harbor Commission had not behind them a solid public opinion, a united newspaper support, and the unanimous backing of the City Council. Until twelve months ago we had those potent forces behind us, but that situation has gone and we are now faced with a condition of hypercriticism, with the result that our efforts of the past year have been of no avail and we are deadlocked."

90TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE PRESBYTERIANS IN CENTREVILLE CHURCH

First Missionaries in the Township in 1833 — Descendants of First Elders Survive in the District.

HALLOWE'EN SOCIAL.

MILLBROOK, October 31. — The anniversary services in connection with the Presbyterian Church, Centreville, were held on Sunday, 28th October, Rev. M. C. Mackinnon, M.A., B.D., of Knox Church, Peterborough, delivering an able discourse in the morning, while in the evening Rev. A. J. Langford, B.A., of Trinity Church, Peterborough, had charge, his sermon making a very forceful appeal to the congregation, which filled the church to capacity, chairs having to be carried in from the S. S. Hall to accommodate the numbers who had gathered for the occasion.

This was the ninetieth anniversary of Presbyterianism in South Monaghan, the first missionaries coming into the township in 1833, descendants from some of the first elders who were ordained in that year being still found in the district.

The sacred edifice was beautifully decorated with flowers and autumn foliage, a pardonable pride in and love for their church none finding this manner of expressing itself from year to year as the anniversary occasion is observed.

Miss Jean Eagleson presided at the piano, which replaced the organ usually in use at the Sunday services. The special numbers prepared by the choir included, in the evening, two quartettes, "Face to Face," by Misses E. Tait, A. McConnachie, Messrs. O. B. Johnston and J. Isbister, and "Sweet Sabbath Eve," in which Misses Kathleen Isbister, C. McConnachie, Messrs. D. Dodds and J. Isbister, took part, and the anthem, "They that Trust in the Lord," all the selections during the day being exceptionally well rendered.

Complimentary Statements.

Rev. Mr. Langford took his text from II. Timothy, 2, 3: "Thou, therefore, endure hardness as a good soldier of Jesus Christ,' 'and also from Matthew 11, 28-29: "Come unto Me all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you . . . . For my yoke is easy and my burden is light," stating that here are two paradoxical utterances, neither one of which is complete without the other Why speak of the "hardness" of Christian service and likewise of an "easy yoke," and a light "burden"? We need rest from the load of sin, but to-day we dislike the theme and excuse our lapses into evil, palliating them with soft phrases and words, whereas our fathers used to openly confess their wrongdoing, repent, and seek forgiveness. If sin isn't tremendous reality in the sight of God, why have we the marvellous revelation of His forgiving love in the gift of His Son, and the terrible sufferings which Christ endured? Life is without meaning unless we can find forgiveness for our sins. The outcome of accepting the Saviour's invitation to "come" is peace and rest, with a good and honest and upright heart in the common round of daily living.

Perseverance Needed.

There is a thrill of joy and ecstasy when we, through faith, appropriate the offered salvation, but the same old tasks and relationships await us. If we could only go off to some new place every time we get discouraged, trying again would be an easier thing . If we could only be someone else, or do somthing else, it might not be so hard to have fresh faith and courage, but for most of us it is "the same old net in the same old pond." The old temptations to be overcome, the old faults to be conqured ,the old trials and discouragements before which we failed yesterday, to be faced again to-day. Of course we make choice ourselves, we don't have to be "good soldiers," enduring hardness, but we must win success where we are if we win it at all, and instead of praying to be saved from pain, and heartache, and loss, rather, in response to God's call, ask for faith, and courage and loyalty for the uplift of humanity, and the onward march of the Kingdom. It's the poor stuff that is scrapped, and there is a Divine culture of the human soul through which "God's test brings out the best" He will bring out the Christ outline in form and feature if we let Him work upon us for His glory

Hallowe'en Social.

The Hallowe'en social evening held in the Young Peoples' League on Monday at 8 p.m., the "Wide-Awakes" group of Canadian Girls in Training providing the major portion of the programme, was a well attended and most enjoyable event. The basement auditorium was appropriately decorated with the traditional black cats, witches, Jack O'Lanterns, ghosts, etc., while the centre of the platform had a witches' cauldron suspended on a tripod over a warm-looking blaze, even though there was no real fire underneath. The imagination has necessarily to be in lively exercise when Hallowe'en doings are afoot, and flashlights concealed underneath red paper make a brilliant fire to boil the cauldron with its nauseous contents, especially if the lights are dimmed as they should be on the night when magic spells are chanted while the witches stir the potent brew.

Gladys Tucker, and Marjorie Sayles, president and secretary of the C.G.I.T. group, had charge of the opening period, the pastor, Rev. S. T. Tucker, taking the chair when the girls were required for participaton in the programme. The members of the group greatly appreciate the kindness of Miss Ella Elson, who played for their choruses, drills, etc., and gave most effective assistance

The programme was as follows:

Opening Hymn, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison.

Minutes and roll call, by the secretary, Marjorie Sayles.

Talk on the origin and customs of Hallowe'en, and also brief outline of the C.G.I.T. work and ideals by Miss Burnham.

Hallowe'en chorus, by the group.

Piano duet, by Flossie and Annie McMahon.

Recitation, "A Little Girls' Hallowe'en," by Mary Burnham.

"The Clock Song," by Lawrence Rowland, (concealed in a big clock as he sang).

Witches' dance and pantomime, by Jean Burnham, Elsie Spence, Gladys Tucker, Wilma Fallis, Marjorie Sayles and Vera Weeks.

Recitation, "The Little Quaker Sinner," by Gladys Willis.

Piano solo, by Ewart Tucker.

Song, "Back to Childhood's Days," by Keith Barnard.

Piano duet, by "Winda and Wanda Witch."

Recitation, "The Great Event," by one of the witches.

Hallowe'en exercise by the group, special characters being: Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy, Winda Witch and Wanda Witch, Jack O'Lantern, and Hallowe'en.

Apples and home-made candy were served at the close and an enjoyable social hour was spent, during which the girls gave their group "yell," showing excellent lung power in the process. The receipts were in the neighborhood of 20.

Good Judging.

Some very fine records were made by the competitors in the recent Durham County junior farmers' stock judging contest held in this vicinity, in which 18 out of the 48 taking part were under 20 years of age, and one, George McKnight, is under 13, and had the honor of winning first prize in the junior class on swine, making 173 points out of a possible 200. Shropshire sheep were judged at Mr. L. W. Smith's farm, Shorthorn calves at Mr. T. W. McCamus', Aberdeen Angus cows at Kennedy Bros., brood mares and foals, Leicester sheep and bacon hogs at Mr. R. J. McKnight's, Holstein cows and heifers and a class of Yorkshire sows at Mr. H. I. Seymour's, making ten classes in all.

H. I. Seymour of Cavan, had the highest record with a score of 859 points out of a possible 1000, and hence wins the $50 prize toward a trip to the Chicago International Fat Stock Show. Harry Jose of Newcastle, has second place with 844 points, and receives $15 towards a trip to the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair, Toronto.

Next year the competition will be held in Bowmanville. Reg. Fallis, Cavan, is president of the association Howard Gibson, Newcastle, vice-president, and Stevens, Bowmanville, secretary-treasurer.

Evangelistic Campaign.

A two weeks' evangelistic campaign under the joint auspices of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches, will begin in the Methodist church, Millbrook, on Monday, Nov. 12th, and continue until Sunday, the 25th inst. Rev. H. A. J. and Mrs. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. T. Douglas, Mr. Russell Beatty, Mr. and Mrs. J. Perrin, Mr. and Mrs. E. Armstrong, Mrs. M. Sutton, Miss M. Needham, Miss Kathleen Sutton were among those from this vicinity who attended the anniversary services at the Presbyterian Church, Centreville, on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Roxborouhg and little daughter, and Misses N. Stark and G. Gillespie, of Norwood, and Rev. W. B. Tucker of Toronto, were the guests of Mr. T. W. and Miss E. McIndoo, Fairmount, on Sunday.

The annual meeting of the Millbrook branch of the Bible Society, will be held in the town hall on Thursday, November 1st, at 8 p.m. when Rev. Jesse Gibson will give an illustrated lecture on the people of Korea and the work of the colporteurs in that land.

Rev. W. B. Tucker of Toronto, was the guest of his brother, Rev. S. T. Tucker, on Monday.

Mrs. T. H. Bradley and Miss M. Needham, were visitors to Peterboro on Monday.

HOW EUROPE MUST SETTLE HER PROBLEMS

CHICAGO (United Press).— Economic problems of Europe must be considered and solved from both the political and economic angles or the solutions will not stand, Count Albert Apponyl, Hungarian statesman, said here.

"The trouble has been that questions of Central Europe have been treated solely from the political viewpoint in the past," Apponyl stated. "In the future this must be altered. Let all questions be treated from both the political and economic angles, then the results will be lasting."

Apponyl expressed faith in the League of Nations and said that Hungarian bankers expected to float a huge loan through the League of Nations' supervision.

How to Stop Sour Stomach

Chronic With Many People—Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Bring Quick Comfort—Sweeten and Stop Acid, Sour Risings and Such Dyspeptic Distress.

When the fact is considered that even careful people, those who follow diet rules, get attacks of indigestion, no argument is needed to recommend the best means of relief. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are used by lawyers, doctors, teachers, by business men, high livers, society women, industrial workers, clerks, and the worst abused stomachs in the world, those of a host of travelers.

For thirty years people have learned that they may eat what they like or what is set before them, and no matter what the condition of the stomach, if due to dyspepsia, these wonderful tablets stop gassiness and sour risings, they give the stomach the alkaline effect which overcomes acidity and thus they either avoid distress after eating or else they quickly relieve it. Be fortified. Get a 60-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store and arm yourself against indigestion.

MAKING IT LIKE A HOME IN THE 200

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.— (United Press).—In artificial jungles, forests, mountains and deserts, animals from all over the world will be seen in their native environment when the new open-air zoological gardens are built here.

In one plot monkeys and chimpanzees will swing from tree to tree in an African jungle setting, while next door a flock of mountain goats will scamper up artificially-built cliffs. Adjacent may be a lake of tropic sluggishness, housing crocodiles.

Director George F. Morse, Jr., is responsible for the new plan.

"Gorillas brought to this country as a rule die from homesickness," Morse said. "We plan to have a trained man go to Africa and become acquainted with eight or ten gorillas, let them learn to know him and when he brings the gorillas to this country they will have companionship.

Animals never seen in this country before will be found in the new zoo, Morse stated. The duck-billed platypus, strange link between mammal and bird, that has webbed feet like a duck, lays eggs and nurses its young, is being hunted. Only one has ever been brought to the United States from its native land, Australia, and that one died within a short time.

The giant tapir of Central America will be sought by collectors. Two tapirs brought to this country died within a few days.

Eat Kellogg's Bran regularly to get permanent relief from constipation!

Freedom from constipation, mild or chronic, can be surely looked for if you will eat Kellogg's Bran every day! Two tablespoonfuls are sufficient; for severe cases with each meal.

Kellogg's Bran is nature's most wonderful food awaiting a chance to bring back your health. Kellogg's Bran is scientifically prepared to relieve suffering humanity from constipation and it will do that.

Being cooked and krumbled, Kellogg's Bran is delicious in its nut-like flavor. It should not be confused with common bran which is unpalatable and hard to eat. Kellogg's Bran adds greatly to the pleasure of eating other hot or cold cereals. A popular way to serve Kellogg's Bran is to cook it with hot cereals. In preparation, add two tablespoonfuls of Bran for each person, mixing it with the cereal to be cooked.

Kellogg's Bran is especially delicious in raisin bread, muffins, pancakes, macaroons, etc. Recipes appear on each package.

Realize what Kellogg's Bran is doing for constipation sufferers all over the nation, then just think what it can do for you and yours. The horrors to come should guide you to eat bran regularly, to serve it in some form each day.

You can drive constipation out of your family with Kellogg's Bran—and remove the cause of 90% of human illness! First-class hotels and clubs serve Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. Ask for it at your restaurant. All grocers.

ANNIVERSARY OF OMEMEE CHURCH

Special Services at Presbyterian Church — Methodists Attended in Evening

OMEMEE, Oct. 31.—Anniversary services were held in the Presbyterian church on Sunday with the Rev. Mr McCord of Roseneath in charge of both morning and evening.

In the morning there was a large attendance of members of the congregation and also many visitors from the sister church at Mount Pleasant who listened most attentively to the earnest sermon delivered by the speaker, who took for his text "Behold my hands" and "All day long I have stretched forth my hands unto a disobedient and gainsaying people." The praise service was also hearty. The choir rendered an anthem "Praise thy God, O Jerusalem."

In the evening the service was cancelled in the Methodist church in order that their congregation might join in the service of thanksgiving and consequently the Presbyterian edifice was crowded to the doors. Familiar hymns had been previously selected, and the congregation joined most heartily in the singing. The anthem, "Seek Ye the Lord" was rendered by the choir, the tenor solo being most effectively sung by Mr. M. J. Parsons. Through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs H. Johnston of Millbrook, who motored up for the evening service, the congregation were permitted to enjoy a real treat in their musical selections. Both voices blended perfectly in the singing of the two selections "Ever Near" and "I heard the voice of Jesus say" and to those who are only privileged to enjoy such talent occasionally much pleasure was derived from their pleasing and impressive offerings.

The theme taken by Mr. McCord for the evening service was found in Hebrews 2:3, "The Great Salvation," and many thoughts were left behind for the large audience to ponder over.

Annual Supper.

On Monday evening, the annual Fowl Supper was held in the basement of the church and a more satisfactory one could not have been desired Many visitors were present from Peterboro, Lindsay, Reaboro and for several miles around the village and yet many more guests could have had the wants of the inner man supplied with the abundance of fowl, salads, pies, cakes and other good things which still remained after a great crowd had been satisfied with the good "eats" provided. At first it was decided to hold a social the following evening, but after considering the matter it was decided to auction off the remainder of the baking, which was quickly disposed of after the program, which was as follows:

Opening hymn.

Remarks by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Black.

Solo—Mr. James Mackey of Lindsay. Encore—"The Vagabond."

Address—Rev. Mr. Weir of the Anglican church.

Duet—Mrs. B. Hume and Mrs. E. H. Mitchell.

Intermission of five minutes after which the chairman, Rev. Mr. Black, by way of a change, aroused the audience by proposing a "sneeze" in which he divided the congregation into three groups, one asle to say "hish", the next "hash" and the third "hush" and in this way everyone was enlivened to enjoy the last half of the programme.

Hymn—"O God, of Bethel by whose hand."

Anthem by the choir—"Praise be to the Father."

Address—Rev. E. W. Rowland, pastor of the Methodist church.

Solo—Mr. Mackey. Encore—"Kind, kind and gentle is he (our pastor)."

God Save the King

Doxology.

The proceeds, which were quite gratifying to the managers as well as the ladies who worked so willingly to make the affair a success amounted to $189 while the Sunday offering was $151.

On Sunday evening next, the Rev. E. W. Rowland pastor of the Methodist church will take as his subject for discussion "The burning question—which everyone must answer.

Anglican Anniversary.

Anniversary services will be observed in the Anglican church on Sunday next, the Rev. Mr. Bowsfield of St. Luke's will be the special speaker for the day. On Monday evening a Fowl Supper will be given after which the Rev. Mr. Grobb of All Saints church, Peterboro will give the Oberamenagau Passion Play with lantern slides.

On Thursday the district A.Y.P.A. convention will be held in the Anglican church, Omemee.

HOSPITAL BUILDINGS TO COST $350,000,000

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 31.—(Associated Press).—All phases of hospital management will be discussed by superintendents, trustees, nurses, architects and manufacturers of hospital equipment at the twenty-fifth annual conference of the American Hospital Association which opens here tomorrow for five days. Registration was more than 3,000 at the Atlantic City conference last year, and the more extended education exhibits this year are expected to attract a larger attendance.

Hospital construction, mechanical and scientific equipment, domestic management, food values, education of nurses, how to balance costs of operation and investment of hospital trust funds, will be among the specialized subjects discussed, according to Dr. A. R. Warner, Chicago, Secretary of the association. Sixty-seven speakers are on the program from United States and Canada, which will be presided over by Asa S. Bacon, superintendent of the Presbyterian Hospital of Chicago President.

Mr. Warner estimates the total value of hospital buildings and grounds in the United States in excess of $1,800,000,000 and the total expenditure annually for maintenance of 6,000 hospitals at approximately $525,000,000. A sum of $350,000,000, he states, will be spent during the year for new buildings and equipment.

CHILDREN SEEK TO BE 'GOULDS'

Mystery Woman Defends Her Little Ones in Legal Contest Over Term "Issue."

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Upon the single word "issue" hinges the outcome of the biggest will contest America has ever known. It involves the Gould family, famed in the financial and railroad history of America since Jay Gould left his tannery in Northern New York and plunged into Wall Street. When he died, in 1892, he left an estate of $72,000,000. It is about this estate that the fight centers.

Eminent counsel, including John W. Davis, former American ambassador to Great Britain, and president of the American Bar Association; Judge Alton B. Parker, former Democratic candidate for president, and 48 other attorneys are engaged in an attempt to construe the word to determine whether three children of the late George J. Gould, son of the famous Jay, come under the legal status of "issue."

When Jay Gould died he gave George Gould, eldest son and head of the house, $5,000,000 outright, and created trust funds of $10,000,000 for each of his six children, including George. George Gould was named trustee of these funds. The will provided that upon the death of Jay Gould's children the trust funds should be divided equally among "their issue."

Shrinks 20 Millions

Under the management of George Gould the famous financier's estate shrank $20,000,000, and his brothers and sisters were suing him when he died to force a restoration of the sum. Administering his father's estate, George Gould allowed the Western Union Telegraph Company, the Manhattan Elevated Railroads, the Missouri Pacific, the Wabash, The Texas Pacific and half a dozen other railroads to slip from control of the Goulds. His dream of a transcontinental line, and the panic of 1907 were blamed. After that the Gould name came to be more or less negligible in Wall Street financial circles.

George Gould retired to his home at Lakewood, N. J., and transacted his business through his secretaries. His first wife, who bore him six children, died in 1921. A year later he married Guinivere Sinclair, a stately blonde, who lived on Manursing Island, at Rye, N. Y. She was a mystery woman. She had three children and was reported to be a widow. Her home on Manursing Island was one of the most luxurious in New York. She remained aloof afrom the fashionable people along the Long Island shore. After their marriage she and Gould went to Europe to live.

Early this year he died in France. In his will he admitted parentage of Guinivere Sinclair's three children, the eldest of whom was seven and was born six years before Gould's first wife died. It developed that Guinivere Sinclair had come to America in 1913 with a musical comedy company from England, had met Gould and he set her up in the mansion at Manursing Island.

Legally Disputed

Gould left an estate of $30,000,000, of which $10,000,000 was the trust fund left him by his father. George Gould had created, in turn, a trust fund of $4,000,000 for his second wife and her three children and had provided that the remainder of his estate should be divided equally among his six children by his first wife and his three children by his second. The children of his first wife, among them Jay Gould 2d, national squash champion, have instituted proceedings to prevent the three children of the second wife from sharing in any part of the trust fund left their father by Jay Gould.

Their contention is that grandfather said the $10,000,000 should be divided among the "issue" of his children and that Guinivere Sinclair Gould's children do not come within the legal meaning of lawful issue. The second wife is fighting for herself and her three children. Through her attorney she is contending that her marriage to Gould legalized her children and made them lawful issue.

BIG RUSSIAN HARBOR.

MURMANSK, Russia (United Press)—Steamer service between Murmansk and London has been started by the Russian State Trading fleet. In case the steamers get cargoes for Hambury and Bremen they will call there. Special railway lines to Murmansk are being planned to increase the traffic via the Murmansk harbor, which will probably become Russia's most important harbor in the near future.

HAVE NO BEER IN CHICAGO SALOONS

Gone Are the Days When Saloons Were Wet Say Bartenders.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.— Yes, we have no beer in Chicago.

And the man responsible for that bartenders refrain makes this frank public announcement:

I would not have the people believe I am a prohibitionist, for I am not. I should like, indeed, if the law would permit that the people of Chicago might have the privilege of buying good, wholesome beer at a moderate price.

He is Mayor William E. Dever, who, simply as a law enforcement proposition and without personal whim or flurry, has plugged the flow of bars and breweries, and made the Windy City dryer than a bone.

Gone Are the Days

The knowing ones need not tell of having bought 5 per cent beer without introduction only last summer. Times have changed, as the unwetted thirst of thousands testifies.

In three weeks, Mayor Dever revoked the licenses of more than 2100 soft drink saloons, influenced the voluntary closing of 1500 more for repairs, put guards over all the breweries, retired six police captains, cured thousands of cases of blindness on the police force—and he keeps on unabated.

A meeting of ministers adopts resolutions praising the drive, and the mayor addressing them, explains simply:

Law enforcement by a public official should be part of his work-a-day life. It ought not to be a cause for comment or enthusiasm any more than the wearing of a hat. This is not a question of wet and dry, but simply of obedience to law.

When the most reliable and protected of bars began to report the drouth to their trusted customers, there arose a chorus, from merchant, customer and bystander alike of What s his game?

One repeats the question to the mayor. That official solid, gray-haired, square-shouldered and square-jawed, takes off his glasses, gazes steadily with his large brown eyes, and answers:

No Axe to Grind

"There is no exterior motive. If you are familiar with politics here, you know I didn t seek this office. And I am not now seeking either to gain another office or to raise a new issue. We are simply enforcing the law. We tried palliative measures, but they were ineffective. Absolute enforcement seemed the only solution.

Policemen for years have been ordered to enforce strictly, and have gone out to overlook this place and that place. I think they are convinced by this time that this order is in earnest. When we get through I believe the department will function with a spirit and efficiency which will surprise you.

Just this much more. The order is effective permanently. There won t be any more beer.

There you have the story straight from Mayor Dever—the anti-Volstead, pro-law, champion saloon closer of America.

PAWNS HIS COAT TO ENTER RACES

Arrived Five Minutes Late After Hard Luck With Airplane.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 31.—Meet America's premier hobo of the air, the first and foremost of his kind.

He's "Red Jack" Bartow. And he's proud of his title.

What Jeff Davis, king of side-door Pullmans, is to railroading, Bartow is to aviation.

When he punctures a rubber-tired wheel of his ship, he replaces it with a common ordinary Ford wheel. When he needs gasoline to invigorate his nondescript airplane, he hocks an overcoat—"or what have you?" He has looked hard luck in the face and knows him well.

Though no trophy was offered for the event, "Red Jack" had the prize hard luck story of all that were narrated at the air races here the other week. Had there been a trophy offered, Bartow probably would have been hoarse. That's the way his luck runs.

Hard Luck and Pluck

For a whole year he had concentrated on winning the St. Louis Flying Club trophy, an event for civilians and their planes. He saved his money and bought a modest plane on the installment plan. He had all but $15 paid when the time came to fly to St. Louis. The owners refused to yield the plane to him so long as a dollar remained unpaid.

"Red Jack" thought this poor sportsmanship. So did another airplane agent. This second agent gave him a plane and sold him the engine for it on time. Bartow began tuning it up, sleeping about three hours daily. At last, late one Saturday night, it sounded O. K. At dawn he departed triumphantly for St. Louis. His baggage consisted of three sandwiches, a bottle of water and less than $10. Surely, he would be in St. Louis in time for supper.

His time-payment engine misbehaved. Once he was forced to land in a Texas pine forest. Again over a cornfield. Spare parts consumed his $10. Bartow employed an engaging smile to "bum" meals from farmers at his voluntary stopping places.

Hocks Coat for Gas

Near Gould, Ark., he replaced a blown-out tire with an aged flivver tire, obtained at a garage for nothing. A little bit farther on, he hocked his leather overcoat for 35 gallons of gasoline.

When he landed at St. Louis field, he was pounced upon by sentries and threatened with court-martialing. Unwittingly, he had come to earth when the field signals indicated he should have done otherwise. Then came the last blow. He had arrived five minutes too late to enter the race. The planes already were in the air.

"Red Jack" is a philosopher. He smiled and shivered. He thinks he will go back for that overcoat.

"It's a good old crate," he says of his plane, patting its side. "You should see us do our stuff."

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

GOODBY TO SQUEALY-MOO LAND

Pretty soon Nancy and Nick arrived in Dixie Land. They found themselves on an old plantation—right near a big buttonwood tree, just as the Fairy Queen had directed.

Half way up the buttonwood tree was a little door and on the door was a card which said "Missez 'Possum! Her House!"

Away down near to the ground was a doorbell and Nick gave it a pull.

Instantly the door overhead opened and a voice called down, "Who's there?"

"We are!" answered the Twins. "We've come to call!"

"It's easier for me to come down than it is for you to come up," called Missez 'Possum, "so just sit down till I gather up my family. I can't leave them alone very well, for Brothah Coon's mighty fond of young 'possum and he lives over yondah in that tree."

Pretty soon she dropped right at their feet, but what was the Twins' amazement to see a creature almost hidden from sight by a dozen little 'possums sitting up in a straight row like majors, their funny tails cufred tightly around hers to keep them from falling off.

"Get off, children, and behave your mannahs and make a bow to the lady and gentleman," said Missez 'Possum, giving her tail a sharp jerk which sent them all rolling.

"Oh, Mammy, Mammy," they all shrieked, rushing at her again and piling on like passengers a'top of a Fifth avenue bus. "Don't put us off, please."

"All right," sighed Missez 'Possum patiently. "Talk about people being tied to one's apron strings. It's fah worse to have them tied to your tail. But after all I don't blame them. Old Reddy Fox is always snooping around, and he likes 'possum bettah than Mistah Coon even. My! Everybody seems to like 'possum—even people, it's dreadful to be so populah!"

That s what we came to see about, said Nick. We ll help you any way we can.

That s very kind of you, said Missez Possum gratefully, but really I don t know of a thing you can do. Besides we have a pretty good time as a rule, You ve no idea what good things there are to eat in Dixie Land Did you evah taste simmons? Persimmons—some folks call them.

No, we never did, said Nancy and Nick.

Then come and I ll show you, said Missez Possum brightly, and she trotted away across the road.

TWO-MINUTE TOURS

The Athos Peninsula in Greece, to which the Patriarch of Constantinople, head of the Greek Church has retired because of pressure from the Turkish government, is one of the queerest communities and has one of the strangest governments in the world, says the National Geographic Society.

On the 200 odd square miles of this rough peninsula which lacks little of being an island, it has been unlawful since 1045 for a woman to set foot. Moreover, so far is sex discrimination extended that female domestic animals are barred! Even the eggs and milk that the good monks of Athos eat and drink must come, therefore, from farms safely across the border of the strange monastic republic that Athos harbors.

The entire peninsula is given up to monasteries of which there are twenty, mostly on the slopes or cliffs of Mt. Athos, the 6,350 foot promontory that rises near the outer end of the headland. There are one or more monasteries for each of the counties, that accept the Greek rite.

Window Gardens

BY LOUISE S. MARSHALL

The largest sized bulbs are best to buy for the winter window garden. The soil should be good garden soil and well-rotted manure, half and half, well mixed with a little sand.

The hyacinths and narcissus should be planted in pots that hold from two to three bulbs — the tops of the hyacinth bulbs being just above the soil, the narcissus just below.

The pots should be kept in a cellar that in cold weather is above freezing. They should be kept in the dark at least five or six weeks and watered every three or four days.

The Emperor and Empress narcissus usually require eight or 10 weeks in the dark .

Blackheads simply dissolve and disappear by this one simple, safe and sure method. Get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store—sprinkle it on a hot, wet cloth, rub the face briskly — every blackhead will be gone.

ENGLAND'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER PASS

LONDON, Oct. 31.—England's oldest newspaper, the Pall Mall Gazette, passes out of existence with today's issue. Its property, leading features and title will be absorbed by the Evening Standard.

The original Gazette was founded in 1803. For many years the Pall Mall Gazette was owned by William Walford Astor, who disposed of it soon after the outbreak of the Great War. The passing of the paper leaves London with three late afternoon publications, the Evening Standard, the Evening News and Star.

FARMER USES RADIO WHEN HIS GUINEA HENS ROOST QUIETLY

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 31.—You have heard of the Old Timer who can forecast weather conditions by the threatening twinge in his game leg, and not infrequently he has done quite as well as the U. S. Weather Bureau, but are you acquainted with the 82-year-old farmer near Madison, Miss., who predicts radio reception for the evening by the manner in which his guinea hens go to roost! If not, then you do not know that the Old Timer has found a new field of prophecy.

If common practice proves this to be true, we may expect that the radio bugs on the farm will replace chickens with guineas, and the effect may be a change of diet in city restaurants. Bradford Hearn of this place, member of the American Radio Relay League, has just received a letter from his grandfather in Madison saying, "When the guineas go to roost making a lot of noise, we know the atmospheric conditions will interfere with 'listening in,' but if they go quietly to roost, we know there is to be a fine radio evening."

"Now isn't that something new for the radio bugs to ponder over," says Mr. Hearn, "I am only a broadcast listener so far, but the bug has bitten me bad and I am thoroughly innoculated with the germ. Pretty soon there will be another fifth district man on the air, relaying in real style. I am an old Morse line-wire operator and the International Morse code comes mighty easy with me."

"My grandfather never took to the modern scheme of things and lives twelve miles from the nearest town. You should see how enthusiastic he is over radio. Imagine farmer folk, whose bedtime is with the chickens, or guineas, sitting up until 3 a.m. listening on his radio. He received it last Christmas as a gift."

Boxer Killed in Ring.

BUENOS AIRES (By mail to United Press).—Firpo's battles aroused big enthusiasm among Argentine boxing fans, but they do not seem to be so lucky as big Luis, in practicing the "noble art."

Two of them, who were training, dreaming probably of bags of the gold that Firpo is depicted as carrying in all pictures of him in local papers, became so excited, that the battle turned into a real fight, stopped only by a real knockout that will last forever.

Armando Benito, knocked down by a hard blow on the nose, died, and his sparring partner is now at the police station dreaming of the bags of gold he needs for bail.

PROMOTE COTTON INDUSTRY.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—New South Wales, which shares with Queensland the honor of pioneering the cotton industry in Australia, now has its own gin, erected at Newcastle under the supervision of the British-Australian Cotton association. The premier and a large parliamentary party with other prominent figures were present at the opening.

The cotton industry in New South Wales is new, but it shows promise of a good future. Last year, sufficient seed was supplied to plant more than 7,500 acres. The demand for seed has been widespread and it is estimated that from 20,000 to 30,000 acres will be planted in this state. The cotton acreage in Queensland is considerably larger.

POUND OF MEAT.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(Associated Press).—The quantity of foodstuff to produce a pound of meat has been the subject of study of experts of the Department of Agriculture. They find it takes about six pounds of grain and six pounds of hay to produce a pound of lamb (live weight), 10 pounds of hay and 10 pounds of corn to make a pound of beef and 5.6 pounds of corn to produce a pound of pork.

BRAZIL WILL ERECT STATUE

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 30.—Brazil will erect in Mexico City a great bronze statue of the famous Brazilian poet Gonvalez Diaz, as a mark of esteem and affection for Mexico according to a report of the foreign office by the Mexican ambassador at Rio de Janeiro. The ambassador adds that the necessary funds have already been voted and that the Brazilian government was prompted to the act by the presentation during the Centennial at Rio of an heroic figure of Cuauhtemoc, the last Aztec Emperor, to Brazil by the Mexican government.

BRAZIL STATE IS IN REVOLT

Civil War Threatens to Totally Annihilate Economics in Rio Grande do Sul.

By U. G. KEENER

RIO DE JANEIRO (By Mail to United Press).—"Civil war in Brazil's wealthy cattle state, Rio Grande do Sul, threatens to totally annihilate the economics of the state and seriously prejudice the nation's credit, unless the Federal Government intervenes to put an end to the revolution raging in the state since last January."

This declaration was made before the Federal Senate by Senor Soares Dos Santos, representative in Brazil's Upper House of Congress from the revolution-torn state, who has presented a bill authorizing Federal intervention.

The open warfare being carried on throughout Rio Grande do Sul is the direct outcome of state election last year. The present governor, Senor Borges Madeiros, has held his office for more than 25 years, is generally regarded as a man of good character, and has placed his state's finances on a sound basis. His opponents, however, thinking he has held the office too long to be in keeping with the modern idea of freedom and the unpopularity of dictatorships, nominated a former Brazilian Minister at Washington, Dr. Assis Brazil, for the job of Chief Executive for Rio Grande do Sul.

Protested Election

There was some trouble in outlying districts during the elections, but not serious enough to prevent a heavy vote from being cast for both the Gubernatorial candidates. After the count had been taken it was announced that Borges Madeiros was re-elected, but the supporters of Dr. Assis Brazil protested on the ground the elections were misconducted.

The State Legislature, however, convalidated the election of Senor Madeiros, and the so-called "Dictator" resumed his offices. Soon after the discontent among the opposition party broke out in open warfare against the Government of the State, and Goveror Madeiros immediately mobilized available state troops. Such was the beginning of the present civil war, which has already lasted more than eight months.

Senator Soares Dos Santos, upon presenting a bill for Federal intervention, declared that complete administrative disorganization exists in Rio Grande do Sul, pointing out that some municipalities are in the hands of the revolutionary party.

"Some hundreds of lives have been lost in the revolution," the Senator added, "and the property damages are enormous."

Rio Grande do Sul has a population of about 3,000,000 and its area is greater than that of the States of New York and Pennsylvania together. Of the vast wealth of the state about 25 per cent. is in live stock, for which reason Rio Grande do Sul is known as the Texas of Brazil.

Happy Ending of Peterborough's Greatest Baseball Season

PETERBORO'S FOUR PROVINCIAL CHAMPION BASEBALL TEAMS ARE HONORED BY CITY AND O. B. A. A.

"Their Record Will Be Difficult to Equal and May Never Be Excelled," Declared M. B. Dulmage, Secretary of the Ontario Amateur Baseball Association—Council Thanked By the City League Officers For Public Recognition.

TROPHIES AND SOUVENIRS PRESENTED

Eminently successful in every respect was the civic banquet tendered at the Empress Hotel last evening by the City Council to Peterborough's four Ontario baseball championship teams—the C.G.E., Intermediate winners; the Lakeviews, Junior champions; the Curlers, Midget winners, and the Rotary team, Bantam titleholders, and to the Maple Leafs, who were runners-up in the Ontario Juvenile series, and the Peterborough Baseball Club, Central Ontario League runners-up. Featured by the presence of Mr. M. B. Dulmage, Secretary of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association, and by the presentation of City League and O.B.A.A. trophies to the winning teams, as well as by the presentation from the city to each member of the Rotary Curlers, Maple Leafs, Lakeviews and C.G.E. teams of a group photograph of his team, the event will be a memorable one in local sporting history. In addition to the members of the six ball teams, the Mayor and Council and the guests from outside, many well-known citizens showed their interest in clean sport by attending last night's function, and 200 sat down to the excellent repast prepared for the occasion.

Unique Record

It was a great night for sport in Peterboro as speaker after speaker emphasized the value of clean athletics in character breeding and as a community asset. The feat of winning four Ontario championships was hailed as an unique record that had Peterboro squarely upon the sport map.

While the banquet was being done justice to Jack Smith and Bob Hendry with W. Barrie at the piano conducted a sing-song in which the gathering heartily co-operated.

His Worship Mayor Taylor who presided before proposing the toast to the King welcomed on behalf of the City Council the members of the various baseball clubs and the officers of the O.B.A.A. who had made a sacrifice of their time in coming to Peterboro for the occasion. It was but a small part of the time and energy they have expended in promoting baseball throughout the province. His Woship greeted the success of the teams in winning four provincial championship as a happy augury for the future of wholesome amateur sport and wished the members still further success not only in the sport in which they had so signally distinguished themselves but in the more trying and serious game of life.

The toast to the King was then loyally honoured.

The City League Trophies.

The presentation of the various City League championship trophies followed, the first cup being the Allen Cup for the bantam series which was presented by the donor Mr. John I. Allen.

In doing so Mr. Allen congratulated the various championship clubs upon their splendid showing during the past season and stressed the importance of the training received by the youngsters in their contests which he was sure would be a stabilizing factor in the control of their lives in the bigger tasks of life.

Manager Jack Primeau of the Rotary Bantams in receiving the trophy for his team eulogized the players for their efforts and pointed out that the Rotary Club had lost but one game. It had been a pleasure to have been associated with the boys during the season and he advised the older men present if they wanted to keep young to get out with the boys.

The Matthews Trophy.

Dr. E. H. Wood presented the Midget champions, the Curlers, in the unavoidable absence of the donor, Mr T. F. Matthews. Dr. Wood emphasized the interest Mr. Matthews had always taken in Peterboro affairs ever since his departure from the city. In presenting the trophy the speaker congratulated Mr. Alex Kay the manager of the winners upon his success, pointing out that Mr. Kay had started organizing his team after the others were in the field. Their climb to the top was a credit to Mr. Kay and the boys themselves.

In reply Manager Kay gave the members of his team great praise for the manner in which they had conducted themselves. Although four-teen different players were used there had not been a word of dissension all season. With nine Scotchmen on the line up he declared nothing could have kept the Curlers from emerging at the top of the heap.

The Warne Cup.

In the absence of Mr. Warne, donor of the Warne Trophy, the duty of presenting the Warne trophy to the Maple Leafs, Juvenile City champions, Mr J. E. Sullivan paid an eloquent tribute to the services of the various managers of the City League teams who had given liberally of their time and means in promoting the interest of baseball. In particular he referred to the part of Mr. Alex Kay had taken in the promotion of the various leagues and in the coaching of young players.

Manager C. E. Curtis of the Maple Leafs in reply declared that those connected with baseball simply felt that if Peterboro was a good enough town to live in it was a good enough town to work for.

The Gordon Cup.

In presenting his own beautiful trophy to the Lakeviews, Junior City League champions, Mr G. N. Gordon dwelt upon the unique nature of the occasion in the winning of four Ontario championships and heartily congratulated the members of the various teams. Mr. Gordon stressed the value of sport in developing not only sound bodies but sound characters and he urged the players to remember the lessons learned on the ball field in their conduct in the larger arena of life.

The trophy was received by Manager L. W. Lebarr of the Lakeviews and the president of that club, F. D. Craig, expressed the thanks of the Junior champions.

The Bradburn Cup.

Mr. W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., in doing the honors in the case of the C.G.E., Intermediate champions announced that the trophy he was donating to the Intermediate City League would be ready in a short time. Mr. Bradburn gave some interesting reminiscences of past events in Peterboro's sporting history, including the career of Peterboro in the Canadian Professional League.

Manager Arthur Primeau thanked Mr. Bradburn and the Council for their kindness and President H. P. McFadden reviewed some of the difficulties encountered during the season, assuring his hearers that it was not all pleasure. He thanked the members of his team for the spirit shown throughout the long campaign.

Mr. Jack Smith at this stage contributed a solo in fine voice.

The Spalding Medals.

Mr. Wm. Duncan, of Toronto, representing A. G. Spalding and Brothers, presented the Spalding medals to the five City League champions, which were received by Ken Graham, captain of the Rotary team, Carl Woods, captain of the Curlers, Charlie Bradley, captain of the Maple Leafs, Lew Lebarr, Jr., captain of the Lakeviews, and Ray Rose, captain of the C.G.E.

Mr. Duncan emphasizd the fame won by Peterborough as a result of the prowess of her ball teams. As far away as Windsor he had heard Peterborough and Galt spoken of as the best ball towns in Ontario. He assured Mayor Taylor that Peterborough's ball teams were the best advertising medium the city could have and that they had boosted the town one hundred per cent. The firm he represented were always ready to be of service, Mr. Duncan declared. In conclusion he offered to the City League executive on his own behalf a gold medal to be given to the most popular and best behaved ball player in the City League ranks next season

A comic duet by Messrs. Smith and Bob Hendry was a thoroughly appreciated at this stage.

The O.B.A.A. Trophies.

In presenting the O.B.A.A. trophies to the winning teams, Mr. M. B. Dulmage, of Guelph, secretary of the O.B.A.A., after expressing regret at the absence of President D. P. McFarlane, referred to the great record set up by the Peterborough teams this year, which, he said, would be difficult to equal and might never be excelled Mr .Dulmage declared that he had been impressed by the players of the various teams as clean and healthy athletes who would be a great credit to any community In connection with the intermediate trophy, he warmly congratulated the C.G.E. team, pointing out that the intermediate series was the biggest in the Association The junior cup, he recalled, had been won by his home team, Guelph, last year, and he confessed that it had been very reluctantly surrendered. Mr. Dulmage regretted that there had not been time to have the championship medals ready for presentation last evening, and also that no provision had yet been made for honouring the bantam champions, although that detail would be attended to in due time.

Thanked the Council.

Dr. A. W. McPherson, president of the P.A.A.A., replied, expressing thanks to the city council for the splendid banquet tendered to Mr. Dulmage and the O.B.A.A. Dr McPherson pointed out some of the conditions that had helped to bring about the success celebrated last night, and praised the work of the men who had done so much for baseball. He advocated more playing facilities for Peterborough and referring to the splendid record of this city in all lines of sport, stressed the desirability of encouraging clean, healthy athletics and of keeping out professionalism.

A Harry Lauder number by Bob Hendry was much enjoyed.

Photographs Presented.

Ald. Dr. Holloway, chairman of the City Reception committee, presented all five championship teams with group photographs produced by the Roy Studio. The council, he declared, often had differences of opinion on other subjects, but had been unanimous in their decisoin to recognize their exploits of the ball teams. The money spent, Dr. Holloway declared, was an excellent investment that had more than paid for itself in the publicity secured and he hoped that the council would have to do it over again next year

Mr. Ward Patterson, President of the City League, expressed the thanks of that organization to the city council. In reviewing the season's operations Mr. Patterson told of the difficulties encountered and thanked the Mercantile League for the co-operation shown. He also expressed the deep obligation of the City League to the Peterborough Baseball Association for the assistance given in the use of Riverside Park In summing up the debt owed by the League to various individuals Mr. Patterson stressed the obligation baseball was under to Mr J. J. Solomon, who had put Peterborough on the map so far as baseball was concerned, pointing out the steps taken by Mr. Solomon to get the game under way in this city.

Mr Eddie Wright, vice-pre-sident of the City League, also expressed the hearty thanks of that organization to the council.

The O.B.A.A.

After another enjoyable duet by Messrs. Smith and Hendry, Ald. Nagle Phelan proposed the last toast of the evening, that to the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association. He referred to the growth of that organization and to the services it had rendered to baseball, and speaking of the local season, declared that this had been one of the most remarkable years in Peterborough's baseball history Next year he hoped that Peterborough would win all six series of the O.B.A.A.

Mr Solomon's Reply.

Mr Jake Solomon, second vice-president, in reply, pointed out that baseball was put on the map in Peterborough when the local City League entered the O.B.A.A. in 1918. Without a governing body baseball could not get anywhere Mr. Solomon speaking for the officers of the Association, reminded the teams present that the O.B.A.A. was theirs, not the officers. It was for them to make suggestions and rules and for the officers to see that they were carried out. He pointed out the great growth of baseball in the east, as evidenced by the fact that there were nineteen teams east of Toronto in the O.B.A.A. intermediate play-off, and also the efforts made by the O. B.A.A. to wind up the various series in good time, showing how great an improvement in this respect had been made this year.

Praise For "Jake."

Mr. Dulmage in also replying to the toast, paid a warm tribute to Mr. Solomon. "He is one of the leading baseball men of the province, and I hope you recognize that fact down here," said the speaker. "We on the O.B.A.A. executive do, and we hope to further honour him next year."

Mr. Dulmage gave some interesting information about the O.B.A.A. which, although only six years old, was one of the biggest sport organizations in Canada. Last year between 16,000 and 17,000 players had held O.B.A.A. certificates. It was not perfect by any means, but every effort was made to constantly improve the organization, and in this connection the speaker eulogized the members of the O.B.A.A. executive as a hard-working bunch of good fellows who reserved every credit.

Al Heckman Remembered.

The last event of the programme was a surprise item for Al. Heckman, the popular pitcher of the Central Ontario League Club, who was presented by Ald. Phelan on behalf of the Peterborough Ball Club, with a handsome sweater coat. In making the presentation Ald. Phelan referred to the great services of Heckman to the club in the past two seasons and to his feat of winning eighteen out of twenty-five games in the past season. "We feel that the premier amateur pitcher of Ontario is with us to-night," said the speaker.

Mr. Heckman, in reply, expressed appreciation of the manner in which he had been treated since becoming a resident of Peterborough.

The singing of the National Anthem then brought a notable occasion to a close.

Big League House Cleaning Session

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.— Kenesaw Mountain Landis, Baseball Commissioner, last night issued a call for a joint meeting of the club owners of the American and National Leagues to be held here December 12, for the purpose of setting their house in order for the 1924 season.

As this also is the date for the annual meeting of the American League, President Johnson may advance the meeting of his club owners so as to prepare themselves for the joint session.

HOPPE SHOWS HIM

Herewith you see Willie Hoppe, the greatest of billiardists, demonstrating a deft maneuver for the enlightenment of Tadao Suganuma, the 21-year-old Japanese billiardist, who has shown surprising skill at the game. Tadao is more or less a pupil of Hoppe. The American has taken a great interest in the visitor, and is helping to develop his game to championship form.

SOUTHPAW PENNOCK SAVED YANKS

By BILLY EVANS.

Pitching dominated the 1923 world series. The Yanks got all of it, the Giants none of it with the exception of Nehf's work. Pitching was the deciding margin, the edge of victory.

Who did the best pitching for the Yankees? Joe Bush was wonderful. Never during the season did Bush show more stuff than in the classic. In addition, he put much thought back of every ball pitched. When Bush has control of his fork ball, he is a hard man to beat. The fork ball is a freak delivery, the ball being held between two fingers on the pitching hand. The ball takes a peculiar break. Bush was master of the fork ball in the world series.

Lost Tough Game.

Then there was Sad Sam Jones who allowed only four hits in the game he worked, yet lost 1 to 0. One ball beat Jones. A slow curve ball that broke inside was lifted into the right field bleachers at the Yankee Stadium. It just cleared the playing field and was fair by a scant margin. Jones had intended to keep that slow curve outside. His control momentarily failed him, just as did the control of Mathewson when pitching to Frank Baker back in 1911. One badly pitched ball beat Mathewson in that game, likewise it defeated Jones.

To my way of thinking, however, Southpaw Herb Pennock was the outstanding star, the added pitching strength the Yankees needed to win over the Giants. After the Giants had won the first game, it made eight in a row over the Yankees. The experts were predicting another rout of the American Leaguers, then along came Pennock. He pitched the Yankees to a 4 to 2 win over the Giants, working a great game. Unquestionably it was the turning point in the series.

Pennock Saved Series.

Pennock, who is a frail southpaw with far more courage than strength, with only a day's rest was called upon to relieve Shawkey in the eighth with the bases filled. That took considerable out of him. Then with only one day's rest, Pennock needs four, he was called upon for the sixth and what proved to be the deciding game.

It may sound strange, but the work of Pennock in the sixth game was the best pitching of the series to my way of thinking. He was in trouble from the very start. The Giants pecked away at him in every inning. Runners were always on the bases. Lack of proper rest seemed to have robbed him of much of his stuff. A less courageous pitcher would have grown careless and the Giants would have probably made a dozen runs. Not Pennock. He worked carefully on every batter just as if he was mowing the Giants down in order. Then came the break, five runs in the eighth and victory. Pennock's work richly deserved it.

JOKER IN RULES CAUSES PEEVE

New Edinburghs of Ottawa Will Appeal to Canadian Rugby Union.

OTTAWA, Oct. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Indignation is expressed by the local press to-day over the announcement that Brockville has been awarded the championship of the western section of the Quebec Rugby Union. New Edinburghs, carrying the Ottawa colors have lost only one game this season, and that to Brockville in the opening tilt at the Island City, while the single defeat inflicted on Brockvill, so far this year was that administered by the "Burghs" here a week ago.

It is understood that the ruling has been based on Paragraph Twenty-Four of the by-laws governing Quebec Union games which reads as follows:

"The Club winning the greatest number of matches shall be declared the champions, and in case of an unavoidable draw the game shall be counted as half a win each to the clubs so drawing. In case of a tie in the series the championship shall be awarded to the club so tieing which has the greatest number of points to its credit in the home and home series of the tied clubs."

On this basis Brockville has an edge on the New Edinburghs of four points having defeated the Ottawa team 12 to 6 and been themselves defeated 14 to 12. The Citizen in part states as follows: "It has surely come as a mighty blow to the Burghs who after being refused their chances to get into the play-offs for the last two years, were counting on bearing the colors of the capital fans in the Quebec Union championship finals this season. It is indeed disheartening to a team that started football practice around September 1.

"In all probability the Burghs were not familiar with the clause in the rule book which plays such an important part in the Brockville team being given the championship. However real sportsmanship has not been shown by the Quebec Union in leaving the 'Burghs' out in the cold and thereby eliminating them from the championship series."

New Edinburgh officials are very indignant over the action of the Quebec Union officials and intend to appeal to the Canadian Rugby Union for a ruling.

MUST FIGHT OR FORFEIT TITLE

New York Boxing Commission Fixes Time Limit For Champions to Rest.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Boxing champions must defend their titles in bona fide championship bouts at least once every six months under a new championship ruling adopted today by the New York State Athletic Commission. Failure to do so will result in indefenite suspension, or the refusal of a license to box in New York.

By adopting this rule, the Commission did away with its custom of declaring forfeited the titles of champions who refused to accept challenges, and in most cases, elevating challengers to the championship Forfeiture of titles it was explained would apply chiefly to cases where a champion is unable to make his class weight, or is adjudged otherwise unable or unfit to defend his crown.

The new rule it is expected, will be made retroactive by the Commission, in which case Joe Lynch and Mickey Walker Bantam-weight and welterweight titleholders, will be restored to title recognition though remaining under suspension until they fulfill the requirements of the commission.

Henceforth, in case of forfeited titles, the commission will conduct a tournament open to all contenders and award the title to the winner.

WON'T TRADE HEILMANN.

DETROIT, Mich., October 30. — Harry Heilman, hard hitting right fielder of the Detroit Tigers, will not be traded to the Philadelphia Athletics, or any other team. Frank L. Navin said to-day in commenting upon the reports from Philadelphia that the home run slugger would be used in a trade designed to strengthen both clubs.

COLUMBIA CREW CONFIDENT OF WINNING TODAY

Readjusted Ballast and Pointed Higher to Windward — Becalmed on Monday.

A BLOW IN OFFING.

HALIFAX, N. S., October 30. — Captain Ben Pine and the crew of the Columbia are confident that the American challenger for the International Fishing Schooner championship will win to-day from the Canadian Blue Nose in the second race of the ocean classic, and tie the series. They have this confidence because they took their vessel out yesterday afternoon, readjusted her ballast, and found that she pointed higher in windward work, was quicker in stays, and generally was a different boat from the Columbia of Monday. There was very little wind ward work in the first race and in that little Bluenose almost lost the day when she over-stepped on the one tack necessary to make the third mark. There was not enough of the windward work to allow judgment of the relative merits of the schooners on this point of sailing. It is almost certain that there will be more in another race and that the course will be chosen to give a dead-beat to windward over one leg.

Reason for Confidence.

At first on Monday Columbia seemed to be pointing higher and a bit of despair crept into the hearts of the supporters of the Canadian vessel when they thought that their boat was going to be bested on her strong point of selling. They knew that races were won and lost in the windward work. As the leg progressed however the lop seemed to bother the American schooner which was plunging her bowsprit deep into the sea. It was finally decided that there was little to choose between the vessels and certainly that the Blue Nose was not being bested. If however, as the Columbia crew claim, they have their vessel improved on this point of sailing there is good reason for their confidence, because the Blue Nose cannot afford to have her rival any better.

Blue Nose supporters think that perhaps the Columbia will point higher if there is not much sea running, but they believe a heavy lop will make her fall off and that their own vessel will eat into it better. Some observers state the Columbia was put too far down by the head by the shift of ballast.

To-day should decide. A blowy overcast fall day promised to-night with nothing of the absolute calm of yesterday forenoon which tied the vessels up at their docks and postponed the second race of the series.

Winds Foercast.

It was dark and forbidding overhead last night and a blow seemed to be in the offing. The weather forecast said "Fresh to strong westerly winds."

Application was made on behalf of the Columbia for permission to have a diver add a piece to her rudder but the sailing committee decided that this could not be done during the series. The Columbia crew stated that the trip from Gloucester demonstrated that their vessel carried too much of a weather helm.

It is pointed out that Columbia is carrying twenty tons more ballast than when she beat the Henry Ford decisively off Gloucester October 21. Consideration was given to-day as to whether it might be well to ask that permission be given to remove that ballast, at the same time submitting to having the vessel re-measured. With the heavy weather threatening for to-day however it is felt that the American vessel is better off with her extra ballast. She did not stand up as well as the Blue Nose under the light winds of Monday.

Interpret Ruling.

A statement was given out by the sailing committee with the purpose of interpreting the ruling which covers the incident of Monday's race, when the two competitors went past a navigation buoy of the far western side of the outer harbor, almost piling themselves on the dangerous ledges there, and causing the Blue Nose bowsprit to catch in the Columbia's rigging. Under the ruling a schooner pressed into danger can ask for more searoom from her opponent.

To-day's statement says that any buoy indicating shoal water shall be passed on the seaward side."

SENATORS START WORK NEXT WEEK

Champion "Pros." Under New Organization — Tommy Gorman Manager.

OTTAWA, October 30. — The anual meeting of the Ottawa Hockey Association Limited, which has succeeded the Ottawa Arena Club in the National Hockey League, took place to-day. It was announced that the Ottawa Hockey Association has taken over everything pertaining to the Ottawa Arena Club, including franchise, players and contracts, and that a ten year agreement has been signed to play all games in the new Ottawa auditorium, which will be officially opened on Saturday, Dec. 1st, when the Ottawas meet the Edmonton Eskimos in a special two-game series.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

T. F. Ahearn, T. P. Gorman, E. P. Dey, W. H. McAuliffe, L. N. Bate, Major F. D. Burpee and Major T. W. MacDowell, V.C.

The directors afterwards held the first meeting and elected His Excellency Baron Byng of Vimy, Governor General, as Honorary President; Frank Ahearn as president; and T. P. Gorman, as vice-president, secretary-treasurer and manager. Mr. Gorman was also chosen to represent Ottawa on the Board of Governors of the National Hockey League.

It was announced that the following players are under contract for the coming season: Eddie Gerard, Clint Benedict, George Boucher, Frank Clancy, Fred Hitchman, Frank Nighbor, Harry Broadbent, Cyril Denneny, Jack Darragh and Harry Helman. One or two local amateurs may be added to the world's championship squad. The Senators will start their indoor work this week.

His Excellency Baron Byng of Vimy, Governor General, who since his coming to Canada, has become a real hockey fan, has consented to officiate as honorary president of the Ottawa Hockey Association.

Lord Byng has accepted an invitation to the official opening on Saturday, Dec. 1, on which occasion the Ottawa Senators, the world's champions, and the Edmonton Eskimos, Stanley Cup finalists, will come together in the first game of their special series.

JOCKEY INDICTED

NEW YORK, October 30. — An indictment charging second degree manslaughter was returned to-day against Lester M. Fator, a well known jockey riding for Harry F. Sinclair, by a grand jury after several witnesses had declared he was the driver of a motor car which mortally injured Hugh M. Keon, last July 13th. A bench warrant was issued for his arrest.

MATTEE GOES TO COAST

SASKATOON, Oct. 30. — Joe Matte, the defence player of the Saskaton Crescents, leaves the latter part of the week for Vancouver, where he will play with the Vancouver Club in the Pacific Coast Hockey Association. Matte signified to-day that he had came to terms with the Coast Club.

BRANSFIELD A MANAGER.

WATERBURY, Conn., October 30 —William (Kitty) Bransfield, scout for the Chicago Cubs during the past two seasons to-day announced his appointment to be manager of the Waterbury Eastern Club for next season.

WON SECOND MATCH.

NEW YORK, October 30. — Walker Cochran of Los Angeles, to-day defeated Roger Conti, of France, 500 points to 457, in the second match for the world's 18.2 balkline billiard championship.

TRADE WAR OF CANNERS.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Oct. 31.—(Associated Press).—A trade war between the Australian fruit pool controllers and the canners of California has resulted in reduced prices for preserved fruits, notably peaches, in New South Wales, New Zealand and Java. A publicity campaign here also has caused increased demand, and it is estimated that there will be little difficulty in handling next year's crop if three-quarters of the fruit is eaten at home.

OTTAWA SQUAD SHOW INJURIES

Stars of Rough Riders Bear Souvenirs of Argos' Mauling.

OTTAWA, Oct. 30.—(Canadian Press).—With only one more game to be played before their Big Four schedule is completed, there is no let up in the work of the Ottawa rugby team. They were out for a light exercise last night and though the wet weather hindered operations to-day a goodly number were on hand for a signal chat.

The team to oppose M.A.A.A. in the concluding tilt on Saturday will probably be the weakest aggregation that has worn the Red, White and Black this season. Bill Baker has been out of the game for ten days with a dislocated shoulder and his taking part is very uncertain. Eddie Emerson had his injured nose battered up against the Argos in Toronto last Saturday and is resting up while Jerry and Brian Timmis the King pins of the line are both under weather. Jerry has a slight strain of the left shoulder while his brother Brian is probably out of the game for the remainder of the season. He received a kick in the back in the Argo game that may have serious results and is now in hospital. It is feared that the shoulder blade is injured.

Captain Charlie Connell is the only other serious cripple. Playing without bandages he wrenched his right foot in Toronto and is hobbling around very unlike a star running half. Rumor has it that several juniors will be introduced for Saturday's game and given a chance to win their spurs.

Queen's Dominion champions, are scheduled to play an exhibition game here on Nov. 10 against the Ottawas and interest in this struggle is growing daily. While it is in the nature of an exhibition Ottawas will have a great chance to credit the praise tendered them so far this year, by trimming the tri-color squad. It is hoped that all the regulars will be back in harness for this game.

WANT PLAYERS NOT CASH FOR HORNSBY

Chicago Cubs' Offer Didn't Satisfy St. Louis Manager.

CHICAGO, October 30. — The Chicago Cubs will make no further attempts to arrange a deal for Rogers Hornsby, the star second baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals, and 1923 batting champion of the National League. President Veeck, of the Cubs, made this announcement to-day after a conference in St. Louis yesterday with President Breadon of the Cardinals, and Manager Branch Rickey. They were not satisfied with the players offered for the St. Louis star, President Veeck said, and refused to consider any offer for Hornsby's purchase, giving the impression to Veeck that the Cardinals wanted players instead of cash.

A drink of real beer is supplied to Epinard, the best running horse in France, before each race.

FLAPPERS HAVE FOUND A THRILL

The New Orleans Flappers Have Discovered a New Kink in Life.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 30. —New Orleans flappers have discovered a new thrill.

Down in the Old French Market there's an institution known as the Morning Call. It's a coffee stand—the oldest coffee stand in the city. Its patrons have long been swarthy, glittering-eyed oystermen shrimpers, fishermen from the lower coast who bring lugger-loads of seafood to the market mooring at the wharf nearby—and many of them wear the earrings, kerchief headdress and the sheath-knives of the traditional seafarer.

The menu is coffee and "belle cal-as touts chaud," which is Cajun for hot doughnuts.

Now as the social season swings into action, midnight after midnight you can see beautiful debutantes in dinner and dancing frocks, their escorts in evening clothes perched on little round stools by an ancient marble counter, side by side with men who could be transferred as they stand to take the role of pirates on a musical comedy stage.

The flappers get the thrills. The coffee and hot crisp doughnuts cost 10 cents. The escorts in evening clothes are profoundly thankful.

ROOSEVELT'S LOG CABIN

BISMARCK, N.D., October 31 (United Press). — A miniature reproduction of the log cabin occupied by the late Theodore Roosevelt during his ranching days in Western North Dakota will be sent to New York for exhibition when the birthplace of the former President is dedicated.

The cabin, on an eighteen-inch scale, is being constructed by the manual training department of the local High School, under the direction of Mrs. Lewis Crawford, chairman of the Women's Roosevelt Memorial Association of North Dakota.

The cabin was moved some time ago from the ranch on the bad lands to the State Capitol grounds.

UNIVERSITIES TO CONFER

ANN HARBOR, Mich., Oct. 31.—(Associated Press)—The making of school budgets and the helpful use of information developed in the investigation of common school problems, will be among the subjects discussed at the meeting in Chicago November 12-13 of the National Association of State Universities. It is recognized that the application of dollars to the needs of schools is of growing importance.

The problems of state schools are increasing, and at the same time they are very similar. The vastness of the present day demand for education is the warrant for some plan by which one investigation will help solve the problems common to all.

"Mightiest of Fighting Men" Now a Mere Shell, Barred From Ring

By Joe Williams

Not so many months back they were calling him "the mightiest fighting man of 40,000,000 fighting men."

They were still recalling that Black Jack Pershing commander-in-chief of the American forces, had shaken his hand, whacked him admiringly across the shoulder blades, and publicly applauded his boxing feats.

Out of the war had come no finer fighting type, no better specimen of physical perfection.

It seemed certain that Bob Martin —winner of the inter-allied heavyweight championship —would reach the goal his buddies had set for him —a lofty position in professional fighting.

To-day instead we learn tha Martin is shattered in physique, an athletic has-been, shunned by boxing promoters and barred in eighteen states for fear of a possible fatality.

Martin recently boxed Marty Burke at New Orleans. Burke knocked him out in seven rounds. Martin was a pathetic figure from the start. The wonder was that he lasted as long as he did. His legs trembled, his breath came in short gasps, he had no capacity for punishment.

After the fight Richard T. Burke of New Orleans president of the National Boxing Association— an organization that means well, but gets nowhere —broadcast a letter to boxing clubs throughout the country requesting them to "protect Martin from himself" by refusing to use him as a contestant in a fight.

Martin's manager Jimmy Bronson, a great admirer of the A.E.F. champion, is said to have persuaded Burke to take the action he did.

The collapse of "the mightiest fighting man of 40,000,000 fighting men" may be ascribed to the fact that Martin was trying to be what he wasn't.

Martin was not a fighter—not as the gents of the cauliflower trade are rated. At least he was not an instinctive fighter. He was big, had two good hands could hit hard with his right, was wonderfully courageous, but the spark of the natural fist fighter was missing.

In the ring he was a mechanical worker who usually gave you the impression of a student trying to remember his lessons. There was never about his work that sharp feinting, quick countering and deft ducking that unmistakingly mark the actions of the natural born fighter—the Dempseys, Leonards, Brittons.

SOLDIER BOB MARTIN

Martin tried hard to make the grade. He wanted to make good for his buddies who had fought with him in the trenches. They told him he was a great fighter and he wanted to prove it. Of course there was good money in the profession—more than Martin could possibly make doing anything else. This had something to do with his staying in the game. But in the main he was eager to fulfill the expectations of his old comrades in arms.

Martin did fight some creditable fights. It took a certain skill to win from fellows like Bill Brennan, Bob Roper and Frank Moran old as they were. He might have won from some of the big leaguers, too, if he had been more spirited in his work quicker to follow openings and more savage on the attack.

Fay Keiser started Martin on his way to ruin. Looked on as a set-up, Keiser, also a soldier boy, punched Martin dizzy two years ago at Baltimore. Almost blinded by Keiser's punches, Martin was laid up in a Baltimore hotel for three days after the fight. A six months' rest in the Virginia woods restored his vitality to an extent and he continued to fight with fair success for some time. Now at 26 he is through.

CROP REPORT

The following is a summary of returns made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:—

Fall wheat is making an excellent showing, taking the acreage as a whole. Bruce and Huron complain of the presence of the Hessian Fly.

A good deal of threshing and fall plowing has been done. More of the latter would have been accomplished but for the generally dry autumn season which kept the ground too dry for satisfactory work with the plow. Recent rains have moistened the soil and a considerable acreage will be turned under yet.

Milk production is showing the usual seasonal crop with an increase in price in most quarters.

The open fall so far has made it comparatively easy to handle live stock, many of which have been on pasture a good deal of the time. A number of farmers have already stabled their animals on account of having a good supply of roughage.

The demand for farm labor is more or less firm, especially short time help.

Lennox & Addington: —Farmers are taking a great interest in having their red clover, alsike and alfalfa seed graded before offering it for sale. Some very good yields of alsike have been reported in this County and some farmers have as high as 125 bushels for sale.

Lincoln: Reports received from a shipment of peaches to England are very gratifying indeed. The fruit arrived in first class condition and was meeting a ready sale at satisfactory prices at $3.00 per box of four dozen peaches. Apples are moving fairly well here at prices ranging from 90c to $1.25 per bushel, hand picked fruit.

Grey: Apples in the Georgian Bay district are good. One farmer visited last week will have 1,500 barrels which he has sold for $3.25 for first and 2nd grade.

Bruce: A quantity of good winter apples have been selling for 75c to $1.00 a per bushel. A large quantity of apples however, are being made into apple butter and cider. As there is very little spraying done in this district, the apples are not No. 1 in quality.

Kenora: Farmers keeping bees have had a record season with the largest output from one apiary of about 12,0000 lbs. Honey is selling at from 15c to 20c per lb.

Grey: Well bred sheep are in demand. I know three farmers who are asking for forty each. These must be of Shropshire breeding. Very few farmers care to sell this kind of stock, however, as the average farmer is endeavoring to breed up his flock. The reduction in price on uncastrated lambs marketed has not come any too soon. It is to be regretted that so many have neglected this work. Many also still hang on to the thick fat hog yet for some reason difficult of explanation.

Bruce: A dispersion sale of pure-bred Hereford cattle was held in the vicinity of Teeswater. The owner realized nearly $6020 at the conclusion of the sale. A considerable number of export steers are to be seen on the grass in some localities. A large number of hogs have been shipped during the week. During the past week some nine carloads of heavy cattle were shipped from Port Elgin district. The price realized was somewhat disappointing. A carload of hogs shipped from Walkerton during the week graded 52 per cent. selects; 25 per cent. thick smooths and the balance heavies and shops. The price realized was of weaker undertone.

Middlesex: At sales yearling feeders are bringing $50 to $40; beef cows, $60 to $90; dairy cows, $50 to $100; and pure bred dairy cows $100 to $180.

Peel: A number of breeding ewes are being imported into the district. The shipment of hogs is considerably heavier than last year at this time probably about 15 to 20 per cent. There is a tendency in some sections to send unfinished hogs to the market, owing to the present uncertainty as to market futures.

North Simcoe: Hogs selling $7.60 per cwt, due to farmer, thick smooth basis: six weeks old hogs are held by farmers at $8.00 and $8.50 per pair. No great demand. Cattle at around 1000 lbs. are selling off the grass at $4.50 per cwt.

There is a considerable demand for fresh milch cows now at prices ranging from $60 to $100 but good ones are hard to secure at any price. Greater demand for butter and milk but the cheese market has gone flat. There has been no sale for cheese on the Brockville Board for four weeks, buyers on Thursday of this week refusing to pay more than 18 1-2c per lb.

Oxford: The condensery at Hickson is paying $2.00 per cwt for 3.5 milk. City Dairy, Woodstock, is paying $2.11 for milk delivered at Woodstock.

Among the popular sports in South Africa are: Tennis, golf, cricket, swimming, rugby and soccer football.

FINDS SPIRITS

this he is completely at a loss for any normal explanation.

"Let us start from the thesis that telepathy is demonstrated to occur. It is not then a matter of black magic; there must be some perfectly definite externalization of the energy of the human brain, which crosses space and produces an effect in another brain. Presumably we shall get it as well formulated and as well understood some day as the light wave and the electric current and the Hertzian wave are today understood and formulated.

"Now with regard to the light wave which our eyes are so wonderfully and providentially sensitive, we do not find it at all a matter of surprise that there exist other potential receivers, so that the light by means of which we see will also affect the photographic plate, the paint on our houses, the temperature and size of a bit of rock or glass, and the electrical resistance of a bit of selenium. Why, then, may it not come to be just as understandable and just as much a matter of course that the energy that I have pictured as projected from the human brain may have potential receivers other than another human brain, and may exert physical affects on such receivers."

Fielding ("Hurry Up") Yost, coach of the University of Michigan football team for the last 23 years, is to retire at the close of the present season.

AT THE GRAND.

HONEY BOY MINSTRELS

The many lovers of ministrelsy will be delighted to learn that Gus Hills' Ministrels will appear at the Grand Opera House, Saturday matinee and night, November 3. This mammoth organization and gigantic array of comedians, singers and dancers ,come direct from the Auditorium theater in Chicago, where they scored on of the biggest hits ever made at the big playhouse. Record breaking crowds flocked to the Auditorium during the engagement and the press and public of Chicago were unanimous in proclaiming the Hill organization as the greatest minstrel show of the century. This attraction de luxe was staged by James Gorman, America's greatest originator of minstrel novelties, and has a wealth of ministrel surprises that will make the most blase sit up and take notice. Old "King Jazz" plays an import part in the performance.

There will be a street parade at noon.

HONEY BOY MINSTRELS

Gus Hill's Ministrels, which captivated Chicago for a number of weeks, is the attraction announced at the Grand Opera House, matinee and night. This splendid organization made theatrical history at the Auditorium. It is the first minstrel show that ever appeared at the big playhouse, scoring a most sensational success, and playing to absolute capacity at every performance. Shows may come and shows may go, but ministrelsy seems destined to go on forever. The sweet-throated singers, clever comedians and skillful dancers were responsible for the success of ministrelsy in the days of our forefathers. Gus Hill is offering this particular brand of amusement this season with a blending of the more advanced ideas of modern ministrely and with old "King Jazz" as one of the principal factors of the performance. The company numbers forty all white ministrel stars.

A big street parade will take place daily at high noon.

POSTMAN IS NEWEST HERO OF FILMDOM.

Enter the new hero into filmdom! He is the postman and he takes his place along with the fireman, the policeman and the soldier in the screen hall of fame of unknown heroes in "Loyal Lives," a Whitman Bennett production distributed by Vitagraph.

This remarkable tribute to the devotion to duty of the letter carrier, filled with thrills and pathos, will be shown at the Royal Theatre on Thursday.

Whitman Bennett, the producer, has won great praise from postal officials for filming this melodramatic story of the postman.

"As a boy the postman aroused my greatest interest," Mr. Bennett explained how he came to make this stirring picture. "In my eyes he outshined the policeman and the fireman, despite the spectacular nature of their work. To me, he was the connecting link with the outside world. He knew of strange towns, of places so far away it tried the imagination to conjure them. He was the embodiment of the family doctor and lawyer. There was nothing he did not know. Whenever my mother would ask his advice on some matter, he had a courteous answer.

"He knew our neighbors, the policeman and the mayor. He always had a kindly word for me and a pat for my terrier which would run to the gate to welcome him.

"Like most boys, when I grew up I drifted away from my boyish ambition to be a postman.

"Always there clung to me this impression of the great romance in the life and work of the mail man.

"For this reason I decided to produce a picture I felt would truly portray the mail man and would bring to all, this great feeling of adventure, of romance, of devotion to service. Such is 'Loyal Lives,' filled with the work of the postman and therefore filled with intense human pathos, and thrills."

Daring mail train robberies and post office hold-ups are depicted in this unsual photoplay. Brandon Tynan, Faire Binney, Mary Carr, and William Collier, Jr., form the all-star cast. The story was written by Charles G. Rich and Dorothy Farnum.

TREMENDOUS SCENES IN FAIRBANKS MOVIE

So Big They Appalled Director Who Had to Work Up to Them Gradually.

When Douglas Fairbanks began his great new production, "Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood," his latest photoplay for United Artists release, and which is at the Regent Theatre to-day, the first scene shot was an interior, and Paul Dickey, playing Sir Guy of Gisbourne, the villain, killed a man nine times. It all happened in Richard Couer de Lion's tent, on the road to the Holyland with the Third Crusade.

This tent was an "all-drape set," combining the principles brought out by Gordon Craig in England, Max Reinhart in Berlin and Robert Jones in this country — representing the world's greatest triumvirate of stage decorators. In spite of the fact that this set was forty feet deep, forty feet wide and twenty-four feet high, it was put up in two hours.

"In starting this production," said Allan Dwan, who directed Mr. Fairbanks in this feature, "we felt much as we did when we went to the Grand Canyon several years ago to make scenes for 'The Modern Musketeer.' We didn't undertake to photograph the canyon at once —its magnitude appalled us. It was so vast, so big. So we played around the corrals for the first few days, photographing scenes featuring the horses and mules. Finally we got up courage enough to take a crack at the canyon.

"That's the way it was in starting on this new spectacle. At first we thought we would crash right into one of the big scenes showing a thousand knights in armor lined up for a tournament. But this undertaking was so big that it staggered us. So instead we decided to photograph the scene in Richard's tent, which we figured would give us courage enough to try one of the big outdoor shots showing the resplendent knight with their plumed hemets and flashing spears."

The magnitude of this feature is such that several months were required in which to "shoot" it.

Wylie; Cache, K. Long.

THE PROGRESS OF THE SOUL.
Because we were foolish yesterday does not necessarily mean we are foolish to-day. If we are in the path of wisdom the soul is progressing, slowly, it is true, but after a while as we turn and look back at some of the things we have done and said, we know we have not been standing still; we have gone forward. We know it, because we wonder if it was really ourselves who did the things we are now looking back upon, but let us not be discouraged. We are God's school children, and He our wise Teacher, who has much patience with us, and who will not leave us half educated, if we are willing to learn.

FIREMEN HAD A RUN.

GRABS $11,265 AT BUSY SPOT

Knock Down Manager of New York Dairy Co; And Run With Box o. Receipts.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. — A daring daylight robbery took place within a block of one of the busiest thoroughfares of the Bronx, when two armed men attacked Fred Van Der Voort, superintendent of the Lincoln Avenue branch of the Sheffield Farms Dairy, snatched a tin cash-box containing $11,265 which he was carrying to the bank, and escaped in an automobile.

The robbery occurred on Lincoln Avenue, between 136th and 137th Streets, half a block from the intersection of Lincoln and Third Avenues and 137th Street. It was just about 5 o'clock, and the streets were filled with office employees on their way home. The robbers worked so quickly, however, that not half a dozen persons were aware a robbery had taken place. Patrolman Dennis Kinnane, directing traffic at 135th Street and Lincoln Avenue, did not learn of it until fifteen minutes later, when detectives came from the Alexander Avenue Police Station.

The drivers working from the Lincoln Avenue plant of the Sheffield Farms Dairy were making their usual weekly collections, and the money was turned over to Van der Voort. He placed the receipts in a tin cash box, and accompanied by Fred Wein, a canvasser, of 612 East 169th Street, started for the Twenty-Third Ward Bank at Lincoln Avenue and 137th Street. Neither Van der Voort nor Wein was armed.

Half a block from the bank a car stopped at the curb opposite Van der Voort. At the same time he was felled with a blow on the head, and Wein was brushed to one side. Van der Voort got to his feet just in time to see two men, one of whom carried his cash box, jump into the automobile in which two confederates were waiting and disappear south on Lincoln Avenue.

Four masked gunmen entered Loew's 116th Street Theatre, between Seventh and Lenox Avenues, about 1 o'clock in the morning, and overpowered Joseph Martizzio, a watchman, who was seated at the stairs leading to the balcony. Tieing him hand and foot and leaving one man on guard, the robbers forced open the door of the manager's office and moved the safe into the orchestra pit.

According to Martizzio, the intruders set off five charges of nitroglycerine, but could not open the safe, which contained the week-end receipts, totalling more than $2,000. The robbers then rifled a cash drawer of about $175 and fled.

Martizzio freed himself and notified the police. A year ago another watchman in the same theatre was gagged and the safe was blown open. About six months ago David Friedlander, the manager of the theatre, was held up and robbed on his way to a bank.

The disappearance of $2,500 receipts from the safe of the Majestic Theatre, Jersey City, is being investigated by police there. Michael Vena, 21-year-old treasurer, reported to William Sullivan, manager of the playhouse, that he had surprised two armed men in the box office shortly before noon. The two turned on him, beat his head against a wall until he was senseless and then fled with the contents of the strong box, according to the police version of his story.

SAXONY ELECTS DR. A. FELLISCH

House Adjourned Until November 6th—All Socialists.

DRESDEN, Oct. 31. — (United Press.)—Saxon Diet early to-day elected Dr. A. Fellisch as Premier by a vote of 46 to 18. Seventy-one deputies were present, but German Nationals left the hall before the vote was taken. The Communists cast no ballots. After the election the House adjourned until November 6th.

The Cabinet is composed entirely of Socialists, but the Democrats undertook to support it.

First reports from Saxony today showed Chancellor Stresemann's strong arm methods with the recalcitrant state were winning. The tension was considerably relieved when it was learned that Saxon Socialists had decided to form a new government free of the Communists.

With the situation in Saxony gradually becoming stabilized and the United Socialists in charge of the new government there, political circles in Berlin expressed the belief to-day that danger of a parliamentary crisis here was less imminent.

SALES TAX LAWS TO BE DISCUSSED

Meeting Will be Held in Peterboro To-morrow Evening.

In the regulations issued by the Commissioner of Customs and Excise for the administration of the new Sales Tax Act, the following clause is included: Licensed manufacturers and licensed wholesalers when selling to retailers or consumers shall not show the tax as a separate item on the invoice

This regulation no doubt will cause considerable controversy, as it is argued that the price of the article in which is included the 6 p.c. sales may not compare favourably with the cost of similar articles in competing countries where no sales tax is in existence.

This point will no doubt be discussed at the meeting to be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms to-morrow night, November 1st, at 8 p.m., which is being held under the auspices of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Peterborough branch.

Mr. R. N. McCormick, Assistant Manager of the Tariff Department of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Toronto, who has made a special study of the new Sales Tax Act, will be the speaker of the evening, and the meeting is open to all who are interested.

STRATTEN HERE TUESDAY

Word has been received that Mr. Taylor Stratten, head of the National Boy's Work Board of Canada will visit Peterboro on Tuesday, November 20.

Mr. Statten is recognized as the most outstanding figure in boy's work in the world today, and his coming will be a real event for those interested in boys work.

Mr. Statten has just returned from a tour of Newfoundland, which he visited as the guest of the Governor in the interest of boys' work.

A meeting of the representatives of the churches and Y.M.C.A. is being held next Monday evening to make plans for Mr. Statten visit.

THE PRINCE OF WALES' UMBRELLA WAS RETURNED

Society

Miss Medda Swinton has returned from attending the Provincial Sunday School Convention at Napanee, where she was a guest of her cousin, Mr. W. K. Huston.

Mrs. P. Heffernan, 377 Reid street, threw open her home yesterday for the first of a series of afternoon teas which the Catholic Women's League proposes holding during the season. This was a successful and well attended event, a large number of ladies coming in for a cup of tea between four and seven o'clock. The guests were received by Mrs. P. Heffernan and the president of the League, Mrs. D. O. Legendre, assisted by Mrs. E. H. Hickey. The pretty tea table, decorated with chrysanthemums, was in charge of Mrs. W. R. Hunter and Mrs. F. J. McFadden, assisted by Mrs. J. Carroll, and the Misses M. Heffernan, T. McNamara, F. McNamara, B. Giroux. During the afternoon a musical programme was given, with vocal solos by Mrs. J. Dwyer and Miss E. McManus, accompanied by Miss Lucille Doris and Miss Florence Giroux, and instrumental selections by Mrs. F. Hodgson, Mrs. P. J. Doris, and Miss Margaret Carroll.

Mr. Charles Telford, manager of the Arcade store, Windsor, was visiting with his mother at 658 Armour Road yesterday.

Mrs. (Dr.) D. A. Taylor, who has been spending the summer here with her mother, Mrs. Adam Dawson, returned on Saturday to her home in Lethbridge, Alta.

Mrs. J. Corkery, Jr., and children left yesterday to visit friends in Ottawa.

Mrs. Wm. Armstrong and small son of Toronto are guests of Mrs. Armstrong's mother, Mrs. Adam Dawson, Donegal street.

Miss May Gemmell, of Toronto National Secretary for the Presbyterian Church of the Girls' Work Board, is a guest of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Mackinnon at Knox Church manse.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Oliver, Orillia, are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Barrie, Water street.

Last evening in the Sunday school rooms at St. Paul's Presbyterian church, the Ladies' Aid Society of the church were hostesses at a very jolly "Old Tyme Masquerade" party attended by nearly two hundred people, a hundred of whom were in costume that ranged from stately to comic, and included the usual Pierrots and Pierrettes, gypsies, Indians, negroes and Spanish girls. Mrs. C. H. Moore, president of the Ladies' Aid Society, received the guests in an old lady's costume. Mrs. R. W. Davidson, in charge of the entertainment committee, was a charming Dolly Varden. Mrs. P. Westbye was, original in a national Swedish dress, and Mrs. D. Jordan wore a dainty Powder Puff outfit. Decorations of the hall were carried out in traditional Hallowe'en style, with orange and black cutouts of pumpkins and owls and cats. At the conclusion of the programme refreshments of coffee and rolls and pumpkin pie wound up an entertaining evening.

Prizes for costumes went to Mrs. Frank White as Topsy, who received a bouquet of pink roses, and a box of bon-bons was won by Harry McEwen as Old Father Tyme. The prizes were presented by Marguerite Hamilton.

Mr. O. Steer acted as chairman for an enjoyable musical program, opening the evening with a brief address, which was followed by a Grand March, and a game of musical chairs. A vocal duet was rendered by Dolly Varden and Old Father Tyme, Mrs. R. W. Davidson and H. McEwen a duet by Miss Isabel Taylor and Mr. D. Moore; a vocal solo by Mr. G. Roy; a violin duet by Miss Jeannette Allen and Mr. F. Whitehouse; a reading by Mrs. B. McClelland; a banjo solo by Mr. F. Clarke, and a medley chorus by the choir. A ghost in the person of Mrs. H. B. Cowan, added much to the enjoyment of the programme.

Mrs. Douglas J. Lawrie received for the first time since her marriage at her home, 480 Charlotte street, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Andrew Lawrie received with her. The living room was prettily arranged with mauve and yellow chrysanthemums, and the tea table was most effectively decorated with ophelia roses, and lighted with rose candles in silver candelabra. Mrs. R. C. Blagrave poured tea and Mrs G. S Cameron cut the ices. Those assisting in the tea-room were Mrs Claude Rogers, Mrs. Gerald Wood, Mrs. Gordon Grahame, Miss Marjorie Hatton, Miss Dorothy Hill, Miss Rosamond Huycke, Miss Audrey Huycke, Miss Jean Eastwood and Miss Nora Smythe, of Montreal.

St. Peter's Holy Name Society had a good crowd for their first social of the season, held at the St. Alphonsus' Lyceum last night. The men's entertainment committee, with F. R. J. MacPherson as convenor, had charge of the arrangements. The hall was prettily decorated with coloured pennants and Follis' four-piece orchestra provided excellent music for dancing. Mesdames T. Lane, W. Geary, and E. Cronin looked after refreshments in a capable manner. Prizes for cards were won by Mrs. J. Brady and E. Cronin, who received the large hams given as first prizes, and by Mrs. G. C. Bromley and Master Garvey of East City.

Miss Nora Smythe of Montreal, is the guest of Miss Rosamund Huycke.

At the last regular meeting of the Women Teachers' Guild, the members held a Hallowe'en party, following a brief business session, with the president Miss Ethel McKay, in the chair. The evening held in the kindergarten room at the Central School was a hilarious one, with the varied costumes of the members provoking much mirth. Hallowe'en decorations lowered lights, jack o'lanterns and ghosts provided a background for a programme of games and charades with refreshments at its conclusion.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — and New York Stock Exchange — and Curb Prices

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

ACTIVE OPENING.

New York, October 31. United Press. — The stock market's response to the unexpected extra dividend of 25 cents on steel common, and the unlooked for earnings of over $47,000,000 in the third quarter, was a strong and active opening. Naturally steel was the leader with a double opening showing an overnight gain of 1 7-8 to 2 5-8 points; in the first ten minutes of trading the turn over well exceeded the 9,300 shares done all of Tuesday. The pace was showing gains of one to three points. Bullish developments came at a time when they could help most, for leading issues showed recessions on Tuesday; Steel common for instance was off 1 1-8 points yesterday. These recessions were more than recovered in to-day's opening prices.

Prices shortly after 11 a.m., showed the following: Aemrican Can 93 up 1 3-4; Baldwin 118 up 2 1-8; Texas Co., 38 3-4 off 7-8; Studebaker 97 7-8 up 2 5-8; United States Steel 8 7-8 up 2½. Activity continued through the first half hour although not in quite as heavy a volume as immediately after the opening when trading was the largest in a long time. Leading isues like S. O. Studebaker, corn products and Baldwin held their gains well with but fractional recessions from the morning's best prices; others of the industrials did not do as well, and offerings were apparent in such issues as American Woollens and Famous Players, both of which gave ground to the extent of a point from the best prices at the opening.

Opening prices: U. S. S. opened 5,000 shares 89 to 88¼ up 2 5-8; Amer Woollen 67 3-4 up 1; Baldwin 117 3-4 up 2 1-8; Studebaker 96 7-8 up 1 5-8; Pan American 55 3-8 up 1 1-8; Republican Iron and Steel 43 5-8 up 1 3-8; American Sugar 51 5-8 up ½; Bethlehem B 48 up 1 3-8; Dupont 128 7-8 up 2¼; Marine Preferred 31 1-4 up 1 1-4; Baltimore & Ohio 56 3-4 up 7-8.

NEW CABINET FOR ROUMANIA TODAY

Premier Bratiano Survives Crisis Lasting Three Weeks.

BUCHAREST, October 31 (Canadian Press). — Premier Bratiano of Roumania completed his Cabinet today after a Government crisis lasting three weeks.

He will retain the Premiership, while M. Duca will become Minister for Foreign Affairs, and General Madarescu, Minister of War.

RUM-RUNNING WAS DISCUSSED TODAY

Final Terms Presented to Imperial Conference.

LONDON, October 31 (Canadian Press). — The final terms which will form the basis for an Anglo-American treaty to cope with rum running along the United States coast were formally presented to the Imperial Conference by Lord Curzon, Foreign Secretary, this afternoon.

Ambassador Harvey and Lord Curzon agreed to the terms at an hour's conference in the Foreign Office yesterday.

Problems before the conference were:

First, United States authorities will have the right to search any British ship within the twelve-mile limit suspected of carrying liquor for smuggling purposes.

Second, the United States will formally affirm by treaty the principle of the three-mile limit for territorial waters.

Third, British ships will have the right to carry liquor under seal into the territorial waters of the United States.

POSTMASTER GENERAL SPOKE ON ENGLISH TARIFF

LONDON, October 31 (Canadian Press Cable). — Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, Postmaster-General, told an audience at Huddersfield last night that they might have an opportunity of expressing an opinion of the national policy before many months.

Great Britain must have a tariff to protect her home market, he said, but Premier Baldwin's policy did not mean the taxing of meat or of bread.

Lord Salisbury, Lord President of Council and Deputy Leader of the House of Lords, on the other hand, speaking last night, declared that an election was unthinkable in the present condition of foreign affairs.

OFF TO OTTAWA WITH A REQUEST FOR PROTECTION

Canadian Woollens And Other French Spinning Mills Are Seeking Adequate Protective Tariff.

INTERVIEW FIELDING

Mayor W. H. Taylor, Aldermen M. J. Maher, Malcolm McIntyre, Robert Morrison and City Clerk S R. Armstrong left on the C.P.R. midnight train last night for Ottawa, to support representations to be made to-day to Finance Minister W. S. Fielding that the French spinning mills in Canada are justified in seeking a protective tariff on imported goods with which they come into competition.

The mills affected are Canadian Woolens Limited, the local French spinning annex of which has been idle all summer, and the Mercury and York French spinning mills of Hamilton and Toronto, respectively. Not a wheel is turning in the latter two mills, also, according to reports to Council's Manufacturers' committee, last evening, and there is a poor outlook for renewal of activities in the near future unless adequate protection is forthcoming in the way of protective tariff.

The local French spinning mill of the Canadian Woollens, Limited, the largest in Canada, when in operation, employs 45 hands or more, and Ald. Maher pointed out in discussion that steady employment for that number of workers is a factor of considerable interest to this city.

These French spinning mills manufacture yarn which enters largely into a fine grade of underwear, and Ald. Maher stressed that the companies really have, in his opinion, a just claim on the Dominion government for tariff consideration. For, citing his representations to committee, it appears that while wool tops from England are imported free there is a duty of but 12 1-2 per cent. on yarn from England and France, and when manufactured into goods other than underwear a rebate of 99 per cent. is allowed. In these circumstances, together with the low rate of wages obtaining in England and France compared with those paid in Canada, and general financial conditions, the French spinning mills specified find it impossible to compete with their competitors abroad.

The deputation named above, all members of the Manufacturing committee, will join in Ottawa, representatives of the spinning mills when they will be introduced to Finance Minister Fielding by G. N. Gordon, West Peterborough's Federal representative.

A Short Session.

The committee, presided over by Ald. J. W. Meyers, in brief session last night, decided that the question of securing up-todate maps of Peterborough shall be left in the hands of the chairman and City Clerk S. R. Armstrong.

On motion of Ald. Maher and Fife, Chairman Meyers, the Mayor and City Clerk Armstrong were also authorized to have printed copies of a pamphlet advertising Peterborough.

Finance Committee.

The above committee, of which Ald. Nagle Phelan is chairman, also transacted routine business, such as passing accounts preparatory to Council meeting on Friday night.

A proposition by the chairman that some $75,000 worth of city bonds be assumed by the City Trust, saving brokerage fees and other incidental expenditure, will be submitted to the trust for consideration.

CITY TAXES WILL BE TAKEN AT THE BANK OF MONTREAL, "SIMCOE STREET ENTRANCE," ON FRIDAY, SATURDAY AND MONDAY, DURING BANKING HOURS ONLY.

ATTACKS HENRY FORD FOR PRESUMPTION IN AIMING AT PRESIDENCY

Senator Couzens Declares Ford Refrains from Announcing Candidacy For Fear His Hopes Will Prove Another "Peace Ship" Fiasco.

AVOID HUMILIATION

DETROIT, Mich, Nov. 1. — (Special). — Speaking before members of the Detroit Republican Club at a dinner given last night in his honor at the Hotel Statler, James Couzens, United States Senator for Michigan, and a former business partner of Henry Ford, delivered a merciless attack against this automobile manufacturer for what he termed his "presumption" in aspiring to the Presidency.

Here are a few extracts from Couzens' speech that indicates his feelings toward Ford:

Ford Wants Post.

"Ford wants to be President. His failure to withdraw his name from the Nebraska primary proves that."

"Why does he refrain from announcing his candidacy? Because he is afraid the realization will prove as great a fiasco as his peace ship."

"It is commendable to the United States Congress and the Government that a man so powerful has not been able to browbeat Congress into giving him an unfair advantage at Muscle Shoals."

"Ford for President! It is ridiculous! How can a man over 60, who has done nothing except make motors, who has no training or experience in government, aspire to such an office? It is ridiculous."

"Many of those proposing Ford are sincere, others have ulterior motives, many are dishonest citizens, surrounding him to get personal advantage or gain."

Loves Ford, But—

"Ford is my good friend. I love him in his proper place as I love no other man. I have said these things to save Ford the greatest humiliation that could possibly come to any man, and to have the United States the humiliation of having him elected President."

"When Henry Ford says I know better than to propose changing the Volstead Act, he challenges my good faith and sincerity. It comes with poor taste from a man so politically ambitious. Henry Ford has made more unfulfilled promises than any man in America."

"These charges (Ford's criticism of Secretary of War Weeks) are made by a man who spent thousands of dollars to elect a Democratic President."

Parting of the Ways.

Senator Couzens' attack is looked upon as his reply to Ford's widely-published interview in which the multi-millionaire manufacturer, commenting on Couzens' espousal of the sale of beer and light wine in the United States, said: "That Jim Couzens ought to know better than to propose a return to the old-fashioned beer."

The speech is regarded as the parting of the ways between the two men.

POINCARE HAS PLAN OUTLINE

Will Limit Enquiry To Discussion Of German Finance.

(By John De Gandt, United Press Staff Correspondent).

PARIS, Nov. 1.—Premier Poincare has acceded to the British request that members of the proposed expert advisory committee on reparations be nominated by Allied Governments and American for formal appointment by Reparations Commission, it was learned to-day.

France will join in the collective invitation to America to appoint a member it was said. The French Premier however, opposes the presence of neutrals on the committee.

This reply was made in response to British friendly overtures urging on France everything that would increase the latitude of the committees powers and authority.

Poincare will not object to the committee sitting in Berlin but will adhere to his determination that it shall not attempt to reduce the amount of Germany's debt fixed in May 1921 at 6,600,000,000 pounds sterling.

It is reported that Premier Poincare will reply to the British note objecting to the proclamation of the Rhineland Republic as being contrary to the guarantee of Germany's borders in the treaty of Versailles by declaring the Rhinelanders themselves to be the best judges of their status.

He will point out moreover, that the people in the Rhineland seem ready to accept automony within the German Reich, it was understood.

The Rhineland Provisional Government at Coblenz issued a communique announcing its troops entered Geuweid and Saint Gaurshausee dispatches said today.

Negotiations were reported to be continuing for the creation of a new Rhineland currency.

Despatches from Dusseldorf said the negotiations between the French authorities and the German mine owners were going on and that it was expected an agreement would be ready for signature by Friday.

The new parole granted Krupp Von Bohlen was reported to extend for seventeen days after which it was thought he would be granted complete freedom.

Premier Poincare made speech at Neivres today in which, as interpreted by the French Foreign office, he recognized four points as within the jurisdiction of the committee of experts which is to make the reparation inquiry as a result of the recent negotiations of European Chancellors and the Washington Government.

The Premier by this recognition it is held, excluded consideration of any other point. The four points indicated are:

First—Germany's present capacity for payment.

Second —New methods of payment.

Third — The renovation of German finances.

Fourth—New monetary system.

This program, the Foreign Office maintains is in line with that indicated in the United States note to London.

GOOD SPEAKER AT KIWANIS FRIDAY

Mr. George Savoy of Quebec Will be on Deck.

This is Ontario-Quebec week in Kiwanis circles and tomorrow George Savoy, lieut-governor elect of the Quebec district will be the speaker at the weekly Kiwanis luncheon here. Mr. Savoy is known as a good speaker and a treat is in store for those who turn out to-morrow. The idea behind Ontario-Quebec week is to foster better relations between the two provinces.

NAVIGATION IS THE PARAMOUNT ISSUE

Settle Deep Waterways Question Before the St. Lawrence Power Development.

TORONTO, Nov. 1.— (Canadian Press.) — Improved waterways of the lakes and St .Lawrence again received chief attention of the Grain Inquiry Commission this morning.

James Duthie, secretary of National Waterways Association, testified at some length, and stated that he had an experience of fifty years in ocean and rail business. His general contention was that the Canadian producer will not get value for his goods until he is given transportation at lowest cost. Water carriage would give it to him, he said. "Ontario is deeply interested in securing power from the St. Lawrence," he said, "but we cannot afford to get it at the expense of our sister provinces.

Navigation is a paramount issue and we are satisfied that the government of Canada and the United States will not consent to development of power on the St. Lawrence until the deep waterways question is definitely settled. Ontario cannot afford to take the same stand as Chicago. We must have consideration for others who are looking for cheap transportatin, but who are not interested in St. Lawrence power, and use every effort to get action on the part of the Dominion government."

Six British soldiers recently swam the Dardanelles.

A SMALL ARMY OF LAWYERS RETAINED HOME BANK CASE

Preliminary Skirmish This Morning Results in Adjournment For Another Week

TORONTO, Novmber 1. — Canadia Press. — Nine directors and officials of the Home Bank appeared before Mr. Justice Smith in the assize court to-day charged with conspiracy in connection with failure of that institution.

Dr. L. McCarthy, K. C., H. J. Scott, K.C., Crown Attorney Armour, and Deputy Attorney-General Bayley appeared for the prosecution, while a dozen lawyers, including Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., W. N. Tilley, K. C., I. F Helmuth, KC, and H H Dewart, KC, represented Home Bank officials

Mr. McCarthy asked that the trial be deferred until January, but W. N. Tilley, appearing for R. P. Gough, vice-president of the defunct bank, urged that the defendants be dealt with under part 18 of the Criminal Code dealing with speedy trials.

After much argument on the proper procedure Jusice Smith deferred his decision until one week from to-morrow.

SATISFIED WITH CARETAKING OF PARKS IN CITY

Vote of Appreciation Is Tendered Caretaker D. Hayward Who Offers a Few Suggestions.

BAD RAIL CROSSING

Having finished his work for the season as caretaker of Victoria and Central parks, Daniel Hayward, on invitation from Chairman Ald. Mel. Turner, offered one or two suggestions regarding the upkeep of those properties to Council's Parks Committee last night.

For one thing, he said, that some 400 or 500 school children making a playground of Victoria Park rendered it impossible for the caretaker to give as efficient service as he could otherwise.

In this respect he recalled that the six or seven boys of nasturtiums around the fountain at the beginning of summer had dwindled down to two before the season's close, and sliding down the bank is not very healthy for grass.

But, there, he qualified, boys will be boys, you know, and it is impossible to stop them from a certain amount of mischief as long as they are permitted to turn the park into a popular playground. Tobogan sliding in snow and ice, he added, does not damage the grass.

As to the complaint that grass had been killed to the extent of some $200 by burning leaves on the sod, Mr. Hayward ridiculed the idea. Leaves, he said, had accumulated very heavily and on being prohibited by firemen from burning them on the road, he had raked them into small windrows and then fired them—a plan he followed at Little Lake cemetery without injuring the sod.

On motion by Ald. Maher and Stocker, the Board of Education will be asked to restrict school children from playing in Victoria Park except when the grass is protected by snow and ice.

Services Appreciated

On motion by Ald. Fife and Meyers, the Committee expressed great satisfaction with Caretaker Hayward's work this year. There was not a dissenting voice in this regard.

The Board of Works was authorized to fill in the low south-east corner of Central Park opposite the Y.M.C.A. This was Ald. Maher and Morrison's motion.

To Avoid Drowning

Moved by Ald. Morrison and Maher, that Secretary Wyse, of the Ontario Safety League, arrange for a personal inspection of the Otonabee River water front this fall if feasible. Carried. This is with a view to adopting precautions against drowning accidents and the expense for inspection and advisory report will be approximately $25.

Park Equipment

F. E. Convery, Secretary of the Peterborough baseball club, notified Council of the final payment of $200 for rent of Riverside Park, and he suggested that the city take steps to care for equipment left in the park. The chairman of this committee and of the Board of Works were authorized to attend to this matter.

On motion by Ald. Maher and Fife, a hearty vote of thanks, (accompanied by hand claps) was extended to Ald. Stocker for painting the grandstand in Riverside Park.

Toboggan Slides

Chairman Ald. Turner raised the question of providing public toboggan slides this winter, including one at the northeast corner of Riverside Park. The scheme reported on by the City Engineer would cost about $500, but the Parks Committee have run short of funds.

Ald. Turner said what he mainly had in mind was utilizing some of our hills for tobogganing by closing the base of them temporarily.

Ald. Maher hoped that this year adequate and "timely" provision for an open air skating rink in the west end would be forthcoming. And on motion by him, seconded by Ald. Morrison, this and the toboggan questions were sent to Chairmen Turner and Stocker of the Property Committee and Works Board, respectively, together with City Engineer Parsons, to report.

Dangerous Crossing

Ald. Crowe wanted better protection at Reid street C.N.R. crossing, where the watch house, he said, is on the wrong side of the street, obstructing the view and interfering with pedes-

PROTECTION VERSUS THE LABOR POLICY

Such is Fight of British Labor Wages Today Against Baldwin.

LONDON, Nov. 1. — (Canadian Press.)—Organized labor in England to-day registered unequalled opposition to Premier Baldwin's tariff protection policy as a cure for widespread unemployment.

A resolution was adopted at a joint meeting of the General Council of the Trades Unions and Labor Party, calling upon Labor to "resist to the utmost the specious arguments of protection."

Meanwhile, J. Ramsay Macdonald, Parliamentary Labor Leader, in a speech at a luncheon, declared protection was no remedy for unemployment, adding "the fight we are in now is not protection versus trade. It is protection versus the labor policy."

NOTICE

I, H. R. M. Rutter, a local resident, wish to notify the public, that I am compiling and publishing a book boosting Peterborough, which will be printed by the Daily Examiner. This work will also contain a section devoted to manufacturing, business and professional interests from whom cards have been solicited.

The Business Section will first appear in the columns of the Daily Examiner (one issue) and will then be reproduced in book form for free distribution in Peterborough and continuous territory. Should any business firm not yet solicited desire representation or any firm solicited desire omission kindly notify me in writing at the Examiner office by November 3rd., as copy and material for publication is in their hands, and the work will be available for distribution in 14 days.

The success obtained has been made possible through the courtesy and co-operation of the business and professional interests solicited and of the Chamber of Commerce and City Council, who have supplied cuts and information relative to Peterborough, showing its importance as an industrial, commercial and educational centre.

FAVOURITE CURTAINS.

SMALL MILK CONCERNS BEAT BIG CREAMERIES IN PRICE REDUCTIONS

Twenty-One Small Independent Creameries in Detroit Rebel Against Autocracy, Resulting in Lowered Price.

ONE CENT DOWN

DETROIT, Mich., November 1 (Special to The Examiner).—Milk prices dropped 1 cent here to-day.

The new prices are 14 cents a quart and 8 cents a pint.

This announcement, made today by twenty-one independent creameries, marks a break in the milk monopoly which has been fixing the prices for years past.

These twenty-one companies have finally broken away from the combine which set the price and compelled them to accept it.

The announcement compelled the bigger companies to follow suit, and within an hour after the twenty-one independents announced a reduction of 1 cent, similar action was taken by the Detroit Creamery, the Risdon Creamery, and the Arctic Ice-cream Company, the "big fellows."

The smaller companies clamoured for a reduction a month ago, but were squelched by the Detroit Creamery.

"If we cut the price now, the newspapers will crow," an official said, and as result Detroit was forced to pay 15 cents for milk for one more month.

This led to a "revolt" among the smaller companies, which finally decided to break away from the autocratic control of the Detroit Creamery. Twenty-one companies held a meeting and decided to return to the 14 cent price, regardless of what the monopoly might order to the contrary.

A delegation then called on officials of the larger companies and served them with notices of the price reduction effective to-day.

The big creameries were quick to climb into the band waggon

Creamery officials and members of the Michigan Milk Producers' Association will meet this afternoon in an effort to bring about an agreement whereby the creameries will pay less to the producers.

They are now paying $3.30 a hundred pounds, because the Detroit Creamery so willed it last July

It is expected that the producers will consent to a reduction of 30 cents a hundred pounds.

At this price, it is agreed milk can be sold for a profit at 14 cents a quart and 8 cents a pint.

The action of the twenty-one creameries in breaking away from the combine marks a "new deal" in the milk situation in Detroit, an official of the "striking" companies said to-day.

The reason such a step has never been taken before, he explained, is because the creameries were always bickering among themselves.

It was this situation which finally resulted in the smaller creameries banding together to keep alive.

"We're going on our own now," the official said. "We're through with being dictated to."

ARCHIE GARRISON ON MISSING LIST

Kingston Boy Disappeared From Home Sunday Afternoon.

KINGSTON, Nov .1.—(Canadian Press.)—Archie Garrison, aged sixteen, of Hamilton, who was on a visit to his uncle and aunt of Vennacher, left their house on Sunday afternoon and has not been seen since. Yesterday more than a score of men scoured the woods in the neighborhood for him, but without success and now a search is being conducted in the lake on the probability that he has been drowned.

THE WEATHER.

November was ushered in this morning by the first appreciable snowfall of the season, the ground being white for a few hours. The first occasion when this occurred last year was on Nov. 22nd. The snowfall was heavier in the north, as some of the grain trains passing through to-day bore evidences of a heavy fall of the beautiful. The rainfall last month was 2.09, much less than average. Until the 24th it was very dry. The highest temperature was 71 degrees; the lowest 24 degrees. The trees began to shed their leaves on the 16th, and by the 21st were practically bare. First zero weather last year came on Dec. 15th.—W. P.

Convicted Eskimos Had a Fair Trial On Murder Charge

WINNIPEG, November 1. Canadian Press.—That the Eskimos, tried and convicted at Herschel Island on the charge of murder, had been given a thoroughly fair trial, and that everything was in accordance with the best traditions of the British Court of Justice, was the statement made last night by Thomas L. Cory, Ottawa, counsel for the defence, who reached Winnipeg yesterday, after leaving Herschel Island on August 12th.

POLICEMEN HAD A QUIET NIGHT

Much Fun, But Little Vandalism is Report of Last Night — Many Masked Revellers.

Hallowe'en night passed off quietly in Peterborough so far as destructive disturbance went, the police said to-day, but there was a great deal of fun all over the city.

Wooden sidewalks on Smith Street were torn up, but the culprits were caught by Constable Young and compelled to repair the damage.

An automobile was taken from Bethune Street hill about 8.30, and was missing for some hours, and a few minor depredations were reported.

There were more children in costume parading the streets than last year, and all seemed to have a jolly time.

Two bands, equipped with dishpans and wash-tubs entertained the uptown section of the city, while gipsies, coons, Jackie Coogans, and impersonators of all the other famous characters paraded the streets and collected their dues in the shape of candies nd nickels.

Two well-gotten-up characters entertained the crowd that surrounded them outside a George Street restaurant at ten o'clock, and masked bands, secure in their disguises, ogled passers-by at the principal corners.

Rowdyism was consnicuous by its absence, and the celebrations were described as more fairy-like than witch-like.

Pipe Band Parade.

Although not usually credited with soothing music, the pipes of the Machine Gun Pipe Band in a parade of the central part of the city, attracted a large number of masqueraders last night and doubtless kept some from mischief. Led by Pipe Major John Smith and with Major L. Frazer, M.C., Captain H. Dodds and Lieutenant S. C. Kerneghan in charge, the machine gunners marched by George street, Hunter, Aylmer, Charlotte, and George to Smith, thence back to the armouries.

All along the route they were followed by hundreds of masked revellers.

FEW FOREIGNERS IN BERLIN

BERLIN (United Press).—For the first time since the war less than 100,000 foreigners visited Berlin in one month. The September visitation was only half of that of August. Americans led with 1,215, while only sixty-two Frenchmen registered with the police. The uncertain conditions and the high cost of living and traveling in Berlin are blamed.

All Agree Former Crown Prince May Return to Germany

BERLIN, November 1.—United Press.—The German Cabinet has agreed that the former Crown Prince may return to Germany to live, the United Press was reliably informed to-day.

The Crown Prince agreed to give notice to the government when, if ever, he decides to return, the government officials revealed.

It was stated, however, that he did not intend to return "immediately."

The idea of the Cabinet was that the former heir to German Crown could live unmolested and quietly in some place in Germany, much as the former King of Saxony lives in Silesia.

The Socialist members of the Cabinet agreed to this proposal, it was learned.

WORKS BOARD ARRANGE FOR SNOW PLOWING

Let Contracts Last Night And Save $50 on The Prices Paid Last Year For Same Work.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL

Council's Board of Works opened tenders and awarded contracts for snow plowing last evening, the lowest tender being accepted in each case and a saving of some $50 effected from the cost last season for this work.

Seventeen tenders in all were to hand and the districts affected are seven.

The tenders read as follows:

District No2

District	Name	Price
2	William Stinson	$200
	John A. Mason	205
	Edward Ferguson	215
3	Arthur Deal	240
	Edward Ferguson	250

	John A. Mason	154

Successful Tenders

The contracts were awarded as follows:

District	Name	Price
2	William Stinson	$200
3	Arthur Deal	240
4	Robert Manley	175
5	George Sexsmith	175
6	Henry Moncrief	205
7	David Conroy	134
8	Robert Mitchell	145

Cost Last Year

The men who executed snow plowing contracts last year—1922-23—and the amounts of their contracts follow:

District	Name	Price
2	W. J. Stinson	$210
3	Thos. Flannery	265
4	Robert Manley	174
5	George Sexsmith	175
6	George Sexsmith	200
7	T. J. Quinlan	140
8	H. W. Kerr	160

Must Have Service

Before opening tenders Chairman Walter Stocker empasized that the Committee should avoid if possible placing a contract where some of the trouble of last year would be repeated. For instance it was impossible to get one contractor out early enough in the morning and consequently children going to school and others had at times to themselves plow through snow and slush.

However, most of the men he was happy to say, had their work finished by seven o'clock. It would be, he contended, preferable that the city pay a little more if necessary to secure efficient service.

District No one is covered by regular corporation employees.

Petition Received

A petition from residents on Murray street east of Water street, that drainage be provided to prevent surface water from flooding their properties affected are adjacent to the hill near St Paul's church, and are, committee said lower than the street.

A MOTOR MORAL

Parsons' Fractious Car Wouldn't Take Hill in Orthodox Manner.

JANETVILLE, Nov. 1.—On Sunday afternoon last, while Rev. Mr. Reddick and Rev. Mr. Ross were returning from Mount Horeb Missionary meeting, their car stopped halfway up the hill and declared war. Evidently the machine was not getting gas.

Willing hands, part of the congregation, assisted in turning the car round on the road that the engine might start while going down hill, this is just what happened. Then the preacher started and backed up the hill to the top, but going a little over the brow, the engine again stopped. But a small army of men turned the car once more, headed it down hill homeward. The engine again started.

While the car was in motion the two preachers leaped on the runningboard, got to their seats, and made their way to Janetville.

This was undignified? Certainly not. It is the very essence of dignity to surmount a difficulty. If you can't go up a hill in the conventiona way go up some other way. Go to the top, that is your business.

ENQUIRY CONNECTION DEATH OF W. HARTIGAN

MONTREAL, Nov .1.—In connection with the death some weeks ago of Wm A. Hartigan, of Hartford, Conn, whose body was found in a back room in an uptown cafe, Deputy Coroner Lorenso Prince has received a letter from his widow asking him to have analyzed some pills which her husband had received prior to his trip to Montreal. At the post mortem the presence of morphine was detected in the body and it is thought that these pills may contain the drug.

A verdict of death by poisoning was rendered at the coroner's inquest into the case.

MAY ASCERTAIN MENTAL STATE DELORME AGAIN

Montreal Court Rumors Intimate Sanity Investigation Before New Trial.

BY FIVE DOCTORS.

MONTREAL, Nov. 1.—(Canadian Press)—The second trial on the merits of the murder charge against Rev. Adelard Delorme, accused of having killed his half brother Raoul Delorme, an Ottawa College student, will not take place until Delorme's mental condition has again been ascertained, according to rumors here yesterday in court circles, which hear of irrefutable law arguments discovered to force the appointment of another commission of experts to examine the priest. it is predicted that nomination of this commission will be made when the case is called in the Court of King's Bench on November 19 and it is expected that a second "sanity trial" will be held at the January term. If again declared mentally incapable of standing trial it is expected he will be interned at the St. Jean de Dieu Asylum, Longue Point.

This commission of alienists it is reported, would comprise five crown doctors two from Montreal and two from Quebec with one chosen from outside the province of Quebec. It is anticipated that the defence would also want to nominate some alienists as on the occasion of the last sanity investigation.

Prosecution Ready.

So far the only official declaration has been that of R. L. Calder, K.C., Crown Prosecutor, who announces that he is ready to proceed at once with the second trial on the merits of the murder accusation. On the side of the defence it is understood that the prisoner's lawyers favor a postponement until January so that they can complete certain proofs.

No reply has been yet received from Sir Francis Lemieux to the invitation extended to him by Acting Chief Justic Martin to preside once more at the trial, according to information given by Mr. Justice Martin yesterday. It is thought that Sir Francis would probably consent to undertake the trial in the event of its proving very difficult to have it handled by anyone else.

Much New Evidence.

Sir Francis is considered the best choice as having already investigated the vast mass of evidence involved. The defence might, however, object that the new evidence would be by no means identical with that at the first trial and therefore Sir Francis might not approach it with an open mind with the recollection of the first trial still fresh in his memory. It is known that a good deal of new evidence will be adduced on both sides, while much of the evidence which proved of least effect at the last trial, will be considerably abridged

It is felt here in various quarters that the doubtful element in the case is the attitude of Gustave Monette and that section of the case hinges on the interdiction and that the curatorship of Adelarde Tetreault, the priest's brother-in-law. When Mr. Monette's petition as to the priest's sanity was ruled out by Acting Chief Justice Martin in the preliminary stages of the last trial, it was made clear that the plea of insanity could be brought in at any time until a verdict had been rendered. Since then all attempts have failed to obtain from Mr. Monette any indication as to when or how he purposed throwing his influence into the matter again.

CEREMONIAL MARKS START OF NEW T.E.R.

New Electric Line Will Connect Bowmanville With Toronto.

WHITBY, Ont., November 1st.—In the presence of members of the municipal council, prominent citizens and railway officials, Mayor Bassett of Whitby yesterday afternoon officially drove the first spike in the laying of the rails on the Toronto Eastern Railway from Whitby to Pickering.

The event formally marks the active construction of an electric railway which will operate from Bowmanville to Toronto. This road was started previous to the war by the old Canadian Northern and tracks pleted from Whitby to Pickering, but the rails on the latter part were not laid. Construction was discontinued in 1914. Then the Hydro secured an option on the line and proposed to finish it as a Hydro radial for the municipalities, but this project did not materialize, and last December Sir Henry Thornton, president of the National Railway System, announced that he would have the road completed, and put in operation as an electric railway.

This policy is now being carried out, and yesterday the ceremony was functioned by the head of the town. Quite a large number of people were present to participate in the ceremony, several having motored down from Toronto.

Shoots Wolf of Boyhood Dreams

SUDBURY, Ont., Nov. 1.—(Canadian Press)—When Dr. P. C. Hartfort, now a prominent physician of Cincinnati, Ohio, was a boy he heard tales of wolves, and it became his life ambition to shoot one. For ten years he had come to Northern Ontario every Fall to shoot his wolf and for nine of those years he went back without even seeing one.

This year with Dr. Miles and Wm. Dunn of Salem, Ohio, he camped on Lake Metagamazine north of Wahnapitae and last Thursday he saw and shot his wolf. The party got no Moose but killing of wolf was enough for all to be joyful as they passed through Sudbury last night enroute home.

Of course wolf went along and it will be properly mounted, it is rather unusual to find wolves so close to settlements at this time of year.

GRAIN SHIPMENTS CLOSE TO RECEIPTS

Movement In and Out of Fort William Is Almost Balanced.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., November 1 (Canadian Press). — Shipments of grain are now coming nearer to balancing the receipts than at any previous time this season, sixteen boats having taken out yesterday 2,444,000 bushels of grain, nine of the cargoes being consigned to Buffalo.

Boats representing American lines which have not been sending to the Canadian head of the Lakes before this season are now showing up at this port, and the rates both to Buffalo and to Bay ports are lower, the prevailing charter rate to Buffalo for November being 5 cents and to Bay ports 4 cents.

Five vessels, two of them American, were loading grain last evening, and thirteen are reported as due light for grain.

While it is reported that inspections in the West are lighter, yesterday the Canadian National Railway here unloaded over 1,100 cars, which constitutes their record number for the season.

ENGLISH TONGUE COMMANDS PEACE

Lloyd George Says the English-Speaking Peoples Can Save Civilization.

SCRANTON, Pa., November 1 (Canadian Press). — The English-speaking peoples of this earth "can save civilisation from doom," Right Hon. David Lloyd-George, the war-time Premier of Great Britain, declared in an address here yesterday before a great audience in the State Armoury

"Do you think I am using violent words?" he asked "If you do, go to Europe, go to see Europe, to see conditions, the fear of some impending terror

"And if the blow falls, it will be such a war as humanity has never conceived."

The people of the United States and Great Britain, in acting together to ensure order in the world, he asserted, need enter into no formal agreement to that end.

"Not by alliances, but by understanding," he said. "Not by contracts, but by co-operation. I am as opposed to entangling alliances as any man in this Republic or in our realm. The two peoples standing together to bring order out of chaos that will achieve the end. Mankind will be saved and peace shall reign for ever and for ever."

Speaking especially to the many Welshmen in the audience, Mr. Lloyd-George said that it filled him with pride to hear that everywhere in this country they are good citizens, Britain was sorry to lose them, he added, but was glad they meant much to their new country.

Lloyd-George returned to New York last night, the last stop of his triumphal tour of cities in Canada and the United States.

His train from Scranton, Pa., reached Hoboken at 7.45 o'clock.

A good-sized crowd welcomed the little Welshman, while a corps of Hoboken police guarded the railway station.

PROPOSE FUND OF ONE MILLION FOR RESEARCH

Dr. Banting Says Plans Are Already Under Way — Two Years Ago Had No Patients.

HELP YOUNG MEN.

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 1.—(Canadian Press)—Dr. F. G. Banting, discoverer of Insulin, announced here yesterday at a luncheon given in his honor by the Canadian Club and Chamber of Commerce that through the efforts of John W. Rogers and Edward L. Farnum plans were already underway to establish a scientific re-search fund for the encouragement of young men. It is proposed under the scheme outlined by these men to raise $1,000,000 for the purpose and it will be national in its scope. The resources of this fund will be available to any man, regardless of degree or university connections and a committeee to be named later shall decide whether the idea submitted is worthy of research. If the decision is favorable then it will be carried to completion. No one shall be prevented from participating in the benefits from lack of university connections or degree.

Plans Under Way

Incidentally he also stated that the money to be thus raised is not to be expended in bricks and mortar, but in the actual research and scientific study necessary to bring a discovery to a successful conclusion. Plans, he said, are already underway for the establishing of the proposed fund.

Dr. Banting said that his first idea of Insulin came to him while he was practicing here two years ago.

"Two years ago I came to London to practice medicine," he continued. "I knew no one, and after a military and civil life I found things very strange. For the first 28 days of my practice I was alarmed to find that I had not received a single call from a sick person. Much time was certainly not being directed towards the care of the sick."

Recorded His Studies.

Three years ago yesterday, the doctor said, he had written down his idea in a little black book which he had always kept for putting down the results of his numerous medical research studies. He then told Prof. Miller of his discovery and later interviewed Prof. Crane and Prof. McKibben at the Medical School with a view to conducting further research.

It was then, however, that he discovered that facilities available here at that time would not permit of a through investigation and test that would be entirely free from encumberances of a universityl. Dr. Banting said that he then went to his Alma Mater, the Toronto University, and it was there that he got started on the experiments that eventually brought success.

BRITAIN OPPOSED TO GERMANY'S PARTITION

Cannot Recognize Independent Rhineland Republic—Contrary to the Treaty of Versailles — Would Leave No Central Government.

FRENCH IN FAVOR.

LONDON, Nov 1.—(Canadian Press)—By notes delivered to the French and Belgian Governments yesterday, the British Government puts into formal form the announcement made by Premier Baldwin that the Government cannot view with equanimity the creation of separate states in Germany or the dismemberment of that country. The notes declare that Great Britain cannot recognize an independent Rhineland republic, de facto or de jure, because such a republic is contrary to the Treaty of Versailles.

No Central Government.

British action in this respect is inspired in the first place by the realization that the disintegration of Germany would leave no central government which could be held responsible under the Versailles Treaty, and in the second place, by the fact that recognition of the Rhineland republic would cause endless embarrassment to the British Government in the Cologne zone, where the British troops might become involved in the delicate task of keeping order among the contending German factions.

While British troops are kept on the Rhine—and many voices here recently have advocated their withdrawal—the Government is obliged to exercise every care to avoid embarrassing complications.

Discordant Element.

It is argued in London that it might happen that the inhabitants of the Cologne district would prefer to remain loyal to the Reich, even if a Rhineland republic were established, and since much evidence has been forthcoming to prove that the French Government favors the creation of such a republic, this would bring the British Government into direct conflict with France at a time when, in view of the coming in of the United States to another reparations conference, it is more than ever necessary that nothing should happen to disturb the already somewhat strained relations between Great Britain and France.

BELIEVE GOVERNMENTS IN FULL AGREEMENT

PARIS, Nov. 1.— (Canadian Press)—The British Government, through its Ambassador, the Marquis of Crewe, has sent two communications to the French Foreign Office, which were received there as in happy accord with the conciliatory suirit shown by France in recent intercourse between the two countries.

The first note drew the French Foreign Office's attention to the juridical consequences which might be entailed by the seperation of Germany from certain provinces, in that such provinces were not signatories of the Treaty of Versailles and so would not directly have assumed obligations laid upon the Reich by this treaty.

It has been reported that the note contained various statements, including criticism of certain measures taken by the French and Belgians in the zones of occupation, but it can be said that the note is limited to the above declaration, based on the Treaty of Versailles. An identic communication was made to the Belgian Government.

Invite United States.

The second note contained a proposal to the French Government to send a point British, Italian, French and Belgian invitation to the United States to be represented on the committee of experts which will be charged with the task of making an economic investigation into Germany's capacity for the payment of reparations and the means Germany possesses to fulfill her obligations.

The joint invitation will express thanks to the United States for its collaboration and beg the government to appoint delegates through its observer on the Reparations Commission. Thus, it can be seen that the British note neither raises objections nor asks the French government to specify its intentions, as has been reported from London.

Premier Poincare did not have time yesterday to draft replies, but as apparently not the slightest difference exists between the two Governments on the two subjects treated therein thre is no doubt of the nature of the replies.

Disclaim Responsibility.

With regard to the Separatist movement the French Government's view is is that no responsibility can be placed on it or the Belgian Government as both have adhered to the principle of letting the populations concerned act according to their own will. The French Government is highly pleased at the participation of a delegate from the United States on the experts' commission, but a semi-official statement issued last night says it will probably demand certain modifications, notably, that the proposed investigation will have to do with Germany's capacity at the present moment, and France fully reserves the rights the Reparation Commission holds under the Treaty of Versailles.

The Belgian Government is expected to support the demand of these modifications, and perhaps also the Italian Government will do likewise.

EXTEND LIMIT FOR SEARCHING RUM SUSPECTS

Britain and United States Practically Settle Question as Ambassadors Change.

TWELVE-MILE ZONE.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The rum-running issues between the United States and British Governments, which the United States Ambassador, George Harvey in his conferences with British officials repeatedly characterized as a dangerous menace to the existing good relations of the two governments, has been practically settled.

On the occasion of his formal fare well visit to the Foreign Office, the retiring envoy and Foreign Secretary Curzon gave final consideration to the terms of a draft treaty which it is believed will clear up the whole question. The treaty is understood to meet the United States desire for the right to search suspected rum-running vessels beyond the three mile limit but at the same time the United States gives to Great Britain formal affirmation of the three-mile limit as governing British maritime rights generally. It would also allow British ships to carry liquor into United States terriorial waters under seal, thus enabling liners under the Union Jack to maintain bars en route to and after departing from United States ports.

Referred to Premiers

From the British side it only remains for the Imperial Conference of Premiers to place its approval on a document embracing the points of agreement. It was expected this would be done to-day, but as the document had not been completed it was postponed until Friday, after which the draft will go to the United States for ratification by the United States Senate.

At the request of the British the rights of the United States authorities to detain British vessels suspected of rum-running will not be confined strictly to twelve miles from shore or any other arbitrary limit but will probably embrace the distance covered by the broad term: "An hours sailing distance from the United States shore," which is reckoned roughly at from ten to fifteen miles. Thus, a "twelve mile limit" will not be mentioned in the treaty, and the Foreign Office cannot be charged with surrendering its traditional principal regarding the limitation of territorial waters.

In this connection the British attach much importance to formal recognition of the three-mile limit in questions of general maritime rights as being likely to be invaluable to them. Only recently Soviet Russia agitated for the establishment of a twelve-mile limit for all maritime purposes but with the United States Governmen supporting the British stand, it is expected the principle

Melbourne Cops Won by Striking

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 1.—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuters)—The entire night police force of Melbourne have struck owing to the refusal of the commissioner of police to remove the senior officer of the police supervisors who is nicknamed "Spooks" and is accused of adopting spying methods.

The police resumed after three hours' idleness, the commissioner agreeing to withdraw the supervisor until the authorities could further consider the matter.

FINED FOR SALE OF NARCOTICS

Ottawa Doctor Faces Four Similar Charges.

OTTAWA, November 1. — Dr. Gordon Booth, convicted by Magistrate Hopewell, in the police court yesterday, of supplying and selling narcotic drugs to a person other than a patient requiring them, received the minimum penalty of a fine of $200, the penalties provided by the statute being a fine of from $200 to $1000 or imprisonment for a term up to 18 months, or both fine and imprisonment.

Four other charges of the same nature are recorded against Dr.Booth and will be prosecuted on Monday afternoon.

The case on which Dr. Booth was convicted was taken by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who employed on his release from jail about three months ago a former drug addict, Leo Riddell, to visit the physicians and apply for drugs on the plea that he was a user of them.

Dr. Booth admitted supplying the morphia, but contended that he did so in temporary treatment of a patient in need of it until the patient was able to undertake treatment for the cure of his habit.

New Lamp Burns 94% Air

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U.S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, F. S. Johnson, 246 Craig Street, W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

SCHELL PLACED UNDER ARREST FOR SHOOTING

Is Now With Murder For Death of George MacNeil at Silver Lake In Galway.

WERE HUNTING.

John Schell of Galway Township has been arrested and is being held in Bobcaygeon on a charge of murder in connection with the death of George W. MacNeil, farmer, of Silver Lake. MacNeil was previously reported accidentally shot, but investigation by Provincial Constables Davis of Peterborough and Storey of Lindsay led to the arrest of Schell.

The two men were on a hunting trip 23 miles north of Bobcaygeon, living in a hunting shack there. The shooting took place on or about October 28, and the body, brought to Peterbrough yesterday evening, is said to have 4 bullet wounds from a .44 calibre gun. An inquest will be held tonight, and Provincial Constable Davis will bring Schell to the city today.

On their way to the shack, it is said, the men went 12 miles in a car, 5 miles in a truck and walked about 6 miles through the woods to the shack, where they were said to be alone at the time of the shooting. Both men were between 50 and 60 years of age.

LABOR IN THE OFFING.

Although the municipal elections are only two months away, there have been no announcement yet of any hats in the ring of civic politics, although gossip of the likely candidature of more than one Alderman in the Mayoralty race has been mooted.

The most interesting development so far is the intimation that Labour may be represented not only in the Mayoralty race, but with a slate of candidates for the Council and possibly other positions.

The revival on a large scale of a Labour attempt to dominate the local municipal arena while not welcome to those who regard class politics as an unhealthy symptoms, would nevertheless add to the interest in the campaign, stir up more electors to concern themselves with civic affairs and possibly shake the city out of the lethargy into which it has fallen insofar as interest in the management of the city's business is concerned.

It cannot denied that an alarm clock of some kind is needed to arouse a large percentage of the electors to a realization of the fact that they are shareholders in Peterborough, and that it is absolutely necessary for them if they want to protect their investment to take some part in deciding the personnel of the Board of Directors.

Judging from past experience, the re-entrance of Labour into the municipal campaign would prove a very serviceable Big Ben.

A DELICATE TASK.

The members of the Belleville City Council played a rather mean joke on three of the Aldermen when they named them as a committee to select the prettiest girl in Belleville to represent the Bay of Quinte city in a beauty contest to be held in Toronto.

With an election in the offing, it looks as if the committee took their political life in their hands when they accepted the mandate thrust upon them by their colleagues.

The trouble will not be in selecting the most beautiful girl—although here, the Port Hope Guide may be expected to point out, that the species does not exist in Belleville—but rather in convincing all the other maidens in the city of the justice of the award.

When it is remembered that mirrors have not been able to do this, although the girls have been gazing into them all their lives, the difficulty confronting Belleville's Aldermanic Committee on feminine Beauty can readily be estimated.

Election day is drawing near; every girl that is not chosen means the loss of a certain number of votes, and the gratitude of the winner and her friends will not begin to make up for the losses in other quarters.

The committee deserve credit for their courage in attempting this second judgment of Paris.

THE TAX ON INSULIN.

In the difference of opinion that has arisen between the Federal and Provincial Governments over the question of the exemption of insulin from the operation of the Sales Tax, the Ferguson administration appears in the best light in protesting against the taxing of Dr. Banting's treatment for diabetes.

The Federal authorities take the position that insulin must be taxed in common with other commodities.

The Ontario Premier, on the other hand, points out that insulin has never been commercialized, but has been manufactured at the Connaught Laboraties for free distribution to those who cannot afford to pay for it and at cost to those who can.

No attempt has been made to sell insulin for profit. It is distributed at cost for the relief of the sick, while the Province itself has seen to it that provision was made to help those who were financially unable to pay for relief even at cost.

Seeing that it is estimated that the Ontario Government will spend a half million dollars this year in this free distribution, the protest against the imposition of the Sales Tax on insulin seems to be entirely justified.

There will be general agreement, too, with Hon. Mr. Ferguson's view that a discovery of this nature should not be looked upon as offering a chance to make money, but rather should be made as readily available as possible for the use of those whom it will benefit.

CHASING AN OLD BOGEY.

The construction of a big store for Henry Morgan & Co, Limited, and of the Mount Royal Hotel, the work on which was carried through the winter months without any interruption, is used by the Montreal Gazette as a proof that there is no necessity of curtailing building operations during the cold weather.

This is a development that should be of great interest.

If it is true, as the Gazette claims, that the old bogey of idle months each year for the building trades has been chased away, it means a great deal to the contracting firms and their employees.

In the case of these two Montreal buildings it is a fact that construction was carried on all winter, including extensive operations in the pouring of concrete, a process hitherto not considered advisable at low temperature. In the Morgan building only a fraction of one day was lost all winter, while in the Mount Royal building the year before concrete pouring and the erection of steel went on without cessation in spite of extreme cold and heavy snowfalls.

The contractors state that the loss of time was no greater than might be caused in summer by heavy rains or severe electrical storms.

Here is how the Gazette sums it up.

"No longer is there need for the period of enforced idleness in the cold months which has been a source of loss to several of the most important and numerous branches of the building trades. Given a sane and reasonable attitude on the part of the labor unions as to wages and working conditions, there is no reason henceforth why structural workers should not enjoy the pursuit of a comfortable livelihood for twelve months in the year, uninterrupted by either the vagaries of nature or man-made difficulties."

IF SPINDLES COULD TALK.

If cotton spindles could talk, what an interesting story they would have to tell, says Barron's. Addressing themselves to the labor leaders who profess to hate capital and machinery and teach that the welfare of the working man demands standardization of effort, limitation of hours and of output, they could so easily refute these arguments as to be easily understood by the dullest minds. In the one month of September this year the cotton spindles in the United States gave to labor 7,482,060,095 hours of work. They also consumed 482,852 bales of cotton for which it was necessary to cultivate about 1,500,000 acres of land. In Massachusetts alone the cotton-spinning industry in September gave wage earners 1,616,973,434 hours of employment. A great deal of labor depends upon those spindles for its daily bread.

But labor did not install a single spindle. Brains, making use of capital, put them in place and now keeps them in operation. Time was when the distaff and spinning wheel were the only means of making yarn for clothing, which was essentially a cottage or home industry. It gave little or nothing to labor outside of the family. But in 1790 a New England society brought a young man from England where power spinning of cotton had begun. He could not bring drawings or models, but the idea was in his brain, and from memory he constructed the machines which New England capital financed.

By 1805 there were as many as 4,500 spindles in operation in this country. In 1830 they had increased to 1,200,000 and consumed what seemed the large amount of 14,000 bales of cotton. Thirty years later there were 5,200,000 of these spindles consuming the production of the South and giving employment where before there had been none. As output increased it became cheaper and thus met with a wider use so that a constantly increasing demand was the result of increased activity and greater output.

Labor has not lost by changing from the hand-spinning wheel to the power machine. Today that industry in the United States represents about 37,500,000 active spindles, and the number is being increased all the while. Last year they consumed over 6,600,000 bales of lint cotton, which would require the cultivation of over 20,000,000 acres of land. The production of this cotton, its transportation, spinning and weaving, call for great quantities of food, fuel and other materials from different parts of the country. It has built up cities like New Bedford, Fall River, Lowell and Manchester and gives constant employment to an army of wage earners.

All this is because two men in England invented machines for spinning cotton, another applied steam power, and capital and brains in New England planted the industry here.

THE FRENCH REPLY.

Poincare's Sampigny speech—like his official communique—merely underlines the significant parts of the first indications that came from Paris of a limited acceptance of the Anglo-American offer. The position of Poincare is perfectly plain. He does not think that another board of experts to enquire into Germany's capacity to pay is at all necessary. The Reparations Commission already has its retinue of experts. They are constantly enquiring and reporting. But if American sympathy and co-operation is to be purchased by permitting another lot of experts to "expert," under the firm and guiding hand of the Reparations Commission, why, Poincare is not the man to stand in the way.

But he lays down certain immutable limitations to their powers. They cannot reduce the German debt to France by even a depreciated pfennig. They cannot lessen or set aside the complete authority of the Reparations Commission. Even that commission cannot forgive Germany a paper mark of her indebtedness. This can only be done by the unanimous vote of the Allied and Associated Governments, which vests a final veto in France. In two words, the German debt cannot be reduced under the Versailles Treaty unless France agrees.

It is impossible to read a very warm welcome into this document or into the paragraphs of the Sampigny speech. The French Premier indicates that he is pretty well at the end of his patience. He is in much the same position toward American intervention that some were when they went into the war—that is, he wants to know "what has detained you." They ought, in his opinion, to have been in Europe right along enforcing the Versailles Treaty—which, by the way, they never accepted.

This attitude of mind totally ignores the American viewpoint, which is never a very profitable thing to do when it is precisely American help that is wanted. But if the proposed American help, like the frequently proffered British intervention, is based largely and sanely upon the knowledge that American and British interests are being gravely imperilled by the condition of things in Central Europe, then there is nothing in the Poincare attitude to prevent that help from being given.

Poincare does not say "No." He only says that the suggested conference of experts shall not be empowered to do certain things—not one of which did Secretary Hughes ask that it should be empowered to do. Secretary Hughes never so much as suggested that these experts should have power to reduce the German debt. In fact, he most specifically refused to permit them to have any such power. He said in his second restriction on his acceptance of the British proposal that "such conference should be advisory." That is, it is to have no binding or executive powers at all.

All of Poincare's downright denials of power to this proposed conference—though they read like re-buffs—really miss the mark entirely. Secretary Hughes—in the vivacious language of his own people—"beat him to it." The result is that the Hughes proposals and the Poincare reservations do not collide. They are ships that pass in the night.

The outcome of it all is that Hughes offers "advice" and Poincare says that this is exactly what he will take—and all that he will take.—Montreal Star.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, November 1. — Trading brightened up a little in the late trading at the Union Stock Yards on Tuesday and 2,018 cattle were sold for the day, but the bulk of the sales consisted of stockers and common butchers. With Tuesday's left-overs and yesterday's run there were a few over 2,500 cattle on sale yesterday.

Receipts yesterday morning were 641 cattle, 250 calves, 2,123 hogs and 2,801 sheep and lambs.

Business was by no means brisk yesterday morning, but salesmen were optimistic that prevailing low prices would attract buyers and that most of the offerings would find a market before to-night.

Exporters were willing to take a few more for the week, but none came in yesterday. They are taking a few more bulls from 4 to 4 1-2 cents. For the two days they secured 700 steers, 30 bulls, and about 20 short keeps. The latter cost $5.00 to $5.90 a cwt. The export trade has not been very remunerative, and one shipment from the West lost the shippers £50. The end of the long-shoremen's strike in Ireland is expected to flood the English market temporarily with cattle.

Cows are in better demand and buyers said the asked prices were a dollar a cwt. above last week, but the commission men denied this.

Good useful butchers' cows are about 3 1-2 cents, but choice heifer cows are selling up to 5 cents a pound.

The market was almost bare yesterday of any really good butchers' heifers or steers, and the best of the handyweights did not go above 6 cents. Good medium killers realised around 5 cents and common butchers sold from 3 to 4 cents a pound.

There was no change in the calf market yesterday. Good to choice vealers are holding firm, but heavy calves and grassers are slow. The top paid yesterday morning was 11 1-2 cents.

Lambs were held firmer yesterday morning, and for one choice load of black-faced lambs of nice weights 12 1-2 cents was asked. Buyers were not prepared to pay more than Tuesday's market, and the quotation stood at 11 1-2 to 12 cents for the good lambs. Sheep are steady at the decline of about half a dollar a cwt.

Most of Tuesday's hogs went at $8.50 a cwt. f.o.b., and this was yesterday's price, although the runs are increasing somewhat.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, November 1 (Canadian Press). — Active buying, in which houses with Eastern connections took the lead, had much to do with a material advance yesterday in the wheat market here. The buying was based more or less on a widely circulated bullish opinion as to the general business conditions.

Wheat closed firm 1c to 1 3-4c net higher: December $1.07 1-2 to $1.07 5-8, and May $1.12 1-4.

Corn showed 3-8c to 1 1-2c to 1 5-8c gain, and oats 1-4c to 1-2c to 5-8c.

In provisions the outcome was unchanged to 20c lower.

From the outset wheat displayed a decided upward tendency that many traders connected with developments in the New York Stock Market, notably an increase in the dividend on United States Steel common. The greater part of the wheat market advance, however, came after a bullish statement was issued by a Stock Exchange speculator who at various times has operated on a big scale in the wheat pit.

The purchasing which accompanied the advance in wheat was especially effective because of the absence of any aggressive selling, and because of higher quotations at Liverpool.

Possibility that railroad freight rates on export grain might be cut and chances of an unward revision of the American tariff on wheat imports also were given some notice as bullish factors in wheat. Besides, word that the American Society of Friends would feed 2,000,000 German children this winter was to some extent an element in turning sentiment against the bear side, as were reduced estimates of the 1923 wheat yield in Minnesota, the Dakotas, and Montana.

Corn and oats ascended in sympathy with wheat, and as a result of disappointing husking returns and of predictions that corn receipts would soon lessen in volume.

Liberal deliveries of lard on October contracts weakened the provision market.

SHIPPING IS BELOW PRE-WAR TONNAGE

LONDON, Nov. 1.—(Associated Press).—Shipbuilding in Great Britain and Ireland again shows a decrease for the quarter ended September 30, the tonnage under construction being 1,271,195 tons or 67,000 tons less than in the previous quarter, according to Lloyds Register of Shipbuilding Returns. Making allowance for work which has been suspended for some time, amounting to 242,000 tons, the tonnage actually under construction is only 1,029,000 tons, the lowest recorded in 14 years. Tonnage launched during the quarter was 66,474, compared with 239,373 in the previous quarter, and work commenced is given as 29 vessels of 111,860 tons against 77 vessels in 241,283 tons in the June quarter.

Merchant tonnage building abroad is given as 1,106,502 tons, of which Germany and Danzig are building 345,985 tons, United States 99,383, France 142,660, Holland 104,491 and Italy 145,423 tons.

The total world tonnage actually under construction was 2,052,000 tons at the end of September which is 1,394,000 tons below the highest pre-war record of June, 1913.

There are 28 steamers and motor vessels with a total tonnage of 178,590 tons being constructed for the carrying of oil in bulk. The continued development of internal combustion engines is shown by the fact that 24¼ per cent. of the tonnage under construction in the world will be fitted with this system of propulsion.

"DAMAGED SOULS."

New York is Producing New Kind of Creatures, Says Minister.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—New York is becoming a city of "damaged souls," the Rev. John Haynes Holmes told his audience in the Community Church at Park avenue and East Thirty-fourth street, he declared.

"We are growing a new kind of human creature here in New York City. The subways in which we fight and struggle, the streets in which we dodge automobiles, the little cubby-holes or caves in which we live, the dirt, the noises, the lack of privacy, all are combining to make us something different from what human beings have ever been before."

If you don't want to associate with your enemies in the next world do whats' right in this one.

While riches do not bring us happiness they do bring us coal.

MARMORA LEAGUE HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Jolly Time By the Young People of the Methodist Church.

MARMORA, Nov. 1.—Tuesday night a Hallowe'en party at the parsonage took the place of the regular league meeting of the young people of the Methodist Church. All kinds of games were played by young and old alike. Several contests were answered and lunch was served. The young people turned out in good numbers and all had a jolly time. The most interesting feature, however, was the witches' room where a witch and a ghost told the fortunes of those who entered.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Simmons of Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. John Simmons of Campbellford spent Sunday at the home of Mr. S. Simmons.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Osborne and family of Belleville spent the week-end with Mr. Osborne's mother, Mrs. Frank Osborne.

¶ Thanksgiving!

¶ To the boys it spells a thud of a toe meeting the old football.

¶ Sister links the day up with a new late autumn costume, or a fashionable fur or a new winter hat, or that heavy sweater all the girls are wearing.

¶ Brother trots out the new ulster and is quick to enjoy its warmth as the sun falls lower on the bleachers.

¶ Father has his mind on the house, the winter supplies of fuel and vegetables, the furnishings and repairs.

¶ Mother thinks about the Thanksgiving bird and its surrounding retinue of good things to eat and drink. Her hour comes when the pleasure seekers come trooping home.

¶ In fact, all the family have a hundred desires to gratify as the day of Thanksgiving rolls nearer.

¶ To everyone at home the newspaper should be a constant guide and reliable friend.

BRIDE AND GROOM ALONE REMAIN OF NUPTIAL PARTY OF FIFTY YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Marrin of Marmora Celebrated the Golden Jubilee of Their Wedding.

MARMORA, Nov. 1.—On Monday, Oct. 29, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Marrin celebrated the golden jubilee of their marriage at their home here. Mr. Marrin's parents came out from Ireland nearly 100 years ago and settled in Madoc Township on the old homestead just east of Madoc Village, about 1845. His parents' names were Mr. Francis Marrin and Miss Elizabeth Howe. Mr. Marrin was born in Madoc in 1846 and helped his father to clear the farm. Mrs. Marrin's parents, Mr. Thomas Mulroney and Miss Anna Carrigan, came from Ireland about the same time as did Mr. Marrin's parents, and settled in Hungerford Township. Mrs. Marrin was born in 1845. The couple were married on October 28, 1873, in Stoco by Rev. Father Davis. The groom was attended by Mr. Frank Collins and Mr. Francis Marrin, his brother, and the bride by her sister, Miss Theresa Mulroney, and the groom's sister, Miss Rebecca Marrin. They have all predeceased them. The marriage was blessed with four children, all living. They are: Mrs. T. P. Hogan of Windsor, Mr. James P. Marrin, druggist of town; Mr. Thomas D. Marrin, who lives on the old homestead, east of Madoc Village, and Mrs. George Walsh, also of Madoc.

There are fifteen grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Guests and relatives to the number of twenty-seven were present. The couple were presented with a purse of gold from the family and many other beautiful presents in gold from the guests. Mr. and Mrs. Marrin are to be congratulated at this important occasion of their lives.

Marmora Personals.

Mr. Leslie Rundle was welcome back to town last Saturday evening after a long visit to England and then to the West.

JOLLY EVENING SPENT AT HALLOWE'EN PARTY IN NORWOOD VILLAGE

Y.W.A. and Guild of St. Andrews Church Held a Successful Affair—Local Free Masons at Church.

Social and Personal.

NORWOOD, Nov. 1.—The Y.W.A. and Guild of St. Andrew's Church held a very successful Hallowe'en party in the basement of the church on Monday evening. The room was very suitably decorated for the occasion and ghosts and witches were everywhere in evidence. The program consisted of an art contest, in which Mr. E. McConnell and Miss Stella Burgess were winners, with Mr. N. Small and Miss L. Starke second. A solo was rendered by Master Wilson Riseborough and instrumental numbers were given by Miss Rhoda Frost, Mrs. J. Rogers and Mr. D. Bongard. Recitations were contributed by Miss S. Burgess and Miss M. Bertrand. A pantomime song, "Little Witches," was presented by eight girls dressed as witches, the solo part being sung by Miss N. MacNaughton.

In the witches' cave fortunes were told by a witch who had an exceedingly long nose and chin.

After the program refreshments were served by the young people.

The proceeds amounted to about $18.00.

Masonic Service.

Norwood Lodge, A.F. & A.M., attended divine worship in the Anglican Church on Sunday afternoon when Rev. Dr. Blagrave, Grand Chaplain of Peterborough, delivered a very helpful and interesting address. Members of the craft from Havelock, Hastings, Roseneath, Warkworth and Campbellford worshipped with their local brethren.

Funeral Notice.

The funeral of the late Chas. I. Puffer will be held on this Thursday afternoon from the family residence. Service at the house at 2 o'clock. Place of interment, the Norwood Cemetery.

Miss Bertha Drenell of Ottawa is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Harry Goden.

Mrs. R. G. Lawlor was in Peterborough on Tuesday.

Mr. Lornie Abraham was in Peterborough on Saturday.

LAW'S FUNERAL NEXT MONDAY

Former Premier Will Be Given Burial in Westminster Abbey.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Former Premier Andrew Bonar Law will be laid at rest in Westminster Abbey next Monday amid the solemn splendour of a public funeral service which will be attended by a vast gathering of friends of all political shades, members of the nobility, Government officials and diplomats.

The presence of all the Dominion Prime Ministers in London will make the gathering representative of the whole Empire, while Premier Baldwin at the head of a large group of ministers and former ministers, the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of London, and diplomats of all nations will be in their places to represent the political, religious and diplomatic circles of life with which the late Premier came into contact. Representatives of the King and Queen and other royalties will be among the prominent figures there to give requiem honours.

Seats for some two thousand persons will be arranged, but they will provide for but a fraction of those requesting admission, and the public will be allowed only a small number of tickets, as the personal friends will command many hundreds

Starts At Noon.

The service will start at noon, and the coffin will be received by the minor canons at the side door of the Abbey and escorted to a place before the altar. The Dean of Westminster and probably the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of London will officiate. Only a few words will be spoken by the Dean after the service; then the coffin will be carried, followed by a group of the Empire's most distinguished personages, to a spot in the Abbey, yet to be designated, where the body will be laid in its final honored resting place.

The hymns to be sung at the service will be chosen by Mr. Bonar Law's family from among his favoritse and will be rendered by the choirs of the Abbey and the Chapel Royal of St. James' Palace.

The Abbey authorities who are to seelct the place where the body will rest are understood to be considering the nave and the northern transept. The former location would mean that the former Prime Minister would lie near the Unknown Warrior, while in the northern transept he would be placed alongside Gladstone, the political opponent of earlier days.

The honor of burial among the resting places of the Empire's greatest men is so rare in the case of contemporary statesmen that no one has been accorded it since Gladstone was buried there twenty years ago. The modesty of Mr. Bonar Law during his career tempted the family at first to refuse the signal honor, but a personal visit from the Dean of Westminster and the urgings of many friends prevailed.

SOCIALISTS HAVE DRAFTED DEMANDS

Conditions Upon Which Their Support to Government May Continue.

BERLIN, November 1 (Canadian Press). — After a party caucus lasting several hours the United Socialists' Reichstag delegation last night drafted a programme of demands, upon which it makes contingent its further membership in the present Coalition Government.

While the nature of its communication to Chancellor Stresemann suggests a twenty-four ultimatum, the Reichstag leaders believe that its tenor and contents are wholly dictated by the desire of the party's moderate leaders to appease its clamorous radical wing, which has been endeavouring to stampede the party into defection from the Coalition.

The Socialist ministers, Sollmann, Radbruch, and Schmidt, whose withdrawal from the Cabinet was under advisement at yesterday's caucus, informed their comrades that the Government action against Saxony had not been referred to the Cabinet, but was determined and put into execution by the Federal Government's military commander in Dresden, General von Mueller, and the Reich Commissioner, Dr. Heinze.

The Party's moderate wing succeeded in winning over the radical wing to support of the anti-secession movement, in view of the general internal situation and the further fact that the new Saxon Government require daid from Berlin which would not be forthcoming if the Socialists were out of the Government.

A Severe Attack Of Heart Trouble Was Relieved By MILBURN'S Heart and Nerve Pills

Mr. S. E. Barnes, Athens, Ont., writes:—"Four years ago I had a very severe attack of heart trouble. I consulted my doctor; he treated me for some time, but I only seemed to be getting worse. I finally went to our druggist and purchased three boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and derived immediate relief from their use, and I can truthfully say they are a wonderful medicine. I always keep a box on hand, and if I feel out of sorts I take a few pills and feel all right again."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Newcastle Consulate

Mr. Harvey's farewell conference with Lord Curzon also disposed of the only other unsettled question which has arisen since his arrival—that of Newcastle Consulate. It is believed that an equitable settlement is possible and that the Consulate, which was closed on February 2, last will be re-opened within a fort night. The consular officials involved will be persona grata with the British Government, but having departed for new posts, will not return to Newcastle.

With the settlement of the rum-running and Nawcastle issues, Mr. Harvey leaves London with no problems left over for his successor who as the Ambassador said to-day, is likely to have troubles enough of his own.

Lunched with King

Mr. Harvey and his wife had luncheon at Buckingham Palace yesterday, after which the King and Queen presented them with a farewell gift. After luncheon Mr. Harvey had the opportunity to present the name of Frank B. Kellogg who has been appointed to succeed him, in a more informal manner than is usual and was assured by Their Majesties that the former Senator would have a most cordial reception at the Court of St. James.

It is reported that Mr. Kellogg is sailing for London on November 11, bu Ambassador Harvey hopes to be able to confere with him in the United States before he starts, and yesterday cabled hm asking the date of his departure.

Senatorial Tradition

Commenting on the possibility of senatorial objection to Mr. Kellogg, which has been reported here, Mr. Harvey said he once described the Senate as a self-appreciative body, and that it must be remembered that it was an inviolable tradition that the name of anybody who ever sat in the Senate never failed to confirm ation by the Senate for any appointment. Mr. Harvey added that some of the newly elected western senators were probably unaware of this tradition but that they would soon come to appreciate the general senatorial opinion that anybody who had ever sat in their midst was preeminently qualified to fill any position within the President's appointmental power.

The Harveys, with their granddaughter Dorothy Thompson, are leaving London Friday afternoon, sailing on the Aquitania for New York Saturday.

COARSENED.. before you noticed it!

The women who must keep their skin young know how to combat the insidious everyday exposure that attacks their faces

The air—hot or cold, moist or dry, carrying country dust, or city soot—is working slowly on the texture of every woman's skin. One day you may realize suddenly that something horrible has happened to your skin. It has grown thicker, duller—old and coarsened long before it should. Why didn't you give your face the two things it needed to keep it fresh and young?

Two essentials

The actress and the society woman who tax their faces extremely and yet have lovely complexions, have had to learn the right way to care for their skin. Night and day they keep it supple and fresh with this famous method of two entirely different creams based on the two essentials a skin must have to remain beautiful and fine.

TRY THIS FAMOUS METHOD

Every night. With the finger tips apply Pond's Cold Cream freely. The very fine oil in it is able to penetrate every pore. Let it stay on a minute—now wipe it off with a soft cloth. Do this twice. It not only cleanses exquisitely, but restores each time your skin's essential suppleness. This nightly freshening is essential for skin fineness.

Then in the morning, smooth on Pond's Vanishing Cream very evenly—just enough for your skin to absorb. No exposure to dirt and weather can dry out your soft supple skin or alter its fineness. And this protecting cream has the power also of beautifying instantly. Notice how your skin is soft and velvety to the touch, marvelously fresh under the powder.

Use this method regularly. Soon your face will grow clearer, more transparent and smoother than you could have imagined—in spite of every day's exposure. Buy both creams today. The Pond's Extract Company, 146 Brock Avenue, Toronto, Canada.

Miss Jobyna Ralston, Harold Lloyd's leading lady, says, "With the regular use of Pond's Two Creams I can keep my skin smooth, supple and transparently fresh. I can depend on them to prevent the coarsening effects of weather."

EVERY SKIN NEEDS THESE TWO CREAMS

CORNS—stop their pain in one minute!

Dr. Scholl's Zino-paas protect while they heal—wholly new method. Absolutely safe!

This is the size and shape for corns or tender spots caused by shoe pressure and friction.

This is the size and shape for callouses, tender spots or blisters. This is the size and shape for bunions, enlarged or tender joints.

Corns are due to only one cause—friction and pressure from shoes. Heretofore, corn-sufferers have ignored this.

They have resorted to paring—a frequent source of infection—or they have used corrosive acids frequently with damaging results to the surrounding live tissue.

A famous foot specialist's new discovery

Now Dr. Wm. M. Scholl, the eminent foot specialist, has found in Zino-pads a vastly better way, a scientific way, to end corn troubles—by removing the cause.

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads not only stop the pain the minute applied but they protect the corn from pressure and friction while they heal! They are easy to apply, are thin, antiseptic, waterproof. Absolutely safe; will not injure the tenderest toe.

Special sizes for callouses and bunions, too. Try Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads. Nothing like them. At your druggist's or shoe dealer's. Costs but a trifle.

HENRY FORD HIT THE NAIL RIGHT ON HEAD

Too Much Banquetting And Social Stuff Killed Harding and Finished Wilson, Says Wizard.

TORONTO, November 1 (Canadian Press). — Henry Ford, United States millionaire industrialist, and at the present time that country's political enigma, has a message for Canada.

For fifteen minutes last evening, while the C.P.R. train on which he was travelling as an ordinary passenger, was shunted about the Union Station yards, Henry Ford talked.

From the announcement that he would spend ten million dollars in industrial expansion throughout Canada during the coming year, to the matter-of-fact statement that he was no hunter, speaking amiably and freely, he ran the gamut of a series of hurried questions. He was communicative—except on politics.

Only once did he evince any interest in the political questions of the United States.

"Do you believe that the President should be relieved of any of his present lesser duties, in order to give him more time for larger questions?" he was asked.

"Not at all," came the answer. "Pile everything on him that you can. Hard work never hurt anyone. It wasn't work that killed Harding or finished Wilson. It was too much banqueting—too much social stuff."

And in reference to electricity. Henry Ford is of the opinion that here is one of the greatest assets of Canada.

"Develop your electrical energy," he said. "I am a great believer in it, and I can see a wonderful future for it in Canada. Electricity is the answer to many problems. The St. Lawrence Waterway is another great project which I favour. Power and transportation. That is what we need."

HARVEST FESTIVAL SEYMOUR CIRCUIT

Ladies Tabernacle Church Staged a Very Successful Function.

BURNBRAE, Nov. 1. — The annual harvest dinner held by tht Ladies' Aid of the Tabernacle church on the Seymour circuit, on Tuesday evening was a great success. Tht church was organized and the commodious structure built about 35 years ago, and a number of the men who were instrumental in creating the organization were present at the gathering on Tuesday evening. The dedication service was conducted in the year 1890. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. R. L. Edwards.

In spite of the disappointing nature of the weather hundreds of people from Campbellford and the district gathered at the church to indulge in the good things provided by the ladies. For three hours the tables were continuously filled with people. Great credit is due to the management of the Tabernacle Church for the efficient manner in which they handled the crowd without confusion or injustice to anyone. Long before the programe began the church was filled to its utmost capacity, both auditorium and gallery.

The programme of the evening was of a very high order. Rev. J. E. Glover, B.A., pastor of the church, opened the proceedings in his usual happy way with a number of very appropriate stories. A beautiful anthem was rendered by the choir of the Tabernacle Church; a solo by Mr. Paris and Mrs. (Rev.) J. E. Glover, and encore; a male quartette by members of the Tabernacle Church. Mr. Glover was supported on the platform by Revs. Barrett and Joblin of Stirling and Rev. J. J. Black, Burnbrae, who gave addresses, full of instruction, and at the same time sparkling with wit and humor.

The ladies especially are to be congratulated for the beautiful way in which they decorated the church, and for the splendid dinner provided. The proceeds of the evening so far as could be ascertained at the close of the programme, were about $210.00.

HALLOWE'EN FUN-MAKER CRUSHED UNDER CAR

HAMILTON, November 1 (Canadian Press). — Death stepped in and out of the Hallowe'en celebration of little seven-year-old Royal Dandy, here last evening.

He ran out into the street with his head enveloped in a paper mask, with holes slit for eyes, and into the path of an automobile driven by George Hardman. He was crushed under the wheels and fatally injured.

BALDWIN SPOKE ON PROTECTION

LONDON, Nov. 1. — (Canadian Press Cable.)— The first comment of a responsible labor politician on Premier Baldwin's utterances at Swansea last night on the subject of protection was made by Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, secretary of the labour party in a speech at Acton to-day.

Mr. Henderson, while subjecting the Prime Minister's economic proposals to a great deal of criticism, did not go so far as to whole-heartedly condemn them. He pointed out that protected countries were not a workers' paradise and contended that the only effective fundamental remedy for the unequal home and foreign working conditions was a policy of international labor legislation. This was labor's policy. He emphasized that labor did not intend to be dragged at the heels of any party on the question of fiscal policy. It would not consent to defend free trade on the orthodox Cobdenite lines.

OTTAWA, November 1. — Dr. J. G. Rutherford, a former member of the Railway Commission, who died on July 24, left an estate valued at $34,712.63, according to his will which has been filed for probate in the Surrogate Court.

The entire estate goes to the widow and at her decease to three daughters, Agnes, Frances Gunion Rutherford of Chilliwack, B. C., Dorothy C. Rogers of South Africa, and Sydney G. Ross of Victoria, B.C.

LARGE INCREASE ON THE REVENUE

OTTAWA, Nov.1 — (Canadian Press). — Customs and excise revenue increased $22,352,637 during the seven months which ended with October as compared with the corresponding period last year, according to figures furnished by the Department of Customs and Excise. Of this increase $17,517,468 is accounted for by excise taxes. It is understood that the obligatory use of revenue stamps for collection purposes which became effective on October 1 diverted a considerable amount of revenue which formerly found its way to the post office department on account of the use of postage stamps.

Total figures for the seven months which ended with October 31 were $179,381,952 as compared with $157,029,315 collected during the first seven months of the last fiscal year.

Warrant for Murder.

Provincial Constable Davis appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning, and swore to an information on a charge of murder against Schell, receiving a warrant on that charge.

Schell has been confined in Bobcaygeon Jail since Tuesday, when he appeared before a Justice of the Peace, and was remanded on the manslaughter charge.

The two men are said to have been good neighbours.

PORT ARTHUR POTATOES SAID TO BE HIGH GRADE

PORT ARTHUR, Nov. 1.— Irish Cobbler potatoes grown in this district are in great demand in Eastern Canada. One carload is going forward to-day to a Ridgetown merchant. Several large orders are in prospect. Ontario farmers write to the agricultural department here that there are no finer potatoes in the world. A farmers' potato growers' association is being formed in the Slate River valley and a large warehouse is expected to be erected on the railway at Twin City Junction.

DESTROYER OFFICERS BLAMED FOR DISASTER

Will Be Courtmartialed For Naval Accident Off California — Loss of 23 Lives and $13,000,000.

BAD JUDGMENT.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Bad judgment and faulty navigation on the part of three officers caused the loss of 23 lives and of naval material to the value of $13,000,000 in the destroyer accident on Honda Point, California, September 8, the Board of Inquiry declared in its final report to Secretary Denby.

On the recommendations of the Board Captain Edward H. Watson, the Squadron Commander; Lieutenant Command Donald T. Hunter, Commanding the Delphy, flagship and leader of the nine destroyers which grounded, and Lieutenant Lawrence F. Blodgett, navigator of the Delphy will be charged before a general Courtmartial with "culpable inefficiency in the performance of duty and neglect." Eight other officers, commanders of other destroyers which figured in the catastrophe will face charges of negligence in the performance of duty.

Unprecedented Report

The report was said by old naval officers here to be almost unprecedented in its sweeping condemnation of those said to be responsible for the disaster.

"In the opinion of the court," it said, "the disaster is, in the first instance directly attributable to bad errors of judgment and faulty navigation on the part of three officers attached to and serving on the Delphy, viz:

"The Squadron Commander, the commanding officer, and the navigating officer.

"Their responsibility is complete and the Court sees no extenuating circumstances."

Commanders of the other destroyers must be held responsible in a measure the Board found, for having "too blindly followed the judgment of the Squadron Commander," and in failing to check the position of their individual ships against that ascertained for the Delphy.

Dividing the fatal cruise of the flotilla into three periods, the Board declared the first two "reflect no credit upon the Navy," but commended highly the morale shown in the third period which comprised the time after the ships had struck.

Showed Courage

"From that instant," the report said, "Squadron Eleven displayed a zeal courage and coolness in face of grave danger, which is a matter of pride to the Navy."

The Board found no evidence of unusual tides or extreme errors of radio signals which it would accept as contributing to the disaster, although "radio bearings received by the Squadron Commander were obviously in error when considered for navigational purposes."

ONTARIO PREMIER WAS BANQUETTED BY PARTY

A Number of Issues to be Dealt With by Ontario Government.

TORONTO, November 1 (Canadian Press). — The appointment of a special committee to study the whole economic situation of Ontario, comprising production, marketing and transportation, a complete study by the Government of the social welfare of the Province, having special reference to the unfortunate subnormal people, and plans for demanding from the Dominion Government water powers of the St. Lawrence belonging to the Province with the view to meeting an eventual power shortage, were the three outstanding features of the address delivered by the Hon. G. H. Ferguson, Premier of Ontario, at a banquet tendered him last night by the Central Liberal-Conservative Association of Toronto.

The banquet, which also served the purpose of celebrating the Provincial Conservative victory of 25th June last was attended by about 700, and was presided over by Thomas A. Murphy, president of the Association.

There were only two set speeches these being by the Hon. W. H. Price, K.C., Provincial Treasurer, who proposed the Premier's health and by Mr. Ferguson in response.

An illuminated address was also presented to the Hon. Mr. Ferguson on behalf of the Association, expressing appreciation of his services.

This was handed to the Premier by the Hon. Thomas Crawford, Dean of the Legislature.

"On 25th June last" the Premier said, "reason overcame chaos, sanity prevailed over nebulous, erratic idealism, devoid entirely of practical common sense People became convinced that if we were to be delivered from chaotic condition of public opinion, from threatening destruction of our business organisations, and from utter industrial financial disaster they must turn their eyes to the Conservative Party, which had been traditionally the party of deliberation and sanity in all matters. So it was that we were returned by a majority never but once experienced in the history of the Province.

Touching on the policy of Northern Ontario, he said that if the Government was guilty of extravagance, extravagance would consist in the development of new wealth in that country. He predicted that in 25 years the wealthiest portion of Ontario would be that section north of the French River.

START BANTING MEDICAL RESEARCH FOUNDATION

TORONTO, Novmber 1. — Canadian Press. — A great research organization is to be started in Toronto, to be known as the Banting Medical Research Foundation. The first contribution for its foundation comes from the discoverer of Insulin, Dr. Fred G. Banting, who will contribute $10,000, a portion of his share of the 1923 Nobel prize.

Meanwhile a committee of five has been formed to take preliminary charge of the foundation and its financing. This committee is at once going to make an appeal for funds in Canada and the United States. At least one million dollars is required for the scheme.

Already many well known people in both countries have signified their willingness to participate actively in the work of foundation. These include Lord Byng, United States Secretary of State Hughes, whose daughter was one of Dr. Banting's first patient; ex-President Woodrow Wilson; U. S. Chief Justice Taft; U. S. Secretary of Treasury Mellon, Sir Edmund Walker; Sir Robert Falconer, Sir Arthur Currie, Principal of Queen's University and E. W. Beatty, K.C., of the C.P.R.

CONFIDENT INSULIN WILL NOT BE TAXED

Such is Attitude of Dr. Godfrey, Provincial Health Minister.

TORONTO, Nov. 1.— (Canadian Press.)—Hon. Dr. Godfrey, Provincial Minister of Health, is confident that the Dominion Government will remove the sales tax from insulin, which, according to federal authorities in Toronto, is demanded by regulations.

"It seems to me," he said, "that when they realize the actual condition under which the province is handling insulin, they will not insist upon imposition of the tax."

Dr. Robert De Fries, assistant director of the Connaught Laboratories, said yesterday that tax had been levied on October 20th, after consultation with Ottawa. It affected about 700 people, he added.

INSULIN A BOOM IN PETERBOROUGH

Many Sufferers From Diabetes Are Taking the Treatment.

Insulin is proving a boon to many Peterboro sufferers from diabetes, Dr. A. Y. McNair said today in discussing his monthly report with the Examiner. There were 2900 units distributed during the month of October, and increase of 1300 units over September. This distribution served patients in this district from Bellevile to Kinmount and Lindsay, incuding several cases in the city which were treated. Dr. McNair is Director of the Provincial Labratory Branch in Peterboro, charged with distribution of free Insulin to needy sufferers. Many applications are received, he said, and particulars are asked for by about two persons a week. From personal experience, he knows that local cases treated with Insulin are benefitting greatly. "There is no substitute for Insulin where it is needed," Dr. McNair said.

Regarding the Sales Tax announced by the King administration, Dr. McNair had nothing to say. He believes, however, that the monthly reports he, in common with other branches of the Labratory, sends to headquarters may be used to find the total amount distributed free to needy patients, and that this may be deducted from the sales tax on the whole.

SENATE MAY NOT RATIFY THE PACT

U. S. Drys Not Satisfied With Part of Anglo-American Treaty.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1. — Canadian Press. — With the United States negotiating a prohibition enforcement agreement with Great Britain and contemplating similar dealings with other nations, it became known last night that ratification of such treaties by the Senate is far from assured.

The drys are satisfied with that part of the Anglo-America treaty which provides that the United States authorities may search British vessels suspected of carrying liquor for smuggling purposes.

On that part of the treaty however, which permits British ships to bring beverage liquor into American ports under seal, the drys are divided and those who opposite it have been joined by the American shipping interests unwilling to allow foreign passenger lines to regain the advantage of liquor dispensation on homebound voyages, while competing American ships must remain dry both going and coming.

$100,000 DAMAGE ON N.Y. EXCHANGE

Papers in the Suit Are Now Being Served On The Defendants.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(Canadian Press).— A bill of complaint seeking $100,000 damages from the New York Stock Exchange, and affiliated firms as a result of the Exchange's action following the "corner" on March 20, of the stock of Piggly Wiggly Stores Inc., has been prepared by the law firm of Ewing Alley and Voorhees on behalf of Frank C. Milton, and Walter L. Smith of Memphis, Tenn. Papers in the suit are now being served on the defendants and will soon be filed in Supreme Court at Mineola, N.Y. the attorneys stated yesterday.

While counsel for the plaintiffs asked that it be made clear that Clarence Saunders, former president of the Piggly Wiggly Company, who engineered the "corner," was not involved in any way in the present action no secret was made of the fact that the proposed suit would be in the form of a test action to determine the legal right of the New York Stock Exchange to postpone the date of delivery of stock which has been sold "short."

The plaintiffs aver that they were damaged to the extent of $100,000 by the failure of three Stock Exchange firms—James E. Bennet and Company, Chicago, and Clark, Childs and Company and A. A. Houseman and Company, both of New York — to deliver a block of 500 shares of Piggly Wiggly stock on March 21, the day following the purchase of the same.

A LARGE INCREASE IN INSURANCE IS CERTAIN

OTTAWA, Nov. 1. — (Canadian Press.)—When by December all soldiers' insurance policies are in the hands of the applicants it is estimated that the insurance will aggregate $75,000,000 for a total of 33,500 policies. During the last four weeks, ending September 1, during which the applications were accepted, there were 12,500 demands for policies, aggregating $22,000,000 worth of insurance. The demands were largely for policies of $1,000 and of $2,000. It was said at the soldiers' insurance division of the D.S.C.R. to-day, that seventy-five per cent. of this large batch of applications had already been approved, and the remainder would be handled within the next two weeks. In only a very few cases it was said, were the applications being found not to come within the regulations. It is hoped that every policy will be issued within the present month. All policies will necessarily be dated as from September 1 at the latest.

Identical Twins and Triplets Keep Busy Mother Guessing

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 31.—Life is an unceasing circle of identical tasks to Mrs. Charles Wilson here.

Each morning she washes five identical faces. Combs five identical heads of hair. And sets out five identical dresses after preparing five identical breakfasts.

Then she proceeds to school with five identical-looking children. In a relay of trips she takes one batch across the street and then comes back for another, doing the same identical thing day in and day out.

All are hers—a set of identical twins and another brace of identical triplets.

The quintet have E.D.W. as their identical initials. And all do the same identical things.

The identical triplets, Ethel Doris, Evenly Dorothy and Elmira Dolores, came eight years ago.

Three years later they were joined by the twins, Eloise Delma and Eunice Dona, also identical.

To start them to classes this year, Mrs. Wilson made 21 identical sets of bloomers and 21 sets of dresses.

The outfits provide four apiece and one for emergency.

Mrs. Wilson is 27 and does all her own work.

None of her bustling brood has ever been sick a day. And the only way teachers can tell the twins apart, is because Eloise got too near a frying pan a day or so ago and seared her nose.

Otherwise all is well in the identical Wilson home.

But the mother thinks strategy will have to be resorted to before long.

She's considering tying variegated colored ribbons to the identical children to indentify them.

"They were lots of work when they were little," Mrs. Wilson says. "But now, I don't see how I could get along without them.

"Happy?

"That's identically just the word."

SAYS SKY SCRAPERS SHRINK WITH COLD

Towering Steel Structures One and a Half Inches Shorter in Winter.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(Associated Press).—Towering steel structures in New York will be approximately one and a half inches shorter this winter than they were in August. The shrinkage of the skyscrapers will not be noticeable to Gothamites, nor to the residents of other cities where the change already is taking place, but to the structual and technical engineers of steel the fact will be known in figures.

A study made by the building planning service of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, covering thermal effects upon buildings, made public here, shows that the Woolworth building, the Metropolitan tower and the Equitable building, among New York's highest structures, will have been shortened from one and two-tenths to one and a half inches.

The figures were arrived at by calculating the expansion and contraction of steel according to the formula familiar in every physics laboratory. The construction and expansion of steel for each Fahrenheit degree change in temperature is only .00000677 inches, but when this figure is multiplied by 9110 inches in the Woolworth building (not counting the basement and sub-basements) it is shown that each degree change makes a difference of .061 inches in the structure. With the Metropolitan building's 8400 inches, each degree change makes a difference of .0568 inches and with the 7200 inches in the Equitable building (counting from the sub-basements to the roof) the difference for each degree of change is .0487 inches.

According to the estimate of Clarence T. Coley, operating manager of the Equitable building and former president of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, the probable limit of temperature change is about 25 degrees.

"Because of the expanding and contracting of the steel in high buildings it is important that the mass of the building be kept as near a uniform temperature as possible, to prevent the steel from contracting and expanding within minimum limits," said Mr. Coley. "The limits are probably 85 degrees on the hottest summer day and 68 degrees on a cold winter's day, where the building is adequately heated.

"Should the buildings be allowed to cool off on Sundays and holidays to a temperature of 40 or 50 degrees it can be seen that the contraction would be much more marked and the bulging off of plaster would be excessive. Generally it can be assumed that the temperature variation in the buildings is about 25 degrees. In a building such as the Equitable which is 600 feet from the roof to the sub-basement, the expansion between 60 and 85 degrees would be 1.2 inches, which variation must be followed by the brick work, plaster, verticle piping, elevator guide rails, etc."

If the buildings should ever be allowed to cool to the freezing point the contraction of the Woolworth building would be 3.2 inches; the Metropolitan building would shorten three inches, and the Equitable building would be 2.6 inches shorter than the normal height in midsummer, the statistics reveal.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Clive Roberts Barton

REDDY RAZOR BACK'S TROUBLES

Nancy and Nick followed Mrs. 'Possum and her family toward the persimmon tree.

Nancy and Nick followed Mrs. 'Possum and her family toward the persimmon tree. Indeed they couldn't very well follow her without following her family, for her ten little 'possum kiddies were strung along her back and holding tight to her long tail like so many beads on a string. Mrs. 'Possum needed no baby-carriage, she didn't, or a go-cart.

By and by she stopped. "Here is the tree," she said. "Those yellow things that look like oranges are persimmons and they should be extra fine for Jack Frost was around last night.

Before the Twins could answer a new voice said, "Here, Bill, we'll pick this tree next before any pesky 'possums get at it." And then there were heavy footsteps.

Missez 'Possum stopped. "Run!" she commanded, sweeping all of her children off her back with one shake of her tail. In a twinkling they had scrambled off into the bushes, but Missez 'Possum never moved a step herself. She just closed her eyes and sank down to the ground and rolled over and never moved.

Nancy started toward her, but she was too late. The man had seen the little furry figure lying in the grass.

"Look here, Bill," he called, giving poor Missez 'Possum a shove with his foot.

But Missez 'Possum never moved an eyelash. She lay huddled up in a little limp heap and never even breathed.

"Is she dead?" asked Bill curiously, coming up beside the man.

"Dead? Humph- No, deader 'n I am," he answered. "You don't know 'possums, Bill. They're the best pretenders outside of story-books. They can play dead better'n circus dogs. This 'possum's alive and kicking. See;"

And he gave her another shove with his foot. But nary a move did Missez 'Possum make! She might have been a door-mat for all the life she showed.

"Say, Bill," said the man, stooping over and looking at her closely. "I believe this one IS dead. Yep! Deader'n a door-nail."

A little while later, their basket full of persimmons, Bill and the other man left.

All this time Missez 'Possum lay in a lifeless heap, but no sooner had the men gone than she jumped up and called briskly out, "Heah, honeys, come to mammy and we'll go home."

"Oh, I'm so glad you're all right," cried Nancy coming out of her hiding place. "We thought you really were dead and we were just going to hunt up your babies and take care of them."

"Thank you kindly," laughed Missez 'Possum, as all of her children came a running out of their hiding holes. "But I'm fine and hearty. Never felt better in my life. The only thing I regret is," she said ruefully, "is that we'll have no persimmons today."

BETTER HEALTH SOUGHT THROUGH CLEANER AIR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (Associated Press).—Smoke nuisance in cities is again receiving the attention of civic authorities and organizations in their campaign for its elimination, reports to the Interior Department indicate. The campaign was suspended during the war, when most of the country's smoke ordinances were held in abeyance to allow industries to operate unrestrictedly when maximum production was necessary. With the return of normal conditions many cities have shown a determination to take up this matter seriously and work out a solution.

Residence smoke, while making probably less than 10 percent of the total smoke of a city, is particularly objectionable because it is produced in the section where its damaging possibilities are at a maximum. Such smoke has a serious pathological aspect in addition to its destructive effect on property. Acute lung diseases, such as pneumonia, bronchitis, and pleurisy, are affected by the corrosive fumes to a marked degree. Investigators agree that there is a direct relation between a heavy smoke-laden atmosphere and the morbidity of the population; moreover, it tends to lower efficiency and increases crime and suicide.

HEALTH WORKERS STOP DANGEROUS EPIDEMICS

MANILA, Nov. 1 (Associated Press)—Eradication of all dangerous epidemics in the Philippine Islands, organization of an efficient commissioned personnel, and survey of malaria and hookworm infested areas preliminary to campaigns carried out with the cooperation of the Rockefiller Foundation, were the outstanding achievements of the insular health service during last year, according to the annual report of the director of health.

Invaluable knowledge as to the extent of malaria and hookworm was made available for health workers through the survey of conditions in several portions of the islands initiated by the Rockefeller Foundation, the report says, thus making it much easier for the service to draft plans for combating the two diseases.

The general birth rate during 1922 increased, while the death rate became lower. The better showing is attributed to the general improvement in sanitary conditions in most parts of the islands.

With reference to the anti-typhoid and smallpox vaccinations which are being given by health officers from time to time, it is declared that from the results obtained, there is evidence that immunity from typhoid and smallpox on the part of a large number of the people during 1922 was due to inoculations.

WHAT SCIENTISTS MAY DO?

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, PALO ALTO, Cal., Nov. 1 (United Press).—Scientists in the next few years may be able to predict earthquake shocks as they now forecast storms, according to the belief expressed by Professor Bailey Willis of Stanford.

Professor Willis has just completed for the Seismological Society of America an earthquake map of California on which is outlined the geographical faults along which disturbances are likely to occur.

Data regarding earthquakes made available to the expert or the novice by merely glancing at the map, was accumulated by Professor Willis after years of study of California's geographical and subterranean formations.

In bringing this data to a point of correlation where it may be "picturized," Professor Willis has come to the conclusion that while earthquakes, like storms, cannot be prevented, nevertheless, unlike storms, their effects can be mitigated.

Professor Willis points out that in certain sections where violent storms are to be expected, construction engineers may take steps to resist their effects. The most modern buildings cannot entirely resist earthquakes, as the recent Japanese disaster made evident, but "fault lines" can be avoided in building and their presence and certain effect can be recognized.

Professor Willis believes, therefore that his map may be of considerable, value to engineers in planning structures in various parts of the State. He believes that similar charts soon will be evolved by local scientists for othe earthquakes areas.

In explaining that earthquakes are caused by geological "faults," Professor Willis says:

"A fault is a break in the rocks, usually miles long and penetrating to a depth where they are firmer and more elastic than they are near the surface.

"An earthquake is an elastic shock which originates on a fault where the rocks have been held by friction, under increasing strain, until they yield. Slipping suddenly, like an elastic spring, they send vibrations through the globe.

"Attention has been called on the earthquake map to certain rifts on which shocks of greater or less violence may be anticipated. The rifts are facts, and their movements are as certain as thunderstorms in New York in early summer. Some day we may be able to keep an accurate record of the elastic vibrations of the earth's crust along danger lines and thereby forecast shocks.

"The earthquake map is intended to call attention to certain natural and unavoidable conditions in which there is danger, and to inform the public and promote public safety through enlightened public opinion. The danger heretofore have been greatly exaggerated by ignorance and intensified by negligence."

SIX-YEAR TERM FOR PRESIDENT

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 1 (Associated Press).—A group of deputies have announced their intention to inaugurate a campaign for the reformation of Article 83 of the constitution in order to lengthen the presidential term from four to six years. They assert that under the present system the executive has only two years to devote to constructive work, since during the other two his time is fully occupied by purely political questions.

Has Your Husband Got Indigestion?

Nothing creates domestic discord quicker than an attack of indigestion, and nothing gets rid of indigestion quicker than Bisurated Magnesia. No man can be sweet tempered, good natured or even fair minded when his stomach is constantly sick, sour, gassy, and upset with after-eating distress. If your husband has stomach trouble neither scold nor pity him, but help him by seeing that he has a supply of Bisurated Magnesia (either powder or tablets) constantly at hand. A teaspoonful of powder or two tablets taken in a little water after meals will instantly neutralize the acids in his stomach that are causing his trouble and he can enjoy his meals with no more fear of indigestion. Bisurated Magnesia is the special form of Magnesia used by thousands to neutralize stomach acidity and quickly overcome Indigestion—do not confuse with Milk, Carbonate, Block or Citrate of Magnesia. Insist on Bisurated. Its action is safe, prompt and sure and it can be obtained at small cost from any reliable drug store.

FOREIGNERS IN COLUMBUS' CREW

The gift to England by the Spanish Government of a model of the Santa Maria, in which Columbus discovered America, recalls the little known fact that the vessel had an Englishman among her crew when she made her immortal voyage. In the list of the ship's company appears the entry, "Tallarte de Lajes (Ingles)," and Sir Clements Markham suggests that Talarte being the Spanish form of Allard or Alard, the man was probably a connection of the famous sea-faring family of Alard, of Winchelsea, another member of which, Gervase Alard, became the first English Admiral in 1306. An Irishman also was numbered among the crew entered simply as "William of Galway."

THE ARCHBISHOPS

This is a year of interesting anniversaries for both Canterbury and York, so far as the records of England Archbishops are concerned. To jot them down in brief: It is just 1000 years since Wulfhelm became the 21st Archbishop of Canterbury, and 800 since William de Corbeuil succeeded to the same high office. Wulfstan, Archbishop of York, died just 900 years ago, and exactly 850 years ago Canterbury was made superior to the Northern See, so that while the Archbishop of York is now Primate of England, the Archbishop of Canterbury is Primate of all England.

To make meals pleasanter—

THERE'S nothing quite like having enough silverware! It removes annoyance in serving the meal and makes the eating of it more agreeable.

And to try to get along without enough silverware is quite unnecessary. For in 1847 Rogers Bros. Silverplate you can provide all you need quite reasonably. Tea spoons in the beautiful Old Colony pattern, or in any other, cost only $3.75 the half dozen. The other pieces—table knives and forks, dessert spoons, salad forks—are priced on the same moderate scale.

A sensible scheme is to purchase now the pieces you need most, and to add others in the chosen pattern from time to time. In the newer patterns your dealer always will be ready to supply your wants. Remember that "1847 Rogers Bros." is made to last a lifetime. It leaves nothing to be desired in durability or guarantee.

CELERY

What do you do with the coarse outer stalks of celery? Consign them to the garbage can with a sigh as worthless?

In order not to repeat flavors do not serve the cooked dishes the same meal you serve the fresh celery.

Care should be taken that the pieces used for cooking are quite as crisp as those served fresh. Crisp in cold water, removing any rust, blanch and drain.

If these suggested precautions are kept in mind when preparing celery you will find that your original purchase answers a two-fold purpose and a delicious hearty vegetable develops from the usual waste included in a bunch of celery.

The recipe for celery soup is not included in these rules as it was used a short time ago. These recipes may be just what you've been wanting. Anyway you will like them.

Celery Sticks

Twelve stalks celery, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 2 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 2 eggs, fine dried bread crumbs.

Cut celery in pieces four inches long. Let stand in cold water to which the vinegar has been added for half an hour. Drain and parboil them in slightly salted boiling water for 15 minutes. Drain and drop into cold water. Let stand two minutes. Drain and chill. Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Add pepper, salt, lemon juice and one egg well beaten. Set aside until cold. Dip celery in sauce to completely mask them. Let stand until firm enough to handle. Roll in bread crumbs, dip in eggs slightly beaten, roll again in crumbs and fry in deep hot fat. The fat should be hot enough to brown an inch cube of bread from the soft part of the loaf in 60 seconds.

If the celery and sauce are prepared in the morning the dish is easily and quickly finished at dinner time.

Celery au Fromage

Three cups celery, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-8 teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons grated cheese, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 1 pimento.

Cut celery into inch pieces and measure. Drop into slightly salted boiling water and cook until tender. Drain. Melt butter in a smooth sauce pan, add celery and stir over a low fire well coated with butter. Sift over flour and stir carefully to avoid crushing or breaking celery. Add milk, salt, pepper and paprika and cook until thick. Add one tablespoon cheese and lemon juice. Turn into a hot dish, sprinkle with remaining cheese and brown quickly in a hot oven. Surround with a ring of parsley and drop bits of pimento over the dish.

Celery is often served in a white sauce on toast. This with crisp bacon makes a delicious luncheon dish.

The English make a dish of celery, a little onion, macaroni and white sauce that is unusual and piquant.

The leaves of celery can be easily dried and used to advantage in soup when celery becomes high and scarce.

COLLEGE REPRESENTATIVES TO VISIT MONTREAL SOON

MONTREAL, Nov. 1.—Between three and four hundred representatives of the principal universities of the United States will gather here at the end of December to take part in the convention of the Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity. The convention which is the first the society has ever held in Canada will convene under the auspices of the local chapters of McGill and Toronto Universities, who will jointly act as hosts.

The dates which have been agreed upon for the meeting are Dec. 27, 28, 29, the only time when the men from the American colleges were permitted to leave their work.

BRITISH AMBASSADOR IS TO HAND IN RESIGNATION

LONDON, Nov. 1.—(Canadian Press)—Reports that Baron D' Abernon British Ambassador to Germany was about to retire from the diplomatic service were confirmed here by an admission at the Foreign Office that he would give up his post at no distant date but that no arrangement had yet been made with regard to his successor in the German capital. The name of Sir Horace Rumbold, British High Commissioner in Turkey is being mentioned unofficially for the Ambassadorship.

COMMON SENSE IS BEST BEAUTIFIER

Beautify the Body and Face Will Take Care of Itself.

By MARIAN HALE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The more beautifying you do with your mind and body, the less you'll have to do to your face

Take that from one of New York's prominent beauty exponents, herself a pleasure to behold and one who practices what she preaches.

She is Miss Dorothy Gray, who has just returned from a trip that corroborated her own opinions about beauty and how to attain it. She spent the summer in Vienna, investigating the modern methods of rejuvenation as practiced at the sanitarium of Dr. Steinach, the famous Viennese gland specialist.

"I hoped to learn new secrets of beauty," she told me, "but I found only practical demonstrations of the well established fact that beauty is founded on health, and that healthy people are bound to look young."

Long Life Sought.

So in Vienna, where she found hundreds of American women undergoing scientific rejuvenation, no one speaks of beauty treatments, but of prolonging life.

"I found," she went on, "that few women undergo actual physical operations for youth. But they all receive electrical treatments to stimulate the vital organs, the theory of which is very old and was practiced by the famous French beauties of a century ago to remain youthful.

"Physicians at the sanitarium determine what elements are lacking in each woman's system and what ones should be eliminated. They prescribe a diet to promote proper elimination, proper stimulation and proper circulation. Naturally these promote health and hence beauty.

"I am convinced that all scientific beauty culture should be under a doctor's supervision."

See Doctor First.

Miss Gray has been so impressed with the injury women can do themselves, prescribing their own health cures and fads, that she has all her beauty patients consult a physician before she begins any work on their complexions.

"No woman should undertake to reduce flesh, further than cutting down portions of food and exercising more, without medical advice," she suggests. "Any system by which one loses pounds a week is bound to do harm.

"It may be the heart or the blood or the nerves that suffer, but something is bound to. And usually, the face and neck age years under too strenuous reduction of flesh."

I asked Miss Gray if she thought women could eliminate the use of cosmetics by the practice of common sense.

"Not entirely," she replied, "but it is an actual fact that the more beautifying women do with their minds and bodies, the less they have to do to their faces."

Mother Takes Daughter To College With Her

MRS. LOUISE KELLER AN D HER CO-STUDENT DAUGHTER, LORETTA.

BERKELEY, Calif., Oct. 31.—Mother and daughter are vieing for honors at the University of California here.

Sweet sixteen, in the guise of Miss Loretta Keller, seeks to outdo the maternal years of Mrs. Louise Keller in friendly competition.

Their arrival at the portals of higher education was fraught with countless hardships and discouragement.

But holding fast to "Mother" Keller's abiding faith in the philosophy that every cloud is lined with silver, the twain never veered from their course.

Today they look backward over the long, long trail which led them over mountains and Indian reservations to the college classroom.

At an early age, their father and husband died, when life was still young, out on the plans where he sought to "strike it rich" in his profession as mining engineer.

The blow left the mother quite destitute, with Loretta on her hands and a still younger daughter who has come along to Berkeley to enter high school.

Through uncertain years, Mrs. Keller, with her face turned ever forward, worked as teacher in a host of towns and once came almost to the point of telling her little brood goodby forever, when the grim white plague laid hold of her.

Doctors said she would die. But fight reigned her unconquerable soul.

From a sick bed she rose and continued on.

And now victory and the dream goal of years are hers.

Her daughters are to be educated.

Her health has returned to 100 per cent. efficiency as testified by examining physicians at the university.

Mrs. Keller is sublimely happy.

Your Health

GAS IN STOMACH

Some gas is present in the stomachs of most persons, to a greater or less degree. This condition is usually most pronounced, not in all cases however, during the process of digestion.

It is by no means an unnatural condition. When the stomach is busy mixing up the gastric juice with what you have sent down, the trouble is apt to occur. If your food has been hastily chewed and swallowed or if you have washed it down with copious draughts of water, tea or coffee, to hurry the process of swallowing, you are likely to have gas.

The kind of food also determines to a certain extent what the amount of gas will be. Peaches or other acid fruits, if eaten hastily, will often cause rapid formation of gas in the stomach, with a tendency to inflation and heart pressure. Hot bread or biscuits hastily eaten will also cause gas during digestion.

The burning or gnawing sensation which is called by many persons heartburn is a result of this gas formation and acid outflow. The name really means heart pain, or as many physicans term it, Cardialgia.

The food tube, or esophagus enters the stomach at the cardiac valve or opening which is rather in close proximity to the heart. The pressure of the gas in the stomach often causes the acid material from the gastric juice to escape through the cardia into the lower esophagus. The regurgitative sensation, together with the pressure, causes the uncomfortable, rather irritating heartburn.

Occasional heartburn means nothing to worry over except your own bad eating habit. Careful attention to the proper chewing of your food and the right selection, avoiding those foods which cause the disturbance, will usually suffice.

A simple home remedy which will do much to relieve the acidity is milk of magnesia—dose, a large tablespoonful. Common saleratus bicarbonate of soda) may also be used. A teaspoonful in water once or twice a day is beneficial. It may cause belching, but it relieves the condition. Do not use a severe or harsh physic as this may serve to aggravate rather than relieve your heartburn.

COMMUNITY FUND CAMPAIGN

The community fund being a sum of money raised each year for social service work, what particular advantage is there as long as the various organizations secure the necessary money during the year?

By one campaign, a campaign organization can be built large and strong enough to give every citizen the opportunity to help, and can enlist the aid of citizens who could not help in separate campaigns. By one campaign, co-operation among the agencies is secured and competition avoided. A number of separate campaigns would cost in money many times what one campaign costs; would cost in time many times what one campaign costs; would take workers in the philanthropies from their work during the separate campaigns, thus decreasing the service rendered; would go to the same people over and over again, thus restricting the privilege of giving.

It also enables all of the social service organizations participating in the fund to know to certainty that the necessary funds to care for their operations are assured.

All the participating organizations receive from the fund for current operating expenses sufficient money to make up the difference between their income from all sources and their expenditures. The balance of the fund is appropriated upon recommendation from a budget committee.

The appropriations for each organization would be determined by statements submitted of all receipts and expenditurer for the previous year to the budget committee, together with a statement of required finances for the following year.

The amount required by each organization would not include in any way capital expenditures such as new buildings, equipment, etc. Replacement of equipment may be included in the current expenses. Interest on mortgages would be considered as current expenses.

Organizations which can participate in the community fund are considered in the next article on Saturday.

OWNED GREATEST GOLD MINE; DIED BOSS OF 10-PINS

Dapper Benny Hollinger Hit Upon Six Claims That Now Produce $1,000,000 a Month

AND THEN OLD LADY LUCK WOULDN'T SMILE NO MORE.

Benny, Saved by Philosophical Slant Settled Down to Simple Life; Died While Praying.

TIMMONS, Ont. (500 miles north of Toronto).—The gang in the corner of the bar at Cobalt Camp was playing seven-up under a smelly oil lamp. Jack McMahon was mopping the bar and mentally calling it a bad night. Then the storm door opened and dapper Benny Hollinger, the gentleman adventurer, was pushed in by the north wind.

"'Lo everybody—luck to you all," he shouted, as he peeled his mackinaw off and tossed it on the three-legged chair.

"Drinks for the gentlemen, Jack," he ordered, stepping over to the Empire stove to thaw out.

Jack walked from behind the bar and poured three fingers for each card player. Fifteen drinks had to come from each quart, and he preferred to portion the liquid himself. But as for Benny, well, any one could see with half an eye that he was a gentleman, and therefore wouldn't take more than two fingers. So the bottle was placed beside a glass on the bar, and Jack said in his ingratiating manner, "Step up and pour for yourself, Benny."

Benny Pours

Benny forsook the stove and poured. "Lucky, Benny," the gang wished, as the red-eye was washed down.

Benny leaned over the bar and whispered: "Jack, there's a gold mine waiting for you and me—up Porcupine way."

"So?" Jack queried. He had heard similar tales before.

"Gold, waiting to be picked up," Benny continued. "And what is more, my luck's just now."

Jack had heard those stories of the Porcupine field, 150 miles north and 500 miles from Toronto. "But nobody's found any real pay dirt that I know," he interjected. "Seems that it's all talk and no dust.

Benny talked on. He knew the land and he knew men who had found gold there. What was needed was $75 for a grub stake.

"We'll share and share alike," Benny urged. Finally Jack gave in. It was hard to hold out against Benny. He was such a pleasant, persuasive talker.

When Benny walked out with Jack's $75 the gang in the corner roared. Benny had been grub-staked before and had never found his mine. They joked McMahon so much that he became doubtful of the whole enterprise. But one couldn't take a grub-stake back. It wasn't done.

But Jack McMahon had a brother-in-law, in Labine. He told Jim of the Porcupine's richness. One-half of his half in Benny's stake could be had for $75—because he was in the family. They all had better get rich together. Jim paid his $75.

Benny Goes Northward

The next day Benny mushed northward. Somewhere along the way he met Alex. Gillies on the same mission. They joined forces as companions, not as partners. When they reached the Porcupine section—a wild bush lad with bits of swamp—they found old Bill Davidson, veteran of British Columbia mining camps, panning gold.

Yes, there was some gold thereabouts. Of course the best land had all been staked out by Bill, but if the youngsters would go some miles "that way" they might find some quartz veins. He had "heard tell" of quartz veins there.

They found the designated spot, almost lost in low-lying Spruce swamps. They staked twelve claims. Then they tossed a coin to decide which should take the six east and which the six west claims. Benny got the western ones.

Benny found a prospector's forge, overgrown with dank grass, on his land. Someone had given up there, years before. By the side of those claims ran the portage trail, over which hundreds had passed. No one had found gold there, but you never knew your luck till you tried.

The dapper adventurer began digging, and he found quartz veined with what looked like gold. He filled a pack full, and started Cobalt way. Days later when he reached the edge of Cobalt he met Alphonse Pare, mining engineer, and nephew of the Timmons Brothers, former store-keepers, who had made a little money silver mining around Cobalt.

Pare stopped Benny and asked what luck. He had a hunch that Benny's luck had turned after seven years of failure. Benny showed his samples. Pare decided there was no reason for Benny to visit Cobalt—the thing to do was to turn around and go back and talk business.

Gold Sticks Out

Pare made quick work with his pack and the two headed northward. Snow began to fall before they reached the Porcupine lands, but a providential rain washed it away the day before they reached the claims. That was the fall of 1909.

Yellow gold of unusual richness was sticking out all over the wyite quartz. The rains had washed it clear. The two stood in an infinite solitude beside the ground which in 1923 was to be hailed as the world's greatest gold mine, with an output of $1,000,000 worth of gold a month. Gillies was elsewhere, and the nearest neighbor was old Bill Davidson, laboriously panning gold beyond the hills.

Pare's trained eyes told him of the find. But Pare played the game squarely. He sat on a boulder, looked across at Benny nonchalantly packing his pipe, and asked him if he realized what he had found.

"I have found—some gold," Benny answered, gazing over the waste land.

"You have found—much gold," Pare told him. Pare opened his wallet, took out $2,000 in currency and laid it on the boulder.

"That's for the right to look in," he said succinctly. Benny accepted the money and continued smoking. Pare took his geological hammer and spent the rest of the day tapping rocks. When they started back to Cobalt Pare offered, in behalf of the Timmons-McMartin-Dunlap Synidcate, $330,000 for Benny's six claims if the samples assayed as high as he regarded them. Benny was satisfied.

To Give One to Pal

But Benny made one stipulation. That sum would purchase only five of the claims, for he was going to give one of them to his old pal, Barney McEnaney. Barney had befriended him, and it was only fair that he should share his prosperity. McMahon had agreed to this when he grub-staked Benny. To this Pare made no objection. Thus five claims would still be worth $330,000.

When the assay was completed Pare called Benny in. The Syndicate found it would require much money to develop those claims. Their original offer held good; they never broke their word. But would Benny like to join the syndicate? He would be given some cash, and 50,000 shares—a twelfth interest—valued at $3.50 a share.

Benny had dealt in shares before. He preferred all cash, but perhaps Jack McMahon might wish to say-so. Jack knew a nice piece of bar goods when he saw it, but little of gold mines. He decided that Benny should make the decision. Benny said, "all cash." Benny gave half of it to McMahon.

The Syndicate eventually acquired Gillies' claims, but they couldn't budge Barney McEnaney. "Sure, it was Benny's gift, wasn't it? And it is bad luck to give away a present, and that's what you're asking me to do."

Begin the Mining

Work began at the Hollinger mines. Benny went to Point Alexander, on the upper reaches of the Ottawa River, and took his parents from there to Pembroke, a pleasant little town that had grown from a trading post. Benny had always loved Nellie Hill; now he could afford to marry her. She had faithfully waited while he made his stake. They visited Toronto and other cities, but the two decided that Pembroke was a friendly place, so they returned there.

Word came that the Hollinger Mine—as they called the Porcupine claims—had become a bonanza. So Benny hit the trail again. Maybe luck would strike the second time. The whole countryside was willing to stake Benny, but he needed nothing. A few miles from his great discovery he found claims that seemed to have similar formations. He bought them from the discoverers, and organized a company called the Hollinger Reserve. But it takes money to do quartz mining. Money went and gold didn't come, though across the way the original Hollinger was paying thousands of dollars a day.

Eventually the Hollinger Reserve was put up as Sheriff's sale. Benny was flat broke again. But in the few years that had passed Barney McEnaney had been persuaded to sell his gift claim. He had received a price said to be $500,000. Barney was president of the Sheriff's sale, and bid in the Hollinger Reserve—for one good turn deserved another; you know. One couldn't see a pal go down in disgrace. McEnaney died a few days later.

In Other Ventures

Benny went into other mining ventures with his retrieved stake. But lightning luck seldom strikes twice, he found. Finally he turned back to Pembroke. He had a pretty little home there, a wife who was a mate, and three youngsters who worshipped him as kind of everything. He was happy. To while away the long winter months he opened a bowling alley—dapper Benny's place, it was known throughout the country.

Word came that the Hollinger mine was being called "one of the great gold mines in the world."

"Don't you wish you had swung on?" he was asked. "I see the stock they offered you at $3.50 a share is selling for $60."

Benny smiled and shook his head. "I'm glad they are making it pay," he said. "They deserve it; they played square with me. And I'm happy here. Suppose we go deer hunting to-morrow?"

They did. That was in the fall of 1919.

A few days later Benny returned with a buck's antlers for the children. They saw him afar off, and ran to meet him. His wife came to the doorway smiling. She had cooked just what he wanted—it was ready for him.

Benny, in the prime of health and wanted—it was ready for him.

feeling that the good God had been kind to give him so much happiness, went in and sat down at the table. He bowed his head in prayer. His heart stopped beating before he could re-open his eyes.

They have taken $50,000,000 out of the Hollinger mines. General Manager A. F. Brigham announced this week that $40,000,000 worth of ore had been charted out for the next three years. Experts say there is another $400,000,000 worth of gold waiting for them. A million dollars worth of ore is being taken out each month, and one-half of that is not profit. Some of the members of the original syndicate are receiving dividends at the rate of $6,000 a day. It is the world's greatest gold mine.

WIFE WELL ON ROAD TO RECOVERY

Dreco Works Wonders For Mrs. McEwen—She Eats and Sleeps Well and No Longer Has Pains—Read Her Husband's Story—Then Try This Grand Medicine Yourself

"My wife had suffered for a long time from a very bad case of stomach trouble," says Mr. E. J. McEwen, of 20 Manning Ave., Peterboro, Ont. "Gas would form on her stomach after eating and make her miserable for hours. She would get bad dizzy spells and terrible cramps, which would leave her stomach sore for days after.

"She was hardly ever free from headaches, couldn't sleep at nights and had a very poor appetite, with the natural result that her whole system suffered from lack of proper rest and nourishment.

"She tried all kinds of medicines, but could get no relief from any of them. Then we fortunately heard of Dreco and the remarkable benefit it was giving in cases similar to her own. My wife has only taken two bottles of this great remedy, but it is a fact that they have done her more good than everything else she has taken, put together.

"Her digestion has improved wonderfully, she has a much better appetite, sleeps better at nights and is not troubled with pains in her stomach or headaches.

"We are convinced that Dreco is a splendid medicine and Mrs. McEwen is going to keep right on taking it until she is fixed right up."

You can get just as much benefit from Dreco as Mrs. McEwen got. This reliable remedy has a wonderfully strengthening and cleansing effect on stomach, liver, bowels and kidneys and purifies the blood as well. Good health naturally follows its use for a clean system, working as Nature intended, casts off all disorders. You owe it to yourself to investigate Dreco, the purely vegetable health-builder that contains no mercury, potash or habit-forming drugs.

GAINS TEN POUNDS IN TWO WEEKS

Popular Commercial Traveller Strongly Recommends Dreco, the Ideal Tonic and Regulator — His Story is Particularly interesting at This Season of the Year.

Mr. Samuel Toples, of 340 Charlotte Street, Peterboro, Ont., the well-known traveller for B. F. Ackerman, Son & Co., Limited, discovered in Dreco an ideal corrective for internal ailments. Mr. Toples says:

"For years my stomach, kidneys and liver have troubled me. My food would sour, causing indigestion, gas and heartburn. Had a sharp pain in the small of my back from my kidneys and suffered terrible dizzy spells which at times got the best of me so that I could hardly keep up with my work. Had pains in my stomach and chest from the gas and my bowels seemed locked as I had always to be taking medicine to keep them open. I was very nervous and could not sleep and my appetite was very poor. I hardly knew what it was to eat a square meal.

"I suffered with these ailments for several years and tried almost every kind of medicine without result. Then, fortunately, I heard about Dreco and gave it a trial. One bottle has done more good for me than anything I have ever used. Most of my troubles have vanished and I can carry on my work with great comfort. I intend to finish the full treatment and have my wife, whose health has been poorly, take it also."

All of Mr. Toples' troubles were traceable to his stomach. Dreco prepared especially for the stomach from medicinal herbs and roots, quickly restores it to health functions and builds up the whole system. Dreco contains no mercury, potash or habit-forming drugs.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterboro by Bond's Drug Store. Go there to-day and ask for Mr. Vaughan, the Dreco Expert, and let him explain the merits of this great remedy. There is no charge and he will tell you honestly if he believes Dreco will benefit you. Dreco is also sold in Lakefield by E. H. Northey, in Campbellford by J. E. Birks, and by a good druggist everywhere.

Was Almost Nervous Wreck

Says Wincarnis Restored Her Heatlh

"Ten months ago," writes Mrs. Elizabeth McGuire, 205 West 101st street, New York City, "I began to lose my strentgh. My household duties became burdensome. I felt exhausted after the slightest exertion. Then my nerves got so bad that at the slightest noise I used to tremble; my legs would shake and my heart beat violently, causing me to gasp for breath. One afternoon a friend called to see me and she was shocked at my pitiable condition. She went out and bought a bottle of "Wincarnis" and gave me a dose right away. I continued taking "Wincarnis," three times a day and its effect has been almost miraculous. Gradually but surely my strength came back, a color came into my cheeks, my nerves grew steady, and it seemed as if I had taken a new lease on life. To-day I am a very happy woman because I am well."

Be guided by Mrs. Elizabeth McGuire's experience. Go to your druggist—now—and get a bottle of "Wincarnis." Remember that "Wincarnis" has been recommended by over 10,000 physicians, who have found it invaluable in such cases, and who have spoken or written in praise of the preparation.

Wincarnis is sold by all leading druggists at $1.50 a bottle.

BISHOP AND EDUCATOR CROSSING SWORDS OVER YOUTH AND ITS PROVERBIAL FLING

PROFESSOR EDWARD A. ROSS (LEFT) AND BISHOP THOMAS NICHOLSON

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 30. — Whither bound is America's youth—the same youth entitled by precedent to its fling?

Of such grave import is the question that an eminent bishop and a distinguished educator are locked in controversy over it.

From respective pulpit and rostrum, each hurls wordy challenge at the other's views while their verbal rapiers meanwhile cross at loggerheads and draw fire.

Standing in scholarly aloofness, comes Prof. Edward A. Ross of the University of Wisconsin here, to announce that the younger generation is dancing and "petting" itself into moral disintegration.

Some Cheerful Optimism

Regarded as one of the greatest living sociologists. Ross further comments that "we have never known before such pleasure-mad young people. Their entire time, thought and energy are devoted to finding new thrills."

Automobiles, jazz dancing, commercial amuse ments and the movies h. opines have done more toward weakening the moral fiber of America—college men and women not excepted —than any other of the institutions which history records.

"Parents today — mothers especially," he says, "are just naturally incompetent. And where not incompetent they are too frivolous to bring their children up right.

"Educational institutions in the next generation will have to begin the moral teaching of the young."

Bishop Says Nix

To which Bishop Thomas Nicholson in charge of the Chicago area of the Methodist Church, replies with hot rejoinder sending out sparks in all directions.

"Tut! Tut!" says he.

"It is ridiculous to think the youth of today is on the down grade.

"Why, the hope of the futur. is in these young people.

"It is true that the theaters are crowded with pleasure-seekers and the roads crowded with joy-riders. But over against that let me give you a few more facts.

"There are more candidaes for the ministry to-day than ever before. And they are of higher ability. I ordained 50 in the last 35 days. Seven of th. number were graduates from a state university too. And it used to be that we got no ministers except from church colleges.

Battle Still Wages

"In the Sunday schools of our church alone, w. have just a few short of 5,000,000 enrolled. And last year there were published and distributed among these young people more than a billion pages of Sunday school literature.

"While the places of amusement ar. filled the churches, colleges and libraries are overcrowded.

"We had youthful criminals in the past, and will continue to have them in the future.

"But the young peopl. of to-day "It is easy to magnify the serjousness of youthful externals."

Finishing thus Bishop Nicholson doffs his ecclesiastical boxing gloves to await resumption of the battle from the enemy's stronghold.

Just what the next mov. will be is not definitely known.

MASSES SHOULD BE GIVEN REAL MUSIC

Give people music that they can understand. People must hear simple music and know what it is all about before we can expect them to enjoy a symphony concert. By simple music is meant folk melodies, pieces in the first and second grade. The process is gradual. Do not present third and fourth grades before first grade. People are hungry for music, but how can they when musicians play to themselves? The laity dare not express even to the point of asking the "genius" a question, for fear of showing gross ignorance.

Merely playing to people will not educate them. Read Shakespeare to a child and with nothing else, it would never understand. It might enjoy hearing your voice but it would not unfold, and it would miss the fairy tales that it should have had in its early unfoldment. We heap operas and symphony concerts upon the people and they miss the folk lore. There is only one way to educate the masses—give the people real music with a fundamental meaning.

THE VALUE OF IMAGINATION

Imagination is a powerful factor in developing a true artistic temperament, and reading is a useful instrument in awakening imagination.

To read biography, history, general as well as musical criticism, and writings on the principles of art, is to acquire a fundamental process of reflection, will generate imagination.

To know the experiences of great musicians, learning what to avoid as well as what to appropriate, is an education in itself. To know thoroughly music and musicians, to cultivate susceptibility to all things that are beautiful ,to develop the understanding and judgment, to keep the mind alert and ready to react to the stimulus of music, is to cultivate the true musical temperament. And then to combine with this association with one fellows trying to catch their viewpoint and to understand their attitude and their limitations is to conserve the musical temperament, keeping it free from artistic foolishness and continuing sane and companionable.

VENAL HUSBANDS BRITISH PROBLEM

Mercenary Bridegrooms and Foreign Women Win Access to England.

LONDON, Nov. 1 (Associated Press) —The many mercenary "bridegrooms" who are willing to marry alien women for a financial consideration in order to allow them to enter the country, is providing the Home Office with a difficult problem.

Marriage to Britons makes these women British citizens, which is the goal at which they aim. The arrangement is generally that the bridegroom lends his name for the ceremony, receiving from $60.00 to $75.00 for his trouble. The couple part at the registry doors, and the wife is thereafter free to travel any place in Great Britain or the dominions without further question.

The Home Office has been able to intervene in many cases, however, where the bridegrooms have overstepped their legal allowance and married in some instances as many as ten women. In these cases the women have been deported and the man sent to prison for bigamy.

The problem of the nationality of the wife was discussed several times during the last session of Parliament and will come before the Dominion's conference now meeting in London. Here it is expected a final decision will be made as to whether the wife retains her nationality, or takes that of her husband. If the former, the British government will take steps to have a bill passed allowing all married women to adopt English nationality at once, but prohibiting others from assuming it without going through the usual legal course.

During the year 1921 there were approximately 560 of these "convenient" marriages.

CHARLES DARWIN FISHWORM HUNTER

Found 53,000 Fishworms In the Average Acre of Bristol Soil.

Charles Darwin found 53,000 "fishworms in the average acre of British soil. The number was around half a million an acre where the soil was exceptionally rich.

Right now is the busiest season of the year for earthworms. Wherever the autumn winds are making withered leaves flutter to the earth, our old friend fishworm is dragging the dead leaves into his tunnels, there to rot and enrich the soil.

Professor J. Arthur Thomson, in The Outline of Science, records that, on the average, the fishworms in an acre of ground pass 10 tons of soil through their bodies each year— and they have been doing this for many millions of years. They cover the surface at the rate of three inches in 15 years, and they are thus continually circulating the soil. An agelong ploughing field, which was so thickly covered with hard flints that it was known as The Stony Field, was left untouched for 30 years, after which a horse could gallop from one end to the other without ever striking a stone.

Darwin wrote this: The plough is one of the most ancient and most valuable of man s inventions; but long before he existed the land was, in fact, regularly ploughed by earthworms. It may be doubted whether there are many other animals which have played so important a part in the history of the earth as have these lowly organized creatures.

The earthworm made life on earth possible for man. We couldn t continue existing, without its assistance at preparing the soil for the food we eat and for—the trees so chemically necessary in our system of air supply.

Despite the earthworms important function in nature s scheme of things, a lot of us are surprised to learn that it has a purpose other than to be used as fish bait.

QUIZ CORNER

FUR FARMING.

Q.—What is the present extent of fur-farming in Canada?

A—Canada had, in 1922, 1009 fur farms, an increase of nearly 200 in a year. The animals are worth $5,670,000 and the property $7,566,000.

CANADA'S PROSPERITY

Q—What are some of the evidences of Canada's prosperity today?

A—Evidence of Canada's present day prosperity is shown in over $18,000,000,000 invested in Dominion bonds and bank deposits (in July 1923) of $1,227,000,000.

BUSINESS WORLD OWES DEBT TO MUSIC AND MUSICIANS

Not many years have passed since peculiarities of dress, speech and action were believed to be distinguishing marks of the artist. Such peculiarities were tolerated as evidences of an excessively artistic temperament. Bad manners, ill-kept persons, and even bad morals were condoned for the sake of the art they were considered to represent. It was frequently urged that those who were engaged in any form of art activity should not be curbed by the conventions to which the mass of the people felt compelled to conform. While a marked improvement has taken place, this complacent attitude toward artistic snobbery has not entirely disappeared. To a very great degree this unfortunate belief is responsible for the contemptuous attitude of influential men of business affairs toward music and musicians.

It is a very serious matter, for no one, whether he be really an artist or engaged in the more commonplace pursuits of life, can afford to be placed in a position of mental or moral inferiority, or to be looked upon a freak. The respect and confidence of our fellows are just as essential to the musician as they are to a business man. A reputation for common sense and reliability and the power to see things clearly and to act with sanity are too valuable assets to be cast aside merely for the sake of becoming conspicuous. The antics of some musicians, many of whom are really great, have seriously lowered this reputation for the entire body of the profession.

A CAMPING TRIP AMONG THE PINES

Roger Dolan Took Camping Trip to Make Home Feel More Comforting.

Takes a camping trip in the "tall and uncut" to make city people appreciate the comforts and conveniences they have at home. Maybe you've had an experience like Rodger Dolan's:

Dolan thought the farms were getting too civilized for a real outing from metropolitanism, so he vacationed in the Canadian woods.

"I never appreciated how easily we cook with gas and heat with coal at home, until I had to chop the firewood up north," Dolan writes. "To get enough wood for our cook stove and for the big fireplace in our log cabin at night, I had to saw and split about an hour a day. My time is surely worth $1 an hour, so it cost me $30 a month for fuel—in the summer It'd be several times that, in winter.

"Another thing: At home, when we want water, we merely turn a faucet. Up north, I had to carry drinking water half a mile from a spring. And our water for cooking and washing had to be carried in buckets up a steep hill from the lake.

"To get our mail, we rowed three miles each way, a round trip consuming a couple of hours.

"Nearly everything else on the 'vacation required a similar expenditure of time and effort. Luckily, we were able to get ice from a settler s ice house. Maybe you ve dug through six feet of sawdust to get ice, carried it to a lake to wash it, then a few hundred yards to the home-made refrigerator.

The city man, used to conveniences and comforts, "raises the roof if the mail is late, the ice man delayed, or the fuel bill high. The city man forgets that there are plenty of people whose daily life includes the inconveniences and toil of Dolans "vacation.

Only a few generations ago, nearly every one had these inconveniences. The way has been made easier, more convenient, for the purpose of giving us leisure time. We have it. How do we use it, this leisure time bequeathed to us by a long line of toiling inventors?

Unsolved Mysteries

Born in Dublin in 1753, Wolfe Tone was the son of an Irish coachmaker who planned a career in the British army but, because the practise of law appeared to present a more immediate method of making money, traded his military ambition for those of a barrister. The profession of a lawyer led naturally toward the field of politics and Tone cast his lot with the Radicals, founding the Society of United Irishmen, and, as Sir Roger Casement was destined to do a century and a quarter later, sought foreign assistance in his attempts to free Ireland.

In 1795, while France and England were at war, Tone plotted with the French with a view to the landing of an armed force on the Irish coast. His plan was to launch an armed rebellion which would secure the acknowledgement of Irish freedom, but the plot failed and Tone would have been hanged for treason were it not for the fact that he turned King's Evidence and was permitted to exile himself in America, with the understanding that he would never return to Ireland.

Accordingly, in the spring of 1795, Tone took up his residence in Philadelphia, but he does not appear to have approved of the "democracy" which he found in the United States. George Washington, he declared, was nothing more than "a high-flying aristocrat," while he branded the aristocracy of wealth in America as being more powerful than the aristocracy of birth in Europe. A few months in the United States convinced him that he would never be contented on this side of the Atlantic and he therefore returned to France, where he immediately started another conspiracy to effect a French invasion of Ireland, securing the rank of adjutant general in the French army in the belief that a commission of this kind would protect him in the event of his capture by the British.

One of the raiding parties with which Tone was connected was attacked by the British fleet while off the coast of Ireland and Tone was captured, but was not recognized until two weeks later. He was then brought to Dublin to be tried for treason—an offense which he defended in his famous speech in which he declared that "I feel prouder in my chains than if I were decorated with the Star and Garter of England"—but was convicted and sentenced to be hung, despite the fact that his rank as a French officer entitled him to death at the hands of a firing squad.

The sentence of the British court-martial produced instant diplomatic complications and threats of reprisals by the French, who declared that if Tone were hanged they would immediately execute two British prisoners of equal rank in the same manner. In addition, the French government maintained that England had recognized Tone's military standing by the mere fact of conducting his trial before a court-martial, instead of before a civil court, and that the charge of treason could not therefore logically be pressed.

This was the complicated state of affairs when on November 11, the day before Wolfe Tone was to be executed, the news was given out that the prisoner had solved the difficulty by committing suicide, cutting his throat with a penknife. But what really occurred in the cell where the Irishman was confined has never been made public, the generally accepted theory being that the hanging was averted in order to save the lives of the two English generals whom the French were holding as hostages. As it was strictly against rules for prisoners to have knives of any kind, Tone's death must either have been a suicide at which the prison authorities connived or, as the Irish maintained at the time, a crime committed by another hand than his.

One account of the affair which was allowed to leak out shortly afterward was that the Irish leader cut his throat with the sharp edge of a coin which he had rubbed against the stone floor of his cell, but Tone's entire history and his spirited defiance of the court which found him guilty make it appear unlikely that he took his own life. For this reason, the real circumstances of Wolfe's death seem destined to remain one of the unsolved riddle of Irish history.

AMERICAN FUR MARKET DOMINATES WORLD TRADE

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 31.—(Associated Press).—St. Louis which was one of the first fur trading posts in America, bases its claim of being the raw fur market of the world primarily on its central location.

Virtually at the confluence of the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers, trappers a century and a half ago paddled down these natural carriers with their packs of pelts to dispose of them in St. Louis. It was at this time that Pierre Laclede established the first trading post in this vicinity, and one of the chief commodities it handled was furs. On establishing the post Laclede expressed the opinion that the site might become a "right considerable settlement." A granite boulder at the foot of Market street here marks the spot where the post was established.

Although the largest fur sales were held in London for many years, St. Louis never lost its prominence as a fur market, and with the outbreak of the World War the sales swung back to the American city.

Sixty per cent. of the raw furs of the United States are disposed of in St. Louis, according to P. B. Fouke, prominent local fur dealer. Mr Fouke estimates that local dealers pay $15,000,000 to trappers for the four months' work every year.

In addition to the Sale of American furs all through the winter, several millions of dollars of pelts are sold at the semi-annual public auctions, which are attended by buyers from all parts of the world. The sale of Government skins usually precedes these sales. Every variety of fur, from the lowly house cat to the expensive Russian sable, is offered at the auctions.

SCIENCE BUILDS CRIMINAL GANG

Puts Man Who Isn't Into Overalls That Are, and Proves Result is Bandit Slayer.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 1.—Scientific criminology—the kind scoffed at by police sleuths—again is proving its worth in the coast-wide hunt for four bandits who killed four men in a train hold-up near Ashland, Oregon, October 11.

All that was known about the hold-up quartet until science came to the aid of the authorities was that four men had shot down three members of the train crew and slain a fourth in blowing up a mail car.

Today, thanks to Prof. E. O. Heinrich, expert criminologist of the University of California, the police not only have the names, descriptions and records of the bandits, but have built up an almost completed case against them. They are believed to be hiding in the Klamath Forest reserve.

When the bandits fled they left behind a pair of overalls, a sawed-off shot-gun, an automatic pistol and a pair of dry batteries. Nearly 100 railroad detectives, government agents and others examined these articles vainly for clues. Then the articles were sent to Prof. Heinrich.

The professor, in his laboratory, "reconstructed" one of the bandits from a study of the overalls. Measurements provided a guide to the man's size. Microscopic study of earth-stains and certain peculiar worn spots brought the deduction that the wearer was a railroad grader. A pocket yielded a faded money order receipt.

Turning to the shotgun Prof. Heinrich developed a faint set of finger-prints.

That was all. But that was enough. Detectives quickly found a railroad camp near the scene of the hold-up. An employee had disappeared two nights before the hold-up. So had a quantity of dynamite.

The name was that of the man to whom the money order receipt had been issued. And a picture found in a rogue's gallery by means of the finger prints proved to be a likeness of this man.

The rogues' gallery records showed this man had two brothers with criminal records. Looking up recent activities, detectives found evidence implicating the brothers. The same search provided evidence against the fourth man.

"Nothing to do now but catch them," said the authorities today, "and all four are sure to go up for long terms, if not to the death house. We've got the goods on all of them."

WOMEN FROM FORTY TO FIFTY

Will Be Interested in Mrs. Thompson's Recovery by Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Winnipeg, Man.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me good in every way. I was very weak and run-down and had certain troubles that women of my age are likely to have. I did not like to go to the doctor so I took the Vegetable Compound and am still taking it right along. I recommend it to my friends and to any one I know who is not feeling well."—Mrs. THOMPSON, 303 Lizzie St., Winnipeg, Man.

When women who are between the ages of forty-five and fifty-five are beset with such annoying symptoms as nervousness, irritability, melancholia and heat flashes, which produce headaches, dizziness, or a sense of suffocation, they should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is especially adapted to help women through this crisis. It is prepared from roots and herbs and contains no harmful drugs or narcotics.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from roots and herbs, has for forty years proved its value in such cases. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Women who suffer should write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ontario, for a free copy of Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women."

Folks Back Home

Sketches By J. H. Striebel

Guy Edson

Guy Edson is a stingy man and a careful buyer; and when a piano man from the county seat tried to sell him an instrument, everybody said it couldn't be done. The salesman was a good talker, however, and at length persuaded Guy to let him place an instrument in the house for trial.

Once the piano was installed, Guy wished to hear it played in order that he might judge of its merit, and the salesman got Miss Brown, the local music teacher to come in and play a few pieces. She played a few things by Mozart and Rubenstein and Liszt, and did them rather well, but Guy wasn't impressed. He said the piano had a right pretty tinkle, but he wished to hear a real musician play it.

So the salesman went back to the county seat and brought down the chap who plays the piano in the orchestra at the opera house. This worthy had his instructions in advance and when he began the demonstration he started on "Old Black Joe" and followed this with "Turkey in the Straw," "Old Folks at Home," and "Suwannee River."

Guy sat enraptured, and, when the last note had died away reached for his check book. He says that he does not believe there is another piano in the country with a tone as sweet as his.

Famous Guys

DARWIN, CHARLES ROBERT: Those who love truth owe much to the great English naturalist, and those who love controversy owe him even more for he gave great impetus to argument and even now wise men and foolish men quarrel concerning the origin of man.

He taught the world that species are not fixed beyond change; that in natural competition the strong survive and the weak perish, so that Nature is ever in process of improving her handiwork; and that by a process of natural selection certain types are fixed, their natural characteristics made more pronounced, and thus a new species developed. He did not assert that man descended from the monkey, he but advanced the theory and bolstered it up with facts that frightened the lay world and called down its wrath on his head.

He was an invalid; a worker possessed of great patience, who did not spare himself; an unbeliever in the divinity of Christ, and a scientist without rival. Science it must be remembered is a study of facts.

His weakness lay in this that much effort to demonstrate truth at last took away his capacity to believe in the unseen. He demonstrated facts, and lost faith.

He was like one who studies the movement of machinery and marvels and so forgets the power that causes the wheels to turn.

THE GIRL AND THE BUTCHER BOY

STORMY WEATHER ACROSS the STREET

"Hiram came down the walk under an umbrella and stood for a little while at the front gate and smoked."

Throughout the whole of Sunday afternoon the rain came down in a steady, monotonous torrent, so that none were abroad on the streets, but at 2 o'clock, at 4 o'clock, and again at 6 o'clock, Hiram the butcher boy, who but lately took the girl across the street as bride, and came to make his home with her parents, came down the front walk under an umbrella and stood for a little while at the front gate, and smoked. Each time when his cigarette was finished, he returned to the house and disappeared within the door.

This phenomena required explanation but none was forthcoming until the girl herself came over Wednesday afternoon and began to talk concerning her adventure in matrimony.

"I think it is so awfully wonderful," said she, "that we can live right here with Papa and Mamma. I'd be so lonely in a house of my own with Hiram down at the butcher shop all the day. Mamma is so capable and tactful and I think a young wife needs such a lot of advice about how to handle her husband and everything.

"I don't mean that Hiram is hard to handle. He is the sweetest and most considerate thing in the world, and he never thinks about himself. I know it is going to be lovely this way when we all get settled down, and Hiram gets used to Mamma.

"Sunday afternoon Mamma had a headache, and she doesn't like the smell of tobacco anyway, and when dinner was over she said she hoped there would not be any smoking about the house. Any other woman would have spoken right out, but Mamma is tactful about things lige that, and wanted to save Hiram's feelings.

"And he was so quick to catch the point! I think Hiram's awfully bright. And it was so sweet of him not to say anything to hurt Mamma, but just stepped outside when he got ready to smoke. I don't believe many men are that angelic!"

Ah, well, probably not. But as we remember the expression on Hiram's face as he stod at the gate under the umbrella, it wasn't particularly angelic. You can't always tell about an expression however and he may have been thinking sweet and gelic thoughts.

DRYS GET BUSY IN ITALY NOW

Prohibitionist Movement Receives a New Impetus When Number of Liquor Selling Places Reduced.

(By CAMILLO CIANFARRA)

ROME, Nov. 1 (United Press).—The prohibitionist movement, which for some time had remained quiet, while awaiting the results of the American dry law, received a new impetus when the council of ministers suddenly decided to stop the issuance of more licenses for wine shops, cafes and public places selling intoxicants, and at the same time reduce the number of shops already existing.

Although the consumption of alcohol has at no time reached in Italy the proportion it had in the United States and some of the northern European countries, yet during the last 15 or 20 years the ravages of alcoholism had more and more attracted the attention not only of the physicians and hygienists, but that of the sociologists and economists as well.

According to Dr. Lutrario, director general of the division of national health at the Ministry of the Interior, the number of deaths due directly to chronic alcoholism has increased from 1.7 for every 100,000 inhabitants in the period 1897-1902 to 2.58 in 1904-1913. During the war the ratio underwent a marked increase, especially in the industrial districts, and is now nearly 4.1 per 100,000 inhabitants.

Insane From Drink

The directors of insane asylums and hospitals in general report a still more symptomatic state of things. The number of insane addicted to the immoderate use of alcoholic beverages, and the number of victims of acute alcoholism treated in the hospitals have constantly increased during the last ten years. Data just published show that out of 10,479 insanes in the asylums of the kingdom in 1890, 473 were victims of alcoholic psychosis. In 1920 the number had increased to 3,000 on a total of 21,600 insanes.

The dry elements of the country have now launched a movement which, though not as radical as that culminating in the Volstead act, aims to reduce to a marked degree the production of wine. Ex-Premier Luzzatti, who has been the leader of the dry forces, has adopted for the prohibition campaign the slogan "More bread and less wine," pointing out that one of the ways of solving the problem of wheat production in Italy is that of reducing the area now devoted to that of grape.

"As long as a substantial quantity of wine," ex-Premier Luzzatti says, "was in the past exported abroad and converted into solid gold, the production of wine on a large scale was somewhat justified. But now that the North American market is closed to Italian table wines, and Chile, Argentina and Brazil are producing their own clarets and the Italian production must be wholly consumed at home, sound patriotism makes it imperative that Italian agriculturists reduce the size of vineyards and sow cereals instead."

The leaders of the movement will ask Premier Mussolini for legislative measures to carry out their program.

Paul di Salvano, a handsome Italian. Salvano has now deserted Betty for

Rose Callahan, a somewhat ordinary young heiress, travelling in Europe with her father. Betty, learning of Paul's desertion is not anxious to lose her husband also, and goes to Algiers where Miles yacht is lying.

Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy Greek, long in love with Terry, has almost succeeded in persuading the girl that her only course is to marry him.

Miles and Terry are enjoying a brief sojourn at Bousaada with Miles servant Mrs. Harkness as chaperone. Miles is preparing to rejoin his wife at Algiers.

Terry prepares to give up Miles for his own sake.

CHAPTER LXXX.

Harky Makes Amends

'My dear, are you in bed?' asked Harky's voice outside.

Terry sighed with relief. She feared that Nazlo had come back. Still, she did not want to see Mrs. Harkness.

'Not— —not yet, she hesitated. 'But— —'

'Do let me come in. I have something very particular to say, the old woman pleaded. 'I know you must be tired. But I won't stay long. Seems as if I couldn't wait till morning.

Terry opened the door, and the stout, respectable figure came in. Some quality in the old voice had told her that Mrs. Harkness was keeping down strong emotion, and as the light fell upon her face, the girl saw tears.

She shrank back a little, hands over her heart. 'Oh, what is it?' she faltered. 'No more bad news? I can't live through any more tonight.'

'You won't have to, my child, you won't have to, Harky choked. A sob struggled up from her breast.

She searched nervously for her handkerchief, and not finding it, flicked tears away with her fingers.

'Why do you speak to me so?' Terry asked sharply. 'You make me afraid.

'Indeed, I wasn't meanin' to do that, sputtered the woman, her brogue very strong, as it always became when she was in the throes of emotion.

'What I've heard from Mr. Miles has just bowled me over, that's what's the matter. To think of the cruel injustice I've been doin' ye in my heart all this time, and you as innocent as a babe unborn. Can ye ever forgive me, darlinj child?'

'He told you—' Terry faltered.

'Why, I did hear Mr. Nazlo call you 'Miss Desmond, but it made no impression whatever on me mind. Mr. Miles has been explainin how, not only are ye not Miss Juliet Divine, but not anything like what I've been takin ye for—what you never once seemed to be at all!"

The girl caught her by the sleeve. 'What did you take me for?' she cried. 'Do tell me! You must. That's the one thing I've been needing to know all along. I need to know now, more than ever before, oh, far more. I can't be myself, till I do know.

Mrs. Harkness was embarrassed. The tears dried on her hot cheeks.

'Why, my dear, you must understand what I mean," she fudged. 'You must understand that— that— —'

'What? I tell you I don't understand. I know so little. It isn't many months since I was in school—with the nuns. Sometimes it's seemed lately as if I knew nothing at all, worth knowing. But you see, I'm not eighteen yet—'

'Not eighteen?' the old woman gasped. 'Why, you're a baby! And it's a baby you look—if I'd ever let meself believe me own eyes. But that's what I didn't do, and Mr. Miles didn't do it either. He— —'

'You haven't told me yet what you took me for."

Mrs. Harkness looked trapped. 'I suppose ye know there are bad women in the world?'

'There must be lots."

'But it's a special kind of badness I'm meanin.' The kind of badness where a woman will live with a man she's not married to, and even though he's married to someone else, maybe."

'But—' Terry faltered—'then I'm one of those bad ones. I would live with Miles without being married, if he couldn't get a divorce. I've just told him so. I told him I'd rather live so, than that he should try and bribe his wife—it seemed so horrible to do that.

'I thought, if he had me to love him—because he said he wanted me so much, and wouldn't give me up—he could hide me from people who would talk, and do him harm. He could see me sometimes, and always I could be praying for him and loving him.

'No one need know, as they would if we were married. Nobody could say he had done wrong to his wife, and married a girl—a bad girl—like me—or my sister Julia.

'My good Lord, is Juliet Divine your sister?' the old woman gurgled.

BRIDGENORTH BOY FELL DOWN STAIRS

Little Rex. Forsythe Sustained Fractured Leg—Epworth League Gave Concert — News Paragraphs.

BRIDGENORTH, Nov. 1.—The many friends of little Rex Forsythe will regret to hear he fell down stairs and broke his leg. He was taken to Nicholl's Hospital, where the little fellow is progressing favorably.

The Epworth League held a very successful concert and social on Thursday evening of last week. Friends from Selwyn, Fairview and Peterborough helped greatly with their selections, recitations, duets, readings, solos and dialogues.

Rev. B. Greatrix of Peterboro, preached the anniversary services at Bridgenorth Methodist church on Sunday. A large number attended both morning and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kelly and family spent Sunday the guests of Mrs. W. B. Kelly, Bridgenorth.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Oliver of Selwyn, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Sidey on Sunday.

Miss Edith Nichols of Peterboro spent last week-end the guest of Mrs. Garner Nichols, Bridgenorth.

Mr. and Mrs. F. McIlmoyl of Selwyn were guests of the latter's brother, Mr. T. Edmonson, on Sunday.

Miss Irene Mann of Peterborough, was home over the week-end.

Miss Margaret Mann entertained a number of her friends on Monday. The evening was spent with cards and in dancing.

The Misses Helen Jopling and Ferne Telford, of Peterborough, spent the week-end at their homes in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. William Robinson, Miss Ina and Babe Ople, spent Friday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. McWilliams.

Mrs. R. Tuchburne returned home on Friday after visiting friends at Omemee.

MISSION SUNDAY AT JANETVILLE

Rev. Chas. Reddick of Lakefield Preached at Anniversary.

JANETVILLE, Nov. 1.—Perhaps the most successful Missionary Anniversary held on the Janetville circuit in years was that conducted by Rev. Charles Reddick, B.A., of Lakefield and the pastor last Sabbath. Mr. Reddick is a former pastor and is one of the most powerful preachers in our conference. His message has the true ring, and grips the people. Such preaching as his finds but few vacant pews.

The choir was out in force, and the organist and leader, Miss Miriam Richardson, is to be congratulated on the music of the day. It was rich in abundance and quality both morning and at night. In the evening, by special request, Rev. and Mrs. Ross sang "Oh, Light of God so Wondrous." Many kind expressions of appreciation were offered to Mr. and Mrs. Ross at the close of the service for the duet.

In the afternoon Missionary effort was continued, and Rev. Mr. Reddick delivered a most telling message. The congregation was good and the spirit of God was there with demonstration and power.

There being no choir at Mount Horeb at the beginning of the present pastorate, the pastor made a request that the young people get together and have some special music by which to welcome their former minister, Mr. Reddick and also help in making the Missionary Anniversary of their church a success. The response was most hearty. A splendid choir filled the gallery and rendered excellent music.

The financial aspect is believed to be brighter than in any previous year. Envelopes were distributed and were returned with more than $600.00 for the day, with numbers still to come in. This does not include the "Japanese Emergency Fund," which was brought before the people two weeks ago.

The Young People's work is in a most healthy condition. Last Fridays evening sixteen Tuxis Boys met and held an impressive initiative service, adding seven new members to their group. The pastor has called a meeting of all boys of ten years and over who do not belong to the Tuxis, to meet at the parsonage on Wednesday evening for organization into a "Trail Rangers" group. The little fellows are enthusiastic over the prospect of being "organized into something." This organization will give us about 80 organized young people on the circuit. These young lives shall be trained for Christian citizenship. Who shall measure the privilege, opportunity and responsibility of the rural pastor, whose Young People will ultimately head for the city to face their Waterloo, and face it alone?

The Ladies' Aid have placed in the pastor's study a handsome study table of magnificent design, also a fine study chair. The Sunday School room has been painted and decorated and is an inspiration to the whole congregation. There is great enthusiasm over the coming play to be given by the Aid on November 9 in the Foresters Hall.

The family of Rev. Mr. Reddick accompanied him on his way back to visit his former circuit, and were very welcome indeed. The boys and girls of the family were delighted to renew old acquaintances.

Messrs. Arthur Stinson and Isaac Skuce, one from Janetville and the other from Mount Horeb, will attend the Y. P. convention to be held at Belleville on Wednesday.

OPENING OF INTERNATIONAL BRIDGE.

Oct. 31, 1873—The International Bridge across the Niagara River, which was constructed at a cost of about $1,500,000, was formally opened on this date, when the first car that passed over it contained officials of the New York Central Railway and the Grand Trunk Railway. The bridge, which connects Buffalo with Fort Erie, was constructed under the authority of the New York State Legislature and the Canadian Parliament by a board composed of representatives of Canada and the United States. The contractors were C. S. Gzowski & Co., of Toronto.

Creole Omelet

(From the famous Creole Cook Book published in New Orleans)

6 fine ripe tomatoes
6 eggs
2 tablespoonfuls minced ham
Salt and pepper to taste
2 onions
1 tablespoonful Crisco

Scald and skin six ripe tomatoes, and chop them fine. Chop two onions and add a large spoonful of bread crumbs. Fry them with a tablespoonful of butter in a sauce pan until quite brown. Then add the tomatoes, and salt, pepper and cayenne to taste, and let all stew for an hour, at least. Prepare the eggs as for ham omelet and when the tomatoes are quite done have ready a heated frying pan and a half tablespoonful of Crisco. Pour them into the pan. As they become set pour in the center the tomatoes and fold the omelet over and cook for two minutes longer. Roll gently into a dish and serve hot.

CHINA'S COTTON INDUSTRY

There was a time, years back, when the Chinese did not look upon the cotton flower with favor, being devoted to silk culture; but in recent times the native cotton industry has developed rapidly. A large part of the coarse-fibered, kinky cotton from the farms is sent to mills in Shanghai, Tientsin or Wusich that are equipped with English or American machinery. Most of the looms in the Chinese mills, however, are constructed on the same principle as those used in household weaving by the simple peasant folk.

New York Stock Exchang — and Curb Prices

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1. — (United Press). — Stocks maintained Wednesday's swift pace in the early dealings to-day, but the price changes were irregular among the active stocks.

Nothing in the news was of sufficient importance to exert an influence in the market in the face of the tremendous upheaval witnessed in the previous session and prices continued to be affected only by technical considerations arising out of this extraordinary route of the shorts.

In issues like Baldwin and a few other industrial leaders the effect of the widespread retreat of the bears was reflected in an easier tone in the initial trading. Others, however, were buoyed by new buying and further cancelling of short contracts, with the result that fluctuations in the first fifteen minutes showed no definite trend.

Trading in stocks on the Exchange from 10 o'clock to 1.30 o'clock totalled 263,700 shares.

Following irregularity in the early dealings, stocks swung into a renewal of the forward movement and prices advanced practically uniformly throughout the list.

New highs on the present rally were reached by Dupont, Baldwin, Studebaker and other industrials.

What shorts disliked was the small amount of stocks for sale on the specialists' books when attempts were made to cover.

For example, American Ice closed Wednesday with a net gain of 5 5-8 points on the sale of 700 shares; Harvester 5 points on 12,600; Alcohol 2¾ on 5,800 shares; Sloss, 3 on 600; Republic 3 on 5,600, and Lead 4½ on 900 shares, and so on down the list.

At the close it was estimated that only a small part of the large short interest had covered.

Opening prices included:

REGULAR MEETING PETERBORO W.C.T.U.

Business Session Included Very Interesting Report of Brantford Convention.

The regular meeting of the Peterborough branch of the W. C. T. U. was held yesterday afternoon in the green room of the Y.W.C.A., with a good attendance of members. In the absence of the president, Mrs. M. A. Morrison, the chair was taken by the vice-president, Mrs. A. E. Micks. The business session included a very interesting report on the recent Ontario W.C.T.U. convention held in Brantford, made by the local secretary, Mrs. R. J. Weir The ladies decided to hold a rummage sale next week in the Farmers' store, on Simcoe street. A pleasing feature of the programme was the presence of Miss Blair Campbell ,of Belleville, who sang very charmingly during the afternoon, accompanied by Miss Hilda Oldham .

Mrs. Weir's Report.

Mrs Weir's report, which was quite lengthy, covered in excellent fashion the proceedings of the convention, the 46th annual event of the society, held in the Branch avenue Methodist church in Brantford from October 15th to 19th. Mrs. R. J. Weir and Miss S. Hamilton represented the local society at this meeting.

The speaker referred to the presence at one meeting of one of the oldest and one of the most youthful members of the society, the former four score and two years of age, the latter just four years of age, a little White Ribboner.

Reports were made by various delegates; an interesting talk, illustrated with slides, was given, showing the use to be made of slides in addresses on the evils of alcohol and cigarettes; the Travellers' Aid Department report emphasized the necessity of realizing the menace of the automobile to the young girl. Mrs. Denyes ,of Milton, speaking on Scientific Temperance, said that "moderation does not moderate. Drink impairs the faculties and stands in the way of progress and employment. We must reach the foreign element by teaching the children. The price of progress is education."

Miss Maud McKee, the corresponding secretary, reported an increase in membership and decrease in debt. The sum of $46,358.52 was raised last year by the society for the prosecution of its work.

The address of the president, Mrs. Pugsley, of Toronto, compared the progress of the movement with the progress of a stream, impeded by obstacles along the way, still making its way, undaunted, to the ocean. "Montreal is the only city in America with a red light district and the results are easily seen. There were never so many wet spots in Quebec as there are to-day. Let us stand by those in authority and uphold their hands."

An address on Citizenship was given by Mrs. Kerr, of Ottawa. Mrs. Hasket of Ottawa, declared that "prohibition does prohibit, but moderation does not modify. Many claim that Government control is a farce. The W.C.T.U. asks that the penalties for violation be made more exacting. The Moderation League is working as never before, and their chief weapon is ridicule."

Mrs. Ashcroft of Howden Vale, speaking on Indian work, spoke of the need of nurses and care for the tubercular patients on the reserves, also among the boys and girls, the latter, it is claimed, knowing nothing of moral living. It was reported that Captain Edwards, of Kenora, had reported that the Peterborough W.C.T.U sent the best bale ever received by him for Indian work.

Mrs. Mulholland spoke of the struggle which had still to be maintained against the opposition which was being felt in many places, particularly along the borders of the province, where bootlegging was one of the greatest menaces; she also referred to the evils which could arise from serving of fermented fruits or home-brewed beverages of any kinds.

Membership in the association was reported as being 11,279, an increase of 401 members, with $2,82.25 Y. and W. fees.

"What Women would do if they had Portfolios," was the subject of an address by Mrs. McKee of North Bay, who referred to the possibilities in Canada's wealth of woods and water power, to the emigration from Canada an acount of the heavy taxation, the "flaws in the old garment," of the school question, which needs looking into, the need for a watchful eye on immigration, and for laws regarding women and children, "for surely they require more care than horses and cattle," also emphasized the importance of our own temperance work. Other reforms advocated by different speakers were courses in temperance work in all training schools, improvement of the cold storage system, enforcement of the cigarette laws, cheap convention rates on the railroad.

An address by Mr. Handley, evangelist, spoke of the W.C.T.U. as first, unknown; second, ridiculed; third, the most feared organization. The greatest mistake ever made by man, declared Mr. Handley, was to give women the vote, because women always vote according to conviction and conscience.

Officers for the Ontario W.C.T.U. for the year were appointed as follows: President, Mrs. Pugsley, Toronto; vice-president, Mrs. Brown, Ottawa; corresponding secretary, Miss Maud McKee, North Bay, recording secretary, Mrs. George Edgecombe, Stratford; treasurer, Mrs. Statler, Oshawa.

Mrs. Weir referred to the singing of a pretty vocal selection at the convention, by Mrs. Bruce Hughes, formerly Miss Clara Belcham, of this city; also to meeting in Brantford friends of the city, in Mr. Williamson, formerly with the Y.M.C.A, here, Mr. Herb Conway, of the Grafton establishment, and Mr. Bradley Mowry and family.

MARY PICKFORD SUES FOR LIBEL

Demands Damages For Story Alleging Estrangement With Husband.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 1.—A court battle to stop alleged malicious and uninformed stories about men and women in the motion picture industry is expected to be started in New York today as the result of instructions Mary Pickford, motion picture actress, and her actor-husband, Douglas Fairbanks, last night announced they had telegraphed to attorneys in that city.

Their eastern attorneys, they said, were ordered to begin suits immediately against a film magazine which is alleged to have published a report that Evelyn Brent, Mr. Fairbanks' former leading lady, had caused the estrangement of Miss Pickford and her husband.

Miss Brent joined with Mr. and Mrs. Fairbanks in denouncing the alleged libelous articles as "ridiculously untrue," and her husband, B. P. Fineman, confirmed the Fairbanks announcement that she would join with them in the bringing of the suit.

"Nasty and Unjust"

"That was a nasty story, an unjus story," was the way Miss Pickford characterized the article on which the proposed libel suit was to be based. "We are bringing this suit to protect not only ourselves but all others who are attacked by such stories."

Referring to the supposed "rumors that a separation from Mr. Fairbanks was imminent," Miss Pickford cited the fact that her husband "follows along wherever I go on location, even if he has to stop work on his own picture."

Fairbanks described rumors of a separation as about what one might expect from those "who have been talking about me for years." He added that his acquaintance with Miss Brent was purely professional and that he "never talked with her more than twenty minutes at a time."

"Mental perverts have been talking about me for years," Fairbanks said. "As a matter of fact, Mary and I were never so happy in our lives."

GREENLAW CONCERT

Although Hallowe'en festivities of various sorts attracted some of the crowd from the concert at George street Methodist church last evening, those who formed an audience for Albert E. Greenlaw bass soloist of Detroit and for Miss Blair Campbell, elocutionist of Belleville, to the number of some four hundred people were very appreciative of the splendid voice and fine musicianship of the former, and of the youthful charm and talent of the young lady who assisted him.

Mr. Greenlaw, who has been heard in Peterboro before, is a favorite here, and his solo numbers last night were accorded enthusiastic encores. His voice is a powerful, rich bass, with the quality of a French horn in its mellow depths his enunciation, is excellent, and there is a wealth of expressive ability in his delivery. His interpretive powers were at their best in a group of the songs of his race when the slight hint of forced expressed in one or two of the other numbers was lost in an un-selfconscious rendition of the characteristic wistful songs of the darky; "Old Black Joe," "Kentucky Home," and "Swanee River," with a forceful voicing of the weary old negros plaint in the spiritual; "Nobody knows the Trouble I see." There was a fine proof of the versatility of the singer in the manner in which he swung into the humorous inflections of the jaunty little encore, "You had Better Ask Me."

With the full force of his deep, rich tones in reverent fashion, Mr. Greenlaw sang with beautiful effect "Open the Gates of the Temple," to organ accompaniment, in a group that included the dainty "Mighty Lak' a Rose,' in swift tempo, and "June will bring the Roses." There was a wealth of feeling in the dramatic power of "The Lord is my Shepherd," sung also to the organ, with a minor-noted lullaby as encore. Mr. Greenlaw sang also "On the Road to Ballyshee." Of this artist it can be said that he sings as if he loved to sing, an attribute that makes his work especially attractive.

Miss Blair Campbell of Belleville, was the reader whose work added much to the enjoyment of a well-balanced programme. This youthful performer shows promise of a fine type of elocutionary ability, and has developed a clear, expressive voice and good power of mimicry. Her selections included "A Voice from a Far Country," a pretty anecdote woven about the singer Melba, with its brief bit of comedy in the encore, "The Village Squire," and Jean Blewett's "The Boy of the House," a pathetic bit rendered in splendid fashion.

Arnold Spencer one of the cleverest of the young boy violinists of the city played the "Spani h Dance", and the "Traumeri."

Mr J. H. Renwick acted in his usual proficient fashion as accompanist at the piano and organ for the various solo numbers.

The George street church orchestra played in bright styl, two marches as an opening number, and, later on in the evening, gave selections from the ever-popular "Bohemian Girl."

At the conclusion of the programme, a Hallowe'en lunch of coffee pumpkin pie and doughnuts was served to a large crowd in the basement of the church by the I.X.L. Club.

ANNIVERSARY AT BETHANY VILLAGE

Inspiring Services in the Methodist Church — A Former Bethany Boy Returns For Visit — Personals.

BETHANY, Nov. 1. — Anniversary services were held in the Methodist Church on Sunday last. Rev. Richardson, of St. James' Church, Peterboro, was to have conducted the services, but owing to his father being very low, he was unable to be present. Rev. Manning of Peterboro preached at the morning and evening services and delivered two very impressive sermons.

The appeal for $300 was almost reached, the contributions amounting to $250.

Returns After 38 Years.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fair, who have been renewing acquaintances in and around the village have returned to their home in Listowel.

Mr. Fair left Bethany 38 years ago and started wiping engines at Toronto Junction on the Canadian Pacific Railway. After wiping and firing engines for seven years, he was promoted to the right side of the cab. He is one of the oldest engineers now in the service, and has been running the same locomotive for 23 years. This engine is called "Fair's Baker Heater."

Mrs. Fair was also a Bethany girl, her maiden name being Kitty Leonard, a sister of the late James Leonard, a former general manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Both Mr. and Mrs. Fair are in the prime of life, and enjoyed their visit very much, although a lot of the old landmarks are gone and the boys and girl of their day are few in number that are left here.

Personal Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Galbraith, of Port Hope, were visitors in the village on Sunday.

Mr. John Porteous motored to Oshawa on Monday.

Mrs. Rae and family of Millbrook spent Sunday the guests of Mrs. Rae's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wake.

Mrs. Rehill, accompanied by the Misses Ethel and Pearl, Mrs. W. Cocks, Mr. Harold Rehill and Mr. Geo. Nichols, of Peterboro, spent Sunday the guests of Mrs. Rehill's daughter, Mrs. R. L. Crerar.

Mr. W. Westlake, of Toronto, is spending a few days in and around the village.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Murphy were business visitors in Peterboro on Saturday.

Mrs. Hamn, of Buffalo, is the guest of her brother and sister, William and Elizabeth Lynn.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Greenlaw and baby spent the week-end with Mrs. Greenlaw's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Munroe, Maberley, Ont.

Mr. R. Vance motored to Lindsay on Saturday.

Mrs. Wm. Rowan was a visitor in Peterboro on Saturday.

Mr. Squire, of Lindsay, is loading a car of fancy peas at the local siding.

Mr. O. McGill, who has been spending the last two months in the Western provinces, has returned home.

BLUENOSE OF HALIFAX RETAINS RACE TROPHY

Canadian Fisherman Demonstrates Her Superiority Over Columbia In Rip-Snorting North-Easter.

HALIFAX, November 1 (Special to The Examiner). — Bluenose, of Halifax, defeated Columbia, the United States challenger, for the International Schooner Trophy in the second of the series of races this afternoon.

Bluenose, the Canadian fisherman, to-day demonstrated her superiority over the Columbia of Gloucester, the American challenger for the International Fishermen's Trophy, in a rip-snorting north-easter that caused both skippers to shorten sail and showered their decks with spray at every plunge.

By to-day's win, Bluenose retains the trophy won two years ago from the Elsie, and retained last year off Gloucester in competition with the Henry Ford.

Both schooners got away to a fine start, and running almost before the wind, scudded for the first mark, six miles distant, with Bluenose slightly in front.

For a moment soon after the champion lost her lead, but getting better wind, the Canadian schooner jumped ahead and away for the inner automatic buoy.

Cobourg and District

COBOURG, Nov. 1.—Mr. J. J. Oulihan has sold to Mr. Donald Grant of Toronto, the porperty on Stewart St., Cobourg, owned by the late Mrs. Kershaw and has also sold to James Michael the farm in Haldimand township, formerly owned by Mrs. Lajoie.

TIGERS LOOK AHEAD.

Montreal Player Promised Employment "and Chance to Play Rugby"

MONTREAL, Nov. 1.—"Pean" Bennett, the youngster who has created such a sensation on the local Rugby gridiron in the last two gahes, before the Montreal public, has, in all probability, played his last game with the red and blue squad.

Bennett has been out of work all summer and has tried his best to get located, but has not been successful, and little interest seems to have been taken in his affairs. Coach Marriott, of the Hamilton squad, learnt of this when he was down here this past weekend-, and promised the youngster employment in Hamilton. Three or four other Hamilton men tried to get Bennett to go back with them, promising him that he would be given work immediately. Bennett is also a star hockey player, and if he goes to Hamilton will very likely be found on the line-up of the amateur team of the Hamilton Tigers.

DOMINIONS AND FOREIGN POLICY

No Great Advance Yet Regarding Canada's Participation With The Imperial Government

LONDON, November 1. (Special Cable to the Canadian Press, by George Hambleton, Staff Corespondent.) — From present indications it seems doubtful if any great advance will be made in the main imperial conference, with regard to participation of the Dominions in the British foreign policy.

Members of the conference were kept informed of progress of recent negotiations in the matter of calling of an international conference on reparations, but so far, it is understood, no concrete proposals have been submitted for improved methods of consulting the Dominions between sessions of the Imperial Conference. This question however still has to be discussed.

Can You Afford to Speculate?

EVERY time you buy something you are either speculating or making a definite investment.

Few people can afford to speculate. Yet many do it continually, in making their every-day purchases. And it is so unnecessary! The advertisements make it easy for anyone to avoid taking a chance.

The merchant or manufacturer who advertises, realize that the good-will of his customers means money in the bank to him. He knows that public confidence in his product and public respect for his own character are as valuable as his credit at the bank.

So he makes the individual satisfaction of his patrons, their loyalty and their friendship paramount issues in his business.

When you buy an advertised product, you can know in advance what to expect in return for your money. You can count on it being right. You are making an investment.

But when you buy nameless, unbranded merchandise, you are taking a chance. You are speculating.

Know what you buy. The advertisements will tell you.

HALLOWE'EN PARTIES NUMEROUS

A very successful Hallowe'en masquerade was held last night in All Saints' Parish Hall under the auspices of the Athletic Association. There were about 120 present in a great variety of costumes. The prize winners were:

Ladies' fancy costume—Miss Robinson as an Old Fashioned Lady.

Ladies' comic costume—Miss Davidson as Crazy Kate.

Men's fancy costume—W. Saunders as Highland Chief.

Men's comic costume—H Farr as Charlie Chaplin.

Booby prize—Mr. E .Wandly as Mr Mildew.

Special prize to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Thumb.

The evening was spent in games and community singing, led by Mr. G. Chandler, interspersed with a short musical programme, consisting of vocal solos by Mrs. Ryerson Ritchie, Mrs. J. Edgar, Mrs. F. Rathbone, Mr. E. Wandly, and Mr. G. Chandler, and readings by Mrs. H. E. Conolly. The accompanists for the evening were Miss Flowers, Mr R. J. Devey, and Mr. W. H. Barry.

The judges were Miss J. I. Maconomy, Messrs. Richardson, Barry, Welsh and Young.

Among the celebrities present were Little Bo-Peep, Boob McNutt, a Gypsy Queen, a Knight of the Bath, with a number of Clowns, Sailors, Soldiers and many other interesting persons.

HALLOWE'EN PRATIES ....

At the grand masquerade carnival held in the Parish Hall of All Saints' Church last evening, nearly a hundred people attended in costume, and spent a pleasant evening in the enjoyment of grand marches, games and the service of refreshments. The entertainment was held under the auspices of All Saints' Athletic Association, with Mr. Horace Ashmore as president, and ladies of the church who assisted were Mesdames Connelly, Fitzgerald, and Runnett.

Prizes for best costumes were awarded to Miss Adell Robinson as best dressed lady, Mr. William Saunders as best dressed gentleman, and H. Farr, comic costume.

A masquerade dance, under the auspices of the Woodmen of the World, was held in their hall last evening, with an attendance of about a hundred people, in costume. Mr. T. Ryan acted as floor manager. Ladies on the Refreshment Committee were Mesdames Chatten, Tate, Powell, and Foster. The prize for the best-dressed lady went to Miss Olive Sanders, for the best-dressed gentleman to J. Murphy, and for the best comics to Miss Ivy Lynas and Mr. Joseph Gordon.

A hundred and fifty people, the majority in costume, attended a very successful Hallowe'en dance in the G.W.V.A. hall last evening, held under the auspices of the War Veterans' Association, the ladies of the Auxiliary co-operating with the refreshment arrangements, Mrs. W. Hughes acting as convenor.

Roberts' orchestra provided excellent music for dancing. The hall was prettily arranged with Hallowe'en novelties in orange and black. The prize for the best dressed couple went to Miss Jennie Anderson and Mr. E. Lewis.

Welcome, Dearie

by Jack Lait

EVERY fulsome father with a freckle-faced young son busily throwing table knives at the cat has a secret, cherished, enduring hope that his boy will be President of these here United States.

Every doting mother with a pig-tailed or bob-haired young daughter rebelling against her singing lessons has a fond faith that her cherub will one day be a grand opera star.

Few parents, except "professionals," want their progeny to become performers, and few except bootleggers want theirs to be politicians. But grand opera isn't show-business, and being President does take some of the curse off politics.

We will dismiss the White House angle now, since we are dealing with the feminine gender; it was only dragged in for a pointed parallel, anyhow. A pointed parallel would be a geometrical paradox or an optical illusion, but figuratively it will get by. Parallels look pointed in perspective, and that goes with this story, which has to do with the dim and far-off horizon visioned by the mother of Mabel Ricks.

Mabel was born without any unusual excitement and was weaned without any extraordinary to-do, in a fresh-water town somewhere between Chicago and New York. Her father was an upstanding, but not especially notable, dealer in nails, axe-handles, sprinkling cans, wheelbarrows, enamel ware and appropriate miscellany. Her mother had been a school teacher, a churchgoer, a W. C. T. U. worker, a suffrage fan; in all, she was respectable, active, progressive and no drifter.

When Mrs. Ricks became a mother, she determined that her daughter would amount to something. She, herself, realized that her scope was circumscribed by facts over which she had no longer free control. But Mabel should conquer her disadvantages of humble birth and remote residence. Mrs. Ricks decided to see in which direction Mabel's predominant opportunity lay, and to work unceasingly on that line.

Before the child was six, her mother had concluded that Mabel's gift was in her larynx, and she started her off at once, "taking vocal." The little one wept and yammered and stalled and naughtily wiggled out as far and as often as she could, but her mother hadn't taught a primary grade for nothing; she knew all the tricks and twists. Mabel not only was having her voice developed, conducted, silk-lined and sand-papered, but she was getting chest exercises, breathing technique, theory of music, repertoire of the classics, counterpoint, dramatic rendition, the De Reszke method of open-vowel enunciation, and a daily dozen of associated branches all aimed to transmute her into a human canary.

Mrs. Ricks had her hands full. There were no other children, and she couldn't be bothered with any more. She wanted only one, and that one to be a star.

The youngster had a rather shabby time of it, forbidden to play as other children did, "practicing" and going through her other rituals when she burned and yearned to be cutting paper dolls or cooking fudge. Every year her work became more complex and more exacting and every year Mabel became less tractable as the temptations grew more alluring. That she hotly hated her ambitious and perniciously persistent mother, neither of them doubted. Her father, "just a busy man," resented the whole process, but he was only too glad that his wife was so preoccupied training Mabel that she didn't have much time to work on him, so he never talked out of his turn.

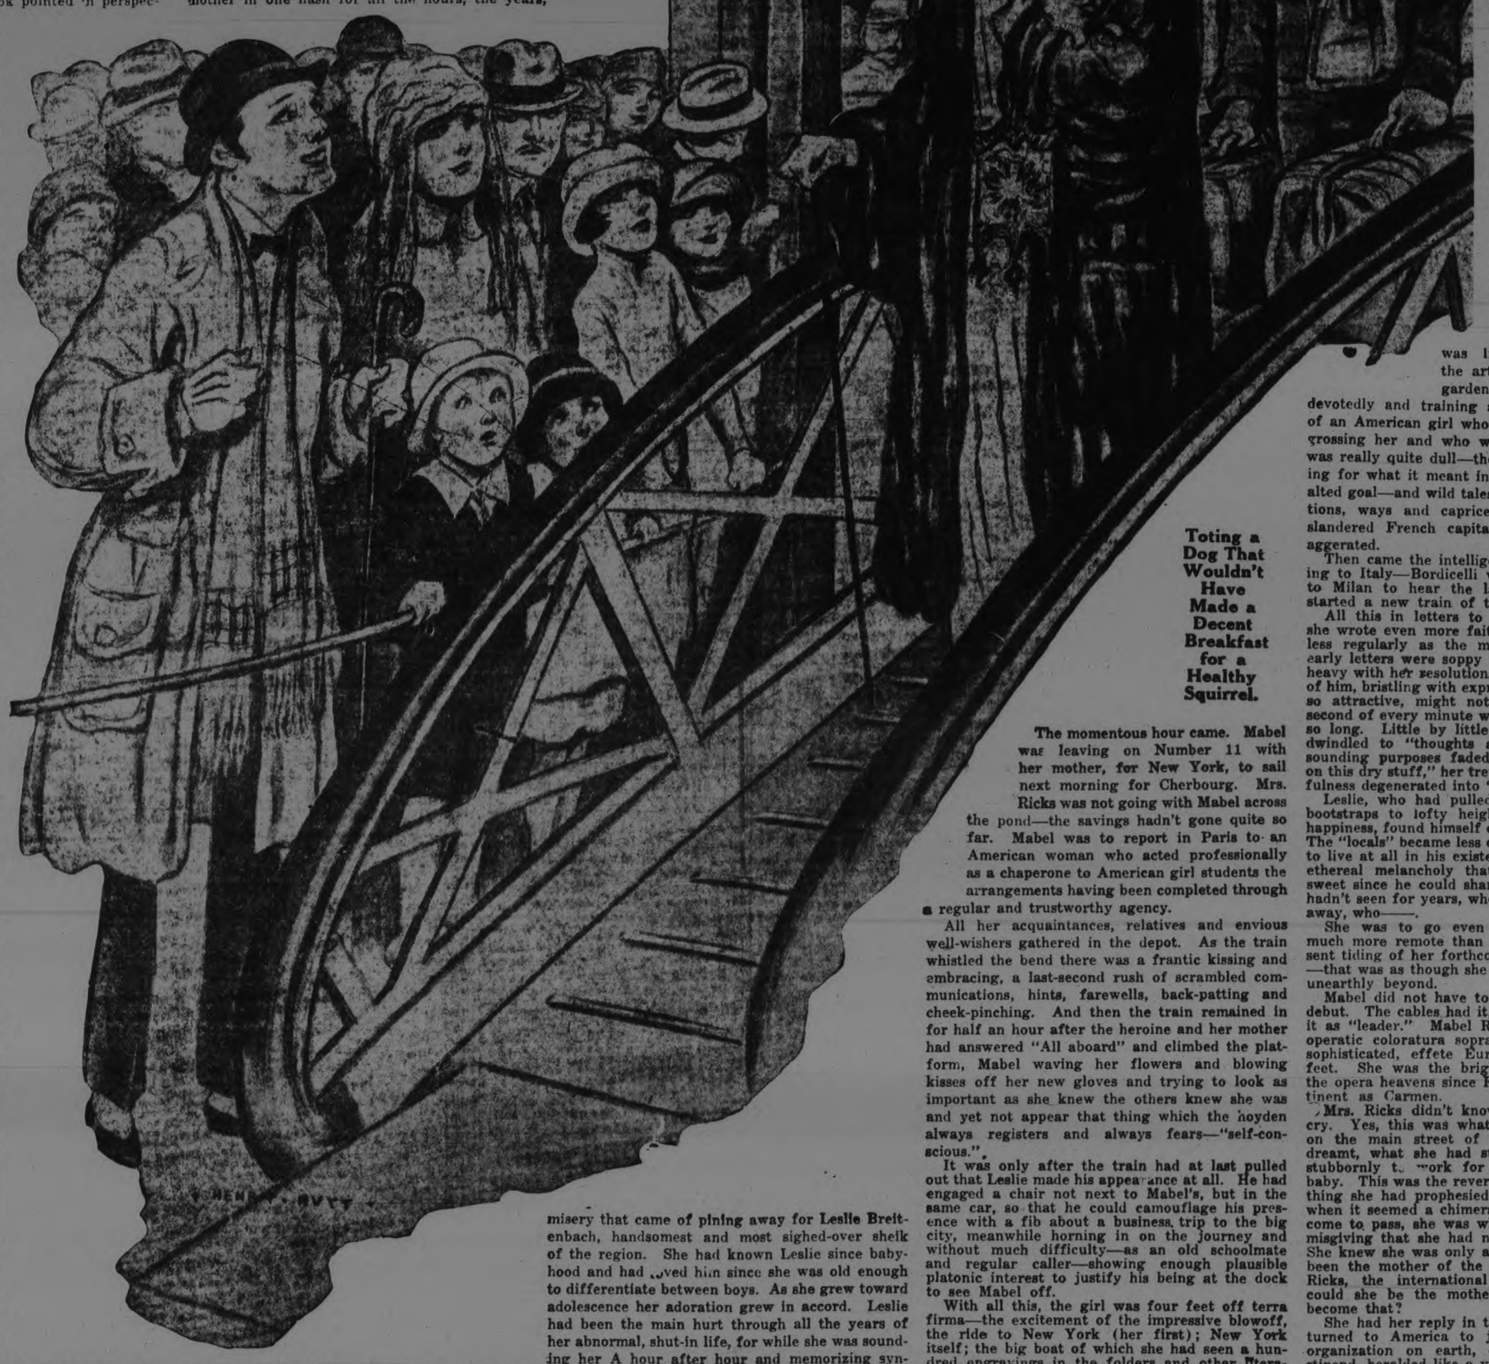
Mrs. Ricks, set and immutable in her single purpose, patiently kept after it, encouraged by results that gradually appeared. Mabel was the most promising prospect in the local music school class by many lengths; she was always selected to tear off a solo at events within their social sphere; the local papers had twice published one-column cuts of her that looked like patent medicine ad inserts, and she had an inch and three-quarters more chest expansion than any other girl for miles around.

When the Elks gave their annual vaudeville, and Mabel ran away with the whole show at the principal theatre, Mrs. Ricks smiled triumphantly, and immodestly. She knew, and everyone who had winked or giggled at her devoted monomania knew she knew they now knew, that Mabel was there. Henceforth, it could be only a matter of keeping on—the doubt was dissipated, the mother lode was found and blue-printed.

Mabel worked harder now than ever before. She was taken out of high school and carved up to fit a programme that left her very little time or energy for flapper frivolities. To the youths and the other girls, of course, she posed as wrapped up in her art, very much as Tom Sawyer did when he was white-washing the fence on a holiday. But within her there was rebellion, for she was a girl and she craved play, puppy romance, primping and parties.

But Mrs. Ricks, having tasted blood, yielded nothing. In the back of her head she had been for years nursing a climax to all this, and for years she had been putting aside a tithe of her household money toward attaining it. On Mabel's eighteenth birthday she sprung the surprise: Mabel was going to Europe to be finished off!

It was a sensation. Pa Ricks had never visualized such a possibility. Mabel, forgiving her mother in one flash for all the hours, the years, misery that came of pining away for Leslie Breitenbach, handsomest and most sighed-over sheik of the region. She had known Leslie since babyhood and had loved him since she was old enough to differentiate between boys. As she grew toward adolescence her adoration grew in accord. Leslie had been the main hurt through all the years of her abnormal, shut-in life, for while she was sounding her A hour after hour and memorizing synchronic harmonies by the chord, she not only was kept from Leslie, but she knew that other girls—freer, happier girls—were cornering him somewhere and industriously making hay while she was fooling with her dry musical straw.



Toting a Dog That Wouldn't Have Made a Decent Breakfast for a Healthy Squirrel.

rushed around the table and hugged her. Europe! It was too good.

Mrs. Ricks accepted the wonderment and the encomiums. Yes, she had been working up to this for a long, long time. Yes, while some had snickered and others had sneered, while the ostensible head of the family had looked on and suffered, while Mabel had grouched and grumbled, she—the only one with imagination beyond the narrow range of the one-cylinder burg and its petty affairs and opportunities, had seen—had toiled—had endured—had conquered.

When the intelligence flew through the Ricks social circle, Mabel was the heroine. Her mother's courage and stamina were honorably mentioned; but after all it was Mabel who was going to Europe, Mabel who was to study for grand opera where grand opera should be studied for, Mabel who would see the wonders of the old world, who would live in the wild, soiled Parisian bohemia they knew from the California pictures, Mabel who might live in a studio and learn how to pronounce "M-o-n-t-m-a-r-t-r-e."

The young bloods of the town, who had thereunto always regarded Mabel as somewhat slow because she wasn't up in the latest slum dances and had to be in early and often, began to realize their error. They had been entertaining an angel in their midst, and had sized her up as a house-cat. Mabel Ricks suddenly found herself the central subject of gossip, the sought-after celebrity of the hour.

She had for several years been enjoying the

The momentous hour came. Mabel was leaving on Number 11 with her mother, for New York, to sail next morning for Cherbourg. Mrs. Ricks was not going with Mabel across the pond—the savings hadn't gone quite so far. Mabel was to report in Paris to an American woman who acted professionally as a chaperone to American girl students the arrangements having been completed through a regular and trustworthy agency.

All her acquaintances, relatives and envious well-wishers gathered in the depot. As the train whistled the bend there was a frantic kissing and embracing, a last-second rush of scrambled communications, hints, farewells, back-patting and cheek-pinching. And then the train remained in for half an hour after the heroine and her mother had answered "All aboard" and climbed the platform, Mabel waving her flowers and blowing kisses off her new gloves and trying to look as important as she knew the others knew she was and yet not appear that thing which the hoyden always registers and always fears—"self-conscious."

It was only after the train had at last pulled out that Leslie made his appearance at all. He had engaged a chair not next to Mabel's, but in the same car, so that he could camouflage his presence with a fib about a business trip to the big city, meanwhile horning in on the journey and without much difficulty—as an old schoolmate and regular caller—showing enough plausible platonic interest to justify his being at the dock to see Mabel off.

With all this, the girl was four feet off terra firma—the excitement of the impressive blowoff, the ride to New York (her first); New York itself; the big boat of which she had seen a hundred engravings in the folders and other literature, the pulsing present and the kaleidoscopic prospects of the immediate future, the greater things yet ahead, all this—and Leslie!

She popped, fizzed, bubbled like an uncorked quart of champagne. Leslie thought her divine. Her mother agreed with him, though she suggested that divinity must come from somewhere. Environment, did he think—or heredity?

The evening in New York was a thriller. A room in a Broadway hotel, a theatre-party with Leslie as the host, dinner in a cafe, supper at a cabaret, it was all too ducky and dizzy. Mabel awoke after a night of little rest with a hurty headache that she hysterically enjoyed, bursting with the kick of it all, eating up every moment but madly impatient to get aboard the liner and leave even these delirious native ties cut behind her.

She did not have long to wait. The ship cast off promptly at noon—which is prompt for a ship due to shove along at 10 o'clock—leaving her mother bereft of affectation and gas, sobbing in the comforting arms of Leslie, who, after all, was home folks. Leslie had managed to filch a kiss between decks while Mrs. Ricks had turned to gaze in some specific wonder at the amazing vessel, and he, too, was jacked up with the many sensations of the occasion. He did not weep, but managed to wriggle his kerchief over the bent and palpitating shoulder of Mrs. Ricks as Mabel, over the rail of the disappearing ship, sent him love's young kisses off her finger-tips.

Thus was the exit of Mabel Ricks from her own country, toward the realm of garlic, romance, culture and opportunity.

Thus did her mother stagger off and return worried, scared, shocked and doubting whether she had not after all been over-ambitious and rash.

Thus did Leslie carry away under the niftiest belted overcoat in his town a heart beating with the vibrations of a sub rosa romance with a girl who was not as other girls; who had sailed away on a big ship to strange lands, to mingle with the arts and return in a blaze of glory.

Thus did it stand for two years without much change except that the months wore away the first terrors of Mrs. Ricks's fears.

Mabel wrote daily at first, then weekly, then semi-monthly, then whenever the spirit moved her, finally whenever the queries "Why DON'T you answer our letters?" piled up too thickly, or when the periodical allowance didn't arrive.

She wrote that she was doing nobly under the tutelage of Bordicelli, the retired old master who had polished off so many immortal prima donnas; that she was living quietly, enjoying the art galleries and botanical gardens of Paris, studying devotedly and training arduously; that the life of an American girl who had serious matters engrossing her and who was naturally respectable was really quite dull—though essentially interesting for what it meant in creeping toward an exalted goal—and wild tales of the dangers, temptations, ways and caprices of foreigners in the slandered French capital were ridiculously exaggerated.

Then came the intelligence that Mabel was going to Italy—Bordicelli was conducting his class to Milan to hear the latest opera. Italy! It started a new train of thought again—Italy!

All this in letters to her mother. To Leslie she wrote even more faithfully at first and even less regularly as the months carried on. Her early letters were soppy with loving and longing, heavy with her resolutions to make herself worthy of him, bristling with expressions of fright that he, so attractive, might not be true to her every second of every minute while she was so far away so long. Little by little the loving and longing dwindled to "thoughts and dreams," her high-sounding purposes faded to "I'm working hard on this dry stuff," her trepidations about his faithfulness degenerated into "be good, old dear."

Leslie, who had pulled himself by love's own bootstraps to lofty heights of inspirational unhappiness, found himself every day hooked harder. The "locals" became less exciting until they ceased to live at all in his existence, and he assumed an ethereal melancholy that was the more bittersweet since he could share it only with a girl he hadn't seen for years, who was thousands of miles away, who——.

She was to go even further. Italy seemed much more remote than France. And when she sent tiding of her forthcoming debut—in Vienna!—that was as though she had wandered into some unearthly beyond.

Mabel did not have to write the result of her debut. The cables had it, the home paper carried it as "leader." Mabel Ricks, the new American operatic coloratura soprano diva, had carried a sophisticated, effete European audience off its feet. She was the brightest star flashed upon the opera heavens since Farrar had sizzled a continent as Carmen.

Mrs. Ricks didn't know whether to cackle or cry. Yes, this was what she, in the little home on the main street of the wayside town, had dreamt, what she had started scientifically and stubbornly to work for when her child was a baby. This was the reverberating "Yes" to everything she had prophesied and gamely fought for when it seemed a chimera. Yet, now that it had come to pass, she was white with a great, grave misgiving that she had nurtured a Frankenstein. She knew she was only a plain woman. She had been the mother of the girl who became Mabel Ricks, the international overnight furore; but could she be the mother of the girl who had become that?

She had her reply in the Fall, when Mabel returned to America to join the greatest opera organization on earth, engaged at a fabulous stipend, heralded like a visiting potentate.

Down the gangplank, with a porter carrying her luggage behind her, in minks and a Frenchy headgear, toting a dog that wouldn't have made a decent breakfast for a healthy squirrel, came Mabel—her Mabel—looking neither to the right nor to the left. Mrs. Ricks couldn't wedge her way to the front rank of greeters. She had told a uniformed watchman that she was the mother of Mabel Ricks, but he had given her the laugh.

She could see Leslie, however, at the very rope; Leslie, somehow, had made it. One look at the back of his head and shoulders told her his secret, which she had never suspected. The man was beside himself. She tried frantically to crowd forward, but she couldn't. Ah—Leslie had reached Mabel. She strained forward to hear what her daughter would say. She heard the boy gasp huskily: "God—at last!" She saw Mabel lay her hand on his shoulder, not affectionately, not patronizingly, but very simply—as she might have to the old housecat. She heard her say, as she scanned the hash of bobbing faces, "Where's my mother. Never mind the mush."

Mabel saw her. The crowd parted as the imposing woman, who screamed with superiority, made through the rabble at the dock. The curious saw her throw her arms about the comparatively shoddy stranger.

"Oh, Mabel—my baby," sobbed Mrs. Ricks.

"Oh, ma—take me home," wept Mabel.

* * *

Little did the assembled polyglot bystanders realize that they were seeing exemplified one of the mightiest of all axioms appertaining to opera stars, which seems to go with the breed—they are so incredibly attached to their mothers, and so outrageously fickle with their sweethearts.

NEARING RUGBY FINAL

Saturday's games eliminated Montreal from the Interprovincial race leaves Tigers and Argos to fight it our. The Oarsmen are a point in front, which means that the game to be played in Hamilton on Saturday of next week will settle the "big four" race, for a victory for Tigers will give them the championship and a chance to play in the Dominion title series, says the Hamilton Spectator. If figures count for anything, Argos appear to have a little on the Bengals, as they have scored 56 points, an average of better than 11 a game, while Tigers have scored 41, an average of a little better than 8 a game. The figures also show the Toronto Scullers to be a better team defensively, as they have had but 24 points scored against them, while Tigers have had 35. But judging from what happened on Saturday, figures do not mean much. Both Argos and Tigers will play exhibition games on foreign fields next Saturday, Tigers going to Montreal for a game with McGill, while Argonauts play the Army team at New York under the American code.

Parkdale's victory over Varsity in the O.R.F.U. was not unexpected, as the student team had been weakened through some of its members being "drafted" by the Intercollegiate team, and the Paddlers are in better condition than when they played here. Varsity is out of the Ontario union race, but Parkdale still has a chance. If the Paddlers defeat Varsity again next Saturday, and win from Rowing club the week following, a tie will result, and a play-off game would be necessary. A victory for Rowing club in the last scheduled game at Toronto would give Bob White's boys the title, and a chance to figure in the Canadian championship series.

In the Intercollegiate, it is all over but the shouting. Queen's, thanks to "Pep" Leadley, who scored all the points for the Presbyterians, on Saturday, is well out in front, and has only to register a victory over Varsity at Kingston next Saturday to go through the season with a clean sheet. The record of then three unions follows:

INTERPROVINCIAL

AT THE CAPITOL.

OVER TWO THOUSAND CANDIDATES FOR JACKIE COOGAN CLUB

Over two thousand Peterboro children are anxious to win memberships in the Jackie Coogan club now being formed by the Capitol Theatre to commemorate the showing of Oliver Twist in which Little Jackie plays the title role and which will be the feature attraction at the Capitol the last three days of this week, commencing today. Membership forms have been distributed in the theatre and at all city schools during the past few days and already several candidates have secured more than one hundred names to the application blanks. A candidate is required to show his form to all friends and neighbors and secure their signatures to it. The twenty-five children with the most names will be declared elected and will receive free tickets good for two weeks at the Capitol theatre. Manager J. C. Kennedy points out that on many of the application forms some confusion has been caused by a typographical error; in one paragraph it reads the "50 children with the most names win" while another paragraph announces that 25 children constitute membership in the club. Mr. Kennedy state that the club is strictly limited to the twenty-five children (not fifty) who have the most names on their application blanks All applications must be handed in by Saturday when the contest closes.

"Ay, stop him, for God's sake, were it only in mercy!"

Thus does Charles Dickens end in "Oliver Twist" one of the most masterly bits of description ever penned—the brief, terrifying narrative of the flight of poor little Oliver, breathless, ahead of an insentiate mob shrieking "Stop Thief!"

"Stop Thief!" The victim is an innocent boy, but the hunters know nothing of that. "A victim must be found," as Gilbert says in "Mikado" and Oliver will do as well as another. The guilty wretches who committeed the crime join the chase and yell "Stop Thief!" even more lustily than the others.

This is but one of the scenes of "Oliver Twist" that Director Frank Lloyd has lifted quivering from the pages of the book and placed upon the screen.

And the star of the picture—the forlorn hunted youngster, whose terror is as profound as his innocence, is none other than little Jackie Coogan himself.

Announcement is made that Sol Lesser will present this most distinguished of stars, Jackie Coogan, in this masterpiece of classic literature and supported by a cast inclusive of Lon Chaney, Gladys Brockwell, Lionel Belmore and a host of other screen celebrities at the Capitol Theatre for an engagement of three days starting today.

MIX WORK AND PLAY FAIRBANK'S ADVICE

Happy Medium the Thing, Says Producer of "Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood"

All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy.

And, all play and no work makes a man a bum.

The happy medium is always the thing. This is universally conceded and now Douglas Fairbanks, who so brilliantly eclipses all his past screen triumps in his latest cinema masterpiece "Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood,' a United Artists release coming to-night, Friday and Saturday to the Regent Theatre, says:

"Mix work with play."

This is his succinct way of expressing the only panacea for the malady of any extreme. Supplementary to this he says:

"The monotony of unrelieved work is like a blotter for it will absorb all your initiative and vitality If you want to dodge an early decline and prolong your years of usefulness stop working at regular intervals for exercise and diversion. This is the only way I ever discovered to keep physically fit and happy."

Fairbanks emphasizes the fact that no human being can do good work after having worked to the point of producing a withering fatigue, and, he adds pointedly, that it makes little difference how important any task may be its complete accomplishment can almost invariably wait until one is best able, physically, to dig in and execute it successfully.

"If you have no wholesome outdoor sports, you're not likely to last long as a valuable indoor toiler, and I'm for boosting the idea of making athletics as general as possible," he continues. "Its all a question of getting work and play mixed in proper proportions. Be wise in this mixing process and you'll get rid of half of life's troubles.'

POSTMAN IS NEWEST HERO OF FILMDOM.

Enter the new hero into filmdom!

He is the postman and he takes his place along with the fireman, the policeman and the soldier in the screen hall of fame of unknown heroes in "Loyal Lives," a Whitman Bennett production distributed by Vitagraph.

This remarkable tribute to the devotion to duty of the letter carrier, filled with thrills and pathos, will be shown at the Royal Theatre to-night,

Whitman Bennett, the producer, has won great praise from postal officials, for filming this melodramatic story of the postman.

"As a boy the postman aroused my greatest interest," Mr. Bennett explained how he came to make this stirring picture. "In my eyes he outshined the policeman and the fireman, despite the spectacular nature of their work. To me, he was the connecting link with the outside world. He knew of strange towns, of places so far away it tried the imagination of conjure them. He was the embodiment of the family doctor and lawyer. There was nothing he did not know. Whenever my mother would ask his advice on some matter, he had a courteous answer.

"He knew our neighbors, the policeman and the mayor. He always had a kindly word for me and a pat for my terrier which would run to the gate to welcome him.

"Like most boys, when I grew up I drifted away from my boyish ambition to be a postman.

"Always there clung to me this impression of the great romance in the life and work of the mail man.

"For this reason I decided to produce a picture I felt would truly portray the mail man and would bring to all, this great feeling of adventure, of romance, of devotion to service. Such is 'Loyal Lives,' filled with the work of the postman and therefore filled with intense human pathos, and thrills."

Daring mail train robberies and post office hold-ups are depicted in this unusual photoplay. Brandon Tynan, Faire Binney, Mary Carr and William Collier, Jr., form the all-star cast. The story was written by Charles G. Rich and Dorothy Farnum.

FOWL SUPPER BUMPER MEAL

Proceeds at Centreville $370 and $238 in Sunday Offerings.

BAILIEBORO, Nov. 1.—On Tuesday evening, Oct. 30th, the members of the Centreville Presbyterian church held their annual fowl supper in the Centreville Sunday School hall, and it proved to be one of the most successful events of the season.

At 5 o'clock p.m. the hall was opened and at that early hour enough had gathered to fill three long tables the entire length of the hall. As fast as those who were first to dine filed out through the back entrance, a crowd was waiting at the front entrance to get in, and until 9.30 o'clock the waitresses were kept busy supplying the wants of an unmistakably hungry crowd.

After the people had finished supper they returned to the church, where at 8.30 o'clock a splendid programme was provided. Rev. A. H. McConnachie acting as chairman for the evening.

Those taking part in the entertainment were as follows: Address by Rev. A. H. McConnachie; solos by Miss Murray of Springville; readings by Miss Ida Payne, Pontypool; solos by Mrs. Gervan , Millbrook; address by Rev. G. S. Gervan; selections by Bensfort orchestra; violin solo by Wilfred Johnston, accompanist, Miss Grace Johnston; solos by Mr. Telford of Peterboro; readings by Miss Tully of Otonabee.

Each number on the programme was heartily encored, showing that the audience certainly appreciated the talent and perfect order reigned throughout the entire evening.

Many were present from Peterboro, Keene, Port Hope, Millbrook and surrounding district.

The amount taken in at the door amounted to over three hundred and seventy dollars.

The Thankoffering from the Sunday's anniversary services amounted to more than two hundred and thirty-eight dollars.

BETHEL NEWS

The fourth meeting of the contest which has been going on in the Young People's League in Bethel church took place on Thursday night, when the married women took charge of the meeting.

Mrs. Roy Cullis acted as president, Mrs. Sayward Switzer took charge of the prayer meeting. Those leading in prayer were Mrs. Roland, Mrs. E. Storey and Mrs. H. Harrison.

Mrs. H. Deyell gave the topic, entitled, "Getting Ready To Live," taken from 4th chapter Phillipians, first 13 verses.

Mrs. E. Faulkner and Mrs. Gordon Harrison favored them with a duet.

Mrs. I. Guthrie gave a recitation, "The Drunkard's Mother," and Mrs. L. Wright gave a reading.

After which the married ladies sang a chorus, "Yield Not to Temptation." The meeting was closed with the League benediction, and then came the social half hour, when the ladies served pie to all present..

WORKS BOARD

himself who found Dr. Godfrey, the present Provincial Minister of Health, far more sympathetic to the city's position than was his predecessor under the late regime. He (Mr. Parsons) credited Dr. Godfrey with a better idea of sewage requirements than the former Minister of Health, and he is preparing for him a brief as to the situation, so that he may have before him both sides of the question—that of the city and the Provincial Board of Health.

To Ald. McIntyre, the City Engineer explained that while a complet, Imhoff system of sewage disposal would cost more for constructin than an activated sludge system the latter would cost probably three times as much for operation and maintenance than the former. Besides, he contended that with the big flow of water from the Otonabee river the installation of a sprinkler with the Imhoff system could be dispensed with. The trouble with the Provincial Board of Health is, he went on to say, that they are not taken into consideration, the size and force of our river with no municipality drawing its water supply from it for many miles distant, if at all; and they are setting for Peterborough a standard of affluent purification equally as intensified as at Brantford for entry into a creek which is all but dry best part of the summer. This, concluded Mr. Parsons is entailing unnecessary expense in Peterborough.

"Well," urged Ald. McIntyre, "let us get busy on this disposal plant as early as possible."

Mr. Parsons said he would forward Dr. Godfrey all the information needed this week.

There were present Chairman Ald. Stocker, Mayor W. H. Taylor, Aldermen Nagel Phelan, M. J. Maher, Robert Morrison, J. W. Meyers Joseph Crowe, J. O. Fife, Malcolm McIntyre, City Engineer R. H. Parsons and Street Commissioner Harry Evans.

PRICE OF CHEESE

Owing to the decreased make of cheese at this time of year a number of the factories in Peterborough County, which are selling their cheese co-operatively through United Dairymen Cooperative Ltd., at Belleville are shipping only once every two weeks. The following Peterborough County factories sold their cheese last week at 19 1-2c for colored firsts and 19 1-8c for white firsts with a half a cent less on any second grad, cheese: Pine Grove of Lakefield; Selwyn of Selwyn; Maple Leaf of Peterboro and Ormond of Hastings.

HONEY BOY MINSTRELS

The unusual spectacle of two great minstrel shows in one, will be the next attraction at the Grand Opera House, Saturday, November 3. The organization is known as the Gus Hill and George Evans Honey Boy Minstrels, being the culmination of a recent deal which already has created one of the sensations of the theatrical world. Mr. Hill's Minstrel Troupe has been created one of the sensations of the theatrical world. It has enjoyed exceptional popularity and was one of the outstanding money makers on the road. In order to make it the foremost aggregation of its kind Mr. Hill bought out Evans' interests and rest is theatrical history. Forty gifted geniuses of Ethiopean comedy, song, revelry, frolic, fun, laughter and mirth have been mustered The entertainment runs the gamut of every thing that is productive of wholesome hilarity. New ideas, innovations, surprises, novelties and features extraordinary predominate. An additional magnet will be a monster street pageant which will be held the morning of the engagement. The entire company will take part.

That minstrelsy is about to come into its own again is evidenced by the big advance sale which has marked the announcement of the forthcoming engagement of the Gus Hill and George Honey Boy Evans Minstrels. This latest unity of two of the foremost black-face organizations in America or elsewhere for the matter will hold the boards of the Grand Opera House, matinee and night, Saturday, November 3. The new show is described as an attraction of innovations, advanced ideas, genuine comedians, singers, dancers, musicians, headliners and genuises of Ethiopean revelry, frolic and laughter. There will be reviews, novelties, bits, travesties, burlesque, farce, song hits, revelries and everything that goes to complete an entertainment extraordinary. Forty men, all stars in their line, compose the company. A monster street parade, said to be the last word in burnt cork pageants will be an additional attraction.

MONDAY AT THE ROYAL!

LIKE "PAINTED SHIPS," SECOND RACE CALLED

Wind Failed the Fishing Schooners Wednesday—Columbia Had Gained Lead.

HALF-MILE AHEAD.

HALIFAX, N.S., Nov. 1.— With never a breeze above eight knots, the American challenger Columbia ghosted along over more than half the Halifax ocean course yesterday in the lead of the champion Blue Nose, sometimes as much as half a mile ahead. But the efforts of skippers and crews to sail the second race of the series for the international fishing schooner championship were of no avail for with only an hour of the allotted six left not much more than half of the course had been covered and sixteen miles of a thresh to windward lay ahead.

Blue Nose supporters are not down-hearted that the American vessel led them yesterday, because they feel confident that with enough wind to finish the second race within the time limit the series will be theirs. They take confidence out of the fact that after the race was called off the wind breezed up a bit and the Blue Nose, with the advantage of a windward position when the vessels hauled around for home, reached the finish line far in the lead of the Columbia. As on Monday the Canadian vessel in windward work thrived on the lop which the wind of Tuesday night threw up, while the Gloucester boat seemed to be thrown off. A hope of the Columbia is that she may get quiet water and enough wind to take her around the course in the time limit. And there still remainse the possibility that in a real heavy blow she might be at her best and beat the Blue Nose in the weather which the Canadain supporters have been praying for.

Columbia Improved.

The change made yesterday in the Columbia's trim seemed to help her somewhat in light airs.

Yesterday's race started on time with Blue Nose in the lead, but the Columbia in half an hour caught up and passed her rival. The wind was from the northwest and the vessels spread their sails wing and wing for the run to the first mark six and a half miles away. They were practically an hour and a half covering the distance, the Columbia rounding the mark at 10.29.20 and the Blue Nose at 10.30.44.

On the second leg an eleven mile reach, Columbia increased her lead and the vessels rounded the second mark at 12.24.35 and 12.28.36. On the next leg nine and a quarter miles, also a reach, the position of the vessels varied from time to time, but generally the Columbia increased her lead. The race was called off at two o'clock before the third mark was reached .The wind had varied between four and eight knots at times dropping so that the vessels could not maintain steerage way.

Ran With Wind.

The Blue Nose came about first for home the Columbia following a couple of minutes later. Although it would be difficult to judge how much advantage the Lunenburg vessel had on the thresh in, there was no doubting that she demonstrated superiority in windward work under the conditions prevailing and especially in the lop in the outside and in the outer harbor. The wind for the best in sprang up to fifteen knots almost immediately and went as high as eighteen.

Billy Evans Says:

Master Mind Is Pure Bunk.
Pitching the Deciding Factor.
Stengel's Homer Helps.

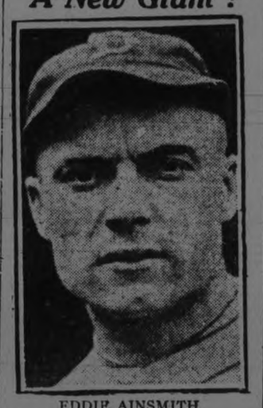
Is the Master Mind stuff being overplayed in baseball? The 1923 world series was heralded as a battle between Master Mind, John McGraw, and Brute Force, impersonated by Babe Ruth. If it was such, Brute Force took down a lop-sided decision.

Master Mind can do the thinking for his players but he cannot execute the plays on the field. When the players are unable to carry out the orders of Master Mind, the so-called inside baseball is shot full of holes. It is one thing to figure out the proper thing to do and then have it performed. In baseball the best laid plans of battle hinge around the pitching. In the 1923 world series the Giants didn't get the pitching and the workings of Master Mind simply went "blooey."

Casey Stengel's home run in the ninth inning of the first game undoubtedly saved baseball another unpleasant situation. Calling a ball game on account of darkness is always unsatisfactory, particularly so in a world series gate. The shadows were falling over the Yankee Stadium when Stengel made his homer that settled the game. One more inning could have been played, possibly two, but there wouldn't have been a chance to go over 11 innings. A tie game would have been unfortunate after last year's unpleasantness over that feature.

An earlier starting hour would help considerably. The suggestion that the world series games be started at 1.30 p.m. is worthy of consideration. A half hour to work on means a great deal in October. The baseball powers should give some thought to this point. It is too important to pass over lightly.

A New Giant ?



EDDIE AINSMITH.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—John McGraw is satisfied that the Giants must add battery strength if the club is to again win the pennant in the National League. Pitching is badly needed and the catching department is none too strong. Both Gowdy and Snyder, veteran backstops, have passed the peak of their game. In an effort to bolster up the catching, McGraw, according to report, has signed Eddie Ainsmith. Near the close of the season, Ainsmith was released by the St. Louis Cardinals and was picked up by Brooklyn in the final stages of the race. Being a free agent he was able to dicked with McGraw.

Gibbons Never Let's 'Em Stay

Turned Down Offer Made By Friend of Boxing in Detroit.

Tom Gibbons never carries a boxer.

Before the Shelby fight, Tom was in Detroit to show how he knocked down set-ups. The Gibbons' target was George Ashe, whose last name became more or less piquant pun material after the fight.

Before the bout here Gibbons was approached in his hotel room by a fight character who said he was "a friend of boxing."

"Don't dump him right away, Tom", this party pleaded. "Carry him at least two or three rounds. This Ashe is no bum; he can't take it but he can box and will make a showing if you let him stay a while. It would be a bad thing for the sport here if you slapped him out with the first punch.'

Gibbons listened and answered: "If this chap is such a good boxer why worry? He'll take care of himself—and if he doesn't, he's out of luck."

That night Gibbons hit Ashe in the first round and Ashe fell down for the count of 10. Later the same night Ashe and Gibbons were together in a hotel room. Gibbons looked at his recent victim. "George, that wasn't the punch to knock you out. I started it around your neck and you fell right into it. My right was on the way when you dropped."

"Well, Tom," replied Ashe, "the right punch might have been more damaging. I ain't kicking."

DUCKS WERE NUMBERED

LINDSAY, Nov. 1.—A few days ago Messrs. W. Bedwell and Vic Suggitt, of Toronto, who are spending a few days' hunting at the latter's cottage, Scugog Lake, shot two ducks wearing bands on their legs bearing the following: Nos. 297302 and 296275, Biological Survey, Washington, B.C. Last year two ducks were captured in the Scugog waters bearing Biological Survey bands.

INVADING CHAMPS

LEFT TO RIGHT—SCHIKAT, STEINKE, DOSTAL.

This is the open season for invading European wrestling champions, near-champions and what-nots. Three of these mat geniuses are now in our well-known midst. Richard Schikat, weighing 225 pounds, is called the "new German Hacken schmidt." Hans Steinke is the European heavyweight champion. Hans is 6 feet 6 inches tall, and weighs 260 pounds. The young man ate pep permint sticks in his youth and this stunted his growth. Josef Dostal, champion of Czechoslovakia, is another giant with a displacement of 230 pounds. They are to perform in America this season.

THE GROVE SCHOOL WINS GUGBY GAME

Trimmed P. C. I. Seconds in a Close Battle at Oval Yesterday.

SCORE 16 TO 11.

Grove school defeated the P.C.I. second team 16 to 11 at the Oval yesterday afternoon. This is the second game Grove School has taken away from the local seconds trimming last Saturday in Lakefield.

Grove school showed up the stronger on the backfield and P.C.I. were superior on the line. The P.C.I. tackling was weak and they let Massie get away for long runs. The P.C.I. halves dropped a few costly punts, one costing them five points when Griffiths fell on it behind the P.C.I. touch line.

The P.C.I. made most of their gains on line plunging Killally Flem ing Widdiss and Woods taking the brunt in this work.

The P.C.I. nearly evened the score in the last period but were kicking against the wind which made it doubly hard going.

Both teams know the value of the experience gained in such games and another series has been arranged. The teams lined up as follows:

Grove School

Snap, Loosemore; Inside wings, Faucett and James; middle wings, Pullen and Halle; outside wings, Raine and Christmas; Flying wing Griffiths; Half backs, Ridpath, Massie and Little; Quarter back, Bainard. Subs—R. Little, Young and Dench.

P.C.I. Seconds

Snap, Ash; Inside Wings, Swanger and Rishor; Middle wings, Killally and Archibald; Outside wings, McColl and Fleming; Flying wing, Merrell; Half backs, Fraser, Woods and Henry; Quarter back, Widdiss. Subs, MacDonald, Cohen and Amys.

Summary

First Period— Redpath earned a try, Grove 5 points; Grove school 5, P.C.I. 0.

Second Period—P.C.I. a rouge, 1 point; Grove school 5, P.C.I. 1.

Third Period— P.C.I., Widdess earned a try, P.C.I. 5; P. C. I., Archibald earned a try, P.C.I., 5; Grove school, Little a try, Grove school 5; Grove School 10, P.C.I. 11.

Fourth period—Grove school, Griffiths a try which Massie converted, 6; Grove school 16; P.C.I., 11.

ZEV'S EASY VICTORY

NEW YORK, Nov. 1—Zev yesterday demonstrated that he is fit for the $50,000 championship at Latonia next Saturday, when he will meet My Own in what may prove the deciding 3-year-old test of the year by galloping to easy victory in the $5,000 Autumn Championship Stakes feature event of the closing day's card at Empire City Track.

The race at a mile, for all ages, proved little more than a workout for the conqueror of Papyrus, which will be shipped to-day to Latonia. Ridden by Earl Sande and carrying 120 pounds, Zev breezed under the wire in 1:40 3-5, five lengths ahead of Bracadale a stable mate. Harry Payne Whitneys Tryster was third and Ladkin the only other starter finished fourth after breaking away to run three quarters of a mile before the race.

Zev was worked an extra furlong by Sands, finishing the mile and an eighth in 1:56 1-5

LINDSAY EXPECT A WIN SATURDAY

Return of Interscholastic Rugby at Riverside Should Be Good.

This Saturday the rugby fans will get their first opportunity of seeing the P.C.I. team in action when the meet the Lindsay Collegiate in the second game of their home and home series. Last Saturday the locals walked into Lindsay and emerged winners by 34 to 1 almost before the Lindsay team were aware that they were in a rugby game. Now Lindsay comes forth with the statement that the P.C.I. players each carried a rabbit's foot with them and that Lady Luck went with every touch down. The Lindsay battlers are determined that P.C.I. will known they were in a rugby game down here and are determined to win. Lindsay have to win to stay in the running. The P.C.I. crew are aware that they got some of the breaks in the game last Saturday but are certain that they are the better team and can walk over the Scugog team here Saturday. It should be a merry battle and since the Junior team were eliminated with honour from the O.R.F.U. race, the local fans must pin their hopes on the Collegians. All the fans should be out there yelling and showing their support as the P.C.I. team need some money as they expect to go a long way in the Interscholastic race this year and therefore will have to take some long trips.

Johnnie Evans

Queen's Quarter An All-Round Athlete Specializing in Rugby and Baseball.

Let's tell you the old story again about how Queen's quarterback comes to be called "Johnnie." His father's name is John Evans and every person calls him "Jack." Therefore when it came time to name "Johnnie" junior they called him Jack to save people the trouble of changing it. So of course as Jack was his real name, the boys just dubbed him "Johnnie" and that's what he goes by now. "Pep" Leadley calls him "Grump."

Jack Evanh was born in Kingston and has played football, baseball, and hockey since big enough to run alone. He played football and hockey with the Kingston Collegiate Institute, and after the war started out with Queen's. In 1921 he was captain and made a name for himself, which was increased last year. This year he is growing stronger than ever at the key position behind the line and is generally admitted to be about the best in the game.

Jack not only knows how to direct and start plays, but what is more valuable, he knows when. On several occasions his surprising quickness of thought has caught opposing teams flatfooted. He surpasses every other quarter in the game when it comes to the timing of Rugby manoeuvres. His famous "hesitation" play, which is often good for a gain four or five times during the game has done much to attract the attention of football experts.

The stocky little quarterback is a senior baseball catcher of unquestioned ability. Last season an injury to his hand kept him out of the game for some time.

He is in his final year in Medicine and is one of the house surgeons at the Kingston General Hospital. They say he shakes a wicked set of forceps or whatever house surgeons usually carry around with them.

Just as a side-line, for especial use on football trips "Johnnie" maintains a stock of specialty entertainments. He is popular with all the players and students and an incurable whistler. Last season he managed the senior hockey team.

When Jack Evans graduates it will take a good man to fill his shoes.

FRENCH HORSE LOST BY NECK

The Owner of "Epinard" Would Have Won Million in Cambridgeshire Stakes

LONDON, Oct. 31. — (Canadian Press.)—The Cambridgeshre Stakes, one of the principal autumn handicaps, and the most important race of the Newmarket Houghton meeting, was won this afternoon by Lord Coventry's Verdict, a three-year-old bay filly by Shotgun out of Finale, trained by W. Waugh and ridden by M. Beary. Epinard, the French 3-year-old colt, owned by M. Wertheimer, carrying top-weight of 128 lbs., finished second, beaten by a neck, with the lightly-weighted Dumas, a 3-year-old chestnut colt by Marten-Judea, owned by George Hardy, in third place, a length behind Epinard .Twenty-three ran Odds of 100 to 7.

Verdict, who started at odds of 100 to 7 against, carried 110 lbs., or 16 pounds less than Epinard, who went to the post a hot favorite at 3 to 1 against, while Duman, carrying only 86 lbs., was quoted at 7 to 1 against.

Following yesterday's cloudy, dismal weather, to-day was warm, with the sun shining brightly, and an enormous crowd was on hand when the horses went to the post for the feature race of the afternoon. The track, which was yesterday inclined to be heavy, was in perfect condition to-day.

Field of 23.

When the field of 23 faced the barrier for the Cambridgeshire there was some delay getting them off to a good start, and Roman Bachelor, Legality and Daughter-in-Law were slow getting away. Epinard, with Haynes up, made the running from Verdict, Jarvie, Pharos and Stratford for the first half-mile, when Legality went up into third place, attended by Jarvis, Pharos, Campbell Kid, Lighthouse and Dumas. At the Bushes Jarvie, Lighthouse, Pharos and Karl were all beaten. In Abingdon Bottom Verdict and Dumas challenged the favorite, Epinard, Verdict gaining the mastery one hundred yards from home and won a thrilling race by a neck. Pharos finished fourth, Legality fifth and Campbell Kid last. Time 1 minute 52 seconds.

At no time since the inception of the Cambridgeshire, which was first run in 1839, has any horse been able to win with as heavy an impost as the French colt was called upon to carry to-day ,and on every occasion during the past five years the favorite has gone down to defeat in the mile and a furlong sprint.

Most Popular.

With the Cesarewitch, which was run two weeks ago at headquarters the Cambridgeshire makes one of the most popular sporting "doubles" on the English turf and had Epinard been successful in winning this afternoon his owner would have won £210,000, as the result of a wager of £1,000 placed on the French entry. Rose Prince, who won the Cesarewitch at 25 to 1 against, the proceeds of which were wagered on Epinard, at 6 to 1 against, for this afternoon's race.

Lord Coventry's filly, who spoiled M. Wertheimer's betting coup, had a splendid record as a two-year old, winning all five races in which he was a starter. Verdict had no classic engagements this season, but at Ascot finished second to Puttendon in the Gold Vase, a hard, long race, over a two-mile course.

Re-Echo, last year's winner of the Cambridgeshire, was unplaced this afternoon. Other starters, unplaced, were: Roman Bachelor, Stratford, Pharos, Zariba, Paola, My Lord, Legality, Karl, Clochnaben, Holy Friar, Lighthouse, Lifeboat 2nd, Jarvie, Campbell Kid, Daughter-in-law, Solicitude, Legend, Rosemead and Harpenden.

The race, which is a handicap, is run over the mile and a furlong course and brings out the best horses in training. To the stakes of 25 sovereigns is added 1,000, the value of the race to the winner being approximately £2,200.

Distress in Paris.

PARIS, Oct. 31.— "Epinard is beaten," was the shout of consternation that arose from the immense crowds on the boulevards congregated before the newspaper offices when the news of the defeat of the crack French three-year-old in the Cambridgeshire Stakes was flashed shortly after three o'clock this afternoon. The popular distress was apparently even greater than when Jack Dempsey knocked out Georges Carpenter. The rank and file was touched deeper in the pockets, as the race followers in France had played Epinard to win pretty much as if the race returns were already in.

The announcement was received more philosophically at the Jockey Club, where solace was found in the idea that the result of the race proved Epinard to be the best 3-year old in the world. The French experts reached this opinion by lining up these facts:

Epinard finished twenty lengths ahead of Pharos, who was second by a length to Papyrus in the Derby at Epsom, while Zev's margin over Papyrus was six lengths, giving Epinard a margin of several lengths in front of Zev.

Johnny Reiff, the jockey, said Epinard had shown by giving every horse in the race from seven to 42 pounds, that he could beat any three-year-old in training the world over at a mile at even weights.

KING GEORGE DEFEAT QUEEN MARY 1 TO 0

Excellent Soccer Played By the Youngsters.

King George defeated Queen Mary one goal to nothing in Alex Kay Soccer trophy semi-final last evening at King Edward Park, which entitles them to the final against Central on Saturday afternoon.

Opening play was in favor of Queen Mary but Calladine in goal frustrated their attack in clever fashion. Bud Williams transferred the ball to the other end where a scrimmage ensued until Dick punted clear. Downer trapped nicely and made off for goal. Clark and Batchelor stopped him but the latter handled for a penalty kick which was not converted by Queen Mary centre-forward. After this fright, King George forwards palyed havoc around Gillespie's goal without finding the desired goal, Williams, at centre-half for King George was working like a trojan and fed his forwards nicely up to half-time where they confined the play for ten minutes.

Half Time.

Both teams started off in desperate raids that were repulsed by the defense men. Playford returned the ball into centre, then Ellis shot it out to Tooms and B. McCartney who beat Marshall easily with clever tackle and let drive with left foot to score the only goal of the game. At this reverse, Queen Mary boys went down in a body to Calladine's goal when Don Clarke and Batchelor put in a hard time clearing their goal and were backed up by excellent advice from the goal keeper. For the last fifteen minutes Queen Mary hemmed King George players in their own area. They received five corner-kicks in succession without any result. Calaldine was peppered with shots from every angle by Queen Mary team but could not penetrate his goal. Williams held Downer in check while he worked hard to equalize.

Final—King George 1, Queen Mary 0.

Queen Mary—Gillespie, goal; A. Jones and Marshall, backs; Dick, White and Merrett, half-backs; S. Jones, McAuliffe, H. Downer, T. Downer and Ferguson, forwards

King George—Calladine, goal; D. Clark and Batchelor, backs; Stan Williamson, McCarney, half backs; Playford, Pammett, Ellis, B. McCartney and T. Tooms, forwards.

Referee—George Coleman.

AVENGE THEIR FIRST DEFEAT

Ottawa's Hopes First Blighted By Montreal—One Destined For Cellar.

OTTAWA, Nov. 1.—(Canadian Press).—The Otttawa rugby team was sent through a strenuous practice yesterday afternoon in preparation for the Saturday afternoon with M.A.A.A. as the visiting team. Every effort is being made to turn in a winning performance as a conclusion to the local season, and to avenge the initial defeat of the season suffered at the hands of the Winged Wheelers in Montreol.

It was probably this defeat as much as anything else which caused the championship hopes of local fans to be so badly shattered this fall. Primed to burn up the league from the opening whistle, the Ottawas were tumbled in Montreal in their first start, and the reverse so upset calculations that Argonauts trimmed Silver Quilty's crew here the following week. Had they settled to the form they showed in the last three games from the commencement the Ottawa team would now surely be in line for a try at Dominion honors.

Baker, the husky line plunger watched the work-out to-day and may possibly be used Saturday. Jerry Timmis is getting around again but it is improbable that Brian Timmis will be available. Connell indulged in light work this afternoon and with careful handling his injured foot may permit his lining up against the Red and Blue.

Football is played by natives of the Fiji Islands. The players never use any protective device for their heads except the thick, coarse, woolly hair.

LUMBER COMPANY EMPLOYEE DROWNS

Canoe Upset in Baldwin's Bay With Disastrous Results.

An employee of the Peterborough Lumber Company's camps in Cavendish Township, Herbert Johnson, of Gooderham, was drowned on Monday of this week about half-past five o'clock in the afternoon, in Baldwin's Bay, on Lake Ketchecoma.
The body has not yet been recovered.
Messrs. Dickson, Davidson, and Frank Linton, who went up to the Peterborough Lumber Company's camps on Ketchecoma Lake on Tuesday morning, returned to the city last night, and report the drowning of Johnson, who, with a companion of about his own age, twenty-two years, Albert Duff, another employee of the camps, had spent Sunday with relatives in Gooderham, and returned to Baldwin's Bay on Monday evening last, about five o'clock.
They took a canoe to go across the lake to William Spafford's camp, about two miles away, and had been on the water for a short time when, in some manner, the canoe upset, precipitating both men into the bay.
Herbert Johnson, who could not swim, went down in about twenty feet of water. His companion, Duff, managed to swim to a small island in the bay, a short distance away. He walked to the end of this island, and then swam back to the mainland.
Here, on account of his strained and fatigued condition, he lost his bearings, and it was nearly nine o'clock before he finally located Hugh Cochrane's house on the main shore of the lake.
When Mr. Davidson and Mr. Linton left the camps yesterday, the body had not yet been recovered.
Employees of the company, together with four cars containing about thirteen men who came from Gooderham to assist in the search, were making every effort to locate it.
Herbert Johnson's mother, who lives in Gooderham, is a widow.

OBITUARY

THOMAS RICHARDSON
The death occurred at his home in Wallaceburg, on Wednesday, October 24th, of Thomas Richardson, father of Rev. J. D. Richardson, pastor of St. James' Methodist church, this city. The late Mr. Richardson, who was in his 78th year, was born in Eldorado, Hastings County. He had resided in Wallaceburg for over fifty years. He was one of the most prominent members of the Orange Order in his county, having belonged to the Association for over sixty years. He was an officer of the Provincial Grand Lodge, organized the North Kent district and was at one time County Master of Kent.
The deceased, whose wife died about seven months ago, is survided by four daughters and six sons: Mrs. Geo. H. Lidster of Dutton, Mrs. R. W. Brown and Mrs. Watson Simpson of Wheatley, and Miss Frances at home; Dr. Stanley A. Richardson, mayor of Wallaceburg, T. Herbert Richardson, banker of St. Paul's, Minn., Prof. Lorne N. Richardson, of the Royal Military College, Kingston, Rev. J. D. Richardson, pastor of St. James' Methodist church, Peterboro, and Jno. E. and J. Milton of Wallaceburg.
The funeral took place on Friday last at Wallaceburg.

GERALD FITZGERALD.
LAKEFIELD, Nov. 1.—The death occurred this morning of Gerald Fitzgerald, 74, after a brief illness. The deceased was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Fitzgerald, of Smith township, and was well known all over the country. He lived in Smith township and in Lakefield all his life, and because of his genial disposition and hearty good nature was well liked by all with whom he came in contact. His generosity was well known.
He is survived by his widow and two daughters, Mrs. Allan Hunter and Mrs. W. N. Stabler, of Lakefield .A brother, Alex. Fitzgerald, lives in East City.
The late Mr. Fitzgerald came of a very old pioneer family, and upwards of 200 relatives are scattered throughout the district near Peterborough. In politics Mr. Fitzgerald was a staunch Conservative.
Funeral announcements will be made later.

MRS. JOSEPH YOUNG.
The death occurred suddenly yesterday in Port Arthur, of Mrs. Joseph Young, formerly Miss Durala Guerin, of this city. Mrs Young was born and brought up in this city, and resided here until about thirty-five years ago. She is survived by her husband, and four brothers: Harry and Archie of Peterborough, Louis of Toronto, and Llewellyn of Port Arthur. The funeral will take place in Port Arthur on Friday of this week.

Society

Mrs. C. H. Pennefather held her first reception since her return to the city yesterday afternoon, at her residence, 271 Brock street, where she was at home to a large number of her friends. Mrs. Pennefather was assisted in receiving by Mrs. David Mulholland, Mrs. R. Hamilton poured tea assisted by Peggy Hamilton and Isabel Pennefather.
Miss Blair Campbell of Belleville, reader at George street Methodist church concert last evening, was the guest during her stay in the city of Mrs. H .Walker, George street.
Miss Vera Fairbairn, of Smith, was successful in obtaining her diploma from the Peterborough Business College.
Miss Marion Milburn, R.N., of Detroit, is in the city for the Milburn-Dunford wedding to-day.
Miss Laura Buck, of Norwood, was a guest to-day at the Milburn-Dunford wedding.
Last evening Jack and Sam Patte were hosts at a hilarious Hallowe'en party, attended by 14 of their small boy friends. The house was gaily decorated with quantities of orange and black cut-outs, with the conventional goblins and black cats and jack o' lanterns. In the corner an old witch told the fates of the young future seekers, by means of a spinning wheel. A programme of 'stunts' aroused wild excitement, the winners in the various events being Raymond Wayte, Bob McWilliams and Orville Roseborough. The table for refreshments was arranged with pumpkin novelties of many varieties. The little boys came in cotsumes that included a Harold Lloyd, Calamity Jane and Sis Hopkins and Molly-O, tramps and wild west riders, clowns, ladies, ghosts and witches.
Miss Aileen Morgan was hostess at a jolly Hallowe'en party last evening, attended by a number of her young friends.
Mrs. J. Hughes, Weller Street, entertained at a Hallowe'en evening last night.
Miss Ruth Barns, Gilmour Street, had a Hallowe'en tea for a few of her girl companions yesterday.
Mr. J. E. Patte has returned to St. John, N.B.
Rev. J. D. Richardson, pastor of St. James' Methodist Church, has returned from Wallaceburg, after attending the funeral of his father.
At the social evening held in St. Alphonsus' Lyceum on Tuesday evening, the winner of the second ladies' prize was Mrs. R. Stokes and not Mrs. G. C. Bromley, as recorded
The charming home of Mrs. W. R. Widdiss 292 Stewart street, was the scene last evening of a very enjoyable dinner bridge party, held under the auspices of Group Number Two of the Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E. Mrs. F. Robinson and Mrs. C. A. White were convenors of arrangements, which were carried out in a manner that made the evening a very successful and enjoyable one. The pretty rooms were arranged in the bright Hallowe'en fashion, with floral decorations of 'mums and marigolds. The guests were received by Mrs. Widdiss Mrs. H. E. Stenson regent of the Chapter, and Mrs. R. R. Hall. Assistants in the dining-room were Mrs. A. Moir, Mrs. N. H. Sutton, Mrs. D. Carmichael, Mrs. Arthur Robinson and Mrs. G. L. Stevens. Twelve tables of bridge were played prizes going to Miss Pearl Faint, Miss M. Archer and Miss Geraldine Glover.
Miss Nellie Peck has come to reside in the city, and is at 758 George street.

WEDDING BELLS

DUNFORD—MILBURN.
A very pretty wedding took place at twelve o'clock to-day in Trinity Methodist Church, when Beatrice Mae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Milburn, was united in marriage to Russell Ingram Dunford, of Toronto, Rev. A. J. Langford officiating.
Mr. Allan Milburn, brother of the bride, sang "Until."
The bride wore a pretty costume of autumn crepe, with hat and wrap to match.
A dainty breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, after the ceremony.
Mr. and Mrs. Dunford left later for Toronto, where they will reside.

NO QUESTION OF BRITISH PROTEST

Ambassadors Call Attention of France and Belgium to Baldwin's Declaration.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—(Special). — The British Ambassadors at Paris and Brussels have called the attention of the French and Belgian Governments to Premier Baldwin's declaration that England could not permit the disruption of Germany.
It is assumed here that this is the basis of Paris reports that England has protested against the proclamation of the Rhineland Republic.
It is authoritatively stated that there has been no question of formal notes or protests.

Y.W.C.A. PARTIES FOR HALLOWE'EN

A Busy Program at The Y. for the Week End.

The Y.W.C.A. for the remainder of the week will be an extremely busy place. Hundreds of fantastic costumes will probably be on view at the big Hallowe'en party on Friday night. The ghosts will walk, and woe betide the individual who has a weak heart. They are solemnly warned to remain at home. Thrills throughout the whole evening. Every member of the Association is invited to come and bring any friends with her.
Last but not least of the Hallowe'en frolics will come our big junior party at ten o'clock on Saturday morning. All the week the children have been asking their mothers to help them with costumes. Kiddies are dreaming about it every night, and the Y.W.C.A. is wondering if there will be room in their big gymnasium for the entire crowd of little folk who anticipate coming.
Special judges will be present to judge the various costumes for which the Association has supplied numerous prizes.
Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock the R. L. S. bronze medallion examination will be held, and on Saturday evening at 7.30 the junior proficiency lifesaving examination and the silver medal examination. This test, which promises to be very interesting and educational, will be open to the public, as repeated requests have been made for admission to these examinations. Lifesaving should be encouraged. Peterborough, situated so closely to the river and lakes has been the scene of many near drowning accidents, and a knowledge of life-saving has been the means of saving many a life.

Arthur C. Hawley has returned from an inspection trip among the Kirkland Lake mining camps.

Epidemic of Petty Thieving Breaks Out in Several Parts of The City.

STILL AT LARGE

What appears to be an epidemic of minor thievery in Peterborough in the last few weeks had its latest manifestation at the Adam Hall Stove Works early this morning, when the plant was entered through a window on the east side of the building. In finding their way to the office, the marauders pried open four doors. They rummaged round the office and it is thought were frightened away as cupboards and drawers were left open. No damage was done. Mr. Hall stated that no money or valuables are ever left in the office. The police were notified.

East City has been the scene of several store-breakings during the week. On Hallowe'en night, the grocery store of T. B. Maniece, on Hunter street east, had two rear windows broken. On the same night, the coal office of McCarthy and Johnston, nearby, was entered by means of a key. From the drawer of a corner cupboard postage stamps to the value of fifty cents were extracted, but an envelope containing about four dollars' worth of excise stamps was left untouched. A bunch of keys was also taken, probably, as Mr. McCarthy said, for use at some future time. The safe was untouched. The floor was strewn with matches of the parlor type, the strip match that is sold in hotels and pool rooms for convenient use.

On Monday night of this week, the East City office of the Canadian Oil Company, on Hunter street, was entered by means of a rear window. A pile of empty oil drums afforded access to the window, where a pane of glass was cut out and the protecting nail holding the window removed. In the office, a tin box holding about eight dollars' worth of postage and excise stamps and some silver was taken, the box being found later by detectives in a field nearby. The lock had been forced and the box was battered almost out of shape. Matches of red head variety were taken here also.

Last week, the cold storage warehouse of W. Scott & Company was entered by way of the office and between two and three dollars' worth of postage stamps taken. Excise stamps were left untouched.

Here, flashlights were used, also the electric lights, which aroused the attention of a nearby resident, who telephoned Mr. Scott and the police. Both arrived after the robbers had fled. The key which gained entrance to the office was found stuck in the lock.

S. E. Mahood's butcher shop, in the same neighborhood was entered on Hallowe'en night, through the cellar after the screen at the rear had been cut and a window broken. Nothing here was taken apparently the coppers in the till remaining in their place. The only signs of the entrance were the number of burnt matches which marked the trail as in other places and led to the remark of the next-door grocer, John Kerr, that it was a blessing that no fire followed the visit of these night prowlers.

Mr. Kerr's store was also entered on Hallowe'en night, through a cellar window, the visitors departing, however, by the easier method of unbolting the rear door. Articles missed later included tobacco, cigars and a pair of gloves. The till contain ing some coppers was upturned on the floor, the money untouched.

Matches of the blue head variety were the choice here, the amateur Rafiles evidently filling their pockets before departing.

In the month of September, the store of T. Anthony, grocer, on Hunter street east, was entered through a back window, and a quantity of coppers and silver taken, along with tobacco and some small articles.

Three Armed Men Hold Up Employees and Secure Pay Role

WINDSOR, November 2 (Canadian Press). — Three men, two of them masked, and all armed, held up two employees of the Dominion Forge and Stamping Company, Walkerville, at 10.30 a.m., to-day, and robbed them of the entire pay roll of the plant, amounting to several thousand dollars.

The exact amount taken has not yet been determined.

The robbery occurred on Monmouth Road, Walkerville, just a short distance from the company's plant.

The two messengers had just crossed from Detroit in a closed car, and were on their way to the factory with the money, when they were overtaken by bandits in a car bearing an American license number, which crowded the pay car into the curb.

Smashing the windows of the sedan, the robbers poked guns in the faces of the messengers, who were powerless to resist.

They were not harmed after giving up the money.

GERMANS SHORT FOOD SUPPLIES

Separatists Storm City Hall in Aix La Chapelle And Capture Town.

BERLIN, Nov. 2.—(Special).—The food situation overshadowed politics in Germany to-day as prices soared to new heights.

Prices trebled over night. Eggs and butter could not be purchased in Berlin to-day for any amount of money.

Merchants either were holding back supplies for higher prices or had been unable to replenish their stocks.

The directors of the Krupp Steel Works have signed an agreement with the French occupation authorities which will make possible the resumption of work in six mines, dispatches from Dusseldorf said today.

Chancellor Stresemann informed Socialist leaders this afternoon that many of the members of his cabinet have rejected the demand which the socialists made a condition of their continuance in the ministry.

Coalition socialists members are expected to withdraw from the government in the course of the afternoon.

Later it was announced that the socialist ministers in the Stresemann Coalition Cabinet remained absent from its meeting to-day to discuss the demand formulated by their party yesterday. Collapse of the cabinet appeared imminent as the Bourgeoise parties insisted that the socialist demands of lifting the State of Siege in the country and taking drastic acion agains Bavaria could not be met. It was said that Chancellor Stresemann shared this view.

Stormed City Hall

More than one thousand Separatists stormed the City Hall in Aix La Chapelle today cutting the water mains and flooding the inner part of the city, despatches said. The city hall employees demanded that all bells and whistles in the city be sounded to call the populace to their aid but they finally succumbed. Separatists carried off the Mayor and some other officials it was reported. Dispatches from special correspondents in the Rhineland said bodies of Separatists from Coblenz Duisburg, Crefeld and other towns were brought in for the attack. They fired on the city hall when firemen and police defended the building with the aid of bombs. Separatists dynamited the door ways of building it was reported.

According to word telephoned here, seizure of the town hall was accompanied by street fighting in which a number of Separatists were wounded.

An unverified report said Separatists were plundering shops in Aix La Chapelle which refused to open the raiders helping themselves to the supplies they desired.

Josef Mattes, "President of the Rhineland Republic" announced today his forces would immediately open a general Separatist offensive aimed at seizing important cities in the Rhineland every few days, despatches from Coblenz said to-day.

Matthes said he feared friction with the British occupying the Cologne area, however, because they appeared to misunderstand the objects of the Separatists movement.

JOHN SCHELL APPEARED IN POLICE COURT

Case Opened This Morning With Hearing Of a Number of Witnesses.

POLICE REPORTS

The preliminary hearing in the police court to-day, before Magistrate Langley, of John Schell charged with the murder of George Washington MacNeal, whose body was found in a hunter's camp near Silver Lake on Monday last, opened this morning, and at the time of going to press the case was still proceeding. Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., is conducting the prosecution.

Roy MacNeal, son of the deceased man, gave the same evidence as at the inquest last night, with a few additional points brought out in the cross-examination by Mr. Frost. His mother, the young man said, died in 1918, and his father had not lived much in any one place since. He told of taking his father into the hunting camp and of his return with George Schell, leaving his father there. Asked about the time he left, he said the "sun was about a rod high in the sky, and I would judge the time to be about 5 'clock."

After hearing of his father's death the young man received instructions from the Crown Attorney to bring the body out. He sent George Schell and Bill Hopkins to recover the body, which was taken to Bobcaygeon, and later to Peterborough.

Mr. Frost, in cross examination: "Why did you go with your father and Schell to thec amp on Saturday?"

Roy MacNeal: "Because they asked me to."

"What was the idea in going there?"

"My father wanted me to look over the camp, and he wanted me to see it too. I had never been there before. My father had been there."

"Was your father an active man, fit for a long walk?"

"Yes; he had been a soldier, and was in very good health."

"Was he friendly with the accused?"

"They were the best of friends."

"Did your father use alcoholic liquors"

"Yes."

"Sometimes to excess?"

"Yes."

"What was he like when he had been drinking to excess?"

"Real good natured; he was a man who would sit down and talk when he was intoxicated, or he would play a mouth organ and step dance."

"Was he apt to be melancholy?"

"No, he was not sad in any way."

"Did he have any liquor on him going into the camp that day?"

"Yes. It was in a 1'n. bottle — I think an ale bottle."

The magistrate, judging by the size indicated by the witness—"A reputed quart; what they called a reputed quart bottle."

Witness did not think any of the liquor, he said. There was cherry wine preparing, but it was not ready, and was not intoxicating.

Mr. Frost: "Were you surprised when your father did not accompany you home?"

Roy MacNeal: "Not a bit; he said he might stay and look over the ground and perhaps hunt, and that Mr. Schell had asked him."

Lyal Thomas MacNeal, another son of the deceased, repeated his evidence of last night as to the story told him by the accused. The rifle was produced, but the witness could not identify it as he had seen three or four in Schell's house. It looked, he said, like a 40-82.

On examining it, he said he could see it was a 40-82, Winchester, centre fire, full magazine.

Schell was Nervous.

Mr. Frost: "What condition was Schell in when he was telling you of your father's death?"

Lyal MacNeal: "He seemed a little nervous. He told me he was hit with the limb of a tree while working in the bush. He said the wound he received then was fluttering."

Mr. Frost: "As far as you could ascertain at that time he was not normal?"

"He was flustered."

Mr. Frost produced the gun and handed it to the witness for examination.

"Is it clean or dirty?" he asked.

"It is clean, with the execption of a little dirt around the muzle which might be dust."

The number of the rifle is 8386 and it is a 1886 model.

TWO CANNOT LIVE CHEAPLY AS ONE SAYS A CLERGYMAN

Therefore He Slips The Wedding Fee Back Into The Hand of The Blushing Bridegroom—Has Never Taken a Wedding Fee

Lima, O., Nov. 2.—No financial hitch is attached to getting hitched here.

Prospective brides and bridegrooms take note!

Tying the cord that binds costs nary a penny when Rev. Warren I. Steeves, pastor of Lima's First Baptist Church, performs the ceremony.

He has never accepted a fee for marrying folks, and says he never will.

Blushing bridegrooms endeavoring to slip green-backed remuneration into his hands, have it pressed back into their own palms with an accompanying smile.

Then the preached suggests that the ardent swain buy his little wife a Bible, a cook book, or anything else she wants or needs with the money.

"Two can't live as cheaply as one," Rev. Steeves explains. "And every cent counts when the young voyagers set out on the great adventure.

"They fear they have to pay for appearance sake. This drives too many young folks into Justice courts to be married. Everyone, regardless of circumstances, is entitled to the blessing of God upon his marriage."

REV. WARREN I. STEEVES.

HOW BROTHERS USE TEAMWORK FOR INSURANCE

Peterboro Underwriters Hear Interesting Addresses on the Art of Selling Insurance.

WILLS BADLY MADE

Something new and interesting in the way of salesmanship was presented last evening to a representative group of Peterboro and district insurance men by the Robinson brothers of Toronto. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Peterboro Underwriters Association with Mr. J. F. H. Wallace in the chair. Service and knowledge were the two strong points emphasized in the addresses of the two speakers. While the addresses were mainly prepared for the edification of the man who is engaged in the selling end of the insurance business they contained many points of considerable value to the laymen. From the remarks of the speaker it could be gathered that it was not an uncommon thing to find a man in the insurance business he represents and failing to provide the service often necessary to aid and instruct a prospect as to the class of insurance best suited to his needs.

The first speaker was Mr. Beverley Robinson who explained the unique character of the team work in which he and his brother participate. The speaker said he did not wish to pose as an expert as he was inclined to distrust experts of all kinds and did not like to be described as one. His mission to Peterboro was to learn and exchange views on an intensely interesting angle of life insurance. "It is impossible to tell you how to sell insurance, said Mr. Robinson. The best way to find out is to go out and sell it. I would rather have one ounce of personal experience than a ton of theory.

Describing his own method, the speaker said he and his brother always work together on the first interview and on ninety per cent of the subsequent calls and also when the policy was delivered. Mr. Robinson said he was not sufficiently analytical to say just what part each took in the work. On might be described as the strategist and the other the tactician. The main advantage resulting from the team work we have practiced said the speaker is that we write more than double the amount of business than the sum of what each of us would write separately. If the interview is not going well the other person with you can very often detect a weak spot in the interview and offer some new angle.

A call is never made without first getting a definite appointment and this appointment is invariably secured over the telephone. Knowledge is of supreme importance and cannot be overlooked. Agents should be equipped with the ability to meet the executive heads and possess a working knowledge of corporation law

English Socialists Gain Ground In Municipal Contests

LONDON, November 2 (Canadian Press Cable).—The results of the municipal elections yesterday in 300 cities and boroughs of England indicate that the Socialists are regaining some of the ground they lost last year in the municipal contests.

Their gains were mostly at the expense of the Liberals.

The net Socialists' gain was six seats in Bradford.

They made a desperate attack in Liverpool, but failed.

The Labour Party gained two seats in Manchester.

RESIDED HERE ESCAPES QUAKE

RemarkableExperience of Daughter of Late Dr. Kincaid in The Recent Japanese Disaster.

The following story from a Seattle, Wash., paper, detailing the miraculous escape of Mrs. H. N. Penlington of Tokyo in the Japanese earthquake and fire, will be found of interest to not a few Examiner readers. For the lady in question was formerly Zoe Kincaid, of Seattle, daughter of the late Dr. Kincaid, at one time resident in Peterboro. Dr. Kincaid removed many years ago to Seattle, where he died, his ashes, after cremation, being brought to this city and interred in Little Lake Cemetery.

Mrs. H. N. Penlington, of Tokyo (formerly Zoe Kincaid, of Seattle), and her husband went through the Japanese disaster uninjured personally, their home intact and their business not greatly damaged, according to a letter from them received in Seattle. This was the first conclusive news as to their fate.

"It seems a miracle," writes Mrs. Penlington to her sister, Mrs. Airdrie K. Pinkerton, "that after all we have been through, with Tokyo and Yokohama almost off the map, that I am here in my old corner of my sitting room writing a letter to you on a typewriter that apparently never budged an inch through three days of big quakes and two weeks of almost continuous quakes.

"Our house is intact. It is a triumph for the joiner's art — not a single nail used in the making. For this reason it strained and creaked, but did not collapse. After the first shock the interior looked like a wreck, but this was nothing compared to the violence everywhere near us. Heavy stone walls which seemed strong enough to stand for centuries were hurled down savage-

MERCHANTS IN PETERBORO GET A REAL BOOST

Ottawa Has Nothing On The Peterboro Stores In Merchandising Says J. A. McNab.

THE KIWANIS CLUB

In Kiwanis circles this is Ontario-Quebec week and the speaker at today's Kiwanis Club luncheon was Mr. Alfred Savard of Quebec, who gave an address that was calculated to foster better realtions between the two provinces. J. A. McNab, who until his removal to Ottawa a short time ago, was a member of the Peterborough Kiwanis Club, occupied the chair, and in his introductory remarks said that Ottawa was not any more in advance in modern merchandizing than Peterborough and that Peterborough citizens ought to feel justly proud in their fine array of stores and local merchandising methods.

Mr. Savard in his opening remarks, said that much has been done in the last few years to foster better relations between the two provinces and much remains to be done. In this respect the Kiwanis Club has contributed in a large measure to the improved conditions between the two provinces. A man can be a good Kiwanian and a good Canadian no matter whether he lives in Quebec or Ontario, said Mr. Savard. In Quebec continued the speaker, we are Catholic and in Ontario you are Protestant. But we are all Christians and worship the same God under different conditions. You are sons of Engand and we are sons of France. In Quebec there are only two large cities, with a number of smaller ones that are making rapid progress industrially and otherwise. The rest of the Quebec population lives on the land. Big families are among the assets of Quebec. The girls marry young and are not afraid to have children. Some of the farms have remained in the same family for two hundred years. The habitant is a hard worker. You may have heard that he is ignorant and priest ridden. When he needs sympathy, advice or help of any kind he goes to his curate. That is how he is priest ridden. Legal and in fact trouble of any kind always finds a sympathetic hearing with the curate. There are twenty-one colleges in Quebec, which are largely patronized by the sons of farmers. If you judge the colleges by the results you must admit they are very efficient. If in Quebec the Catholics and Protestants get along so well together there is no reason why the people of Ontario and Quebec should not get along. Confederation, said the speaker, was primarily a union of Ontario and Quebec. If you are French or English it is obviously because we cannot help it. In conclusion the speaker made a plea for co-operation between the people of the two provinces that a better understanding might result.

In calling on Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., to speak, Chairman McNab said that since his residence in Ottawa he had on many occasions visited the House of Commons and from what he saw and heard was convinced that Mr. Gordon was one of the piliars of the Liberal party and that some time he would occupy a much higher place in the administration. He was held in high esteem by followers of both parties.

In reply Mr. Gordon modestly averred that he was nothing more than a deck hand in the House and that when a man outlives the job he now holds he is not much good for anything else. Mr. Gordon made a brief appeal for better relations between the two provinces and a continued interchange of speakers to broadcast the message of peace and good will.

Dr. C. C. Cragg was initiated as a new member of the club and Mr. J. E. Sullivan was present as a guest. Kiwanians Morphet and Dick gave a rendition of Gallagher and Shean.

When the house is empty, SAY! You're losing money every day.

CANADIAN SALES TAX AN UNTRIED METHOD IN ANY OTHER LAND

R. N. McCormick, Who Has Made a Special Study of This Unusual Measure For Raising Money, Gives Exposition of Its Working.

A LARGE AUDIENCE

The regular meeting of the Peterboro Manufacturers' Association, held last evening in the board room at the Chamber of Commerce, was featured by an exposition of the revised Sales Tax, which comes into effect on January 1st, 1924, made by R. N. McCormick, assistant manager of the tariff department of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Toronto, who has made a special study of the tax and its applications. The executive of the Peterboro Association extended invitations to all members of the Chamber of Commerce, and others interested in the workings of the new tax, and the Board room was filled last night with an audience of nearly a hundred men, who listened with interest to a comprehensive description of the tax and its workings, given by Mr. McCormick. Mr. James Hamilton, in the chair, introduced the speaker.

Mr. McCormick referred to the Sales Tax as an unusual method of raising money, which has not been tried out in any other country. The United States government sent a large delegation to Canada about a year and a half ago, to enquire into its workings, but despite a vigorous campaign in the States made by those interested in having the tax imposed, the committee of investigation reported against it. "Great Britain also has not seen fit to adopt this scheme."

Introduction of Tax

Mr. McCormick briefly sketched the introduction of the Sales Tax, which took the place in 1920, along with the luxury tax, of certain war tariffs. The luxury tax has since been removed, and the Sales Tax has now been changed, to be operated in revised form after the first of the year. War tariffs, up to the time of removal, had brought the country a revenue of 190 millions, and the Sales Tax, up to March of this year, had brought in 191 millions, but whereas the war traiffs had entailed in their collection very little cost either to the Government or to the individual, the Sales Tax was a matter of considerable expense to the Government, the manufacturer, and the wholesaler.

In 1920, a one per cent. Sales Tax was imposed on the wholesaler, and a tax of two per cent. when the manufacturer sold direct to the retailer, or when the retailer imported goods. Last session, in Parliament, the Government changed the whole scheme, so as to put the tax on the final finished article, on the article "ripe for consumption." In four years, the tax had been increased from one per cent. to six per cent. The burden of the new tax rests on those manufacturers, limited in number, who are manufacturing commodities in the condition in which they go to the consumer. Certain things are exempt, such as boots and shoes, clothing, certain food stuffs, and the manufacturer who produces an article which is the raw material for another manufacturer will not have to pay the tax. It discriminates against the manufacturer of finished goods.

The Act provides that every manufacturer whose products are valued at $10,000 or more during the year, shall

Charles C. Cummer Of Peterboro Wins Fishermen's Prize

MEAFORD, Nov. 2. — Mr. Chas. C. Cummer, manager of the George street branch of the Bank of Montreal in Peterborough, was the lucky fisherman trolling here this year, winning the first prize of a beautiful silver cup given by the business men for the catching of the largest trout by a tourist for the year.

Mrs. G. E. Taylor, 550 Hughson street, Hamilton, Ontario, wins second prize, and Mrs. George Graham, 97 Smith street, London, Ontario, wins third.

The largest fish caught trolling here this year weighed 21 pounds 3 ounces.

FIND TRUE BILL AGAINST POLICE

Charged with Manslaughter in Connection with The Death of John Gogo October 6th.

TORONTO, Nov. 2. — (Canadian Press).—The grand jury in the criminal assizes today returned a true bill charging Patrol Sergeant William Kerr, and Constables W. H. Mitchell, G. Fraser and J. Rooney with manslaughter in connection with the death of John Gogo who was shot and killed on October 6 when the policemen fired on the schooner "Hattie C.," believing that it was being used for liquor running.

An indictment charging the four Toronto policemen with manslaughter in connection with the death of John Gogo, was given to the grand jury for their consideration in the criminal assizes this morning.

The indictment reads :That William Kerr, Wm. Henry Mitchell, Geo. Fraser and James Rooney unlawfully did kill and slay John Gogo and did thereby commit the indictable offence of manslaughter."

Mr. Justice Kelly outlined the facts for the jury, and also discussed the use of firearms by protective forces of the province; "firearms should only be used as a last resort," he said. "Us, in connection with breaches of the Ontario Temperance Act is not justifiable."

Commenting on the position of the constables, His Lordship said that no hardship would be done if the grand jury returned a true bill as it would enable the accused to have whole case reviewed in court.

DEMPSEY NOW LANDLORD.

Takes Full Title to Apartment House in Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 2.—Jack Dempsey's profits from his bout with Luis Angel Firpo have given him and his manager, Jack Kearns, full title to a large apartment house here, according to an announcement by the bond house that handled the deal. The fighter and his manager bought the property early this year subject to a bond issue. With the proceeds of his recent clean-up from the Firpo bout Dempsey called in all outstanding bonds, amounting to $100,000.

HOW BROTHERS

and business procedure, said Mr. Robinson in conclusion.

Mr Duncan Robinson

The next speaker was Mr. Duncan Robinson who with his brother, the previous speaker, constitute a unique and effective team in the Toronto insurance field. Mr. Duncan Robinson discussed the technique of "shock" and "stock" insurance. Shock insurance usually covers the executive of an important business and indemnifies the company for the loss that might be sustained as a result of his death. Stock insurance covers shareholders usually of a close corporation in which it is not desirable to have stock in the company pass into other hands on the death of the original stockholder. Mr. Robinson related various contingencies that might arise in such cases and also the benefits to be derived from such a class of insurance

In business insurance care should be taken in the selection of a beneficiary, said Mr. Robinson. If this is not done legal entanglements might follow and result in undesirable litigation. To successfully sell this class of insuprance the agents should possess a knowledge of how to analyze a balance sheet and other business information.

Mr. Robinson concluded his address with an intensely interesting reference to succession duty insurance which takes the form of life insurance sufficient to cover succession duties in case of death involving a large estate. The number of wills that are improperly made is surprisingly large, said the speaker with the result that in selling insurance of this kind the agent by a close study of the succession duty act could often be the means of saving the insurance prospect thousands of dollars. This was explained in a blackboard talk at the close of which Mr. Robinson volunteered to give additional information to any one present who would make an appointment with him in Toronto for that purpose. To explain the matter in a general way would be like handling dynamite, said the speaker and he would prefer to take it up in detail with any agent who was sufficiently interested to consult him. Large estates are depleted by succession duties, surtax shrinkage and administration charges. All of those constitute a mortage on the estate and unless extreme care was taken in preparing a will the depletion would run into a large amount.

Mr. Gordon Ramsay of Toronto and Mr. Hugh R. Rutherford of New York and other contributed to the interesting discussion that followed.

SOUTH AFRICA BLOCKS PEACE IN THE EMPIRE

Indian Delegate Urges That Disabilities Against Indians Be Removed — Smuts Inflexible.

SUBMITS DEFENCE.

LONDON, November 2 (Associated Press). — The only serious breeze which has yet disturbed the proceedings of the Imperial Conference was revealed yesterday when official reports of the speeches made on three separate days n the vexed question of the treatment of Indian immigrants in various parts of the Empire were issued.

These disclosed that General Smuts, the South African Premier, inflexibly refuses to be influenced by the resolution adopted by the Imperial Conference of 1921.

The resolution adopted by the Imperial Conference in 1921, with South Africa dissenting, declared that the rights of British Indians to citizenship should be recognised. At that time representatives of India expressed their concern at the position of Indians in South Africa, and their hope that by negotiation some way might be found to make their position more satisfactory.

Causes Bitterness.

Viscount Peel, Secretary for India, described how in the opinion of the Viceroy, the Earl of Reading and the Government of India, the bitterness engendered by this unusual treatment was adding to the difficulties of governing that country.

Sir Bahadur Sapru, representing India, complained that no steps had been taken to put this resolution into effect ,and he called for the Governments concerned to take some action to remove this serious grievance. He insisted that Indians should not be permanently relegated to a position of inferiority in the Empire.

He pointed out that there were 160,000 Indians in South Africa lacking the political franchise, and suffering economic handicap. He reminded the Conference that the position of India was very different now from what it was five years ago. Then a wide gulf divided the classes from the masses, but a rapid change had occurred, and now the classes lead the masses.

"Agitators" Influential.

"The intellectuals,' he said, "or if you prefer to call them, the agitators, have gained ascendancy over the masses. What the intellectuals think to-day, the masses will think to-morrow; and they will refuse to accept as a final decision that the one and a half millions of Indians settled in various parts of the Empire shall be subjected to grave disabilities."

Alluding bitterly to the action of South Africa, he declared:

"Let me tell General Smuts that there can be no peace unless he includes his country and my country within the ambit of his recent big proposals for world peace."

Smuts' Defence.

General Smuts' defence of his standpoint was that if the franchise were given to the Indians it could not be withheld from the six million natives, who would swamp the small community of one and a half million whites. He declared that if the whites were thus swamped by the blacks, the whole position for which they had striven for two centuries would be surrendered. No Government could tamper with that position by doing anything to meet the Indian viewpoint.

Sir Bahadum Sapru, in an interview, pointed out that by the immigration agreements, there was no danger of more Indians going to South Africa. Moreover, the Indian authorities were against Indians emigrating; they preferred that they should remain and develop their own country. He had had several interviews with General Smuts, but the African Premier had remained obdurate, and had refused even to explore possible avenues for the amelioration of the condition of the Indians, while the other Dominion Premiers were at least willing to take certain steps suggested to find remedies.

Stole 20 Dozen Diamond Rings

MONTREAL, Nov 2.—(Canadian Press)—Holding up the proprietor of the Aronson jewellry store of this city at the point of a revolver this morning three bandits rifled the store safe and escaped with twenty dozen diamond rings and other articles valued at over $5,000 leaving their victim bound and gagged and face downwards on the store floor.

This is the second hold up of an almost identical nature to occur in the Aronson store during the past 12 months.

Prisoner Freed By Saxon Crowd

DRESDEN, Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press)—Four members of the Reichswehr escorting a prisoner were attacked and beaten by a crowd of demonstrators at Grossenhain yesterday. They were rescued by other troops, who cleared the streets. Fifteen persons were injured in the affray.

CALL DELORME TRIAL NOV. 17

Believed Defence Is Not Ready and Hearing May Go Over to January.

MONTREAL, Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press).— Instructions from the Attorney-General Hon. L. A. Taschereau, have been received here by the senior crown prosecutor R. L. Calder K.C. to have the case of Father Delorme, called in the Court of King's Bench on Nov. 17. Whether the defence is ready to proceed with the trial or not will then be decided and motions for postponement or other pleas will then be ready, it was announced here. Father Delorme will be brought to Montreal from Bordeaux jail for the first time since early last July after the jury found themselves unable to agree on a verdict after a lengthy trial presided over by Chief Justice Sir Francis Lemieux. The appearance of the accused will probably be after the cases before the Court of Kings Bench have been completed. Mr. Justice Wilson will be on the bench for the regular roll of the Fall term, but the Delorme case, if tried at all this term will in all probability be presided over by Chief Justice Sir Francis Lemieux again.

Gustave Monette who acted as counsel for Father Delorme two years ago at the first "sanity trial" and who unsuccessfully pleaded for another trial of that kind before Chief Justice Martin and Sir Francis Lemieux declined to state last night whether he would again present and argue such a motion. "I have nothing to say," said Mr. Monette. "I am very interested in the case, but I cannot at the present commit myself to any statement."

It is generally thought that the Delorme trial will be adjourned to the January term, as Alleyn Taschereau K.C., senior counsel for the defence, has intimated that he is not prepared to go on this term. Mr. Calder has already announced that the crown is ready to resume the trial.

Apart from the Delorme case there is only one trial to be proceeded with for murder. This is the case of Russein Cassim fireman aboard the steamer Sheaf Mount who is accused of killing said Selem another fireman during a fight on the boat on August 2nd, last.

GET POWER FROM THE ST. LAWRENCE TEN YEARS' TIME

Premier Ferguson Hopes For Prompt Co-operation On The Part Of Federal Authorities to This End.

TORONTO, November 2 (Canadian Press) — A St. Lawrence power plant in full blast within ten years, pouring an additional million horsepower into Ontario industry, is Premier Ferguson's hope.

"Some declare that it will take years longer than that to complete," stated the Premier yesterday, "but my hope is that with prompt co-operation and acquiescence on the part of the Federal authorities, we may have development within a decade."

The Premier does not propose to await at length action on the part of the Federal Government but will personally take up the matter with the proper authorities at Ottawa.

The proposition that Ontario, through its Premier, will put up to Ottawa, upon Mr. Graham's return, is that the Dominion Government build and stand the expense of a dam across the Rover, which must be international in character, and that the Province of Ontario construct and pay for the installations required to turn out the vast stores of electricity.

Premier Ferguson said that the request which he would carry to Ottawa in the course of a few weeks was simply that either the Dominion Government get to work at once on the immense power development proposition, or that it make it possible for Ontario, which will shortly need power to use its own energy and initiative to develop it.

CHINESE GUILTY OF PEDDLING NARCOTICS

OTTAWA, Nov. 2.—Lung Hamilton, proprietor of a laundry establishment in this city was found guilty of a charge of "drug peddling" by Magistrate Hopewell in police court yesterday, and was remanded for sentence.

Other charges of a similar nature against Hamilton, are being proceeded with.

He's a Regular Old Toper

Rinus has been raised on a bottle. For 14 years, the little Shetland pony that drags Fred Pofbrel's milk wagon along a Minneapolis route, has been getting his daily swig. He must have his milk at least twice a day. Sometimes he insists upon a beverage even stronger. On a hot day he can't be induced to move unless he gets his white soda at the corner grocery store.

WASHINGTON TO WITHDRAW FROM CONFERENCE IF IT IS CONFINED TO THE LIMITS POINCARE DEMANDS

Any But Full and Free Enquiry Into Germany's Capability to Make Reparations Payments Would Be Abortive.

Note of Disagreement.

WASHINGTON, November 1. — Interpretations placed by the French foreign office on Premier Poincare's remarks yesterday at Nevers, shocked official Washington somewhat, inso-far as any purpose of France to prevent a full, complete and impartial inquiry by economic experts into the reparations question may be indicated.

Press reports of the Foreign office view came as a surprise to the officials here who had been under the impression the French premier has accepted the expert committee plan with only the reservation of all French rights under the treaty of Versailles and insistence that the committee function under the Reparations Commission.

For Full Enquiry.

To what extent the limitations on scope of the committee's inquiry read by the French Foreign Office into the Premier's speech, according to the press despatches, would influence United States participation, was not indicated. It was also made very plain however that the United States would look upon any plan that did not provide for a full and free examination by the experts of Germany's capacity to make reparations payments as an "abortive" effort to solve the problem.

The United States Government has stressed the necessity that the committee's work should be purely advisory and that its proposals based on a full study of the situation in Germany, should stand or fall on their merits when presented to the governments for consideration.

An Opposite View.

It was indicated also that the United States does not share the view attributed to Premier Poincare in the Foreign Office summary as carried in press despatches that Germany's debt to the Allies has been fixed for all time and cannot be changed. In this connection attention was called to Paragraph 3, Annex 2, Chapter VIII. of the Treaty of Versailles, which sets out the conditions under which a unanimous vote shall be required by the Reparations Commissmion.

One of the subjects specifically named among those on which the Commission must record unanimity is any proposal to reduce the German obligations.

FAILURE WILL MAKE SITUATION MUCH WORSE

LONDON, November 2. — The news of the grave impression created at Washington by Premier Poincare' speeches reached London too late to find the officials at the government departments last night but it is certain to cause intense disappointment when it becomes more generally known.

So many efforts have been made to induce the United States to come to the assistance of distracted Europe, and so many hopes have been built up on even an attenuated conference under the Reparation Commission which was all the French Government would sanction that, should Washington refuse to be a party to such a strictly circumscribed inquiry, disappointment will be redoubled, since it is feared that failure of these negotiations will only serve to aggravate the already desperate situation.

One of the first effects of Washington's possible withdrawal, it is believed, is almost certain to be the fall of the German government, whose tenure of office is only held by a thread and it seems hardly likely that it can survive the realization that nothing is to be hoped for from the United States, if that government remains aloof.

What Poincare Said

PARIS, November 2. — "It is not time to change our policy and we will not change," Premier Poincare declared yesterday in an important discussion of the reparations tangle at the unveiling of a monument to French war dead at Nevers.

The expert advisory committee must not set the amount of the German reparations debt, he reiterated.

"How unjust and perilous it would be if to-morrow Germany were freed from further debt, only to return within a few years to humiliate and crush us once more. France confidently signed the Treaty of Versailles, though it was not very satisfactory, because others promised their aid in the event of future aggressions; because, also, we were promised reparations for all our damages, but a few months later the finest stones in the building collapsed.

"Germany also perceived that the longer she was able to delay fulfilment of her obligations, the more difficult it would be for the Allies to continue their policy of solidarity.

"She systematically organised her bankruptcy before France had ever decided to enter the Ruhr.

"The country itself is not poor; it is the state and the middle classes. Germany's immense resources have been scandalously monopolised by the industrialists and bankers, who will not give anything to the state because the state does not try to force them.

"The small traders and workers are poor, but the German peasant is happy, as well as the big land owners who are the best agents of militarism.

"We will not permit the German Government to go so far as to instigate in America, a conspiracy against French unity."

CHANCELLOR STRESEMANN ABSENT FROM A SESSION

BERLIN, Nov 2.—(Canadian Press)—Chancellor Stresemann was prevented by illness from presiding over a cabinet session this morning when the Socialist parties lutimatum was to be considered. It was thought possible that the Government's reply to parties demands would not be forthcoming today.

Krupps Submit to Coal Deliveries

DUSSELDORF, Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press)—It is officially announced that a definite accord has been reached between the Krupp interests and the occupation authorities for a resumption of deliveries of coal from the Salzer, Nouack, Hanover, Hannibal, Helen and Ahalin mines. These are six of the most important pits in the Krupp system.

NARROW ESCAPE PETERBORO MAN

Mr. J. Harvey, Sailor, Had a Close Call When He Was Knocked Into The Belleville Harbour.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 2.—M. J. Harvey of Peterboro had a narrow escape by drowning in Belleville harbor yesterday as the schooner Julia B. Merrill of Kingston was sailing into the harbor with a cargo of coal fast with a heavy wind, and a line was thrown out to try and check the speed of the boat.

Harvey, who is a member of the crew of the Julia B. Merrill, was in a small boat at the stern of the schooner, and, thinking everything was clear, he was about to step on the dock when he was caught in the rope and struck in the stomach and below the right ear with it. The blows pitched him into the water and the rope held him beneath it. He held firmly to the rope in that position, waiting for the boat to be checked, and finally was able to extricate himself.

How he escaped drowning, heavily clothed as he was, is almost a miracle in the eyes of his fellow-sailormen The Julia B. Merrill herself came to grief a minute or so later. She ran on a shoal about 150 feet off the dock, and was still there this evening.

DOLLAR RATE IN MARKS DOUBLED IN GREAT LEAP

Created Havoc on the Exchange and in Mercantile Trade—Berlin's Appeal For Food.

DISTRESS GROWING.

BERLIN, November 2 (Canadian Press) — The dollar rate, which has been stationary for a week at sixty-five billion marks ,took a spectacular leap to one hundred and thirty million yesterday, not only creating havoc on the Bourse, but seriously dislocating conditions in the food situation, where the price levels for staple commodities have again attained prohibitive limits for the average wage-earner.

Yesterday's dollar rate is explained on the ground of severely restricted allotments of foreign currency for the Reichsbank, because of which unsatisfied applicants sought to cover their needs outside of regular trading channels. Germany's new dollar gold loan scored record quotations, and was eagerly being sought at rates ranging from one hundred and thirty billion marks in the early morning hours to three hundred and fifty billion in post-Bourse trading.

Hampers Government.

The record slump in the mark also handicaps the Government's attempts to calculate wages and prices on a gold or other stable basis, and wholly vitiates the early effects of the Government's programme for financial reforms, especially with respect to its ability to supply new gold currency in sufficient quantities to make it a regulating factor in the present situation. Its restricted volume has already made it the objective of unscrupulous speculation, and it is being eagerly sought, as the Reichsbank is obviously unable to supply other gold currencies in sufficient quantities to meet the legitimate demands.

Social Problem Grave.

Meanwhile social distress in Greater Berlin and other metropolitan centres is growing apace, conditions in the capital particularly reflecting the devastating effects of the depreciated currency as it relates to the necessaries of life, while the increase in unemployed and destitute is becoming a grave social problem for the municipal authorities.

As little, virtually no, aid is coming from outside Germany, or is expected from foreign agencies, the Berlin municipality is organising a gigantic drive for food and clothing, the official treasuries being no longer in a position to finance the relief work.

Magistrate Decides O.T.A. Does Not Apply Under Standard.

CORNWALL, Ont., November 1. —An interesting point under the O.T.A. was decided by C. R. Cline, the police magistrate here to-day, when Harry Holden was charged with making and selling home brew with a kick of more than 2½ per cent. in it. The defence called an expert from Quebec who testified that the liquid did not contain 2½ per cent. proof spirits at the time of seizure, and it was contended that the O.T.A. only applied to liquor which contained more than that percentage. A government analysis showed that the liquor contained some 9 or 10 per cent. about three weeks after the seizure.

The magistrate ruled that as the liquor had less than 2½ per cent. proof spirits at the time of seizure, there was no offence under the O.T.A., even though the liquor might subsequently develop a higher alcoholic power.

The Attorney-General's Department has written that the police magistrate's interpretation is correct This is the first time this point has come before any court for decision.

The magistrate however found Holden guilty of selling home brew of a higher percentage than 2½ per cent. within the last three months, and imposed the minimum fine.

SWEDEN'S CROWN PRINCE WILL MARRY TO-MORROW.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—(Special).—The King of Sweden arrived yesterday on the flagship Sovereign enroute to London to attend the wedding of the Swedish Crown Prince to Lady Louise Mount Batten.

The wedding will take place here today.

DR. BANTING

Dr. Fred G. Banting, the young Ontario doctor who won lasting fame for himself by his discovery of insulin, seems not only to be a great scientist but also very much of a man.

He showed it when in the first interview he gave after the announcement of the award of the Nobel prize he expressed his regret that Mr. Best, who had been associated with him in the research work that preceded his discovery, had not been included in the award, and announced his intention of sharing the financial part of the gift with his colleague.

And he has given further proof of it by donating $10,000 of the Nobel prize as the first contribution towards the Banting Medical Research Foundation, an organization designed to give assistance for research work to young scientists who would otherwise be unable because of lack of funds to follow their bent.

A fund of at least one million dollars will be raised, and the organization, which will be along the lines of the National Medical Research in England, should be a boon to humanity.

Dr. Banting has once again proven himself to be a man of whom every Canadian should be proud.

THE PAPERS AND THE POLICE.

Toronto's Chief of Police is endeavoring these days to keep as much news as possible concerning his department from reaching the press of the Queen City, for some reason or other that has not been announced.

The Examiner believes that he is making a very bad mistake.

Neither Chief Dickson nor any other police chief can afford to ignore the service of the newspapers in the prevention and detection of crime.

The newspapers in any city are the most useful ally the police have and friendly co-operation with the press cannot fail to produce mutual benefit.

There is police news that should be available to the reporters and the publication of which would not interefere in any way with the operations of the police department

On the other hand there are matters in whihc the police are interested in which premature publicity would defeat the efforts of the representatives of the law to solve a case and secure the arrest of the offenders.

It would seem therefore a businesslike and logical system if the press were given ready access to the legitimate news in return for co-operation in keeping out of print details that would assit the criminal and handicap the police.

Newspapers everywhere are prepared to play the game fairly with the authorities but if there are indications as in Toronto just now of an inclination to "boycott" the papers the latter cannot be blamed for publishing whatever they may happen to pick up whether or not publication may be desirable from a police standpoint.

THE BLUENOSE REPEATS.

Haiyl to the Bluenose, the champion fishing craft of the Grand Banks and to Capt. Angus Walters and his hardy crew who for the third year in succession have brought victory to Canada in the international fishermen's race.

The Bluenose's triumph is what the New York Times describes as the greatest sporting event of the year was complete.

She won the first race in a moderate breeze and yesterday in a tearing north easter that caused even those daring skippers to shorten sail, repeated her victory, vanquishing the Columbia as she had conquered her American rivals last year and in 1921.

America's representative, the Columbia, was confidently relied upon by the Gloucester fishermen to carry off the cup.

Her crew had been at work upon her for a month preparing for the race and when in a trial at Gloucester on October 21, she distanced the Henry Ford and the Elizabeth Howard the local committee hailed her as the fastest fishing vessel of her size afloat.

But Bluenose triumphed over Columbia, Lunenburg triumphed over Gloucester, and Canada triumphed over the United States for the third time in three years.

The fishermen's race is a real contest, not one of those yacht races in which the event is called off because there is too much breeze, and the winning of it by Canada is an event that thrills even those Canadians like ourselves who live far away from the sound of the surf on the Atlantic coast.

A SASKATOON WARNING.

A news item from Saskatoon in the paper the other day contained a significant endorsation of two warnings which the Examiner recently felt its duty to place before its readers.

A fire truck speeding to answer to an alarm which turned out to be a false one, collided at a street intersection with a taxi-cab, the driver of which attempted to race the fire apparatus over the crossing. Result: two firemen badly hurt and both vehicles fit for scrap heap.

In the first place, note that the call was a false alarm, doubtless the work of some one who thought it a good joke to give the firemen a run for nothing, forgetting, as the Examiner pointed out not long ago, that in these days of motorized fire departments, answering an alarm at a speed of 35 to 40 miles and hour through city streets is a performance fraught with peril.

The firemen should not be called upon to take such risks unless their services are really needed.

And secondly the taxi-driver erred as so many Peterbrough motorists err under similar circumstances.

He failed to give the fire department the right of way, preferring to risk a collision rather than to wait a moment.

The syren of the fire apparatus gives ample warning of approach of the department's vehicles and the street should be left clear for them while drivers on other streets running into the route of the department have no excuse, except carelessnss or foolhardiness for getting in the way.

The Saskatoon accident clearly emphasizes two things—the criminal folly of sending in false alarms and the necessity of giving fire departments a clear field, while engaged in the duty for which they are engaged.

THE NEW EDUCATION

The enrollment of 2,500 now attending the night school classes offered by the Windsor-Walkerville Technical School is greater, by 1,000, than any previous record. There are far more taking advantage of the matriculation classes at the Windsor Collegiate Institute than ever before. These are most favourable signs for the future of the Border Cities.

The increase in attendance at the night school classes cannot be explained by an increase in population. It can be attributed in part to the facilities offered by the new technical school, but that does not serve to explain the fact that the Border Cities should have half as many students attending night school as Toronto, with a population several times as great. It begins to look as though there were an extraordinary interest in education and the extension of such facilities here in the Border Cities.

We may be very glad if that is so. Canada, as a democratic nation, believes in education as the palladium of liberty. We cannot then but believe in its extension to such practical subjects as are taught in the technical school. Surely, better workmen, having a keener interest in the jobs, will result. Happier homes must follow the increased efficiency that will result from the studies of the women who go to night school to learn scientific methods of cooking, dressmaking, millinery and other feminine arts.

We are just beginning to appreciate what our technical school is going to mean to us in the future. It is a comparatively new idea in education, but it looks to be a good one We need not worry about the future of a nation where men and women want to go to night school.

AN AMERICAN VIEW.

The death of Mr. Bonar Law, which was not unexpected, except for suddenness, is the culmination of a political tragedy, the first acts of which date far back. A quiet and appaarently unambitious man, his aspiration did not for a long time seem to rise above leadership of the Conservative Party. That he had virtually obtained before the war, but when the Coalition Government was formed early in the great struggle he took office under Lloyd George and served him with the utmost loyalty. Last year's surprising electoral shift brought Mr Bonar Law again to the front, and he yielded to the almost universal desire of Conservatives and became Prime Minister. But the previous severe breakdown in his health was a warning that he carried about within him seeds of disease which made it unlikely that he could endure the arduous labors inseparable from his high office. He manfully faced them, nevertheless, and persisted until nature gave way and he was compelled to retire, as he did without complaint. Now the thin-spun thread has been slit by the shears, and a political career ended soon after it took on its brightest promise.

Mr. Law was in himself an illustration of one type of British character, and in his public life showed again how diverse are the qualities which appeal to the admiration of Englishmen They sometimes seem to give all their confidence and praise to statesmen of brilliant gifts, orators and administrators and leaders like Canning and Peel and Disraeli and Gladstone and Lloyd George. But at any moment they may turn to place their affairs in the hands of public men who by their downright simplicity and earnestness and integrity succeed where versatile and personally fascinating politicians fall. Mr. Bonar Law was of this right English line, distinguished by being undistinguished—the line of Viscount Althorp, Lord George Bentinck and the late Duke of Devonshire. Like them, he was a man of solid rather than glittering attainments and character, one who came to carry extraordinary weight with the British public chiefly because he was not an orator, though he could speak to the point with homely directness and clearness, but had such steadiness and appeared to be so saturated with common sense that his fellow-countrymen thought of him as a tower of strength. In the general elections last year Mr. Bonar Law replied good-humoredly to the charge that he and his associates in the leadership of the Conservative Party were not "clever men." He confessed that this was true, but expressed the hope that they had some other qualities which might be found useful in a Government. It turned out that the country was, indeed, ready to trust its fate once more to the kind of a political genius which consists in walking straight and warily, even if in a somewhat heavy-footed manner.

A peculiarly engaging trait of Bonar Law's mind was displayed at the time of his withdrawal from co-operation with the French Government at the time of the occupation of the Ruhr last January. He didn't like the operation. He couldn't see how it was coming out To commit himself to it was something that his instinct of caution forbade him to contemplate. But he broke off with M. Poincare in the utmost good nature. He did not think that the French could win, but hoped they might. And it was in the guise of a frank well-wisher, even while disagreeing, that he took his departure from France. The whole was a demonstration of his frank nature which must remain as a pleasing memory even with the French, whom he left to work out their own salvation.—New York Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It took the Bluenose to show that Columbia was not the gem of the ocean.

According to Sam Hunter's cartoon this is the time of year when prudent farmers in the north keep their cattle carefully tied up.

The Department of Customs and Excise state that a special order-in-council is necessary to exempt insulin from the operation of the sales tax. It should be forthcoming at once.

With a lot of new hunters in the woods this year an epidemic of buck fever may be looked for as a feature of the hunting season.

Luncheon clubs had better be careful. Henry Ford says that too many banquets helped to kill several of the United States presidents.

Ontario's apples did not win any prizes at the Imperial Fruit Show because they did not compete there. That explains the mystery of why the fruit from this Province was not mentioned in the awards.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, November 2. — The total run of cattle for the four days at the Union Stock yards was 8,272, and on Wednesday night 7,182 head had been sold, this leaving over 1,000 head for yesterday.

Yesterday morning's receipts were small, being 29 cattle, 9 calves, 261 hogs, and 273 sheep and lambs.

Wednesday's prices were generally easier, and the sales were largely in stockers and common butchers. The same class of business is on this morning, and by the close of the day it is not expected that more than 500 will be left.

Loads of passable stockers were selling yesterday at $3.50 and $3.60 a cwt. The poorest kind of killers are being taken by the packers as borers as low as 2 1-2c a pound. The demand for butchers' cows was good enough this week to clean up the supply at fairly steady prices, and the same might be said of bulls.

Few butchers were good enough to bring over 5c a pound yesterday. The exporters announce that they will be in the market for a supply of heavy steers next week, and local butchers want choice handyweight steers and heifers.

The few calves in yesterday did not give any indication of any change in quotations, and this market closes steady.

Lambs had a weak spell late on Wednesday, and prices fell off 50c a cwt. Early sales were made at 11 3-4c a pound, and some good lambs were bought later at 11c The week-end market is quoted about 11 1-4c to 11 1-2c a pound. Choice light sheep are held at 6 to 6 1-2c a pound. One deck of choice black-faced lambs sold at 12c yesterday morning.

Hogs are ruling easier. The run this week was over 11,000, and the bid price has been made $8.25 a cwt. f.o.b. over the week-end.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, November 2 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday:

Demand	4.5450
Cables	4.5475

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, November 2 (Canadian Press). — The domestic cash market in grain was quiet yesterday. There was no change in the flour situation. A fair business is reported in millfeed, and the demand for rolled oats was steady. There is a firm feeling in the baled hay market. The egg market showed no change. Trade was rather more active for potatoes. Business in butter was very dull. The tone of the cheese market is easy.

The egg market quotations yesterday were:

Extras 40, firsts 35, seconds 30.

Butter — Only quotation No. 1 creamery at 36 1-4c, no sales.

WINNIPEG CATTLE

WINNIPEG, November 2 (Canadian Press). — Receipts, 2,550 cattle and calves, 1,300 hogs and 200 sheep and lambs.

There was an improved demand for the offerings on the cattle market this morning, and prices were unchanged to 25 cents higher.

The hog market was unchanged at $8.00 for thick smooths and $8.80 for select bacons.

The bulk of good lambs sold up to $11.00 and sheep at $7.00.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, November 2 (Canadian Press). — Wheat had a downward trend most of the time yesterday, largely as a result of continued imports of Canadian wheat and because of word that a voluntary reduction in railroad freight rates on export grain had been refused.

The market closed unsettled 1-8c to 5-8c net lower, December $1.07 to $1.07 1-8 and May $1.11 7-8 to $1.12.

Corn lost 1-8c to 1-2c to 5-8c, and oats a shade to 1-4c to 3-8c.

In provisions the outcome was unchanged to 10c to 12c higher.

Bears in the wheat market got some advantage in the first part of the day by emphasizing news that Minneapolis mills again were rather liberal buyers of Canadian wheat. It also was pointed out that weather conditions in Canada are favourage for the movement of grain, and that the carrying capacity of the railroads there would be utilised to the maximum for a considerable time.

A further bearish influence was the fact that estimates pointed to a larger domestic acreage of winter wheat than had been looked for.

Temporary rallying power displayed during subsequent trade was based on indications that 2,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat had been purchased for shipment to Europe. News, however, which was received just before the close that President Coolidge's suggestion of a cut in the freight rates on export wheat had been rejected by the railroads led to considerable selling here, and wheat closed at virtually the lowest figures of the day.

Corn, like wheat, lacked adequate buying support near the finish. Earlier, the market had been firm owing to disappointing husking returns, bullish crop estimates, and prospective unfavourable weather.

Oats followed corn.

Provisions were governed by the course of hog values.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, November 2 (Canadian Press). — Cattle, receipts 12,000; most killing classes generally steady; top matured steers, $12.00; packers, $9.50 to $10.00; outsiders paying upward to $11.00; bulls weak to 15c lower; stockers and feeders strong to 15c higher; bulk, $5.50 to $7.00.

Hogs, receipts 49,000; slow, mostly 10c to 15c lower; bulk good and choice 200 to 325 pound butchers, $7.40 to $7.65; top, $7.70; better grades 150 to 190 pound average, mostly $6.85 to $7.25; bulk packing sows, $6.50 to $6.75; desirable and weighty slaughter pigs, $5.75 to $6.25. Estimated hold-over, 18,000.

Sheep, receipts 21,00; killing classes steady; feeders slow, steady to weak; fat natives and fed Westerns, $12.75 to $13.25; few to city butchers, $13.40; top range lambs, $13.00; call natives, $9.50 to $10.00; medium to good yearling wethers, $9.00 to $10.00; bulk fat ewes, $4.50 to $6.00; early sales feeding lambs, $12.25 to $12.50.

NO SLUR CAST ON CANADIAN CATTLE

But British Agriculturists Feel Their Industry Needs All Protection Possible.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press Cable)—The London Times commenting on decision of the Imperial Conference with reference to importation of cattle from Canada says, as Premier Mackenzie points out, there must be a spirit of goodwill and Liberal interpretation in carrying out existing agreements; but disinclination of British agriculturists to go beyond the measure to be proposed by Sir Robert Sanders, Minister of Agriculture, is in no way due to their failure to appreciate the importance of imperial co-operation and reciprocity, nor does it convey a slur on the health of Canadian cattle.

"It is simply and solely caused by grim conviction that at the present moment the industry in which they are engaged needs all protection it can be given,, the Times says.

OPEN VERDICT BY A CORONER'S JURY IN THE GALWAY SHOOTING FATALITY; BOTH MEN HAD HUNTED TOGETHER

George W. MacNeal Died of Bullet Wound Not Self-Inflicted, Declared the Doctors Who Performed Post - Mortem Examination — No Ill-Feeling Between MacNeal and His Companion John Schell.

Schell's Story Related.

'That George Washington MacNeal met his death on or about Sunday last as as result of a bullet fired from a rifle in the hands of a person or persons unknown to the jury" was the finding of the Coroner's jury impanelled last night by Coroner Dr. T. Newton Greer to enquire into the death of the man found dead under mysterious circumstances in a hunter's shack in Galway township. John Schell, charged with murder in connection with the death, was brought to Peterborough yesterday evening by Provincial Constables Davis of this city and Storey of Lindsay, the accused having been confined in Bobcaygeon jail on a charge of manslaughter.

Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C. examined the witnesses on behalf of the crown, while C. G. Frost of Lindsay appeared in the interests of the defendant. The jury was composed of George Elliott, foreman; Walter Stockr, Thomas Brown, William Outram, Harry Campbell, Robert Snelgrove, Robert Elliott, George Evans, Denis Maloney, Joseph Picard, Frank Detcher and Michael Duffus. The inquest was held in Comstock's Undertaking Parlor.

Roy MacNeal, son of the deceased, the first witness called, indentified the body as that of his father. Regarding his death, the witness knew only what John Schell had told him. His father came to Galway township about a month ago to visit him, and on last Saturday he went with John Schell, George Schell, son of the accused, and the witness to look over Schell's camp in preparation for the hunting season. Schell persuaded his father to stay overnight at the hut, witness said, and he was to meet his father on Sunday to take him home He next saw the body on Monday when George Schell and Bill Hopkins brought it to his home. There was nobody but the two men in the shack so far as witness knew.

Schell's Story of Death.

"I saw John Schell on Sunday. On our return from the camp we walked from Nogie's creek to Schell's house and Miss Schel said 'your father's dead'. We went upstairs to John Schell and he said 'your father took cramps about 9 o'clock last night and died this morning' George Schell was with men in the room, and nothing more was said about the death at that time. I went straight to the coroner.

Mr. Hatton: "Why?"

Roy MacNeal: "I didn't know anything else to do I didn't talk to John Schell about the death afterwards. Next morning he said, when we were going for the body, "I'll go with you'. I said no."

Mr Hatton: "Why?"

Roy MacNeal: "The man looked all worn out."

George Schell and Bill Hopkins, witness said, went into the bush for the body on Monday. Schell had a rifle in the shack and George MacNeal had a 12 guage shot gun.

Both Had Been Drinking.

Mr. Hatton: "Had they been drinking?"

Roy MacNeal: "Yes. Both men had been drinking."

Mr. Hatton: "What condition was John Schell in on Saturday night in the shack?"

Roy MacNea: "He was none the worse. He might have had a drink or two.

Mr. Hatton: "Was there any ill-feeing between the two men?"

Roy MacNeal: "None that I know of."

Witness told Mr. Hatton the hunting camp is two miles from the Peterborough Lumber camp, which is the nearest inhabited place. The camp is at Long Lake.

Yelled With Cramps.

Coroner Greer called Lyal MacNeal, another son of the deceased man, who corroborated his brother's testimony. Lyal is a farmer at Reaboro, and last saw his father alive on July 12, two years ago. He identified the body.

"When my brother came for me and we got out there they hadn't got my father out of the bush, so we called on Mr. Schell. My brother suggested that Mr. Schell tell me how my father died. 'At nine o'clock on Saturday night,' Schell said, 'he took cramps and yelled, and put his arms across his stomach. Of course I tried to pacify him and after a while he fell asleep, and I went to my bunk. I could hear him snoring. Next morning I lit the fire between 9 and 10 o'clock and had tea kettle boiling. I went over and he let an awful yell and pulled his legs up. I shook him and said "George! George! do you want some tea?" He didn't answer, and I looked at him and took him for dead."

Roy MacNeal, recalled, said his father was in good health except that at times a pain over his heart troubled him. He was painting the spot with iodine.

Was Not Suicide.

Dr. T. W. H. Young, who with Dr. C. H .Amys to assist him, and his daughter, Dr. Phyllis V. Young, to take notes, had made a post mortem examination, testified to his findings. In Dr. Young's opinion the dead man was 53 years of age, judging by his appearance. He was 5 feet 10 inches in height and weighed 165 pounds .He had grey hair and brown eyes.

Detailing old scars and internal irregularities, Dr. Young said the marks of external violence were a ragged punctured wound on the left side with tissue protruding and a round hole in the right side, five sixteenths of an inch in diameter. The skin was burned on the right side over a patch surrounding the wound measuring eight inches long by five inches across. There were no blisters. All the deceased's organs, including the heart, were normal and sound

The coroner: "What is your conclusion as to the cause of death?"

Dr. Young: "He died from a shot from a rifle bullet. There was not much hemorrhage."

Referring to the burns he had mentioned as appearing on the man's side, Dr. Young said the skin was not blistered. "Had there been blisters I would have said he had been burend while alive, but in absence of blisters my opinion is the burning took place after death."

The Coroner: "Could the burn have occurred simultaneously with death without blistering?"

Dr. Young: "So long as there was circulation of the blood there would be blisters."

Mr. Hatton: "From your examination are you in a position to tell the jury whether or not this was a self-inflicted wound?"

Dr. Young: "My opinion is that it was not self-inflicted. This opinion is formed on the course of the bullet and the nature of the wound."

Replying to a question, Dr. Young said the bullet was not found. The bone where the bullet entered was fractured.

Mr. Frost: "Would the burns suggest that the muzzle of the rifle was close to the deceased?"

Dr. Young: 'Yes. The sweater and the undershirt were burned."

Mr. Frost: "How close would you say?"

Dr .Young: "Close enough for the flame to touch the clothing."

Course of the Bullet.

Dr Amys said he assisted Dr. Young in the post mortem examination and concurred in his opinion. Referring to the course of the bullet, he said it was downward and backward, indicating that the butt of the rifle was not on the ground as is usual in accidental shooting. On striking the bone, the bullet was deflected slightly upward

Mr. Hatton: "From your investigations can you say whether the wound was self-inflicted or not?"

Dr Amys: "If a man tied a rifle on a rack he could inflict a wound like that, but he would hardly try to induce death through shooting himself in the pelvis."

The Coroner: "From your examination of the wound can you say as to the position of the body?"

Dr. Amys: "I don't think he was erect."

The witness identified a blood stained sweater and undershirt exhibited to the jury as those taken from the deceased, and testified that holes and burns coincided with the wound in the deceased's body.

Question from the jury: "Would you think the wound self-inflicted or not?"

Dr. Amys: "I have already answered that question. I don't think any man, unless very, very insane, would try to kill himself by shooting in this manner."

The Coroner: "Are you strongly of the opinion that it was not a self-inflicted wound?"

Dr. Amys: "You might say so."

Bullet Hole in Shack.

Provincial Constable Storey said he went to Bobcaygeon on Tuesday morning on instructions of the County Crown Attorney, and there learned that the accused was detained by Coroner Dr. Johnston.

He received a statement from the accused and made enquiries from neighbours, later investigating conditions at the camp. He stayed at the shack all night on Tuesday. The buiding is 12 feet by 24 feet, built of lumber. It is furnished with beds, a stove, a table and 2 benches. There was blood on the floor near the stove where the body had been found, and a bullet hole in the south-west corner of the shack, six feet from the ground. The bullet had been fired from the inside, since the hole was smooth and round on the inside and ragged and rough on the outside.

After properly cautioning the accused, Constable Storey took a statement from him. In it he said that during the night MacNeal was troubled with cramps .In the morning he fell to the ground and gave a shriek, and Schell found him to be dead. The accused said he was not out of the camp all night, but he did not hear any shots. He also declared there was no liquor in the camp—that he had never seen any. He had not seen any blood.

Mr. Hatton: "Had anything been said about blood?"

Storey: "No."

Coroner Defines Duty.

Coroner Greer told the jury their office was to discover the cause of death; when the man died, and by what means death was caused.

"We have the doctors' evidence that death was caused by a rifle shot; there is no positve intimation given as to when death occurred; if there is anyone on whom guilt rests so strongly as to preclude doubt it is your duty to name him."

The jury was closeted in discussion a little more than half an hour, when the verdict of death from shooting by an unknown hand was returned. The next step is the preliminary hearing before Magistrate O. A. Langley of John Schell on a charge of murder

HORTICULTURE IS TAUGHT

In Kemptville Agricultural School—Most Valuable Thing for the Farmer.

The interest of the farmer today is being directed almost entirely towards means of herd improvement, crop rotation, seed selection, and other very necessary and important phases of agricultural activity. Our agricultural magazines and papers are filled with information along such lines, yet it seems that we have over-looked and often forgotten the chief attraction offered by living in the country. Farm life can hardly be expected to appeal to a young man or a young woman of ambition and culture, if the home surroundings are devoid of the beauty and pride that practically every country home (however humble) can so cheaply and easily provide. How many of us, who live in the country, realize that we possess what nine out of every ten people in the city strive to obtain?

A man owning a house built on a town or city lot of one-tenth of an acre will diligently strive to develop a garden and improve the attractive appearance of his property. The city man does this, actuated by three chief motives—his pride in his home; the greatly increased enjoyment in living in such surroundings; and the added value and sale-ability of a property improved in this manner.

The farm home is not limited to a few square feet as is the city home. The farm home can be surrounded by beautiful trees and shrubbery that the average city home is denied.

It is readily understood that the amount of time that can be spared on a farm to attend to the home surroundings is strictly limited, but the style of planning would not imitate that of a home built on a few square feet, and when one considers the very material increase in value, to say nothing of the enjoyment and price derived from living in a home surrounded by trees and shrubs, it is a matter that should receive far more earnest attention than has been the case in too many instances today.

Students at the Kemptville Agricultural school are given instruction along lines that will enable them to plan and develop suitable farm home surroundings—surroundings that will entail a minimum of labor and time to keep up, yet will very materially add to the enjoyment of life on the farm, and also to the saleable value of such a place.

Every farm home should possess a garden, from which fresh vegetables can be readily obtained, and there are a few farm homes where a liberal supply of fruit could not be equally as readily grown. In many instances, however, the wrong varieties of fruit have been planted, and through lack of hardiness or other causes, the results have been disappointing. One instance in this connection may be cited, where a bed of strawberries had been planted for home use. The strawberries received the best of care, grew well, and blossomed freely, yet in two years failed to produce more than a few scattered berries. The reason for this failure was due to the fact that an imperfect variety had been planted, a variety incapable of fertilizing and setting its own crop of blossoms.

The students at the Kemptville Agricultural school are given instructions in the culture of fruits and vegetables; the care and planning of a home vegetable garden; and instruction in orchard management, pruning and spraying. Students are also instructed in identifying our more common and serious insect pests, and means for their control. The work undertaken during the course in both Botany and Entomology is of as practical a nature as possible.

In conclusion, it might be said that the time spent by every student during the course in horticultural subjects, enables him to realize more fully the advantages of his agricultural calling, the possibilities of a life second to none, (busy yet full of enjoyment and interest), and to the boy with a desire to strike out along lines other than stock or grain farming. Horticulture offers alluring possibilities in a life where industry and care are suitably rewarded.

ULTIMATUM WILL NOT COME TODAY

Chancellor Stresemann Wishes to Discuss The Question With His Cabinet.

BERLIN, Nov. 2. — Definite announcement was made last yesterday afternoon that Chancellor Stresemann's reply to the Socialist Party's ultimatum would not be given today, as he desires to discuss the question further with his cabinet.

While the Socialists had timed their ultimatum to expire at one o'clock yesterday afternoon, the Chancellor, owing to indisposition remained in his apartments until last evening when he presided over a Cabinet session to discuss the out come of the negotiations between the Franco-Belgian authorities and the German industrialists of the Ruhr and Rhineland.

FIRE DESTROYED HOUSE AND BARN

Allan Fee of Emily Township Suffers Heavy Loss

EAST EMILY, November 2. — Last evening fire destroyed the house and barns on the farm of Mr. Allan Fee.

The barn first caught fire, and the house followed.

Farm stock and implements, also furniture in the house, with the exception of a piano and one or two other articles, were destroyed.

The house was of brick construction. The cause of the fire is unknown.

WASHINGTON TO

Whether the British Government's refusal to recognize a Rhineland republic had anything to do with what is considered the extremely irreconcilable tone M. Poincare adopted in his speech to-day, is only a matter of speculation, but Anglo- French relations are likely to be embittered by that refusal.

POINCARE'S SPEECH WAS FOR HOME CONSUMPTION

PARIS, Nov. 2.—Premier Poincare's Nevers speech is regarded in political circles here as more for home consumption than as a reply to the Washington and London suggestions regarding a conference of experts to consider Germany's capacity for the payment of reparations. The Premiers speech is considered to be the first gun in the electoral campaign of 1924. It is pointed out that for the first time in a long series of speech-making, inaugurated early in the Summer, the Premier spoke in a Radical-Socialist Department, before an assembly presided over by a Deputy from the Left groups, he having heretofore restricted has activities to solid Nationalist centres in the Marne and the Meuse and other war-torn departments.

The Radicals are jubilant over the tone and spirit of the Premier's address, especially his closing words,—"We covet no territory; we respect the liberty of peoples; we desire to retain with our allies, the most amicable relations we ask for nothing better than to resume with Germany the intercourse of good neighburs."

This is the whole programme of the Left groups the Radicals point out, and they express the hope that the premier will persevere in his good desirs.

Mothers know a dose of DR. CALDWELL'S LAXATIVE SYRUP PEPSIN Will keep them fit

'First Aid' For Sick Children

THE experienced mother is not alarmed when a child becomes sick. She knows that most of the ailments of childhood are trifling. If it seems serious she calls a doctor, but whether or not she calls him, she gives, first of all, a good laxative medicine. The doctor would advise that anyway. It is his "first aid." Such experienced mothers as Mrs. G. R. Paquette, Pierreville, Que., and Mrs. J. F. Beale, 325 Johnson Av., Winnipeg, always give Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin at the first indication of sickness. Such timely doses have saved them much worry.

The Meaning of "Good"

All doctors agree that a thorough cleaning out of the bowels is of first importance for it removes dangerous intestinal poisons. They will also advise a "good laxative,' and by "good" they mean one that is effective and yet harmless. They know that there are physics that never should be given to children — calomel, which is mercury and loosens the teeth; phenolphthalein, a coal-tar drug that causes skin trouble; salts, which concentrate the blood and dry up the saliva. They consider Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin safe for all ages as they know it is a simple vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and agreeable aromatics. The formula is on the package.

Give Laxative for Colds

Adults should have at least one movement of the bowels every 24 hours, and children two or three. Failure to have it means constipation, then headache, biliousness, drowsiness, lack of appetite. Give a dose of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin at bedtime, and there will be health and good feeling by morning. A dose costs less than a cent, and a bottle can be had at any drug store. Colds and constipation come together, so if you notice coughing or sneezing stop it at once with Laxative Syrup Pepsin.

PLOWING MATCH IN 1849

COBOURG, Nov. 2.—Interest in several townships in Central Ontario has centred during the last fortnight or so around the ploughing matches, and in this connection it is gratifying to note that these events were among the first evidences of progress along agricultural lines in Ontario. Three-quarters of a century ago the ploughing match was one of the big annual event in community life in almost every section of Ontario.

Township Inter-Matches

In the year 1849 the township of Whitby gave a challenge to plow with any township in Upper Canada for a purse of one hundred pounds. Each party was required to raise a moety of that amount to be kept as a reserv fund, and the winner was to be open for twelve months to accept a challenge from any other township.

Challenge Accepted

The township of Scarborough promptly accepted the challenge, and on Friday, the 11th of May, this celebrated trial of skill took place on the farm of Mr. Asa Port in the township of Pickering. The Canadian Agriculturist, a farm journal, published in Toronto, in its issue for May of that year gives an interesting account of the proceedings. The attendance was equal to that of some of the "Big League" ball games of the present day, for it is estimated that no less than four thousand people were present.

Bands Played—Teams Decorated

The Agriculturist says: "The interest manifested in the proceedings of the day was very great. Early in the morning in all the neighboring villages everything denoted that a great holiday had commenced, bands of music were playing, teams were decorated for the occasion and the leading roads were lined with expectant spectators, wending their way towards the scene of operations."

Field Free of Stumps

"The site was judiciously chosen; a large field of strong sod, having a soil of heavy loam and free from stumps and stones," the Agriculturist says, which leads to the inference that not many fields were thus free from stumps.

Twenty Ploughs to a Township

The requisite number of spaces having been previously measured and staked off each space consisting of about half an acre, the competition started at ten o'clock. Each township had twenty ploughs, and it was soon evident , it is further recorded, "that the competition would be a keen one, and the work highly creditable as a whole, to those engaged in it."

It would be interesting, if it were possible, to know how the ploughmen of seventy-five years ago, before power-driven machinery was ever thought of, would compete with the proficient farmer of the present day with a keen eye for a straight furrow.

Practiced On Uniform Style

The Agriculturist says: "As the work proceeded, an impression seemed to gain ground among practical me that Scarborough township would win. This feeling arose, no doubt, from the uniformly excellent work which the ploughmen of that township were making, although not a single instance occurred of what might be called inferior ploughing on the part of Whitby. In fact, the Scarborough teams were superior, the ploughs better, the men had evidently practiced more on a uniform system or style of ploughing, laying up the furrows precisely at the angle which makes the work more captivating to the eye, and in short, complying with more of those conditions than did their competitors, which modern authorities have pronounced the correct principles of ploughing. In saying this, we would by no means be understood as implying anything serious to the disadvantage of Whitby, whose work upon the whole was highly creditable. The reader will have anticipated the result, from the tenor of these observations. The judges, without any reference to the umpires, decided in favor of Scarborough."

Scotch Swing Ploughs Used

Of the forty ploughs used, the Agriculturist further states, "all were made of iron, with only one exception," on the principle of the Scotch Swing plough, known as Gray's celebrated system. Several, we understand, that were used by the Scarborough men were imported. The depth of the ploughing, we understand, was not to fall short of five inches, the average would probably be six."

Importance of Improvement

The value of these ploughing matches to better agriculture was probably more strongly impressed upon the people then than it is today, for the report of this memorable day's proceedings further avers: "We think it of great importance in all endeavors to improve the ploughing of the country, that depth should be specially regarded, since upon many soils, particularly those that have been exhausted by over-cropping and their surface merely scratched over, a deeper amount of active soil is necessary to their restoration and to improved husbandry."

The Dinner That Followed

In the afternoon, we are informed, the ploughmen, judges, contributors to the purse and others comprising some four hundred or five hundred persons, sat down to a dinner in a temporary building, erected by a Mr. Palmer, the occasion E. W. Thompson, Esq., President of the Home District Agricultural Society, presided over this function, and the usual toasts that accompany such occasions called forth useful observations upon the fundamental industry of farming from several speakers.

Peter Perry the Originator

To Mr. Peter Perry of Whitby township is largely given the credit of having originated this great match, and this gentleman, on referring to the fact that Whitby came off second best, said: "Had it not been for the enterprising spirit of the farmers of that township it was more than probable that the country would not have en-

SEARCHING MARSH FOR YOUNG DUCK HUNTER

WINNIPEG, Nov. 2.—Missing in the marsh country north of Portage La Prairie since last Tuesday, Stuart Ferguson, 17 years old, of Winnipeg, is being sought by a provincial police party. The youth left his father's hunting camp in quest of ducks, and was on skates. He carried a shot gun, and it is feared he either fell through the thin ice or was injured in some manner. Friends and residents of the district have been hunting for him during the past two days, but have been unable to find the slightest trace of him.

OTTAWA, Nov. 2 (Canadian Press). —Col. R. J. Birdwhistle, secretary of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association, leaves at the end of the week for a visit to the western provinces in the interests of rifle shooting, it was announced last night.

He will spend next week in Winnipeg where he will confer with the officials of the Manitoba Rifle Association, and the principal officers of the militia units. After that he will visit the military district headquarters in Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

LAKE FREIGHT RATES CUT NEARLY IN HALF

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 2.—Since the Board of Grain Commissioners opened negotiations for the return of Canadian vessels to the Canadian grain-carrying trade on October 20, lake freight rates have been practically cut in half. Rates from Fort William to Buffalo have declined from 6 1-2c to 3 1-2c, the rate quoted yesterday.

Yesterday's rate was a reduction of a half cent from the day before and wipes out the spread between rates on the Fort William-Buffalo route and Duluth-to-Buffalo. At the peak, the rate showed a spread of three cents a bushel, and it is estimated caused a loss of $70,000 a day to Canadian producers.

PROPOSES PROPAGANDA FOR "WHITE" LAUNDRIES

MONTREAL, Nov. 2.—Propaganda rather than legislation will most effectively destroy the advantage possessed by Chinese over white laundries, according to J. J. Sheehy, Toronto, chairman of the special committee which reported at the opening of the Laundry Owners' Convention here yesterday, and was attended by about 150 delegates. The convention will be in session for three days here.

First Community Dance Of the Season—Hallowe'en Social Was Success

MILLBROOK, November 2. — The first community dance of the season, under the auspices of the G.W.V.A. was held in the Armouries on Monday evening, and proved a most enjoyable and successful event. Excellent music was furnished by a four-piece orchestra from Peterborough, the dancers showing their appreciation by repeated demands for encores which were generously responded to. A dainty and satisfying supper was served about midnight, many lingering for an hour or so afterward for further enjoyment of the social occasion.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. H. Moncrief, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Harrington, Mr. and Mrs. Basil Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hall, Peterborough, Mr, O. Gamsby, Orono, Mr. W. Hallowe'en Social.

The Hallowe'en social held in the I.O.O.F. Hall on Wednesday evening, under the auspices of Millbrook Lodge, No. 308, provided one of the most enjoyable events in the social life of the community which has taken place for some time. The fun and frolic always associated with the one night in the year around which so much of superstitution and magic charms are woven, were heartily entered into as the guests arrived at the hall, the request to come in costume having been gladly acceded to. The word "Hallowe'en" is a corruption of "All Hallow's Eve," though the manner in which it is usually celebrated seems to have little connection with All Saints' Day, an important occasion in the church calendar, which immediately follows. Witches, however, claim it as peculiarly their night, and no Hallowe'en gathering would be complete without a number of these mysterious creatures being in evidence.

The Lodge rooms were appropriately decorated with cut-outs of black cats, Jack-o'-Lanterns, owls, enormous black bats, etc., the shades which gave the lights the proper degree of dimness having these designs, in stencil or cutout, also.

Besides the tall hats of witches mingling with the guests, one noticed courtly gentlemen and old-fashioned ladies, gipsies, an Indian Chief, a lone representative of the Ku Klux Klan ,ghosts, coons, clowns harlequins, nurses, black mammies from "'way down South," and many striking and attractive costumes in the traditional orange and black, which apparently represented no character in particular, but were most fitting for a Hallowe'en occasion. Cards and dancing were indulged in throughout the evening, and a brief programme of vocal and instrumental music, in which Misses H. Barnard, M. Byam, C. Barnard, Mrs. G. S. Gervan. Rev. G. S .Gervan, Mr. V. R. Hunter, and others took part, was much enjoyed, especially as the masks worn by some of the performers, as well as by most of the guests, created a great deal of amusement trying to guess the identity of the wearer in spite o fthe effectual disguise. The two policemen, who were most diligent in the discharge of their self-imposed duties, added materially to the fun during the entire evening.

Same scheme of decorations was carried out in the dining hall where the one hundred or more guests sat down to supper about 11:30 p.m., the special social intercourse which had begun in the assembly room upstairs being continued around the supper tables, the committee appointed for the purpose proving attentive and capable waiters. Among those present were:

Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. A. Jones and Mr. Stroates of Peterboro; Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. P. I. Bentley, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ball, Mr. and Mrs. H. Ball, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Fallis, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Fallis, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fallis, Mr. and Mrs. E Armstrong, Miss Ethel McKnight, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Armstrong, Mr. Leonard and Miss Bertha McNeil, Rev. G. BILL LOVETT, A TWO-GUN MAN IS FOUND DEAD

Notorious Leader Gangsters Was Done to Death While Sleeping Off a Drunk.

SHOT AND BATTERED

NEW YORK, Nov .2.—(Canadian Press).—"Wild Bill' Lovett, one of New York's most feared two-gun gangsters who, athough under arrest a score of times, always escaped conviction, died yesterday with a bullet through his neck and his head beaten to a pulp.

Policeman prowling around a squalid, weather-beaten tenement in the factory region under the shadow of Brooklyn Bridge, found the gangster in a rear room, where he had camped for the night to sleep off a drunk.

Apparently the leader of the "White Hand gang" that for years had worked in the "Red Hook" district of Brooklyn was done to death in his slumber.

The police made no secret of the measure of relief to them by the passing of the notorious gangster. Joseph Flynn, who admitted being in Lovett's company before his death, is under arrest.

OMEMEE MERCHANT INJURED BY FALL

Leg Broken Below the Knee—Will Be Laid Up Eight Weeks.

OMEMEE, Nov. 2.—Mr. Melville Earle, general merchant in Omemee, had the misfortune to fall in his store on Wednesday morning and break his leg below the knee. It was at first thought that he was suffering from a bad sprain, but the pain became so severe that he was taken to Lindsay on Thursday morning where an X-Ray showed a fracture which will necessitate his remaining in bed for about eight weeks. His many friends in Omemee and vicinity will regret his misfortune and hope for a speedy recovery when he will be able to attend to business as usual.

ALBERTA HAS THE BIGGEST OIL FIELD

Is Located in What is Known as the Sweet Grass Areas.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press.)— Chester Thompson, noted geologist and president of the Royal Canadian Syndicate, declared yesterday he had found "the greatest oil field in the world without exception ,which is now in process of development in Southern Alberta, Canada.

This new field is located on what is known as sweet grass areas, which extends from Northern Montana into Central Alberta .The Kevins-Sunburst field in Montana, where about 100 new wells have been brought in so far this year, is located at the extreme southern end of the structure.

The greatest production of oil is expected in the Lake Pakowki district, where the "top" of the arch is located.

RAILWAY OFFICIALS GUESTS OF C.S.L.

(1) Group of the Passenger Traffic Officers sight-seeing on the S.S. Richelieu. (2) Mr. J. F. Pierce, Pass. Traffic Mgr., C.S.L., who acted as host. (3) Left to right, G. T. Bell, Chief Executive, C.N.R.; I. C. Rose, Pass. Traffic Mgr., Nickel Plate R.R. (4) Ex-President W. H. Taft greets his brother citizens at Murray Bay.

THE members of the American Passenger Traffic Officers Association, which includes both American and Canadian Railway and Steamship Companies annually hold a convention in some part of Canada or the United States. This year through the generosity of the Canada Steamship Lines for the first time the convention was held aboard ship.

In consequence of an invitation sent out delegates from almost every part of the United States and Canada, numbering over four hundred became the guests of the C.S.L., and being favored with exceptional weather conditions had one of the most enjoyable trips down the lower St. Lawrence and the Saguenay River on board the S.S. "Richelieu." Stops were made at Murray Bay where the party were received by Ex-President Taft at his summer home. At Tadousac the salmon pool was inspected and the quaint church which has the distinction of being the first edifice erected in America.

The delegates sat in session during the voyage and discussed the most important of subjects that the Association has had to deal with in many years. It was admitted that the growing increase in the autobus service and the increase in the use of motor cars is becoming a real menace to the railroads throughout the whole of North America, more particularly so in the United States than in Canada. It was decided to secure all information on the subject that was possible so that some steps might be suggested to offset the growing menace. The duties of host in the name of the Steamship Company were performed by Mr. J. F. Pierce, the genial Passenger Traffic Manager, and on the return from Quebec to Montreal the guests made several presentations to ship's officials which were gratefully acknowledged.

TREMORS RECORDED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2. — (Canadian Press).—Earth shocks beginning at 3:15 p.m. yesterday and continuing until 3:22, were recorded on the Georgetown University seismograph. Father Tondorf, Director of the Observatory, said he was unable to estimate the probable distance or direction of the disturbance from Washington, but he thought it might have been centred at a point relatively near.

THE IRISH FREE STATE SAYS, REPORT NOT TRUE

DUBLIN, Nov. 2. — (Canadian Press.)—The Irish Free State government announces that the report that it has accepted an invitation to a conference in London, based on an agreement, between Sir James Craig, Ulster Premier, and the late Michael Collins in 1920, is not true and that it does not intend to accept that invitation.

Hallowe'en Party a Jolly Function — Wedding at St. Andrew's — Royal Templars' Rally — Personals.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 2.—Mr. and Mrs. E. Abernethy were host and hostess at an "Old Tyme Masquerade" party in their home on Sebastopol Street on Hallowe'en night. The guests, about 40 in number, came in all sorts of costumes, some very stately and some very grotesque. There were negroes, clowns, Miss Canada, Chinamen, gypsies, all kinds of spooks, and last, but not least, the worthy doctor and his wife in the persons of Mr and Mrs. C. H. Davidson. The house was dimly lighted with pumpkin lanterns. The evening was spent in games and dancing, after which lunch was served, and the guests tripped the light fantastic till the wee sma' hours.

Wedding.

A very pretty wedding took place at St. Andrew's Manse on Thursday, November 1, at 11 o'clock, when Miss Geraldine Hankinson, of town, became the bride of Mr. Horton, of Rochester. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. McIntosh. The bride wore a brown broadcloth suit with hat to match, and was attended by Miss Lyle Ballantyne. The groom was assisted by Mr. George Hankinson, brother of the bride. After the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was given by the parents of the bride, Mr and Mrs. Chas. Hankinson, Grand Road. The happy couple left on the 1.35 train for Toronto. They will reside in Rochester.

Personal Mention.

Mr. A. P. Merrill is the guest of his mother, Mrs. W. H. Hart.

Mr. P. C. Denyes, for many years an employee of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission here, has severed his connection with the Commission and will open up a hardware store on Front Street. Prior to his leaving the employ of the H.E.P.C. his fellow-workers presented him with a handsome Masonic ring.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Kemp, Frankford, were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Green.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hennesey, of Codrington, have sold their farm stock and implements and are moving to Whitby, where Mr. Hennesey has secured the position of manager of the Asylum stables.

Mrs. Walter Bateson has removed her household effects to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Findlay at Wicklow.

Royal Templars' Rally.

The Royal Templars will hold their annual rally in the Sunday School-room of the Methodist Church on the evening of Tuesday, November 6. A choice musical programme is being arranged in which Miss Hoover, Mesdames Turner, Bates and Weston and other local talent will take part. Mrs. A. E. Wragg has kindly promised a reading. Addresses will be given by the local clergy. Chair taken at 8 p.m.

The Million Dollar Doll

By C. N. and A. M. Williamson

Authors of "The Lightning Conductor"

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

Miles Sheridan has just learned that the girl with whom he has been taking a yacht trip, under the impression that she was

Juliet Divine, the Million Dollar Doll, a beautiful show-girl, is, in reality Teresa Desmond (Terry), Juliet's innocent half-sister, whom the Doll sent to masquerade as herself. Miles madly in love with Terry and is going to divorce his wife.

Betty Sheridan, who is infatuated

Paul di Salvano, a handsome Italian, Salvano has now deserted Betty for

Rose Callahan, a somewhat ordinary young heiress, travelling in Europe with her father. Betty, learning of Paul's desertion is not anxious to lose her husband also, and goes to Algiers where Miles' yacht is lying.

Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy Greek, is in love with Terry, has almost succeeded in persuading the girl that her only course is to marry him.

Miles and Terry are enjoying a brief sojourn at Bousaada with Miles' servant Mrs. Harkness as chaperone. Miles is preparing to rejoin his wife at Algiers.

Terry prepares to give up Miles for his own sake.

Mrs. Harkness, now aware of Terry's real identity is amazed to learn that Juliet Divine is her half-sister.

CHAPTER LXXXI.

A Big "If"

'Yes. My half-sister. I look like her, they say,' continued Terry.

'Then she can't be as black as she's painted. No one that's like you, my dear, or belongin' to ye, can be all bad. I used to lie awake nights in me cabin, puzzlin' me brains how such a little angel could—but there. My instinct about ye was right, all through.

'Ye are a little angel, and I take back every word I spoke about its bein' the best thing for you and for Mr. Miles if you should go out of his life and marry another man, to build up a barrier between the two of ye.

'You'd be the makin' of him, me child. You'd show him that all beautiful young women ain't like his wife, who never loved him, or thought of anybody except herself. You'd give back his faith. You'd— —"

'But I thought you said women were bad—specially bad—who would live with men they loved, and not be married. I offered, and he wouldn't—"

'I didn't say men they loved. And offering's not doing. Ye're not that kind, me dear. You offered—I know—because ye're not selfish, never a bit because you are. There's all the difference betwixt good and bad in that.

'Mr. Miles would be a wicked man to take ye at your word, you bein' what ye are. That would be a sin deed. But now I know that yer heart doesn't give the lie to yer face, and that other way round, I pray to God that Mrs. Sheridan lets him go free. She'll do it only if she wants to be free herself, the way it was planned; still, it may be the gentleman—Mr. Nazlo—has got things a bit wrong."

Terry was pale, but as she listened to the old woman her eyes were wide open and radiant. She looked transfigured.

'Oh, you make me so happy," she said. 'I trust you, Mrs. Harkness, because I think you love—him—better than anyone else in the world does or could, except me. One of the things that most made me feel I should do him harm by letting him love me (except in that hidden way) was your disapproving of me from the first.

'You're so good, so faithful. And even though you'd learned to like me a little—for myself—you couldn't like me for him. Are you telling me—honour bright—that I'd do Miles good, not harm, if—if we should ever be married?"

'I do, on me soul—and on Mr. Miles' soul, too."

'Even though—Juliet Divine is my sister, and I love her, no matter what she's like or what she has done?"

'Yes," insisted Harky. 'What real difference would her bein' your sister make, so long as—as ye weren't that kind yerself?"

'Oh, dear Mrs. Harkness, I'm so glad. Even though men like Mr. Nazlo and—one of the French officers here—say things that make me feel—as if they'd thrown mud at my face?"

'Me poor baby' crooned the old woman. 'The more beasts they. They didn't understand ye. But Mr. Nazlo does now. He's asked ye to marry him. He couldn't do more. And when—if—ye're Mrs. Miles Sheridan there'll never be any mud throwin', I can promise ye that.'

'And people wouldn' say Miles had ruined himself, truly they wouldn't?'

'They would not, indade. You bein' what you are, there'd be no reason, anyhow, why they should.

'You're sure?'

'I'm sure. And though I'm only an old servant-woman, I've kept me eyes and ears open these many years. I know the world as well as if I'd been born a fine dame.

'My dear, don't you fret. I eat all my words about marriage with that Nazlo, every one of 'em. I see happiness ahead of Mr. Miles and you in the future, as I never thought to see it even before the news came today, and while the road looked fairly straight ahead. If Mrs. Sheridan— —'

Terry held out the cut piece of paper which Nazlo had enclosed. 'It's a dreadfully big 'if,' she said. 'As big as the world. Look, I meant to show you this. But I wanted to hear what you thought—about me—first. You've made me feel as if all the mud had been washed off. Even if I can't be happy, I feel clean.'

MEXICANS WANT CARLOS ZETINA FOR PRESIDENT

There is a Movement in Mexico For Carlos B. Zetina for President.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 2.—There's a movement in Mexico for Carlos B. Zetina as president. It started just as the Ford boom materialized in the United States—out of nothing, overnight.

It doesn't seem to interest Zetina any more than the Ford boom seemed to interest Henry Ford. Like Ford, Zetina's an industrial genius, not a politician. He's suited with his present job.

Like Ford, Zetina started with nothing. Like Ford, Zetina became a multi-millionaire in comparatively a few years. Like Ford, Zetina's fortune is regarded by everybody as an honest one. No charge of unfairness ever was made in connection with the methods by which it was piled up.

Like Ford, Zetina got the right hunch at the psychological moment and played it for all it was worth. Like Ford, Zetina's an apostle of standardization. Ford makes autos. Zetina makes shoes.

Self-Made Man

Like Ford, Zetina, intensely practical, is intensely idealistic, too.

Zetina was born at San Andres Chalchicomula, state of Puebla. He was 10 when his father died. As a grocer's errand boy, he supported his mother on $3 a month. Then he worked for a soap maker at 37 cents a day. At 14 he made a man's wages in a tannery. Toiling 16 hours daily, he found time to educate himself.

Aged 24, he had $2,935. He's exact about this sum. With it he began making shoes. Today his plant is the famous Fabrica de Calzado Excelsior, or Factory of the Excelsior Shoe.

Zetina sees every detail of manufacture and distribution clear through, from the preparation of hides to the sale of finished shoes, through 35 agencies and retail stores throughout Mexico.

The Excelsior factory employs about 1000 hands. Daily it turns out from 2000 to 3000 pairs of footwear.

Model Factory

Excelsior pays higher wages than any factory in the country.

American manufacturers who have visited it pronounce it a model. Hygienically, Zetina aims at perfection. He seeks beauty of surroundings for his workers, too. It adds to their efficiency, he says.

Connected with the plant are a school, a library, a hospital and a co-operative general store. Medical attendance is provided. Employes' insurance and pensions are features of the system.

Adjoining the factory, Zetina has bought a large tract on which he is building model houses the workers may buy, making payment in a series of instalments covering 10 years.

Zetina differs from Ford in that he has had some experience in public life. He doesn't seek office but he accepts it when it comes his way. He has been mayor of Mexico City and a member of both houses of Congress. But he has never been classified as a party man.

Schell in Bed at Home Told MacNeal's Son His Father Was Dead in Hunting Shack

(By a Staff Reporter.)

BOBCAYGEON, November 2. — The mystery surrounding the death of George W. MacNeal, who had been residing with his son north of here, has not been cleared up by the arrest of John Schell, of the same locality, on a charge of murder. The dead man and his companion at the hut on the night of the tragedy were considered good friends and neighborly toward each other. Those who live on farms near them do not remember any evidences of ill-feeling between them, but under the circumstances it is admitted that the arrest of Schell is not surprising.

Roy MacNeal, son of the deceased, told the story of the tragedy as he knew it yesterday. His father, Geo. Washington MacNeal, he said, was born on March 17, 1875, and was recently employed as a painter at Uphill. He was on a visit to his son, and had decided to stay with him for the winter. Other sons of the deceased are Lyal, Gordon, Gerald, Harry and Goldie.

John Schell, the accused man, lived a mile from MacNeal's ranch. The two men met about two weeks ago, Roy MacNeal said, and they appeared to be good friends. Roy, Lyal and their father were overseas, the last named enlisting with the 109th Battalion, and serving in a Construction Battalion.

Roy, who cuts wood in the north country, went with his father to the hunting shack in that district Saturday morning at 7 o'clock. They arrived there at 9:15, and the young man with George Schell, son of the accused, went to the mountains, leaving John Schell and George MacNeal together at the shack. His father's intention, Roy said, was to return from the camp that night, since the visit was only one of inspection in anticipation of the hunting season. Schell, however, persuaded him to stay until the next morning.

The Son's Story.

"Father asked me to come as far as Nogie's Creek bridge to meet him on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock," young MacNeal said. "He came to the door of the shanty and shook hands with me, and said 'Roy, don't disappoint me.' I said, 'No, father, I'll be there at 4 o'clock.' That was the last I saw my father alive."

On Sunday, George Schell and I went to Nogie's Creek, leaving home about 3 o'clock. We reached the bridge at 4 o'clock, but there was no one there. I said to George 'Maybe we had better go and meet him on the way out.' We followed the trail into the camp, about 4½ miles, where we couldn't take the car, and on the way near the Bass Lake turn we noticed the tracks of a man and a dog. I can read tracks pretty well, and we thought this was strange, knowing the tracks to be those of Schell's dog. We didn't know why he should be going out, when we had not seen my father.

"When we reached the camp we found that the door was locked and no one was in sight. We yelled and whistled, thinking someone might be in the bush, but got no answer. We looked through the window of the cabin, but it was so small that the inside was not lighted up and we could not see anything. We whistled again, thinking my father might be in the beaver meadow.

Suggested Breaking Door.

"I said to George, 'If you are hungry we can easily take a staple out of the door, and get something to eat in the shanty.' He said that he did not feel hungry, so we did not go in.

"We came home by Bass Creek turn and at Nogie's Creek we ran out of gasoline. We walked to Schell's place, which was the nearest, and Mrs. Harry Hopkins met us at the door and told us father was dead in the camp. George Schell and I went up to John Schell, who was in bed, and he told me my father took cramps last night, and died this morning. I went to the coroner."

Many stories are in circulation in the district north of here, one of which admits the possibility of a third person, yet unknown, having entered the camp during the absence of Schell at the creek for water.

SNOW NINE INCHES AT PARRY SOUND

Uncomfortable For Flock of Hunters in the Woods.

PARRY SOUND, Nov. 2.—Nine inches of snow, temperature below freezing, snow plows, sleighs and cutters, were the experience of this section following two days of real winter with almost constant snow and a gale of wind. Deer hunters, who had just moved into camp or were on the way, had a most uncomfortable experience and the woods are full of them. It is not expected as many deer will be taken this fall as last, as many were starved to death last winter by the deep snows. In one place in Wilson Township eleven bodies of deer were found in a space not more than sixty years square.

The salmon trout spawning this year which closes today by the close season has been greater than in many years. The close season designed to protect the fish while spawning is the month of November but in Georgian Bay the Salmon Trout generally begin spawning about October 20th and finish before the close season begins. This year the run was almost like the famous run up the British Columbia Rivers and thousands of fishermen on thousands of shoals had great catches. Representative of the big American Fishing Clubs that have islands here were mingled with Indians, half breeds and cottagers and some catches as large as three hundred pounds in one day by two men were reported. Some amateur fisher men are said to have had a duck as well as a fish by being pulled overboard by a big fish.

There are more newspapers in Cairo, Egypt, than any other city of its size in the world, recent statistics show.

FOUND VICTIMS OF THE DEARBORN MASSACRE

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—(United Press).—Skeletons of two Indians were uncovered here by workmen digging on the spot of the historic Fort Dearborn massacre.

When the excavators were about ten feet below the surface a workman's shovel struck one of the skeletons, which was first thought to be bones of some animal.

M. G. Chandler, member of the Chicago Historical Society, was called and asserted the remains were of Indians, because of the prominent bones above the cheeks and eyes, characteristic of the red man.

"The skeletons looked to have been buried for about a century," Chandler said.

That the two Indians were killed during the Fort Dearborn massacre is the opinion of Chandler.

DOCTORS NOTICE LARGE INCREASE IN POOR HEALTH

Increase in Number Men Who Break Down at an Early Age Noted Lately

Doctors notice a steady increase in the number of men who break down between 40 and 50, when they should be in their prime. Breakdown comes three ways—physically, mentally or in the ability to forge ahead and reap the harvest of past effort.

Why do so many men break down prematurely? The answer is partly that civilization is constantly becoming more complex with each year bringing more and more demands on the individual's spare time.

Each year it becomes harder for a man to earn a good living for himself and family. He goes through his work at high nervous tension, speeded up, giving his last ounce of strength. This is particularly true of men who work with their brains.

Father goes home at night, fagged out. What he needs, to keep him fit and help nature recuperate his exhausted cells, is complete relaxation with plenty of fresh air and little noise.

But so-called "social duties" crowd in. Father finds he is expected to dress up and go calling on friends. Or maybe to a movie. Or to lodge. Or to a meeting of some committee on which he is serving as Fifth Assistant Deputy Chestnut Inspector. And so on.

Before he realizes, it's around midnight when he yawns into bed, exhausted, with an hour or two less for sleep than he should have. A man can stand this for a while. But in a matter of years even a strong consitution begins cracking under the strain.

Too many social duties. Too much gadding about. Too little leisure time devoted to relaxation and rest. The candle has been kept burning at both ends. Father weakens, falters, fags out prematurely.

BOYS BEST BY TEST DO WELL IN BUSINESS

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 2 (Associated Press).—Standard intelligence tests given three and one half years ago to 111 boys under 18 years of age, employed by one of the largest American industries, and who were re-examined in another year, evidence the fact that boys making high scores are more likely than others to become permanent employees.

These are the conclusions of Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern University, and Robert C. Clothier, Haverford School for Boys, who conducted the experiment. Each boy was tested and the charts filed away, and no attention was paid to them as each boy went his way, succeeding or failing according to the merit of his work. Then the new scores made possible a comparison of the progress made by the boys during the intervening time.

The average score of all the tests was 38.7; the average score of the 63 boys then remaining in the company's service was 41.6, and the average score of the 48 boys who had left the company's service was 35.1, the report showed.

"We have evidence that the boys making higher scores are more likely remain with the company, and this point becomes more impressive when we recognize that the boys who left the employ of the company did so for one of three definite reasons: some to obtain better positions; others to return to school, while still others were discharged. The average score by the mental alertness tests of those who since obtained better positions was 44.7, while the average mental alertness test score of the boys who were discharged was 28.1."

MRS. J. A. NEWBURY IN HER 101 YEAR

Mrs. Janet Ann, 101 Years Of Age is Still Living Active Life.

ST. HELENS, Eng., Nov. 2.—Mrs. Janet Ann Newbury, 101 years young, is living proof that the ruling passion in women is personal vanity.

Why?

Because she fussed like a flapper when the photographer came to take her picture without giving her a chance to primp.

"The picture won't be a success," she grumbled. "Give me time to use my lipstick and my powderpuff. A shiny nose isn't any more becoming at 100 than at 20."

Mrs. Newbury lives at the Prescott Infirmary, near London, but she's not grieving about it. She's comfortable, warm and well and says if people will let her alone she will equal the record of a grandparent who lived to be 108.

She is said to be the oldest living nurse.

In Crimean War

"I nursed in the Crimean war of 1854," she said. "My husband was a sergeant major in the British army. In those days wives were allowed to follow their soldier husbands.

"I turned in and made myself useful by looking after injured British soldiers long before the famous Florence Nightingale came out there."

She was silent a moment, then looked up brightly and smiled:

"Some day, when I am a little more mature," she began, "I think I will turn autobiographical and write the story of my life. I've been everywhere. Went with my first husband to the West Indies. I left my babies in Finland and went along when he went with his regiment.

Settled Down

"All my life has been mixed up with the British army and navy and that gets you around a bit. But now I've settled down, and I have time to turn philosophic and retrospective and devote my life to literature if I want to.

"Marry again? No, I've settled down now, and I think with men so scarce I ought to retire for the younger generations."

But she hurried away when she heard the bell announcing afternoon tea and cakes.

"I don't worry about my figure any more, and I can eat all the pastry I want," she said at parting.

THE COURT'S DIGNITY

DALLAS, Texas (United Press). Someone has to suffer when there's too much laughter in Federal Judge Atwell's court here.

"Every time I hear the law coming, I run," said Eddie Conaster, during his trial on charges of violating the prohibition law.

A chorus of laughs from the spectators greeted Eddie's remark.

"Everyone who laughed, get up and leave this court room," ordered Judge Atwell.

No one stirred.

The judge repeated his command. Still no one made a move to leave.

Douglas Campbell, Deputy United States marshall, glanced around. Singling out a spectator, Campbell ordered the man to leave.

"What's all the row," asked the surprised man. "I was sound asleep."

But he left.

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

WHY WORRY ?

No one trouble does more to undermine bodily health and strength than mental overwork mixed with worry. Worry, carried to the limit, will often cause more severe exhaustion and loss than any other body process.

The brain can perform a great amount of work. With proper training, favorable environment and the right kind of food to provide a normal blood supply, there is hardly any limit to its energy. But sometimes, with a strong emotional incubus attached to a brain, which is under stress of circumstance forced to work in a groove or single track, it soon comes to the end of its usefulness.

When you consider also that the brain is always busy and never ceases its activity, not even during your rest or sleep, you can imagine its tension and strain if cluttered up with worry.

The periods of activity and rest must be regulated with great care. You should not draw too heavily on the bank of your bodily health by overdrafts on the brain. Those who try to conserve their health well know that strong or sustained brain work brings about cerebral hyperemia (a marked increase in the flow of blood to the brain).

This increased flow should not interfere with other body processes. Do not attempt heavy brain work soon after eating. These two great processes should not be called into full action at the same time.

Ofttimes nervous and mental worry are caused by physical overwork. In a sense they are one. Motor activity is the result of nervous energy. Of course muscles tire and undergo changes from their exertion, but the nervous strain is the greater.

Don't worry. Try to relax completely from your work hobby at frequent intervals or as often as you can with the work situation at its maximum and your worry at minimum.

It is a good plan to avoid worry by trying something else. If you are a banker or speculator, try writing or some mental gymnastics as a relaxing agent. If you are a muscle worker, the nervous worry will not bother you to any extent.

KAISER LIVES SIMPLY DOES NOT TALK POLITICS

VIENNA, Nov. 2 (United Press).—Captain Von Houten, chief of the military police in Doorn—the one man in all the world who is supposed to know what is going on inside Castle Doorn—says that the household of the ex-Kaiser is no different from other ordinary households throughout Holland and the rest of the world.

Von Houten, speaking at the recent international police chiefs conference here, declared:

"Almost daily I come into direct contact with the ex-Kaiser and his household and I can assure you that stories regarding differences in the house of Wilhelm II. are a myth.

"The Kaiser lives with his wife and other members of his family on the best of terms. The conduct of their household is very simple and the Kaiser and his companions bother themselves very little with political matters.

"The relations between the Kaiser and the crown prince are no better and no worse than in every family. Every family has its frictions."

The task of guarding Doorn against the escape of the Kaiser resolves itself rather into the task of guarding the Kaiser, as far as the Doorn police are concerned.

At the gateway of the castle stands a guardhouse, where military forces are stationed. They merely salute when the former Emperor leaves the gardens, but permit nobody to enter without proper credentials.

JAPAN BUYING FOREIGN NEWS PRINT PAPER

Publishers of Japanese newspapers are endeavoring to arrange for supplies of news print paper from foreign countries. Up to the present Japanese publishers have always purchased their supplies of news print from local mills, but exorbitant prices are forcing them to look for supplies outside Japan.

The Japanese mills have threatened to refuse supplies in future to any newspaper which buys from a foreign country, but in spite of this a large newspaper is purchasing newsprint from the United States and Sweden. There appears to be an excellent opening in Japan for foreign newsprint, providing that the consumers could be assured of permanent supplies.

Gratifying Sale of Work and Entertainment — Temperance Sunday Observed—News and Personal Paragraphs.

WARSAW, Nov 1. — The sale of work and entertainment given by the Ladies' Guild of the Anglican church, was exceptionally gratifying although the inclement weather affected the attendance. The hall was very prettily decorated in Hallowe'en colors, witches, black cats, etc. The articles for sale were useful and attractive. Pumpkins were at a premium.

At the close of the concert refreshments were served. The young people who assisted wore witches' caps.

The concert programme follows: Selections by the Warsaw orchestra; song, Mrs. Lewis, "Mother McCree," encore "At Dawn," song, by Mrs. Foster; recitation, by Miss Cressa Crowe, "The Mustard Plaster," selection, by the Warsaw orchestra; song, by Mr. Coleman, "I'm the Man they Left Behind," encore, "The Sleepy Man," folk dance, Miss Eileen Hamblin, song by Mr. Lewis, "The Old-Fashioned House," encore "Sometime;" piano solo, by Mr. Devey; recitation by Mr. Foster; orchestra selection; recitation by Evelyn Hawthorn; duet by Jean Munro and Eileen Mills, "Always in the Way." recitation by Dorcas Lloyd, "The Raggedy Man," song by Mr. Coleman, "Hold your Hand out," encore "The Gee?Gee Ride."

Orangemen's Dance

The recent dance given by Orangemen in the town hall on Friday evening was largely attended. Warsaw orchestra supplied the music for about one hundred lovers of the light fantastic. Members of the lodge supplied refreshments.

News Paragraphs.

The rains of last week were doubly welcome; they helped a little where wells were low and softened the land for plowing.

Farmers are rushing the harvesting of their root crops.

The Presbyterian ladies are organizing a missionary society.

Next Sunday Warsaw Methodist church plans to hold their anniversary services, morning and evening. Rev. Manning will conduct the services. Communion will be observed the following Sunday evening. Bethel with hold its anniversary on November 18.

Temperance Sunday.

Temperance Sunday was observed in the Methodist church last Sunday morning. The speaker for the day whose subject was "Temperance in the Army." said that while intoxication was to be despised, the drunkard was to be pitied and kindy assisted as excessive drinking is a disease and weakness. He approved of legislation to enforce temperance, but urged that more energy and money should be spent on educating the rising generation to realize the great evils of intemperance He gave several illustrations to emphasize the danger of intemperance in the army and in other circumstances where the safety of others was at stake.

Personal Mention.

Mr and Mrs. Mark Thurston arrived in the village Friday evening.

Mr. McFarlane, County Road Inspector, was in the village Friday.

Mr Stewart Armstrong spent Sunday with his cousins, Wm. and Miss Margaret Miller.

Mr and Mrs. Joe Dunford, Otonabee, spent Sunday with friends near Warsaw.

Miss Menzies spent a few days with Mr. A. F. Choate.

Miss Edith Tucker, graduate nurse of Nicholls Hospital is home.

Mrs. Atkinson left last Wednesday to spend a few weeks with her daughters in Toronto.

Rev F. G. Weir are absent from the village this week.

Messrs. James Hawthorne and Gordon Payne canvassed for the Warsaw Methodist church last week.

Several parties are making preparations for the hunting season.

AUSTRIA IS NOW A SPENDTHRIFT NATION

WICHITA, FALLS, Texas, Nov. 2. (United Press).—Austria is a nation of spendthrifts and the one characteristic for which Austrians were noted—frugality—has almost entirely disappeared since the war, according to Professor Ernest Katz, who has just returned to this city from a three months' visit overseas.

Most everyone has a job, Katz explained, but instead of saving a part of their earnings, the Austrians are busily engaged in spending it as rapidly as they make it. The chief occupation is eating and drinking, according to Professor Katz, who said that cafes and drinking places are crowded constantly with persons whose sole aim, apparently, is to spend their entire salary for food or liquor.

As for living conditions and prices, a five-room apartment house rents on an average for 140,000 crowns, but is very cheap, Professor Katz pointed out, since a glass of beer costs 2,700 crowns.

Industries in Austria are in a very run-down condition, due to a lack of a domestic market and the high duty on exported finished products.

One of the interesting sights about Vienna, Professor Katz said, is the large number of bootblacks on the streets, nearly all of them crippled war veterans to whom the Government has granted a small space on the street with permission to conduct a shoe-shining business.

Vienna, he said, is rapidly taking on its old life.

REDDY RAZOR BACK'S TROUBLES

"Hello!" he grunted. "When did you come to Dixie Land?"

"Barber, barber, shave a pig.
How many hairs to make a wig?
Four and twenty, that's enough!
Give the barber a pinch of snuff."

Nancy and Nick looked to see who was singing, and you may imagine their surprise when a thin little red pig turned the corner.

"Hello!" he grunted when he saw them. "When did you come to Dixie Land?"

"Yesterday," answered Nick. "When did you come?"

"About six months ago," said the little pig. "I was born here."

"My goodness!" exclaimed Nancy. "You aren't very big. You look thin! Have you been sick?"

"No, sir, I haven't," declared the little red pig indignantly. "Never felt better in my life! It's my nature to be thin. I'm called Reddy Razor Back. Because my backbone sticks up like a razor, I suppose. Aren't all pigs like me?"

"I should say not!" said Nick. The pigs in Squealy-Moo Land are as fat as butter. They're so fat they look like sausages!"

The little red pig shuddered. "Ugh!" he squealed. "Don't say that word, please. Bacon and wieners and ham and pork are likewise never mentioned in polite pig society in Dixie Land."

"I shouldn't think you would need to worry," spoke up Nancy. "You're too thin to—to—"

"You may as well say it," sighed the little pig. "I know what you mean. I'm too thin for the butcher to bother with, you were going to say. That's just the trouble. I'm not. Down here in Dixie Land they say, 'The nearer the bone the sweeter the meat,' and my meat's all pretty near to my bones. I try as hard as I can to get fat so my meat will be farther away from my bones, and therefore not so sweet, but it does seem that the more I eat the thinner I get. Oh, me! Oh, my! I'm thinking of going on a journey."

"What would you do and where would you go?" asked Nick.

"I was thinking of turning into a barber," answered Reddy Razor Back. "I saw that verse I was singing about barbers in a book that the children had. Or I might go to market! I saw where one pig had done that. It was in the same book that the barber was. I also noticed that a pig called Hickory Dickory Dare flew up in the air. He must have been a razor back like me or he never could have done it. Besides, razor backs are fond of hickory nuts."

"Listen to me Piggy," said Nick patting him kindly. "If I were you I'd stay right at home. And I shouldn't worry one bit. That's what Nancy and I came for—to help the Dixie Landers out of their troubles. I'll send word to the Fairy Queen and she'll save you."

CHEESE CAKES

Cheese cake is really as old as the hills, but has been so little used for years past that it will seem new to many cooks.

I dare say cheese cake of some sort graced many a Thanksgiving dinner in colonial days. For cheese cakes were transplanted from merrie old England along with bubble and squeak and toad in the hole and many other delightful concoctions.

There are Folkstone cheese cakes as well as apple, almond, lemon and just plain cheese cake. They are baked in individual cakes or one large one. And the best part about it is that cheese cake is a form of American pie.

Almond Cheese Cakes

Two cups sour milk, 1 cup sugar, 4 egg (yolks), ½ cup blanched and chopped almonds, 1 lemon, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon salt, rich pastry.

The milk should be thick and firm. Scald and strain through cheesecloth. Mix sugar, salt and cornstarch thoroughly. Beat yolks of eggs with dry ingredients. Add to curd and mix lightly. Add grated rind and juice of lemon, almonds and a grating of nutmeg. Turn into patty pans lined with pastry and bake in a moderate oven about half an hour. The mixture should be firm to the touch when it is done.

Apple Cheese Cakes

Six apples, ½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 3 eggs, 1 lemon, rich pastry.

Pare and core apples. Cut in thin slices. Put in a sauce pan with just enough water to prevent burning and cook until tender. Rub through a fine sieve. Add sugar and butter and mix well. Reheat, adding the grated rind and juice of the lemon. Stir in the yolks of three eggs and the white of one. Beat well and pour into patty pans lined with pastry. Bake in a moderate oven for 20 minutes.

Folkstone Cheese Cakes

One and one-half cups milk, ½ cup sugar, 4 tablespoons butter, ½ cup finely grated dried bread crumbs, 3 eggs, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 lemon, ½ cup currants, rich pastry.

Heat milk with bread crumbs. Cook over hot water for 15 minutes. Add butter, sugar, grated rind of lemon, salt and eggs well beaten. Cook over hot water until mixture thickens. Let cool slightly and pour into patty pans lined with rich pastry. Sprinkle with currants and bake until mixture is firm to the touch and pastry is done. It will take about half an hour.

Lemon Cheese Cakes

One cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 3 eggs, 2 lemons, finely shredded candied lemon peel.

Use the grated rind of one lemon and the juice of two. Put sugar, butter, lemon rind and juice into a sauce pan and stir until sugar is dissolved. Beat the yolks of the eggs and add to the mixture. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Let cool. Line patty pans with paste, three-fourths fill them with the mixture, sprinkle over candied peel and bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven.

These recipes are calculated to make 12 small cheese cakes.

REO JANERIO HAS NOW A HOUSING PROBLEM

(By U. G. KEENER)

RIO DE JANEIRO (By Mail to United Press).—Rio's housing problem will be alleviated slightly by construction of several blocks of large apartment houses on space reclaimed from Rio harbor, according to plans submitted to the Prefect of this city by a commission of leading Brazilian engineers.

The house shortage in the Brazilian capital dates from about 1920, and is comparatively as serious as that of New York or other large North American cities, although a building boom was continued uninterrupted for the past five years, despite ever-increasing cost of building materials and labor, and alleged scarcity of capital.

Owing to lack of space for building homes in the city proper and lack of facilities for rapid transportation between the business district and suburban localities, this city is faced with an ever-growing housing problem, particularly since the war, when the population of Rio, like other American coast cities, has increased by leaps and bounds.

The municipal engineers think they can now alleviate the situation somewhat by constructing a row of several large apartment houses on the space now being reclaimed through filling in an area of about ten block in the principal bay of Rio, the earth for which is being taken from the big "Castle Hill," now being razed to sea level by a North American company.

So far, this city has no more than three apartment houses of any kind, and only one of these is large and modern enough to be classed as an apartment house of the first order.

Only since the end of the Brazilian Centenary Expoistion, earlier this year, have any important steps been taken to alleviate the bad transport facilities between the centre of the city and the suburbs. Presently, however, the suburban resident may reach his work in the business district in a few minutes by means of omnibus lines linking almost every suburb with the city.

SLEEP

Back from a visit to Finland, where he found 'continuous daylight during the summer months, a Boston lawyer named Anderson comments:

'I saw men working in their gardens at 2 o clock in the morning, the same as we go out here a little while after dinner. I myself could hardly sleep at all, but I didn t seem to need it.

Anderson s theory is that the long hours of sunlight give people the energy and recuperation usually received from sleep. You ve noticed how difficult it is to sleep in daytime. Perpetual daylight might produce a sleepless race. The force known as human life has some mysterious connection with the sun.

New and Interesting Facts from Science and Life

How Students Learn Lessons While Asleep

THE pupil who has always been considered the brightest and who learned the most was the one widest awake. Uncle Sam, however, has been conducting some very remarkable experiments at his naval air station at Pensacola, Florida, where he has opened a school where the scholars learn their lessons while sleeping. It is in this school that naval aviators are taught radio while dozing and dreaming. The experimental stage in these trials has already been passed and the method has become standard, as a means of saving students from failure in the course.

When the test was started twelve students were unsatisfactory in their progress in code study. After two nights during which radio code was sent to the students in their sleep only two of the students were unsatisfactory. These two men had left before the experiment was finished, professing disbelief in it.

The students sleep on the tables in the radio room where the code is taught in the regular school periods. Operators send messages at varying speeds all night. The students concentrate on the messages that are sent through until they drop off to sleep. To quote a report on the subject:

"It is very interesting to watch the students during one of these night periods. If the operator intentionally and continuously makes errors in sending the students will toss around most unusually in their sleep. If the sending stops or the rate of sending changes appreciably, it is sure to disturb them, and in most cases will arouse them. Even in the midst of their deepest slumbers, the call 'SOS' at a different rate of speed will awaken them instantly."

It is planned to obtain electrical sending machines to send all night and do away with the necessity for an operator.

Mr. J. N. Phinney, a chief radioman for the United States Navy, says that he has become firmly convinced from observations that, as eminent psychologists state, a part of the human brain continues to function while the body and the conscious brain remain dormant. In a contribution to Radio News he describes how the system was tried on a naval medical officer who was to qualify as an air pilot, taking all ground school subjects, including the dreaded radio.

"This doctor, who was a noted specialist in psychology," says Mr. Phinney, "expressed a willingness to try the Learn-While-You-Sleep method after I had explained it.

"I equipped his bedroom with a key and the regular aviation radio telephone head set as shown in the illustration, and myself and assistants sent radio code to him all night. We started at 10:30 p. m. He had copied with pencil about thirty minutes and then retired, dropping asleep about an hour later. He had acquired a speed of fifteen cipher groups per minute in class, but had never copied plain English words or sentences.

"One conclusive proof of the feasibility of the idea was to be gained by our ability to awaken him with a message. Look at the following cipher group which never had meant anything to him or any other person, being in fact purposely undecipherable:

B X 3 Z F

"Even while awake no one had ever sent him a message by radio. His training had been copying letters only. How make his subconscious mind group letters into a word and react to the word? We started politely, 'Kindly awaken,' 'Awaken,' 'Wake up,' 'Get up.' He slept peacefully on. S.O.S. meant nothing to him. Later on another attempt failed. We all grew tired and still he signaled no response. What one word would arouse him?

"Finally, a consultation evolved the word 'Doctor.' It worked like a charm. He hit the key like a groggy prize fighter and the test had succeeded. We awoke him at will, thereafter, throughout the night and he always answered promptly with the key.

"In the morning he was able to copy radio with much greater ease and, while no definite test was made to establish the exact amount of gain, he expressed himself as entirely convinced of the practicability of the idea and the result of his report, naturally, gained me the coveted opportunity to conduct further experiments with official sanction.

"I was also assured that if further experiments were equally successful a request would be granted for a special automatic sending apparatus I had so long desired.

Naval Students Are Taught Radio by the Sleep Method, Receiving Through Earphones Continuous Messages Sent Them as They Slumber.

"It is now proposed to develop the 'Learn-While-You-Sleep' system as a very material aid to the present system. The prescribed syllabus of instruction covers a period of twenty-one weeks and the student is required to make a predetermined rate of progress week by week in order to remain in the class. Those students whose rate of progress had been consistently unsatisfactory for some time and who would therefore have been dropped from the class within the week, were told something of the successful experiences with the 'Learn-While-You-Sleep' system. Naturally, they jumped at the chance. Seventeen students volunteered for this experiment with the following results next day:

"(1) One of the seventeen copied five words faster than he had ever been able to copy previously.

"(2) Four copied three words faster, and one nearly three words faster.

"(3) Four copied two words faster, and one nearly two words faster.

"(4) Three copied one word faster, and one only half a word faster.

"The instructors derive some amusement to compensate for their loss of time and sleep in watching the facial contortions, restlessness and mutterings caused by the induced dreams of the students. Errors and erratic sending cause restlessness and muttered protests. Stoppage of sending when changing operators will arouse them."

White Blood Cells and Long Life

PHYSIOLOGISTS have long known that the blood is made up of a colorless liquid (plasma) in which floats a great multitude of tiny red corpuscles or cells, together with a comparatively small number of microscopic, round, colorless cells called corpuscles or leucocytes. These white blood cells are capable of changing their shape. They may adhere to the walls of a blood tube or they may even pass through to move about among the cells of the body as if they were living organisms endowed with an intelligence of their own. They have long been known to play a vital part in the maintenance of health in that they promote the healing of wounds and fight valiantly to keep foreign substances from entering the circulation.

Dr. Alexis Carrel of the Rockefeller Institute, foremost among the world's medical experts, is quoted in the Pathfinder as saying that new discoveries relative to the tissue building activities of the white blood cells indicate that it may be possible to employ them for the indefinite prolongation of human life. Not only do they stand guard against infections and promote the growth of new tissue in healing wounds, he said, but they stimulate the regeneration of dormant cells. Experiments with animals indicate that these corpuscles bring about the growth of new tissues by liberating growth-activating substances in the tissues. Even in extreme old age, the doctor pointed out, new tissues are produced to heal wounds and broken bones. Medical men believe that if means for effectively stimulating the activities of these cells can be found they will have an excellent substitute for the fabled fountain of youth for which Ponce de Leon vainly sought.

Trailing the Deadly INFLUENZA Germ AROUND the EARTH

SMALL outbreaks of influenza occur nearly every year somewhere or other on the earth, but it is only at long intervals that world-wide epidemics occur. These widespread epidemics seem to spread from east to west at a rate which is roughly the speed of travel. Thus when travel was comparatively slow, the disease took much longer to reach us than it does now, when means of communication have become so much speedier.

In its spread from east to west across Europe influenza took one or other of two general routes—a northern path from Russia crossing Europe through Germany and tending to travel southwards, or a northern one from Constantinople through Southern Europe with a tendency to spread north.

As each nation in turn blamed its neighbors for the disease the track of an epidemic often can be followed by the names of the countries which have been given to it.

The name "Spanish Influenza," which was given to the "flu" of 1918, was from this point of view incorrect. The name seems to have arisen owing to the great publicity which was given to the outbreak in Spain and not because the disease really spread from that country.

After the outbreak of 1889 the influenza germs were thought to have their home at Bokhara, in Turkestan, whence they spread every now and again throughout the world.

The great epidemic of 1918 broke out almost simultaneously in China, America and France. Even making all allowances for the speed of modern travel and the very exceptional conditions due to the war, it is scarcely possible that the disease could have been carried so rapidly from any one of these widely distant places to the other two. From this it seems probable that influenza germs are present nearly everywhere on this earth and that for some unknown reasons, probably connected with the growth of the germs, they periodically increase in strength in one locality or another.

How the OYSTER Changes Its SEX

FOR centuries the oyster has been regarded as one of the most appetizing foods and millions of people throughout the world look forward to the coming of September, when the first of the new season's catch are sent to market to tickle delicate palates.

The Romans regarded the oyster as a delicacy beyond comparison, and they established regular fisheries at the mouths of the great rivers, whence huge quantities were brought up to the cities to grace their tables.

If the coming of the months with an "R" in them makes the oyster a topic of the day with those who esteem them for their flavor, it is rather during the R-less months that they are of interest to the scientist.

Strangest of its weird habits is the oyster's change of sex. If a young oyster were to go in search of its mother a month or two after its birth it would probably find that the good lady was by that time a happy father!

The oyster is male and female by turns. First it is found laying eggs and sending a brood of some thousands into the waters; then a little later "she" has become a male. Later still the same oyster will turn back again into a female.

In May, or a little later in some years, those oysters that are female for the time begin to lay eggs. They do not deposit them upon the sea bottom, but keep them for some time within their gills, where they receive a constant stream of water pumped in and out by their mother's breathing apparatus.

From the eggs emerge tiny creatures smaller than the head of the finest pin. They rise to the surface of the water in clouds and swim about. They have no shells to incommode them, and they intend to enjoy life before they are forced to settle down on stones and remain there immovable for the rest of their lives.

The young "spats," as they are called, are regarded by many kinds of fish as tender morsels, and when they make their appearance enemies descend upon them from all sides, taking a fearful toll of their numbers.

However, there are so many of them that no great harm is done during the few days that they are free to swim. At the end of that time the spats sink to the bottom, where they begin to grow shells. They attach themselves to rocks and stones, and become respectable oysters instead of young gadabouts pretending to be fish.

Naturally the spats are carried far at times by winds and tides. Those who look after oyster beds must see to it that they do not stray too far afield. Special beds of slates and flat stones are often set in the tideway to catch them, and sometimes if they have drifted a long way it is necessary to dredge them up again and take them back to their proper beds.

The oysters you eat are usually from four to six years old. If they are allowed to stay longer than this on the beds they may become very big, but they are so coarse that they have little value.

Oysters produce pearls, though they are not nearly so common in the molluscs around northern coasts as in those that live in warmer seas. It is believed that the pearl is made when a tiny piece of grit works its way into the shell. Unable to get rid of it, the oyster covers it up with layer upon layer of the same shining material with which it lines its shell.

Chemistry's Marvels with COTTONSEED

MANUFACTURED articles that trace their source back to cottonseed include many of the necessities and comforts of modern life. Mattresses are stuffed with cottonseed linters. Eggs are fried in hydrogenated cottonseed oil or other substitutes derived from the seed. Dishes and soiled table linen are cleansed with soap probably containing cottonseed oil as an ingredient, and the sink and kitchen floor are brightened up with a washing compound, a cottonseed derivative. The noonday luncheon may include sardines which have been packed in cottonseed oil.

The lady of the house uses a celluloid comb made of a combination of nitrated cotton linters and camphor. She may garb herself completely in garments of artificial silk made from nitrated cotton linters. If it is house-painting time, she may write a note to the painter on paper made from cottonseed linters. The chances are that the roof will be painted with a tar residue derived, after many intermediate steps, from cottonseed.

Automobiles are cushioned with artificial leather made by coating cotton fabric with a mixture of castor oil and nitrated cotton linters. A detour in the road may mean that the highway is being repaired through the aid of dynamite, made through nitrating glycerine, which in turn is a by-product obtained when soap is made from such vegetable oils as cottonseed oil.

The roast beef or the juicy steak of the evening meal may come from an animal fattened on cottonseed hulls and meal. The French fried potatoes may have been fried in cottonseed cooking oil, and the salad may be garnished with a dressing made from cottonseed salad oil.

The Ancient ART of MAKING BELLS

SINCE the first dawn of civilization all of terror, sorrow, and joy of mankind have been voiced through the brazen throats of bells.

For more than 1,500 years they have heralded the crash of falling empires, the birth of new nations, wars, revolutions, catastrophes. Sometimes clamoring in wild alarms and then again pealing out messages of good will, their notes have marked every page in history.

Evolved slowly through the ages from the great gongs used to call together members of a tribe, bells have been made of many metals and their construction has taxed the skill of artisans for countless generations. They also have influenced architecture, lofty towers and steeples being built to house them as they increased in size.

Like many other things which have come down through long years of change, bells have been made in many shapes. Long, narrow ones, square and low, preceded the gracefully curved, trumpet-mouthed type designed about the sixteenth century, many of which still exist to charm the ear with their soft, sweet tones, carried from afar.

Some of the earliest bell makers traveled about, setting up their foundries and casting bells wherever they were desired. Later, as the size increased and the means of transportation were improved, central manufacturing plants were established where large molds could be built.

In making a bell, says a writer in Popular Mechanics, it is first drawn on paper. Then two wooden legs are made, the underside of one curving to the shape of the bell's inner shape, while the other leg conforms to its outside surface. These legs are pivoted to the top of a stake driven into the ground, around which is built a brick cone. This is covered with soft clay and the first leg run around it, shaping it to the inside of the bell.

Grease is smeared over the form, another coat of clay added, and the second leg drawn over it, forming a complete plaster cast of the bell. This also is greased and the entire mass covered with another layer of clay. When this is dry, it is lifted off and the inner shell removed. After the cover is replaced, the melted metal is poured into the mold to form the bell.

First used singly, bells of many sizes were combined later in groups to produce various effects, from the faint, musical tinkle of the clock to the deep-toned cathedral chime.

How to Make a CLOCK of FLOWERS

DID you ever hear of a clock made of flowers? Such a novelty is possible; but it takes care and patience to make one. Study carefully the accompanying diagram and you will get the idea of what a floral clock is.

By observing that certain flowers open and close at different times during the day, a contributor to The Pathfinder evolved the plan of making a floral timepiece. The little daisy, for instance, always opens its petals at dawn and closes them at sunset, and in this way has gained for itself the name of "day's eye," or daisy, because it is never open to see the night.

It is interesting to collect and arrange groups of flowers whose blossoms open and close so regularly that you can roughly tell time by them. Of course, such a "clock" can never be very accurate, but the novelty of the thing should be enough inspiration for anyone who likes flowers and has the time to arrange them. A floral timepiece will be a source of interest to your friends and by studying it you can learn a lot of strange and wonderful things about flowers that you did not know before.

Bear in mind that you cannot make a flower clock in a hurry—it takes time and trouble. Of course, you can begin at once, and all the time you are making it you will have the pleasure of seeing it work. Unlike an ordinary clock, it does not need to be finished before it will "go;" it begins to operate with the first planting. And unlike an ordinary clock it does not need to be wound up daily, or even every eight days, for that matter. The sun does all the "winding" for you.

You can make your floral clock any size, shape or design that you wish. The accompanying sketch is a good pattern to go by. If you have a tiny, narrow plot of ground, you can make a long clock instead of a round one. Start at one end with flowers that open earliest in the day and continue on with those that open later and later until the whole plot is covered.

Quinine as a Cure for Seasickness

ALTHOUGH a cure for seasickness seems far off, much can be done to mitigate its miseries. In the first place, suggests a medical adviser, the person who is about to sail should live simply for a few days before he goes aboard; he should not worry or fuss with the packing or overeat. Three days before sailing and again on the day before he should take a dose of castor oil or calomel and follow it the next morning with salts. He should eat plain but nourishing food; no rich seasoning, no pastry and little or no sweets.

Sometimes a person can prevent seasickness by taking two or three grains of quinine three times a day for three days before sailing and continuing with the same amount twice a day for the first three days at sea.

Wearing a wide elastic belt with a thick pad over the stomach is often of service in preventing or relieving sickness. A glass of carbonated water will sometimes relieve nausea or may even cut short an impending attack. In many cases lying flat on the back will bring relief.

The advice that is always given sufferers, "Get out on deck and recline in a chair," is good if the voyage is to be long and if the sufferer is ambitious to become a seasoned sailor as soon as possible, but for the person who simply wishes to get through a short voyage with as little discomfort a possible it is the worst possible counsel.

Some Creatures That Cannot Be Killed

DESPITE the saying that a cat has nine lives, once a cat is dead it is dead. But there are some creatures to whom what is called death brings only a suspension of activities.

Not long ago there were unearthed some Chinese manuscripts which had lain for centuries in a receptacle that was virtually a vacuum. When the manuscripts were warmed, millions of "dead" microbes stirred and came to life.

Some forty years back the island of Krakatos, off the west coast of Sumatra, was almost blown to pieces by the greatest volcanic eruption in history. Plants were blasted; animals and insects killed. Every form of life was destroyed.

To-day, Krakatos is covered with a dense vegetation, in which move all the old forms of animal life.

Seeds carried ashore by wind and sea may explain the presence of tropical plants. But it would appear that countless small organisms and insects have been "nursed" by the plants, and brought back again from death to life.

Then there is the toad. Time and again a toad has been killed and buried, only to reappear after several months seemingly none the worse for his demise.

Marmots, already dead apparently, have been further subjected for four hours to the poison gases of carbon dioxide, and have afterwards "come to life" no whit the worse. Flies kept for days in wine have, when rescued and dried in the sun, come to life again and flown away.

Some workingmen some years ago found a cavity in the centre of a block of stone they were cutting. Within the cavity lay a number of bees. Presently, restored by the inrush of air, the bees began to quiver. Soon afterwards several of them were able to fly.

The ORIGIN of "RUGBY" and "SOCCER" Football

IN early days football was a rough and ready game without standardized rules, and most of the great schools had their own particular codes. This state of things lasted till about the middle of the last century, when, with the birth of the spirit of modern athletic sports, men began to realize that football need not necessarily be dropped on leaving school. Some definite rules then obviously became needed, so that men who had been at different schools could play together.

On the whole, there were two sections of enthusiasts, those who favored the carrying game and those who do not wish the ball to be handled.

The first game was particularly in vogue at the great school of Rugby, and so the handling game became generally known as "Rugby football."

The supporters of the no-carrying game, on the other hand, appointed a committee—representing six of the leading schools—to meet at Cambridge and try to evolve a code agreeable to them all, and so these associated regulations were the first rules of what is now known as the great game of Association Football or "Soccer," for short.

CANADIAN SALES

take out a license. A licensed manufacturer is entitled to purchase or import, free of taxes, any goods or materials which are to be used for the making of, or attached to, taxable articles manufactured by him for sale. At the customs entry, to obtain these privileges, he must quote his license number and certificate.

This exemption applies not only to materials, but to containers, labels, etc. on the goods, in fact, everything that is attached to his product when shipped out, because it is realized that when he sells his goods, the price which he charges for them includes a certain amount to cover these incidentals. One exception to this rule applies to those manufacturers producing articles exempt from taxes, such as condensed milk. A manufacturer of condensed milk will be licensed, if he comes under the proper ruling, but will not be able to use his license when purchasing raw materials which will be used in the manufacture of his product. Repair parts are free of tax.

The manufacturer is treated as a consumer, and taxed for all importations made for his own use, such as factory machinery, office equipment, etc.

Sales by Manufacturers

Regarding sales by manufacturers: The manufacturer pays the Government six per cent. on all sales of his own product to unlicensed persons or firms, he must pay six per cent. where he sells his own manufactured product to an unlicensed wholesaler or retailer or consumer, including any licensed wholesaler or manufacturer buying for his own use. The non-tax sales are where he sells his own products to any manufacturer who uses them to manufacture his own products.

When invoicing or making quotations: in all cases where the manufacturer is accountable for the tax on his sales to unlicensed persons or concerns or to manufacturers or wholesalers buying for their own use, he must make all his quotations at a price which includes the tax, or a net price conditional on the tax being paid extra. Under the present law, the manufacturer must furnish his customer with a written invoice of the sale, which states the amount of the tax. Under the new law, this is restricted to sales to unlicensed wholesalers or jobbers. Where a manufacturer sells to an individual, the invoice shall state separately the amount of the tax, but to other persons or concerns, there is no provision in the law, and the manufacturer has the option of quoting a tax-included price or a net price conditional on the tax being paid extra. When he pays the Government, the invoice price is multiplied by 5.66 to get the result. If a licensed manufacturer purchases an article for re-sale at $100, and re-sells it to an unlicensed person for $120, he must account for six per cent. on $100 only, because he pays the Government the purchase price, not on the selling price which he has jobbed.

The Unlicensed Manufacturer

An unlicensed manufacturer is any manufacturer or producer who manufactures or produces less than $10,000 a year. He requires no license, except if he is using a substantial portion of tax-free materials. That portion is fixed at one-third. For instance, a manufacturer of fur garments in Toronto, where a lot of people manufacture fur garments in their own homes, may be licensed, even if producing less than $10,000 yearly, because he may be using more than one-third of his product as tax-free material, raw furs being exempt from sales taxes under all conditions. Otherwise, an unlicensed manufacturer does not have to account for sales, but his purchases are subject to the tax.

Under the new law, generally speaking, wholesalers will not be licensed. Their subjects and imports will be subject to six per cent. tax. For a wholesaler to take out a license, he must establish the fact that fifty per cent. of his turnover consists of raw materials as sales to other manufacturers. The hide dealer, selling one hundred per cent. of his turnover as sales to tanneries, will be entitled to a license.

No Pyramiding

As one of the principles of the new scheme is to allow a manufacturer to have tax-free materials for re-manufacture, the idea of the Act being to avoid pyramiding, and to place the tax on the finished product only, it was necessary to provide for some method of dealing with the goods which the manufacturer would have on hand at the end of the year, on which he had paid taxes. If he could not get back the tax he had paid, he would not be in a position to compete with the manufacturer who would allow his stocks to be depleted and would get his raw materials for the following year tax free. Mr. McCormick explained fully the principle of refunds which will be in operation, by which the manufacturer will be allowed to make deductions from time to time from his monthly tax returns, until the amount of refund due him at the end of the year on unused materials is made up.

There is also a provision in the Act for several months' leeway in respect to contracts, goods for which were contracted for on the basis of the present Act.

Under the new law, sales made to the Federal Government or any department thereof, are subject to tax, but sales to the Provincial Government or its departments, are exempted, for the time being, at least. All sales to and imports by, any public utility or commission or institution shall also be taxed, until such time as the Government investigates their charters with a view to possible exemption.

Custom work, such as shirtmaking, performed for a licensed wholesaler or manufacturer, where the only charge is for labour, is not taxed.

Mr. McCormick emphasized the importance of each manufacturer who desires to claim refund on his goods in stock at the end of the year, on which tax has been paid, notifying his local Collector of Customs in writing to this effect before Dec. 31, 1923.

General Business

At the conclusion of the discussion on the Sales Tax President J. J. Duffus of the Chamber of Commerce, took the chair and advised that the Annual Meeting of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce would be held in Hamilton, at the Royal Connaught Hotel, on November 15th and 16th.

The following resolutions are on the programme for consideration:

Reforestration.
Care of sub-normal children.
Extension of Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway to James Bay.
Insufficient Postage on letters to United Kingdom.
Permanent Highway Construction.
Standard information Bureaux for Tourists.
Appointment of Transportation Committee.
Mississauga Forest Reserve.
Taxation of Publicly-Owned Utilities.
Immigration.
Bounties on Iron Ore.
Publicity Bureau for Ontario.
Manufacture of Hardwood Logs in Ontario.
Great Lakes Levels.
Companies Acts.
Attraction of Industries and Capital.

The Toronto Board of Trade will also present a paper on "Some Economic Needs of the Dominion of Canada," and covering the following subjects:

A policy of rigid economy in expenditures—Federal, Provincial and Municipal—is urged. Steps to this end suggested are:

1. Balance our budget and abolish deficits.
2. Through conferences, arrive at a rational system of public taxation.
3. Standardize provincial and municipal accounting and reporting.
4. Establish centralized purchasing or at least price control in every province and municipality, and as far as possible, in the national government.
5. Establish municipal debt and expenditure limits on a per capita basis.
6. Establish provincial departments of municipal affairs in all provinces with supervisory powers over capital expenditure of municipalities.

(b) The Elimination of Waste

1. Fire Losses.—Greater attention and a larger measure of support by the Dominion and Provincial Governments and citizens generally through official and voluntary bodies is advocated to the end that every citizen may be educated to the necessity of constant precaution being exercised and proper safeguards provided against fire.

2. Labor Troubles.—Attention is directed to the urgent call for the best thought, the best intentions and the best practices of every class and section of the community that the relationship between capital and labor may be placed upon a safe, sure and satisfactory basis and the enormous losses due to strikes and cycles of unemployment cease to drain our national wealth.

(c) Cost of Production and Marketing.

The desirability is suggested of a careful inquiry into the case of the great spread between the price the producer is receiving for his products and the cost of these commodities to the consumer, also the relationship between agriculture, on the one hand, and industry, commerce and labor on the other.

(d) Immigration.

1. Capital Investment.—The need is emphasized of steps being taken to encourage the investment of British capital in the development of our natural resources, in Canadian industries, and in the establishment of branch houses.

2. Settlers, etc.—Increased population by means of immigration on a selective basis is accordance with the country's needs and powers of absorption is recommended and the appointment of a National Board to co-ordinate and supervise all immigration activities.

(e) Industrial and Scientific Research

The necessity for the immediate adoption by the Federal Government of a definite forward policy with respect to this all-important and far-reaching matter is pointed out and renewed efforts are asked for towards the early establishment of a National Research Institute.

(f) Federal Taxation.

The abolition of the present and new sales taxes, the income tax, and stamp taxes on cheques, notes, etc., and on receipts is recommended. The Sales Tax as at present administered is not sufficiently broad in its operation, and does not produce the revenue which it should. The Personal Income Tax is unduly onerous and complicated, especially the surtax and supertax features thereof, and in the case of large incomes, practically amounts to confiscation. The stamp taxes have proved a continual source of annoyance and irritation. In lieu of these taxes, the following systems of taxation are advocated:

1. A Turnover Tax on all processed goods, wares or merchandise imported into Canada, manufactured, produced or traded in in Canada, with such modifications as may be necessary.

2. A Graduated Income Tax on a basis which will provide substantial reductions in all grades from existing rates, with a maximum tax of approximately 40 per cent. on the largest incomes, as compared with the present maximum rates, which is about 70 per cent.

3. That the various Governments collaborate with the purpose of avoiding duplication of taxation.

4. That the forms of taxation above suggested should be known as "War Taxes," and that the revenue derived therefrom should be applied (a) In payment of interest on Canada's war debt, and of war pensions; (b) In reduction of the principal of Canada's war debt.

The ordinary expenditures of Canada should be met as was the case before the war, from customs tariff, inland revenue, and such other forms of Federal Taxation as existed at that time.

Delegates

The President and Secretary were appointed as delegates to represent the Peterborough Chamber at the Annual Meeting, and members of the Chamber who happened to be in Hamilton on the 15th and 16th, were requested to be present.

League of Nations Society

The appointment of two delegates to the inaugural meeting of the League of Nations Society to be held Friday morning, November 2nd, at the Public Library, was left in the hands of the President.

Community Fund

President Duffus announced that a meeting of the Young Men's Section, Chamber of Commerce, and officers of social service organizations in the city, together with all other citizens interested, would be held on Tuesday, November 13th, at 8 p.m., to consider the establishment of a Community Fund.

G. W. HATTON WINS AGAINST THE CITY

Judgment for Full Amout Of Claim in the O.T.A. Prosecutions.

In the case of Hatton versus the City of Peterboro, in which Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K. C., sought to recover $45, said to be due him from the city, judgment was given for the full amount of the claim. J. F. Strickland acted for the plaintiff, and Joseph Wearing, City Solicitor, appeared for the defendant city.

The claim was for Mr. Hatton's services as Crown Attorney in prosecuting charges under the O.T.A., which charges the city refused to pay.

Judge E. C. S. Huycke, in giving judgment, said the court considers the bill a most reasonable one.

MEETING OF THE MEDICAL SOCIETY

The Peterborough Society Endorses the Use of the Schick Test.

At the regular meeting of the Peterborough Medical Society, held in the Public Library rooms last evening, the members unanimously endorsed the efforts which are being made at the present time to perfect a plan for immunizing the children of the city's schools against diphtheria. The following resolution was passed by the Society:

"The Peterboro Medical Society unanimously endorses the use of the Schick test for determining those susceptible to diphtheria, the use of toxin anti-toxin for immunizing against diphtheria those so found to be susceptible, and it heartily commends its use as now being advocated in the public schools of this city, and especially commends to parents its use for immunizing children of pre-school age."

Dr. A. W. McPherson and Dr. A. Y. McNair both addressed the meeting in explanation of the present campaign against diphtheria. The speaker of the evening was Dr. George Campbell, of Ottawa, a noted paediatrician, who gave an interesting and instructive address on "Problems in Infant Feeding." The president of the society, Dr. H. M. Yelland, was in the chair.

RESIDED HERE

ly. It seemed that the great force beneath the earth vented itself on solids, such as brick and stone, and passed by the frailities.

"However, by some miracle, Jack's office escaped. It was in a heavy modern brick building, but no damage was done. The fire came so near that the awnings of the windows were burned off and the frames charred."

Mrs. Penlington writes graphically of the quake itself, which came while she was sitting at home awaiting luncheon. After two hours and a half of reeling earth and hideous noises, Mr. Penlington came from downtown. The fire that then swept Tokyo came to within two blocks of their house, then turned its way around in a huge semi-circle.

"The city," she adds, "was quickly put to rights by the soldiers, who have been truly wonderful."

Mr. Penlington is publisher of The Far East. "Our own printery," the letter continues, "was entirely destroyed. Fortunately we could secure one of the few remaining English presses in Tokyo and Jack decided to bring out a daily paper instead of the weekly. It means hard and unceasing work. With best wishes to all who still remember me in Seattle."

SEVERAL STORES

H. Boyle's Cash and Carry Store in East City was also entered twice in September. On the first occasion, people living in the upstair apartments heard the commotion, and the visitors departed in haste. The second entry was thought to have been made on Labour Day or night, when a glass transom above a side door was broken by someone standing on barrel and getting in through the aperture. Tobacco and chocolates were taken and final souvenir of the visit was the smashing of a peanut stand at the front door, and the abstration of the peanuts and coppers in it.

One merchant among the number whose stores have been entered informed the reporter that the police claimed to have knowledge of the identity of the men involved in some of the escapades, saying they were youths of eighteen or twenty years of age on whom it was impossible to fasten a specific charge.

A NORTH BAY MAN KILLED IN A WRECK

Further Particulars Concerning the Death Of Frank Miller.

In connection with the despatch published here a few days ago concerning the death of Frank Miller, further particulars have been received as follows:

Frank Miller, 28 years of age, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Miler, of North Bay, was instantly killed in an automobile accident when the car he was driving turned turtle, pinning him under the machine. The fatality happened on Sunday morning.

Deceased was born in Peterborough in September, 1895, and resided here for a year and a half, when he moved to North Bay with his parents, residing there the rest of his life, with the exception of a few years he spent at St. Michael's College, Toronto, Ottawa University, and three years overseas. He was an electrical contractor by trade, and was building up a prosperous business. Three years ago he married Miss Ida Bennett.

The late Mr. Miller leaves to mourn his loss his widow, who is residing at the home of her mother, Mrs. E. Bennett, 110 Second avenue west, North Bay, and their two-year-old daughter Mary, also his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Miller, two brothers, Vincent and Wiliam, and one adopted sister, Leda.

The funeral was held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of his parents to St. Mary's Cathedral. The remains were laid to rest in the Roman Catholic cemetery.

Prominent Values in Every Section

THE value events which have been scheduled for this month have a double importance. Not only is each individual item featured an exceptional value attraction but the scope of the offerings is so extensive that the varying needs of a winter season are thoroughly met. The commanding values include apparel of every type and seasonable and staple merchandise for the home.

The New Fabrics

Poiret Twill — A very fine Twilled Woollen.

Roshanara Crepes — Silk or Wool filled Crepes.

Velvets — Silk with deep velvety pile.

Moires — Silks with watered or clouded effects.

Marvella — A deep, soft pile fabric.

The New Colors

Byzantine — A medium Green.

Romany — A soft, Golden Brown.

Bisque — A rich, Light Brown.

Smoke — A Greyish Brown.

King's Blue — A very bright Blue.

Luxor — A brilliant Blue.

Modes of the Moment

NOW chilly days herald the approach of Winter. Are you prepared with new warm Apparel? The most varied selection of seasonable new Apparel is here at the Store. It emphasizes quality, exceptional value and decided style attraction. Prices are exceptionally low for garments of such signal worth.

New Wraps Are Wholly Desirable

In these graceful, straight-hanging Wraps for winter there is a new quality of exquisite drapableness and pliability for which the deep soft pile fabrics are accountable. The lavish use of furs gives an unwonted sumptuous tone and makes these luxurious models as becoming as they are lovely. Wide sleeves and extra deep collars add to their comfort.

Dressy Frocks Have an Irresistible Lure

The evolution from summer to winter apparel is most gracefully accomplished by that enjoyable period devoted to the wearing of Street Frocks without wraps. These smart between-seasons costumes are of widely diversified character, and with their proper compliment of chic street hat and furs form a composite picture of unending charm.

The New Blouses

Autumn brings a new assortment of Blouses in delightful new styles as varied in colouring as the Suits and Skirts they will accompany. They reveal all shades most favoured this season. As for styles, the Over-blouse in Jacquette or Slip-over style, showing side tie effect, are most seen in the prevailing mode — Canton Crepe enjoying the greatest popularity.

Velour and Duvetyne Coats

$25.00

These new Coats for fall are all greatly reduced for tomorrow's selling. Every Coat would please the tastes of the most discriminating. Included are Fur Trimmed Wraps. Fashioned from velour and duvetyne materials. Full lined and show trims of embroidery and stitching. Sizes 16 to 40.

Clever Autumn Frocks

$11.50

Just arrived a special line of Cloth Dresses in navy and black tricotine. Several very striking styles in the group. Made on straight-line effects, with trimmings of military braid, embroidery, braiding and buttons. Round or V necks and short or three-quarter sleeves. Sizes 16 to 20.

A Man's Overcoat

These new models are just loose enough for comfort, and swing smartly from square cut shoulders. Imported English and Scotch Tweeds and smooth-faced Miltons in Blue predominate. Made with Satin shield linings and Satin pipe seams. Ulster and Wrap Coats with half and three-piece belts. Some are ¾ Polo lined. Priced $35.00 to $52.50.

Men's Hats and Christys

Whether your Hat is on your head or in your hand, people do notice it. So, of course, it should be the correct colour and shape. In buying Fall Felts here, men have been impressed with the styles. Come in and be convinced that your taste may be suited. All the season's latest shades. We have Christy's in stock now with the smart new roll brim and braid binding. Also many shades in Velours.

$5.50 $6.50 $9.00

Men's Shop

All Wool Blue Serge Suits $35.00

Clever single-breasted, two or three-button models; also young men's two-button, double-breasted style. Full lustre lined. Sizes 35 to 44.

Men's Fancy Tweed Overcoats $23.75

Dark Grey, Lovat, and Heather Mixtures. Made in 3-button Ulster style, with half belt, and Young Men's double-breasted style, with inverted pleat in centre of back, patch pockets with flap, three-piece detachable belt. These garments are lined to waist with leather, and are wind and water proof.

Men's Silk Knit Scarfs $1.95

They are Silk knit, and in a range of colours that makes one wish for one of each colour. Of course, that would be foolish, but there is no reason why one cannot have two or three of them. There is sure to be a rush. Although we have a heavy stock on hand, it is doubtful whether they will last throughout the day.

MEN'S SHOP.

Women's Silk and Wool and All-Wool Ribbed Sport Hose, 95c Pair

'Tis time for Hosiery buying. Heavier Hose for Winter, we mean. Tomorrow this Store offers the greatest Hosiery values of the season. The Silk and Wool Hose are in the popular clerical grey shade and are splendid quality, while those in all-wool are in English ribbed style in popular light colors for sport wear. A good range of sizes for nine o'clock buyers.

TURNBULL'S BIGGEST BARGAIN EVENT

A GIGANTIC SALE OF MEN'S SUITS

Good News for the Men and Youths of Peterborough and District

Owing to a quiet season in the Clothing business a large manufacturer became overloaded and was forced to liquidate his entire stock of Suits, which he offered to us at such a low figure that we felt, in justice to our customers we could not afford to pass it up, even though it is a new line for us. There being so large an assortment of materials, colors and designs, and so low indeed is the price, as to make this Sale unique in the history of Peterboro, both for value given and for great variety. The very best of materials only were used, cut into smart yet practical business sacque styles, high grade linings, canvas and pocketings, carefully tailored, well stitched, readily reflecting the handiwork of expert workmanship. Ideal Suits for Men who are looking for clothes that will give hard wear, yet look attractive.

SIZES

There are Suits for tall men, Suits for short men, Suits for stout men, Suits for slim men, for youth, middle age or elderly men, in sizes from 34 to 44.

WE wish to emphasize the fact that these Suits were not made especially for sale purposes, nor are they old, previous season stock, but are brand new goods direct from the factory to us. Every garment finished with care and showing the precision and skill of experts. Made especially to supply the needs of men who desire practical and serviceable clothes. But for abnormal trade conditions in this line, this remarkable value-giving sale would not have been possible, The wise man will buy more than one suit, especially after the most casual inspection.

MATERIALS

Made from such sturdy materials as Tweeds, Homespuns, Hopsacks, Cheviots, etc., pure wool fabrics in good Fall and Winter weight, mostly dark conventional colors, such as Navy, Brown or Grey, in all plain or with pin stripe or overcheck. Also a good assortment of medium and light colored Tweeds.

This is the opportunity of a lifetime, high grade Suits at less than pre-war prices. Prior to 1914 $12.75 was considered a very reasonable price for the poorest of Suits. During this Sale you can buy clothes made from the best of materials at a figure which is less than the cost of the cloth alone. They will be sold on the Top Floor, which has been cleared entirely of other merchandise. Salesmen who have been accustomed to selling to men will be at your service. Quick Elevator service and prompt delivery to all parts of the city at any time.

Great Annual Voting Contest

—COMMENCES TO-MORROW—

WE ARE PREPARED TO DISTRIBUTE $500.00 IN CASH PRIZES
TO CHARITABLE AND HELPFUL ORGANIZATIONS IN PETERBOROUGH AND SURROUNDING DISTRICT

The customers of our store will decide which organization will be given each prize, and these prizes will be distributed on Wednesday, Jan. 4th, 1924.

Who Are Eligible?

Any organization recognized to be engaged in charitable or helpful work in Peterboro and surrounding district, such as The G. W. V. A. Auxiliary, The Health Association, The Children's Aid Society, St. Vincent's Orphanage, Red Cross, Daughters of the Empire, or Ladies' Aids, Guild Auxiliaries or similar body of workers, will be entitled to enter this contest. $500.00 in cash to charitable or helpful organizations who receive the greatest number of votes in this contest.

How to Vote

At the time of the purchase, providing the purchase amounts to 25c or over, you will be given a ballot entitling you to the number of votes your purchase calls for. You will write plainly thereon the name of the organization you would like to see win the prize. The ballot will be deposited in the ballot box—placed on the Main Floor, near the elevator—any time up to December 30th, 1923. Help your society win the first prize. It will be found money.

Announce Standing

Each week the ballot box will be opened and the ballots counted. The standing will be published periodically in our advertisements. Watch for it.

Vote as often as you like. Every vote is a step nearer the prize. Help your favourite society win $150.00 in cash.

To Receive a Ballot

With every cash sale of 25c, or payment on account, a ballot will be given to the customer, who may cast it for the organization he or she wishes to see win the prize. Organizations will be considered entered in the contest if any person casts a ballot for it, and the one receiving the greatest number of votes up until the closing night of the contest will be awarded first prize.

The Contest Prizes

First Prize	$150.00
Second Prize	100.00
Third Prize	50.00
Five Prizes of $25 each	125.00
Six Prizes of $12.50 each	75.00
Total	$500.00

Make every purchase from now until the end of the year mean votes for your favorite organization.

Plowing Match In 1865

joyed the means which this great contest afforded of advancing the most fundamental department of that art, on which our prosperity is mainly dependent."

The conclusion of the article is significant as after the name of each contestant is mentioned, his nationality follows. Thus, "Wm. Addison, English, William Hood, Scotch; Joshua Kennedy, Canadian." It is evident that there was keen competition in those days among these different nationalities. Of the twenty men who competed in Scarborough, the winning township, ten are designated as Scotch, five English and five Canadians. In Whitby township there were nine Englishmen competing, six Canadians and five Scotchmen.

Six judges were chosen to give their decisions and they were: R. Hunter, Reach township; Thomas Jones, Darlington township; W. Scott, Darlington; David Smellie, Vaughan township; J. Louis and John Gibson, Markham.

There were also three umpires, Robert McNair, Walter Dalzell and Robert Berth. So full provision was made to have the decisions satisfactory to all.

CAVAN NEWS

CAVAN, Nov. 2.—Mr. and Mrs. Albert Elliott returned from their trip to the West a week ago.

Miss Helen Syer, Burleigh, spent the week-end at home.

Mr. Jas. Douglas, Superintendent of Cavan Sunday School, took a well-earned vacation last Sunday, and attended Fairmount anniversary. He and Mrs. Douglas were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Hooton for the day. In his absence, F. M. Staples took charge of Cavan Sunday School.

Mr. Carley and family attended a Sunday School session at King on Sunday.

Mrs. T. Staples, Hamilton, who has been visiting friends in Cavan, returned to her home on Saturday.

Mr. Charles Staples, Lifford, spent Tuesday at the home of his brother.

Osborne Staples, who is attending Faculty of Education, Toronto, recently spent a few days at home, while the Toronto teachers met at their annual convention.

MARRIED—In Millbrook, at the rectory, by Rev. Canon Allen, on Wednesday, October 31st, Mr. Melville Carr to Miss Olive Sisson, both of Cavan.

The young couple left on the evenin train for a trip. They will reside in Cavanville.

Mr. Whithouse, Peterboro, was in Cavan on Wednesday on business.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid for November was withdrawn and in its place a meeting of all the ladies of the church was called for Thursday evening, to complete arrangements for the fowl supper.

On Wednesday afternoon the pupils of S. S. No. 7 spent a very pleasant time from three to four. They had a Hallowe'en and Thanksgiving pro-gram combined. This was followed by some Hallowe'en games, a peanut hunt anda treat of home-made candy. The school house was decorated appropriately for the occasion.

TOWNSHIP OF ROMNEY FOUND DEEP OIL WELL

CHATHAM, Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press)—First deep oil well to be struck in Romney township came in last night on farm of Hugh Shanks, two and one half miles west of Port Alma.

Reports received in city today are very optimistic and there is every indication the well will prove one of the best struck in this part of the province in recent years.

At nine o'clock this morning the well was shooting one hundred and fifty feet in air. Oil was struck at depth of 3,500 feet.

SUGAR REFINERS CUTTING PRICES

In an Effort to Stimulate a Lagging Demand.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—A price cutting movement was started by the sugar refineries yesterday in an effort to stimulate a lagging demand by consumers. Fine granulated was reduced to $8.60 by one of the leading local refiners and was generally followed by others, although the latters list prices ranged from $8.70 to $8.85.

This represents a cut of about half a cent in the past week and follows a similar reduction in the cost of raw sugar. For some weeks both the raw and the refined markets have been very quiet and it is agreed that refiners are determined to adjust their prices to level that will meet the competition of western beets, which have been offered as far east as the Alberta district.

QUIZ CORNER

BRITISH COLUMBIA SAW MILLS.

Q—How many saws mills has British Columbia?

A—Nearly five hundred saw and shingle mills in British Columbia are producing annually approximately three and a half billion feet of lumber and about the same number of shingles. In 1923 lumber production of the province as estimated to be worth $85,000,000 and a survey of world markets gives promise of a steady increase in the next decade.

NEW BRUNSWICK'S BIG FOREST FIRE.

Q—When did New Brunswick's Big Forest Fire occur?

A—On October 7, 1825 one of the most awful forest fires on this continent occurred. A storm of flame swept over the country (New Brunswick) for sixty miles, from Miramichi to the bay of Chaleurs, where several ships were burnt. Houses, barns, crops, and the towns of Douglas and Newcastle were destroyed; 160 persons are known to have perished, and hundred were crippled for life. The survivors, left destitute on the eve of winter, received prompt and generous aid from the rest of Canada, Great Britain and the United States.

BRITISH COLUMBIA MAY GET THE BONE DRY LAW

VICTORIA, Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press)—Laxiety and inefficiency in enforcement of liquor control act has confronted British Columbia prospect of wave anti-moderation that may ultimately lead to bone dry prohibition, R. H. Pooley, Conservative Esquimalt declared in the legislature Wednesday while speaking in the debate on the reply to the speech from the throne.

Mr. Pooley blamed Attorney General Manson for what he termed "shameful conditions" in Northern British Columbia.

EVIDENCE WILL OUTLAW BULGARIAN COMMUNISTS

SOFIA, Nov. 2—(Canadian Press)—Bulgarian government claims that after an exhaustive study of evidence in their possession they have established clearly the fact that recent communist uprising in Bulgaria was both ordered and threatened by officers of third internationals in Moscow.

Evidence will be used by government to outlaw Bulgarian communist party.

MANITOBA HEALTH BOARD TO DISTRIBUTE INSULIN

WINNIPEG, Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press)—Plans were made by Manitoba Board of Health yesterday for distribution of Insulin for treatment of the diabetes in the province. Insulin will be supplied to medical men certified by the Manitoba Insulin committee and will be given free to patients unable to pay. Those in a position to pay will get Insulin at cost price.

CONCERT AT THE PROTESTANT HOME

Melody Band and Soloists Entertained Old People In Splendid Style.

What proved to be a great success was the splendid concert given at the Protestant Home by the Melody Concert Band last evening. The band, numbering 15 performers, played lively airs and marches that were much enjoyed by the inmates at the home, and was under the leadership of Mr. W. Forde, who selected the various items to suit the tastes of the old people.

The programme also consisted of vocal items, the soloists being Mrs. Betty Singleton, who sang with splendid voice, her rendering of "The Bells of St. Mary" brought an encore, and in response, sang "Smiling Through" and "My Task," both songs being well received. Mr. and Mrs. Cutmore then sang a duet, "Larboard Watch," which brought forth an encore, and in response they sang "Juanita" in fine style. Master Jimmy Marchen, who sang "Barney Google," brought the old people to fits of laughter; the number was rendered in fine style. Mr. Ted Markham gave some of his humorous songs which kept the audience well amused. Great credit is due to Miss Lily Bacon, who presided at the piano and played splendidly for the various items.

The programme by the band follows: March, "Colonel Bogy"; Selection, "Coonland"; Hymn, by request, "Lead Kindly Light"; Trombone Solo, "Hot Trombone," Mr. Fred Blondin; March, "Flying Wedge"; Fox Trot, "Some Pumpkins"; March, "Little Rastus"; "God Save the King."

The matron, Miss Lancaster, thanked the band and the soloists on behalf of the inmates of the home, and said how pleased the old people were; that they enjoyed the concert very much, and look forward to a repetition in the near future.

The band wish it to be known that these concerts will be given periodically during the winter months at the Protestant Home.

WILL ONTARIO PROVINCE DEVELOP ST. LAWRENCE

Would Mean Millions for Generation of Power.

OTTAWA, Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press).—The claim of the Province of Ontario to "surplus waters" of the St. Lawrence, reported to have been made by Premier G. Howard Ferguson in a recent speech, opens up a long standing difference between the Federal and Provincial governments. Premier Ferguson is reported to have said that after the Dominion government had assumed sufficient water for navigation in the St. Lawrence, "surplus waters belong to the Province of Ontario." At the Water Power's branch of the Interior Department this morning some doubt was thrown on this.

The question was one in which, not only Ontario, but also other provinces of the Dominion, were interested.

Mr. Ferguson is reported as saying that the Ontario government proposed to ask the Dominion government if it was not prepared to go into the St. Lawrence project, "to stand aside and get some one else go into it." There is some conjecture expressed here as to whether or not that is to be understood as an announcement that Ontario is prepared to proceed wih expendiure of some hundreds of millions of dollars for construction of the proposed St. Lawrence canals and development of water power.

TORONTO, Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Hon. Henry Corby, Belleville, died leaving an estate of $1,208,616 ,and included in this was $72,000 representing Russian bonds for three hundred thousand rubles. He had invested $88,000 in bonds. They are said to be now worth $150 and the judge at Osgoode Hall will be asked to allow the estate to hold the bonds instead of realizing on them now in hope that their value may in some measure return. Instead of being worth 23 cents the ruble to-day is worth the twentieth part of a cent.

BLUENOSE SAILS DOWN THE HARBOR

Believed Captain Walters Will Compete No More In This Year's Race.

HALIFAX N.S., Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press).—The Schooner Blue nose, twice winner of the International schooner race and winner of two races on this series, the last of which was taken from her on a technical protest raised by her competitor the Columbia of Gloucester, cast off from her wharf at two oclock this afternoon and sailed down the harbor.

It was believed that Captain Angus Walters was carrying out his threat made this morning, to take his boat home and sail no more in this year's international race.

DEMAND STERLING DROPS TWO CENTS

New Low Record for The Year at Today's Foreign Exchange Market.

NEW YOR, Nov. 2.— Demand Sterling dropped nearly two cents to $4.46 new low record for year at opening of to-day's foreign exchange market.

Weakness of British exchange, it is said resulted from speculative pessimism over reports from Washington that United States would refuse to participate in proposed reparations conference if Premier Poincare of France insists on limiting scope of inquiry at outset.

WOMEN'S MISSIONARY MEETING AT OMEMEE

The Twenty-Sixth Annual Convention of Lindsay District Held in Methodist Church — Notable Address By Missionary Home From China.

OMEMEE, Nov. 2.—The twenty-sixth annual convention of the Lindsay District Women's Missionary Society was held in the Methodist Church, Omemee, on Wednesday, October 31st.

The afternoon session opened at 1.45, the devotional exercises being led by Mrs. Vickery, of the Queen St. Auxiliary Lindsay. Prayer was offered by Mrs. R. Fee, of Lindsay, followed by Scripture reading by Mrs. H. Morrison..

Mrs. John Bradburn, of Janetville, District Superintendent, then took the chair and after the singing of Hymn 174, conducted the business meeting in an able manner.

Mrs. Nesbitt tendered her resignation as secretary after ten years faithful service. Mrs. Nesbitt's resignation was accepted and Mrs. H. Morrison, of Lindsay, was appointed Secretary-Treasurer.

Press—Reporters—Mrs. Babcock, Lindsay; Mrs. Bradburn, Omemee.

Courtesy Committee—Mrs. (Rev.) Brown, Lindsay; Mrs. Blotherwick, Janetville; Mrs. Riches, Cambray.

Reports from auxiliaries, circles and bands was given by Mrs. Prouse, of Lindsay, for the District as follows: 13 auxiliaries, 5 circles and 7 bands.

Money raised from the auxiliaries for the year, $2,142.50; sent to Branch treasurer, $2,282.10; total from circles, 1980.81, which is $123.73 more than last year. Cambridge St. circle remitting $110.00 more than last year. Total from bands, $107.06, of which is $68.30 more than last year.

The organizations were highly commended on their splendid work.

The auxiliary conference was taken in five parts:

Auxiliary Problems

(a) "Auxiliary Problems and How to Meet Them," being given by Mrs. (Dr.) Earle, Omemee, in the absence of Mrs. (Dr.) Irvine, of Lindsay, two leaflets bearing on missionary work, each containing much humour and giving much advice on the handling of missionary money, etc., were read by Mrs. Earle and much enjoyed.

(b) "Money and Missions," by Mrs. Blotherwick of Janetville.

(c) "Prayer and Missions," by Mrs. (Rev.) Brown, of Lindsay.

(d) "What Jesus Said About Missions," by Mrs. Thos. J. Thurston, Dunsford.

(e) "How to Deepen Spirituality,' Mrs. (Rev.) Balfour, Lindsay.

Some of the thoughts given in Mrs. Balfour's paper were that meetings should be planned in the spirit of prayer. Go expecting to be blessed and we shall be blessed. Inspire others.

The heartfelt need for prayer for our auxiliary.

An open session for discussion was then held and many valuable suggestions gained.

Following the singing of Hymn 384 Mrs. Riches, of Cambray, gave an excellent address on "The Unbroken Circle." The speaker left four points with the meeting: (1) Our purpose of existence is "Training for Service"; (2) "That our girls must get a visio of the needs of the Kingdom"; (3) "That they will get a vision of the Christ that will meet those needs"; (4) "Blessing and Power of Prayer."

Miss Sparling, Missionary on furlough from China, was then introduced, the audience rising and greeting her with a hearty hand-clap. Miss Sparling spoke briefly, appealing to the young women that they may see the great needs of China.

"Circle and Band Questionaire" was ably handled by Mrs. Wilson, of Cambray.

Re-elect Superintendent

The election of a superintendent and assistant, was unanimously solved in the re-election of Mrs. Bradburn. Mrs. (Dr.) Baker, of Haliburton, being elected assistant.

The quiet half was conducted by Rev. Mr. Rowland, thus bringing to a close a very full and interesting afternoon session.

The ladies were invited to the Sunday School room where a dainty and appetizing meal was in waiting.

Evening Session

The evening session opened at 7.30 with that beautiful old hymn "Jesus Saves," led by the choir. An earnest prayer for the work of the missionaries in far-off fields and the home workers was offered by the pastor, Rev. E. W. Rowland, after which the choir rendered a most appropriate number entitled, "Someone Must Tell the Glad Tidings."

Miss Edith Sparling of St. Mary's, (home on second furlough from China) was then introduced by Mr. Rowland, and for upwards of fifty minutes, held her hearers spellbound in an address which was instructive, appealing and convincing, as follows:

"I deem it a great privilege to address the women who send us to China, a great opportunity to come home and tell the great things the Lord hath wrought in that land. The field where we are working, is in the province of Szechuan, a country with an area of 218,480 square miles. It is a land of beauty, with rolling hills, nestling valleys, feathery bamboos, which look like ostriches in the distance, hills with the yellow flowers of the oil plant resemble sunshine. To the West a wonderful range of hills lift their heads of eternal snow, to their Creator. For fertility and beauty this province is unsurpassable in China. 'Every prospect pleases and only man is vile.' Its climate is very damp, 40 degrees below being very cold and 95 degrees very hot. Fifty-five kinds of vegetables and forty varieties of fruits are grown. Rice is the staple product, but wheat is also grown successfully. The province has a population of 70,000,000, with seven different churches, 620 missionaries. Our share is 10,000,000 of whom 5,000,000 are women and children. Our workers consist of 36 on the field and six on furlough. We are laboring in eight central stations and 17 outstations, about 150,000 to each missionary or comparatively speaking, it is equal to 50 ministers including Protestants and Roman Catholics to all the Dominion of Canada.

The supply of doctors is even worse, equal to two in all of Canada, that is, one in Halifax and one in Vancouver. Foot-binding is now disappearing as government schools now will not accept girls with bound feet."

Chinese Superstitions

Miss Sparling related many interesting customs of Chinese life. Some of which follow:

"Chinese are very superstiticus about anyone dying in the house as they fear the evil spirit will come and bring trouble to the home. It is a terrible thing for a heathen to die. A teacher's wife was dying and a hole was made in the roof in order to let the evil spirit escape. A crust of bread is usually placed in one hand and a stick in the other, the crust is to pacify the dogs she would meet in the other world, but this failing, she would have the stick to ward them off. One day we passed a home where an old woman was put out to die. Candles were lighted so that her way would be easier. When I saw this I prayed that God in His great loving kindness would have mercy on that poor woman who never had a chance. Then I prayed that the young women of our Dominion would realize what it meant to die without Christ, just because someone here said "No" to the Christ call.

Christian Chinese have an altogether different outlook and a look forward to the time when they will be taken home. Still another class, the ignorant, and such ignorance as is almost inconceivable. One woman in 1000 only can read and in some parts this is too optimistic. Many women are even ignorant of what province they live in and do not know the continent. Thousands who can read cannot write. They are surprised to hear that Jesus was born in that continent, as these have passed by we wonder what is being done to meet these needs.

Story of a Conversion

"We have five schools for women and about 100 pupils to Junior 4th. We teach, in addition to regular school studies, the Scriptures, and also have a course in methods in personal work. We have one unmarried Bible woman, Miss Loao. When our missionary first called at Miss Loao's home they didn't even offer her tea, but on a second visit offered tea and the missionary gave her a Bible and asked her to go to church. She did so and told on her return, 'They talk about one Jesus, who is their ancestor.' Again she went, this time she said: 'I have been to foreigners' church. They worship one Jesus, who was a thief and was crucified.' She was a very devout heathen and had spent $150 for a shrine that passersby might worship. She was a vegetarian, also avowed celebacy. She finally read the gospel but would not pray. One night she saw a missionary's wife putting her children to bed and their simple faith as they said their evening prayer kneeling at their mother's knee, touched her. Finally, she prayed, making a bargain with the Lord as Jacob of old, 'Lord, if you will cure my mother, I will believe." Her prayer was answered, light dawned in her soul, and she said: 'God loved her, I know Jesus.' It is wonderful how that young girl can preach.

We have a union Normal School, 35 girls from the Normal come from our own school. Last year 59 of our graduates were appointed to schools. Eight years ago, there was not one graduated."

An Allegory

Miss Sparling told many other interesting incidents of Chinese life, ending her splendid address with the following illustration:

"Along the hillsides in China, stretching down into the valley, are lengths of bamboo fitted into one another and used to convey water to the people. I looked into the valley where the bamboo trees grow and I imagined I heard the bamboos say, 'You admire me, I have nothing to boast of, but I owe all to my master.' Then the master came with a sharp axe and said, 'I could use you to carry living water if you would let me. If thou art willing, I would cut thee down and use thee in another way.' The bamboo replied, 'But Master, I would die.' 'Yes, you would die,' said the master 'but through this dying many would live. Art thou willing?' Then came the answer, 'Master, I am willing.' The master then took the axe and cut it down and took a knife and cut off all the branches, carried it to a stream where, with others like itself, it was fitted to convey water. Other trees were not willing, but weary men and women came and drank and were refreshed. Then the master came and said, 'Are you sorry, my tree, that you gave yourself to me?' And the bamboo replied, 'No, if I had a thousand lives, I would give them all to thee." Friends, are we unchoked channels, through which living water may flow? "I gave my life for thee, what hast thou given for me?"

Following this most impressive address the choir rendered another missionary selection entitled, "Has He Chosen You."

The report of the Courtesy Committee followed by Mrs. Blotherwick, of Janetville, response being made by the local W.M.S. President, Mrs. Rowland. The meeting closed with a hymn and the benediction.

The convention was most helpful to all who were privileged to attend, and the many delegates attending will, no doubt, through the giving of their reports, give new inspiration to their branch.

Among those from a distance attending were: Mrs. Charles Mitchell, Mrs. W. G. Prouse, Mrs. R. Fee, Mrs. H. Morrison, Mrs. J. Vickery, Mrs. G. E. Nugent, Mrs. C. Parks, Mrs. J. Bell, Mrs. Charles Beadle, Mrs. R. J Mulligan, Mrs. G. G. Adams, Mrs. A. L. Brown, Mrs. R. Hart, Mrs. Charles Golden, Mrs. George Babcock, Mrs. G. Culbert, Mrs. J. M. Rice and Mrs. D. Balfour, all of Lindsay; Mrs. M. E. Wilson, of Cambray; Mrs. W. Grandy, Mrs. Robert Nugent, Mrs. H. V. Hart, Mrs. E. J. Skuce, Mrs. W. R. Jackson of Mount Horeb; Miss Edith Sparling, St. Mary's; Mrs. John Bradburn, Janetville; Miss Annie Armstrong, Janetville; Misses R. Windrim, Vivian Parkes, Kathleen Willock, Jean Hall, Mrs. H. Stroud and Miss Beatrice Conneybeare of Lindsay; Misses Evelyn Heaslip and Bessie Bradburn of Janetville; Miss L. M. Vanstone, Bernice Webster, of Oakwood; and Mrs. Thomas Thurston and Mrs. J. R. POLAND BEGGARED BY HER MILITARISM Observers Fear That Strikes May This Winter Bring the Rising Moscow Hopes For.

By WALTER DURANTY

RIGA, Nov. 2.—"People think Germany is the European powder magazine, but there is danger here in Poland also—less spectacular, perhaps, than the apparent break-up of the German Reich, but fully as real and menacing."

The speaker was a representative of one of the great Atlantic shipping companies. He is located in Warsaw, but his office there is the centre of a network of information from his agents all over Poland, such as no foreign newspaper or diplomatic service can build up.

In my hurried journey back from Paris I have had ample proof that he is right. Poland is a concrete, perhaps soon to be a dreadful, example of how militarism can ruin a country. Thinking to avoid a possible transport tie-up in Germany, I travelled via Vienna to Warsaw, with the intention of going thence to Moscow by the direct route.

In Vienna there were rumors of a threatened general strike on the Polish railroads. Tuesday night's train got through to Warsaw all right, but two hours after it passed Szenstochown, the strike, already raging in southern Galicia and Gracow, spread to that important junction, amd main line trains only continued running with military crews. Next morning it was announced in Warsaw that a quarter of a million textile workers had declared a strike in Lodz, Poland's greatest manufacturing centre.

In the capital itself, overcrowded to bursting, the exact figures are unobtainable, but fully 25—some say 40 per cent. of the workers are either striking or unemployed. And everywhere are soldiers, good-looking troops enough, especially the cavalry, marching, drilling and watching.

The Russian Legation knew nothing of my promised visa. The mails came late, the officials said, apologetically; telegraphic communication was difficult and uncertain; I had better go to Riga.

Incidentally, it is noteworthy as a symptom that both Poles and Russians seem to believe, though no official of either country said so directly, that the recent hold-up of the Warsaw-Moscow train just inside the Russian border was staged by the other powers with a view to capturing possible valuable documents from a courier.

The train for Riga Thursday night should have left Warsaw at 11:20, but at 11 the station was filled with a mob of would-be travelers. There were no porters, no station officials, no trains, no information—save only that the threatened strike had broken out. By 3 o'clock four main-line trains were sent out by the military, including that to Riga, which, however, missed its connection at the frontier. Since then I have been informed that trains are running pretty regularly and the strike does not appear to have spread north of Grodno.

Ready as the Poles are to blame the Communists, the point of all this is that the strikes are not political, but economic. The depreciation of the Polish mark has reached a stage where the workers cannot exist unless wages are raised 200 or 300 per cent., and that process is continued automatically week by week. Two months ago 300,000 Polish marks bought a dollar. Last Thursday 2,000,000 were required. And Poland's Treasury is empty and her budget deficit enormous because a disproportionately large army ravages the country like the dragon of a fairy tale swallowing up men and money.

"Poland is paying dearly," said one of the best-informed Americans in Warsaw, "for the day France chose her as a henchman and barrier between Germany and Russia. France gave her loans, I know, but the money must be spent on the army—equipment, munitions, guns, airplanes—and now Poland is 'broke' and France will lend nothing to ease the economic burden."

Poland is "broke," but the dragon must be fed. The Poles themselves say their position between Russia and Germany necessitates a strong army. Perhaps they are right; but there is truth, too, in what another foreigner said: "The trouble with the Poles is that they have treated others as others have treated them."

In the schools of Russian Poland Polish children were forced to learn Russian; in Germany, Germany; in Austria, Austrian; and when they grew up the boys must serve under a foreign flag. So it is today in Southeast Galicia, in Upper Silesia, in Vilna and Polish White Russia. Native teachers are expelled; the children must learn Polish and serve in the Polish army. This is natural, maybe, but is healing no old sores.

Meanwhile Winter comes; strikes spread, and unemployment grows as the mark fails. Soon cold will aid hunger to bring about "the revolution pitch of mass desperation" which those cold Marxian theorists in Moscow expect the coming months to develop in Central and Eastern Europe.

LIFE SAVING AT LOCAL Y.W.C.A.

Public Invited to Attend The Swimming Examinations.

That Peterborough is keeping up to a high standard in regard to life saving classes and tests will be fully demonstrated by the Y. W. C. A. swimming classes on Saturday afternoon and evening, when 23 of the junior and senior girls of the Life Saving classes will be examined for the different awards of the Royal Life Saving society.

This society has its headquarters in London, England, and has set all the questions for the competitors for the proficiency and certificate, and the bronze and silver medallions since 1890, over 192,890 members have taken their examinations and passed.

Miss Olive Bettle, instructor of the Toronto Y. W. C. A. pool, will be the official examiner at tomorrow's examination, which will be held at the Y. W. C. A. pool.

The award of merit will be a unique examination for Peterboro.

As this is the first time any Peterboro individual has taken the examination. The test is a difficult one and consists of swimming 600 yards fully dressed. To undress on the surface of the water. To dive from surface of the water to depth of at least 5 feet and raise and land an object weighing 5 lbs. Carry a person by the second method of rescue a distance of at least 20 yards To dive neatly from heights of 5 ft. and 10 ft To perform at least three special movements or stunts, and to pass a written examination.

The following girls are trying the different examinations this year and theoY. W. C. A. and citizens of Peterbor wish them every success.

Proficiency—Bertha L. Edmonson, Anna G. Edmondson, Irene E. Foster, Ruth E. Sutton, Evelyn V. Armstrong Margaret M. Dunlop, Gwen I. L. Lucas, Ena A. Young, Mary I. Menzies Margaret MacCullough.

Bronze—Kathaleen B. Cooney, Mary Dunlop, Frances Ackerman, Matilda Dunlop, Eleanor Highland, Gertrude Comstock, Alida Stinson, Margaret Mason, Martha Kirn, Eva Outram, Dorothy Tryer.

Award of Merit—Grace Allan, Dorothy Craig.

Public welcome.

MOLLA MALLORY BARRED AS U S. REPRESENTATIVE

NEW YORK, Nov 1.—The American Olympic Committee probably will take no further steps to establish the eligibility of Mrs. Molla Mallory, former national women's tennis champion ,to represent the United States in the 1924 Olympics, despite England's and France's willingness to have her compete, it was indicated last night by F. W. Rubien, secretary of the American committee.

"The rejection of our appeal by the executive committee of the International Olympic committee," said Mr. Rubien, "apparently closes Mrs. Mallory's case, so far as we are concerned, and I anticipate no further action."

Mrs. Mallory was barred from representing the U. S. because in the 1912 games she played for Norway.

HER CHILDREN HAD WHOOPING COUGH

This is one of the most dangerous diseases of children. It starts with fever and cough. The cough is at first short and sharp, but gradually increases in severity and occurs in sudden spasms, vomiting follows, and sometimes there is nose bleed; the child turns livid in the face, the eyes appear as if they would burst from their sockets, and suffocation seems emminent till relief is brought on by the "whoop."

Dr Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will clear the bronchial tubes of the collected mucous and phelgm and in this way ease the racking cough, and in a short time make is disappear.

Mrs. L. Ambrose, Sarnia, Ont., writes:—"My little ones were both sick with whooping cough. I read where Dr. Wood 's Norway Pine Syrup was good, and I only used two bottles and they were better. I had chronic bronchitis for three years and tried everything until, finally, I got 'Dr Wood's'. I would not be without this remedy."

AMERICAN GRAIN BLOCKS ELEVATORS

Government Authorities make Blunders—Explanation of Congestion by Prominent Shipping Man

When the attention of Mr. J. W. Norcross, Vice-President of the Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd., on his return from New York, was directed to the article appearing in a Montreal paper last Friday to the effect that a blockade of the grain facilities of the Port of Montreal was to be expected, Mr. Norcross said that due to the fact that a considerable portion of the grain handling facilities of the port were occupied by American grain, which was not moving, that the movement of the Canadian crop would, undoubtedly, be severely handicapped.

Going somewhat into details Mr. Norcross said that the latest figures covering the stocks of grain in Montreal harbor showed that something in excess of 50 per cent of the facilities of the port were occupied by American grain held here for speculative or storage purposes, and he considered that this was inflicting a very serious injury upon the movement of the Canadian crop.

The rate of freight charged by Transportation Companies on the movement of grain depended, to a large extent, upon the despatch or time for loading and unloading which could be secured by steamers participating in the movement. This would be more plainly apparent when it was understood that steamers carrying grain had been unable to secure a demurrage clause in their charter parties, and it was, therefore, necessary for them to charge freight rates which would take care of any delays that they might experience at either loading or unloading ports. These conditions are not accepted voluntarily by the Water Transportation Companies, but on the other hand, they had been forced to accept it due to the fact that the grain shippers have stated that unless they know the ultimate cost of their grain when it reaches the ocean shipping port it is practically impossible for them to make sales.

The Lake Transportation Companies now find themselves in the precarious position of making a freight rate for the movement of grain during the latter part of October and the month of November when they will be forced to operate under conditions of which they can have no accurate knowledge, and with the possibility of the Port of Montreal being blockaded on the movement of grain. It must be expected that the Steamship Companies should be reimbursed at a rate of freight which will compensate them for these delays which are expected to occur.

The argument of the proposed suspension of the Coasting Laws is that by participation of American steamers in the movement of grain between Canadian ports that the supply of tonnage would be increased and that the freight would be lowered. This view is incorrect. Mr. Norcross raised the question why should American boats be expected to move grain between Canadian ports under this proposed suspension of the Coasting Laws when they have failed to move grain under the existing regulations, which, of course, would still apply under this proposed suspension.

Careful consideration should also be given to the fact that with the influx of an additional volume of shipping to the Canadian route a corresponding additional volume of grain would be poured into the route which would naturally increase the present congestion at the Port of Montreal, and thereby affect the despatch which steamers would secure at Montreal and Georgian Bay ports. With this additional volume of grain it is expected that the delays to steamers would materially increase and this would automatically increase the freight rate to take care of these delays.

Mr. Norcross drew attention to a despatch just received from Cleveland to the effect that the fifteen steamers operated by the Cleveland Cliffs Company of Cleveland had been withdrawn from the Canadian grain trade and further stated that this would have a decided effect on the volume of grain which would be loaded at Fort William and Port Arthur in American bottoms.

A review of the conditions surrounding the movement of the Canadian crop the time it reaches the country elevators until it is placed aboard the ocean steamers en route to an English or European market, indicates very clearly the lack of any comprehensive scheme to market a commodity which is the most important that the Dominion of Canada produces.

The problem will not be solved without the most careful and intensive study of transportation experts and hasty remedies which are suggested to meet the requirements of the immediate present, or to satisfy the desires of some particular section of the community, should be given the necessary careful consideration before they are adopted.

The legislation recently enacted under the name of "Inland Water Freight Rates Act, 1923," is a striking example of the serious blunders which may be made by Government authorities even though they have the very best of intentions, when they are advised by the so-called experts, with little, if any, knowledge of the subject under discussion.

"DIZIGOLD" A SUBSTITUTE FOR GOLD

The Swedish cheap jewelry alloy called "Dizigold" is claimed to combine the color and lustre of gold with the hardness and durability of steel, also to have great resistance to the action of acids and alkalies. It seems to be an aluminum bronze with copper in varying proportions up to 90 per cent. German silver, which contains considerable nickel as well as copper, with small amounts of aluminum and zinc.

ORIGIN OF THE RIBSTON PIPPIN

Each leading apple has its story, and one may be given, that of the Ribston Pippin. For it we have to thank a diplomatist, who was made a baronet by Charles I., Sir Henry Goodricke, who planted three "pips" sent him from Normandy, at Ribston, Yorkshire. Two came to nothing, but the third flourished From it came all the Ribston apple trees in England.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

TO THE EDITOR OF THE EXAMINER:

Sir,—The following from the celebrated Dr. Mayo ought to stop many of our amateur reformers before we all go down under an avalanche of nerve diseases. Stop interfering with Nature. Who do you think Nature is? Nothing at all?

• • •

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—Man, when most alert and most alive to his physical condition, is only 25 per cent. conscious of what his body is doing, Dr. William J. Mayo, of Rochester, Minn., told the American College of Surgeons here today.

Dr. Mayo holds that the unconscious mind controls 75 per cent. of the body's efficiency. Man, Dr. Mayo continued, is not much above the lower animals in his unconscious activities. Three quarters of the energy created by the food he eats and the air he breathe, he said, is spent without his knowing.

Power of reason thus far has replaced only a quarter of the older forms of unconscious nervous control he estimated. Certain often misunderstood ailments result from the class when the conscious mind attempts to gain control over the unconscious or—as Dr. Mayo termed them—the vegetable functions.

These combats extend all through the life of man. Dr. Mayo said. When a person says, "I've never been sick in my life,' it means that unconscious mind has almost complete control.

SHERMEN'S TROPHY DECIDED ON SATURDAY test Allowed By The acing Committee and nother Race Will Be eld to Decide Issue.

ESTERDAY'S RACE

HALIFAX, N.S., Nov. 2. — A hird race will be necessary to ecide the possession of the Inernational fisherman's trophy, hich Capt. Angus Walters, of ova Scotia schooner Bluenose elieved he had successfully deended in winning yesterday's from the United States' oner Columbia, off Halifax or. The International Race ommittee last night awarded esterday's race to the Columia on the ground that the Blueose failed to pass a buoy to the eaward in violation of the rule romulgated by the committee rlier in the week. A third race ill be sailed on Saturday.

The protest against to-day's ce was lodged by Kenneth erguson of Gloucester, Mass., airman of the American race nmittee, on behalf of the chalger. The committee went in- session on the protest immeely after the banquet given a farewell to the United tes' visitors.

At a late hour the announcehat was made that the protest th been allowed. Speakers at A banquet, including Premier chstrong of Nova Scotia, deured that the decision of an mire must be respected, "no Hter whose bows are stove."

IFAX, N.S., Nov 1.— Blue Nose Captof Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, est in Angus Walters is the fleet- Atlhooner engaged in the North thiatic fisheries. She demonstrated fis conclusively to-day when in therman's weather she defeated for c second time Columbia, of Glouster, Mass., Captain Ben Pine, reining the trophy she won from the sie two years ago and taking the ng end of the five thousand dollar rse at stake for the series.

It was a real race from start to ish and until the schooners had rned the outer mark and settled wn for the long thresh to the finline the issue was in doubt. Colbia did not fulfill the expectations her supporters in the matter of ndward work but she gave the deder all she wanted all the way. ie challenger was markedly quickin stays than her rival. Moreover caught a favorable slant of wind ar the finish line which saved her itch over the Blue Nose, but the act that she lost only one minute wenty-seven seconds on the seventh mile beat to windward from ambro gas buoy to the finish line peaks eloquently of her capabilities n a muzzler, the real test of schoonr racing.

Broke Away First.

The defender won the honors at h start and was never headed. At te first mark she had established a d of one minute forty-nine secnds .She did this as the result of a broad reach of six miles in comparatively smooth water. Blue Nose lost twenty seconds of the second leg, a close reach of six miles in a moderate sea and lost nine seconds on the third leg a run down the wind of nine miles in the same weather. She bettered this lead of one minute twenty seconds by one minute twenty-five seconds in the thirty knot whole sail breeze and head sea to the finish.

Both skippers sailed consistently good races .They got away to a start at might very well be envied by perienced yachtsmen and showed od judgment in clewing up their e topsails against the risk of losg a stick in the weather of the day. ue Nose seemed to make better ather on the whole than Columa, but against this is the impressive owing made by the challenger on e beat home.

GROVE SCHOOL LOST IN FINAL

Defeated By Firemen in Lakefield Softball Play-Off

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 2.—The Firemen extinguished the championship hopes of the Grove School last night by defeating them in the softball playoff by the score of 10-7 in nine innings The teams were as follows:

Firemen—C. Ridpath, p; J. Ridpath, c; T Webster, 1b; Bob Summers, 2b; W. Webster, 3b; L. Sabatino and Sam Sherin, short stops; M. Hampton, lf; W. Robinson, lf.

Grove School—Massie, p; Griffiths, c; Christmas, 1b; Barnard, 2b; Rainnie, 3b; Charlie James and Harry Griffith, short stops; Rowe, rf and Miall, lf; Dench, sub.

Umpires—Dr. Gibson at the plate; W. J. Morrison on bases.

Score by innings:

Firemen	03031110—10
Grove	30040000— 7

The games attracted a big crowd in spite of the pre-curling cold that suggested the stanes and besom rather than the softball and bat. The Grove boys opened up strong, and in the first few innings were apparently well on the way to another and final victory. Jack Ridpath, however, tightened up after the fourth and the Firemen's defense cut off everything that looked like a student rally. Bob Summers at second covered a lot of ground and was a big factor in the defeat of the Grove boys He "Frisched" around the inner midfield in great style and backed up Ridpath's good pitching, while the rest of the brigade contributed their share of the work in the field and at bat.

Results of Races.

Following the ball game races were run off for prizes given by the Softball League. The results were as follows:

Girls' race, open—1 May Irwin, 2 Winnifred Payne.

Boys under 16—1 L. Massie, 2 Griffith I.

Girls, ten and under—1 Phyliss Morrison, 2 F. Elmsley.

Boys, 12 and under—1 Harry Griffiths, 2 Hector Edwards.

Half mile open—1 Clayton Ridpath, 2 Jack Ridpath.

Boys 14 and under, special—1 Harry Griffiths, 2 Loosemore II.

Walking race, men 35 years and over—1 J. W. Ridpath, 2 G. J. Elmsley.

Centipede race—1 Elwood Nor[illegible]ey, John McFadden, Hector Edwards, J. Brown and W. Dever.

This race provided comedy relief to the serious matter of winning prizes in strenous competition. Nearing the tape the leading team got its legs twisted up and went down in a heap, the second "centipede" falling over them, so that the third team, the youngest in the race, finished first.

Obstacle race—1 Clayton Ridpath, 2 J. Ridpath and J Sherin, (tied).

The prizes were presented by J. J. McFadden acting for the committee which was composed of Dr. Kennedy, Dr. Gibson, J. J. McFadden, J. R. Hill and E. H. Northey.

Sixty million quarts of ice cream were consumed in the United States last year.

JACK RENAULT SEEKING TITLE

Meets Floyd Johnson in Heavyweight Bout To-Night in New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1. — Jack Renault, Canadian heavyweight, and Floyd Johnson of Des Moines, Iowa, completed training today for their 15-round bout to-morrow night a Madison Square Garden. Unusual interest has been manifested in the contest as the victor will gain a notch in the heavyweight title contending class.

Renault and Johnson both are expected to enter the ring at around 195 pounds. They were pronounced today in excellent condition.

Renault has been coming up fast in heavyweight ranks of late, his knockout victims including Fred. Fulton, George Godfrey, Tiny Jim Herman and Jo. Downey. Johnson, since his knockout by Jess Willard last Spring has bowled over Jack McAuliffe, 11., of Detroit, and several others.

Three other heavyweight fights are on the card with Johnson and Renault. Bill Tate and George Godfrey, negro boxers, will meet in the 10-round semifinal. Bill Shade of New York, will oppose Jack Burke of Pittsburgh, and Dan Bright, or England, will meet Ed. Keeley of Bridgeport, Conn., in two eight-rounders.

"VETS" TO PLAY WINTER GAMES

Soccer Club Shows Credit Balance — Team Intact For Next Season.

The G.W.V.A Football Club held a meeting last evening, the President G. R. Coleman presiding, over an enthusiastic gathering. The financial statement for the year was presented and adopted showing a balance of $30 on the year's work.

The club decided to keep the enthusiasm boiling by organizing two billiard teams, a soft ball team, and a hockey team, all of which are expected to enter the various competitions in the city during the winter period.

A banquet will be held on Tuesday evening next when the members and players will meet for a celebration on the occasion of winning the Gordon Cup and White Bros. Trophy.

All members of the executive and players of the club will attend at the Hall on Saturday afternoon at 2 pm. next when a photo will be taken of the team and the trophies won during the season.

All players of the team decided to enroll with the club for the season of 1924.

YOUNG STRIBLING AFTER THE MONEY

Father of Schoolboy Boxer Accompanies Him to New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Young Stribling, Macon Ga., school boy boxer, who rose to fistic fame as a result of his fight for the world's lightweight championship with Mike McTigue Irish-American holder of the title, arrived in New York today with his father, seeking new ring laurels.

During the day Stribling signed to meet Joe Egan Boston middleweight at Boston, November 19, or 21, in his next fight; visited Tex Rickard at Madison Square Garden and flung a challenge at McTigue for a return match.

"Pa" Stribling declared his conviction that the "boy," outfought McTigue in their turbulent match at Columbus, Ga., October 4, which was declared a draw by Referee Harry Ertle of Jersey City, N.J., and announced his son was eager to meet the Irish-American again, preferably under the decision law of New York. Inasmuch as McTigue is matched to defend his title in a match with Gene Tunney at the Garden on December 10, Stribling will have to forego his desire, for a while at least.

EDDIE COLLINS MAY GO TO WASHINGTON

Mentioned As Possibility in Prospective Trade Reported Shaping.

CHICAGO, November 1. — Eddie Collins, star second baseman of the Chicago White Sox and recently mentioned as a possibility to succeed "Kid" Gleason as manager of the club, is under consideration for the management of the Washington Americans, according to reports in baseball circles to-night.

Collins desires to become a major league manager, and with the selection of Frank Chance to pilot the White Sox next season, is said to have advised President Comiskey of his desire. While the prospective trade has not yet reached the stage of actual negotiations, the officials of the White Sox indicated to-night that a deal was shaping.

From the same source it was learned that Gleason was being considered for the managerial berth of the Boston National League Club.

JAKE SCHAEFER WON

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 — Jacob Schaefer defeated Roger Conti, of France 500 points to 342, in the seventh game of the world's 18.2 balkline billiard championship today. Schaefer went out in 24 innings. In his 17th turn at the table he clicked off 169, the highest run of the tournament.

Billy Evans Says

Papyrus Improperly Shod.

Zev Had Big Advantage.

World Series Stars.

Traynor Highly Touted

Zev demonstrated his superiority over Papyrus in a most convincing manner in the first big international turf event. However, a seemingly minor detail unquestionably was a big factor in the rout of the English horse. Papyrus was not properly shod for the heavy going. The light, uncalked shoes worn by the winner of the Epsom Derby were far from suited for the rain-soaked turf at Belmont Park.

In no sport has the value of being properly shod been proven more than in football. Gridiron coaches are more particular about the footwear of the athletes than any other part of their football equipment. The larger institutions that do not have to worry about expense, have various sets of shoes that are worn according to the weather and ground conditions. On a rain-soaked gridiron, the cleats on the shoes are just twice as long as those used on a dry field. Incidentally, they are of a different type that will provide a sure footing yet pick up the least possible amount of turf.

While not desiring to detract in any way from Zev's victory, it is a certainty that the race would have been far more interesting had Papyrus been shod with the same style shoes worn by the American horse. Uncertain footing positively made Papyrus timid and resulted in a shortened stride.

If there was one feature of the recent world series that stood out it was the infield play of both teams in which Joe Dugan and Heine Groh, rival third-sackers, shone to advantage. In almost every game these two great players pulled off a thriller or two and in several instances these plays just about decided the issue. Naturally, both players came in for much praise from the baseball experts and players attending the series.

"Have you ever seen 'Pie' Traynor of Pittsburg play third?" No fanning bee that extolled the work of Groh and Dugan was compete unless some one brought up Traynor. Then the person who asked the question would start to tell you what a wonderful players Pittsburg had in Traynor. While I have only seen Traynor play a few games, I had a chance to appreciate his great worth in those contests. It would seem, however, that Traynor is even better than I had given him credit for, because never in my baseball career have I heard the praises of a player sung more highly.

BELGIUM TIED WITH ENGLAND

Football Game at Antwerp Witnessed By Crowd of 40,000.

ANTWERP, Belgium, November 1. Canadian Press. — In the international association football match played here to-day between England and Belgium, the two teams battled to a two to two tie.

Forty thousand spectators witnessed the game and saw Belgium score after seven minutes of play. A series of even exchanges followed but ten minutes before the interval, Brown of West Ham United equalized the score. The result was therefore one goal each at the half time interval.

After the resumption of play Belgium scored from a penalty kick. They fought hard to retain their lead but five minutes before the end of the play Roberts of Preston put England on level terms.

FRISCH, BASEBALL'S GREATEST STAR

Giants' Crack Player Takes His Place With Cobb And Sisler

BY BILLY EVANS.

With Ty Cobb having passed the peak of his game and the future of George Sisler uncertain, Frankie Frisch of the New York Giants looms up as baseball's greatest all-round star.

For years Ty Cobb reigned supreme in baseball. Experts regard him as the greatest player of all time. A few years back Father Time started to get in his work and Tyrus the great began to slip a trifle. That was to be expected. Cobb, despite his greatness, is only human and couldn't go on forever.

Enter George Sisler as the logical successor for Cobb's crown. The great first sacker of the St. Louis Browns had earned the right to the title of the game's greatest star, when an affliction of the eye cut short his career. Sisler did not play a single game last season. His career as a player is still shrouded in uncertainity.

Frisch Is a Marvel.

With the veteran Cobb out of the running, and Sisler in doubt, the honor of being rated the game's greatest all-round player must be passed to Frisch.

The work of Frankie Frisch in the 1923 series between the Yankees and the Giants was nothing short of remarkable. He starred in the field and at the bat. He made a dozen seemingly impossible plays in the field, and at bat was a constant source of annoyance to the Yankee pitchers.

Frisch is a natural batsman. He is a shift hitter. In terms of baseball that means he bats either from the right or left side of the plate. Frisch prefers to bat left-handed and always does so when a right-handed pitcher opposes the Giants. Against southpaws he shifts to the right side of the plate.

Real Speed Merchant.

It is impossible for the opposition to play for Frisch. He is a place hitter, driving the balls to all fields according to the style of the pitch and the position of the opposing outfield. His style is far more graceful as a left hander than right. Batting right-handed he assumes a rather peculiar crouch position.

MR. FRISCH HIMSELF, BATTING, FIELDING AND "LOOKING PRETTY"

Unquestionably Frisch is the fastest man in the National League if not both leagues. His only rival in this respect is Archdeacon of the Chicago White Sox. There is little to choose between the two.

In the field his work is uncanny. He goes to his right or left with equal ease and his great speed enables him to cover a wide range of territory. It takes a mighty fast hit ball to elude his grasp.

Since the very first time I saw Frisch in action I marveled at his all-round ability. After watching him for six games in the recent world series, I am convinced that he is the greatest all-round performer in the game. He doesn't seem to have a single weakness.

Players of the Cobb, Sisler and Frisch type are a decided rarity.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — | New York Stock Exchang — and Curb Prices —

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2. — (United Press).—The combined Federal reserve ratio lost half a point during the week, which was caused by member banks building up their reserves. Compared with four weeks ago, the present ratio is off half a point, while for the corresponding period last year there was a loss of 1.4 points. If this relative trend of ratios continued a new post war record may be established early next week. This encouraging outlook for money and another weekly total of car loadings in excess of a million, helped speculative sentiment and prices maintained a strong tone in the early dealings to-day. Marine Preferred continued one of the leaders of the industrial group, while Atchison, Union Pacific and other standard rails scored further gains. On the other diminished prospects for the success of the Hughes' plan for solving the reparations tangle brought about a new 1923 low in sterling exchange, which slumped to $4.46; francs got down to $.0576, and lire to $.0444 3-4. Stocks in the general list gave a further demonstration of strength toward the end of the first hour in the face of another break in Texas Company, which dropped to a new low for the year at 35¼. In the face of this weakness new highs on the movement were reached by D. L. and W., the Eries and other active rails, while Continental Can., Overland Preferred, Mack, Congoleum and other industrial specialties extended their previous gains. American Can. continued to reflect the anticipation of an extra dividend of $1 a share in December. With American Can. selling close to par it would seem that bigger things are in store for the common shareholders than a $1 extra dividend on the common. Cans. surplus is piling up at a rate that will justify a substantial stock dividend, shortly after the issuance of the Government report on cotton showing condition of 47.8 per cent. as of October 15, indicating a total production this year of 10,248,000 five hundred-pound bales. Cotton quotations in the local market advanced 60 to 120 points. The report was below expectations. May advanced from a low of 2960 to 3080. December at 3100 was up 50, and March at 3027 was up 27. A short time later the following quotations were listed: December 3175, up 125; January 3125, up 127; March 3130, up 130; May 3125, up 128; July 3019, up 73.

JOLLY HALLOWE'EN OF EASTERN STARS

L.O.B.A. Lodge No. 525 Gave a Very Successful Costume Party.

The Eastern Star L.O.B.A. No. 525, held a very successful Hallowe'en party in Victoria Hall on Wednesday evening. The room was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The different costumes together with the colored lights made a most attractive scene. Some of the costumes noticed were: Canada, Gypsy Queen Sailor Lad, Queen of Hearts, Chinese Waiter, Holland Lassie, Night, Thanksgiving, Angel Costume, darkies and policeman.

Music was provided by the W. L. Orchestra, Mr. and Mrs. Donley and Mr. Gilmour proving one of the special features of the evening.

A sumptuous four course dinner was served by the men of the lodge at 11 o'clock. Several fines were imposed for not giving correct names and for talking too much at the table, and for eating with hats on.

J. Smith and Mr. Henery in Highland costume amused the gathering with comic singing and witty speeches. They also acted as judges. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Staples, Mrs. Stokes and Mr. McGregor for fancy costumes, and to Mrs. Gerrard for card playing. The remainder of the evening was spent in singing, games, and at 12:30 the party broke up.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the men in charge of the jolly event.

LIKE SOLDIER FROM WAR LL. GEORGE ON HIS TRIP

Whirlwind Tour a Unique Experience For Veteran Statesman.

LOCUST VALLEY, N.Y., Nov. 2.—"I feel like a soldier home from the wars—but very pleasant wars," laughed Lloyd George as he settled down yesterday to the comparative quiet of Long Island, after a month of American hospitality on a 6,000 mile swing around the circle in Canada and the United States.

It has been, in its way, the most strenuous time Lloyd George ever put in, for it was an unique experience to this man to whom few experiences are unique. But in spite of the arduous time, he arrived at New York as pink and untired and cheery-eyed as ever.

ANOTHER EARTHQUAKE SHOCK WAS REPORTED

MANILA, Nov. 2 (Canadian Press).—Another earthquake shock, the fourth in three days, lasting about ten seconds, was felt here at 2.43 o'clock this p.m. No damage has been reported.

HONEY BOY MINSTRELS

What is said to be the most stupendous consolidation of minstrel talent ever offered the American public, Gus Hill's Minstrels, is the attraction announced at the Grand Opera House, matinee and night, Saturday, November 3. This season's offering is decribed as a burnt cork festival of mammoth and incomparable proportions—embracing all that extravagance can possibly conceive, suggest or imagine. This splendid organization of fifty all white minstrel stars come direct from the Auditorium theater in Chicago where they tickled the risibilities of the Windy City theatergoers for a number of weeks. It was the first time in the history of the big playhouse that the sacred portals of this Home of Grand Opera was invaded by a minstrel show. The press and public of Chicago were unanimous in proclaiming this sterling organization as the greatest minstrel show of the century. Watch for the big parade at high noon.

HONEY BOY MINSTRELS

Gus Hill's Minstrels will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House Saturday matinee and night, November 3. This splendid organization, embodying all the features of advanced minstrelsy, and at the same time clinging to the charm of past traditions, will come direct from its most brilliant success at the Auditorium theater in Chicago where it kept the Windy City in waves of merriment for a number of weeks. Record breaking crowds sorely taxed the capacity of the Auditorium at every performance. Old-time ballads rendered by sweet-throated singers, skillful and graceful dancing by artists who are well versed in the art of terpsichorean pastimes and famous blackface comedians who seem capable of extracting fun from the very air, you are sure to find as outstanding features with Gus Hill's Minstrels.

There will be a gorgeous street parade at high noon.

HISTORY MIRRORED IN SCREEN ROMANCE AT ROYAL THEATRE

"The Oregon Trail" Chapter Picture, Portrays Adventures of Early Pioneers

All the romance and adventure, the historical significance and the pioneer struggles of the Oregon Trail, that fateful exploration and emigration route to the far northwest, has been reproduced on the screen, and is being exhibited locally at the Royal Theatre, where "The Oregon Trail," a chapter-picture, is being shown.

Universal seems to have solved the problem of moving pictures which are both educational and entertaining at the same time. "The Oregon Trail" reproduces events right out of history as a background for its intensely interesting and stirring romance of early American life and adventures.

Famous characters are among the people of the picture: George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Napoleon Bonaparte, James Monroe, Eli Whitney, Meriwether Lewis and William Clark enact world-famous events in the first chapter of this continued feature. And the events all are closely linked with the story—the opening up of Oregon. More historic events are promised for the second chapter, next week, with more histcrical characterse

Art Acord is starred. He plays the role of a young northwestern trapper who casts his lot in with Marcus Whitman, the missionary of the Indians who fought for America's rights in the Oregon country. Those in the cast are Louise Lorraine, Ruth Royce, Duke Lee, Jim Corey and others. The picture was directed by Edward Laemmle, who has made a name for himself with "thrills-from-history" pictures.

"SQUIBS" IS COMING BACK IN HER LATEST, 'MORD EM'LY" ROYAL MONDAY

It's joyful news we're hearing. Betty Balfour, the Mary Pickford of England, known locally as "Squibs," is coming again in her latest English production, "Mord Em'ly," which is cockney for Maude Emily. Her two previous productions to play the Royal have established her with all lovers of the better grade photoplays. Patrons who remember with pleasure "Me and My Gal," and "Squibs Wins the Calcutta Sweeps," will need no urging to get them to see this clever star's latest starring vehicle. It has lots of clever comedy, a real boxing match and it is needless a clever supporting cast. The Royal announces this production for the first half of next week.

"LOYAL LIVES" GLORIOUS TRIBUTE TO POSTMAN, FILLED WITH ACTS OF DARING, PATHOS, AND GOOD COMEDY, NOW PLAYING AT THE ROYAL

The Cast

Dan O'Brien ..... Brandon Tynan
Mary O'Brien, his wife ..... Mary Carr
Peggy, their adopted daughter ..... Faire Binney
Terrence, their son ..... William Collier, Jr.
Michael O'Hara ..... Charles Macdonald
Lizzie O'Hara ..... Blanche Craig
Tom O'Hara, their son ..... Chester Morris
Brady ..... Tom Blake
Mrs. Brady, his mother ..... Blanche Davenport
Judkins, of the Secret Service ..... John Hopkins
Terrence, as a child ..... Mickey Bennett

A glorious tribute to the man you ought to know, your letter carrier! Such is "Loyal Lives," a Whitman Bennett production distributed by Vitagraph, which was shown at the Royal Theatre last night. And it's just the kind of picture you and I like to see. Spiced with acts of daring, a remarkable railway mail train hold-up, and a post office robbery—this remarkable film is just filled with bits of pathos and comedy that make it the most human displayed here this season.

"Loyal Lives" is the story of devotion that has made possible the romance of the Mail Service. It is the story of Dan O'Brien, typical postman, who struggling on his small salary, goes smiling about his work, faithful to his duty. He is the man with a ready smile for his neighbor, a courteous word for all, a desire to help all. He adopts a girl waif left on his doorsteps. He rejects an offer of a friend to enter the mail order business, and keeps his savings to send his boy to college.

O'Brien wins the gratitude of Brady, a mail thief, whose widowed mother he had befriended. Brady gives him a $20 bill stolen from the mails to help him out when injuries prevent further service in the post office. O'Brien is arrested. Tom, son of his now wealthy friend, comes to his aid. Terrence is forced to give up college aspirations and become a railway mail clerk. A remarkable mail train robbery and post-office hold-up follow. Terrence and his father capture thieves in each instance, and are cleared of all stains. Tom wins Peggy despite objections of his parents.

Brandon Tynan, as Daniel O'Brien, makes the finest portrayal of character ever seen on the screen. His work as the letter carrier is remarkably realistic and human. Mary Carr, famed for her portrayal of the mother role, is at her best as Mary O'Brien, the suffering, loving wife. Faire Binney adds a bewitching touch of beauty as Peggy. William Collier, Jr., plays Terrence with the ability that has made him one of the premiere actors of juvenile roles. His daring work in fighting the mail bandits on the train, and the resultant struggle in a river after falling off a train, were breath-taking.

The other members of the cast were well chosen for their parts. There is no doubt that everyone who likes a thrill and who enjoys moments of great pathos will want to see this outstanding photoplay.

AT THE CAPITOL.

Little Jackie Coogan has been in Peterboro before, in stellar 'movie' roles, but he has probably never yet appeared to such advantage as in "Oliver Twist," as Oliver himself, the forlorn little poorhouse waif who is the central figure in a story of underworld life in London, made familiar to thousands of readers through several generations by the pen of the master craftsman, Charles Dickens.

Here is the little Oliver, qualing under the haughty Mr. Bumble's eye in the scene where he asks for 'more' porridge here he is in the den of Fagin, the Jewish master-thief, being taught to pick pockets, here he is in the garden of Mr. Brownlow's house sedate and quiet, and here he is making a little bow to his half-brother, as the latter passes out of his life.

It is the Oliver Twist that Dickens meant it to be, when he wrote the tale that has brought smiles and tears to young and old, and little Jackie Coogan makes an ideal boy hero. He proves in this picture his real genius as a child actor, with his bounding gravity, his brave little ways and his unfailing grasp of the situation. His delineation of Oliver is just about as masterful a piece of real artistic acting as has ever been seen in the work of child actors.

The background is the old London of Charles Dickens, with its dark streets and winding ways, its women with demure mittens and curls, its tall-hatted men moving in stately carriages through the realms of the middle world. And it is Dickens' own London, too, in the scenes from the underworld, with Fagin, the Jew, moving about in his den like a spider, weaving his web about his young victims, with the Artful Dodger giving a glimpse of fun to the darkness of the thieves. places. with Bill Sykes moving in sombre ferocity, companioned by his big white dog, Nancy is here, the tragic figure of the girl who pities the little Oliver and befriends him, and pays for the deed with her life. Like a page from the master's unforgettable volume, they live and move and have their being, on the silver sheet, old forms re-created again in a miniature world weaving in Dickens' inimitable fashion the story of their hates and loves and fears. All who have loved the stories of the great Englishman, and their name is legion, will wish to see this picture of one of his best known tales, with its admirable atmosphere its fidelity to the written page, and above all, its wonderful little child actor.

IN MEMORIAM
FOY—In loving memory of my dear brother, Pte. Ernest C. Foy who died in Mountain Sanitorium, Hamilton, November 2nd, 1922.
Deep in my heart lies a picture
Of a loved one laid to rest
In memory's frame I shall keep it.
Because he was of the best.

My lips cannot speak how I loved him
My heart cannot tell what to say,
I have lost Heaven has gained
One of the best the world contained

God took him home
It was His will Forget him not
I never will.

IN MEMORIAM
FOY—In ever loving memory of our dear son and brother, Pte. Ernest C. Foy, who died in the Mountain Sanitorium, Hamilton, November 2, 1922.
Fresh in our hearts your memory clings,
Yet our hearts are sore,
But each passing year will nearer bring
The day we shall meet once more
We little thought when we said good bye
And we parted dear Ernest that you were to die,
Grief that we feel, words cannot tell
For we could not be near to bid farewell.
—Sadly missed by Father, Mother, Brother and Sisters.

IN MEMORIAM.
In loving memory of our beloved son-in-law, Ernest C. Foy, who passed away November 2, 1922.
Brief, brief, was the dream of pleasure;
The Angel of Death had come,
And raised him from weakness and sorrow,
To his Heavenly Father's home;
Raised him to one of the mansions
Prepared by a Saviour's grace
To behold the glory shining
From the Heavenly Bridegroom's face.
Prayer shall then blend with our weeping,
God grant that in glory above,
We all may stand united
In the bonds of peace and love.
—Inserted by Mr. and Mrs. P. Card and family.

IN MEMORIAM.
FOY. — In ever loving memory of my dear husband, Ernest Charles Foy, who passed away Nov. 2nd, 1922:
By the gate I'll meet you,
'Neath the golden sky,
Meet you at the portals,
I'll meet you bye and bye,
Where no flowers wither,
And no pleasures cloy,
In that land of beauty,
In that land of joy.
—Inserted by his loving wife.

LIVING COST DOUBLE SINCE FIRST YEAR OF CENTURY IN DOMINION

Family Could Live On $9.37 a Week In 1900 But Same Food and Necessaries Now Cost $20.97 Slight Decrease Since 1920.

PRICES LOW HERE

Looking backward to 1900 and comparing the cost of living then and now it is found that a weekly family budget of staple foods, fuel lighting and rent gleaned from the average of sixty cities in Canada was 9.37 compared with $20.97 this year, an increase of over 100 per cent.

Considering the articles of food that every family must have it is found that plain white bread costs $1.02 against 55 1-2 cents for 15 pounds, are average family consumption. Evaporated apples in 1900 cost 9.9 cents a pound to-day the average price is 19.6 cents. The four pounds of sugar consumed in a week by the average family cost 21.6 cents in 1900; this year the price went up to nearly 50 cents and in September it was 45.2 cents.

An examination of the comparative prices shows that not a single article of the 29 staple foods listed by the Government has decreased in price, and in addition to foodstuffs, fuel, lighting and rent have all increased.

Fuel and lighting cost $1.50 a week in 1900 compared with $3.51 this year. Rent of a house for a week averaged $2.37 then; it is now $6.96.

This tabulation shows that considering only the staple foods and necessary shelter and heat the weekly expenses of the average family in Canada have more than doubled in 23 years. There has however, been a steady decrease in most prices since the peak in 1920. In that year the cost of food was $15.95 for a week, compared with the present cost of $10.46. Fuel and lighting have dropped from $3.92 to $3.51. In the tabulation of all living necessaries —food, heat and rent, the last named is the only item that shows an increase over 1920. The average then was $6.45 a week whereas it is now $6.96.

Good average Here

While the Government tabulation shows that prices of many commodities in Peterborough are higher than in other cities of the same population in Ontario prices on the whole compare favourably with the average for the Province. A few of the exceptions are stewing meat, the average for the province being 12.3 cents and the Peterborough price 16.4 cents, the highest in all Canada with the exception of a small city in British Columbia. The average Ontario price for sliced breakfast bacon was 40.4 cents; the average Dominion price 43.3 cents, and the Peterborough price 44.6 cents.

Rolled oats in Peterborough were 5.8 cents in September, compared with the Ontario average of 5.2 cents and the Dominion average of 5.5 cents. Only three cities in Ontario had a higher price for this commodity. Potatoes cost 50.1 cents per 15 pounds in Peterborough, compared with an average in the Province of 46.5 cents and in the Dominion of 39.9.

Peterborough had lower prices on the following commodities, compared with the Ontario average; rib roast; mutton; pork; cod steak; canned salmon; eggs; butter; oleomargarine; cheese; flour; rice; tomatoes; in cans; canned peas; prunes; raisins; currants; canned peaches; marmalade; syrup; sugar; tea; cocoa; salt; pepper; cream of tartar; laundry starch; soap; anthracite coal; bituminous; hard wood in stove lengths soft wood long or cut; mill wood, and coal oil. Rents are also lower here compared with the Ontario average but are higher than the Dominion average. A six-roomed house with incomplete modern conveniences or none is given at $16 to $25 a month in Peterboro' whereas the Canada average is $12.29

A Midnight Session of German Cabinet

BERLIN, Nov. 3.—(Canadian Press).—New York's appraisal of the mark on the basis of one and two-third trillion to the dollar moved Chancellor Stresemann to convoke a midnight session of his rump Cabinet, at which several emergency ordinances were proclaimed for the purpose of forestalling a similar collapse of the mark in Berlin.

The Government now will permit payments to be made in foreign currencies, although it is prohibited to specify gold exchange as the sole medium of payment.

POWERS VESTED IN LORD MAYOR OF LONDON CITY

Sir Louis Newton Will Inherit the Almost Autocratic Rights of His 832 Predecessors.

A POMPOUS OFFICE

(Special Despatch to the Examiner)

LONDON, Nov. 3.—On November 9th Sir Louis Newton, the eight hundred and fortieth Lord Mayor of London will be installed into office with all the pomp and circumstance associated for centuries with Lord Mayor's Day.

Sir Louis will, on his appointment to office, inherit the rights and almost autocratic powers of 839 predecessors who have ranged over almost every imaginable rank and station in life. But although these 839 Lord Mayors date only from the time of the Norman Conquest, the office really goes further back, to the reign of Alfred the Great, who, in A.D. 886, appoints his son, Ethelred, to be Port Reeve and Chief Magistrate and Ealdorman (or Alderman) of London. The title "Port Reeve" was subsequently changed to the Norman equivalent of Bailli, which Richard the First in turn anglicised into Mayor.

But it was not until the reign of John that the office of Lord Mayor as it is today, was regularly confirmed, with the authority to elect a new "Chief Alderman" once a year.

His Powers.

To the many people who hear of the Lord Mayor on his appointment and retirement only, it may be interesting to learn that the Chief Alderman of the City is really a very important personage. His residence is the Mansion House, one of the handsomest houses in London — standing in the Poultry, and facing the Royal Exchange. The Mansion House has been the official residence of the Lord Mayor since 1753, the first tenant being Sir Crisp Gascoigne.

The newly-elected Lord Mayor will take oath that he will "well and lawfully serve the King's Majesty in the office of Mayor," and this undertaking provides him with powers that in olden days, proclaimed him in real truth a Monarch of the City. Without his permission, no troops may pass through the City, and even then, fixed bayonets must not be carried, and the troops are not allowed to bear flying colors. Another right (which is, however, more conventional than otherwise) is that of visiting the Tower of London at any time of the day or night, and for this purpose the sentries' pass-word is brought to him daily.

But perhaps the most important of the powers that Sir Louis will inherit is the authority to close the Stock Exchange, if the occasion arose. This right dates back to the reign of Edward the First, when a law, which has never been repeated, and bearing the King's seal, proclaimed that no broker can do any business without having a duly signed and sealed license from the Lord Mayor.

Sir Louis Newton's temporary rank and precedence will be that of an Earl, and he will be addressed as "My Lord" and his wife as "My Lady." He has the privilege of seeking audience with the King at any time.

His Salary.

The Lord Mayor's salary for the

WEDDING TOOK PLACE IN THE CHAPEL ROYAL

Crown Prince of Sweden and Lady Louise Mountbatten Married Today.

A QUIET WEDDING

LONDON, November 3. Canadian Press. — Before the ancient altar of the intimate little chapel royal in St. James Palace where many kings and queens have been wedded since the days of Hnry VIII., the Crown Prince Gustave Adolph of Sweden, took as his second bride this afternoon Lady Louise Mountbatten.

There was none of the splendor or grandeur about the ceremony such as the weddings of royalty in the vast Westminster Abbey have known. It was a simple as could be considering the high state of the bridegroom and the bride, and the presence of so many royal social witnesses, ambassadors, and titled aristocrats. Fewer than 300 persons were able to find seats within the narrow confines of the chapel.

Prince Gustave wore the uniform of a general of the Swedish army. His brother, Prince Wilhelm, in naval uniform, acted as best man.

The bride, wearing a gown made of Indian silver gauze, which had been given her by her uncle, the Grand Duke of Hesse, was accompanied to the altar by her brother, Lord Louis Mountbatten.

The hymn, "Lead us, Heavenly Father," was sung by the choir. It was followed by the 67th Psalm.—"God be Merciful unto Us."

Acting as bridesmaids were the four princesses of the Royal House in Greece, Margaret, Theodore, Cecilla and Sophia, nieces of the bride. The bride's train was borne by her little nephew and niece, the Earl of Medina, and Lady Tatiania Mountbatten, children of the Marquis of Milford Haven, who is Lady Louise's brother.

The first part of the marriage ceremony was conducted by the Archbishop of Canterbury, the second part by the Bishop of London, who is Dean of the Chapel Royal.

At either side of the bride and bride groom sat the reigning Sovereigns of Sweden and Great Britain.

Members of both Royal Houses occupied seats nearby. Behind them were the bridesmaids, and distributed through the rest of the chapel were notables of Great Britain and Sweden and of many other countries.

BALDWIN SPEECH MAY START FIGHT

Situation In England Is Shaping Up For General Election.

LONDON, Nov. 3. — (Canadian Press).—One effect of Prime Minister Baldwin's speech at Manchester has been to strengthen the conviction that a general election is inevitable within a comparatively short time. Some observers see the significance in the phrase the Premier used when, after asserting that the problem of unemployment necessitated recourse to radical and drastic measures, he said he proposed to tax manufactured goods, especially those imports which caused the greatest amount of unemployment, and then added, "Let others say how they would set out to achieve the end we all have in view, and then let the country decide."

Neville Chamberlain, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, in a speech at Cardiff, Wales, last evening, referred pointedly to the need of an election on the tariff question, and intimated no time would be lost in appointing a committee to construct the framework of a general tariff on manufactured goods.

There is still a general expectation that an election will be held in January or, at the latest, in February.

MISS MOZETTE MYERS GAVE DEMONSTRATION

This evening, from seven o'clock until store closing time, every half-hour, Miss Mozetta Myers, who is at present at the Turnbull store giving demonstrations of Boncilla Beautifier methods, will wind up her week's work. The demonstration includes an exposition of the proper methods of applying the various Boncilla preparations, accompanied by a talk on the general care of the skin. Miss Myers, who demonstrated the preparations at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto, and recently, at the Robert Simpson establishment in that city, is on her way to Ottawa and Montreal, thence to New York.

Gun Boats Engaged in Protecting Ports

SHANGHAI, November 3 (United Press). — British, American and Japanese gunboats are now engaged in protecting foreign shipping on the Yangtse River following the breakdown.... of the Chinese Navy, due to the Sun Yat Sen rebellion.

The upper Yangtse has been closed to foreign commerce because of the fighting in the Province of Sze-Chuan, the richest centre of China's wealth.

Sun Yat Sen's purpose in disturbing this region is to try to demonstrate that the new Government of President Tsao-Kun is not recognised beyond a limited radium from Pekin.

REQUESTS LEASE RIVERSIDE PARK

Would Make Ground Improvements This Fall if Property Was Leased Now for 1924

Secretary F. E. Convery of the Peterboro Baseball Association, in a communication asked the City Council last night that the association be now leased Riverside Park for 1924, as they wished to make improvements which should be done this fall.

Ald. Maher thought this matter ought to go to the Parks Committee as this year's council should not tie the hands of next year's body. Besides, he said, the other sports associations might like to have some? thing to say regarding leasing the park, and action by council now would not give them a look in.

Ald. Phelan replied that the improvement in mind is digging up the infield of the ball diamond and replacing the present surface with loam. This must be done now, if at all, for next year's games, as water lies in the park too late in the spring to undertake such work then.

Ald. Phelan here contended that whoever leased the park should have a three or four years' lease, for no association can make needed improvements under a one year's rental.

Guelph, he said, raised $25,000 for their ball park, by bylaw, and its lease holds good as long as the debentures live. They work on a percentage basis.

The aplication went to the Parks Committee, and will not likely be dealt with by this year's council.

CHIEF CONSTABLE ON POLICE WAGES

Will Sit Pat For The Present and Wait Action

Chief Constable S. Newhall is sitting pat between the adamant Police Commission and the appropriation-cutting City Council, he says. In fact he declares there is nothing else for him to do.

Asked whether it was true that credit had been refused his men in stores, following the announcement that no money would be available for wages after November 15, the Chief said he had heard something about it, but did not pay any attention to it.

BLIND MAN ON MARKET LENDS TOUCH PATHOS

A Busy Market With Lots of Vaudeville For Buyers and Sellers

RAPID HAIR GROWER

The merry music of the blind man and the bright sunshine of the clear autumn morning made the farmers' market a pleasant gathering place to-day. The crowd that throngs the open section gathered in groups about the entertainers who formed this morning's attractions on the open square. Here a versatile pair of gentlemen pulled teeth and removed corns and gave away prize packages to help along the sale of razors. Johnny, a ventriloquist doll, whose plastorpate had sprouted a bushy fringe, probably by the use of the hair tonic that one of the pair was advertising, entertained his hearers with a line of wide-eyed lip. An Indian medicine man and the two auctioneers formed centres for other gatherings.

Eggs were practically non-obtainable in the basket section this morning. The contents of the few baskets on view were selling for fifty cents a dozen. Butter also was very scarce, asking forty cents a pound. Chickens were down to the zero mark of twenty cents a pound on some of the tables this morning, the same price that was asked for year-old hens. Chickens earlier in the morning brought up to 28 cents a pound. Ducks were plentiful, selling for 28 and 30 cents a pound, geese ranged in price from 25 to 30 cents, and a lone turkey, an eleven-pounder, opened the turkey season this year at the low mark of 35 cents a pound.

Downstairs, potatoes were selling at several carts, the majority going for $1.50 a bag, with a few dealers asking $1.60. Some of the last of the tomatoes were still visible, the red 'love apples' selling at 45 and 65 cents, in large and small baskets, the green tomatoes going for 60 cents.

Parsnips and carrots were 40 cents a peck; big Savoy cabbages 10 cents a head, round green vegetable marrows 20 cents apiece.

Many of the dealers were selling meat this morning. Lamb was 20 and 25 cents a pound by the quarter, with one man selling the hind quarter at 24 cents a pound and pork was 16 and 18 cents a pound. Little shoats on the hoof were $7 and $8 a pair.

Apples were plentiful. Spies were 65 and 75 cents a peck and $6 a barrel, Greenings 40 cents a peck, $3.50 a barrel, and Baldwins 45 cents a peck.

One man had Brussels sprouts this morning, at two qaurts for fifteen cents. Honey, in the dark-colored variety, was 10 cents a pound, the lighter commodity selling for 12 1-2 cents a pound.

One dealer in apples had an innovation in the form of price tags on his baskets, obviating the necessity, which appears to hamper the activities of some of the vendors, of having to answer price enquiries while trying to dole out silver change or attend to the wants of purchasers.

A GOOD LECTURE AT KNOX CHURCH

Illustrated Views Showing Scenes in European Countries.

There was a good audience at Knox Presbyterian church auditorium last evening to hear Miss Verda Watt give her illustrated lecture describing her trip to European countries, during the time that she spent in England recently, as one of the teachers on the interchange system operated between England and the Dominions.

Miss Watt's address was interesting and included a number of pretty slides, showing views of the larger institutions, the scenes and the customs of life in England, Ireland, Scotland, France, Belgium and Italy, accompanied by a historical talk of the various countries.

A brief, enjoyable musical programme followed the lecture. H. J. McCannon, representing the church Sunday school, in whose aid the lecture was given, ocupied the chair. The Misses Benson gave a piano duet, Miss May Pollock played an instrumental selection, and vocal solos were rendered by the Misses Ethel Kennedy, Ina Allen and Isabel Black.

At the conclusion of the program a hearty vote of thanks to the speaker and assisting talent was voiced by Rev. M. C. Mackinnon.

HEADS AND OFFICIALS GENERAL ELECTRIC CO. EXPECTED HERE SOON

C.G.E. President's Letter Says They Will No Doubt Look Over The Peterboro Plant With a View to Spending Considerable Money.

ARRANGE A DINNER

Two letters read to the City Council last night should prove of considerable interest to Peterboro citizens, one directly referring to a visit to this city of C.G.E. and General Electric officials, the other, while bearing on the same subject, hinting at an expenditure of considerable money on the local C.G.E. plant for expansion when transfer of control of the C.G.E. to the American Co., is completed.

The first communication came from G. N. Gordon, M.P., for West Peterborough, enclosing a letter from A. E. Dyment, president of the C.G.E., in answer to his invitation to the directors of the General Electric Co., of the U. S., and the Canadian General Electric Co., also heads of the several departments of these big concerns, when they visit Peterborough.

Dine the Visitors.

Mr. Gordon, learning that a large body of American officials, and others, would likely be heer some time in the near future, said he took the liberty of writing Mr. Dyment, saying he would arrange for a dinner in this city for him and officials of both companies, as well as members of the City Council, and representative citizens, much along the same line of that tendered Sir Henry Thornton of the C. N. R.

Mr. Gordon, in his advice to council, said he was prepared to meet all costs of the functi if Council's Reception Committee and the aldermen would co-operate with him to make the occasion a success.

Expansion Contemplated.

The second letter was President Dyment's reply to Mr. Gordon, in which he said he was not sure when this contemplated visit will be, and he doubted very much if the leading officials of the General Electric would be over in Canada much before the end of December, when he hoped the transaction between the two companies will have been completed.

"Then they will, no doubt, want to look over the plants here with a view to spending considerable money."

"But I can assure you," Mr. Dyment concluded, "they will appreciate your thoughfulness as I do, and I will be glad to advise you when the time comes."

These communications were sent to the Council's Reception Committee.

FRENCH AND JAP BONDS LOWERED

As a Result of Developments Regarding Reparations Conference.

LONDON, Nov. 3. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—Various political considerations are having a somewhat damping effect on stock exchange operations.

There is much speculation as to how Great Britain's invitation to the United States to participate in the solution of the reparations issue will pan out, for at present it is by no means certain that the United States will consent to take part in a gathering whose radius of action has been imited in the manner suggested by Premier Poincare of France.

As a result of the developments regarding a new reparations conference French bonds have given way. Japanese bonds are also lower, while Austrians have risen.

Presbyttrian Church Is Alive in the West.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 3. — (Canadian Press).—The Presbyterian Church is very much alive in Western Canada, Rev. W. F. McConnell, Dominion organizer for the Presbyterian Church Association, declared just before his departure for the east. He expressed appreciation of the reception in the West of his message urging the continuance of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

That the Church was very much alive, Mr. McConnell said, was borne out by the fact that he had been invited to speak in the leading churches throughout Alberta and British Columbia.

Bonar Law Cremated Golders Green Today

LONDON, November 3 (United Press). — On this the anniversary of the burial of his wife in 1909, the body of Andrew Bonar Law, former Premier, was cremated at Golder's Green Crematorium.

The ceremony which preceded the cremation was brief, and only relatives and intimate friends were present.

Afterward the ashes were taken back to Bonar Law's little home in Onslow Square, there to lie until Monday, when, with pomp and ceremonies, they will be placed in Westminster Abbey among the tombs of the Kings and great men of the Empire.

TRYING REACH AN ACCORD TO HELP MEETING

Premier Poincare Is Still Standing Firm on Conference Issue.

MEETING TODAY

PARIS, Nov. 3.—(United Press) —We are trying to reach an accord upon the terms of the invitation to be extended to the United States, Premier Poincare said to-day after a conference with the British Ambassador. Poincare also conferred with the American Ambassador, Myron T. Herrick, but the Premier asserted this this was merely a social call.

No official word has come regarding the attitude of Washington following Poincares speech at Nevers in which he announced France's refusal to change her policy toward Germany but Poincare reiterated to day that his stipulations in that address would merely limit the work of the experts so as to keep it within the bounds of the Versailles Treaty.

Another caller on M. Poincare this morning was Lord Crewe who talked with the Premier regarding the conditions under which the proposed committee of experts will undertake its investigations into the reparations situation. The point discussed is supposed to have been the Premier's desire to limit the examination to Germany's capacity to pay at the present time or in the immediate future.

A high authority of the French foreign office said to-day that M. Poincare was clinging to his determination to oppose the taking up of the eventual capacity of Germany to pay.

CITY FATHERS CLEAN SLATE ALL BUSINESS

Appoint Committee For Action in Regard To Selection of Candidate For Proposed Contest

BILLIARD LICENSES

The City Council had but a slim business slate to work from last night when they met in regular session in place of the first Monday in the month as customary.

The International Beauty Contest Clubs invitation that Council arrange in some way for sending a local beauty to compete for the honor of being distinguished as Miss "Ontario' with a chance of eventual selection as the most beautiful girl in North America, went to a committee composed of his worship the Mayor and Finance Chairman Phelan.

This was Ald. McIntyre and Stocker's motion, which gave the committee of two power to act.

In the above connection Manager J. C. Kennedy of the Capitol Theatre wrote, placing his movie house at the city's disposal at any time for selection of Peterborough's beauty candidate.

The provincial contest for Ontario's feminine representative will be held in the Royal Coliseum, Toronto December 7 and 8.

Build Culvert

Ald. Morrison rose to the question of much needed surface draining facilities at the head of Sherbrooke street, which he had, he said, pressed for on more than one occasion. The Suburban Roads Commission are making extensive road improvements along the Monaghan Road and over the hill from Sherbrooke street, and he thought the time opportune to have this work done.

Ald. Stocker, Works Board Chairman, pointed out that the board's appropriation was near exhaustion and he would like to award an over draught; still, he added, were this drainage absolutely necessary, it had better be done this fall.

Ald. Morrison assured Ald. Stocker that the work was a necessity as the locality is a very wet spot at times through surface water running down hill with no culvert to direct its course.

On motion by Ald. Morrison and Maher the Board of Works was authorized to build a culvert both

A NEW PROGRAM FOR THE GRAND

By special arrangement with th National Vaudeville Exchange the Grand Opera House will be showing five first-class acts of vaudeville, and by special arrangement with the United Artists Corporation, they will also be showing pictures that have not been shown in Peterborough before, and, in many cases, that have not been shown in Canada.

Our first picture will be Charles Ray in "The Girl I Loved." This is one of Charles Ray's latest pictures, along with our five vaudeville acts.

The Grand Opera House is also going to feature their six-piece orchestra along with this new policy.

CITY TAXES WILL BE TAKEN AT THE BANK OF MONTREAL, "SIMCOE STREET ENTRANCE," ON FRIDAY, SATURDAY AND MONDAY, DURING BANKING HOURS ONLY. 4d-106-4208.

IN SUNNY CALIFORNIA.

In sunny California this winter hundreds of Canadians will again revel in the beauty of the orange groves, the pepper trees and palms in that land of perpetual summer.

The attractions of California are manifold. It is recognized as one of the greatest out-door playgrounds in the world with an unsurpassed winter climate. The glory of its mountain scenery is indescribable. Deep-sea fishing, motoring, golf and every other out-door recreation may be indulged in.

Canadian National Railways offer special fares and wide variety of routes, going and returning either through Canada or United States. Apply for particulars to your nearest agent.

THEY STOLE THE RAILROAD

AMIENS, France—Something new in the way of thefts is confronting authorities here. A supplementary railroad built during the war to carry supplies for troops in this vicinity has been stolen. Piece by piece, the rails have been carried away.

MATTING.

BRITAIN WILL OFFER CREDIT ON PURCHASES

To Stimulate Orders From Dominions For Equipment on Projects Otherwise Delayed.

H. P. GRAHAM'S PLEA

LONDON, Nov. 2. — (Special cable to the Canadian Press by George Hambleton, Staff Correspondent).—The British Government intends to bring down legislation at the coming session of Parliament to make effective its offer of credit for development work in the Dominions and Crown Colonies.

This was intimated at the Economic Conference yesterday afternoon when a committee report on the scheme was adopted. Some additional details were given. The credit is to be in the form of a loan towards interest charges on money raised for capital expenditure on such undertakings as power, light, water drainage and so forth whether publicly or privately controlled. Assistance would be in respect of expenditure on orders placed in Great Britain and in anticipation of work which otherwise would not be undertaken for some years.

The Plan of Loan.

The maximum loan will be three-quarters of the interest charges for a period of five years, and during this period the loan itself bears no interest. In order to qualify, a scheme must be accepted by the Imperial Government within the next three years. Priority will be given schemes involving the earliest placing of orders.

The credit scheme had the approval of the committee which considered it, and it received warm commendation generally. The objection has been raised to it that the provision requiring orders to be placed in Great Britain may act as a detriment.

During the subsequent proceedings Hon. George P. Graham pressed the case of Canadian lumbermen. These lumbermen, he said, were anxious for a wider market in Great Britain and he urged that this fact be given earnest consideration.

Empire's Timber.

The conference had under discussion a resolution which was adopted, urging the various governments of the Empire to give favorable consideration to the resolutions passed by the Empire Forestry Conference held in Canada in July last. These among other things urged the governments of the Empire to adopt a definite forestry policy so that the timber needs of the Empire should be supplied from within the Empire. On behalf of Canada it was pointed out that only in certain provinces were the natural resources under the jurisdiction of the Federal Government, but the recommendations would be submitted to the competent authorities.

The conference adopted a revised scheme of Dominion contributions to the Imperial institue. Canada's share will be £2,000 per annum, which is a considerable saving from the previous figure.

Both the Imperial and the Economic Conferences plan to close on Friday next.

A pessimist is a real skinny man remembering last winter.

Progress of Agriculture in Quebec in Ten Years Indicated By Federal Report — Farmers Increase Holdings.

CAN BUY LAND.

QUEBEC, Nov. 3. — (Canadian Press). — That agriculture in the Province of Quebec had progressed in the decade covered by the Federal agricultural statistics issued on Thursday to the press and that the seeming decrease in the number of farms, which was recorded in the bulletin as compared with 1911, was explained by the fact that farmers, having progressed, had enlarged their holdings by taking over other farms with the summary of a statement made yesterday morning by Hon. J. C. Caron, analyzing the report.

"The latest Federal statistics issued Thursday by Ottawa show that from 1911 to 1921 the value of the farms in the Province of Quebec has increased from $787,754,494 to $.096,785,970, an increase of $309,032,406, or nearly 40 per cent.," stated Hon. Mr. Caron.

"The area of land in cultivation, which was of 8,162,087 acres in 1911, has now reached 9,084,630, which is an increase of 902,563 acres.

"The area sown in grain was of 5,480,673 acres in 1911, and, according to the figures available, now reached 5,984,164, which is an increase of 483,491 in that decade.

"The federal statistical bulletin also states that the number of farms of one acre and more reaches 12,082 less than in 1911.

"The purchase of new farms during the war by farmers, who already owned some, and who used their revenues to extend their domain, which were too small, explains this apparent decrease.

"The land tenants are also alleged to have decreased in number. They numbered 8,895 in 1911 and in 1921 they were only 4,537. This indicates that quite a number have become the owners of the farms which they had only leased."

WINDSOR THUGS CROSSED FERRY

One Boat Ahead of Police After Robbing Paymaster of $6,000.

WINDSOR, Ont. Nov. 3.—The four armed thugs who held up the pay car of the Dominion Forge and Stamping Company, Ford, yesterday morning at Walkerville, compelling paymaster E. F. Heiden and accountant L. A. Renaud to hand over paymaster E. F. Heiden and between five and six thousand dollars yesterday afternoon were traced to Hamtramack, Mich., by Chief Constable James Smith, of Walkerville and Detroit detectives.

Using a car that was stolen from Windsor, the bandits abandoned this car on Cadillac street where another automobile was awaiting. In this they crossed to Detroit by the Walkerville Ferry, just one boat ahead of the police.

That the hold-up was the work of thugs who blew the safe of the Imperial Oil Company, Ford last week is believed by the police.

Good descriptions of the thieves were furnished the police by Heiden and their arrest within 24-hours is expected, Chief Smith said.

THREE MEN LOST LIVES IN NORTH

Canoe Upset and Hunters Were Thrown Out Into Stormy Waters of Lake.

BRACEBRIDGE, Nov. 3.—Charles Anderson his uncle, Thomas Anderson and John Bull all of Toronto were drowned at Hollow Lake, 30 miles east of this town, on Wednesday, October 31st.

Apparently the three men were canoeing across the lake, preparing their camp for the hunting season. On the day of the voyage a snow storm was raging and the lake was rough. The hats and paddles of the unfortunate men have been found, and searchers are out grappling for the bodies.

USE INSULIN HERE SHOWS INCREASE

TORONTO, November 3. — Canadian Press. — An enormous increase in the amount of insulin distributed free to Ontario patients is indicated in the returns made to the Provincial Department of Health, from seven of the fifteen distributing centres. October 31 closed the second month of Hon. Dr. Godfrey's free distribution, and the indications are that the number of units so given away by the department will have jumped over September's total by more than 33 per cent., with corresponding increases in the cost of distribution and the number of patients served.

Windsor distributed more than double the number of units and had twice as many patients as in the first month, as did Fort William. Peterborough showed almost 10 per cent. increase, and Owen Sound is 1100 units ahead of last month.

Cabinet Decides Against Eskimos

OTTAWA, November 3. Canadian Press. — After considering petitions asking for the postponement of the execution of the death sentence in the case of the two Eskimos at Herschell Island, the Cabinet yesterday reaffirmed its decision not to interfere with the due course of the law.

The hanging iss et to take place on Herschell Island on December 7th.

IRISH GREETED LLOYD GEORGE

Demonstration Outside the Metropolitan Opera House — Fracas With Police.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Eight persons were arrested near the Metropolitan Opera House, where Lloyd George, war premier of Great Britain, was speaking last night, when Irish Republican agitators attempted to hold a mass meeting on the street. Patrolman's caps were knocked from their heads by placards the agitators were carrying.

Police fought a hand-to-hand battle with a large group that gathered on 40th Street, near Broadway. Many carried signs bearing the picture of Eamon De Valera, while others were inscribed with phrases uncomplimentary to the British visitor.

RECOVER BODY OF DREDGE WATCHMAN

Family of Five Children Still in Scotland—Drowning at Goderich.

GODERICH, Ont., November 3 (Canadian Press). — Complete mystery surrounds the death of Henry Stewart, night watchman on the Government dredge at Goderich Harbour.

When the day workmen on the dredge went to work yesterday morning there was no sign of Stewart whatsoever.

Dragging operations were begun almost immediately around the dredge, which lies during the night at the north-east corner of the harbour. The body was recovered about ten o'clock.

Stewart, who was thirty years of age, is survived by his wife and five children, all of whom are still in Scotland. He was employed on the dredge here last year also.

This is the third drowning fatality that has occurred at Goderich this year. Mystery surrounded the actual drowning in all three cases, though the bodies in each instance were subsequently recovered.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN WHITE.

(Special to The Examiner.)

CAVANVILLE, November 3. — Mrs. John White, aged 74, died of pneumonia at her home here last night at nine o'clock.

She was born in the township of Cartwright, and lived for many years in Cavanville.

Mrs. White is survived by her husband, five daughters and one son, Mrs. Herb. Lough, Mrs. David Milne, Mrs. W. Sterling of Toronto, Mrs. Wm. Armstrong of Manvers, Mrs. J. Roddy of Frazerville, and David White of Cavan.

Negotiate Further As to Toronto's Properties.

MONTREAL, November 3 (Canadian Press). — Passage by the Toronto City Council yesterday of suburban agreement minus the subway clause elicited from Gerald Ruel, vice-president and general counsel of the Canadian National Railways, the suggestion that Toronto appoint a sub-committee of the Council to negotiate further with regard to Toronto Junction and the West Toronto properties upon which an agreement has not been reached.

Mr. Ruel says the company does not consider the purchase deal off, and is anxious that a settlement in the best interests of the people of Toronto be arrived at.

Attains Man's Fastest Speed

MITCHELL FIELD, N.Y., Nov. 3. — The fastest speed ever attained by man was made yesterday by Lieut. H. J. Brow, U.S. Navy aviator, who flew over a 3-kilometer straightaway course four times at an average speed of 259.15 miles an hour. On one leg of the course he travelled at the phenomenal rate of 265.21 miles an hour.

Brow's record was attained in competition with Lieut. A. J. Williams, winner of the Pulitzer Race.

Brow went up first and set a pace of 257.42 miles an hour, and Williams was soon in the air. The latter made 258.61 miles an hour.

Brow ascended again and made the record.

Farmer Murders Wife, And Ends Own Life With Razor

PRESCOTT, November 3 (Canadian Press). — Harry Puffer, aged forty years, a farmer, residing three miles south of Heuvelton, when in a fit of insanity, brutally murdered his wife, Ethel Risley Puffer, forty years of age, yesterday, and then committed suicide by hanging himself to the rafters of his barn, according to Provincial Police here, who investigated.

The only witness to the crime was a little five-year-old son, who was in the room when the deed was committed.

According to information gleaned from the little boy, Puffer had struck his wife a terrific blow on the right temple with a pitchfork, and then completed his ghastly crime by slashing her throat with a razor, severing the jugular vein.

Four children survive—Hazel, 18, Pearl 15, Clarence 7, and the little 5-year-old son.

MONTREAL HEARS OF TOURIST LURE

Success of Vancouver and California Held Up As Example.

MONTREAL, Nov. 3.—Hints on the organization needed to bring tourists to the province of Quebec were given here yesterday in an address to the Quebec Tourist Association by Alderman F. Crone, of Vancouver .Other speakers included Mayor Martin of this city and Mayor Jos. Samson of Quebec City.

Illustrating his address by a general statement as to what had been done in California, Mr. Crone said that the policy adopted in Vancouver had been to raise subscriptions among business men, while the city council gave an amount equal to the total of the subscriptions. By this means there would be available for publicity work next year a sum of $140,000. Vancouver was advertising in the daily newspapers between that city and Winnipeg, telling the people of the prairie provinces to come to the coast for the winter. The result was that people were trekking in by thousands and it was impossible to rent a furnished house in Vancouver after Nov. 1.

In April and May the Vancouver Tourist Bureau commenced advertising in California and 15,000 automobiles had come in from that state this year.

Mayor Martin advocated the building of roads around the lakes by the provincial government with a view to encouraging tourist traffic.

Mayor Samson said that probably 75 per cent. of the people of his city had never visited Levis and ninety per cent. had never visited the Isle of Orleans, illustrating that people did not realize the beauties around them.

THE COURT WHITE LILY HELD REGULAR MEETING

The Juvenile Branch of Court White Lily, A.O.F., held their regular meeting recently, when 19 new members were initiated into the order. After the business session a programe was rendered, with Bro. Arthur Bacon in the chair.

Bro. Turner of Ottawa was present and presented Bro. William Matthews with a handsome gold watch for securing 25 new members within the year. Bro. Tom Hendry presented Secretary Godfrey Matthews with a gold watch-fob and pen from the High Court, and pipe from the brothers of Court Stanley, as a token of appreciation of his work with the Juveniles.

The programe inclued vocal solos by the Misses I. Black, Walker, A. Shurety, J. Patterson, a violin helection by Bro. George Record, pianoforte solos by the Misses E. Cook and E. Darwin and Bro. Harold McFarlane, and a reading by Miss Etta Cook, entitled "When Pa is Sick."

HON. A. K. M'LEAN GETS PRESIDENCY

OTTAWA, November 3. — Canadian Press. — Hon. Alexander K. MacLean, senior member for Halifax, in the House of Commons, former Attorney General of Nova Scotia, acting Minister of Finance in the Union Government, and chairman of the Sub-Committee of the Privy Council on Reconstruction and Development in 1918, was yesterday appointed by the Cabinet to the Presidency of the Exchequer Court of Canada, to succeed the late Sir Walter Cassels.

Right Hon. W. S. Fielding, acting Prime Minister, announced last night that the bi-election to fill the vacancy in the House of Commons caused by Mr. MacLean's appointment, would be held on December 5, and the nominations therefor on November 21st. Hon. Mr. MacLean's salary will be $10,000 a year.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET BRISKER

Drop in Freight Rates Has Indirectly Improved General Business.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 3.—The Winnipeg grain market has assumed a much healthier tone during the past week and merchandising business is undoubtedly increasing daily, it is stated. This enlarging trade has been made possible by the declining lake freights which has been in evidence since an agreement was reached between the Board of Grain Commissioners and United States vessel owners, the latter part of last week, this agreement being also accepted by the shipping branch of the Winnipeg grain trade last Monday.

With the coming of the United States vessels to the head of the lakes to carry Canadian grain to United Statts ports, rates immediately commenced to show an easier tendency ,and now have reached reasonable figures, being nearly cut in half from the highest prices paid previous to the agreement being reached. To-day the rate to Buffalo was quoted at around 3 1-2 cents a bushel, while some tonnage was secured yesterday at 3 1-4 cents. The rate in Bay ports has also come down very materially, quotations today being from 3½ to 4 cents, while the high rate paid was six cents.

Now that the lake freight rates are down to or near rock bottom, much more interest is being shown by United States seaboard and United States' millers, and daily increasing activity and trade volume is anticipated from now to the close of navigation early in December.

CANADIAN WON FROM AMERICAN

Jack Renault, Heavyweight, Knocked Out Floyd Johnson of Iowa In 15 Round Bout.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Nov. 3. — (Canadian Press.) — Jack Renault, Canadian heavyweight, knocked out Floyd Johnson of Iowa, in a final round of a 15 round bout in Madison Square Gardens last night.

"Game," Johnson went crashing to the floor three times in that final frame before Referee Louis Magnolia stopped the one-sided affair just as Johnson's seconds leaped into the ring to save their unfortunate, but "game" fighter from further punishment.

Johnson had very little chance against the Canadian after the second round, although occasionally he rallied and tried to take play away from Renault.

The latter did as he pleased with Johnson as the bout progressed. He left-handed Floyd foolish and kept pegging right hand uppercuts to Johnson's chin, which had the Iowan reeling allover the ring. However, it was not until the last inning that Renault succeeded in bringing Floyd down.

When Renault put on the finishing punches Johnson was punch drunk, and it seemed an easy matter to topple him over.

Johnson weighed 196 pounds, while Renault scaled 196 1-2. Twice during the bout Renault came close to being hurled out of the ring. Once in the third and again in the seventh Renault came near pulling a Dempsey, but in Renault's case they came more as shoves than blows.

George Godfrey, negro heavyweight, of Philadelphia, knocked out Bill Tate, of Chicago, a negro, in the seventh round of a 10 round match, the semi-final. Godfrey weighed 225 1-2 and Tate 233 3-4.

Ed. Keeley of Bridgeport, 194 pounds, got a decision over Dan Bright of England, 203 3-4, in the preliminary of the evening. Billy Shad, of California, 175 1-2 pounds, outgamed Jack Burke, of Pittsburg, 176 1-2.

MELBOURNE'S POLICE STRIKERS NUMBER 650

Day Force, Including the Traffic Squad, Affected By Resentment Over the Retention of "Spying" Officer.

MOBS WITH THEM.

MELBOURNE, Australia, November 3 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's). — The Melbourne police strike resulting from the refusal of the Commissioners to remove an officer who was accused oy the men of using syping methods, is spreading. Up till yesterday the strike was confined to the night shift, but yesterday morning part of the day staff, including trffic pointsmen, refused to go to work.

The strikers now number 650.

Premier Lawson of the State of Victoria, who yesterday told the men they would have to return to duty unconditionally and await the consideration of the issue by the Cabinet, yesterday refused to see a deputation representing the men.

The Government has passed an Order-in-Council making possible the reinstatement of retired police officers.

The strikers yesterday attacked a batch of police from the country who were going on duty, and one man was injured. His assailant was arrested.

A constable on traffic point duty was also stoned, and was compelled to leave his post.

There were riotous scenes in the city last night when a number of police who refused to strike dispersed a hostile crowd from the vicinity of the Town Hall by turning a hose on them.

Twenty loyal policemen who were marching to the city from the suburbs also encountered a hooting mob, which they dispersed with their batons.

Hooligans last night surrounded an aged constable on traffic point duty, but he was, however, rescued by the strikers themselves.

Many isolated fights are reported, and quite a few men have suffered injuries.

LESTER A. PIERCE THE SNAKE LOVER

Every Morning When He Gets Up He Sees Snakes.

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 3.—Every morning when Lester A. Pierce here gets up, he sees snakes.

Crawling all about his bedroom, 50 or more of the varmints entwine themselves in loving embrace on the furniture, waiting meekly for their breakfasts.

From this it isn't to be inferred that Pierce is the victim of hallucinations.

The reptiles are real and in the flesh (if it's proper to suppose that snakes have flesh).

However, they positively don't have hips despite the fact that so many folks are wont to refer to such reptilian anatomy when elated.

You can take that as gospel from this courageous young man who's educational director of the Toledo Boy Scouts.

Gathering snakes has been Pierce's hobby for years. And with a flock of them crawling about his room at night he never once has missed a wink of slumber.

One day at a church luncheon he surprised attendants by unloosing a six-foot blue racer which he had coiled inside his coat, and playfully dropped the squirming length of sinew around the neck of the flabbergasted minister.

"Most things said about the dangerous qualities of snakes are untrue," Pierce says. "There are only a comparatively few poisonous reptiles in the world."

In his collection are black snakes, fox snakes, blue racers, water snakes, garter snakes and others of which he is very fond.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 3. — Ada Blackjack, the Eskimo woman who was the sole survivor of an expedition to Wrangel Island in the Arctic Ocean by Allan Crawford, of Toronto, in 1921, arrived here from Nome, Alaska, yesterday, on the steamer Victoria. She is believed to be on her way east.

Alberta Will Oppose Express Rates Boost.

EDMONTON, Nov. 3.—Opposition to the application of the express companies for an increase in rates, to be heard at the approaching sittings of the Railway Commission will be taken by the Alberta Government this was promised by Premier Greenfield to a delegation from the Edmonton Board of Trade which waited upon him yesterday, urging that the government give its assistance to fighting the proposed increases.

Following up his promise the Premier has wired to the premiers of the other western provinces asking their co-operation.

Charged With Damaging Pew

OTTAWA, November 3.—When the management of the James St. Synagogue here decided to change the position of some of the pews, they reckoned without Max Labovitch and Ami Bookman, hence the unusual charge of damage to a pew heard in the police court yesterday.

Emile Joseph, one of the original founders of the Synagogue strenuously objected to a change in the plans, and when Labovitch and Bookman carried out the said plans for alterations, Joseph's pew was destroyed. The case was adjourned.

BROKEN WHEEL PUTS FREIGHT CARS IN DITCH

Broken Wheel on First Car Saved Engine and Crew But Derailed Twelve.

NEAR WOODSTOCK.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Nov. 3.—The worst railway wreck reported in this district in some time occurred on the Canadian Pacific Railway five miles east of the city about one o'clock yesterday afternoon. The breaking of a wheel on the front car of a long through west bound freight was the cause of the smash, which sent twelve freight cars to the ditch on both sides of the track and derailed a number of others, tore up the track for a distance of four hundred yards and stripped the telegraph wires from the poles beside the track. None of the train crew were injured although those riding in the caboose received a bad shaking up. The engine of the train did not leave the track. After the first car on which the wheel smashed had plowed along on the ties, tearing up the track, it became detached from the engine which shot ahead without injury to the engine or its crew. A peculiarity of the wreck was the way the cars were ditched. Alternately the cars went to the left and right of the track smashing to pieces at the bottom of the steep banks. Some of the cars up ended as they left the track and carried with them the telegraph wires, causing POPPY DAY.

A week from today, Saturday, November 10th, will be observed throughout Canada, by reason of the enterprise of the G.W.V.A., as Poppy Day, and artificial popies manufactured by disabled Canadian ex-soldiers will be on sale on the streets of the principal centres.

The people of Canada are being asked to buy these poppies, first that they may be worn over Armistice Day as a tribute to the memory of the Canadians who lie buried beneath the scarlet poppies of France and Flanders, and secondly, that the money raised by the sale may be utilized in the work that the G.W.V.A. is carrying on on behalf of the returned soldiers of this country.

The Peterborough branch of the War Veterans are completing arrangements for Poppy Day, and will have thousands of poppies ready for next Saturday.

The co-operation of the public generally is urged on behalf of this annual effort.

No citizen of Peterborough should be without a poppy next Saturday—and no citizen who honours the memory of the men who did not come back will be without one.

And the poppies should not only be worn on Saturday, but over Armistice Day as well in order that the replica of the flower that grows over the graves of Canada's dead overseas may show that the people at home have not forgotten their sacrifice.

THE WONDER OF RADIO.

A speaker at the Rotary dinner this week made the startling statement that before long it may be possible by reason of the development of the radio for people not only to hear speeches and music thousands of miles away, but actually to see the speaker or the artist.

The announcement was received without any visible signs of amazement.

The truth simply is, that there have been so many wonderful developments in the last two decades that people have grown callous to them. They are ready to believe that anything can be made to happen.

One of the most marvellous feats on record is, for example, being repeated day after day without the slightest comment.

The reference is to the constant communication that is being maintained by means of the radio with MacMillan's Arctic exploration ship, the Bowdoin, which is ice-bound in the northern wastes, 760 miles from the North Pole.

The explorer's daily messages appear as news items in the papers, just as if they were telegraphed in from some centre close at hand.

MacMillan is able to tell the world every day of his experiences in the North, and to hear from the outside world as well, because he tells of the enjoyment of his party in listening to radio concerts and watching the motion pictures provided by the machine carried on the Bowdoin.

And we accept it all as a matter of course, although it is almost uncanny in its operation.

BIG SALARIES DISAPPEARING.

Announcement is made that the salaries of movie picture actors and actresses must be reduced or the industry will go to the wall. This is a step in the right direction, says an exchange. All sense of proportion and of relative values has been sacrificed in the tremendous salaries paid to screenland stars—and they are legion.

Men and women possessed of physical charms but with little or no histronic talent have been foisted on a long-suffering public, and despite lack of brains have been paid salaries out of all proportion to their worth. In his palmiest days Sir Henry Irving never received a salary that could compare with that of Jackie Coogan or some other infant prodigy of the silver sheet. Ellen Terry would be a wealthy woman today had she been paid on the same scale as Mary Pickford who has none of the talent of the famous Englishwoman.

Actors and actresses on the legitimate stage have been forced to accept much smaller salaries than those who have made their name in filmdom. They have had definitely harder work, involving hours of hard study. They have had to do something more than look pretty. Vocal expression has been a life labor with most of them, whereas the movie star merely has to rely upon facial expression.

It is rumored that the salaries of picture actors are to be reduced fifty per cent. Even at that many of them are getting infinitely more than they are worth. The deflation will do much to regulate the standard of the picture turned out at Hollywood and elsewhere. Possibly quality may take the place to quantity. Time will tell.

A REGETTABLE ENDING.

The fishermen's race has wound up in a regrettable fizzle, and Capt. Angus Walters has sailed his Bluenose home again, refusing to abide by the committee's ruling which gave Thursday's race to the challenger, following a protest.

The Columbia succeeded in doing in the committee-room what she was unable to accomplish on the blue water, and won a technical victory over the Bluenose.

Captain Walters violated a new rule of the race, established this week, by failing to keep to seaward of a buoy marking shoal water.

He did not see the mark in question in time to pass on the proper side, and it is admitted by everybody that there was no advantage accruing to the Bluenose by reason of the mistake of her skipper.

So far as a fair test of the sailing qualities of both boats are concerned, the race was won by the Canadian boat on her merits.

But rules are rules, the Americans chose to take advantage of them, and the committee had no other alternative than to disqualify the defender and award the second race to the Columbia.

Nevertheless the frame of mind which caused the Bluenose's crew to set sail for home is one which most people will have no difficulty in understanding. Having demonstrated the superiority of their boat in two races, they were incensed at a technical loss and at what they considered poor sportsmanship on the part of their opponents.

The termination of the race will be deeply regretted. Such incidents cause ill-feeling and bickering, and it might be just as well if the contest were to be permanently called off.

THE ALBERTA REFERENDUM.

There is naturally great interest in Ontario in the referendum which is to be taken in Alberta on Monday in regard to the control of the liquor traffic. The electors of Alberta will vote on the four following questions:

1. Prohibition under a continuance of the existing law of the Province, which forbids the sale for other than medicinal purposes, sacramental, manufacturing and scientific purposes.

2. Licensed sale of beer in hotels and other premises.

3. Government sale of beer for consumption in private residences.

4. Government sale of all liquors.

The fight is just as keen as might be expected, although the majority of the newspapers in the Province are leaving the struggle to the "wets" and "drys" and are themselves holding a neutral attitude.

The "dry" forces, of course, are concentrating their campaign on the first clause, urging the electors to pass it and to vote no on the other three.

The Moderation League, which has Dr. Michael Clark, ex-M.P. of Red Deer, as one of its leaders, is endeavouring to have all the last three clauses carried, but is advising the voters to make sure of the fourth clause, that providing for the Government sale of all liquors.

The indications are that if there is a change made it will be along this line, although Moderation League adherents seem hopeful of carrying the three "wet" propositions.

The result of the vote in Alberta will be awaited with great anxiety by the people of this Province whether they be damp or bone dry in their belief, for it is realized that an Alberta verdict against the present system of prohibition will undoubtedly tend to strengthen the hands of those who are preparing to press for a change in Ontario.

If Alberta follows other Provinces along the Government control pathway, the re-action in Ontario will be immediate and marked, and Monday's vote may be the starting gun for a terrific campaign in this Province.

LAW ENFORCEMENT RUNS RIOT.

During the past few weeks there have been several instances of excessive zeal bringing police officers into questionable positions in their efforts in enforcing the law, says the Kingston Whig. In Toronto, a coroner's jury, empanelled to inquire into the death of a man who was shot by a police officer who was endeavoring to seize a vessel suspected of being used as a rum-runner, brought in a verdict that the shooting was unjustified. In Dundas County a citizen is making a claim for damages against a police officer who shot at and wounded him on suspicion that he had liquor in his automobile. The news despatches of the same day tell of a decision handed down by the York County police commissioners that the action of three county constables in shooting at a young lady whom they suspected of a breach of the O.T.A. was unjustifiable.

These three cases, coming so close after each other, lead to the belief that many of the police officials in various parts of the country consider themselves as being above the laws which govern ordinary individuals. The O.T.A. has been brought into disrepute in many ways by the over zealousness of some of those entrusted with its enforcement. These officers, apparently, are not aware of the fact that the O.T.A. is not a criminal law, and that they are not authorized to use firearms in enforcing it, even should a suspected person be attempting to escape. The only exception to this is when a police officer finds his life in actual danger during the enforcement of the act. In the three cases mentioned above, there was no suggestion that their lives were in danger, but yet they used firearms, and thus brought themselves within the reach of the law, and liable to be charged with serious offences.

The laws of the Province are not intended to be broken with impunity by any who come within their scope. No person would be justified in saying a word to encourage law-breakers in their actions. No attempt can rightly be made to justify the breaking of any law. Police officials have many difficulties to face in enforcing the laws of the Province, particularly the O.T.A., but that is no reason why they should not be fully conversant with the powers conferred on them by this act. Law enforcement is necessary and good, but it should not be allowed to run riot, particularly in the direction of the wanton use of firearms by those who are of the opinion that the wearing of a police uniform entitles them to act recklessly in defiance of laws which apply to them as well as to others in the community.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Peterborough should note that next Saturday, November 10th, is Poppy Day. The memory of those who died overseas should be kept green.

Municipal election gossip is beginning to circulate. Might it be possible to hear a declaration soon from some of the prospective candidates?

The German mark seems to go down faster than the mercury in a White River thermometer in January.

Canadians who were never going to buy another German-made article would doubtless be surprised if the quantity of German toys imported for the Canadian Christmas trade was to be announced.

Capt. Angus Walters has a sea-dog's contempt for technicalities—hence his refusal to continue the fishermen's race after Thursday's fizzle.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro--Toronto--Montreal--Winnipeg

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, November 3. — Shippers struck another bad period in cattle this week at the Union Stock Yards. With the exception of choice butchers, prices were down 25 cents a cwt. from the previous week, and in some of the lower grades this was exceeded. The receipts were not as heavy, being less than 8,300 head, but there was a carry-over which also had to be accounted for. Except in the heavy steers the quality was generally poor and the pressure of offerings in these compelled low prices to effect sales in the latter part of the week.

The exporters had wide buying powers this week, and took over 700 head. The price averaged $6.70 a cwt. on the lot and this compares with $7.05 two and three weeks ago. The English market has not been good and some recent shipments are said to have returned a loss. A few heavy bulls were also bought for overseas at 4 to 4 1-2 cents and a small number of short keeps will accompany the shipment at a cost of $5.00 to $5.75 a cwt.

Heavy offerings of light stockers dropped the quotations 25 cents a cwt. and over and few loads of these brought more than 3 1-2 cents a pound. Dehorned stockers 800 pounds and over sold a little over 4 cents. There are not many short keeps on sale and one extra good load went to the farm at $7.50 a cwt., but others were bought in singles from $5.00 a cwt up. In milchers and springers an average business was reported at about the quoted prices.

Commission houses have had the usual complaints from shippers in a weak market. The market is, of course, out of their control and they have consistently tried to regulate shipments to avoid congestion. One commission man held a Western load of cattle for nearly a week to sell them at $5.50 a cwt. These cattle cost $5.10 a cwt. in Calgary, and $2.14 a cwt. was paid in freight on them.

There is a general opinion that the winter weather this week will force in many immature cattle next week, and with heavy direct Western shipments to the packers there is little prospect of any better prices. The exporters are prepared to take quantities again next week, and the heavy cattle are therefore assured of a fairly stable market. Some choice butchers will also find a ready sale for the domestic trade.

The advance in hog prices to $8.50 a cwt. f.o.b., has resulted in heavier receipts and packers have reduced the bid 25 cents a cwt. at the week-end. Hog prices are now regulating themselves pretty much on a supply basis and packers are evidently keeping a close tab on any available statistics.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, November 3 (Canadian Press). — With a new increase of the United States visible supply expected on Monday, wheat yesterday showed a tendency to decline in price. The close, however, influenced by cotton strength, was steady at the same as yesterday's finish to 1-8c to 1-4c down, with December $1.06 7-8 to $1.07 to $1.07, and May $1.11 7-8 to $1.12.

Corn finished 3-8c to 3-4c to 7-8c up. Oats unchanged to 1-8c to 1-4c off. Provisions at 12c to 15c to 15c gain.

Wheat began to undergo price downturns as soon as the trading pit opened, and although occasional rallies ensued, especially in the late dealings, the market at no time went above Thursday's final quotations. There was a noticeable lack of buying power, and it was said the majority of dealers on either side were disposed to wait on developments at Washington regarding agricultural relief measures, and as to the outlook for progress towards settling the German reparations deadlock.

Proposed raising of the United States tariff on wheat brought assertions from bear traders that such action would lead to retaliation from Canada. On the other hand, selling here failed to become aggressive, and offerings on the declines were readily absorbed. Later, when the cotton market made a sensational advance, the demand for wheat grew a little more confident, and the early losses for the most part, were counterbalanced, despite the fine weather conditions for domestic winter wheat and notwithstanding further big marketing of Canadian wheat.

Corn responded better than wheat to the unusual ascent of cotton. This was more or less due to the fact that primary receipts of corn were only about half as large as was the case a year ago. Slackness of shipping on call tended to weaken oats.

Reduction of warehouse stocks here gave a lift to provisions.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, November 3 (Canadian Press). — Cattle, receipts 4,000; uneven, generally steady; bulk fed steers and yearlings, $7.00 to $9.50; best yearlings, $10.75; few matured steers above $9.00; several loads of native stockers, $5.75 to $6.50; canners and cutters, fairly active at $2.65 to $2.75; vealers scarce at $1.00 downward; most sausage bulls, $4.00 to $4.50.

Hogs, receipts 45,000; closed at 25 cents off; bulk good and choice 225 to 325 pound butchers, $7.50 to $7.50; top, $7.50.

Sheep, receipts 10,000; killing classes generally steady; feeders slow, steady; bulk fat native lambs and fed Westerns, $12.75 to $13.00; bulk feeding lambs, $12.25 to $12.75; top, $12.85.

COMMISSIONER OF WAR CLAIMS NEW HOSPITAL

OTTAWA, Nov. 3 (Canadian Press). —Hon. Wm. Pugsley, Federal commissioner of War Claims, was operated on at St. Luke's Hospital yesterday and is reported to be resting as comfortably as could be expected. Mr. Pugsley has had treatment in hospital for a fortnight and conditions developed which made an operation necessary.

This, it was feared, might have to be delayed some days owing to the patient's state of health, but ultimately it was found possible to proceed with it today.

Morning's mail for the King of Italy recently consisted of 7,000 letters, 300 parcels and 270 telegrams.

CONFIDENCE FELT OVER CONFERENCE

Poincare Softening Some Of His Demands to the Allies.

LONDON, Nov. 3 (Canadian Press). —Increasing confidence is felt in government quarters here over the prospects for early organization and a meeting of the special reparation commission on which an American economic expert will sit. In the exchange of views which is proceeding between London and Paris respecting terminology of the collective allied invitation to the United States, Premier Poincare, it is learned, shows a perceptible desire to soften some of the restrictions he has already set forth.

FELL FROM BUGGY HEARD BY A JURY

Case in Hastings County Results Open Verdict.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 3 (Canadian Press).—After two hours' deliberation the jury at the inquest into the death of Mrs. John Kimmerly of Rednersville, brought in a verdict that she came to her death at her home in Ameliasburg as a result of a fractur of the base of the skull, as shown by medical testimony, the fracture being caused by her being thrown out or having fallen from buggy.

Evidence was taken at the town hall, Rednersville. There was conflict of testimony as to what actually occurred. Mr. Kimmerly, husband of the woman, said that the sheriff of the County of Hastings had driven his motor car with lights on alongside his buggy in front of his home, and that the horse took fright, taking to the roadway, that he fell out at that point and that the horse gathered speed thereafter. No one knew exactly what happened, whether Mrs. Kimmerly was thrown or fell from buggy.

Cobourg and District

COBOURG, Nov. 2.—Mrs. Annie Hern, who was remanded by Judge T A. McGillivry in the County Judge's Criminal Court at Whitby on Saturday, after she had pleaded guilty to abandoning a ten-days-old child near the Whitby C. N. R. station on August 24 last, formerly resided in East Northumberland, it is stated. She is said to have married a laborer when she was a girl of 17, and to have lived for some time in Campbellford. At the outbreak of the war her husband enlisted and returned in 1916 suffering from shock. She was left at his death with two children (another being dead) to look after, and later married her present husband, who was crippled a few years ago by a fall which injured his spine, it is stated, and she has seemingly had a very hard life, with many misfortunes, until she was almost driven frantic.

Auction Sale Prices

A local auctioneer, who has been favored with a number of auction sales the past month, reports that prices are fairly good, especially for cows, horses being a little slower.

General purpose horses are, however, selling well. Good ordinary cows are bringing from $60 to $77. Poultry is selling well, as high as $1.70 having been received for laying leghorns, for which there is a big demand.

SCHELL COMMITTED FOR TRIAL DEFENCE URGED POSSIBILITY OF GEO. M'NEAL DYING BY SUICIDE

Provincial Officer Storey Repeated the Statement Made to Him By the Accused That MacNeal Died Sunday Morning After Night of Pain From Cramps — Never Heard a Shot — Both Sober.

EMPTY SHELL FOUND.

John Schnell, charged with the murder of George Washington MacNeal, was yesterday evening committed to stand trial. The preliminary hearing opened at 10 a.m., and lasted until 4:30, several witnesses being heard for the prosecution. G. W. Hatton, K. C., Crown Attorney, conducted the case for the Crown, and the prisoner was represented by C. G. Frost, of Knight, Frost and Frost, Lindsay. The hearing was before Magistrate O. A. Langley.

No direct evidence was produced, but conflicting statements made by the accused were read, and His Worship remarked on the fact that apparently only the two men were in the shanty.

Bail, in the case of a man charged with murder, can only be arranged through Toronto, and meantime the accused was lodged in the county jail.

John Schell is a small, pleasant-looking man, with a soft voice. He did not display any emotion during the hearing, and was eager to return to his cell that he might smoke. He wore gold ear-rings.

Conflicting Statement.

Provincial Constable Hayston Storey said that a statement was made by the accused while confined in Bobcaygeon, there being three witnesses. "His statement," Constable Storey said, "was to the effect that he was in camp on the 27th October, and the deceased came in company with George Schell and Roy MacNeal. He stayed there that night, and the accused had an awful night with him, when he suffered from cramp, and he died on Sunday morning about 9 o'clock." That is roughly what the accused put in writing.

Magistrate Langley entered the written statement, signed by the accused and witnessed, as evidence. It was later objected to by counsel for the defence.

Reading from the statement some of the allegations were:

"MacNeal seemed to be in fine health. I saw no signs of liquor, and we were perfectly sober. I never shot a shot out of the rifle all the time we were there. MacNeal complained of gripe, and he groaned all night. About 9 o'clock in the morning he drew up one leg, and gave a yell. I went to him two minutes afterwards and found that he was dead. He was never out of my sight or hearing from Saturday night until he died on Sunday morning. I keep my rifle loaded at the head of my bed. I never saw any blood although I rolled him over twice."

Mr. Hatton: "What did you do after taking the statement?"

Blood on the Floor.

Constable Storey: "We went into Somerville Township, County of Victoria, to make enquiries. Later we went to Schell's shack in Galway Township, County of Peterborough. I found blood on the floor near the stove, and blood in the south west corner of the shack. A bullet hole was found 6 inches from the roof or 4 feet 6 inches from the floor. On examining the bullet hole I concluded that it had been fired from the inside. In looking through the hole from the outside I could see the far side of the shack, looking in a line directly across the blood stains on the floor. The angle of the bullet going through the wall in my opinion would be 15 or 20 degrees from the floor. The hole was one foot from the corner. There were six beds in the shack, in three tiers of two bunks each.

Constable Storey produced two loaded shells and one empty shell which he found in one of the bunks. There was no blood anywhere else than on the floor, he said.

By tes it was demonstrated that the shells and the empty shell, all marked 40-82, fitted the rifle previously entered as evidence.

Protested Innocence.

Mr. Frost: "What condition was the accused in when he made the statement?"

Constable Storey: "He was rather shaky?"

"Did he say anything to show he understood the significance of your visit?"

"He understood what I said."

"What did he appear like?"

"He was agitated. He said 'I never killed him.'"

"When you told him how serious the charge was did he break down or show surprise?"

"No. He seemed no different after than before."

"Did he at once protest his innocence"

"Yes, immediately."

"Describe what you mean by agitated."

"He waved his arms around and spoke loudly. I would call it nerves.'

"Did he seem friendly or afraid?"

"He seemed friendly."

"Did you talk about the deceased?"

"Yes."

"Was there anything in the manner of the accused to show he bore malice toward MacNeal?"

"No, it was the opposite. From his way of speaking they were two of the best of friends."

A Night in the Shack

Constable Storey said he went to the shack about 5 o'clock on Tuesday night and made some examination that night. Most of his investigation, however was carried on next morning by daylight. There were six men in the party, all of whom slept in the shack on Tuesday night. They were Constable Storey, Constable Boyd, Roy and Lyal MacNeal and George Schell who went as guides, and D. Stevens, taxi driver. They made supper in the hut.

Mr. Frost: "Were the contents of the shack disturbed"

Constable Storey: "Oh no. We did not move the tables or beds. The shack was very clean. We got water for supper from the spring about seventy yards away.'

An empty pail was found in the cabin. Before lighting the fire Constable Storey looked in the grate and saw that a fire had been burning there but there were some pieces of wood not burned out.

Mr. Frost: "Would that suggest that water had been thrown on the fire?"

"I couldn't say. It is quite possible."

The wall is half an inch thick, the witness said, quite thick enough to show the course of the bullet. On taking a sight through the hole from outside it led to a point in the east angle of the shack, about two feet from the ground. On narrowing down the view by stepping back from the hole the last object seen in the shack is a bed in the corner, Storey said. The benches and table would be in line with this sight. The ejected shell found in the cabin was on a bed not on the floor, and blood was found 2 1-2 feet from the edge of the stove and 5 1-2 to 6 feet from the wall through which the bullet passed. The shack is 12 feet by 24 feet and is surrounded with grass about 2 yards wide before the bush starts. It was impossible, Storey said, to estimate how many people had walked near the shack.

Mr. Frost: "Were you the first to go into the shack?"

"I was."

"Did you smell gunpowder?"

"I couldn't trace any."

"Were the beds made?"

"There were no blankets or other clothes on the beds, only straw or hay. There was a mattress on the floor near the blood and the cloth on top of it was covered with blood.'

The cloth mentioned was produced in court and entered as evidence.

The Post Mortem

Dr. T. W. H. Young testified to having made the post mortem examination assisted by Dr. C. H. Amys and Dr. Phyllis V. Yeo his daughter. There were no other bodies in the undertaking rooms. His written report was recognized by the witness and entered as evidence.

Mr. Hatton: "Can you state from your examination the cause of death?

Dr. Young: Death was caused by a rifle shot."

Mr. Hatton: "From the examination you made are you in a position to say whether or not in your opinion the wound was self inflicted"

Clothing produced in court was identified by Dr. Young as that taken off the dead man at the time of the post mortem examination. A coat sweater Dr. Young said, Mr. Comstock was taking off body. A pull-over sweater was second from the outside and a shirt and undershirt were also identified. The undershirt contains a number of burned holes and one large burned portion corresponding to the position of the wound on the deceased man's body. The stains on the garments Dr. Young believes to be blood. The hole where the bullet passed through the clothes was obliterated by the subsequent burning of the clothes.

No Sign of Fight.

Answering a question from Mr. Frost regarding bruises found on the deceased, Dr. Young said they might have been caused by falling after the fatal wound had been received. He admitted it is more than likely they were caused by a fall on the floor.

Mr Frost: "Were there any bruises to indicate physical violence?"

Dr. Young: "No."

"From the clothes, were there any signs of a tussle on the floor?"

"No."

"There is a little dust here on the hem of the sweater. Would that indicate he was dragged on the floor?"

Dr. Young could not declare an opinion as to the presence of the dust.

Examination disclosed that the ilium was fractured, witness said. The bullet mark in the skin was 3-4 of an inch above the bone, so it is altogether likely the man was stooping so as to bring the skin down over the bone Dr, Young said he believed the burn on the body was caused subsequent to death by the burning clothes, set alight by flame from the rifle. The clothes smouldered slowly, burning the skin.

"Were there any blisters?"

"No."

"What would that indicate?"

"That the burning took place after death."

"Or in other words that the man died after receiving the shot?"

"Yes."

Replying to questions from Mr. Frost as to the possibility of the wound being self-inflicted, Dr. Yound said he did not think it possible. He judged this by the course of the bullet through the body. Also, in order to fire the rifle in that position, some mechanical contrivance would have been necessary, which had not been found and which the man had no time to hide before he died.

Mr. Frost took the rifle by which it is said death was inflicted, and hooked the trigger on a desk corner, releasing the hammer. Dr. Young said any projection that would catch the trigger, or any sharp impact, might explode the cartridge. "A man could possibly shoot himself in this way but it would be a most extraordinary position for him to take and an extraordinary place in his body to choose." Dr. Young said.

Possible Self Infliction.

Mr. Frost, illustrating with the rifle: "I can reach the trigger while holding the rifle in my hands in this position."

Dr. Young: "The ape has a very long reach."

Mr. Frost: "That is a horrible implication, doctor."

Dr Young said the most frequent place for suicide with firearms is through the mouth.

On invitation of Mr. Frost to test the relative ease with which the rifle could be held in order to inflict a wound such as that sustained by MacNeal, Magistrate Langley and Dr. Young tried holding the rifle in that position. While pronounced awkward, it was admitted by Dr. Young that the wound possibly have been inflicted accidentally, the rifle being held in deceased's hands.

Mr. Frost: "Would you add that a man could do it intentionally?"

Dr. Young: "Yes. After what you have shown us it seems possible to commit suicide in a similar position, pushing the trigger with the finger, but I don't think it was so in this case and it is not probable."

Mr. Frost said he did not quarrel with Dr. Young's opinion. "But," he added, "I don't need to remind you that a man's life is hanging in the balance."

Dr. Young's final opinion as entered in evidence, after Mr. Frost had illustrated different positions with the rifle, was that it would apparently be as easy to discharge a rifle from the side as from the front, considering the build of the deceased.

Mr. Frost: "Your opinion that a man should shoot from the front at his heart or his head is just your opinion of human instinct?"

Dr. Young: "No. He would want to dispatch himself as quickly as possible."

Mr. Frost: "But a man with a clouded mind might not think of that?"

Dr. Young: "That is possible."

Dr. Amys agreed with the written report of the examination entered by Dr. Young and declared the contents a true finding.

This closed the case for the crown, and the defence called no witnesses.

John Schell was warned by Magistrate Langley and given a opportunity to speak, but made no statement. His counsel suggested that on the evidence he did not think there was a whittle of evidence agains tthe accused.

Schell was committed for trial.

THE TOP-KNOTS OF THE ORIENT

Address on Korea and Its People at Bible Society Meeting in Millbrook.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 2.—The annual meeting of the Millbrook branch of the Bible Society was held in the Town Hall on Thursday evening, a fair sized audience assembling by the opening hour, thought it is a matter of regret that a more general interest is not taken in this worthy cause. The president, Dr. A. Jemison, occupied the chair and after the routine business had been disposed of, introduced the speaker, Rev. Jesse Gibson, who gave an interesting and instructive talk on, "The Top-Knots of the Far East," Korea being the country presented under this unique title, the peculiar form of hair-dressing prevailing in the country making the name appropriate.

Some facts regarding the physical characteristics of Korea proved of interest. The climate is healthful and varied, and like Japan, earthquakes and hurricanes are of fairly frequent occurrence. The soil on the whole is extremely fertile, and carefully cultivated. Agriculture is the staple occupation, tea, rice, barley, rye, wheat, sugar, etc., being among the products. Bamboos and palms are plentiful, other trees native to the country being, beech, chestnut, sycamore, cypress, oak and pine, white minerals include gold, silver, iron, coal, lead and tin, etc.

Japs Cause Unrest.

Japanese aggressiveness has induced much unrest, her soldiers by their cruelty and in some cases, lawless actions, have caused great terror and suffering among the natives.

The people who have embraced Christianity are most faithful and willing to sacrifice for their religion to a much greater extent than are those of more favored western lands, rather than fail in their allegiance to the Saviour. The colporteurs of the Bible Society are doing a fine work in Korea, and the Scriptures are eagerly accepted, purchased if the means are within the power of the one desiring a copy of even a portion of the sacred Word, and are diligently read since they may be obtained in their native language thanks to the splendid efforts of the British and Foreign Bible Society.

An offering was taken up at the meeting and collectors were appointed to make a personal canvass of the township and village, the president requesting a cordial reception for those undertaking this task as they called at the various homes in the near future.

Officers Elected.

The following are the officers for the ensuing year:

President—Dr. A. Jemison.
1st Vice-Pres.—A J. Henderson.
2nd Vice-Pres.—W T. Wood.
Secretary-treasurer—Mr. R. Stone.

WOOD PULP SUBSTITUTE

Science has been working for year to find a substitute for wood pulp use in the manufacture of paper. The quantity of paper now used is so great that the wood supply is becoming scarce.

M. de Vains has perfected a process for making good paper out of straw. In the past straw paper has been used only for the coarsest purposes because the boiling, under pressure, jellied the fibers. The straw is now boiled gently in soda ash, bleached, washed, treated with soda again and again bleached.

The Northfield Paper Mills, of Kent, England, are building a special plant for the de Vains process.

There are over twenty million acres of wheat land in Canada alone from which the straw is burned as waste and many other millions in this country. If the straw process grows, the waste of the wheat fields will be utilized.

—a simple matter as far as floors are concerned when you cover them with Dominion Linoleum Rugs. Their delightful patterns and harmonious colorings appeal to the most fastidious taste. They blend gracefully with all styles of draperies and types of furnishing, adding just that note of cheerfulness so desirable in every home.

Aside from mere beauty, Dominion Linoleum Rugs bring comfort, long wear and freedom from tiresome scrubbing and sweeping as well. Stainproof and waterproof, a light mopping keeps them spotless no matter how much slush or dirt is tracked in from the street. And they cling to the floor without tacking — an additional consideration of worth.

Let your dealer show you the newest patterns — floral and block designs, tiles and plains — and note particularly the moderate prices. Send us your name and address and we will mail you an attractive rug folder in four colors. Address Dominion Oilcloth & Linoleum Co. Limited, Montreal.

Look for the strong canvas back when buying. It forms the base of all genuine Dominion Linoleum and Dominion Linoleum Rugs and guarantees quality and long wear. See also the Dominion Trade Mark stamped on the face of all rugs and piece goods.

Dominion Linoleum Rugs

Experimenting With Fall Wheat in West.

BRANDON, Man., Nov. 3 (Canadian Press).—Believing that it withstands drought and rust better than wheat, sown in the spring, farmers of this district now are experimenting with fall wheat. The fall wheat matures earlier and gives a heavier yield, one farmer in the Souris district reporting a yield of 28 bushels this year grading No. 1 Northern and which was harvested during the first week of August.

Grain planted this fall is making rapid progress and already is from four to five inches above ground.

BUSINESS GOOD AT COUNTRY POINTS

Weekly Review of Mercantile Business Continues Encouraging.

WINNIPEG, November 3 (Canadian Press). — The weekly trade report of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association, Limited, states:

Halifax—Wholesale business well maintained. Retail trade reasonably active.

St. John — Wholesalers report business fairly good, while retail trade, without being active, is considered satisfactory. Collections are fair.

Montreal — Wholesale groceries in fair demand; boot and shoe business gradually improving, though buyers cautious. Men's clothing is slightly improved; ladies' ready-to-wear and millinery is better than at this time last year. Hardware business considered better than a year ago, there being a good demand for builders' hardware. Retail trade on the whole is fair, but fall buying is somewhat retarded owing to fine weather. Collections fair, with tendency to slight improvement.

Toronto — Wholesale conditions show very little change, all lines being reasonably active, although fine weather is having some effect on the movement of fall goods. Retail business is fairly satisfactory with improvement expected with the colder weather. Collections are fair.

Winnipeg — Wholesale conditions only fair; groceries and fall goods a little more active. Retail business i the city quiet. Collections show better tendency as crop moves.

Regina. — Wholesalers report sales holding up with still room for improvement. Retail business practically unchanged and rather quiet for thiss eason of the year. Collections fair with improvement expected

Saskatoon. — Wholesale business considerably improved. Retail trade fair. Colder weather needed to help move fall goods. Collections improving.

Calgary — Condition at country points continue to improve and business showing considerable increase over last year. This is causing increased activitiy with whole salers. City business practically unchanged. Collections are gradually improving.

Vancouver —Wholesale groceries quieter than usual, hardware and drygoods somewhat improved; boots and shoes remaining only fair. Retail conditions similar. Collections with grocery house fair all other lines somewhat improved. Fine weather is retarding sale of Fall goods in the city.

GRASS FIRES BREAK OUT.

FORT WILLIAM, Nov. 3.—The dry weather of the past few days has made the country as dry as tinder and numerous grass fires have been burning close to the city, the fire equipment of the city having been called out six times yesterday. No damage to buildings is reported but a good deal of hay has been destroyed.

HOUSE, BARNS AND STOCK IN ASHES

Flames Wiped Out the Season's Crop in East Emily Fire.

OMEMEE, Nov. 3.—The community at large were shocked on Friday morning to hear of the loss by fire which Mr. Allie Fee sustained on Thursday night. He was awakened by fire about 1.30 and rushed to the stable in the hope of getting out his stock and especially his valuable race horse in which he always takes a pride, but after untieing him the flames came so close as to scorch his own hair and eyebrows and he was forced to rush on and leave the animals to suffer. Returning to the house he gave the alarm over the phone, and on proceeding outside found his beautiful white brick dwelling on fire.

Many willing workers were soon on the scene and most of the furniture was saved with the exception of a couple of bedroom suites. However, the loss is a heavy one at this season of the year when the cellar was well stocked with fruit and vegetables.

All the machinery was burned with the exception of a mower, roller and a walking plow. About seventeen head of horses and cattls were burned and also a valuable hound and three small pigs and an old one, as well as his season's crop and fowl.

What was yesterday a fine large barn and a comfortable brick home is today a smouldering heap of ashes. Some insurance was carried but not enough to nearly repair the loss.

Mr. and Mrs. Fee have moved their furniture into a house in the west end of the village, formerly occupied by Mr. Thomas Rowan, Jr., and are both badly upset over the sad misfortune, the cause of which is unknown, unless grain or chicken thieves who have been molesting that section lately.

Mission Band Meeting

The Mission Band of the Methodist church called the "Wide Awakes," held their third meeting on Saturday afternoon, and a most profitable hour was enjoyed by about thirty-five boys and girls. After the devotional exercises and the business was transacted, an interesting programme was given as follows: Solo, Mildred Williamson; reading, Elda Overholt; reading, Arthur Williamson. The watch tower was then given, Miss Katy Weir on China, Miss Genevieve Sandy on Japan, Master Floyd Parsons, India, Miss Madeline Gray, French, all of which were listened to attentively. The meeting closed with the Mizpah. The next meeting will be a patriotic one on Saturday, Nov. 10th.

the collapse of the service between East and West points.

In the long string of cars were two gasoline tanks cars. Fortunately they were empty and a possible catastrophe was avoided. When these steel cars left the rails they were thrown cross ways on the track and thus formed a buffer for the on-coming cars which were brought to a stop before any more left the track. About nine o'clock the track had been temporarily repaired so as to allow the trains to pass over and the passenger traffic was resumed. The London and Guelph auxiliaries were rushed to the scene and the members of the crews worked hard for seven hours before a semblance of order had been restored.

The Million Dollar Doll

By C. N. and C. M. Williamson

Authors of "The Lightning Conductor"

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

Miles Sheridan has just learned that the girl with whom he has been taking a yacht trip, under the impression that she was

Juliet Divine, the Million Dollar Doll, a beautiful show-girl, is, in reality

Teresa Desmond (Terry), Juliet's innocent half-sister, whom the Doll sent to masquerade as herself. Miles is madly in love with Terry and is eager to divorce his wife.

Betty Sheridan, who is infatuated with

Paul di Salvano, a handsome Italian. Salvano has now deserted Betty for

Rose Callahan, a somewhat ordinary young heiress, travelling in Europe with her father. Betty, learning of Paul's desertion is not anxious to lose her husband also, and goes to Algiers where Miles' yacht is lying.

Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy Greek, long in love with Terry, has almost succeeded in persuading the girl that her only course is to marry him.

Miles and Terry are enjoying a brief sojourn at Bousaada with Miles' servant Mrs. Harkness as chaperone. Miles is preparing to rejoin his wife at Algiers.

Terry prepares to give up Miles for his own sake.

Mrs. Harkness, now aware of Terry's real identity is amazed to learn that Juliet Divine is her half-sister.

Terry, persuaded by Harkyss eloquence, decides to wait for her Prince who is on his way to Algiers.

CHAPTER LXXXII.

A Display of Temper

Betty had wired and written in answer to Nazlo's letter sent from Monaco to New York, and they had exchanged several cables before she landed in Algiers. In a telegram sent her at Marseilles, Nazlo suggested a meeting in Algiers, but Betty was all prudence now,—in small things, where she felt no great temptation to be reckless—and it seemed wisest not to see any man, with the exception of Salvano, until she had met her husband. She had to see Salvano (of whose presence in Algiers she'd learned definitely from Nazlo) because upon the result of a talk with Paul, the next step with Miles depended.

She was determined, however, to give no other handle for gossip if she could help it. Miles might be in a venomous mood, and she wouldn't like him to hear that the Shoe King had met her when she ship from Marsailles docked. Neither did she want Nazlo to call, on board 'Silverwood,' but when she had taken up her quarters there (to the silent distress of Captain Yale) and learned of Miles' absence from Algiers, she sent a note to Nazlo's hotel.

He was staying at the St. George, and he suggested that, if Mrs. Sheridan thought it would be 'conspicuous' to lunch with him, she might come and have tea on the terrace alone. Then he could stroll past; and not the most censorious gossip could make mischief out of a chance meeting. Nazlo added, 'Speaking of gossip, Prince Paul di Salvano and the Callahans are at the St. George, and quite the centre of attraction. Rose poses as 'Miss Callahan, but everyone thinks she's married to Salvano, and that the old man is keeping the Prince on probation for a while. Unless there'd been a marriage, old Callahan would be pretty sure to send Salvano packing, after all the talk. I had better tell you, that there's talk also about your husband, who has friends here, not counting those who are yours as well. Some think you're certain to divorce him; others think the opposite. But none of them know who the girl in the case really is, or that, if you play your cards well now, you hold him in the hollow of your hand.

This letter had been sent by messenger to Betty on board "Silverwood" almost at the moment of her arrival, and hardly two hours after Miles' departure with the girl and Mrs. Harkness for Bousaada. It was then that Betty wrote the reply from which Nazlo had cut out a few lines for Terry Desmond's eyes.

Captain Yale's evident reluctance to receive the owner's wife on board was further proof to Betty that Nazlo had told the truth about Miles. Not only was he infatuated with the Desmond girl, but Yale was aware of the fact. If Betty had not been in a black mood she must have felt msome malicious amusement when Yale urged the superior comforts of an Algiers hotel. The yacht was being cleaned, he pointed out, while Mr. Sheridan was away, and the understanding was that no one should be allowedt on board. Of course, in the case of Mrs. Sheridan, it was different: if she chose to put up with the inconveniences of 'housecleaning,' he had nothing to say. Still, he must wire the news that Madam had come on board.

'Tell me where my husband is, and I'll wire," Betty snapped.

But Captain Yale excused himself. Even to Mrs. Sheridan he couldn't give that information unless his employer permitted.

'I shall soon know where he's gone, without your telling me," she boasted, confident that she would learn from Nazlo, whose letter mentioned that he was making enquiries.

'Very well, Madam, in that case you can communicate with Mr. Sheridan," returned Yale, whose cool manner covered a certain agitation.

Betty shrugged her shoulders. 'I shan't botherk if you're going to telegraph," she said. 'My husband will come back when he learns I'm here. And I shall be quite comfortable in that pretty cabin of my own—which I remember well. As for my maid, I shall choose a room for her."

There was something like a thrdat veiled by these words, but Captain Yale could hardly put his employer's wife off the yacht, at all events without definite orders to do so. And if she stayed Mr. Sheridan's guest, (knowing something of women Mrs. Sheridan imagined that her cabin, the most luxurious on board, had been given to the guest. He realized also that it was almost a disappointment to the lady that no such insult had been put upon her. Angry as he was at the coup she had sprung on him, the Captain chuckled as he wondered about Madam's expression of face when she saw the darkened and dust-sheeted cabin, kept sacred to the memory of her honeymoon.

Betty could no more travel without an efficient maid who was used to her ways, than a Pekiness puppy could walk back to China on foot. She had brought her confidential woman from New York, a Parisienne with every professional talent and no capacity for affection. Estelle knew the secrets which it was convenient to Mrs. Sheridan for her to know, and several others not so convenient. She had a sarcastic sense of humour, and this was tickled as she visited the cabins with Madame.

There was Monsieur's state-room, containing many articles de toilette, as apparently the occupant intended to be absent only a few days; there were others which had not been tenanted, and there was one where numerous pretty belongings had been left. It was this last which Betty commandeered for her maid.

'Put everything here into Mrs. Harkness' cabin," she directed, her face flushed, her eyes sparkling. Estelle thought, with amazement, that she had never seen her mistress look so plain, so almost vulgar.

'But, if Madame will pardon me," she ventured, hiding the twinkle in her eyes, 'I am not particular about my room. The wardrobe is here so full; and there is this trunk under the bed. The small cabin next to that of Madame Harkness' will be good enough for me, and— —"

'Do as I tell you This stateroom is near mine, and I prefer you to have it."

Unsolved Mysteries

MESMER, THE MYSTERIOUS

When he first burst upon the French capital, which he was afterwards to dominate by reason of his extraordinary ability and his uncanny genius, Frederic-Antoine Mesmer was forty-four year of age and is described as being "tall, distinguished and impressive—a personality who, because of his extraordinary calm and self-reliance, radiated a sense of health and hope to the thousands who came in contact with him."

After leaving his native city of Swabia in Germany, Mesmer had gone to Vienna, where he received the degree of doctor of medicine, and had then travelled extensively throughout Europe before settling in Paris. Here he took an apartment in the Hotel Bouret, in the center of the city, and permitted it to become known that he was ready to treat and presumably to cure all manner of diseases which had formerly been considered incurable. Probably on account of his picturesque personality and the air of exotic mystery with which he surrounded himself, society began at once to flock to the salon of Mesmer and it soon began to be whispered through the streets of Paris that this newcomer possessed a strange "magic power" which gave him an uncanny influence over his patients.

Among the apparatus which was to be found in his apartment was the mechanism afterwards referred to as the "magic tub"—a large covered cylinder, inside of which the patients were seated in tiers. Each of the patients was supplied with a tube which he touched to that portion of his body which he wished to be treated and, in the center of the huge "tub" stood Mesmer, dressed in the flowing robes of an oriental magician and waving a supposedly "magic" wand. After the treatment had continued for some time, the patients would begin to become restless, then excited and finally those of a more nervous temperament would fall into convulsions which the mysterious physician would calm by making a few mysterious passes before their eyes.

In addition, certain favored individuals were also treated to private exhibitions of Mesmer's power at which the magician would, with a few movements of his hands, produce convulsions, hysteria and even a state of catalepsy. Although he claimed to be entirely familiar with the force which he exerted at these seances, it is clear from Mesmer's writings that he was almost as ignorant of this as was the public at large, for, confusing it with electricity, he referred to it as "animal magnetism" and, in many of his experiments, used metal plates such as are used in electric batteries at the present time.

Determined to probe the claims of a man whom they suspected to be an imposter, the Paris Faculty of Medicine appointed a commission to investigate and report upon Mesmer's experiments and this commission included not only the foremost physicians of France at that time (1780) but also Benjamin Franklin, who was in Paris as the representative of the American government. In spite of the fact that the investigators appeared to regard him favorably, Mesmer avoided the commission and made an appeal directly to the King, requesting that he be granted an annuity which would enable him to treat patients without charge. To this end Marie Antoinette was petitioned to grant him a chateau and the sum of 500,000 francs, but the Queen referred the proposition to the Government which, in turn, offered to give Mesmer an annuity of 20,000 francs a year and the order of the Knighthood of St. Michael upon condition that he report all his discoveries to a medical board appointed by the king.

This the "magician" refused to do and, going to the Spa, he there established a magnetic clinic which repeated the success of the Parisian venture, finally launching a federation of twenty-four societies to the members of which he sold his secrets in return for a payment of a hundred louis and annual dues of sixty francs from each member. Among other prominent men who enlisted in this strange brotherhood was the Marquis de Lafayette, but history does not record that he made use of anything which he may have learned from Mesmer.

Becoming involved in bitter quarrels and controversies over the scope of his knowledge and the extent of his power, Mesmer left France in disgust, taking with him a fortune estimated at 300,000 francs. After visiting England and Germany, he finally returned to Swabia where he died in 1815—leaving the world none the wiser as to the secret which he claimed to possess and even the progress of science has failed definitely to decide whether his alleged power was actually a form of hypnotism or an even greater species of charlatanism.

WOMAN'S HEALTH RESTORED

She Claims Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did It After Everything Else Failed

Milwaukee, Wis.—"I feel that I ought to let you know about my case. I was ailing and could barely do my housework and washing I was so run-down, just from having one child. I took a lot of medicines and had doctors. Then I gave them all up and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel wonderfully good now. I do every thing that comes along, and we all take your medicine as a tonic when we don't feel just so. I am thankful for what the Vegetable Compound has done for my health and for my family."—Mrs. MARY SAIECHECK, 944 28th St., Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Letters like these testify to the value of the Vegetable Compound. These women speak from the fullness of their hearts. They describe as correctly as they can their conditions: First, those symptoms that affected them most conspicuously; and later the disappearance of those symptoms. They are sincere expressions of gratitude. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been so praised by women.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Clive Roberts Barton

WILL O' THE WISP

"Most people cannot see me," he nodded.

"Good evening, my dears!"

The twins looked around but could see nobody. The voice seemed to come from the pond in front of them. But nothing appeared but a dim light, which glowed over the water.

"Good evening!" said Nancy. "But we can't see anybody. Where are you and who are you?"

"Guess!" said the voice. At the same time the light came nearer.

Suddenly a thought pöpped into Nick's head. It was a story he had heard about a little boy called Peter Pan, who went to a place called Never-Never-Never Land, and met a fairy who wasn't anything but a spot of light.

"Are you Tinker-Bell, the fairy?" he cried. "Are you Peter Pan's fairy?"

"No, not that, either," came the voice. "I'll tell you who I am. I'm called Will o' the Wisp. I live in Dixie Land, but I never stay in the same place long. I move around from place to place in a boat and I always carry a lantern. I'm sort of a night policeman because I see that all the water folk are safe. Can you see me now?"

Very slowly there appeared, to the Twin's astonished eyes, an odd little man in a queer little boat.

"Most people cannot see me," he nodded, "but I was sure you could, because you have magic along. But you must never try to come any near to me than you are now or I will disappear. I always keep a certain distance away from mortals. Another thing! Dry land is not good for my health. I must live where there is water, and so I stay on ponds and swamps and marshes in my boat."

"You are different from other fairies," said Nancy. "We know ever so many and none of them are like you."

Will o' the Wisp chuckled silently. "That's the best compliment had since my seven hundredth b :" he declared, "and I'm a thous rs old. Fairies all like to be diff. If they weren't they wouldn't be s. Well, that's enough about me, l es. Who are you, and what are you doing in Dixie Land?"

The twins told how they had come to help the Dixie Landers, by the Fairy Queen's orders.

"Ringtail the Coon came down this way and we followed him," said Nick. "We thought it queer that he should sleep all day and then start out for a walk at night. He came straight toward this pond."

"It isn't strange at all!" declared Will o' the Wisp. "That's the way he always does. He's after food and he's got his eye on Poke-Nose Pickerel. Ringtail's very fond of fish."

A COLLEGE GIRL MAKES REAL WIFE

Although She May Balk Someimes on the Word Obey.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 3.—The college girl may balk on the word "obey" in the marriage ceremony, but when she says "I will" she means it.

In other words, if all parents would send their daughters to college, the divorce lawyers would have to take in their shingles.

A college education as a panacea for the divorce evil is advocated by Mrs. Luella W. St. Clair Moss, President Emeritus of Christian College, here, and the first woman to be nominated for Congress from Missouri. She was defeated in the recent congressional campaign.

One reason the college girl steers clear of the divorce court, Mrs. Moss believes, is because her marriage is the "result of deep affection rather than half-baked impulse."

"That is the kind of marriage that lasts," says Mrs. Moss. "A college girl has her sense of values developed. She usually is not guided so largely by her emotions and she isn't ready to jump into matrimony with every sheik-like Lothario who comes along."

She Co-operates.

A second reason why a college woman makes a lasting wife is because she has learned discipline, Mrs. Moss believes.

"Divorce," she says, "shows a lack of discipline. The contending parties have not learned how to co-operate or to put aside personal desires for their common good."

"The girl who goes to college and partakes of its discipline seldom, if ever, gets into the divorce court."

Mrs. Moss denies emphatically that college women are contributing to the country's quota of old maids.

"College girls are as much interested in marriage as are other girls," she says. "And my observations are based on contact with more than 5,000 of them.

Home and Career.

"College girls are not choosing between a home and a career—they are choosing both."

All the talk about the home going to pieces when the wife enters upon a career is stuff and nonsense, she remarks.

"I hold a girl is a better wife and mother who has proved herself capable of self-support and independence," she says.

"All sorts of data may be furnished to demonstrate that marriage is becoming an absolete institution, but it continues to be and always will be the supreme factor in a woman's life—and in a man's, too, for that matter."

AMERICANS GET MOST CONTRACTS

This Shows That American Singers Are of a High Grade.

By GEORGE BRITT.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—"Between artists of equal ability, the American gets the contract every time."

This policy of making the Chicago Civic Opera Company THE American company, shows itself in a roster of American-born and trained singers assembling here for the opening of this winter's season.

Home-Grown Songbirds.

Not only the singers for principal roles, such as Edith Mason, Louise Homer, Cyrena Van Gordon, Florence Macbeth and the Chicago-reared Mary Garden, are United States products. But also are the newer singers, the developing stars of the future.

The history of such singers shows American earmarks in the way of graduation from state universities, singing in church choirs and teaching in small towns.

Kathryn Browne, for example, never has been outside the United States. The middle-western University of Illinois was her starting point in the musical world.

"I expect to go abroad some day, of course," she says. "But I'd like if possible to show that American blood and home training can win out in grand opera. That is contrary to tradition, but I shall keep trying."

And Kathryn Meisle, who makes her debut this year, has had absolutely no foreign training. The extent of her voyaging has been to commute from her home in Philadelphia to New York for music lessons.

Americans All.

Margery Maxwell went to high school in Missoula, Mont., and then to the University of Montana. Her first notice outside of the home town was when she sang as "Miss Missoula" at an Elks' state convention. Nothing very foreign or "highbrowish" about that!

Mary McCormic who made her debut under the regime of Mary Garden, has studied and sung a bit abroad, but is as American as pumpkin pie. Florence Macbeth, who has sung widely in concert and opera here and abroad, is another of the red-white-and-blue collection.

The director of the company, Giorgio Polacco, is Italian by name and birth, but naturalized here. And if the question of nativity is raised, his wife, Edith Mason, has an answer that is a good one, even if it does reverse naturalization laws. She says:

"Of course, he's American. He married me."

A THRILLING STORY OF JAPANESE QUAKE

Found in Official Report of Captain S. Robinson of "Empress of Australia."

One of the most thrilling and instructive stories written in recent years is contained in the Official Report of Captain S. Robinson, R.N.R., commander of the Canadian Pacific S. S. "Empress of Australia," on the Japanese earthquake, the fire and subsequent relief operations issued in booklet form by the Canadian Pacific Steamships, Ltd.

In the vernacular of the bridge, Captain Robinson relates the incidents of the disaster as they were brought to his notice, from noon of Saturday, September 1st, when, as his ship was preparing to leave the dock at Yokohama, the first earthquake took place, until September 12th, when, after encountering innumerable difficulties—a fouled propellor, a sea of burning oil, and serving as a hospital and relief ship for the earthquake sufferers, the "Australia" left the stricken Orient for Vancouver.

Stories of Captain Robinson's heroism, outstanding seamanship with which he upheld the traditions of the Royal Navy Reserve, and consideration for the suffering ones at great personal cost and effort, have been accorded a little of the publicity which is their due, but the Captain's report is modest in the extreme, and although one can glean from it some of the great problems which presented themselves to him, the "hero of the disaster" reports only the good works executed by those identified with relief work. It is therefore fitting that the Company should include in the booklet letters addressed to the Captain by the refugees, passengers on the ship and the American relief committee in recognition and appreciation of his skilful handling of the many critical situations which presented themselves.

The report is an historical document, recording the greatest natural disaster known to man, and certainly no library will be complete without a copy of the booklet which can be obtained without charge ofrm the Canadian Pacific Offices at Montreal.

A liar is a man who says he enjoys nearly freezing to death.

Window Gardens

BY LOUISE S. MARSHALL

The gorgeous tulip is always a delight in the window garden. The great danger with tulips lies in bringing the bulbs too soon from the cellar. Ten to 12 weeks in the dark are required for the formation of the tulip roots.

The crocus makes a charming indoor garden. It must be grown cool. It will not thrive in a very warm room. The crocus looks best when planted in a shallow pan—six to eight bulbs in a five-inch pan.

Freezias should be planted closely—at least 12 bulbs in a four-inch pot, with the tops above the soil and put in a sunny window as soon as planted.

LEAGUE NATIONS BRANCH IN CITY

Meeting Held Last Night At Which Proposal Was Launched.

Last evening a meeting was held in the Public Library, which had for its object the formation of a Peterboro League of Nations. C. H. Ackerman presided. The speaker was H. G. Richardson of Ottawa general secretary of the League in Canada. He explained the motto of the league which is to keep peace among the nations and try and prevent war.

Mr. Richardson has been very successful in organizing branches in Canada, having already organized branches in 13 different cities. The first step to organize a society is to get a committee who are thoroughly interested in the organization. The League is now widening out very rapidly and there are now over 4,000 members in Canada and the league expects to have at least 10,000 members by next June.

Great Britain leads the world in memberships with over 400,000 France is second with approximately 90,000. It is hoped by Mr. Richardson that Canada will be in third place by next year. The league was formed in January 1920 and at that time there were 14 nations in the league, now there are 54 nations in it the latest recruit being Ireland. No nation has withdrawn from the league since it was formed. Italy committed an act of war when she bombarded Corfu. Greece appealed to the league and the league council looked for some medium which would be accepted by both countries Both accepted the offices of the league and war was averted. Italy, said Mr. Richardson as a member of the Nations knew that if she went to war with Greece she would be going to war in defiance of other members of the league An authority was quoted as stating that if there had been a sitting of the League of Nations at Geneva in 1914 there would have been no World War.

Mr. Richardson desires to get representatives of all local clubs such as the Rotary Kiwanis and others. It was suggested that a small committee of four or five be appointed to represent Peterboro. It was also decided upon to hold a meeting at some future date, probably about the middle of this month when a prominent speaker on the League of Nations will likely be present. Mr. Richardson also stated that a film of moving pictures showing what the League was doing may be brought to Canada and be shown in the cities where the league is formed. It was also pointed out that the league is formed to educate the people on the countries affairs.

LEAVING THE CITY GET PRESENTATIONS

Club Bags For Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barry From Local Masons

Last night, at the close of the formal meeting of Peterborough Lodge, A.F. and A.M., and during refreshment, a member of the lodge. Bro. W. H. Barry, was presented with a handsome gladstone bag, and one for Mrs. Barry as well.

The gifts were handed to the recipient by Rt. Wor. Bro. Harry Rush, with expression of goodwill and regret that Bro. Barry was leaving the Lodge and the city.

Bro. F. H. Dobbin, Wor. Bro. Fred Roy of Corinthian Lodge, and Wor. Bro. Bruce Fowler of Royal Arthur Lodge also spoke in commendation of Bro. Barry and the many contributions he had made in the Masonic interests, in a practical way.

All of these Bro. Barry acknowledged in a brief and terse address.

Being an architect and most ready and willing to help with advice and practical assistance, when the Lodges were looking for new quarters, after the fire of 1918, and room had been arranged for in the Bank of Commerce building, Bro. Barry, working with the committee from the several lodges, and contributing his service, designed the lay-out of the hall and rooms, making a most acceptable and commodious home for the local fraternity. The ensemble of the lodge room is conceded by visiting brethren to be one of the most handsome and comfortable in the Province. The decorative effects which, entirely in Masonic tradition and keeping, were made by Bro. Barry, with assistance from Bro. R. Ross, both well skilled in such details. And the committee approving, as a matter of course.

As everything had been destroyed in the fire, the lodges were enabled to put in entirely new and handsome fittings, making the hall most attractive and pleasing. For all of this, Bro. Barry will be remembered.

No Masonic gathering has been complete, especially those of a social character, without the able assistance given by Bro. Barry as a capable musician and pianist. Such a gift is of large value in meetings of men, and on any and all occasions Bro. Barry has given pleasure and assistance in the programme as arranged, both in his own and in the gatherings of the sister lodges. He now leaves for a point in California where he proposes to take up work, and hopes to find where he locates a larger field for his skill and talent.

A pleasing half-hour was had in the presentation of the trophy shields, donated by the Senior Warden and Junior Warden of the Lodge, as prizes to the winning teams in the baseball and tug-of-war concussions at the annual outing.

The presentation was made by Wor. Bro. Logan, who in a pleasant way recalled incidents of the struggles and commended the efforts of the combatants, especially those who excelled in strength and sporting dexterity, coupled with some amusing relation of his juvenile baseball experiences, when the national sport was termed "one and two old-cat," as Rt. Wor. Bro. Harry Rush well remembers. The leaders of these teams, with becoming modesty, accepted the trophies, both for their intrinsic value and as evidence of prowess.

MEDICAL PRACTICE WILL BE SURVEYED

Dr. T. W. H. Young of This City on the Board

KINGSTON, Nov. 3.— A special committee of the Ontario Medical Council is engaged upon a survey of the conditions in medical practice and a study of the curriculum in the medical colleges of Ontario. Dr. William Spankie, of Wolff Island, is chairman and his associates are Dr. E. E King, Toronto, and Dr. T. W. H Young, of Peterborough.

Their work has particular reference to the proposed revision of the medical curriculum, including matriculation, the entire course and work following graduation. This is a very live question in the United States and there have been revisions in the different colleges of Canada from time to time. They are obtaining the views of physicians, professors, graduates and students. The committee has spent considerable time at Queen's medical college and leaves on Saturday for London. After completing an inspection there it will go to Toronto University. Discussing this subject to-day, Dr. Wm. Spankie said that the prime object of the committee was to ascertain what should be the curriculum to date in order that the physicians should have a thorough, practical education properly rounded out to meet the demands of the profession He was in favour of a five year course, with a year of practice work upon graduation .There were not enough hospitals to meet the requirements of interns and he was disposed to favor placing the graduate with a good practising physician. After completing the investigation at the medical centres of the province a report will be compiled containing the views of the committee.

MRS. ENRICO CARUSO GETS A NEW HUSBAND

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(Canadian Press.) — Paris newspaper reports that Mrs. Enrico Caruso, formerly Dorothy Park Benjamin, of New York, was engaged to marry Capt. E. A. Ingram, a Scotsman, were confirmed by members of the Benjamin family in New York, the New York Times said to-day.

Mrs. Caruso's relatives declined to make a formal announcement of the engagement, on the ground that they had not been specifically instructed to do so, but admitted they had received word that the wedding would take place in about three weeks in England.

JOHN DOHERTY MADE GETAWAY

Was In Charge of County Constable Moore When He Escaped.

While John Doherty was being conveyed by automobile to the Court-House yesterday to answer a charge under B.O.T.A., he leaped from the car and escaped. County Constable Archie Moore was taking the prisoner to the lock-up.

The car proceeded up Sheridan Street towards the Court-House, and it it said, was thrown into low gear to climb the hill Doherty, who was sitting in the back seat with Constable Moore, opened the door and sprang out. He ran behind the Munro House and made his getaway.

On one other occasion Doherty escaped from the grasp of the law, represented in that case by a constable and the License Inspector.

The escaped man, it is alleged, was captured while conveying a load of liquor into the city. His photograph is in Chief Newhall's picture gallery. He is about 30 years of age and the picture was taken when he was 17.

OFFER TO MATCH HORSES IN RACE

Epinard and Zev To Be Matched For a Race.

PARIS, Nov. 3. —(Canadian Press.)—An offer to match Epinard against Zev in a race to be run in France in April or May will be forwarded to Harry Sinclair by the French Jockey Club. The assent of Pierre Worthimer, owner of Epinard to the holding of a match race has already been obtained, with the distance, stakes and other details to be discussed later.

The race, according to present tentative plan, would be run at Long Champ course by the French Society for the encouragement of horse racing under the auspices of the French Jockey Club.

GENERAL SECRETARY GAVE TALK TO GIRLS

On Thursdaq evening, a meeting of the C.G.I.T. groups of the city headed by the group from Knox Presbyterian church was held in Knox church rooms, where the girls with their mother and teachers, were addressed by Miss May Gemmell of Toronto, general secretary for the Presbyterian church of the Girls' Work Board.

Miss Gemmell gave an interesting resume of the progress being made in Canadian Girls in Training work, and referred to a recent baquent held in Vancouver, where the programme was put on by a group of C.G.I.T. girls, followed by a programme given by Chinese girls who are members also of the group.

BAKED BEANS FEATURE SUPPER GEORGE STREET

Nearly two hundred people attended the New England Supper held in the Sunday school rooms at George Street Methodist church last evening under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Society, of which Mrs. S. R. Armstrong is president. The supper was all that could be desired and included real New England dainties in the form of baked beans pork and brown bread, apples, pumpkin pie, doughnuts and coffee.

88TH BIRTHDAY OF MR. THOMAS YOUNG

Friends and Relatives Gather To Honor Old Timer.

On Thursday of this week, Mr. Thomas Young, who resides with his son, W. J. Young, at 564 Charlotte Street, and who is almost a nonagenarian, celebrated in fitting fashion the attainment of his eighty-eighth birthday. A real family gathering in the old gentleman's honour was held at the home of T. D. Young, Mapleburn, in North Monaghan, when over fifty of the family, including grandchildren and great-grandchildren, all from the district, were present.

A fowl supper formed part of the festivities, with an evening that was spent in the enjoyment of games and and music. A step-dance with his son-in-law was the final contribution of old Mr. Young to the evening's programme, in which he took an active part.

Mr. Young, who is in his eighty-eighth year, has a lighter step and a more supple frame than many a man half his age, is a remarkably alert old gentleman, with a never-ceasing interest in life and people. He reads the paper through daily, never missing an issue, and goes for long walks every afternoon He is fond of displaying his athletic ability ,and is one of those old gentlemen who possesses a young heart and a young outlook on life. He has spent all of his eighty-seven years in the vicinity of Peterborough, having been born a few miles from the city, and spending most of his life farming nearby. His health is perfect.

(b) Any moose, deer, reindeer, or caribou in that part of Ontario lying south of the French and Mattawa Rivers, except from the 5th day of November to the 20th day of November, both days inclusive.

(c) Any moose, deer, reindeer or caribou throughout that part of Ontario lying north and west of the French and Mattawa Rivers, except from the 25th day of October to the 30th day of November, both days inclusive.

(d) Plover, snipe, etc.—Black breasted and golden plover, wilson or jack snipe and the greater and lesser yellow legs, except from the 1st day of September to the 15th day of December in any year, both days inclusive.

Woodcock from 15th day of September to 15th day of October.

Partridge from 5th day of November to 20th of November provided that in that part of the Province lying north and west of the French and Mattawa Rivers, the open season shall be from October 15th to November 20th and no person shall have in his possession more than ten partridge in any one year.

No muskrat shall be hunted, taken or killed or had in possession of any person of that part of the Province lying south of the French and Mattawa Rivers except from 1st day of March to 21st of April and in that part of the Province lying north of the French and Mattawa Rivers from the 1st day of April to the 21st of May.

The closed season for pheasant or prairie fowl has been extended until the 5th of November, 1924, and the close season for taking quail, wild turkey, black or grey squirrels has been extended until the 1st day of November, 1924, and for wood duck and eider duck the close season is extended to the 15th of December, 1924.

It shall not be lawful for any person to take, trap, hunt or shoot any beaver or otter in that part of the Province lying south of the French River, Lake Nipissing and Mattawa River until the 1st day of January, 1923, and in all other parts of the Province lying north and west of the described territories from and including the 1st day of April to the 31st day of December.

CARE OF ENAMEL.

If you will place your new enamel sauce pans in a pan of warm water and let the water come to a boil, then cool, the pans will last longer without burning or cracking.

A WEINER ROAST IN THE AUTUMN

What Is More Fun Than Cooking Supper Out of Doors in the Fall?

As the weather grows colder and there's a chill in the air after the sun sets, what is more fun than cooking supper out doors?

A big roaring fire makes light and heat if the dark catches you and weiners and potatoes roasted in this same fire have a deliciousness the "hot-dog" man at the fair can not equal.

The fire should be built an hour or two before time to get supper, for a huge bed of coals is necessary to roast corn, potatoes or apples successfully.

The coffee should be made at home and taken in thermos bottles, for it's well nigh impossible for the amateur camper to make really good coffee over a camp fire.

To roast corn, string the ears, unhusked, on a strong wire. Thread the wire through the heavy end of the corn. Pull this chain of corn into a circle, fastening the ends of the wire together. By this time the fire must be burnt down to a great bed of coals. Open the coals and in the very center bury the corn. Heap the coals back over it and let roast half an hour. The potatoes are buried around the edge of the fire in the hot ashes.

Keep Coals Alive

After the corn is buried the heavy limbs that have not burned out are piled back over the fire and these keep the coals alive and furnish heat to roast the weiners.

The fun of roasting the wieners begins in sharpening long sticks on which to roast them. Green wood must be used for the impromptu forks, for dead wood would catch fire and burn up before the wiener could roast. Make a long, smooth point and slip the wieners, long fashion, on the point. Hold over five coals, turning frequently until the skin bursts. Put between buttered rolls and "taste the taste."

By the time the first course of wieners is finished, the second course, of roasted corn and potatoes, will be ready.

Pull the potatoes from the ashes. The jackets may be covered with ashes but the inside is delicious with plenty of butter, salt and pepper. Sweet potatoes as well as Irish are served.

Then comes the corn. A long-handled rake is perhaps out of the question but long-forked sticks can be found in the woods and answer the purpose. Rake the coals away from the corn and pull from the fire. Remove from wire and serve in the husks with butter.

Paper Plates Help

If each ear of corn is put on a small paper plate many of grease spot may be spared on a coat or skirt. The plate is so light and flexible that it can be used as a sort of shield for the corn.

The potatoes are broken in halves and eaten from the shells.

Bacon is delicious fastened on sticks and broiled over the fire.

Oysters can be rolled in bacon slices, securely fastened with toothpicks and stuck on long, pointed sticks and roasted like the wieners. These "pigs in blankets" are served in buttered rolls.

The tang in the air and certain knowledge that nice days and evenings are numbered, makes a party of this sort doubly enjoyable. A party of twelve or fourteen is easier to manage than a larger one.

The consent of the owner of the woods must of course be obtained because it takes a fair-sized brush pile to make enough coals to roast corn for a party of twelve.

A smaller fire is adequate for only wieners or bacon and the fun is as great with much less work on the part of the fire makers and wood gatherers.

WANTS DICTATORSHIP.

PARIS, Nov. 3—(United Press.)—A Havas despatch from Berlin says it is learned authoritatively that the Bavarian government has sent an ultimatum to Chancellor Stresemann, demanding establishment of Nationalist dictatorship. Bavarian government, the despatch announces, intends moving forward the troops now assembled at Bavarian frontier unless such a dictatorship is created with the briefest delay.

THE PLATE GLASS FRONT HAMILTON STORE BROKEN

HAMILTON, November 3 (Canadian Press). — The entire plate-glass front of the Bond Bakery Co. at 58 James Street North, was blown out this morning.

The glass was smashed to fine pieces, but no one was injured.

The explanation given is that a gas tap had been accidentally turned on in one of the ovens, and that when the place became filled with gas there was an explosion which wrecked the store front.

BENNY GOULD WINS CANADIAN TITLE

Carried Off Featherweight Championship From Curly Wilshur.

TORONTO, Nov. 3.—(Canadian Press). — Benny Gould, a former Toronto newsboy, and now of New York, paid a return visit to Toronto yesterday, gave Curly Wilshur a nice boxing lesson in a main ten round bout at the Coliseum last night and carried off the latter's title of featherweight champion of Canada. Gould fought a carefully planned battle, was easily ahead in 6 of his rounds held seventh even and lost the remaining three to his opponent.

In the preliminarys Harry Mayberry of Duluth, knocked out Johnny Green of New York, in the third round of an 8-round bout. Both are bantam weights. Tommy Mitchell, Toronto feather weight, won an eight round bout from Frank Mack, of Hartford, Conn. and Chris Newton of Toronto and Will Devanney, a Scottish invader, fought 8 fierce rounds to a draw. Wilshur was a short lived champion having only recently won the Canadian title from Kid Roy of Montreal. He was clearly outclassed in his bout with Gould who has improved one hundred per cent. by his stay in New York. The last time the pair met, about two years ago, Wilshur administered a nine drubbing to Gould, who performed as an untrained substitute at twenty-four hours notice. But last night he was a different Gould. Trained to the minute and displaying much knowledge, he proved Wilshur's master and won a popular victory.

For six rounds he jabbed and worried the sturdy Wilshur and met his opponents rushes with well directed uppercuts. In the seventh Wilshur began a furious attack with the knowledge that he was behind a wide margin. He held Gould even and continuing his boring-in methods he was decidedly the better fighter in the remaining rounds, but his spurt was started too late.

AN EPIDEMIC OF A SIMPLE FROCK

All Fabrics and Embroideries Are Taking on a Richer Hue.

(By MARIAN HALE)

PARIS, Nov. 3.—This is the season when simplicity must be mingled with sophistication if it is to receive any recognition in fashion circles.

"The epidemic of the perfectly simple crepe frock which held us in sway for so long has given way to a natural reaction in exactly the opposite direction," says Mme. Charlotte Appert, Parisian designer.

Here's her summary of the fashion outlook:

"All fabrics and embroideries are taking on a richer hue. The afternoon frock of this season will be quite as gorgeous in its way as the one for evening The same holds true for coats.

A Relief

"Slenderness is important, but the straight line must be qualified by panels, flounces, draperies and tiers. Embroidery is not to be confined to silks and wools, but will be carried out in diamons, pearls, rubies and colored stones. The riches of furs and the most supple of velvets will be seen in abundance."

One of the ways to be sure of a smart frock this season is to watch the hemline.

"Only those on the most severe frocks follow a straight course," Mme. Appert says. "The interesting ones are all scalloped or irregular. The edges are accentuated by brilliant colors or by gold or silver bands that show between the scallops.

Effect Is Short

"On some of the evening frocks much of the substantial material is cut away to reveal the delicate, lacy fabric beneath and this gives the frock the effect of decided shortness.

"Clothes this season reveal the figure, not suggestively, but very pleasingly. Gowns are rarely cut low in front, though many of them are cut to the waistline in the back. There are long sleeves on many of the evening frocks, and absolutely none on many of the models for afternoon.

"On the whole it is a season of contradictions, but the result is it is the most beautiful one we have ever had."

Giraffe's tongue is about two feet long.

TWO-MINUTE TOURS

(By United Press)

A land where fishes walk along the roads and climb rocks and trees where crabs fling sand into the air and elephants play tricks like sportive children—such, says the National Geographic Society, is Ceylon, where Great Britain is negotiating with the natives

Colombo, the present capital, has a magnificent artificial harbor built by the British. That city superceded the former principal seaport, Galle. In the new port city the native quarter, with its beautiful Sinhalese girls, its jewel-grinders and lace makers, contrasts sharply with stately Government buildings and European customs of the English section.

The famous cinnamon gardens, where the Dutch formerly cultivated that spice in enormous quantities, today are given over mainly to a park and bungalows, and here houses of well-to-do residents nestle in bowers of wondrous beauty and sweet perfume.

Scanty remains of the ancient capital, Anaradhapura, lie in lofty mountains amid matted jungle growths. Glowing descriptions of this ancient wonder-city by Arab, Persian and Greek voyagers led to the excavation work now going on.

Nearby is the sacred mountain of Mihintale, with its huge irrigation tanks, one of them begun five centuries before the Cristian era. This tank covered forty square miles with its waters when new.

The Walking fish performs its terrestrial antics when ponds dry up in the hot season. Then it either burrows into the soft mud to wait for rain or, by night, crawls out of the last shallow depressions and goes writing off through dripping grass on the hunt for other pools. The natives then literally catch fish, sometimes gathering them up by the bushel.

THE ENGINEERING SKILL AND POWER OF THE EGYPTIAN

Why Marvel at Ancients Moving Large Stones For Pyramids?

Why marvel at the engineering skill and power displayed by the ancient Egyptians in moving the big stones for the pyramids? In Chicago the other day they moved a seven-story building 85 feet, in widening a street. The building weighs 15 million pounds.

While the movers were transporting the big structure at the rate of four feet an hour, its elevators continued operating, and running water, telephone and electric service were maintained as usual.

"Some job!" will be the average man's comment. And he's right.

Dead men helped move the big building in Chicago, for probably nine-tenths of the mechanical "tricks" employed in the moving were worked out by former generations, long since gone back to the dust.

The inventors of the lifting jack, the principle of rollers, ropes, cables, block and tackle and windlass—all these inventors helped move the Chicago building. So did many other men—including the creators of the steam engine and the patient intellects that slowly trained men to work together on big undertakings.

Without all these forerunners, the Chicago building couldn't have been moved an inch.

Economists have an expression, "the dead hand"—the process of men continuing their work in this life, long after their death, by their discoveries and accomplishments which they bequeath to generations that follow them.

The principle of "the dead hand" operates all through our daily lives. We puff with vanity as we observe our accomplishments and modestly admit that we're the mightiest generation ever. But we're really the harvesters of the effort of the many generations of the past. They sowed the seed for us, as we are doing for the future.

GUARD THE BABY AGAINST COLDS

To guard the baby against colds nothing can equal Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are a mild laxative that will keep the little one's stomach and bowels working regularly. It is a recognized fact that where the stomach and bowels are in good order that colds will not exist; that the health of the little one will be good and that he will thrive and be happy and good natured. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GOD'S RESERVE FORCES.

God's reserve forces—where are they? They are in all kinds of hidden places, and in all kinds of things. It may be only the song of a bird, or a ray of sunshine; it may be only a few kind words from a sincere soul or the perfume of some beautiful flower that will constitute God's reserve forces for us. How often you and I, my friend, have felt we were about "all in," and practically done for, years ago, yet here we are alive, and perhaps stronger and better than we were then, so let us never say die till we're dead; and then let us believe that "In a nobles, sweeter song, we'll sing God's power to save, when this poor, lisping, stammering tongue lies silent in the grave."

Sometimes, too, our very extreme need leads the way to the discovery of God's hidden reserves. I read once of some sailors dying of thirst believing that they were sailing on salt water, when one of them in desperation, let down a pail determined to drink the deadly salt stuff, but on putting it to his lips found it was fresh water. With a hoarse cry he called to his mates his discovery of LIFE in the midst of death.

Take the case too of many a mother, with perhaps little strength, hardly able to do her ordinary day's work; but one of the children takes sick, and she goes night and day and wonders where all the endurance comes from. It's wonderful. I have often watched too, with wonder the healing of a wound. Where are the hidden forces that cause that wound to heal, yet immediately we hurt ourselves the healing process begins. Oh, yes, God is love. His mercy lightens all the path in which we roam. Bliss He wakes, and woe He lightens. God is Wisdom, God is Love.

A FIRST NIGHTER IN THE BALD ROW

They Are Not the Phlegmatic Creatures So Commonly Imagined Abroad.

By ROY J. GIBBONS.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 3.—Pity not, nor scorn the much-maligned gentry constituting first-nighters in the bald-headed row.

For in the prophetic words of Mme. Amelita Galli-Curci, appearing in concert tour here, these sometimes frowned-upon individuals are nothing less than "new type artists trying to express themselves."

Attended by Homer Samuels, her accompanist-husband, the famous diva, in no uncertain terms and with many emphatic shrugs of her vivid shoulders, let it be known that a renaissance of culture and art has started to dawn upon America.

Our business men, she says, have been vilified by truthless European paintings.

Maligned Indeed!

They are not the phlegmatic creatures so commonly imagined abroad. Indeed no! They are but artists bestirring themselves!

"Here in America," she said, indicating the four compass points, "you have industrial imagination.

"Look over this city and at its myriad chimneys dedicated to Yankee thought and progress.

"What do they typify, if not symbols of romantic ingenuity born of vision?

"And beyond the horizon, over millions of cultivated acres, the same sight greets the eyes.

"I tell you it is beautiful! A race capable of such, is artistic to its very core.

"Revilers of so powerful a conquest had best hold their silly tongues.

Renaissance Coming.

"For out of America is coming a renaissance of art and culture, such as the world never before has had the good fortune to enjoy.

"Within our gates right now is the cream of Europe's estheticism.

"And when this golden influx mingles with America's imagination and creative genius, the melting pot shall disgorge a super race of intellectuals, who will make the world a beautiful place in which to live."

During this unfeigned defense of her adopted land, the coloratura's voice had reached an excited pitch.

But when Galli-Curci finished, the tone again descended to its normal and lovely softness. And she smiled a most disarming pleasantry.

No Fulsome Praise.

Of America she never tires talking. But her praise is never fulsome.

Mme. Galli-Curci, above everything else, is sincere.

"Men like Henry Ford and Edison mirror the great possibilities of this country, she says.

"They have imagination. And imagination is the mother of art.

"That is why it makes me angry to hear the ignorant in other lands speak of America's industrial kings and business leaders in the light of dumpy little manikins.

"There is nothing cold and calculating about building giant enterprise. Nor is there a lack of artistic appreciation manifested in designers of the kind who could cause so grand a temple, as the Pennsylvania Station in New York, to grow from brick and steel."

AN AWFUL ATTACK OF PIMPLES ALL OVER HIS FACE

Pimples breaking out on the face and other parts of the body is a sure sign that the blood is not in proper shape.

While the skin is the object of the attack the real seat of the disease is in the blood on account of the entire circulation being poisoned.

Burdock Blood Bitters quickly and effectually banishes pimples and all other skin diseases as it goes right to the root of the trouble by cleansing and enriching the blood.

Mr. Conad Anderson, Kelfield, Sask., writes:—"A year ago I had an awful attack of pimples. They broke out all over my face and I could not get rid of them in any way. One day a friend told me about your Burdock Blood Bitters and let me have a bottle he had to spare. After using it I noticed a change, so I bought three more bottles, and now I don't know there is such a thing as pimples."

INCREASE IN DEATHS

Deaths from carbon monoxide poisoning are on the increase. These deaths occur from running cars in closed garages. The deadly poison comes from the exhaust and only a very small quantity is required to kill a person.

Not only is this poison of great danger in a garage, but, with the large number of automobiles now in use, it becoming a danger in city streets. It is not dangerous enough to kill under such conditions but it is liable to cause chronic poisoning if a person is subjected to it continually.

Persons who ride often in long tunnels, especially in ones that are crowded during the rush hours, are not only suffering from bad air due to the usul fumes caused by cars running in a confined place but are breathing more car bon monoxide than is good for them. Ventilating systems in all tunnels is being agitated in most cities.

HOW TO KEEP 'EM DOWN ON THE FARM

Has Been Solved on the Minidoka Reclamation Project in Southern Idaho.

By HARRY B. HUNT.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The problem of "how to keep 'em down on the farm" has been solved on the Minidoka reclamation project in southern Idaho, according to Benjamin F. Spittler, owner of one of the prize ranches there.

Less than 20 years ago—16 years, in fact—the whole Minidoka territory was a dreary desert of greasewood and sagebrush. Today it is one of the most productive and prosperous agricultural areas in the country.

But putting water on the land, primary object of the irrigation development, has not been fully responsible for the ideal condition now existing. The thing that keeps Minidoka women happy and the boys satisfied, is the bringing of cheap electricity to the farms.

Helps Everyone.

Electric current developed at the Minidoka power house, above that needed for pumping for irrigation, is sold by the Government to the project communities at a rate averaging slightly over one-half of one cent per killowatt hour. Eventually, the farmers will own the plant. The municipal or co-operative organizations distributing the current deliver it to the home or the ranch at a charge of three to five cents per killowatt hour for the first 150 killowatt hours and of one cent per killowatt hour for all over 150 killowatt hours per month. The average cost is under two cents.

The average city dweller pays from eight to twelve cents per killowatt hour for his current. The average farmer often cannot have it at any cost. Ample electricity at low cost, then, is the special boon of the Minidoka resident.

What has this meant in the way of his advantage and development?

Through the co-operative factor introduced by community distribution of electricity and the necessity of pulling together in the operation of the canal systems, the residents are brought together frequently in a business way. Social development comes, too. They become more than mere toilers of the land. Their vision broadens.

All Are Content.

"We have had to develop leadership and take hold of business affairs with which the average farmer rarely has any concern," says Spittler. "This experience has pushed us into many lines of co-operation. In addition to the 25 mutual electric companies on the project, distributing electricity to more than 1,200 farmers, and owned and managed by farmers, we have co-operative cheese factories, cold storage plants, dairy and hog associations and numerous other organizations.

"We have developed the best school system in the state. The children of the farm and town are being schooled together and we believe this results in keeping the farmers' boys and girls on the land after they grow up. The country children are taken to school in auto busses and returned to their homes at night.

"We have completely done away with the chief bane of the country—isolation, loneliness and drudgery. Country life as we live it on the Minidoka project is all-sufficient—therefore satisfying."

MOTHER!

Clean Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Even if cross, feverish, bilious, constipated or full of cold, children love the pleasant taste of "California Fig Syrup." A teaspoonful never fails to clean the liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENT IN SILK MANUFACTURING

A Few Silk Worms Smuggled Out of China Started Industry For Christendon.

Important improvements have been made recently in the manufacturing of silk by machinery. The silk worm soon may be unnecessary.

In 1292 Marco Polo, great traveler of the middle ages, smuggled a few silk worms out of Northern China, where Kubla Khan then reigned, to Italy. These few worms started the silk industry for Christendom.

Hilaire de Chardonnet, a French nobleman, of recent times, studied the silk worm and observed that it simply turned wood pulp into silk. He invented a process of grinding the pulp and forcing it through a small opening so that it came out a continuous fiber. For a long time this imitation silk was considered very inferior. Of late the process has been greatly improved. The wood pulp, or as the chemists call it, cellulose, is now treated with acetic acid and the resulting silk can be made into a more handsome product than the finest work of the silk worm.

ARE YOU SUFFERING FROM SICK HEADACHE?

People who are suffering from constipation, billiousness or sick headache can obtain speedy relief by taking one or two of Norvall's Stomach and Tonic Tablets at bed time.

These tablets are recommended by well known and reliable druggists and if they fail to do what we claim for them, return the bottle and your dealer will refund the money.

Mr. C. M. Moncur, Druggist, says: "For constipation, indigestion, and sick headache, Dr. Norvall's Stomach and Tonic Tablets have no equal."

STATUE OF SIR JOHN MacDONALD UNVEILED 1893

Nov. 1, 1893.—A statue of Sir John A. MacDonald, the famous Canadian statesman, who was the first premier of the Dominion after Confederation, was unveiled on this date in Hamilton, Ont. Sir John Thompson, who was the Premier of Canada, was the chief speaker at the unveiling ceremony.

New System of Fat Reduction

Here's a new way for all fat people to laugh together at that old bugaboo—Obesity. The saying that there is nothing new under the sun does not now apply to fat people any more. Here is something new for them—a new sensation, a new pleasure, a new and graceful figure, easily found by anyone who is passing beyond the limits of slimness. Everyone has heard of the Marmola Prescription; that harmless combination of fat-defying elements perfected by one of the foremost physicians. Now from the same high authority there comes another idea—the idea of condensing these same pure, harmless, ingredients into a pleasant little tablet. Taken after eating and at bedtime they help the stomach to dispose of all fatty foods, converting them into compact, solid flesh, muscle and energy, without dieting or exercise. Marmola Prescription Tablets regulate the entire system—do for you what bodily exertion and self denial cannot do, and the fat, once routed, is gone for good. You can prove all this at a trifling cost. Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists or sent postpaid by the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich. A case—sufficient to bring results—is but one dollar.

WEEKLY BOOK REVIEW

By JAMES W. DEAN

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Of the new books that come to hand this week the outstanding ones seem to be those by English authors. They are "Sir John Dering," by Jeffery Farnol; "The Woman of Knockaloe," by Sir Hall Caine, and "The Hopeful Journey," by Beatrice Kean Seymour.

In many ways "Sir John Dering is similar to Sabatini's Fortune's Fool." In many ways it is dissimilar.

Sir John is a duellist. His rapier flashes in almost every chapter of the tale, but little blood is spilled. In that Farnol is unlike Sabatini. Farnol draws the blade, but withholds it. Sabatini is out with it and into action on the least provocation.

This Sir John is a man of bad repute because of his escapades with swords and women. But at heart he is a "man o' sentiment" and most of the plot deals with his efforts to redeem himself in the eyes of a haughty maid who has sworn vengeance on him for the death of her lover.

Redemption in the eyes of the fair one comes when he has driven from the countryside all the knaves and tyrants and restored to contentment all those who have been oppressed.

Action of "Sir John Dering" takes place in the Sussex district, scene of Farnol's first success, "The Broad Highway." The author has been unfortunate in his attempt to include too many dialects. They make phonetic puzzles of many passages."

* * *

One thing Farnol has done in masterful style is his introduction to "Sir John Dering." "The light of guttering candles fell upon the two small swords where they lay, the one glittering brightly, the other its murderous steel horribly bent and dimmed." There is in that a challenge to read on which can not be denied.

* * *

As a simple narrative, "The Woman of Knockaloe" is passing fair, but Sir Hall Caine does not intend it as simple narrative. He is speaking in parables.

A minister, his son and daughter live on the Knockaloe farm on the Isle of Man. The war comes. The son enlists. The girl hates the Germans. Later, the farm is converted into an internment camp. The girl is the only woman among 25,000 prisoners and 2,000 guards. Thus she becomes known as "The Woman of Knockaloe."

Her brother at the front is killed. Her father loses his faith and becomes embittered. A contrary change overtakes the girl. She doesn't hate Germans so much as she hates those who make wars. Then she falls in love with one of the prisoners, Oskar.

With the coming of peace, prisoners are to be returned. Oskar must leave her. He tries to obtain work in England, but because of his nationality is barred. The girl loses the farm. Oskar proposes that the girl return to Germany with him. His mother writes that she would rather see him dead than married to one of the enemy.

Either of them can live alone, but it seems that all of earth is closed to them together. Race hatred persists after peace has stilled the guns of war.

Then the thought of Christ comes to the lovers. By sacrificing themselves they may point the way to everlasting peace on earth. They climb a cliff, strap themselves together and, with their first and last kiss on their lips, plunge into the ocean.

Only Hall Caine could sublimate and glorify suicide.

* * *

Reactions that followed the World War also play a part in "The Hopeful Journey." Yet reactions that followed the Crimean War are also included in this narrative, for it starts in 1826 and is concerned chiefly with the interests of Jeremy Bentley and his family. As Beatrice Seymour tells her story she marks the years so that the reader fully realizes the passage of time. There is nothing startling in the plot of the story. It is illuminating because it serves as the frame upon which an English woman works a design of behavior through several English generations.

* * *

Two recent volumes of short and unrelated tales are "The Other Story," by Henry Kitchell Webster, and "Loose Leaves," by Katherine Dayton. Neither has any great merit.

The chief virtue of Webster's stories is that he gives them homely little touches that make them seem real. But truth is not always stranger than fiction, and, very often, not nearly as interesting.

It seems to me that Miss Dayton has gone to considerable effort to appear funny in her stories in "Loose Leaves." There is humor in them, but it seems to have been born in great travail. Humor is ineffective unless it seems spontaneous.

Internal Bathing Meant Life Itself to 93-year-old Man.

All the physics of doctors couldn't give health to this 93-year-old-man. Internal Bathing, the common-sense warm water method of cleansing the intestines, gave him vigor in place of the infirmities of old age.

The letter from Mr. Amos Ganter of 57 James Street, St. John, N. B., is only one of thousands from men and women who have found the way back to health by Internal Bathing. He writes:

"Dear Mr. Tyrrell: "I believe the J. B. L. Cascade is one of the greatest inventions for sound health in the world. For years I was troubled with constipation, which was poisoning my whole system, and I was losing flesh. Purgatives failed to have any effect upon me, but only acted more like a poison: I would take a burning itch in my hands—a most distressing feeling—and purple spots would come out on the backs of my hands Everyone thought I was nearing the end because of my old age. But I can thank Dr. Tyrrell and the J. B. L. Cascade for restoring me to health I am now perfectly healthy and regular, and never use drugs."

People who are losing flesh, whose appetites are failing, and who are losing their health and sleep, due to constipation, headaches or biliousness, should stop using pills or laxatives and start Bathing Internally.

The J. B. L. Cascade is shown and explained at Warne Drug Co.

CANADIAN INTEGRITY AND BUSINESS ACUMEN PRAISED IN IRELAND

Dominion Education, Initiative and Faith in Her Destiny Lauded in Address to Belfast Manufacturers.

WORTH CULTIVATING

Apart altogether from ties of sentiment, kinship, and common ideals, there is one factor in our dealings with other parts of the British Empire which should not be overlooked. There are, as a general rule, few exchange complications and the markets are relatively constant.

Before proceeding to consider more in detail our relations with the principal Dominions, it is well to remember three or four elementary facts. All have been affected by the world slump, and it will pay us to take long views. In some, development is only beginning, and if we consider the growth of the Empire during the last generation we shall see how foolish it would be to judge the value of potential markets by the figures now at a time of world depression.

Secondly, in each country there have been considerable changes in trade conditions since the outbreak of war. New nations are competing for position, and a contrast between 1913 and 1923 is startling in many ways if we have time to figure out the changes in the relative position of the countries which are trading with the Dominions. The war gave both the Japanese and the Americans a great opportunity. The Japanese speedily lost ground after the armistice, largely because the quality of their goods was not always up to sample. The United States at the end of the war was in a stronger position than ever before as a world trading power. In some ways they have fallen back, partly because they moved too fast, and it is not so easy to establish new connections all at once. On the other hand, there can be no doubt that in certain departments or branches they still have a very strong position. There is great organization behind their efforts.

Tariffs Are Obstacles

There is room for both British and American effort, but we also must study each market even more closely, and not despise official information which is very carefully compiled.

How far the rise of Colonial industries affects the situation is not quite clear. It can, however, be maintained with certainty that those articles, which can only be manufactured here will still have a sale, and that those goods which we can make with great facility or of better quality than in the Dominions will continue in demand.

Tariffs are, of course, somewhat of an obstacle, but where goods are wanted tariffs will not of necessity keep them out, though they are factors which have to be constantly borne in mind.

Here in Northern Ireland we do more trade with the Empire than is perhaps realised, but we might have many more links. There is much that our friends in the Dominions could teach us, and it is quite extraordinary to see how zealous many of them are in expanding their trade. Australians, New Zealanders, South Africans, Canadians—one is quite amazed at the breadth of their outlook, at their alertness, their readiness to adopt new ideas. Talk with them, they will frankly admit the excellence of the manufactured goods of the old country, the high standards maintained, the difficulties they have in many of their own factories But they are exceedingly "go-ahead" in many directions. If we studied their exports we would see how they specialised or tried to specialise in certain lines, how they were gradually building up new markets. We have had a long start. In the case of linen goods our position is quite exceptional. But if the new firms can learn from the old, the old can learn from the new.

Now is the time to be studying, to pay attention to new developments, to follow closely what other nations are doing, what the Dominions are doing. It would be particularly valuable if the younger generation could visit the Dominions more. Czecho-Slovakians, Finns, and many more are doing it. Why should not we? Reports may say that there is little doing. Is this necessarily true five years ahead? Judged either by the fertility of the soil, the character of the people, or their past record, these new nations cannot go down.

Increased Emigration

If one thing is clear amid the present confusion, there is bound to be increasing emigration. The population of Britain is too large for the size of the land. It has been so for years, but in the prosperous years before the war this was not so evident as now. The United States is restricting emigration, though some question the wisdom of their selection in that they admit nationalities on too mathematical a basis. From this point of view, even now they are taking too many from races that will not assimilate so easily, whilst their strength has always been from Northern Europe.

The fact remains that emigration to the United States is now exceedingly limited. There is space in South America, but, as shown elsewhere in this issue, it is chiefly Latins who find a home there. It follows then that emigration will continue; that it will be chiefly to the Dominions. As some of them at least have resources as yet undeveloped, and could support a much larger population, there would seem no limits to their expansion within this generation. As they grow in population and in productiveness their wealth will grow, and the potentialities of trade will grow. If we take Canada alone, there is no doubt that it could support a much larger population, and at the moment there is a tendency to adopt a less exclusionist policy. If it were to follow the lead of the United States during the last century what might it not become? Are Rhodesia and our East African territories at the beginning or at the end of their resources? It cannot be the end, for they are just beginning. We must not look at the slump too closely now. It's there all right, and there has been no doubt about it. Can we look twenty years ahead, and see what these new countries will become, strengthened as many of them are by the fine new stock that is going out. As the land is developed there will be larger towns. There will be a bigger population to buy our linen if we let them know about it. Many of them have the closest ties with Ireland, North and South. We should bind these more closely. It's idle to mourn about the collapse of European markets when there are these actual and potential fields which yave scarcely been touched.

Helped Save Europe

One thing strikes every visitor to the Dominions—the tremendous faith they have in their destinies. They helped to save Europe during the world war. Even if Europe collapses they have a future. From every point of view it is worth our while cultivating them.

Figures provided by the Ministry of Commerce show that no fewer than 133 firms in Northern Ireland have dealings with Canada. Our exports to Canada include linen, handkerchiefs, ropes, collars, soap, tobacco, machinery, jams, hosiery, cottons, mineral waters, stationery, felt, yarns, woollens, provisions, sewing cotton, seeds, sacks, and bags. So many are our connections with Canada that we have all a very fair idea of the resources of the country though we are, perhaps, more interested in Canadian wheat and in Canadian cattle than in the development of her trade.

From one report we learn of the movement to buy goods "made in Canada," and of the high integrity maintained by Canadian importers as a whole. Whilst Canada rightly comes first there is a laudable desire to buy from the rest of the Empire, and one of the most encouraging signs of the last few years, and not unaffected by the Fordney tariff, has been the steadiness of the trade with the United Kingdom.

Education Remarkable

The higher education in Canada is remarkable in its way, and its aim is that each student should get every facility possible, irrespective of his social or financial standing. Throughout Canada there are institutions where students can obtain thorough practical and theoretical training. They have no less than twenty-two universities and forty-three colleges.

The point to emphasize is that young Canada is getting a fine education. It profits by it. Meet many of their merchants, they have been at the best schools and colleges and already Canada is becoming a considerable commercial factor in the world of commerce. The per capita export of the Dominion is third highest in the world.

The question of agency is of importance in Canada, and complaints are made that British firms are not always circumspect in their choice. They might use far more the services of the Department or of the British Trade Commissioners there. There is still a tendency to employ one agent for two different countries. Canadian Nationalism is strong, and Canadians do not like being mixed up with the United States or any other country. The tendency, however, is on the wane. Complaints are made also as to the neglect of advertising, and of advertising in an unsuitable way. As the majority of firms in Northern Ireland seem to spend little money on advertising at home, it would be surprising if they did so in Canada to any extent.

Americans Dodge Tariff

The latest authoritative account of trade conditions in Canada is to be found in the report of an official tour by N. F. W. Field, H.M., Trade Commissioner to Toronto, to cities and towns of Western Ontario.

Whilst conditions in Ontario differ from those in the West and in the East, there is much of interest in the report. Prominence is given to the fact that many American companies have erected branch works there, and in 1922 there were over 700 American establishments in Canada, and the number is increasing. They supply the Canadian market and escape the Canadian tariff. Some British manufacturers have followed this example, but this will not solve the British Labour problem.

Business conditions are gradually improving, and the iron and steel industries have been recently more active, largely as a result of orders placed by railway organisations and also for bridge and office construction.

Much machinery from the United States is in use in Ontario, partly because they are accustomed to it, and prefer it to our more durable articles. But there are increasing opportunities for British machinery, textile and otherwise. The defects of British firms are as follows. There are not enough local representatives and active salesmen. Manufacturers do not keep in touch with those who have purchased their machines, and it is very troublesome to effect repairs and get spare parts.

It is much easier to visit Canada than any other Dominion, and those who have not already done so and want to see conditions in a Dominion for themselves might do worse than go and see Canada. They will never regret it.

It is obvious that a single firm will scarcely attempt expansion in each of these markets, active pr potential. It is not our way to bite off more than we can chew. There is room for closer study of conditions, for utilising far more the means of information we have. There might be far more co-ordination. How much have our Chambers of Commerce done to quicken trade with different parts of the Empire, compared with what they might do? Can they point to any solid achievements equal to those accomplished by a handful of people in South America? We have a university. Do we use it as in Canada they use scores of institutions for the development of trade? We have a system of education. Does it teach us anything about the British Empire? In these days of comparative depression are we doing what Finns, Belvians, Germans, Americans, Czecho-Slovaks are doing? Are we studying conditions in world-markets and particularly in the British Empire with the same zeal and intelligence as they are doing? Have we the same width of outlook as is found among Canadians, Australians, and South Africans? Has the new generation the alertness of mind, the spirit of adventure which characterised the pioneers of the Empire?

The British Empire is a field worth cultivating. Throughout it we are in the midst of friendly people. If we extend our relations we shall not need to blaze a new trail. There have been pioneers before us, and it should not be difficult to extend our relations, always remembering that these must be mutual, and that we must give as well as get.

HOW TO DRESS ON MODERATE INCOME

Adequate Wardrobe For Girl Can Be Provided For $210 a Year.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—If you have a moderate income and long to dress in the mode of the moment, make your own clothes.

This advice comes from Mrs. Haryot Holt Dey, an official of the New York Federation of Women's Clubs, who has been studying this problem of dressing and has been endeavoring to educate people in its intricacies.

But there's a hitch to this.

"When grandma was a girl she learned to do patchwork and sew buttonholes," explains Mrs. Dey. "The school girl of today learns sewing in her domestic science classes. But between these is a generation that never learned to sew.

"This generation," she adds, "is extravagant and lacks originality."

Not only the public schools but the various girls' organizations, especially the Camp Fire Girls, stress the advantages and benefits of home sewing. In fact, the Camp Fire Girls have had their needs pared down to a budget which presupposes the sewing of certain necessities by the members.

Little Expense

Harriet E. Ainsworth, after months of figuring and experimenting, has decided that $210 a year will provide an adequate wardrobe for a girl, even if she buys everything new.

The saving comes, not only in intelligent shopping, but especially in home repairing during the year. The Camp Fire Girls learn this as part of their organization training.

There's even further saving the second year, for some of the clothes recommended for purchase are designed to give two years, or more, of service. So that this budget of $210 can be cut down the second year to $153.45, Miss Ainsworth has figured out.

Example Set

Women can take example from these girls, is the opinion of Mrs. Dey. And they are, already.

"The city woman is looking to the home-made frock as the solution to her ambition to get out of stereotyped clothes and express her own individuality," says Mrs. Dey.

"Trimming is a snag to the home dressmaker. But Mrs. Dey advises the wider use of buttons as a solution. Set close together, buttons can edge a neck line, trim a belt or adorn a cuff. Besides, they are fashionable now.

"As a result of our campaign," concludes Mrs. Dey, "there is more home dressmaking this fall than there has been for years. It springs from a growing consciousness of the need of greater thrift on the part of American women in the matter of clothes."

BOGUS $100 U. S. BILLS ARE FLOODING EUROPE

VIENNA (By Mail to United Press). —One hundred dollar bills which were worth only two dollars when they left the United States for Europe are being circulated in Germany, Austria, Hungary and Italy.

In February, 1922, a counterfeiting shop was raided in Warsaw. A Polish merchant with a knowledge of chemistry had been flooding Europe with two-dollar notes from which the figure "2" had been removed and "100" substituted.

It was thought that the destruction of the source of this bogus money would solve the problem. The counterfeiters had been industrious. Throughout Europe they had cashed spurious hundred-dollar notes.

In Budapest three men, Mav Felberbaum, William Czerny and Charles Ratgeber, have been arrested and found to have concealed in their hotel suite $10,000 in bogus hundred-dollar bills. This represented only their "pin money," and the whereabouts of the other thousands of bad dollars is unknown.

The gang has been preying on night clubs and such places. By the time the money reaches a bank the counterfeiters are far away. Search is proceeding for other members of the gang.

HUNDRED BOYS ARE HARD HIT BY HOME BANK

Members of St. John's Industrial School Had Been Encouraged To Save Their Money.

LOSE THEIR MONEY

TORONTO, Nov. 3.—Twenty yards east of Toronto's city limits, there is still preserved a woodland in which stands an institution where zealous Brothers seek to teach bad boys to be honest and good. Thanks to the efforts of the teachers at St. John's Industrial School hundreds of boys, reared in the city's worst environment, have been reformed and have "made good."

Last year approximately 100 boys, after a period of training at the school, were let out to farmers. They were paid small amounts for their labor. All the money was placed to their credit in the Home Bank of Canada. To-day 100 boys who had been taught to save, mourn the loss of savings totalling $7,000.

Oh Why! Oh Why!

"Oh why didn't the Government act?" asked Brother Pius as he discussed the matter. "I do not know what the moral effect of it all will be. Here we have been struggling to teach honesty and self-respect to these boys. We have been trying to teach them to save and put something away for a rainy day—and now this comes along. The Government will have to pay. I am afraid that some of these boys will go back to a life of crime. They will say 'What is the use of us being honest, when, if we save, these big guns down town can get away with our money?' That will be their reasoning."

How The Boys Save

"When we think that we have done as much for a boy as we can, we try to find a good home for him. A number of boys without proper homes were placed on farms last year. We made an agreement with the farmer to feed and clothe these boys. They buy the clothes for the boys out of a small salary which they agree to pay them. Every six months the farmer makes a return to us, itemizing the bills for clothing and other expenses and also making a return of what money the boy has saved.

"As a rule the farmers pay about $150 a year to the boys for the first year and then increase the rate by $50 or $75 a year. Sometimes the boys stay five or six years on the one farm. We have guardianship over them until they are twenty-one.

One Big Family

"The savings of such boys as those I have mentioned have been lost in the Home Bank. About 100 boys are affected and their losses total about $7,000. The moneys were all deposited in individual trust accounts ranging from $5 to nearly $1,000. A certain number of these boys will go back to crime. Here we have tried to be as one big family. You noticed there were no fences around this place. Not one door in the building is locked at night. We have tried to teach our boys to be honorable. Imagine what the effect of this bank business is going to be."

A Sad Case

"One of the boys we had out with a farmer came of age last spring. He had saved nearly $900. He was anxious to buy a small farm for himself. He came to me and I said, 'You get the farmer with whom you are working to make his return and I'll either give you a cheque or open an account for you in any bank you like!' He said, 'Put it in the Sterling Bank for me.' The farmer was slow in making his return. In fact he has not made it yet, and the result is that boy has lost his money in the Home Bank. He was in here the other day and is taking it all like a man, but he is suffering."

"I tell you it's mighty hard," concluded the Brother. "I am afraid of what the moral effect will be."

WHAT BROKE CLUB MEANS IN SOCCER

Police Action to Put a Stop to Brawls After Games.

The following explanation throws light for Canadians on the arrest in Glasgow last Saturday of 40 members of the Brake Club, supporters of the Celtics, after the football match with the Rangers.

"The brake nuisance is the bugbear of Scottish football. Nowhere else in Great Britain are such scenes enacted prior to or after a game. Scores of motor charabancs gaily decorated with the club colors, laden with supporters of the rival teams proceed to the scene of the "battle," issuing from trumpets, bugles and other "tinned" instruments the most excruciating noises imaginable. In recent years, the executives of the Rangers and Celtic clubs have striven hard to keep the rancous voiced individuals as far apart as possible in order to prevent open conflict between the "ancient enemies." Extra police have been drafted in to maintain order, but their efforts while the game is in progress are absolutely futile. From the balcony can be witnessed scores and scores of fisticuff encounters, regular pitched battles, where hands and feet are used indiscriminately, jackets torn into shreds, hats battered in, and caps thrown to the winds.

"Bruised and bleeding the ringleaders are eventually rescued by the rival supporters in fit state only to be removed to the nearest hospital. Pity the poor innocent looker on who happens to be in the near vicinity of such a melee. Unless it be that he is wearing the club's colors he is treated with the same indescribable and indiscriminate savagery, be his leaning either towards one club or the other or distinctly neutral. Clyde and Patrick Thistle have brake clubs, but their members are nor so objectionable in their ongoings as are those attached to the "old firm."

"A year or two ago, Stirling Town Council complained to the S. F. A. of the scenes enacted in the passage of brake clubs through the town on their way from Aberdeen, whither on payment of a guinea Celtic supporters were enbaled to travel from Glasgow and return on the Sunday. All the way from the north the sanctity of the Sabbath was broken. Kilmarnock football club also called the attention of the ruling body to disgraceful scenes enacted on Rugby Park, and the S. F. A. roundly complimented the "Killie" men for what vigorous action they deemed it their duty to adopt. Police proceedings were initiated and substantial fines inflicted.

"This outbreak of lawlessness on Saturday, however, on the occasion of the meeting between Rangers and Celtic, is the first opportunity which the police of Glasgow have taken in an organized attempt to suppress the disgraceful scenes enacted, almost weekly. The uproar from these brakes during the journey to and from either Ibrox or Parkhead is so terrible as a rule that passersby have to stop their ears, so dervishlike are the shrieks and shouts of the occupants of the overcrowded vehicles. The law, not before time, has now stepped in, and it is safe to assume that salutory sentences will have been imposed. But the Scottish Football Association will also be obliged to take vigorous action, and the surest way to eradicate the evil which has been tolerated much too long is to suppress all brake clubs, no matter to which team they profess their whole-hearted, but misplaced support. They have made a Bedlam of Glasgow's streets much too long."

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

"R is for oysters" reads an old "Book on Foods." And while it sounds more or less like a riddle to the uninitiated it means much. Any month spelled with an "r" is seasonable for oysters.

In this day and age we think less of the seasonability of foods than did our grandmothers. Fruits and vegetables are shipped from the south to the northern markets the whole year through, making it possible to eat June peas in January and September cauliflower in May.

But oysters simply are "in" from September to April and "out" from May to August. This season has grown even shorter the last few years due to the fact that oyster beds are being contaminated in many places.

Oysters are higher and scarcer because the supply must come from pure ocean water. These beds are now found only in outlying districts far from manufacturing zones. The remote areas are naturally small and the cost of production and marketing is greater than in the great beds in the bays and rivers of the more accessible parts of the coast.

The food value of oysters is high. They are easily digested and very nutritious.

During the season there is no better first course for a formal dinner than raw oysters, served on the half shell with lemon juice or with a cocktail sauce.

If served with a sauce the oysters are thoroughly chilled and served in cocktail glasses with the sauce poured over them.

Oyster Cocktail

Six or seven small oysters for each cocktail, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon tomato catsup, 1 teaspoon minced celery, teaspoon minced green pepper, 2 drops Tabasco sauce, 1-8 teaspoon salt, few gratings nu meg, 1-8 teaspoon horseradish root.

Chill oysters. Mix ingredients and chill. Pour over oysters in glasses. Serve at once.

This sauce is also served in a small glass in the center of a plate of oysters on the half shell. Each oyster is dipped in the sauce as it is eaten.

In serving oysters on the shell care should be taken that each oyster is loosened and free in the shell.

Oyster Cocktail II

Four oysters for each serving; sections of grapefruit, 3 drops onion juice, teaspoon minced celery, teaspoon lemon juice, salt, nutmeg, paprika.

Cut grapefruit in half and scoop out pulp with a strong teaspoon. Use four pieces of grapefruit for each cocktail. Add onion juice, celery, salt and nutmeg and chill. Chill oysters. Mix and sprinkle with paprika. Serve very cold.

Oyster Salad

One pint oysters, 2 grapefruit, cup finely chopped celery, 1 green pepper, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 6 tablespoons oil, teaspoon salt, teaspoon powdered sugar, few gratings nutmeg, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, paprika, hearts of lettuce.

Clean oysters and drain. Remove pulp from grapefruit. Scald pepper and rub off outer filmy covering. Chill and crisp. Mix oysters, celery and pepper cut in shreds. Chill. Mix salt, sugar and nutmeg with lemon juice. Beat in oil thoroughly chilled. Pour over first mixture and let stand on ice for 15 minutes. Serve on hearts of lettuce. Sprinkle with paprika.

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

MOUTH BREATHING

There is a well defined relation between mouth breathing and affliction of the nasal sinuses. Other parts of the olfactory organs suffer even more. The conditions of the nose and throat involving adenoid growth, obstruction and deformities of the septum as well as mucous polyps, cause mouth breathing.

These abnormal growths must be corrected in early life, or permanent loss in the normal development of the inner nose will result through lack of use. Mouth breathing will often result in jaw and teeth displacement. It also causes facial deformities such as dulled eyes, lack of expression, open or hanging mouth and deformed jaw.

Many people are half-mouth breathers and are not aware of the fact. In early life, through some illness which impaired their breathing, they contracted this habit.

The early defects were never corrected and, as a consequence, their breathing capacity through the proper nasal passages has remained impaired. In many cases their air volume is only that of a small child. A health examination by a competent physician, at least once a year, would have brought about great relief to the patient.

Temporary mouth breathing may result from severe colds or other nasal disturbances by nasal occlusion. This is a swelling and inflammation of the mucous membrane and results in almost complete stoppage of the air passages.

Mouth breathing invites the germs of influenza, pneumonia and tuberculosis. If you are subject to its trouble, try and have it remedied at once. It may change your whole life.

FORD LOOKING FOR QUEBEC LOCATION

Said to Be Contemplating Establishment of Manufacturing Plant.

QUEBEC, November 3 (Canadian Press). — Henry Ford, through one of his managers, is looking for a convenient site in the Province of Quebec, to build a manufacturing plant, and four cities up to now have been visited with that bject.

Offers of sites have been made by Three Rivers, Sherbrooke, Montmagny, and Levis.

OTTAWA OFFERS SITE.

OTTAWA, November 3 Canadian Press. — Eugene St. Jean, secretary of the Hull Publicity Commission, stated yesterday that he had been corresponding with the Ford Company for some time past, and that the city has offered a free site to the company.

Nothing definite, however, has been arrived at yet.

DIAGNOSE DISEASE BY PATENT METHOD

Not Applied For But Under the Attention of London (Ont.) Doctor.

OTTAWA, November 3 (Canadian Press). — While application for patents are not made public, it is understood that no application has yet been made by Dr. R. Waud in connection with a system for perfecting the diagnosis of disease.

A despatch from London, Ont., yesterday intimated that Dr. Waud of the Western University was interested in patenting a discovery along these lines, while at the same time persons in the United States were understood to be engaged in perfecting a similar system.

In this connection it has been suggested that the system of diagnosis in question may involve the radio wave. There has been discussion lately of using the wave for discovering the location of disease in the human body by determining the wave lengths emitted by electrons in different organs.

A WOUND IS AN OPEN DOOR

Absorbine Jr. enables you to shut the door quickly.

The skin is Nature's own protection against germs. When it is bruised, broken or cut, that protection is withdrawn. The door is open. As quickly as possible Nature closes it by forming what we call a scab and renders you comparatively safe against infection. But this scab sometimes takes days to form and until it has fully sealed the wound, even until the wound has thoroughly healed again you must furnish the required protection yourself.

A few drops of Absorbine Jr. in the water will give you an antiseptic wash that will kill all possibility of infection and help nature to heal the wound. As well as being a very powerful germicide, Absorbine Jr. will draw out the inflammation and bring instant relief.

Absorbine Jr. is antiseptic, germicide and liniment in one container—handy to keep always in the house; easy to carry around if you travel.

MAIN QUESTIONS FOR CONFERENCE

Better Communications With Canada Was Discussed Yesterday.

LONDON, Nov. 3. — (Special Cable to the Canadian Press by George Hambleton, Staff Correspondent). — Improved communications between Canada and the West Indies were under discussion yesterday at a conference between Premier King and Hon. George P. Graham, representing Canada, and Captain W. G. Ormsby-Gore, British Under-Secretary for the Colonies, and representatives from the West Indies.

The main questions for consideration were the proposed new cable between Canada and the West Indies to which Canada is to contribute and steamship subsidies. The tender for the new cable is apparently higher than was estimated, and on this account the question was brought up. In connection with the steamship services the Royal Mail Steam Packet Co. has, it is stated, been in negotiations with Canada for a new subsidy. Both questions are, however, to be discussed further. From Jamaica came an expression of dissatisfaction with the service of the Canadian Government merchant marine on the ground that it was not sufficiently complete.

CANADIAN COLORS GIVEN TO ARTILLERYMEN.

(1) Sergt. Wilbroth receives colors.
(2) Saluting the gift of the C.S.L.
(3) Brigadier-General Landry, on left; Capt. W. McKenna, centre, who received the Emblem from the C.S.L. representative.

THE other day the members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillerymen of Boston, Massachusetts, visited Montreal and embarked on the S.S. "Richelieu" the palatial river steamer of the Canada Steamship Lines fleet, which the honorable company had chartered specially for the occasion to enjoy the beauties of the lower St. Lawrence and the Saguenay. On the return to Quebec the annual full dress parade was held according to the ancient custom of the Company which boasts of dating back to 1638, being the second of its kind in the whole world—the most ancient having been organized many years previously in London, Eng.

The regulations stipulate that this parade must be held in some city outside of Boston once a year, and it is just a quarter of a century since the old city of Quebec was visited, when a flag was presented and carried away by Sergt. Wilbroth, who was with the company on this particular occasion.

In order to keep up the tradition, the Canada Steamship Lines offered to present a silk Canadian emblem which was greatly appreciated by Captain W. McKenna, the officer commanding the company. Accordingly Brigadier-General Landry, Officer Commanding the Military District of Quebec, kindly consented to perform the ceremony. This took place on the Terrace just before the departure of the company to the railway station, and the band of the 22nd Battalion played the strains of "O Canada." Sergt. Wilbroth was called from the ranks and given the honor of carrying away the colors as he did twenty-five years ago. Capt. McKenna acknowledged the gift in suitable terms. After the presentation the company marched to the station the new colors flying along side of the Stars and Stripes and the colors of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, amid the plaudits of the crowd headed by Military Band.

COMMUNITY FUND CAMPAIGN

With the several articles appearing in these columns relative to the Community Fund Campaign, it is possible that the readers may interest them as affecting the Y. W. C. A. Campaign for finances which is being carried on at present.

Even with the support of the entire community to the idea of establishing a Community Fund it would take months to create the necessary organization to put it into effect, and by experience in other centres it would not be practicable for it to be put in operation before the spring of 1924, or possibly, due to the fiscal years of the various organizations that may participate in the fund, not until the fall of 1924.

Until such time as a definite step is made in establishing the Community Fund the various organizations requiring funds will be dependent upon the public by the individual campaigns.

It is possible that the Y. W. C. A. will be included in the number of organizations to participate in a Community Fund, but for this year the individual campaign is necessary and its activities are commended to the citizens as worthy of all support.

In considering the organizations that can participate in a Community Fund, general observance of the following points is necessary.

The Community is non-political and non-sectarian. It is for the whole community and not for any party, sect or faith.

The services usualy financed by a Community Funds are those for Family Service and Relief, Hospital, Health, Protection and Reformation, Recreation, Education and Character building, Children and Aged.

The only usual requirements made necessary for organizations to participate in the Fund is through an application to the Board of Directors or Community Fund Council and that organization so applying must in its activities come within the scope of the objects for which the funds are raised. In certain cities the following rules are laid down: The organization must have been in operation at least twelve months prior to the application for admission and supported in some way by contributions from the public; must be governed by a body of citizens of recognized standing and must submit a statement of its receipts and expenditures for a twelve months' period, with an estimate of its receipts and expenditures for the following twelve months.

The Community Fund also includes in its appropriations sufficient to take care of the city's share of contribution, to national or provincial organizations such as the Institue for the Blind, either through budgets submitted by the participating local agencies, or by a special contingency fund.

The interest of the contributors to the Community Fund is considered in the next article, on Tuesday.

VULCANITE ROOFING

Unique and Extraordinary — by Jack Lait

THE "injunction clause" is a famous theatrical institution. It is the development of many disasters caused by temperamental stars, double-crossing rival managers, ambition stronger than good faith, and a whole lot of other manifestations particular to the temptations, situations, ramifications, complications and damnations sui generis to theatrical life.

It was long ago discovered that no contract was ever drawn which could make anybody work. So the next best thing was accepted, a provision which made it impossible for a contract-jumper to work for anyone else; that helped curb the babies who were given an opportunity by one impresario only to leap to another who was eager to exploit a new star and leave the discoverer and rightful proprietor of said star high and dry.

The courts were tried and found loath to grant injunctions. The injunction is a nasty little instrument, and jurists are not inclined to swing it around carelessly. If a performer was unwilling to work for one manager, they held, why should she not work for another as long as she was determined not to return to the original one? And why could not the bereft one go and get himself another diva, or hoofer, or emoter—or whatever the disputed animal was supposed to be good at?

Ah! The "specific performance" paragraph, setting out that the artist was "unique and extraordinary"—could not be replaced, in other words. "Unique," one of the most abused of all words in the dictionary, means alone—unequaled—in a class entirely by itself or herself or himself. There are very few unique persons. Caruso was one. Babe Ruth is perhaps one—Dempsey, Berlin, Brisbane, Edison, Chaplin, Kipling, Belasco, Cohan, Wilson, Jeritza—these are unique; every one an undisputed heavyweight champion; beyond the need of first names—any child can supply them all.

The number being so closely limited, ways were found to apply the principle to lesser ones, extraordinary but not unique. To waive proof, both parties to the contract "admitted" that the artist in question was unique and extraordinary, thus synthetically creating immortals (for legal purposes) and giving the scrutinizing judges in equity no "out" against declaring that various soubrettes, soft-shoe steppers, dialect comics, weak-tea fiction scribblers (yes, that goes for your oversigned, who also has one of those "unique and extraordinary" contracts and knows he isn't even big league timber but gets away with it great), "flat tenors and .270 hitters" who could not be replaced.

Strangely enough, too, though now the injunction clause in its full technical verbosity is printed into the forms signed with rubber stamps, the beneficiaries of them smack their lips and read that chunk over and over—and begin to believe it, themselves.

"Unique and extraordinary!' It's no penny-ante matter. Maybe one of each ten million really makes it. Isn't it enough to set a pinhead spinning to be admitted into that charmed handful, by mutual admission even if not by popular subscription?

Sometimes the little trick clause turns and bites the hand that it has tickled. It has kept that smug Valentino dancing in cabarets for a couple of years, and it stopped Gallagher and Shean when they tried to bid French leave of Ziegfeld. In that instance they were up against it. They had signed with another firm as "unique and extraordinary." When they slipped away to Zieggy, they made the strange spectacle of two actors denying they were good, and even proving it. They signed later with still a third manager, and when that one sought to enjoin Ziegfeld, Ziegfeld pulled the evidence against him that had been used against the manager Ziegfeld took them from—and they remained; remained with him, and not unique or extraordinary, according to that whimsical chump, the law.

"I'll keep you on the small-time stands till Broadway forgets you ever lived."

The above paragraphs are rather facts than fiction. So are the following. Though the names and details will not be quite as frankly employed, the incident is on the up and up.

It so befell that along the alley of warped slants and oblique twists, known as Broadway, there dwelt a manager and an author. Some say the manager lived off the author, and some aver vice versa. Anyway, they both lived off Broadway, which lives off the yaps, the strangers, the dips, the honest middle classes, the suckers, the sharpshooters, the Johns, the Jezebels, the bookmakers, bookkeepers and bookwriters of the world.

Some say that the manager—yclept Sickles—induced the author—dubbed Banneban—to write a plot around the premise that if a jealous wife hired a female private detective to watch her husband of whom she was jealous, she might soon grow jealous of the female private detective. Others insist that Banneban thought of the situation himself, and induced Sickles to produce it. Be that as it will, Sickles did produce "Adjoining Rooms," a nifty farce by Banneban.

Banneban worked like a mosquito for weeks, preparing the script. When he read it to Sickles, Sickles fell asleep half way through the second act, and made him rewrite it, holding logically that a book which couldn't keep him up couldn't startle, amuse, surprise, entertain, thrill or deliver any kick to an audience.

Banneban reincarnated himself into the mosquito and came forth days later with a revised version that kept Sickles awake for a week. Here was a wow. It had so many inter-tangled counterplots that it went like a three-ring madhouse, in three rooms at once in sight of the audience, everybody mistaking everyone else for everyone else and everything for everything otherwise; it even had three 'phones ringing simultaneously, which was cubing anything the native drama had ever attained theretofore.

Sickles whacked Banneban on the shoulder and said this was something like something—a knockout. And he promptly set about to order the intricate three-room suite setting, get his press department busy, get a film agent interested in the picture rights, lay out a tryout route in New England where it would lose plenty of jack "on the dog," have billboard paper printed, hire a director and otherwise execute the essencial preliminaries to the presentation of an important metropolitan histrionic premiere.

"Well, I've got everything ready to start rehearsals," stated Sickles jubilantly to Banneban.

"Yes? How about the cast?" inquired the author.

"Oh, there's plenty o' hams. I'll notify the agents and we'll have a flock of legits on the stage the morning we shove off, to read the parts, and we'll pick the ones that look the best."

"What!" cried Banneban. "This thing has got to be played—I mean played, not played with. It calls for types."

"Say, what do you wanna do—run this troupe into a million bucks a week, so they'll sink us with a hit? What's the use workin' for the actors? I'll cast this O. K. Leave it to me."

"Don't be a child, Sickles," gasped the playwright. "Sally Carew, the female detective, has to be played by a versatile, spirited, beautiful, fiery, subtle, animated, vigorous, repressed, vibrant, flexible, experienced, young, inspired star with a romantic appeal and a sense of humor."

"Well," responded Sickles, reflectively, "how would Maude Adams do—she's laying off?"

"Oh, can the hokum. I want Sylvia Jeffords."

Sickles looked at him—twice—to see whether he really meant it. Then he rose, lifted his hands aloft, wagged his head slowly and solemnly several times, and answered funereally:

"Take my theayter, my future, my booking franchise, my hand-made niblick, my right eye and my wife—but don't ask me to do business with that Jeffords."

"Why not? She was a furore in 'She Steps to Conquer,' wasn't she?"

"She was. And didn't she wreck it when it was doin' capacity, because she had a nervous breakdown?"

"Anyone can have a nervous breakdown. She's all right now; I had lunch with her to-day."

"Oh—lunch? Lunch ruins more how business than all the critics, authors and financial panics out together. How was her appetite?"

"Very good."

"Great. They never break down in that-nerve. Haven't you been around this racket long enough to know that nervous breakdowns is the alibi for every temp'ramental freak of hughouse foolishness that gets into them prima donnases domes s soon as they're in a hit? I tell you, you can handle 'em like kittens in a flop—as long as you're losin' dough and they're gettin' theirs every Sat'day. But, as soon as they get some o' that kind applause from front, and them boob critics say they're there—say, lemme handle a flock o' performin' leopards—and they ain't no geraniums, and no vegetarians, neither."

"Oh, Sylvia's quite tractable. And she's anxious to get a good part—she told me so. There isn't anyone quite like her on the American stage. She's unique."

"And extr'ord'nary? All right. Send her in. I'll sign her for more than what I intended to pay the whole comp'ny. I'll sign her up to one of them specific pe'formance contracts. And if she leaves me up in the air, I'll tie her up so tight she won't ever set her dogs on a stage in America again."

Which is just what Sickles did—after Sylvia Jeffords had made Banneban rewrite the play once again, giving her all the laughs and taking them away from everyone else, giving her all the central interest and taking any of it away from anyone else that might have fallen into any; giving her the upstage center at all times; after she had blackjacked him for much more than he had feared he would have to pay her, successfully demanded that her name be starred above the title and in larger type, hooked him for gowns by the most costly costumer in the land, set rehearsals to suit her own capricious convenience, and put back the opening date ten days because her private horoscope seer advised it.

Banneban was in the eighth heaven of delight. He was dancing attentions on the star, who, before the out-of-town opening, wasn't on speaking terms with Sickles, the director, any of her supporting actors or anyone at all except Banneban, whom she abused like a horse-thief before all the rest, and to and through whom she addressed all she had to tell the rest and the unlistening heavens besides.

The eventful opening night broke dark and stormy, inside and out. Sylvia Jeffords had squawked like a wounded shegrizzly because there had been no stateroom on the day train bearing her to Stamford, Conn., an hour distant; her gowns and dresses had arrived and she had said they were all trashy; she didn't approve the billing about the front of the theatre, or anything else.

Anyone in "show business" will tell you nothing means anything until a play has been seen before an audience. Every projected reaction is a gamble. It is when the experts watch and listen to an audience for the first time that they get some line on what they have—and even then they are often fooled. So the first performance is a climax of doubt and fear, expectancy and hope — disillusioned despair or exuberant expectation — even when it has no per se significance at the box office in the break-in burg.

Banneban and Sickles sat sixth row on the aisle. Their work, for the moment, was at a standstill. They would now be spectators, holding their breath, pulling "body English," only two of a thousand and helpless to influence a verdict yet trembling for one, yes or no.

They had nothing to grieve over. "Adjoining Rooms" was a yell. Sickles' first vision of the second script had been perfect; had they stood pat and not patched it to synchronize with the whims of Sylvia Jeffords, it would have been even more surefire. However, Jeffords was all that Banneban had anticipated. Now that she was Sally Carew, she sighed, she winked, she fenced, she had all the unnaturally natural charm and grace that she so studiously would not let herself have as Sylvia Jeffords—would not let herself because she felt she had to be important and show the world she was important.

Banneban had sent her a huge cluster of roses. He rushed back after the final curtain and stormed her with profuse appreciation, adulation. She accepted all his offerings lackadaisically, with formal acknowledgment in a word, and observed that it was a fair book and part, though not at all up to her standards and scarcely likely to elevate her position on Broadway.

There was considerable revision after the opening, and what there was came mostly in response to Sylvia Jeffords' further demands. Many of them were quite unreasonable. All of them were arbitrary. Most of them were to satisfy her own colossal, egotistical, vapid vanity, and a few were directly aimed to spite others in the cast.

"Adjoining Rooms" remained out for two weeks, during which Sylvia's incessant bleats and threats had revolutionized the action and the lines until they were scarcely recognizable as what had come from Banneban's typewriter originally. She now "humored" her every laugh until it became boresome, deliberately and skilfully ruined any titter that had ever been started by word or deed of any other player, featured to cloying extremes certain mannerisms of her own or the role's that inland critics had raved about, posed, strutted, smirked, minced, drawled, dawdled, whined, vamped, gyrated and flouted all tempo, pitch and continuity.

"Adjoining Rooms" made its New York debut in a splendid theatre, to an overflow audience of the smartest, shrewdest—and not the worst of all—folks in the world, a typical Broadway first-night assemblage.

With every detail set for a big success, "Adjoining Rooms" turned out by unanimous verdict a complete and dismal failure. Sickles knew it before the first curtain fell. Banneban held up hope until the second. They both came back on the stage after the third, and to the star's dressing room. She was in a high state of intense indignation. Her reputation had been hurt; her name had been injured; her standing had been——

"Shut up," said Sickles. "I've heard enough about and paid enough for you and yours and you again. There's a whole lot o' people in on this besides you. And what's more, it's all your fault. You took a great piece o' property and ruined it."

"Very well, I'm through," snapped Sylvia.

"Oh, are you? If you are, you're through acting. You signed a unique and extr'ord'nary contract with me. You'll play for me or for nobody. This piece closes in two weeks. It'll be rewritten—back to its original shape. You'll play it that way and the way you're directed, every move, step, gesture, sound—and like it. You'll play it in every hick one-nighter in this land, and I'll keep you hop-Scotchin' till you'll see more scenery than a bird. I'll run you so hard, you'll reduce down to an ingenue, and so long you'll grow to be a character woman; I'll keep you on the small-time stands till Broadway forgets you ever lived and you come back in an old-timer reunion act, if it takes every dime I can make on all my other shows to pay the losses on you and this one. Take that straight, it goes as sure as your name is Sylvia Jeffords."

"Just about as sure," piped up Sylvia. "That gentleman behind you is Mr. Vincent Van Goork. I married him yesterday. I retire from the stage to-morrow. You don't think I went under your bum cheapskate management without some insurance, do you?"

Holders of Victory Bonds

Due November 1st, 1923

Approximately $100,000,000 will be paid in cash to holders of Victory Bonds due November 1st. The average payment will be close to $1,000. The payments will be made to about one hundred thousand persons, representing practically every community throughout the Dominion.

If immediately invested the interest will amount in one year to more than $5,000,000. Canadians will be that much better off by reason of prompt reinvestment. Inasmuch as our national prosperity depends on the thrift of each individual, it is now more than ever vitally important to the Dominion and to the individual that every dollar be kept at work.

For the reinvestment of such funds there is no better security than the new issue of PROVINCE OF ONTARIO TWENTY-FIVE-YEAR 5% BONDS, DUE 15TH OCTOBER, 1948, WHICH MAY BE PURCHASED AT 98 AND INTEREST, YIELDING 5.14%. These bonds may be procured in denominations of $500 or $1,000.

Orders may be telegraphed or telephoned at our expense, and securities will be delivered to purchasers free of all delivery charges.

year is £10,000, and this in addition to his allowances, amounting to half as much again would appear to be a handsome renumeration. But, as a matter of fact, the expenses involved in upholding the accustomed splendour and generous hospitality associated with his office are very rarely covered by the allowance made to him, and the Lord Mayor, on retiring, must be prepared to find himself out of pocket to an amount very often exceeding his actual salary. This is the reason why in nearly every case a rich man is chosen for the post.

The gold chain, which is the principal insignia of the mayoral office, dates back to 1544, and is the oldest chain of this office in existence. An unusually handsome ornament, its present form has been arrived at by stages, at it were. Formed of pure gold, it consists of twenty-eight links, shaped like the letter "S", alternating with enamelled Tudor roses and knots of plain gold. Twenty-three years after it was first made, it was considerably enlarged to a length of 64 inches. The cameo, set in diamonds, which at present adorns the chain, was added three years late—a pendant decorated with the City arms, which originally occupied the cameo's place, having been lost.

The Lord Mayor has to provide his own robes of office, which consist of a robe of corded purple silk, faced with velvet and fur-edged for ordinary official duties; and a robe of scarlet and sable, which he dons when he is presiding over the Mansion House Court. The most costly item of the Lord Mayor's wardrobe is the robe of ruby velvet, barred with ermine and looped with gold, which is worn by him when welcoming the King on occasion of a State visit to the city.

Although all these robes are only a single item of the Lord Mayor's private expenses, the various insignia of office are his by right of "inheritance," and handed down year by year to every holder of the mayoral post. These include (as well as the chain and badge of Office) four great swords of State, presented to the realm by Henry VIII, Edward VI, Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth respectively; the ancient gold and crystal sceptre of the "Port Reeve"; and lastly, the great silver mace—all of which are seen as a rule only on Lord Mayor's Day and on occasions of important civic receptions.

Ancient Customs.

A curious custom, which is probably a consequence of unfortunate cases in days gone by, is the signing by the newly-elected Lord Mayor of a £200,000 bond, undertaking the safe-keeping of the valuable insignia—a precaution against their being pawned, or disposed of in some questionable manner. But perhaps the quaintest survival of ancient customs is that besides having his own chaplain, chamberlain and marshals, each Lord Mayor of London possesses his own Executioner!

As regards Sir Louis Newton, he has not hitherto been very well known outside his own sphere of business (he has a renunerative practice as a surveyor)—beyond the fact that he received his knighthood for his services as Senior Sheriff of the City during the momentous year of 1917.

Although Sir Edward Cecil Moore the retiring Mayor, was the first Accountant to occupy the position, there have been many previous surveyors who have risen to the post of Chief Alderman of the City. In fact, the predecessors of Sir Louis Newton have included men from practicailly every imaginable trade. There have been bootmakers, such as one Thomas Coke, in 1468; barbers were represented by a John Northampton in Richard II.'s reign, parsons, bakers, physicians, printers—even bricklayers; while in the reign of Henry V it is recorded that one Nicholas Walton rose from the trade of a pawnbroker to be the "Monarch of the City." But, strangely enough, there is one trade members of which must not be chosen for the office of Lord Mayor, for by statues enacted in the reigns of Edward II and Richard II "brewers and licensed victuallers are forbidden to hold any kind of public office in the City of London." This law, the original object of which was to protect the people from fraudulent administration, apparently still applies to the office of Lord Mayor, because, although nominally, a Mayor once elected to the post renders himself liable to a fine if he declines to serve, he has only to show that he has any connection whatsoever with the liquor trade to be absolved from serving.

The most famous of all London's Lord Mayors was, of course, Sir Richard Whittington; but how much of his claim to be the hero of one of the most romantic life-stories of any Englishman is legendary has formed the basis of a fresh discussion at the five hundredth anniversay of his death.

The New Lord Mayor.

Sir Louis Newton, who is a prominent Freemason, hails from Macclesfield, but he was born in London on December 10, 1867, and the official positions which he has filled up to now have been numerous:—Alderman of the City of London and Governor of the Royal Hospitals, he became a member of the City Corporation in 1905; Senior Sheriff of the City 1916-17 (for his services as which he received his knighthood) and is a J.P. of the county of London. Sir Louis founded, and is the Chairman of the Cheshire Society of London, and is Senior Grand Deacon of the Grand Lodge in England.

He married in 1891 and has two sons and two daughters. He is a passionate devotee of golf, while other of his hobbies are motoring and tennis. His politics are Conservative, and he is a member of the Junior Carlton and Constitutional Clubs. As has been mostly the case is not a University man.

It is interesting to note that he is connected with the famous Guild of Feltmakers, of which he has on several occasions been Master.

The "Feltmaker Company" holds a charter signed by James the First, and dated August 2nd, 1604, which proclaims that "every person engaged in the art, trade or mystery of a feltmaker, must acquire admission to the Guild."

In conclusion, it is only necessary to say that Sir Louis Newton will on his retirement a year hence have a baronency conferred upon him, in accordance with the usual custom.

ERADICATE TUBERCULOSIS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (Associated Press).—Eradication of cattle tuberculosis is making much progress. Nearly 5,000,000 cattle are under supervision of federal and state veterinary inspectors and there is a waiting list of more than 145,000 herds that will be tested as soon as inspectors can get to them, the Department of Agriculture states. Fully accredited herds, including both beef and dairy breeds, now total 661,260 cattle, while nearly 3,000,000 more have successfully passed the first test in the process of becoming accredited.

DIES IN POVERTY

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 3 (Associated Press).—Jose Luis Blasio, who served Emperor Maximilian as private secretary during the brief reign in Mexico that ended with his execution, is dead as a result of the shock he experienced when the report was spread recently that the former Empress Charlotte had died. Blasio, who entered the emperor's service at the age of 20, was the sole survivor of Maximilian's entourage. He died in dire poverty.

GERMAN LAUDS HAGUE COURT

Warmly Commended By Dr. Eugen Schiffer in Statement Based on Recent Experience.

BERLIN, Nov. 3. (Associated Press)—The Permanent Court of International Justice at The Hague is warmly commended by Dr. Eugen Schiffer in a statement which is based on his recent experience before the court as a representative of Germany in the Wimbledon case and two others concerning the rights of German minorities in Poland.

Dr. Schiffer says President Harding's advocacy of American participation in the court puts the court in a new light, as American participation would give a certain guarantee of impartial judgment. This action of the late President of the United States has in a measure, in the opinion of Dr. Schiffer, caused Germany to renounce its distrust in the court, as the American effort to separate the tribunal entirely from the League of Nations leads to the hope that the tribunal is operating along other lines than those forecast in the Versailles Treaty.

Discussing the decision on the Wimbledon case, which was against Germany, Dr. Schiffer says it has not been thoroughly understood in Germany. Germany prevented the British ship Wimbledon from passing through the Kiel Canal on the ground that the ship was carrying ammunition for Poland, which was at that time engaged in war with Soviet Russia. The contention of England was that under the Versailles Treaty, Germany had no right to take such action, even if it was done on the ground that Germany was maintaining neutrality by preventing arms and ammunition from going to a nation which was actually at war with another. Dr. Schiffer says the principles upon which the court rendered a verdict against Germany are contained in the Versailles Treaty and put Germany in the wrong.

Decision was against Poland in the two cases which involved the rights of Germans living under Polish rule. Consequently Germany won two out of three decisions and Dr. Schiffer is firm in his belief that Germany's first experience before the new world court was such as to show that Germany is not lost before international tribunals which are influenced by the voice of right and justice and do away with the appeal to force.

Dr. Schiffer expresses the hope that the new court will develop a truly international law by creating precedents and by steady administration of justice, thus securing itself authority in the face of changing conditions in Europe. He says in some respects the court is still an imperfect instrument in the eyes of legal experts, but it is a start in the right direction and gives reason to hope that the big problems of international life may be solved by lawful investigation rather than by force of arms.

To Make Rich Red Blood

Revitalize your worn-out exhausted nerves and increase your strength and endurance take Organic Iron: not metallic iron which people usually take, but pure organic iron—Nuxated Iron—which is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. One dose of Nuxated Iron is estimated to be approximately equivalent (in organic iron content) to eating one-half quart of spinach, one quart of green vegetables or half a dozen apples. It is like taking extract of beef instead of eating pounds of meat. Nuxated Iron is partially predigested and ready for almost immediate absorbtion and assimilation by the blood, while metallic iron is iron just as it comes from the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron filings.

Over 4,000,000 people annually are using Nuxated Iron. It will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. A few doses will often commence to enrich your blood. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain satisfactory reults.

Beware of substitutes. Always insist on having genuine organic iron—Nuxated Iron. Look for the letters N. I. on every tablet. Sold by all druggists.

CHIDES ENTENTE IN DICTIONARY PREFACE

LEIPSIG, Nov. 3 (Associated Press)—Germany never ceases to disclaim loudly all responsibility for the beginning of the great war. In the theatre, in the pulpit, in the press and in the political forum Germany proclaims her innocence with an insistence which never seems to wane.

Foreigners are much impressed by the unanimity with which Germans of all classes take the same text and preach the same homily. The arguments bob up in most unexpected connections. But it remained for F. W. Ritzen, the editor of a new commercial English-German dictionary, which has just been issued in Leipsig, to find the most unique medium for a lecture to members of the Entente. The preface to this book, designed primarily for sale to English-speaking persons, opens:

"As long as the statesmen of the Entente pretend to believe in Germany's "guilt," they are not likely to consider a revision of the Versailles Treaty (if treaty it may be called); and as long as this dictate—the most cruel, cowardly, and silly crime ever perpetrated—is not revised, all talk about, and thought of reconstruction, normal business relations, and all that sort of thing, is of course, so much nonsense. No fear Americans will ever redeem their word of honor pledged by President Wilson; but some day or other and somehow or other, there will be a revision (no man in his senses can doubt it), and Germany, once more, will come to the fore. Until then honest business men will have to muddle on, suppose, doing 'business as usual'"

Advertise Mission

Dr. R. C. Blagrave's request for permission to stretch a canvas advertising an Anglican mission, in which the four local churches will participate across a street—Charlotte or Hunter—was granted.

Ald. Morrison moved to this effect and when seconding the resolution Ald. Maher thought Dr. Blagrave should be commended for writing council in this regard, for, he said, some people have assumed, a similar privilege without permission from the city.

This mission is a Toronto diocesan one to be held from November 18 to 25.

New Premises

J. E. A. Billiard Table Licenses

Ald. Phelan and Turner's motion that billard table licenses be granted Mrs. Bertha Munro of the Munro House and G. Spencer, East City.—Carried.

Fire Chief's Report

Fire Chief George Gimblett reported fire loss for October as $9,708.58; divided as follows: buildings $4,749.58 contents, $4,959.

He also notified Council that Wm Conners quit the department and one other was discharged for insubordination and insolence. Vergil Carr has been appointed master mechanic in place of Conners.

Made Proposition

In a lengthy communication regarding his billiard and pool table licenses, Leo. Yeotes asked some adjustment. He pointed out that at one time he had tables in use on first and second floors of his establishment, but for more than a year he had been obliged to close the second floor owing to business depression. As a result he has paid no taxes on 10 tables, only operating those on the ground floor for that period. He closed the second floor because the taxes were too high and a year ago applied for a reduction for those tables but Council refused, feeling that any such action might discriminate against other billiard and pool rooms.

In this letter Mr. Yeotes made an alternative proposition that he be granted a full license on all his tables for six months only. Should this be approved, the city would get a revenue of $175 and at the end of six months he would be in a position to know definitely whether proceeds would warrant his operating all tables for the balance of the year Mr. Yeotes was present in support of the above. But Council explained that to grant a six month's license would require passing a special by law which time would not permit of. Neither had this board any right to commit the next council to a rebate of six month's fees were a full year's licence issued and its holder to decide on closing one of his floors at the expiration of six months.

The matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

MIDDLE-AGED GOLFERS SCORN DOC.'S WARNING

CLEVELAND, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—The warning of London physicians that persons 50 years old or more are endangering their lives by playing golf is scoffed at by Cleveland's "Indian Scouts" foursome, believed to be one of the oldest active quartets in the world, who may be seen regularly on the golf links here. Their combined age is 227 years. None of them started playing golf until he was past the half century mark.

The foursome is composed of Charles W. Burrows, 74; G. T. McIntosh, 75; J. W. S. Webb, 69, and A. W. Neale, 59. All are prominent business men here and may be seen on the links "every Saturday and a couple or three times a week," as one of them put it.

When they are "on their game" the foursome play in the low eighties or nineties. They have been playing together for about 12 years.

"I don't know of any pastime more pleasant, more healthful and more invigorating for a man between the ages of 60 and 80," Mr. Burrows said. "Of course a man who allows his muscles to become soft and flabby from lack of exercise, smoking, overeating and drinking and then goes out on the course and overtaxes his strength is in danger, but moderate golf means health for a man past 50 who keeps himself in condition.

"Walking around the course by yourself or even with three friends would be too monotonous. Playing golf, you exert yourself for an instant with a stroke drive and then you rest while the others tee off. If you get tired you can sit down and rest, and you're resting in the open air.

"Golf holds your interest. You're continually trying to better your game. You forget the poor shots and try to remember some of the good ones. The four of us play about the same game, but we're continually trying to beat each other, and that's where a lot of the fun comes in.

"Men of our age can't play tennis or baseball because these games are too strenuous. We're satisfied with golf, despite the English doctor's warning, and I guess we'll stick to it.

Sweden Suffers In Wet Seasons

MALMO, Sweden, Nov. 3 (Associated Press)—Swedish Maud Mullers make hay in slickers and sou'westers. American tourists traveling in Sweden, and they are here in especially large numbers this year because of the Gothenburg exposition, never cease to marvel at the difficulties in which the men and women of Sweden gather their harvest.

Spring is late in Sweden. The summers are short, but the days are so long that grain crops ripen almost to the Arctic Circle. However, August and early September, when the grain and hay crops are cut, are generally rainy. This has been an usually wet season and farmers have had great difficulty in saving their crops.

Farmers work in the fields rain or shine. It isn't uncommon to see men and women in the driving rain forking hay and stacking rye or oats sheaves so they will withstand the effects of the moisture.

Grainfields and hayfields throughout most of the farming sections of Sweden are provided with hay and grain racks, which have the appearance of hurdles used in a steeplechase. The hay and grain are hung on these racks to dry, as it is impossible in this climate to keep the grain and hay from rotting or heating if it is allowed to lie on the wet ground.

On some of the larger farms the hay and grain racks are built as high as 30 feet, and frequently it is necessary for the crop to hang a fortnight before it is thoroughly dried out.

Extremely heavy rains late in August this year crushed down much of the grain crop with the result that there will be great loss and the grain production is expected to be far below that of last year.

Sweden normally raises about 80 per cent. of the grain necessary to provide its 6,000,000 inhabitants with bread. Its grain crop of breadstuffs consists of rye, oats and wheat. American wheat is imported generally to mix with the local grains used to make bread.

HEART WAS SO BAD HAD TO SIT UP IN BED

Mrs. O. E. Fitzgerald, 106 Ross St., St. Thomas, Ont., writes:—"In the Fall of 1921, I was taken ill with my heart, but I did not pay much attention to it. I kept on with my household duties, but seemed to become worse and worse, and finally had to call in a doctor. He said I was all run down and was a nervous wreck. I had a severe pain in my chest which would move over to my heart and it became so bad I could not lie down, as when I did I had such a smothering feeling I would have to sit up in bed till it passed away.

I tried several remedies, but with no good results. Finally, I was induced to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I took 7 boxes, and I am now as well as I was 30 years ago, and I am now 65 years old."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all druggists or dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THIS MAN'S FINGER REPLACES HIS NOSE

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—The successful grafting of a new nose on to the face of a human being has been made possible by the wonders and triumph of modenr surgery, it was demonstrated here recently on Thomas Kilcullen at Sydney Hospital.

Kilcullen lost his nose through an operation. Surgeons expressed the belief that they could graft a nose to his face, using the middle finger of his left hand for the missing organ.

The delicate and painful operation took three weeks. The finger, still attached to Kilcullen's hand, was bound closely to his face, after the skin had been prepared to make the grafting possible. His left hand arm were bandaged so that they could not be moved and in that position Kilcullen remained until the graft was completed, when the finger was severe from the hand.

The surgeons said that Kilcullen will be able to breathe through the transplanted finger and will even be able to blow it. They could not guarantee that it would serve as an organ with which Kilcullen could distinguish various odors.

INDIAN SUMMER IS NOT A FIXED SEASON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (Associated Press).—"Indian Summer" is not a definitely fixed season in the calendar, officials of the Weather Bureau declare, but varies in date and duration and is not, strictly speaking, a season at all but merely a type of mild, calm, hazy weather likely to prevail at any time in the autumn or early winter. The popular belief that "Indian Summer" is a period occurring more or less regularly every autumn is not based on accurate meteorlogical observations.

The term is applied in this country to a period of mild fall weather following a spell of unseasonably cold weather known as "Squaw Winter." Thoreau, in notes on weather conditions at Concord, Mass., from 1851 to 1860, records the occurrence of "Indian Summer" weather on dates ranging from September 27 to December 13. In different parts of Europe this mild weather is known as "St. Martin's Summer," "St. Luke's Summer," or "St. Michael's Summer."

Naughtiness Of The Orient

By ALICE ROHE

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Is it that one must voyage to Paris, or Buda Pesth, or Moscow, or to that so eternal Rome, to get a chance at an American play? Mais non—that is too much—

We have just come from the Grand Guignol and are a bit groggy as to sentence structure. The poor old gray matter has been strained over much trying to make our "Oui maman,—the-inkstand-of-our-grandmother-is-on-the-table-of-our-good-uncle," and "Mais-vingt-cinq-la-bouteille-c'est-trop—" combination line of French do service for the horrors and naughtiness of the Grand Guignol—imported by the Messieurs Selwyn atop the New Amsterdam Roof.

It was a very smart affair at the Frolic Theatre—socially speaking—for, after all, to be comme il faut one must at least pretend to know French. If you ask me, that was one reason why the Moscow Art Theatre and the Chauve Souris were such big hits. No one was expected to understand Russian and you could just go there and be natural and really enjoy the wonderful actiug.

But here you were right in a glare of publicity—as the theatre is lighted all during the evening—except when you are trying to find your seats. You don't dare relax your face from its expression of sophisticated enjoyment once.

There was considerable refined laughter from nice-looking people at lines that seemed to me cheap as well as smutty. And I, for one didn't quake once, as I used to in the old days when Holbrook Blinn turned the Princess Theatre into a Chamber of Horrors with his Grand Guignol plays—one of which, "Au Rat Mort," is given by the Parisians.

But there you are—you can transplant a company, but you can't transplant atmosphere—and half the thrill of the Grand Guignol is the character of this little old church, converted into a theatre for one-act plays near the Place Pigalle.

The point is, though, that just as we have worked out of the Russian Cycle we are in the French and Italian, for Eleanora Duse opens her season under Morris Gest this month. What chance has a theatre fan unless a universal language is adopted?

And (as if that were not enough, we have foreign translations until someone ought to look into the quota status. We are headed right into a wave of the Italian Pirandelloism. Even David Belasco is presenting Lionel Barrymore in an Italian adaptation. Then there's the Spanish, too. New foreign plays in translation are all right, if they are good plays, but just because a foreign author like Melnar writes a fine drama like Liliom is no reason we should suffer through a bad one like Launzi.

As for Pauline Lord in Launzi, one of the most depressing moments in our life was when this actress, impersonating an eighteen-year-old girl gone mad through adolescent love, climbs upon a funeral bier and announces that she is never coming down. She never once hinted that she would stop talking so we could go home and get a nice wholesome book on psycho-analysis to cheer us up.

And here's a tense curtain!

Launzi has discovered the boy she loves adores her mother. "Oh," she cries, putting her head through the window curtains—a spot where most of the lines are delivered—"I want the ocean." "Come my darling," replies her mother, "Mother will give you anything you want in the world—let's have a nice glass of iced coffee."

That's drama. An iced coffee at one curtain and a bier (pardon the pun), at another.

After seeing Launzi I'm almost strong for the foreign drama in its original tongue.

In our next we will consider American plays that have braved the foreign invasion.

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get 16 ounces—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

NO WINNER DECLARED IN FISHERMEN'S RACE

Columbia's Skipper Declined to Sail the Course Alone For the Cup After Canadian Boat Went Home.

COMMITTEE BUSY.

HALIFAX, N.S., Nov 2. —There will be no international schooner champion for 1923. Believing that their vessel fairly won the two races required to secure the fishermen's trophy, the crew of the Lunenburg schooner, Bluenose, refused to heed the pleas of Premier E. H. Armstrong of Nova Scotia, Hon. J. J. Kinley, Mayor John Murphy of Halifax, and others, that they sail a third and deciding race to-morrow and this afternoon disappeared of the headlands of Halifax Harbor on their way home Captain Ben Pine, of the American challenger, Columbia, did not wish to sail over the course to-morrow alone and win the trophy and prize money through the refusal of the Bluenose crew to recognize their technical disqualification on Thursday, and to-morrow the Columbia will leave for Gloucester.

Bluenose, by her refusal, went home without the international trophy which was considered as good as hers as the result of the wonderful sailing qualities which the vessel showed on Monday and Thursday, in light winds and fishermen's gales, and also went home without either the long end of the prize mney, three thousand dollars, or the short end, two thousand. Columbia will go home with twenty-five hundred dollars, awarded her by the International committee as expense money .The international trophy will remain in the hands of its trustees until it is won in next year's races off Gloucester

Make Rules Binding.

That such situations as arose last year at Gloucester and again this year at Halifax, may be avoided in the future, and - that the hitherto untractable fishemen may be held under rules and regulations, the International committee to-day decided that before future races "a responsible representative of each contending vessel must sign an agreement that the captains and crews of contestants will bind themselves to adhere to and comply with the rules and regulations of the race and accept the decision of the respective committees."

Outside of regrets at the ending of the series and excepting the immediate parties to the controversy, the 1923 international races broke up with unusual good feeling predominant. Hon. W. W. Lufkin, member of the International Race Committee and personal representative of President Coolidge, in a statement to-night said in part:

"The owners of the Columbia and Captain Ben Pine and all desire to register our feeling that the Nova Scotia officials have moved every stone possible to avoid this unfortunate ending.

"It has been a wonderful contest between two of the finest fishing vessels in the entire world, the most wonderful in the history of this great international sport. We hope to see you all at Gloucester next year and shall endeavor not only to partially repay the people of this splendid city for their wonderful hospitality during the past week, but also to provide an international fisherman's race over the result of which there can be absolutely no doubt at the conclusion of the contest."

Committee's Report.

The International committee met to-day and received the report of the Sailing committee, made public last night, which awarded the race on Thursday to the Columbia because the Bluenose passed on the landward side of a navigation buoy. After considering the report the International committee issued the following attaement:

"The International committee met this afternoon and the report of the Sailing committee on the protest of Captain Pine of the Columbia regarding Thursday's race was considered.

"The whole matter was reviewed by the International committee and the following resolution unanimously adopted:

"'Resolved: That the ruling arrived at by the International Race committee last year at Gloucester shall be confirmed, namely:

"'That the conduct of each series of the international race shall be under the control of the Sailing committee as regards courses and sailing regulations, and that any decisions made by them in connection with any race of the series are final.'

"The following resolution was also adopted:

"'That if any international race takes place in the future a responsible representative of each contending vessel must sign an agreement that the captains and crews of contestants will bind themseves to adhere to and comply with the rules and regulations of the race and accept the decision of the respective committees.'

"The International Fishermen's Race committee are firmly of the opinion that in view of happenings in connection with the present series, the most stringent rules and regulations covering these international contests are essential and that the series can only be continued on the understanding that the rules as laid down and mutually agreed to by the International committee, are observed in every respect

"It was also decided that as the Bluenose had sailed for Lunenburg and Captain Ben Pine of the Columbia had no desire to sail over the course alone for the mere sake of getting the prize money and trophy, that the 1923 series be declared unfinished and the trophy remains in the custody of the trustees and that the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars be handed to Captain Ben Pine towards the expenses incurred in coming to Halifax."

The Gloucester schooner Columbia (aspirant for International Fishermen's racing honours) left for home at 9:30 this morning.

BRITISHERS TO RACE.

GENOA, Nov. 3.—(Associated Press).—The Reggio Yacht Club of Italy has invited the British yacht clubs and owners to compete for the cup called the Coppa Del Mediterraneo here next February.

The race will be open to yachts of the six-meter international class built in 1920 or later, belonging to members of yacht clubs of nations affiliated to the International Yacht Racing Union. Each country will be represented by three yachts which will sail four races, the cup going to the country obtaining most points as in the case of the British and America Cup, the rules of which will be followed as far as possible.

JOE BREEN VERSATILE

This chap Joe Breen, who plays on the back division of the Parkdale O.R.F.U. team, is evidently just as great a star on the baseball diamond as on the gridiron. The Hampton Park league distributed the prizes won during the season at a banquet held the other night and Joe won nearly all of them. He was the leading hitter, with an average of .469; leading run-getter with total of 21; made most base hits his total being 30; made most extra base hits his count in that line being 12. Outside of that Joe did not do much.

Prospects Bright For Junior City Hockey League.

Peterboro Represented at O.B.A.A. Meeting.

Walter Jackson is representing the City Baseball League at the O.B.A.A. meeting in Toronto today. J. J. Solomon is in attendance as 2nd Vice-President of the association. The meeting is being held to receive suggestions from the affiliated baseball bodies leading to improvement in the government of the game. That the O.H.A. plan of returning Ontario hockey champions might be adopted by the O.B.A.A., has been suggested from some baseball centres, notably Western Ontario.

Peterborough ball moguls will recommend that bonafide managers of Junior, Juvenile, Midget and Bantam teams be permitted on the playing field as coaches. There being no age limit for Senior and Intermediate teams, a manager, by signing a player's certificate, gains admission to the field. But players in the other divisions are governed by age limits, and in order to coach a manager must hold a player's certificate. This is impossible with the large majority of managers. Thus the younger players are debarred from receiving the assistance and encouragement the presence on the field for their manager might give them.

—o—

The first of the Intermediate play-offs to decide which team will represent the Q.R.F.U. in the Dominion championship eliminations will be played at Montreal on November 10, when the Brockville Intermediates play the Grand Trunk squad, the return game being called for November 17 at Brockville. The series is of local interest as several members of the Brockville O.B.A.A. Intermediates play with the Brockville rugby team.

—o—

Prospects for a strong Junior City Hockey League appear to be bright. Plans are under way for the formation of a strong series. The league did good work last winter, as a result of which there is now an abundance of material for the O. H. A. Junior team.

—o—

Belmonts are still leading the club section in the softball championship race, and De Laval are out in front in the Mercantile section. Neither team has lost a game. The Gunners-Belmonts game is being awaited with keen interest by a large number of fans. The Gunners have plenty of supporters who feel their team can put a dent in Tommy Holyman's pitching performances and tie up the series. Some remarkably good games have been played, and the Public School principals and their assistants along with Bill Princible's Canadian Nationals produced one for the book when they went through a nine innings contest in 29 minutes. The railwaymen won by 3 to 1.

JAMES WEAVER, DUTCH ZWILLING

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 3.—P resenting the tallest pitcher in captivity, James Weaver, who measures six feet seven inches. He is a member of the Kansas City Blues, is only 19 years old and promises to be quite a young man when he grows up. In order that you may be able to appreciate the length of Mr. Weaver he is shown standing beside Outfielder Dutch Zwilling. Dutch is not a midget as he looks in the picture as he measures five feet eight and one-half inches tall It is simply that Weaver is unusually high.

RUTH'S COMEBACK GREAT VICTORY

Famous Slugger, Who Was Slipping, Has the Best Year of His Career

By Billy Evans

They never come back, has long been a sport adage. It might be more truthful to say they seldom come back. It seems there are exceptions to every rule.

Babe Ruth is a striking example of a star ball player who staged a comeback in every sense of the word It might be argued that Babe never went away.

A year ago at this time the popularity of the great slugger was at a low ebb. Horusby of the St. Louis Cardinals and Williams of the St. Louis Browns both had made more home runs than Ruth. Hornsby with 42, and Williams with 39, had quite an edge on Ruth, who finished with only 35. True Ruth had been kept out of the game for eight weeks because of the decree of Judge Landis Ruth having violated the barnstorming rules. That was a big handicap.

Then, for the second time in a world series, Ruth had failed to do the things predicted. The pitchers on the staff of the New York Giants had simply toyed with the great slugger in both events. The great Ruth, the idol of thousands of fans had been a "bust." Fickle fandom was prepared to confer on him many wreaths of razzberries.

Was on Dividing Line

Ruth realized that he was on the dividing line, either he must come back or like many other stars, slip down into obscurity. Ruth told the world that he was going to come back, and do it with a vengeance.

The big fellow spent most of the winter in a newly purchased farm in Massachusetts. He was the first to report for spring training. When the American League season opened Ruth was in perfect physical condition. Careful training had taken off 30 pounds of superfluous weight that had slowed up his fielding and handicapped his batting.

Ruth started on the road to prosperity in the very first game of the season, hitting a mighty drive into the right field bleachers at the Yankee Stadium before close to 70,000 fans.

Ruth kept up the good work throughout the season, tending strictly to business. He was unanimously selected as the most valuable player in the American League. In baseball circles the saying is, "As Ruth goes, so goes the Yanks." Ruth had the greatest year of his career. The Yanks won the American League pennant in a breeze.

Fandom Was Kind

What would Ruth do in the world series? Would he continue his great work or again fail? For the first time, Ruth was his real self in the big event. He went big and the Yankees won.

The fans were with Ruth, they admired him for his comeback against great odds. In other series. When he struck-out the fans razzed him; this year he was cheered to the echo no matter what he did.

On one occasion, after striking out he got a reception that compared favorably with the applause that greeted one of his homers. Hank Gowdy, who was catching for the Giants, turned to me and remarked:

"He must be a great man. When he hits a home run the fans cheer, when he strikes out, more cheering."

The case of Ruth proves there is some sentiment in fandom. They wanted to show the big fellow they were with him.

NATIONAL LEAGUE MEETING.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2. — The annual meeting of the National League will be held at Chicago, probably on December 11th, President John A. Heydler announced to-night.

This will be the first annual session outside of New York in the history of the senior circuit.

The joint major league meeting has been called by Commissioner Landis for December 12 at Chicago.

Herman Loewe, aged 65 of Milwaukee, Wis., has the distinction of having seen every heavyweight prize fight since 1882. He saw John L. Sullivan knock out Paddy Ryan in nine rounds in Mississippi City, Miss. February 7, 1852. As a remembrance of each of the championship fights he has attended Loewe still possesses the seat checks of the bouts.

Canada has 292 golf clubs representing an outlay in property and equipment of nearly $10,000,000. Eighty-one of the courses are 18-hole layouts, while 211 are nine-hole links.

Billy Evans Says

Chance and Haughton. Two Peerless Leaders. New York Expected Much. A Strange Coincidence.

Frank Chance back in the days when he was winning pennants and world championships for the Chicago Cubs, was known as the "peerless leader." The baseball world looked on him as one of the truly great managers of the game. When at the very height of his career, Chance decided to retire and hied himself to California, presumably to spend the rest of his days in peace. No more would he have to worry about pitching selections and pinch hitters.

While Chance was winning fame and a bank roll with the Chicago Cubs, Percy Haughton, an equally prominent figure in the football world, was doing big things for Harvard on the gridiron. If Chance deserved the title of "peerless leader," Percy Haughton was entitled to be known as the "super-coach." While Chance was winning championships for Chicago, Haughton was upholding the supremacy of Harvard. Like Frank Chance Haughton stepped down and out when at the top of his career.

They say it is the wise fellow who can retire from the athletic world while still and outstanding figure, rather than wait until he is classed as a has-been and be forced out. In that respect Chance and Haughton proved to be wise men of sport, but unfortunately neither could stay retired, and keep undimmed the remarkable record made on the diamond and gridiron.

Chance after being out of the game for several years, came back to take charge of the New York Americans. The memory of the "peerless leader" made fandom think that New York would immediately become a pennant contender in the American League. Chance inherited a bad ball club that had no license to finish any higher than it did under his direction. So much was expected of him, however, that the poor showing of the club was a distinct disappointment, not only to the fans but Chance himself. Although he had a two-year contract he resigned shortly before the close of the second season. He said he had enough and was through forever. Once more he came back to manage the Boston Red Sox in 1923 and next year he is to lead the Chicago White Sox. He simply couldn't stay retired.

When Percy Haughton left Harvard, he said he was done forever as a gridiron mentor. For years big salaries failed to tempt him. University of Columbia, in an effort to get back on the football map, made Haughton an offer that he simply couldnt' refuse. The coming of Haughton to New York was hailed as the very man needed to restore lost football prestige. Columbia so far has hailed as dismally in its its first year comeback as did the New York Americans.

The failure of the New York Americans under Chance, and the disappointing showing that Columbia has made with Haughton as coach, is no reflection on the ability of either man. Chance is a great manager, Haughton is a strategic coach. Chance's failure in baseball and Haughton's poor start in football can be directly traced to lack o famterial. A master mind to direct means nothing if the ability to execute is lacking.

BELGIAN BILLIARDIST WINS.

NEW YORK, November 2. — Edouard Horemans of Belgium defeated Roger Conti of France, 500 points to 475, in the ninth game of the world's 18.2 balkline billiard tournament to-day. Horemans, more than 100 points behind in the 20th inning, made a run of 112 in the 21st and ran out with 38 in the 24th after Conti had thrown away three chances to win.

Conti made the high score of the match, 126.

THREE GAMES IN CLUB SECTION

Rangers Gave Belmonts a Close Call—Gunners and L.O.L. Win.

Three snappy ball games were run off last evening in the Club section of the soft ball league.

When the first game was called at the end of the hour by "Curly" Lebarr the Rangers were leading the champion Belmonts 12 to 10, but the Belmonts, home team, had not had their innings and therefore the score reverted to the previous and the Belmonts under this condition won 10 to 8. The Rangers gave the Belmonts a close run all the way and were leading during the first part of the game. A homer by Holyman with two on started the Belmonts on their way to victory.

Dunkerly twirled nicely for the Rangers and received good support The long clouts of the Belmonts was all that gave them the victory.

The lineups were:

Rangers —Maudsley 1b; Varty lf; Dunkerly p; Whitehouse 3b; Grant 2b; Gimblett rf; J. Lebarr c; L. Calladine 1 ss; S. Calladine; r ss.

Belmonts—Batten 1 ss; Lowe 1b; Holyman p; Stuart 2b; Jobbitt, 3b; Haskill c; Williams, rf; Fanning lf; Cunninghom ss.

GUNNER'S EASY WIN

The controversy between the Gunners and the Dragoons nearly caused a riot in the militia. The Gunner's came off with an easy victory by score of 12 to 4.

Gunners —Coursey ss; Ranger c; Ross 1b; Shaughnessy lf; Piercy p;; Helson 3b; Wolfe 2b; McElroy 1 ss; Dundas rf.

Dragoons —Sloane c; Cooper 3b; W. Williams ss; Ecobichon 1b; Sheehy ss; B. Miller 2b; Murray p; Buase lf; Williamson rf.

Scor by innings:

Gunners..... 1 3 3 0 5 0 0—12
Dragoons..... 0 1 002010— 4

BLEW UP

The Bowlers lost to the L.O.L. in the final game by score of 9 to 2 The Bowlers playing above their heads for the first five innings were leading 2 to 1. In the sixth innings the errors came and the Orangemen ran in five runs.

The line-ups were:—

Bowlers—Dick 1b; Carr ss; Freeman rf; Gimblett c; Ross lf; McArthur 3b; Martinu ss;; Gilliam 2b; Fox p.

L.O.L.—Batten 2b; H. Hardill 1 ss; Dobson c; J. Hardill 1b;; McGee lf; Hall 3b; Helson rf; Fitzgerald ss; Nicholl p.

Score by innings:

FIVE ENTRIES IN RACE TODAY

'Zev' and 'My Own' Will Settle Dispute But Dope May Be Upset.

CINCINNATI, O., November 2. — Racing interest began centreing on Kentucky to-night for the running to-morrow of the Latonia championship stakes, which will bring the long-awaited brush between Zev, the conqueror of Papyrus in the international race, and Admiral Cary T. Grayson's sensational 3 year old, My Own, regarded as the greatest rival of Harry F. Sinclair's Kentucky Derby winner.

The race, worth $50.00 to the winner, will offer opportunity for a settlement of the argument that has been raging for weeks concerning the relative merits of Zev and My Own, but whether the argument will be definitely settled was a question to-night, as there will be three other starters to be considered: In Memoriam, Rialton and Taylor Hay.

Kentucky, which knows thoroughbreds, figures on an upset in to-morrow's race with In Memoriam, the handsome bay son of McGee and Enchantress, picked to do the upsetting.

That Zev will go to the post a favorite around a price of 3 to 5, with odds of 8 to 5 on My Own, was the guess of the turf experts last night.

The price on In Memoriam, it was figured, probably would be about 6 to 1, with 10 to 1, on Rialto, and 20 to 1 on Taylor Hay.

The last named was entered at the last minute, presumably to assure a field of four starters in the event of an eleventh-hour with withdrawal.

TY COBB MAY RETIRE.

ATLANTA, Ga., November 2. — Ty Cobb probably will retire as an active baseball player after next year, according to the Atlanta Journal this afternoon. The manager of the Detroit Tigers arrived here today for a few days' rest.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — New York Stock Exchange — and Curb Prices

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

New York, November 3. United Press.—Stocks closed the week on the stock exchange with a further demonstration of strength which carried the whole market to higher levels. A good part of the speculative colony had continued to be skeptical regarding the genuineness of the week's recovery but the cynical attitude of many traders regarding the movements received a body blow from the convincing character of the fresh bidding which came into the list after the early selling to-day had been absorbed.

The demand embraced not only the speculative favorites which had been sed to lead the startling come back in the general list—stocks like Baldwin, Dupont, American Can., Steel and American Woollens, but also issues like Texas Company and Colorado Fuel which had been subjected to severe professional pressure earlier in the week.

Rails also had their share in the further bullish outburst. Chesapeake and Ohio continued the leader of the class but its strength was clearly followed by New York Central, and Reading among the higher grade issues, and Wabash and the Eries in the lower priced issues.

Stocks continued to gather strength through the last hour and the closing levels of the week were at the best prices on the currnt recovery.

Even low priced oils participated in the movement under the lead of Marland which rebounded to 20 3-8 against Friday's low of 18 7-8.

The sugars also rallied, Cuba Cane preferreds, 2 points advance being the feature.

Price changes showed no uniformity in the early dealings in the stock market, apparently influenced by the uncertainty expressed in the weekly reviews of the mercantile agencies.

These authorities reported that the business situation was highly irregular with conflicting tendencies and conservative still governing commitments.

The testimony had the effect of confusing sentiment somewhat in the speculative community and profit-taking was in evidence in Steel, Studebaker and a few other leaders of the works recovery.

On the other hand, the rails continued strong and some of the industrial favorites, like General Electric and Dupont, scored fractional gains.

Following the irregularity of the early dealings, fresh buying came into the whole industrial list, and another remarkable display of strength took place in this section of the market before the end of the first hour.

New highs on the movement were achieved by Steel, Baldwin, American Can., Dupont, Gulf States, American Woollen and other representative issues.

The advance in the price of cotton to the highest level since August, 1920, and better prices for grain gave a better tone to the shares of the harvester companies, chain stores, mail order houses, fertilizer and sulphur companies and automobile makers.

Incidentally a large percentage of coco-cola is consumed in the south.

Better agricultural conditions will benefit every branch of industry in the country, either directly or indirectly.

The market closed irregular.

Closing prices included: United States Steel 93¼, up ¼; Baldwin 123¼, up 7-8; American Loco. 71 3-4, off 1-8; Studebaker 101¼, up 1½; American Woollens 74, up 1 3-4; Famous Players 58, up ¼; Texas Co. 37¼, up 1; Pan-American 58 3-8, off 7-8; Tobacco Products 56, off 5-8; Cosden 24 3-8, up 3-4; American Can. 98 1-8, up 1-8; Cuba Can Pref. 45 1-8, up 1 7-8; Anaconda 35 1-8, off 3-8; Bethlehem Steel 49¼, up 1-8; American 'Phone 123, off 3-8; Dupont 131¼, up 1¼; Producers and Refiners 18, up ¼; Davison Chemical 150 3-4, up 2 5-8.

HAIR STAYS COMBED, GLOSSY

Millions Use It – Few Cents Buys Jar at Drugstore

Even obstinate, unruly or shampooed hair stays combed all day in any style you like. "Hair-Groom" is a dignified combing cream which gives that natural gloss and well-groomed effect to your hair— that final touch to good dress both in business and on social occasions. "Hair-Groom" is greaseless; also helps grow thick, heavy, lustrous hair. Beware of greasy, harmful imitations.

THEATRES

AT THE REGENT.

"Cameron of the Royal Mounted" is the fastest moving and most engrossing story of the Canadian North-West that has been portrayed on the screen in many years.

The author, Ralph Connor, is known all over the world for his stories, "Black Rock," "The Sky Pilot," "The Prospector" and "The Man From Glengarry." His books are being enjoyed to-day by hundreds of thousands of readers.

The outstanding feature of "Cameron of the Royal Mounted" is its faithfulness of detail. In the filming of the story only seven actors appeared. The other characters were portrayed by men who have lived their lives in the shadows of those towering mountains which serve as a background for the story. It is interesting to note that an entire squadron of Royal North-West Mounted Police, whose services were produced through Mr. Connor's influence, actually take part for the first time in the history of this famous organization, in the making of a motion picture production.

Of the beauties and wonders of the Canadian North-West as a background for the story, little need be said. Nowhere else is there to be found the scenic glory of gorge and mountain peak that exists in this part of the world. Scene for scene and action for action, this production has no equal in pictures of the North-West that previously found their way to the screen.

"Cameron of the Royal Mounted" is in six reels. The footage is 5,600. The proper running time is about seventy-two minutes.

AT THE GRAND.

HONEY BOY MINSTRELS

The unusual spectacle of two great ministrels shows in one will be the next attraction at the Grand Opera House, matineee and night, November 3. The organization is known as the Gus Hill and George Evans Honey Boy Ministrels, being the culmination of a recent deal which already has created one of the sensations of the theatrical world. Mr. Hill's Minstrel Troupe has been before the public for many seasons. It has enjoyed exceptional popularity and was one of the outstanding money makers on the road. In order to make it the foremost aggregation of its kind Mr. Hill bought out the Evans interests and the rest is theatrical history. Forty gifted geniuses of Ethiopean comedy, song, revelry, frolic, fun, laughter and mirth have been mustered. The entertainment runs the gamut of everything that is productive of wholesome hilarity. New ideas, innovations, surprises, novelties and features extraordinary predominate.

KEEP UP WITH PROGRESS

Scene from second act of MAID OF THE MOUNTAINS, the great Musical Comedy, coming to the Grand, for Thanksgiving Day, November 12th.

An additional magnet will be a monster street pageant which will be held each morning during the engagement. The entire company will take part.

"THE MAID OF THE MOUNTAINS" COMING BACK WITH GALAXY OF STARS AND MUSICAL NUMBERS.

Sometimes we ask ourselves what theatrical fare we like best. Is it high class drama? Is it Opera or is it Shakespeare?

Don't we always somehow come to the conclusion that it is musical comedy. In this age of world chaos and bustling business we are always searching for something that will take our heavy laden minds away from ourselves and transport us as if by magic to another world where we can be free of all thoughst of business. Local theatre-goers will have an opportunity on Thanksgiving Day, November 12, to let their minds wander from Canada far off to an imaginary land and live for a few hours in the Mountains. As Theresa (The Maid of the Mountains) lives through her tragic yet beautiful love romance with Baldassarro (The Brigand Chief) and feel the seers of jealousy running through her veins as she sees the beautiful daughter of the Governor infatuate him so that he risks all even capture and imprisonment to be with her. The play leaves one go away from the theatre feeling so full of renewed vigor that the continual bustle of business seems different the next morning. It makes you feel you want to see many more plays like it. What more could be asked for our enjoymentthan a musical comedy the plot of which is a beautiful romance ably portrayed by a large company of artists, music which haunts with its loveliness and such a picturesque setting that it seems hard to bring our minds back to ourselves. "The Maid of the Mountains" which comes to the Grand Opera House on Thanksgiving Day, November 12, for a special matinee and evening performance, is recognized as the world's greatest musical comedy and those who missed this opportunity of seeing it will long rue their neglect. Mail Orders are now being received and seats going, and it would do well to reserve setas now. Sale Thursday.

AT THE CAPITOL.

Rupert of Hentzau, the photo-dramatic sensation of the year, which opens at the Capitol theatre for a run of three days, is hailed as a hurricane of thrills and moments of suspense. The story in itself is a thrill a minute, but in the screen adaptation the imagination does not have to be stretched at any time as the wonderful portrayal of the principals coupled with the faultless direction of Victor Heerman, leaves nothing to be desired from a thrill standpoint. It is absolutely guaranteed to keep even the most blase on the edge of their seats through every foot of the film.

The most wonderful cast ever assembled for any single production were given the principal roles. The public have become so fed-up on these so-called all-star casts that they could hardly be blamed for being skeptical every time they hear the word used, but a very pleasant surprise awaits them in Rupert of Hentzau as each of the principals have actually been starred in numerous productions. Included in this galaxy of stars are, Elaine Hammerstein, Bert Lytell, Lew Cody, Claire Windsor, Hobart Bosworth, Bryant Washburn, Marjorie Daw and a number of others who have already endeared themselves to the picture-loving public.

AT THE ROYAL.

TWO FINE PRODUCTIONS FOR ROYAL NEXT WEEK

From an "entertainment value" point of view it would be hard to beat the two big productions booked by the Royal for next week. Betty Balfour, better known as Squibs in "Mord Em'ly" is the third of a series of English comedies, the first two "Me and My Gal" and "Squibs" broke all records in attendance at the Royal recently. For the last half of the week Reginald Denny in "The Kentucky Derby", in which two of the greatest known thrills have been cleverly combined. The terrors of a sudden shipwreck and the excitement of a closely contested horse race. Under the management of W. P. McGeachie the Royal has been playing to capacity audiences and it is pictures like the above mentioned that is largely responsible. Neither of these productions "cost a million dollars to produce" or have stars that are getting $100,000? a week but the entertainment value is there and after all is said and done that is what the public pay for and are entitled to.

ANOTHER BIG ENGLISH COMEDY AT THE ROYAL MONDAY.

Betty Balfour in "Mord Em'ly."

The Royal on Monday will have the honor of presenting the tremendous English comedy drama success, "Mord Em'ly." This picture comes to Canada after phenomenal runs of success in the Old Country, during which the records of the former film success, "Me and My Gal," were equalled, and in some cases surpassed.

"Mord Em'ly" is the story of a young "cockney" girl brought up in the care-free happy life of the London streets, but suddenly finds it necessary to go out and secure a position as a 'ousemaid general. The adventures of "Mord Em'ly" as a servant girl in the home of three prim old maids are a riot of fun and laughter, but "Mord Em'ly" is not destined to remain in the service, for to use her own words, "Being' a 'ousemaid general gives her a 'ump" Therewith "Mord Em'ly" does a bunk from her situation and lands once more amongst her carefree comrades of the Wallworth Road, and once more finds herself in the arms of her boxfighter sweetheart, "Battlin' 'Enery Barden." "Mord Em'ly's" tranquility is shortlived and after a series of hilarious escapades we find her in the Worcester Reformatory, and here even amidst such surroundings, "Mord" is able to find the joy in life, but the wild and free spirit of "Mord Em'ly" was not one to stay behind reformatory bars, and the reckless young "cockney" girl manages to force her escape and make her way once more to the cherished scenes of Picadilly Circus, Trafalgar Square and Wallworth Road.

From then on, the story takes a series of rapid melodramatic twists which involve many intense moments culminating in the smashing affair of the big boxing bout at the West End Club, between "Mord Em'ly's" bloke, "Battlin' 'Enery Barden" and the pugilist known as the "Brighton Bounder" champion of Sussex, Essex and Wessex and a knockout h'expert of fame and renown.

This fight is a thrilling melodramatic triumph which surpasses anything ever done on those lines and is a grand climax to this great picture which has met with such sensational success all over England.

Society

Miss Billy Skeaff of Orillia, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Johnson, 131 Romaine street.

The whole of the lower floor of the big Y.W.C.A. building was given over last evening to the large crowd of young people who attended one of the biggest Hallowe'en parties ever held in the "Y." Over two hundred and fifty young people all in costume, the majority of which showed a large degree of originality in their make-up, were present, for an evening of fun and jollity that was spent in games and stunts, followed by Hallowe'en refreshments. The evening opened with a ghost walk through the subterranean depths of the building, where weird figures waited for the wandering guests. In the hall above a giant witch, with figure composed of a step ladder draped with old clothes, guarded the blazing fireplace. Decorations in orange and black carried out the Hallowe'en atmosphere throughout the building, and the big gym., where most of the stunts were staged.

Two fortune tellers ertertained the crowd; Miss Ethel Nichol, in Chinese costume, with a Chinese sign over the club house door, and Miss Dora Brown as a witch. A Grand March brought out the full glory of the various costumes, prizes for which went to Miss Phyllis Hall, as Sally, Miss A. B. Davidson, as a Poverty-Stricken Vamp, both of whom added much to the enjoyment of the evening, with their whimsical stunts. The prize for the most original outfits were bestowed on Mrs. G. Capping, as a Sheik, on Miss Ethel Nichol, in Chinese costume, and Miss German, as an Anglican clergyman.

The prettiest costumes, also receiving prizes, were won by Miss Lillian Morrow, as Robin Hood, and Miss Adell Robinson, as Dolly Varden. Judges were Mrs. T. Cruikshank, Mrs. W. R. Cormack, Mrs. A. Moir, and Mrs. E. Morrison.

At the conclusion of the evening a flashlight photograph of the entire group was taken.

Much of the success of the entertainment was due to the energetic efforts of Miss C. Littlefield, in supervising arrangements.

On Thursday evening the parents of the scholars at the Prince of Wales' School were addressed by Dr. A. W. McPherson and Dr. A. Y. McNair on the subject of immunizing school children against diphtheria by the use of toxin anti-toxin. The subject was fully explained to the parents by the two doctors. The Principal, G. C. Mattice, occupied the chair.

ISSUE PASSPORT TO CROWN PRINCE

All Ready To Return To Germany and Be Good Boy.

LONDON, Nov. 3.— (Canadian Press)—Europe waited expectantly for Friedrich Wilhelm, the former German Crown Prince, to return to his Fatherland from five years' exile in Holland.

There was much discussion of what effect his return would have on the warring factions in Germany, whether he would prove a rallying point for the Royalists or would really be content to live the simple life of a Silesian farmer as he was promised.

Berlin despatches to-day said it was stated authoritatively that the German Government had granted the former Crown Prince permission to return to spend Christmas with his family on his Silesian farm. No definite date was set, but it is certain his arrival will not be long delayed. A passport is said to have already been issued.

WEDDING BELLS

QUINLAN—SHEEHAN.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Peter's Cathedral at seven o'clock Tuesday morning, when Miss Mary Sheehan became the bride of Mr. John Quinlan, Rev. P. Costello performed the ceremony.

The bride looked very pretty in a navy tricotine suit and black picture hat with ostrich plume, and mink choker.

Miss Mae Conroy, cousin of the groom, acted as bridesmaid, while Mr. Wilfred Curtin ably supported the groom.

After a dainty wedding breakfast, served at the home of the bride's cousin, Mrs. Ellen Curtin, Mr. and Mrs. Quinlan left for Toronto and Hamilton. On their return they will reside in Peterboro.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM DINEEN.

The death occurred at ten o'clock this morning of William Dineen, at his late residence, 248 Charlotte St. The funeral will take place on Monday morning, to St. Peter's Cathedral and Cemetery.

Y.W.C.A. CAMPAIGN.

The Y.W.C.A. campaign is progressing most favourably, and canvassers report most hearty co-operation and best wishes for the work of the Young Women's Christian Association from citizens visited. Several subscriptions, quite unsolicited, have come direct to the Association and have been a great encouragement to the members of the board, as they show that the Association is taking a real place in the life of Peterborough. At the request of a number of the ladies who have not been able to complete their lists, the campaign will be held open during next week.

Y.W.C.A. FRIENDLY HOUR.

A hearty invitation is extended to every girl, especially those away from home, to come to the Y.W.C.A. on Sunday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock. Mrs. Cruikshank, president of the Association, and Miss Walton, convenor of the Religious Work Committee, will be present to welcome the girls. An informal programme has been arranged, and a sing-song around the piano. Tea will be served in front of the big fireplace, and then groups will proceed to church. Come and meet new friends.

The Bible study class, under the leadership of Rev. H. S. Spence, B.A., B.D., which last Monday night for the first time, enjoyed a most helpful and interesting hour, and are hoping that many more girls will be present this Monday. Mr. Spence has outlined a very special course of study, which will be of a personal help to everyone. The subject for Monday night is "Being Friends with God."

TOY DOGS ONLY TO ENTER HERE

Canines Twelve Pounds or Over Barred From Country.

OTTAWA, Nov. 3. — (Canadian Press).—Hereafter "dogs" only will be admitted to Canada from the United Kingdom.

"Real dogs" must remain outside the boundaries of the Dominion. A Ministerial order issued by the Department of Agriculture excludes poultry and dogs, "with the exception of toy dogs," coming from the United Kingdom. Inquiry as to the meaning of "toy dogs" reveals that the term applies to lap dogs or pet dogs under 12 pounds in weight. The order is issued under the authority of the Animal Contagious Diseases Act, and is designed to protect Canadian dogs and poultry from the importation of disease.

SUCCESSFUL CARD PARTY WAS HELD G.W.V.A. HALL

The Ladies 'Auxiliary to the G.W.V.A. held a very successful card party in the G.W.V.A. hall last evening, attended by about a hundred and twenty-five people. Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. W. Hughes, convenor, assisted by the president, Mrs. R. J. Devey, and ladies of the auxiliary. Prizes for cards were won by Mesdames Dayman, Millard and Welsh (consolation), and Messrs. GERMANY'S HEATING PROBLEM IS HARD

Talk of Community Rooms Where the Public May Gather For Warmth.

(By GUS M. OEHM)

BERLIN (By Mail to United Press). —The high cost of heating and lighting in Germany—meaning cold and darkness for many of the middle classes—has brought about the suggestion of instituting community rooms where citizens may gather in the evening for warmth and light.

The "Berliner Lokalanzeiger," pointing out that many families will be unable to heat and light their dwellings, proposes that municipal gathering places, where hundreds of people may come together for the evening, be established.

Already steps have been taken for community feeding for worthy unemployed. Gas, electricity and heating coal are so expensive, it is pointed out, that many families are faced with the proposition of going cold and lightless. The paper points out further, that about the only thing in such cases will be for the families to go to bed immediately after dark, or walk the streets to keep warm.

Many big gathering places, such as schools, gymnasiums, extra restaurant rooms and so forth, which are heated during the day, could be thrown open at night to the public, who would thus be given the opportunity of saving themselves from the discomforts they would otherwise have to bear.

If the city or the state does not take steps for such community warming places it is suggested that local clubs be organized, the participants bearing their pro rata share of the expense, which would be much less than the expense of heating and lighting hundreds of individual apartments. Naturally, responsible persons would be in charge of the night's gatherings. Games would be arranged for the children; lectures for the grown-ups and reading matter which would be contributed by the public.

Other suggestions along this line include even community feeding in connection with these community gatherings, the membership of the groups sharing the cost of the community kitchen which naturally could serve uniform meals at a much smaller cost than the individual housewife could serve in her own dwelling.

IN MEMORIAM.

MAGEE. — In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Francis John (Jack) Magee, who died on Nov. 3, 1919, age 12 years, son of Frank and Ellen Magee, of Toronto, formerly of Albert Street, city.
The month of November is here again,
The saddest month of all the year,
'Tis just four years ago to-day,
Since our dear Jack was called away.
No stain was on his little heart,
Sin had not entered there,
An innocence left sweetly
On that pale white brow so fair.
He was too pure for this cold earth,
To beautiful to stay,
And so God's holy angel bore
My darling Jack away.
—Sadly missed by Father, Mother, and Brother Will.

IRISH LABOR IS PERTURBED AS TO FUTURE

Recent Elections Shatter Hope Entertained For Effective Voice in the Country's Executive Councils.

A MORAL FERMENT.

(Special Despatch to Examiner)

DUBLIN, Nov. 5.—Labour is frankly perturbed over its position in Ireland. The recent elections may not have provided a very convincing index as to the actual state of political feeling, but they did show in unequivocal terms that there is no immediate future for the Labour element as an effective party in the Executive Councils of this country. This result did not come as a surprise to those who understand the real feeling of the people generally, and who are cognisant of the history of the labor movement in Ireland during the last twenty years. It was, however, a surprise to the Labour leaders, who managed to get returned to the Dail, and the fact that they abstained from taking part in the opening meeting while the Governor-General was delivering his speech must not be regarded so much as a protest against a ceremony that symbolised the continued association with Great Britain as demonstration of the fact that the unpleasant truth was realised that as a Labour Party they had no standing that would make itself felt, and that to pose as a political body would be to run counter to their avowed campaign. They have, therefore, returned to their seats to consider the situation.

Speculative minds casting about for means of securing a stable government entertained the hope that the Labour men would return in sufficiently strong numbers to form a healthy opposition in the Sail. They reckoned, however, without the farmers, the commercial people, the clergy and the numerous classes with social ambitions. In fact they forgot for the moment the history of the relations of these units with the Labour movement, and seemed to leave out of account altogether the well known fact that the majority of the Irish people made no secret of their aversion to anything in the controlling zones that is not invested with the glamour of aristocratic ceremony. The units mentioned combined and set up a perfect maze of colour in candidature so as to confuse the issues, or, at any rate, prevent a return to the Dail of anything even approaching an effective body of Labourites.

Temperance of Irish Mind

This class of standards produced the moral ferment that was designed by ingenious people, and in the universal confusion Labour men went down like ninepins. Those who went out like Pyrrho and Cadmus to make a world of their own, parading with restless egotisms of mind, found when the hurly-burly was over that there was a greater temperance of mind and body in the country than was dreampt of by propagandists in the days of the reign of the gun.

Even Cahtal O'Shannon, one of the most level-headed of the Irish Labour Party, was so amazed at the rout that he lost his temper and declared to the electors "This is a mistake for which you are going to pay in the next couple of years. One day you will find out your error—when you have gone through your Calvary, when your bosses, employers and all the lickspittles have trampled you under foot and ground you into the dust.

Mr. Whittle, the organizer of the Irish Transport Workers Union, alleged in Dundalk that the workers went to the Labour rooms to sell their votes for pints of porter. "When there was no pint of porter to be got they said they would go where there was one," he added.

This was not more Irish exuberance of language; it was evidence of amazement and anger. But when all has been said and done the polling booths truly spoke the country's feeling in this respect. The contrast between the town worker and the rural folk is age-long. In the days when the farmers were crying out against the iniquity of rack-rents and urging "The Land for

American Investors Lose Millions By Collapse Of Mark

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(Canadian Press.)—Between $500,000,000 and $750,000,000 has been lost by United States' investors through the collapse of the German mark, the New York Tribune states to-day.

English investors lost about $500,000,000, and other countries a like amount, the newspaper continued, declaring that Germany had repudiated its national debt, but had been the gainer to the extent of about $2,000,000,000.

The loss includes funds of thousands of small investors, it was said, many of them German Americans, who bought marks at one and two cents each, in the belief that they would recover.

GIVE US BREAD GERMANS CRY; RUSH STORES

Long Lines of Despairing Hungry People Throng The Streets of Berlin Today.

THE POLICE CHARGED

BERLIN, Nov. 5.— (Special.)—Danger of a bread rebellion in the big cities menaced Germany to-day, as the army completed its preparations to combat any aggressive moves by Bavarian Fascistis.

Thousands of families were in desperation as they found themselves unable to buy bread.

Long lines of hungry people waiting for bread early to-day broke in despair and rushed the shops.

Many had been without bread since Saturday owing to the erroneous fixation of the price at 140,000,000,000 paper marks instead of at the lower official figure.

Rushed Bread Wagons.

Five hundred desperate men and women rushed bread wagonsk in a factory district, having been out of work for a long time. In their despair they attacked so furiously that the police were helpless before them.

Finally a commandant of storm troops took control of the police. He brought them into formation and sent them dashing against the crows. The hungry unemployed fell back and scattered, leaving many of the bolder ones still struggling helplessly in the hands of the police.

Many bakeries kept the price of bread at 140,000,000,000 marks over the week-end following an erroneous report that the price had been fixed at that.

Represents 3 Cents.

It represented 33 cents, according to Berin's official mark quotation. A week's wages averaged only between 250 billion and 500 billion and the sudden jump left many families unable to buy even two loaves for a whole week.

"Bread' 'was the sole cry in Berlin and other cities to-day, despite the activies of the illegal military organizations along the Bavarian border.

Looking For Revolt.

The Federal government continued to move secretly, however, to place its troops in defensive positions along the Thuringian border. If the threatened march of the illegal military organizations scattered along Bavaria's north frontier developed, it was expected the first rush would be into Thuringian.

Separatists are attacking the town of Kaiserlautern in the Rhineland, messages to-day said. The first onslaughts have been repulsed by citizens loyal to the Reich, but fierce fighting is continuing.

THE WEATHER.

We have been favored with another rainfall, but not of a heavy nature. On Sunday .11 of an inch fell, while last night .26 came down; apparently more is yet to come, then clearing with colder weather.—W.P.

OTONABEE LODGE MEETING TONIGHT

Veteran Jewels to be Conferred on Several Members.

A meeting of the Otonabee Lodge of the Oddfellows will be held in their hall this evening, when an initiatory degree will be put on, the degree to be conferred by members who have been in the Lodge between thirty and fifty years.

After the conferring of degrees, jewels will be presented to five senior members, four of whom, Bros. E. R. Milburn, C. B. Thornton and F. Detcher, of Peterboro, and H. Phillips, of Toronto, have been members of the Order for the last twenty-five years, and one, Bro. John Nugent, who has been an active member of the I.O.F. for the last half-century. It is a remarkable thing for a society to have a member like Mr. Nugent, who has been actively interested in the affairs of his Order for fifty years, and the members are anxious to fittingly recognize his faithful attendance and interest.

Invitations have been sent to the Deputy Grand Master, E. Anderson, of Lindsay, and Grand Scribe S. C. Parks, of Toronto, formerly of Peterboro, to be present at this evening's meeting, and it is anticipated that there will be a large attendance of members from the district.

DELEGATES OF BRITISH WORLD AT INTERMENT

Ashes of Bonar Law Entombed in Presence of 3,000 Representatives of Great Empire.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY

LONDON, November 5 (Canadian Press). — The ashes of Bonar Law, who for seven months was Prime Minister of Great Britain, but perhaps the most modest man upon whom that honour was ever conferred, were entombed to-day in ancient Westminster Abbey.

In this shrine wherein the nation holds its most sacred rituals, both solemn and happy, was assembled a distinguished company of almost three thousand persons, representing all who are prominent and important in the British world, including members of the Royal Family, members of Parliament and the House of Lords, Premiers of the British Dominions, Chiefs of the Army, Navy, Judiciary, and Civil Service members of the Diplomatic Corps, and leaders in business and finance.

Anglican Service.

The service of the Church of England was conducted by the Dean of Westminster and the Archbishop of Canterbury, head of the State Church pronounced the blessing.

The Pall-bearers.

The casket was borne through the nave to a place in front of the Sacrarium, the ten pall-bearers walking behind. They were the Prince of Wales, Premier Baldwin, the Hon. John Henry Whitley, former Premiers Asquith and Balfour, Viscount Fitzalan, Lords Carson and Beaverbrook, Austen Chamberlain, and Ramsay Macdonald.

VERSAILLES TAPESTRY THIEF IS BETRAYED BY SHOE LACE

Broken Boot String Found Under Window Through Which Treasures Worth 1,000,000 Francs Each Were Stolen Gives Police Clue.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—Two famous Gobelin tapestries which were stolen last week from the Versailles Palace were recovered by the French secret police but one of them had been cut in twelve pieces by the robbers. The police have not yet stated whether the damage can be repaired.

One of the thieves, Prosper Charles, was arrested last night with a woman. He is a militant Communist and until this afternoon refused all information regarding the theft. This evening he confessed to the police the identity of his accomplice. This man, Gaston Nauvien, had fled when the police arrived at his home but the tapesteries were found in his barn.

An important clue leading to the arrest of Charles was that one of his shoes had a new lace. A broken lace was found under the window through which the treasures with 1,000,000 francs each, were taken.

The police also broadcasted photographs of the fingerprints found on the window. Charles had been arrested only a few weeks ago for on attack on an Inde-Chinese working in the same factory with him. At that time his finger prints were taken.

As yet Charles has refused to say why he cut the tapestries or why he stole them, and the police are still at a loss to understand the reason for the double crime. It was suggested that the gold thread in the two tapestries is worth some $200,000 francs and perhaps the mutiliation of the tapestry was the first step to ward the extracation of this gold. On the other hand it is thought probable that the men as militant Communists were seeking only to destroy two works of art dear to people comprising organized society.

PLANNING FOR RESUMPTION OF WORK IN RUHR

Basis of Agreement Between German Industrials and French Occupation Authorities Is Outlined.

PAYMENTS IN KIND

PARIS, Nov. 5—(Special).—Negotiations between German industrialists and French occupation authorities for an agreement for resumption of work in the Ruhr will be ready for signing Thursday, a dispatch from Dusseldorf said to-day. Conservations between the industrialists led by Hugo Stinnes, were continued in Dusseldorf to-day

What France Requires

The basis of the agreement was expected to be that France would require;

First—Payment of arrears of coal taxes up to a minimum of $15,000,000.

Second—That there would be a regular payment of ten francs a ton as tax on future deliveries.

Third —That there should be an immediate resumption of reparations in kind.

Payments in kind means deliveries in various kinds of goods or raw products in place of actual cash.

Verbally Communicate

Ambassador Jusserand will verbally communicate to Secretary of State, Hughes, the attitude of French Government in reparations, governing himself by his talk with Premier Poincare before he sailed and by information sent the French Embassy in Washington.

He will deliver no note, it was said at Foreign Office this morning. The latest instructions from Quai D'Orsay went forward Saturday.

REPORT OF WHEAT PROBLEM IS MADE

Co - operative Marketing And Ready Adjustment Of Acreage Was Recommended.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Co-operative marketing and the ready adjustment of acreage to conditions of world production were recommended as promising only permanent solution of the wheat problem in the report submitted to President Coolidge by the War Finance Corporation investigators who recently toured the wheat areas at his request.

Urging the necessity of maintaining a "thoroughly rational attitude" in dealing with the problem, the report, submitted by Directors Eugene Meyers, Jr., and Frank W. Mondell, and published to-day, discussed numerous other proposals presented during their study, but which they found generally either unsound or to offer no permanent solution.

CARS COLLIDED HUNTER STREET

Hastings Man Agrees To Pay The Damages to Peterboro Car Owner.

Mrs. Riley, 274 Hunter Street, was slightly injured yesterday when the automobile in which she was driving with her son, Edward Riley, was struck at the corner of Hunter and Water Streets.

Riley was driving east on Hunter Street shortly before 3 o'clock when Leonard McGurty, of Hastings, approached west on Hunter and turned south on Water, cutting the corner. Riley's car sustained damages to the radiator and had the left lamp broken. Mrs. Riley was thrown against the wind shield frame, sustaining injuries to her head and several bruises on her body. She was attended by Dr. D. W. Scott, Sr., who ordered her to remain in bed.

McGurty said he would make good all damage to Riley's car. His own auto had the front fender bent and radius rods and lamp broken.

Constable L. Matthews was quickly at the scene of the accident.

CANADA SHOULD ENDEAVOUR TO SECURE SWEDES

Many Are Migrating And They Would Make Good Canadians Says Dr. Rose

TALKS TO ROTARY

That Canada could not do better than to endeavour to secure a large number of Swedish people as immigrants was the opinion advanced by Rev. Dr. C. W. Rose of Murray St., Baptist church during a most interesting address before the Peterboro Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon at the Empress today. Dr. Rose's talk was based on his two month's visit to Europe last summer and in the course of his remarks in advising his hearers if they could arrange to pay a visit to the old land the speaker declared that he had received more education in two months he was away, than in any year he was at college or any year after that time.

Rev. Dr. Rose dealt chiefly with his visit to Sweden and his description of the country and its people was most informative and interesting. The Swedes had made a most profound impression upon him by reason of their sound physique and sterling qualities and this too had been the impression of other visitors there. Stockholm he described as the cleanest and one of the most beautiful cities he had ever seen. Even along the water front usually the least prepossessing section of any city this cleanliness and order was in evidence and some of the finest buildings in Stockholm were situated within a stone's throw of the wharves. He had been impressed with the extent of the iron and the pulpwood industries in Sweden and also with the fact that the county was eighty-five per cent electrified while telephones were much more numerous than in England. The churches were very fine specimens and architecture and the whole country had struck him as highly developed.

Sweden, however, was facing the problem of having many of her people leave to try their fortunes elsewhere and Dr. Rose hoped that Canada would get a large number. They would he was sure make admirable citizens of this country.

In concluding his address the speakers referred briefly to what he had seen n London, at Oxford, Stratford-on-Avon and other places in England and in Edinburgh, at Loch Lomond and various points of interest in Scotland.

It was announced that owing to next Monday being Thanksgiving Day, the Rotary Club will hold its luncheon on Tuesday while the following week in order to have a visit from the District Governor the club will meet on Wednesday.

Rotarian R. A. Browne reported that the profits from the Rotary Concert last week were $115. In this connection a letter from J. A. McKone president of the Kiwanis Club containing a cheque for $3.50 and expressing his regret at his inability to be present was much appreciated.

QUEBEC SPEAKER AT A REHEARSAL

What Mr. Alfred Savard Thought of "In The Garden of The Shah."

On Friday, at the noon luncheon of the Kiwanis Club, Mr. Alfred Savard, of Quebec, gave an interesting address that had for its object the promotion of better relations between Ontario and Quebec. While in the city Mr. Savard attended a rehearsal of the Kiwanis musical extravaganza and was much impressed with the work. In the words of Mr. Savard, it was the best he had ever seen. Those taking part, especially the ladies, were exceptionally good, said Mr. Savard at the conclusion of the rehearsal. "In the Garden of the Shah" will be presented in the Grand Opera House on November 20 and 21.

TWO PERSON MET DEATH IN FIRES THIS MORNING

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(Canadian Press). — Two persons met death and several were burned in three Manhattan and Brooklyn fires early to-day. Peter Fogarty and his wife were asphyxiated before they could reach the fire escape leading from their apartment in the West Twentieth Street tenement.

London now has a shortage of children four and five years old.

CANADIAN GENERAL TO MAKE EXTENSIONS IN THE PETERBORO PLANT

Officials Admit that Plans Are Under Way But Are Not Prepared To Announce Them at Present

WHAT HEADS SAY

Following in the wake of the announcement of the purchase of the Canadian General Electric Company by the General Electric Company of New York, The Examiner communicated by telegraph with the New York and Toronto officials of both companies with a view of determining the company's intentions regarding extensions to the Peterborough plant.

Asked concerning a report that the merger of the Canadian General Electric Company and the General Electric Company will result in immediate large extensions to the Peterborough plant, running into a million dollars or more, L. B. Judson, of New York, general assistant to the vice-chairman of the General Electric Company, to-day refused to commit himself.

Asked point blank by The Examiner correspondent if the report was true, Mr. Judson said, "I cannot say that it is."

He was then asked if there was any foundation for the report, and replied: "It is difficult to say. I don't think the company is likely just now to consider any big extensions, although, of course, a million dollars is not much for the General Electric. It is also possible that they would be more likely to consider developments in Canada."

Mr. Judson intimated that President Dyment, of Toronto, head of the Canadian company, was the one to speak, as he had handled all publicity in connection with recent matters. Mr. Judson said that if considered, such a project would be for the Canadian Board to decide, with probable reference to the general executive.

He also admitted that if the project was considered, it would most likely be financed by the same body.

President Dyment.

Communicating with President A. E. Dyment, president of the Canadian General Electric Company, The Examiner secured the following information:

"We intend to spend some money in Peterborough, but there is nothing definite about it yet," said Mr. Dyment regarding the reported extension of the Canadian General Electric Company plant at Peterborough.

"Then there is to be some extension?" The Examiner correspondent asked.

"Yes, but the plans are not yet fully decided."

From the above it may be gathered that the local plant will be subject to considerable expansion.

Arrangements are being made by the City Council to receive the American and Canadian officials of the company in a round table conference to discuss plans for the proposed extensions.

Anson W. Burchard, vice-chairman of the Board of the General Electric Company, said that the result of the offer made to the stockholders of the Canadian General Electric Company, giving control to the American company, would not be known for some time.

The stockholders are now considering the offer, he said. The shares of the Canadian company are widely distributed, and about 38 per cent. is held in England, according to Mr. Burchard. The offer expires on 15th December.

During the past week the Canadian General Electric Company have taken orders for electrical equipment in Quebec and NewFoundland, which are said to amount to over $1,000,000.

PLACE POLICE UNDER ARREST

Used Guns Freely on Innocent Citizen — Men Were Sober.

New York, November 5. — Two policemen were arrested and suspended, and a third was suspended without arrest, following a shooting affray in Harlem, in which seven bullets were fired, and two taxi-cab chauffeurs were wounded.

Patrolmen Daniel J. Griffin of 257 Hudson street, and Charles A. Lynch of 526 West Forty-sixth street, were held by Magistrate McAndrews, in the Harlem court, in $5000 bail each, for a hearing next Thursday on a charge of felonious assault. Patrolman George F. Mahoney was suspended. All are attached to West 100th Street police station.

The two woundtd men were Thos. Cayne, 26 years old, of 449 West 125th Street, hit in the cheek by a bullet, and John Maher, 41, of 238th Avenue, struck over the right eye. Both were able to go home after treatment at the Harlem Hospital.

The three policemen, all in civilian clothes and off duty, were in the Ritz Cabaret, at 126th street and 7th Avenue, with Betty Duncan, 22, of 408 11th Avenue, a theatre usher, and Mary Vitters, 20, of 280 Linden Avenue, Brooklyn, a telephone operator. While Mahoney remained behind to pay the check, at 3 o'clock in the morning, the other two policemen and the women went to the street. Just as they emerged Louis Cangro, proprietor of the Fiume restaurant at 139 West 126th Street, passed.

According to the official report, Griffin and Lynch halted Cangro, and "frisked" him for weapons despite his protests. Cangro broke away and ran down 7th Avenue to 125th Street. Griffin and Lynch, according to witnesses, fired seven shots after him. Mahoney was still in the cabaret. The taxicab chauffeurs dodged toward doorways, but ran into the path of bullets. Sergeant Francis P. Hughes came up just after the shooting.

"Did you shoot?" Hughes reported later he demanded of Griffin and Lynch. He said they replied they did not fire any shots, though Cangro, the taxicab drivers, and others contradicted them. Sergeant Hughes examined their revolvers, reporting later they were hot from firing.

Dep. Chief Police Inspector Dominick Henry, summoned from police Headquarters, called for a police surgeon, who said that Griffin and Lynch were fit for duty, and were not intoxicated. Thereupon Inspector Henry ordered the suspension of the three policemen, and the arrest of Griffin and Lynch. There was no charge against Cangro.

A Real Romance And a Chunk of Comedy In English Election

LONDON, Nov. 5.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—The spice of real romance and a great chunk of comedy is afforded in the by-election in Warwick and Leamington division of Warwickshire.

Captain Anthony Eden, the Conservative candidate, has obtained leave of absence from his election agent to be married in London to-day to Beatrice, daughter of Sir Graves Beckett, ex-M.P. Ladies in the constituency are working very hard for him, even Lady Brooke, daughter-in-law of the Countess of Warwick, Captain Eden's Socialist opponent in the election, appearing on his platform, while the Countess' eldest son and daughter also are likely to support the captain as against their mother.

The Countess of Warwick is still staying away from her constituency.

THE AMAZING REVELATIONS OF A LONDON TAXI-CAB DRIVER

SECRET MANSIONS OF MAYFAIR

Anyone coming to London for the first time in their lives could, if they can afford a moderate expenditure, seek no better guide than the taxi-driver.

I have often spent a whole day in taking visitors to the great city from place to place. One morning, last year, a Welshman came up to me and said he wanted to "see London in a day."

I took him to practically all the most important places of interest and drove him back to his hotel in good time for a late dinner. He was exceedingly pleased with the way I had "shown him round," and gave me a handsome tip besides the cab fare. But I was able to give him expert advice on what to see and what not to trouble about in the short time at his disposal, and his money was, therefore, well spent.

If you want to know anything, so far as situation is concerned, you can be pretty sure that a taxi-driver will know. He can tell you where to get any type of dinner or lunch. Italian, French, Spanish, Indian, or other foreign dishes. He will be able to tell you about most of the plays at the London theatres, and suggest one most to your taste. I have even been stopped, on a Sunday morning, with the request to advise where my fare could hear "a good sermon." Even this did not baffle me.

Among the most unusual requests which I have had made to me the following are perhaps worthy of mention:

A Scotsman asked the name of a hotel where he could get "real porridge" for breakfast.

A Frenchman asked me to take him to someone who could act as interpreter, and stipulated that someone must be of his own nationality.

A well-dressed Scotsman said he was suffering from lumbago and asked me to take him to the best specialist for treating this ailment.

A young Irishman asked me to take him to a restaurant where he could "spend a jolly evening and get drunk decently."

A gentleman in a frock-coat and top-hat said his money had been stolen. He asked me to lend him ten shillings and meet him at that spot the next day at the same time. I trusted him, lent him the money, and he returned next day and gave me my money and a pound-note besides. He is the only one I have trusted, but then a taxi-man's judgment is seldom wrong.

A spiritualist asked me to take him to a seance, though he did not know where one was being held.

A young man, who told me several times that he came "from Pontefract," asked where "Mrs. John Harrison" lived. He believed the lady resided in Bayswater, but knew that it was "somewhere in London." Consulted several directories, and, after trying three houses very far apart, we found the lady in question.

These are only a few of the strange requests that have been made to me. I have often thought that, to fulfil some of the demands with which I have met from casual fares, I ought to be a walking encyclopedia.

The Perfect Guide

As a guide I think the taxi-driver is unrivalled, even by the policeman, for the latter has his beat to look after and his knowledge, apart from knowing "big" places, is usually restricted to his own locality.

The driver of the "vagrant" cab is often a very dangerously-informative person, indeed. It would be unfair to associate him with licensed taxi-drivers. He is the black-sheep who masquerades under a cloak of honesty to practice dishonesty.

For instance, men of his type are often paid by gaming houses, immoral houses, crook restaurants and the like to bring them patrons. I have dealt with this in detail, previously, but some facts remain to be revealed here.

A country man on a visit to London is often an easy prey to this "vagrant" driver who is paid to get his "simple-looking" fares into the web of evil.

He will have perhaps come to London for a "good time." He will confide in a "vagrant" driver, and the latter will immediately become all attention. His fare makes no secret of the fact that he is out to spend his money, and the driver knows how to get that money.

He will suggest, perhaps, a notorious restaurant, where his fare may "have a quiet game" and the countryman will be eager to try his novel experience. His driver gives the impression that he can be trusted absolutely, and his fare is easily taken in by his apparent honesty.

He will be taken to such a restaurant, where the manager or one of his assistants will take the countryman under his wing. He will get him well "soaked" with liquor and then introduce a gaily-dressed woman who knows what to do. As the houst go on the countryman is fascinated by this "fine, swell lady," who showers endearments upon him.

Finally, she will suggest a "quiet game somewhere," and, in a secret room below the restaurant, she will lead him on to risk his money on the turn of the wheel or the throw of the dice.

There are already others—gaily-dressed folk—playing, and sometimes these are not patrons of the place at all, but in the pay of the management to assist in "fooling" the latest victim.

The final scene is outside the restaurant. Perhaps in the early hours of the morning the simple fellow will emerge into the street, drunk and unable to walk back to his hotel.

His senses dulled, he hailed a cab and is driven there, only to find that he has few shillings left.

The whole truth is revealed in the morning, when he wakes up—sober. His money has all been gambled away. He is "broke to the wide" and has to wire home for more money to enable him to get back to the country.

The Three Sisters of Belgravia

Just over a year ago three young women, who had once been very beautiful indeed, were thrown out of their flat because they had no money to pay for their rent or food. They paid a visit to a third-class theatrical agent, who was arranging a tour of foreign parts. He had advertised for "ladies of the chorus," but the type of actress he wanted he did not state openly.

These three women were of the kind for which the agent was looking. He engaged them on the spot, and today, I believe they are "working' in a Mexican estaminet, with no intention of returning to England.

They had a lurid and tragic past, these three sisters who had lived together in a luxurious flat in Belgravia for more than five years.

They left the stage late in 1914 because, with little talent for acting, they found they could make more money and enjoy more luxury as courtesans.

I am sorry for all of her kind. Good people often find themselves ruined through lack of will power and a longing for a "gay life." I am reminded of one in particular. She was a well-known society beauty, married to a titled son of a famous house, but was drawn into a dangerous set by a young Jew who fascinated her.

As their amorous acquaintance continued, she found herself hopelessly in his power. He was a cautious man, so far as her husband was concerned, and always took care that he should not know of their journeys together to Bohemia.

This woman went with him to gambling houses and fell hopelessly into debt. By selling jewels and realizing some o her financial interests she extracted herself and bravely told the young Jew—by now he had displayed himself in his true colors—that she would have nothing more to do with him.

But the fellow threatened to tell her husband of their adventures together unless she paid him a large sum of money. The poor woman was frantic, and paid the money.

A second demand came, and could not be met. The Jew was on the point of carrying out his threat, I believe, when he was arrested for being concerned in an affair in limehouse of a serious character. He was a Pole by birth, and therefore an alien. This man was deported and happily the woman has not heard of him since.

It is not a rare practice—this kind of thing. There are hundred of these handsome foreigners who get girls from aristocratic homes into their toils, lead them into false paths and then "bleed them" for money. Blackmail is the climax to their activities, and many of them are living in luxury through money regularly supplied to them by their past victims, who do this rather than that their parents or husbands should know of their foolish lapse with men who make it their business to lead them astray.

ALBERTA DRYS END CAMPAIGN FROM PULPITS

Voting To-Day on the Continuance of Present System Or Adoption of Government Control.

FOUR CHOICES OPEN.

CALGARY, Nov. 5.— (Canadian Press.)—The prohibition campaign in Alberta practically closed Saturday for the references which were sent to it in hundreds of pulpits at Rector day's services and the vote is to be taken to-day. The question at issue is whether the prohibition law in the province shall be maintained and strengthened or, in in the alternative, whether it shall be supplanted by a system of government control of all liquors and sale of beer by licensed premises, or by a measure for the sale of beer alone.

John D. Hunt, clerk of the executive council, is acting chief electoral officer, and the unit of organization for voting is the provincial constituency. There are 52 constituencies and from many of them the returns on Monday night will be far from complete. The vote is on a preferential ballot with four choices, polled only the first choices will be counted by the deputy returning officers .Should the first result be indecisive the ballots will be shipped to Edmonton for further counts and the result might not be known for weeks. If a change in the law is demanded, an early session of the legislature is expected.

Advance polls have been opened in the cities and the principal towns since Thursday, but no announcement has been made of the number of votes polled. It is thought that a heavy vote will be cast, although the suggestion has been advanced that if the weather is fine, many farmers will consider it more important to get on with their threshing than to trave to their poll.

The Ballot.

The voters will be presented a ballot which has four options and they are asked to express their four preferences in order. The choices are:

(a) Continuance and development of existing liquor legislation.

(b) Sale of beer in licensed hotels and other premises, under a bill prepared by the hotelmen's association.

(c) Sale of beer by or through government vendors for consumption on private premises.

(d) Sale of all liquor through government vendors on the permit system in limited quantities, beer to be consumed on licensed premises.

Clauses (b) and (c) would leave unchanged the present regulations affecting the sale of spirits which are handled for medicinal purposes only on doctors' prescriptions.

The general public appears to believe that the real contest is between clauses A and D. The prohibition forces are urging uncompromising support of A. The Modefation League appeals for first choice for D, and then, in turn, B, C, and A, and it interprets the letters D, B, C, A, to mean Don't Be Caught Again. Both organizations profess confidence.

Predict "Dry" Victory.

The Social Service Council officials predict a "dry" majority of 15,000 to 20,000 and officials of the Moderation League are just as confident and say they expect a majority of 25,000 for clause D.

Probably there will be about one hundred thousand votes polled. Polls outside the city close at seven p.m. and in the cities at 8 p.m. Only first choices will be counted to-night and if the vote is close the result will not be known for some time.

Still Searching Marsh For Winnipeg Hunter.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 4.—Trying to solve what is believed will prove to be a tragedy of the hunting marsh, Winnipeg sportsmen aided by farmers of the city and provincial police are making a sweeping search for Stuart Ferguson, a Winnipeg boy who has been missing since last Tuesday in the marsh country of Portage La Prairie. He has not been seen since leaving his father's hunting lodge, Tuesday noon, when he left in search for ducks. He was on skates and police officials believe he either broke through the ice or tripped and shot himself. Grappling irons are being used to-day in a search of the many boat holes and open water.

Mounted Police Sold Narcotics

VICTORIA, B.C., Nov. 4.—On charges of trafficking in drugs, F. W. Eccles and W. L. Smith, members of the Vancouver section of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, were yesterday sentenced to terms of imprisonment, 18 months for the former, and nine months for the latter. In addition Eccles was fined $1,000, and Smith $500. Frank Fernandez, a former member of the force, was given a sentence of 18 months and a fine of $1,000. Application for appeal by way of a stated case was refused.

A royal commission has been named to investigate the allegations against the officers.

REGRETS FROM CAPT. WALTERS

Captain of Bluenose Says He Didn't Realize Effects of His Action.

HALIFAX, N.S., Nov. 5.—H. R. Silver, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the International Fishermen's Trophy, received the following message from Captain Angus Waters of the schooner Bluenose on Saturday evening:

"Lunenburg, Nov 3.

"On reflection I regret the effects of my action. I was under great strain. I am a fisherman, not a sportsman. I acted hurriedly and did not realize that other people were so largely interested."

Chairman Silver, after consulting with members of the Board of Trustees, made the following statement this evening: :

"As the International Committee for the 1923 series has disbanded, Captain Walters' had to be considered by the trustees of the international trophy. After full consideration and reviewing the matter from every angle, we have decided that, in view of the fact that after the Bluenose sailed for home on Friday, all details of the 1923 series were finally disposed of by the International Committee it would not be in the interest of future international fishermen's contests to re-open the series this year."

This evening Captain Walters was communicated with by the press in reference to the decision of the trustees, and stated: :

"That decision is perfectly agreeable to me .The Bluenose will not race again this year under any circumstances or inducements. It is the intention to strip the vessel and lay her up within the next few days. That is final."

Before the International committee disbanded on Friday, it was decided that the International fishermen's races would be continued next year and that Canada would be represented with a vessel at Gloucester.

DEMONSTRATION BY MONTREAL MASONS

Invocatory Service Was Attended By 3,300 Members Sunday.

MONTREAL, Nov. 5.—(Canadian Press)—The most impressive demonstration of Masonry ever held in Montreal was given yesterday afternoon when about 3300 members of the craft paraded to St. James' Methodist Church for the Grand Masonic service "To Invoke God's Blessing Upon the Purpose to Erect a Temple to the Glory of His Name and In Loving Memory of the Brethern who Served in the Great War."

The Masonic Temple congested with delegations from each of the 38 lodges within the district as well as those from St. John's Quebec, St. Lambert and other Masonic centres. The service was conducted by M. W. Bro. Rev. Canon A. P. Shatford, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Quebec, assisted by a number of Grand Chaplains.

GREEDY ALLIES BROKE TREATY WITH GERMANY

N. W. Rowell, K.C., Says European Countries to Blame For Misery of the World.

ADVOCATES LEAGUE.

LONDON, Ont. Nov. 5.—Chaos and misery existing throughout Europe and the world today is attributed directly to failure of European countries to carry out those provisions under which Germany capitulated to the Allies. The Germans lay down arms believing that ex-President Wilson's fourteen points have been disregarded as ruthlessly as Germany herself disregarded the sancity of international agreements in 1914.

This thought was submitted to delegates of the World Mission Conference by N. W. Rowell, K.C. of Toronto, in the First Methodist Church, Sunday evening. In a stirring address he appealed to the spirit of brotherhood in men as being the only solution of international difficulties.

"We ourselves are responsible for the turmoil of the world to-day," the eminent orator said. "Every nation that signed the Versailles Treaty added to the dishonor of the Allies. Germany was led to believe that peace would have as its foundation the idealistic fourteen points of the United States President. But the Allies, greedy for the spoils of war took advantage of Germany's helpless condition and abused their power. This constituted as flagrant a breach of international honor as the world has ever seen."

In some men's minds the late war had developed a new conception of international relations, Mr. Rowell said. Instead of eternal preparation for war many people saw that what the world required was eternal co-operation in the preservation of peace This was one of two or three encouraging features that could be seen amidst the suffering and turmoil of the present day.

There never was a time in history when so many countries desired that peace be preserved. There never was enough fraternity among countries, in the past, to make it possible to build a League of Nations of 51 members. The League Mr. Rowell declared, was the greatest concrete advance ever made in history. Never before were nations so keen to introduce Christian ideals into international relations.

Alberta Voting To-Day on the Dry Question.

EDMONTON, Alta., November 5 (Associated Press). — Whether the present system of Prohibition is to continue in the Province of Alberta will be determined to-day by a preferential ballot with four alternatives.

The ballot, prepared by a special committee appointed by Premier Greenfield, and adopted by the Legislature, carries the following alternatives:

A.—Prohibition: Meaning thereby continuation and development of the present legislation; that is, the abolition of the sale of all liquors other than for medicinal, sacramental, manufacturing, and scientific purposes.

B.—Licensed sale of beer: Meaning thereby the sale of beer in licensed hotels and other premises as provided in the so-called "Temperance Act."

C.—Government sale of beer: Meaning thereby the sale of beer by or through Government vendors for consumption in private residences under Government control and regulation.

D.—Government sale of all liquors: Meaning thereby the sale of all liquors by or through Government vendors—beer to be consumed on licensed premises and in private residences—wines and spirits to be purchased in limited quantities under permit issued by the Government, under Government control and regulation.

The Moderation League has urged electors to cast the first vote for (D) and the second and third respectively for (C) and (B). Prohibition forces have called upon the electors to vote (A).

Alberta has had seven years' experience with varying degrees of Prohibition legislation.

CANADIAN BOATS LOADED SATURDAY

About 1,932,000 Bushels Shipped From Port Arthur on Saturday.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Nov. 5.—With ten boats in the grain-carrying trade between the head of the lakes and lower bay and lake ports, the Canadian Government merchant marine is making a big bid for the end of the season business. The carrying capacity of these boats ranges from 105,000 to 110,000 bushels, but they make frequent trips and materially aid in getting the grain east.

There are four Canadian Government boats in port loading Saturday. For the most part the cargoes outbound Saturday were small, but in the aggregate total about 1,932,000 bushels.

GERMANY WEARS RAGS OF MISERY DISGUISE POINCARE SUGGESTS

Experts Should Search With Care For the Real Conditions—Says Allies Did Not Promise to Protect German Constitution Against the Germans Themselves.

SECURITY WITH REPARATIONS.

BRIVE, France, Nov. 5.—Premier Poincare, speaking at the unveiling of a monument to the war dead of Brive, yesterday, again defined his position as regards German reparations. He did not show the slightest variation in his speech from his previous declarations.

The Premier said the experts' committee of the Reparations Commission must not be allowed to become the indirect means of raising the question of the amount of Germany's debt, nor must France be despoiled of her guarantees prior to the total payment of reparations.

France, M. Poincare declared, would remain within the framework of the treaty, "before and after" the work of the experts' committee.

M. Poincare made no direct reference to the question of a limitation of the powers of the experts' committee, which has been the subject of much argument during the past two or three days. In fact, he never referred directly to the United States, except when he said he had made it a point to leave no room for ambiguity on these matters in the best interests of France and "the Allies and associates." Whenever he used the word "capacity" the Premier always placed the word "present" before it.

Brazen Propaganda.

In his speech M. Poincare dealt with what he called "Germany's brazen propaganda attempt" to bring about Anglo-Saxon pity by issuing illustrated leaflets showing she had paid in cash and kind to an amount of 56,000,000,000 gold marks. He quoted the Reparations Commission's statistics putting the amount paid at under nine billion gold marks, of which France, he said, had only received 344,000,000 net above the expenses of the army of occupation and advance.

With a seeming touch of scorn, M. Poincare dismissed the British note with reference to an independent Rhineland by remarking that he was unable to grasp the reasoning of it, which appeared to him contrary to the principles of the rights of peoples.

"We never promised to protect the German constitution against the Germans, nor even the unity of the Reich; and the initiatives taken by the Germanic States do not excuse the allies from observing toward one another the treaty they signed," he decared.

The French and foreigners visiting the Ruhr, said M. Poincare, have been astounded by the colossal expenditure for German constructions in the Ruhr—factories, country houses for the wealthy, and workers' homes. The German state has been running itself, but allowing its citizens, particularly the great industrialists, to enrich themselves without serious effort to make them pay an equitable contribution toward national resurrection.

"Yet," continued M. Poincare, "it is after this self-willed bankruptcy that we have been invited from several quarters to revise the German debt, just as if that debt had not been definitely fixed by application of the treaty, and as if it depended on the constitutionality of the French government to reshape the diplomatic convention accepted by both its Chambers. We therefore have had to take our precautions that none should seek to despoil us of our pledges before total payment, and that in the expert investigation to which the Reparation Commission proceeds with a view to estimating Geramny's present capacity to pay there should be no reconsideration by some indirect way of the settled amount of the debt.

No Ambiguities.

"We have been firm in dissipating beforehand any ambiguity on these points in the interests of our relations with our allies and associates. In accepting the principle of this expert inquiry we had given them, with all our heart, evidence of friendship, but we were naturally decided to keep ourselves within the framework of the treaty before, during and after the work of the experts.

"Even in estimating the present capacity it will be desirable that the experts search with the utmost care the real conditions under the rags of misery with which the Reich seeks to cover itself.

"It is evident that before making regular payments Germany will have to reform her finances, establish a healthy money and put herself in a state to contract foreign loans. But would you like to hear in simple detail how her external commerce progresses each day?"

Security First.

M. Poincare said the statistics of the Suez canal showed that during past months German navigation had left French navigation far behind it. He then turned to the question of security, repeating, as he does in all his Sunday speeches:

"We can no more abandon our security than reparations. The treaty has reduced the time for the occupation of the Rhine to far less time than will be required for liberation from debt. In return for this reduction we were promised pacts of guarantees. Nothing as yet has replaced those still-born pacts. Whatever political organization is adopted in the future by the German populations, we shall be ever on the watch to render fresh aggressions impossible.

"We shall never tire repeating that we have no thought ot appropriating —directly or indirectly—any territory ,and that we intend fully to respect the liberty of the inhabitants. But when I hear it said in certain friendly quarters that if certain groups of the populations proclaim independence, a revision of the treaty of Versailles must follow, I cannot follow such reasoning."

MURDER SUSPECT FOUND NOT GUILTY

Roy Tracey's Exit From Court Like Triumphal Procession.

TORONTO, Nov. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Roy Tracey, negro alleged slayer of George Fletcher walked out of the City Hall free man late Saturday night, a few minutes after the jury in the Assize Court, following nearly five hours of deliberation had declared him not guilty of murder.

As he pushed through the revolving doors of the James street entrance into the night a crowd of congratulating friends, mostly colored, pressed about him giving his exit something of the appearance of a triumphal procession. In its wake followed the light complexioned widow of the slain man, showing signs of tears.

So the curtain fell on the sequence of events which started with the barking of revolver shots in the early morning of August 11 at Dundas street and Kensington avenue, when George Fletcher colored sank to the roadway dying from a bullet wound.

Suicide Left Funeral Money

CALGARY, Nov. 4.—Forcing their way into the room of A. G. Kempton, farmer, of Monitor, at a local hotel, Saturday morning, police found his body and a letter addressed to the Calgary Chief of Police, explaining that no inquest would be necessary and that he had left $60 in the bank for his funeral expenses. He had shot himself through the head. Kempton had been in ill-health for some months.

THREE HURT IN MOTOR MISHAP

One Man Seriously Injured in Woodstock—Crashed Into Post.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 5.—(Canadian Press)—Sylvester Sutherland, Cass Avenue, Detroit, is in the Woodstock Hospital suffering from severe injuries and shock sustained in an automobile accident which occurred between Woodstock and Princeton on the Provincial High way Saturday night.

Sutherland, with six other Detroiters were on their way to Toronto when, near Princeton, the driver evidently lost control of the car and it dashed into a post. Three of the occupants of the car needed medical attention. Two were removed to a farmer's house at Princeton where they are now receiving medical attention, but Sutherland's injuries were of such a nature that it was necessary to rush him to the Woodstock Hospital, where it was found that he had been badly cut and bruised about the face and arms and at present is suffering greatly from shock.

It was reported from the hospital last night that he would recover providing complications did not set in. The car was badly smashed.

HAWAII ADVERTISES

HONOLULU—Hawaiians will tell you it pays to advertise. Last spring they began telling their mainland brethren that the islands were considerably more than just a winter resort. Ads in leading periodicals set forth advantages of Hawaii's summer climate. Result was thousands of tourists whiled away the warm months in the "Paradise of the Pacific." And the thermometer didn't soar above 85.

SATIN HATS.

Satin hats are very popular now lined with gold or silver metal cloth, or draped effectively with lace veils.

BELGIUM WANTS UNITED STATES IN CONFERENCE

Convinced That Only America Can Save Europe — French Press Comments.

SUPPORT WEAKENING

PARIS, November 5 (Canadian Press) — Premier Poincare, in his Sunday addresses, reaffirmed the French Government's unshakeable determination not to accept any reduction whatsoever in the German debt of 132,000,000,000 gold marks, as fixed by the London Conference in 1921.

The Premier's declarations were strictly along the lines of his previous utterances on the reparations question, taking no cognisance of any new factor in the way of international negotiation in which the United States may be included.

While no official announcement has been made on this point, it is believed in diplomatic circles that M. Poincare's speech reflects the French Government's position, which will be communicated to the State Department at Washington by Ambassador Jusserand to-day.

Signs of weakening Belgian support for the French viewpoint are admitted freely everywhere. The adoption by Brussels of what is termed "the Anglo-American policy" is referred to by newspapers which are staunch supporters of the Government as an accomplished fact. But this has failed to divert the French Premier from the course he has been pursuing on the reparations question since the occupation of the Ruhr.

While official circles are silent concerning any change in the attitude of the Belgian Government, the press is less circumspect, openly referring to Belgium's inauguration of a new policy of independence, apart from France, both as regards reparations and a Rhineland Republic.

The Temps says: "The Belgian Cabinet does not insist upon the expert commission's task being confined to the study of the 'present' capacity of Germany to pay, which is the French Government's absolutely essential condition. Nervousness and anxiety on the part of the Belgian Government have prevailed in the past two days owing to fear that the conversations concerning the constitution of a commission of experts may fail. Belgian executive circles are convinced that the only rapid and practicable means of solving the reparations problem is to obtain the active collaboration of the United States, and are resolved to spare no effort or sacrifice to bring the United States in."

The Journal des Debats says: "The Belgian Government is firmly

Woman Killed by A Souvenir Shell

LONDON, Nov. 3. —Amelie Gras, aged fifty-two, a widow, was blown to pieces in her home at Courbevoie by a live shell which her son had brought home as a souvenir of the war.

She had apparently tired of the souvenir, and had thrown it on the fire. The shell exploded while she was poking the fire, and everything in the room was blown to fragments.

MANY INJURED IN MELBOURNE

Two Killed in Police Strike Riots—Appeal For Special Constables.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 5—The Cabinet, at a special session yesterday issued an appeal to all fit men of military age to enroll as special constables. This action was taken in consequence of rioting growing out of the police strike, during which two persons were killed and many injured yesterday.

It is estimated that the damage done during the rioting will aggregate £100,000.

Fifty five persons were arrested during the disorders.

The suburban train service has been cancelled. The Government has consulted distinguished military men regarding the situation. The Executive Committee of the Police Association has appealed to the strikers to resume work, promising that an effort will be made to obtain an equitable settlement of the dispute.

One hundred and fifty persons were injured during Saturday's rioting. The Cabinet has not yet decided to invoke military aid in breaking the strike, but it has troops guarding the public buildings and patrolling the streets. It is the intention to raise 5,000 special constables and to refuse to reinstate any of the striking policemen.

Public buildings in Melbourne are now being guarded by military forces.

After the meeting of the cabinet which ended at eleven o'clock last night Premier Lawson of the State of Victoria stated that the government had finally decided that it was impossible in the interests of public welfare to re-instate any of the strikers. "They have been false to their oaths and have left the city at the mercy of lawless elements," said the Premier.

It is further announced that every conceivable step will be taken to prevent a recrudescence of the disorders and that the government intends to raise five thousand selected special constables.

INSURGENTS IN RHINELAND TO OCCUPY ESSEN

Protest Against Action of British and Belgians — Separatists Enlarge Their Plants.

ENTER PALATINATE.

COBLENZ, Nov. 5.—A protest against the British attitude toward the Separatists in the Cologne area was sent by Joseph Matthes to Lord Kilmarnock, British member of the Rhineland High Commission, but the communication was returned unopened. Matthes announced yesterday that he would take further action to show the resentment of the Separatists against the attitude of the British.

One Separatist in Cologne already has been sentenced to four months' imprisonment by a British court-martial. He was convicted of being in the zone contrary to the Brtish regulations. Other Separatists are awaiting trial.

Beds from the largest hotel here have been requisitioned by the Separatists. One bed for Matthes and others for members of his cabinet have been taken to the palace and installed on the top floor. The electricity by which the palace was lighted has been cut off by the anti-separatists and the occupants of the palace have resorted to the use of oil lamps to carry on their work at night.

Saturday Matthes, in what he labelled an official communication, stated that it was the intention of the Separatist to re-occupy Aix-La-Chapelle.

"We are planning to re-take Aix-La-Chapelle," he said in his communication, "and within a few days our troops will be marching into the palantinate and other of our forces will seize Essen. That is our answer to Belgium's action at Aix-La-Chapelle in disarming our soldiers and bringing about our retreat."

THE STAMP ON RECEIPTS.

The attention of the Examiner has been drawn to the fact that in a number of instances in Peterborough receipts have been given for amounts over ten dollars without the necessary two-cent excise stamp being attached.

This failure to use the excise stamp may have been due to ignorance of the regulations or possibly through neglect, but in any case it would be well for the public generally to understand that the regulations call for an excise tax of two cents on receipts of over ten dollars, and that a penalty of a fairly severe fine is provided for failure to carry out the law.

The Examiner gives publicity to this warning merely in the public interest in order that those who hitherto have been ignoring the ruling in regard to excise stamps may understand the risk they are running in so doing, and if the matter is now taken care of the announcement will be justified.

Laws are laws and must be observed, and in ommissions of this kind offenders are running a risk that they may not have comprehended.

SHOULD BE IGNORED.

Mayor Taylor and Ald. Phelan, named by the City Council to deal with the invitation from the International Beauty Contest Club, asking Peterborough to select a local beauty to represent this city in the Ontario contest to be held in Toronto in December, have been given power "to act," and accordingly should do what the Council itself should have done in the first place, decide to ignore the whole affair.

It is purely a commercial proposition, with the promoters sure winners, and no Municipal Council should be "easy" enough to assist in exploiting the youth and beauty of the young women of their community to help further the interests of some anonymous organization whose only object is to make money and secure publicity out of the scheme.

If there are girls in Peterborough empty-headed enough to embark upon such a dubious venture and parents foolish enough to allow them to do so, let them enter if they want to, but in the name of common sense let the City Council withhold the stamp of official approval from such folly.

As for the "advertising" to be obtained by Peterborough in participating in such a contest, it is about as valueless as a German trillion mark note.

The "International Beauty Club's" invitation should, so far as the Council is concerned, be buried so deep upon a fyle that it will not see the light of day again.

Let the publicity-hungry and greedy promoters find some other field for their enterprise.

SOMEBODY SHOULD GET BUSY.

It is to be hoped that the news item from Parry Sound which appeared in the papers on Thursday has not escaped the attention of the Game and Fisheries Department of the Ontario Government.

The story told of a record slaughter of salmon trout in the Parry Sound district, the run being described as "almost like the old-time salmon runs up the British Columbia rivers, and thousands of fishermen on thousands of shoals had great catches."

Catches as large as 300 pounds of fish in one day by two men were reported, and it is stated that representatives of the big American fishing clubs vied with the Indians in the massacre of the fish.

The whole trouble centres in the fact that the closed season intended to protect the salmon trout during the spawning period is made too late.

November is named as the closed season, while, as a matter of fact, the salmon trout begin spawning in the Georgian Bay district around October 20th and are through before the closed season begins.

The result is that the spawning fish are at the mercy of the fish hogs and are being killed off in thousands.

The mistake should be corrected at once and the closed season amended so that there will be no danger of a repetition of this year's killing.

Perhaps it would be on the safe side to make the closed season include both October and November, but at all events the slaughter that took place within the last couple of weeks must be avoided in future.

THE CAMPAIGN AGAINST DIPHTHERIA.

The Peterborough Medical Society by resolution has unanimously endorsed the use of the Schick test for determining those susceptible to diphtheria and the use of toxin anti-toxin for immunizing those found susceptible to that dread disease.

Further, the society heartily commends the use of the test and of toxin anti-toxin in the Public Schools of Peterborough, and commends to parents their use for immunizing children of pre-school age.

The attention of the parents of Peterborough is directed by the Examiner to this resolution, representing the unanimous opinion of the medical fraternity of the city.

Arrangements are being made to employ the Schick test in the schools and to innoculate with toxin anti-toxin those who are found to be susceptible to diphtheria.

Through this step it is hoped to make Peterborough's school children absolutely immune from this disease, and by prevailing upon the parents of younger children to take advantage of the same protection to arm the whole child population of the city with a sure shield against diphtheria.

Dr. A. W. McPherson has explained in a splendid article published a few days ago in the Examiner the simplicity of the method, its efficacy and the absence of any harmful re-action of any kind from the use of toxin anti-toxin.

It is not necessary, therefore, to go into details here in regard to these features of the plan.

The Examiner merely desires to enlist the co-operation of the parents in making the campaign a complete success. They are asked to permit the simple Schick test to be used, and in the event of that test showing susceptibility to allow the child to be made immune by the use of the toxin anti-toxin.

Ontario lost 654 people, mostly children, from diphtheria in 1920, 525 from the same cause in 1921 and 341 in 1922.

During the same years the diphtheria deaths in Peterborough numbered 2, 7 and 9, while the cases totalled 25, 166 and 72.

The general adoption of an immunization scheme would have prevented the vast majority of these cases.

The parents of the city are asked to consider whether or not it would be worth while to place the children of Peterboro in a position of safety against the scourge of diphtheria.

WHERE GERMANY STANDS.

The manner in which the German Empire was built up throws light on the methods being employed to tear it down. Germany, as this generation has known it, is not an old empire; compared to Britain, or even United States, it is a mere infant in years, says the London Advertiser.

The German Empire, as it stood in 1914, was composed of 26 states and divisions. Four of these were kingdoms, Prussia, Bavaria, Saxony and Wurtemberg. There were six grand duchies, five duchies, seven principalities and three free towns. At the break of the war the empire also included the territory wrested from France, Alsace-Lorraine. The whole fabric was solidified by treaties between the North German Federation and the South German States. The completed article was a tribute to the organizing and directing genius of Chancellor Bismarck.

The will and the domination of Prussia became the will and domination of Germany, because Prussia had the number and the might. Out of 58 members in the Bundesrat, one part of the federal council, Prussia had 17, Bavaria 6, Saxony 4, Wurttemberg 4, and the remainder so scattered that their power was not centralized to the point of effective action. In the Reichstag, Prussia had 236 members, Bavaria 48, Saxony 23, and Wurttemberg 14.

United Germany was schooled into the mind of every German child; the rich Ruhr valley supplied the treasure that made a united Germany go out and capture many of the markets of the world. It was a great combination, welded together by a master mind, held together by a vision of world importance. It was a dual-purpose machine, military and commercial.

Critics of France say she sees in the present situation the psychological moment to strike for the undoing of the work of Bismarck. The war machine, the trappings and the glory of conquering invasion have gone; the cohesive force of a wonderful military production has departed. The rich Ruhr, on which industrial Germany built her mercantile conquests, is in the hands of invaders. Thus are the two horns of the German people cut off.

Nor is that all. Germany's enemies are not all on the outside. She has had her exploiters who have used the hour of national torture to build great fortunes for themselves. Hugo Stinnes and his colleagues have built an industrial autocracy that disregards the well-being and the comfort of those who made their huge wealth possible. Some of the cruelest blows to Germany have been aimed and delivered from within.

The people of Germany today are helpless to strike out against these men. They are poor; they are pauperized by a pay envelope that transcends anything the genius of comic opera ever devised; they cannot give voice to their feelings, nor can they forget the wrongs that their own leaders have weighted about their necks.

OUR TREATY-MAKING INDEPENDENCE.

The astonishing legend that there is a party in England which is always striving to drive the Overseas Dominions back into the status of Crown Colonies has received another jolt from the urbane readiness of the British Government to accept and solidify the attitude of our Canadian Government toward the signature of treaties If we want to negotiate and sign our own treaties, no one in London seems to object. The official position is that the British authorities will not only consent to this departure, but will heartily assist it in any way possible.

If there was any hesitation in London at the time of the Lapointe proposal touching the Halibut Treaty, we did not hear of it. The British are traditionally conservative and they may have enquired into the possible consequences of so novel a procedure; but the governing fact in the affair was that they cheerfully and fully consented. They obviously entertained no plans which such a step would disturb.

Of course, we had an unfortunate experience with the Halibut Treaty. The Americans were not quite so ready for the innovation as were the conservative British. They were suspicious of a treaty which had only the Canadian signature when they were accustomed to seeing the British as well. So they enquired and found that this treaty would only bind Canadians, whereas they had thought it would bind all British subjects. The consequence was that the American Senate held it up. So we have no halibut treaty now, and no "closed season" at all for halibut.

But no fair-minded man will hold this as an objection to the principle that Canada should be able to sign her own treaties. Such obstacles will be smoothed out in the working.

* * * *

The only question for us is whether we want to negotiate and sign our own treaties. Some of us are very sure that we do. The present Government appears to imagine that it has won a great victory by getting the consent of the British Government to this change.

But the proof of the pudding will be in the eating. It is wholly a question of the method by which Canada can legitimately hope to get the most valuable treaties. Will foreign nations give more to us alone than to us, backed by the British Empire? We have already seen one minor illustration of the value which a foreign nation, even our next-door neighbor, puts on the British signature. We may see other examples, especially if it becomes our duty to deal with more distant Powers, such as Japan or Russia.

As for Great Britain, she has nothing to lose by giving us our head. If we want to do business under our own name, and without any reference to the old and widely known firm of "The British Empire," that is a matter of entire indifference to the British people. We are not proposing to go out of the Empire. In the day of need, we will be beside our fellow Dominions and the Mother Country just as promptly and just as effectively as if our treaties were still signed by the handiest British Ambassador. They stand to lose nothing "over home." So they wisely say nothing.

But is it not conceivable that the day and occasion may come when we will lose a good deal because only Canadian delegates appear to write treaties? Canada after all is only a nation of eight millions, little known in the Chancelleries of the world and with never a cruiser to "show our flag" in foreign ports. We are a big people in London because London loves us; but we are nothing like so big in Paris or Rome or Moscow or Tokio, or even Washington.—Montreal Star.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, November 5 (Canadian Press). — The trade in cash grain in the local market on Saturday was reported quiet. There was no change in the condition of the local flour market. A good steady trade continues to be done in all lines of millfeed, and the market for rolled oats continues fairly active.

There is a good trade passing in eggs. Total receipts from 1st May to date have been 42,891 cases in excess of the same period one year ago.

An improved demand was shown in butter. Total receipts from 1st May to date have been 149,886 packages less than the corresponding period a year ago.

A little more activity was reported in cheese. Total receipts from 1st May to date have been 117,526 boxes in excess of the same period for 1922.

Egg prices on Saturday were: Storage extras 40, storage firsts 35, seconds 30.

WINNIPEG CATTLE

WINNIPEG, November 5 (Canadian Press). — Receipts on Saturday, 1,730 cattle and calves, 190 hogs, and 360 sheep and lambs.

Trading was quiet on the cattle market on Saturday morning, but the few sales reported were completed at steady prices. The bulk of available offerings was carried over for to-day's trade.

The hog market was unchanged at $8.00 for thick smooths and $8.80 for select bacons.

Good lambs sold from $10.50 to $11,00, and sheep around $7.00.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, November 5 (Canadian Press). — Helped by strength in the cotton market and in stocks, and by assumed likelihood that the Federal Government soon would take steps likely to lift grain values, the price of wheat showed an upward trend on Saturday.

The close was firm, 1-4c to 7-8c net higher, December $1.07 5-8 to 3-4 to $1.07 3-4 to 7-8, and May $1.12 1-4 to $1.12 1-4 to 3-8.

Corn finished 3-8c to 1 1-4c up; oats at 1-8c to 1-4c to 1-4c to 3-8c gain; and provisions varying from 10c decline to a like advance.

Purchasing for Eastern account started wheat upward at the opening, and although at times reactions were witnessed, the bulls had an advantage all day. Aside from impetus gained through the action of cotton and stocks, the bulls had an advantage all day. Aside from thm cotton and stocks, the buying of wheat was accelerated as a result of messages indicating that President Coolidge and his advisers were considering comprehensive reports touching the agricultural situation and the wheat trade, and also was giving further attention to plans for furnishing wheat or flour to Germany.

Bears in the wheat market made much of assertions that farmers had disposed of a large part fo this year's wheat crop, and that any plan which the Government might adopt for the enhancement of values would benefit the growers less than was implied in current talk. Sellers, however, were apparently disposed to take risks only after substantial upturns in price. On the other hand, millers' advocacy of 15 cents increase of the United States import duty on wheat attracted due notice, as did 9,000,000 bushels cut in estimates of the Australian crops.

Wet weather threatening delay to husking and to the movement of corn had a bullish effect on corn and oats. No big accumulation of corn here in the next few weeks is looked for.

Provisions, like hogs, were without significant change.

NEW YORK LADY OWNS THEATRE

Mrs. Henry E. Harris Is the Only Woman in New York Who Owns Her Own Theatre.

By HORTENSE SAUNDERS

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—It's cheaper to hire than to fire—

This is the opinion of Mrs. Henry B. Harris, the only woman in New York who owns her own theater and directs and produces her own plays after she has selected them and the casts.

"Experience is the best teacher," she admits, "but her course is also the most expensive. The maid you teach to work your way, then fire when your temperament clashes with hers, has cost you more than money.

"And the clerk you have trained to care for your accounts, or the man who lights your stage, reads your plays or relieves you of any of the responsibility upon which your success depends, is more of a loss to you than his salary when you get rid of him.

"Whether you run a house or a theater or a restaurant, your problems are the same. And in your ability to deal with people, to select wisely those who serve you, and compensate them not only with money but with consideration, lies your ultimate success in whatever you undertake, because your success always depends upon other people as much as on yourself."

This policy of dealing with others may be the reason why during the 12 years she has been with the theater, she has kept the same staff of workers practically intact—save for a few marriages that removed pretty stenographers and domestically inclined cashiers from the ranks.

When her husband, Henry B. Harris, the producer, went down on the Titanic, she was a bride of 17, but she determined to carry on her husband's work. She had helped him read plays, attended rehearsals and had a genuine love for the stage. But of the practical, hard-headed business side she knew nothing. So she carried her own ideas of co-operation and consideration into business and has made them pay. This year she is producing "The Crooked Square," which has all the earmarks of a popular success.

She believes the executive side of the stage has great possibilities for women.

"Women have a natural feeling for costuming, stage settings and unusual effects, and they have good literary taste and sound judgment," she concluded. "But they must learn to inspire others with their own enthusiasm and believe in themselves during the shaky weeks and in a failures beforet hey really belong to the show game."

STUDY OF PSYCHOLOGY HAS NEARLY VANISHED

Advanced Psychologists Do Not Disown Freud Entirely

Psychoanalysis that recently attracted as much attention as Coueism did a little later, has nearly disappeared in discussion and study of psychology in this country.

Freud, the pioneer and leader in psychoanalysis, has issued a statement saying that psychoanalysis is misjudged because it disturbs human complacency.

As the result of the practical failure of the general ideas of psychoanalysis Freud says that science itself is "only a slightly mitigated form of universal ignorance."

Advanced psychologists do not disown Freud entirely. They admit that there is a germ of truth in his doctrine and especially admit that there are two phases of human nature existing in a individuals and that repression of instincts of either of these natures has an effect upon the individual in certain unaccountable nervous maladies.

But science has refused to accept psychoanalysis as the answer Freud claimed it was to nearly every mental trait of mankind.

B GS FOR UNITY TO BRING PEACE

London Pastor Tells St. Paul's Congregation the World Is Too Forgetful of God.

As St. Peter, in his epistle to the Romans, exhorted the early Christians, who had to renounce Christ or suffer death under Roman persecution, to put all their trust in God, to pray and to love on another, so also did he, Rev. P. G. Brierely Kay, rector of Christ Church, Marylebone, England, counsel the congregation of St. Paul's Episcopal Cathedral, at the Sunday morning services, which were broadcasted by The Detroit News, Station WWJ.

"After 13 years in New Zealand, I returned to England to find a new spirit abroad, a spirit of trying to be of service to the whole world," the Rev. Mr. Kay said. "I have long looked forward to my present six weeks' visit to America, not only to enjoy herf amous hospitality, but also to convey God's call to the English-speaking peoples to unite in behalf of a broken and distressed world.

"The world needs America's stimulus and her bigness of vision to cope with the problems before it. Only whole-hearted co-operation and a spirit of love, brotherhood and mutual service will make of the world one great family in peace and concord.

Forgetting God

"In St. Peter's day, Rome was literally and figuratively 'drunk with the blood of saints,' just as Mars is wallowing in the blood of humanity in our day. There is only one way out. No man can bring peace into the world. We have forgotten one thing, that the world is God's and He rules the affairs of men.

"We must co-operate with God and ask Him for peace. With St. Peter, I would advise you to cast all your anxiety upon God, for He cares for you. Peace comes from God alone. We must pray for it and merit it by showing our love for one another. One great means to this end is the union of English speaking peoples, among whom America ever will be the greatest and most powerful.

"I am convinced there is a spontaneous flow of human kindness and power to bring peace lying dormant in the United States, just as the power in your Niagara Falls, which now furnishes heat and light to many, lay dormant for so long."

Choristers Sing

Preceding the sermon, the Cathedral Choristers sang "Te Deum" in D Minor, by Buck and "JKipling's Recessional," by De Koven, assisted by Thomas C. Evans, tenor; Phillip A. Kelleher, bass, and John L. Dickinson. The congregation sang three hymns, "Ten Thousand Times Ten Thousand," "Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah," and "On Our Way Rejoicing."

At 5 p. m. Station WWJ broadcast a fine musical programme by The Detroit News Orchestra, Otto E. Krueger conducting. "Old Timers' Waltz," by Lake, was enthusiastically received by the invisible audience, which also enjoyed three movements from Langey's "Schumann Suite," "Bourree and Gigue," incidental music from "Much Ado About Nothing," by German, and a selection from "Blossom Time," by Schubert-Romberg.

Herman Goldstein Violinist displayed exceptional deftness with the bow in two movements from "Sonata, Opus 13," by Paderewski. Valbert P. Coffey, who played the accompaniment for Mr. Goldstein, was also at the piano in the concluding number of the Sunday afternoon programme. Boellman's "Symphonic Variations" offered by Frederick Broeder, 'cellist.

STOVE-PIPES WERE MADE OF PLATINUM IN RUSSIA

In 1802 William H. Woolaston, An English Chemist Discovered How to Work It.

Platinum, now a most expensive metal, was once so common in the Ural mountain region of Russia that pots and pans and even stove-pipes were made from it and it was found in the hovels of peasants.

In 1802 William H. Wollaston, an English chemist, discovered how to work it. The value of platinum increased and it soon disappeared as a kitchen utensil.

Wollaston separated two other rare elements from platinum. These are called rhodium and palladium.

Platinum soon became of great value in electrical appliances. In fact, it became so valuable that the price became prohibitive and it is now used chiefly for jewelry.

Wollaston, the discover of the merit of platinum, was perhaps the greatest natural scientist the world has known. The Wollaston medal in geology is the highest distinction that can be conferred on a geologist.

RELIGIOUS LIBERALS PLAN A UNITED CHURCH

CHICAGO, Nov. 5(Associated Press) —To bring into "one Big Church" every religious Liberal of the United States and Canada, "so that men and women may live truly religious lives socially, industrially, professionally and politically under modern conditions instead of trying to live divided," is the programme of the Federation of Religious Liberals to be launched, according to announcement by Curtis W. Reese, chairman of the executive committee.

The Federation already is supported in its movement by the general conference of the Religious Society of Friends, the American Unitarian association, the central conference of American Rabbis and the Universal general conference. Invitation has been extended to additional liberal religious bodies "and to independent societies and those ministers, who, while ostensibly denominationalists, cannot subscribe wholeheartedly to fundamentalist doctrine," said the announcement.

"Instead of trying to live divided, at times violently, into intolerant groups governed by archaic and dead fundamentalist doctrines, the Federation plans to establish in a concrete sense 'the Big Church' to which inherently religious or 'average' men have claimed to 'belong' when not willing to be identified with orthodox denominations," Mr. Reese asserted. "While it is a challenge to the fundamentalaists combating the scientific in education and religion, more specifically the theory of evolution, we will not work in opposition to denominationalists but endeavor to supplement them.

"Our members will form a fellowship beyond lines of creed, sect and race, advancing a livable as well as a liberal religion which free men may espouse openly."

Members of the executive council include, among others, representatives of the following religious bodies: Unitarian, Universalist, Ethical, Quaker, Congregational and Hebrew.

JUDGMENT FOR THE PLAINTIFF

Judge Huycke Hands Down Finding in Shaughnessy Versus Crowley Estate in Otonabee Township.

In the case of Shaughnessy vs Crowley Estate argued in the Surrogate Court, Peterborough, Judge E. C. S. Huycke has handed down the following finding, summarized into judgment for plaintiff for $1,159.04 with costs:
F. D. Kerr, K.C., for the plaintiff.
B. D. Hall, for the defendants.

* * *

The plaintiff is a nephew of the deceased James F. Crowley. The deceased owned a certain farm in the Township of Otonabee. Some negotiations were entered into in 1917 about the purchase of the farm and it was then offered to Shaughnessy for $8,200.00. He was unable to make a substantial payment, and it was arranged that in the meantime he should rent the farm at a fixed rental, which agreement was reduced into writing in a Lease, dated the 1st. day of October, 1917.

I find that a verbal agreement was entered into collaterally by which the plaintiff was to be allowed to purchase the farm for $8,200.00, and if he did not do so was to be paid for such buildings as he might erect, or that Crowley would provide for him and this liability in his will. There was no house on the farm, except an old shack or hovel, which had not been occupied for from seventeen to twenty years, and was next to useless. This was torn down and the material in it used so far as it would go in the erection of a house, which Shaughnessy put up on the farm in question. The house was erected and other work done on the farm. The arrangement for purchase was never carried out, nor did Crowley provide for Shaughnessy in his will. Shaughnessy now claims from the Estate the moneys that he has expended in the erection of this house, also in connection with some other work of alleged permanent value to the farm.

Knew of Building

Crowley knew from time to time of the erection of this house, he was on the farm several, or many times, during the course of erection, saw the improvements and approved of them. When it was all done he advised the plaintiff to insure the house in his own name, along with his furniture and stock; and this was actually done by Shaughnessy, he paying the premium therefor with the knowledge of Crowley. For the deceased to stand idly by suggesting and approving, and allowing the plaintiff to expend all this money would practically amount to fraud if his representatives were now allowed to defeat the plaintiff's claim for moneys expended in this way and for such purpose. Crowley made admissions on several occasions of an obligation to recoup Shaughnessy in some way for his expenditure. The most notable of such admissions was shown by the evidence of Mrs. Crowley, the widow of the deceased, a very intelligent and respectable old lady, who stated unequivocally that her husband told her that he was going to Mr. Hall the lawyer to make some writing to protect Shaughnessy; he said that Shaughnessy had paid all these expenses out of his own pocket and that he, Crowley, had no money now to pay him, but he made his wife promise that if anything happened to him that she must see that the plaintiff Shaughnessy was protected and safeguarded. She promised him that she would do so, but advised him to put it in some kind of written document with his lawyer so there would be no trouble. He also told her that he supposed there would be about $500.00 to pay. All this puts the liability beyond a peradventure.

Legal Defences

It was contended that the evidence of all these matters was inadmissible as being an addition or alteration to the contract contained in the lease. Several other legal defences arising out of the lease were also set up. I must find, however, against these contentions. The agreement about the sale, the erection of the house, the repayment of expenses by will, or otherwise, was not referred to at all in the lease and was a separate and collateral agreement. The arrangement provided in the lease being merely a temporary proceeding and interim situation which might be terminated by the parties in accordance with their other agreement.

Such being the case I find the defendant estate responsible for the disbursements in connection with the house.

Claim was also made for some fences and ditches, as to which there is little or no evidence, except that of the plaintiff himself. This evidence is not sufficient to justify me in allowing this claim. It stands on altogether a different basis from the question of the house. The same thing applies to the cutting and drawing of some wood, and the drawing of the load of earth for Crowley. It is quite probable that these services were rendered, but there is not sufficient corroboration of the plaintiff's own evidence as to them. So that these four items must be disallowed.

Claims For Material

I, however, allow the claims denoted in the Record as having been paid to Rehill, The McDonald Lumber Company, R. C. Heard, James Rose, Walton Hall for cement chimney; Curtis Bros. for tile for drain, and paid Insurance on the house on the farm. The Hardware disbursements were estimated at $105.00 paid to the Kingan and Brown Hardware Companies. It should not have been difficult to procure the particulars of these, but they are questioned and not proved in detail. There is no doubt that some considerable amount of hardware must have been used in the construction of the house, and it was all paid for by the plaintiff, but how much is not shown. I allow $75.00 for that claim.

The seven last items in paragraph 6, I allow as they are. They do not seem unreasonable.

The total allowance there fore for paragraph 5 of the statement of claim is $747.54, and for paragraph 6 of the statement of claim is $411.50.

I make no allowance as to interest on either of these sums.

A Little Confusing

The plaintiff put a pump in a well on the farm in question. The evidence is a little confusing as to who was the purchaser Crowley or Shaughnessy. No one seems to have yet paid for it, and it is charged by the vendor to both of them. If Shaughnessy pays for the pump it should be his and he should have the right to remove it when he leaves the farm. If the Crowley Estate pay for it the executors have the right to retain possession of it. This is anticipatory, but mentioned only to avoid further trouble between the parties.

Judgment for plaintiff for $1,159.04 with costs.

Dated at Peterborough this 30th day of October, 1923.

E. C. S. HUYCKE,
Judge.

LARGE SHIPMENT OF GRAIN FROM WEST SATURDAY

Sixteen Boats Left Fort William With 1,997,000 Bushels Mostly for Bay Ports and Montreal.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Nov. 5——Sixteen boats cleared from the port Saturday with 1,997,000 bushels of grain, of which only one small cargo went to Buffalo, most of the balance being consigned to bay ports and Montreal.

Rates asked for tonnage are considerably lower than they were, charters being made at from 3 to 3 1-2 for bay ports and at 3 1-2 to 4 for Buffalo, for the first two weeks of November, while charters for the latter half of the Montreal run at about five cents. Five and a half cents is now quoted for Buffalo, including winter storage. Compared with the rates secured by vessel companies last year those above quoted are about one half the rates just prior to the close of navigation, in 1922, to bay ports running from 9 1-2 to 11 per bushel.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Delegates Return From Convention Held in Belleville.

MILLBROOK, November 5. — Misses Margaret Luxon and Estelle Hetherington returned on Saturday from attending the fifteenth biennial convention of the Bay of Quinte Conference Yonug People's League, which was held in Bridge Street Methodist Church, Belleville, last week. Over two hundred delegates were in attendance, and the speakers included Rev. R. A. Whattam of Colborne, president of the conference, Rev. H. B. Kenny of Belleville, Rev. Frank Langford, general secretary of Sunday Schools and Young People's Societies, Rev. J. W. Baird of Port Hope, Rev. Roy Rickard of Northport, Prof. S. T. Maine of Albert College, Rev. E. Mallott, pastor of the convention church, Rev. T. Albert Moore, D.D., of Toronto and others. Rev. R. T. Richards of Cavanville was acting president of the Conference League during the past year. The keynote of the convention was "Evangelism," and was emphasised throughout in songs, Bible study, and addresses. Rev. J. E .Beckel, formerly of Bethany, had charge of the "worship period" on Thursday afternoon.

Allen Pitt eldest son of Mr. J. Pitt, Millbrook, has the honour of being the first recipient of the Dr. Norman Allen Scholarship, which was presented to the Continuation School here, for the boy having the best all-round record, by Mrs. Allen in memory of her late husband, who in his boyhood days was a pupil at the Millbrook Public School. The scholarship will be formally presented at the official opening of the school, which will probably take place some time this month.

Mrs. Allen has generously increased the original sum of $500 to $1,000, so that the winner receives $50.00 toward educational expenses, an amount which will prove of material assistance in defraying the cost of books, tuition, etc., for one year.

The scholarship is competed for annually and should be an incentive to each boy in the Continuation School to make a determined effort to achieve the distinction of having it conferred upon him.

Miss N. Finnimore was a visitor to Peterborough on Thursday.

Mrs. C. Garside and Miss M. Needham motored to Peterborough on Friday.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church will be held at the home of Mrs. J. Hatherly Main Street, on Wednesday. Group A, under the leadership of Mrs. B. R. Raper, will have charge of the programme.

Rev. R. G. Carruthers, B.A., of Blackstock, will preach anniversary sermons in the Cavanville Methodist Church on Sunday, 11th November, both morning and evening. The annual fowl supper will be served on Monday, beginning at 5 p.m. until 8 p.m., after which a good programme will be given by local and other talent.

The series of motion pictures, under the auspices of the Ministerial Association, which will be given in the Town Hall during the winter months, and which are from films specially made and selected for church use, will begin on Wednesday evening, 7th November. "The Stream of Life' 'is the title of the one to be first presented. Any surplus funds, after all expenses have been met, will be used for benevolent purposes in the interests of the community. The object is educative, and not in iny any sense a money-making venture.

FIVE MEN RELIEVE BUTCHER OF $210

A Toronto Business Man Held Up by Gunmen—Cash Drawer Rifled.

TORONTO, Nov 5.—Wm. H. Tindall, butcher, Wallace avenue, was robbed of $210 in cash Saturday evening by five men who entered the store. One of the men kept Tindall covered with a revolver while others went through the cash drawer scooping out the contents.

Shortly after midnight squads of police paid unexpected visits to houses on Shuter and Jarvis streets and succeeded in arresting five men said by Tindall to have committed the robbery. The men under arrest on charges of robbery are Gordon Henry, James Le Roy, Harry Westwood and Merril Ferris.

VAIN EFFORTS TO SAVE SICK SEAMAN

Died of Pneumonia After Having Been Transhipped In Heavy Sea.

Quebec Nov. 5.—In answer to an urgent wireless from the United States freighter Eastern Guide, Captain Clews of the C.P.O.S. Liner, Marburn, changed her course when a day out from Glasgow on her way to this port and took from the freight the coxswain Adolphe Peterson, who was suffering from double pneumonia. There was no surgeon or means of treatment aboard the Eastern Guide.

Peterson was transhipped in a heavy sea with great difficulty and was given every attention in the hospital of the Marburn. He died the same day and was buried next morning at sea.

PREFERENCE STILL THE BIG QUESTION

Declining to Comment, Canadian Delegates are Giving It Close Study.

LONDON, Nov. 5.— (Special Cable to the Canadian Press by George Hambleton, Staff Correspondent.)—Back from the naval review off Spithead, where the heavy seas dealt with many of the party so disastrously, the overseas delegates are preparing for the final week of the imperial conference.

To-day, following the funeral of Bonar Law, the dominion premiers will meet in private conference to decide on the agenda for the week, to elminate matters that can be left over and to include the most urgent subjects.

Preference still looms up as the big issue before the conference as it has become in the domestic field of British politics. While declining to express any opinion of the Baldwin policy as enunciated at Manchester the Canadian delegates are giving it close study. Evidently, however, there is considerable doubt felt if the policy, in specially ruling out a preferential tariff on wheat, would be of any great value to Canada. The Baldwin programme, it is observed, would have protection of home industries as its basic idea which means that Canadian manufactured products, even while enjoying a preferential rate, would have new customs duties to meet in the British markets. Flour is cited as a case in point. Th Baldwin programme excludes wheat and meat from the scope of the proposed protective tariff, yet makes no specific reference of food products. There is general expectation however, that flour would come under the protective schedules. During the war the capacity of the British milling industry expanded, but it is now producing ony about fifty per cent of what it could produce.

FOUR LOST LIVES IN TENEMENT FIRE

Twelve Edmonton Families Fled From Flames In Night Clothes.

EDMONTON, Nov. 5.— (Canadian Press.)— Four children were burned to death in a fire which broke out in the west end of this city yesterday morning, and levelled to the ground Mount Ross, a 3-storey apartment house, as well as consuming all the effects of twelve families that rushed from the burning building in their night clothes.

The dead are: Edith Campbell, 15; Alice Campbell, 12, both daughters of Charles Campbell, janitor; and Arthur Ross, 12, and Neil Ross, 10, these two boys being guests of their uncle.

THREE FATALITIES OVER WEEK-END

TORONTO, Nov. 5—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. Mary Jane Cowan, aged 50 was found dead in her home at noon Sunday. Mrs. Cowan had been ill for some time. She was taken suddenly worse yesterday.

John Kondramt, Russian, was found dead in bed at his home Sunday afternoon by his wife who entered the room to arouse him. Chief Coroner G. W. Graham is of the opinion death was from alcoholic poisoning.

Falling from a window a distance of twenty-five feet to the sidewalk in front of Florence Hotel, Saturday afternoon J. Patrick, aged 50, hotel porter, was fatally injured. Patrick was leaning over cleaning outside of the window when he lost his balance and plunged forward.

WILLING TO RUN FURROW THROUGH

Now U.S. Has Put Hands To Plow in European Affairs.

NAVARIN FARM, Champagne, France Nov. 5,—(Canadian Press).—"We have put our hands to the plow and we are willing to run the furrow through," said Myron T. Herrick, United States Ambassador in discussing United States participation in European affairs during his speech yesterday at the dedication of the momument to United States and French War dead who fell in the Champagne district. "Whether we like it or not," Mr. Herrick added "our lot now is cast in with other nations to a very considerable extent.

"The situation in Europe at this minute concerns America as profoundly though far less tragically than did affairs of 1914 to 1917," the Ambassador declared. "Our continued well-being depends largely up on settlement of Europe's affairs and calls for exercise of the same common sense and business judgment as actuated America in entering war.

"If we were to stand aloof from what we call this European mess when it is apparent a balance cannot be redressed without our help," the Ambassador said, "then why did we come into the war in 1917? Were we mistaken then? Were government and people wrong in their almost unimous decision to act. I answer no. No such disgraceful verdict upon this case will ever be rendered by American people."

ELLA THROOP DEAD AT HOME, RICE LAKE

The death occurred last evening, at her residence, Tower Farm, Rice Lake, of Ella Throop, wife of John Nurse, in her 53rd year. The deceased, who had been ill for some time, was the eldest daughter of the late John Throop, of Peterborough. Although a woman of quiet, unassuming character, the late Mrs. Nurse was well known to a number of the older residents of the city, through her long association with Tower Farm, which is a summer resort of the quiet type, whose guests, few in number, came yearly from Toronto, Peterborough and Port Hope and other places to take advantage of the homely atmosphere of the pretty place, where hikes and boating and bathing are the chief attractions, along with the excellent cooking provided by Mrs. Nurse. Tower Farm took its name from the tower which is now only a memory, built long ago by an eccentric Englishman who made it his residence, of which only the foundation now remains and the underground passage leading to the entrance. It was said of Tower Farm summer resort that no accidents had ever occurred there to mar the quiet enjoyment of summer guests.

The late Mrs. Nurse is survived by her husband, three sisters, Mrs. James Gray of Otonabee, Mrs. James A. Reid, of Banff, Alta., Mrs. S. Taylor of Peterborough, and one brother, Burton C. Throop. A sister, Mina, predeceased her in 1918.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday, at 1.30 p.m. to the Little Lake cemetery.

St. Andrew's Ladies' Aid Bazaar a Gratifying Success in Every Way—Personal Paragraphs.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 5.—The bazaar held on Saturday under the auspices of St. Andrew's Ladies' Aid was a decided success. There was an abundance of fancy work, plain sewing, home made candy, bread and cakes of all kinds. Tea was served in the tea room and everybody was as busy as a bee. The proceeds amounted to $320 and this amount will wipe off the debt incurred by installing the water system into the church.

The ladies extend their hearty thanks to all who in any way helped to make the bazaar a success.

Your Health

INDUSTRIAL HEALTH

Industrial health as carried out by the great steel mills of the country has resulted in great good to the community as a whole. Father, mother and the children are rapidly becoming educated in the means of prevention, which aid so much in lessening the expenses of the family by preventing sickness and disease. In fact, it is this concerted action that is rapidly causing the death rate to decrease in many of our great industrial centres.

Father gets his help and instruction at the plant. The company physician, aided by competent assistants and a well equipped hospital, is looking after his welfare at all times.

The children get their help, in the schools, by health talks of both the physician and the visiting nurse.

Mother can run over to the day nursery to receive any aid necessary for baby's comfort. At any and all times the company visiting nurse is at the family's disposal.

Service is rendered to all workers irrespective of whether he has been injured in the works or has some disease or ailment, real or imaginary. So long as he is on the job, the mill service is his for the asking. It would seem that the family has at least a fair chance to be free from sickness, under these conditions.

In addition to this, the workers are carefully protected by all applicants for work undergoing a thorough physical examination. This prevents any spread of disease or contagion.

The real prevention which this industrial health program has brought about is the lessening in the disease of the community as a whole. Men are willing to co-operate and give their support to something they understand by personal contact will conserve their working powder and aid their family. Industrial health is a success.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

Desserts are often the bane of a housekeeper's existence. The family wants pie and more pie, and so many puddings seem so elaborate and call for so many ingredients that the majority rules and the sweet course remains pie. These desserts are ideal for between seasons, are simple and may be new to you:

Banana Whip.

Four large ripe bananas, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1/8 teaspoon salt, ½ cup hickorynut meats, 1 tablespoon preserved cherry syrup, ½ cup whipping cream.

Lightly scrape the surface of the bananas with the dull side of a silver knife. This thin coating contains an acid that is hard to digest. Rub through a fine strainer. Add lemon juice, sugar, salt, nuts and cherry syrup. Mix well and chill. Serve, masked with whipped cream and garnished with preserved cherries drained from their syrup.

Cocoa Marshmallow Pudding.

One-fourth cup cocoa, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, ½ cup sugar, 2 cups milk, 4 tablespoons strong coffee, 1 dessertspoon butter, 1/8 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, marshmallows.

Combine cornstarch, cocoa, sugar and salt with coffee heated to the boiling point. Stir into milk and cook over hot water for half an hour. Stir in butter and let cool. When cool, add vanilla. Turn into a glass baking dish to chill and become firm. When wanted to serve, cover with marshmallows cut in halves; put in a hot oven to brown the mallows.

Orange pudding is nourishing as well as sweet. Any dessert containing eggs and milk has a definite amount of food value that should be considered while planning the meal.

Orange Pudding.

Three sweet navel oranges, ½ cup sugar, 2 cups milk, 2 eggs, ½ cup shredded cocoanut (optional), 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1/8 teaspoon salt, 3 more tablespoons sugar.

Peel oranges, removing all of the white skin. Cut in thin slices, removing centre pith. Scald milk in double boiler. Beat yolks of eggs well with sugar and salt. Add to hot milk, stirring constantly. Dissolve cornstarch in a little cold milk and stir into milk and egg mixture.

When custard thickens and coats the spoon pour over oranges and cocoanut arranged in layers in a mold. Shake mold to be sure that the custard is well mixed with the fruit. Let stand until very cold and firm. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry. Beat in remaining sugar and spread over pudding. Put in a very hot oven or under the gas broiler to brown. Serve cold.

California Jelly.

Two tablespoons granulated gelatine, ½ cup cold water, 1¼ cups boiling water, 1 cup sugar, ¼ cup lemon juice, 1½ cups loganberry juice, ½ cup seeded raisins, ½ cup chopped figs, ½ cup English walnuts.

Soak gelatine in cold water for 15 minutes. Add boiling water and stir until gelatine is dissolved. Add sugar, lemon juice and loganberry juice and stir until sugar is dissolved. Pour into a mold. Let stand until jelly begins to form, then stir in remaining ingredients. Let stand until chilled and firm.

This is served with or without whipped cream.

IRISH LABOR

the Pepole" Campaign, the townspeople helped them with bands and banners and votes; in many notable cases town workers spilt their blood in the farmers' cause. Labour forgot its own troubles and worked with vigour for the employers on the land.

Farmers vs Townsfolk

Then came the Wyndham Act under which the land was really transferred to the people. In ending the agrarian war George Wyndham killed the demand for Home Rule among the farmers; at the same time he unwittingly sowed the seeds of a more devastating conflict. The town workers thereafter proceeded to deal with their own economic position and conditions of living. They called on the farmers for support as the price of past favours. There was no enthusiasm among the tillers of the soil; their response was confined to resolutions of sympathy. Anger seized the town workers and they sought revenge. An organization was ready to their hand. The machinery of the Sin Fein movement, started originally to develop and foster Irish industries and carry out Arthur Griffith's Hungarian pastoral ideal, was silently captured. The fiery cross ws went throughout the land. "Awake, arise, or be forever fallen," was the call to the farmers. Again, they did not respond, except to say "By your strikes and disputes you have devitalised your industries; you have made your bed and you must lie on it." The farmers wilted and all the world knows the terrible result. The townsmen swept the country; yet they did not succeed in achieving all they set out to accomplish.

Remarkably few of the land-owning community were among the active participants in the rising, and when the time came to demonstrate their real power the general body of farmers gave unmistable proof of their feeling. This is really what caused the Labour rout last month. What will develop on that rout one would not like to hazard at the moment. Wounds remain open a long time in Ireland, so that the end of the farmer vs Labour conflict is not yet.

The La bour party may be able to stand in Dublin, Cork, Limerick and Waterford, but they will never be able to make an impressive stand against the farmers. The most that thinking men will permit themselves to say today is that there is an instinctive antagonism against the Labour Party in Ireland and that in the nature of things it cannot have any future in that country—at least for many years to come.

Tanol Calomel Much Better Than Ordinary Calomel

LEANS AND TONES UP THE WHOLE SYSTEM

Instead of rising in the morning feeling tired, dull, with headaches, bad taste in mouth, sick stomach or after eating a bloated, heavy feeling, indigestion, constipation, kidney trouble, etc., can instead both look and feel as fresh as a daisy by flushing the poisons that have accumulated in the stomach, kidneys and bowels by following a doctor's advice by taking one Tanol Calomel Tablet 15 minutes before meals or two at bedtime. This will flush the previous day's indigestive waste, sour bile and poisons from the system before more food is taken. Tanol Calomel Tablets are recommended because they have no bad after effect. No salts or seidlitz are necessary to remove them from the system, as they are self-eliminating. Get a few of these tablets from the druggist and you will feel 100 per cent. better. Sold by Weber, druggist, Charlotte street.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Peterboro', Ont., Nov. 3, 1923.

Editor, Evening Examiner:

Dear Sir,—An editorial in your paper this evening relates to the International Fisherman's race which ended so unsatisfactorily. Captain Angus Walters proved himself to be a poor sport by refusing to abide by the committee's rules. Why draft rules if they are not to be abided by? And the crew of the Bluenose are entirely wrong when they say that the Americans are poor sports. Is it poor sportsmanship to refuse $3,000 and two trophies which the Americans could easily have taken by merely sailing over the racing course today? I guess not. Then, again, as to the sailing qualities of the two crafts. The Bluenose might be slightly superior, but that is all. In the second race, which neither boat could finish in the time limit, the Columbia clearly outclassed the Canadian entry. The rule violated states that "any buoy indicating shoal water shall be passed on the seaward side," and, so, just as baseball, basketball, hockey and other sports have their rules, so also have the International Fisherman's Association, and for the good of all sports the rules should be abided by. Yours in sport.

THE ADAMS CUP

197 Mark Street.

Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir:—May I be allowed to inquire publicly, through your paper, what cruel fate has befallen the Adams cup, presented by an interested Toronto citizen for competition in our horticultural activities. For more than a year this prize has been practically a myth, and the supposed holder of it has but The Examiner's report to assure his friends of his treasured trophy.

This cup was supposed to have its temporary abode in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, and whether it has become submerged in the Trent Waterways beneath the onrush of tourist traffic, from which a rescue may be effected, or whether some lesser or greater evil has befallen it is, I think, a public duty to find out, and also to see that it is handed over where it rightly belongs. Yours faithfully,

JOS. GRIERSON.

PEN PICTURE OF WEST

Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir:—It is now nearly two months since I wrote (or at least attempted to write) a letter to your very valuable paper, and which I wish to thank you for space given to same. Also I wish to thank all those who wrote me so kind and cherey letters since coming out here.

One of the joys of friendship,
And a very true one to me,
Is the pleasure of remembering
Those friends I cannot see.

When I wrote you before I was at Oxbow, Sask., and while there I met several who came from Peterborough who seemed real glad to meet an old Ontario boy, and to talk of the days of yore; also of things that have happened in and around Peterborough.

The crops around Oxbow are only what I would call about half a harvest. I left Oxbow on Monday, Oct. 1st at 6:45 p.m., for MacLeod, and went to Estevan, where I stayed until next morning. I boarded the train again. The trip on the train, I can assure you, was fine, especially from Weyburn to Moose Jaw. The country looked all that could be desired to gladden and cheer the heart of man, and seemed to be inhabited by industrious people who not only planned their work, but worked their plan. The crops also gave promise of an abundant yield all along the line.

I finally arrived at MacLeod on the morning of Oct. 3rd at 5:15, and in the afternoon I found my way to the home of an old north Smith boy who had taken to make home complete, a lady of the above place, and, needless to say, I received a very hearty welcome. I also had the pleasure of visiting the home of one for whom I used to work in north Smith, a family for whom I had the deepest respect, as they were among the leading benefactors in every movement that tended to the betterment of society in the community where they lived.

There was only one thing that caused sadness to my visit, and that was to find that a number of the family had passed away, including the head of the home. I went to the cemetery in MacLeod and found the place where he was laid away. A lovely monument marks the place of his tomb, where all that is mortal rests. I also had the pleasure of visiting other families of north Smith, who, needless to say, I was glad to see.

The crops around here are real good, wheat is running from 3 to 50 bushels per acre, and oats from 40 to 80. I have been working on a threshing outfit. The gang consists of eight to 10 stood teams with drivers, a fireman, separator man and engineer. A better bunch of men would be hard to find. The outfit looked well moving along the road, which consisted of eight teams with cage racks and a tank team. Then came the engine drawing the separator, cook car and the bunk-house, and last, but not least, the cow tied behind.

The weather here at present is cold. Had a snow storm on Saturday last which will delay threshing for a few days. You will oblige very much by giving this space in your paper. I expect to start on my return trip on the fifth of November. I remain,

Yours sincerely,
STEPHEN HARRISON.

CONTESTS Y.W.C.A. WERE BIG SUCCESS

Twenty-Two Contestants Passed Out of Twenty-Four.

There was a good attendance of people at the Y.W.C.A. on Saturday afternoon and evening, for the Life Saving Examination tests conducted by Miss Olive Bettle of Toronto, when tests in elementary work, in junior proficiency, for bronze medallions and award of merit, with silver medal, were held. Out of a group of 24 contestants in the various classes, 22 successfully passed, a goodly number, which won for Miss C. Littlefield, the local swiming instructress, the praise of the examiner from Toronto.

The elementary test is for practical work of a rather difficult type. For the proficiency test, the contestants must swim 50 yards with breast stroke, and 25 yards with back stroke, showing also a knowledge of release and rescue work on water and land.

For the bronze medallion, the swim is 100 yards in length with breast stroke, and 50 yards with back stroke, an exhibition of four methods of release and rescue in the water, towing an object over 20 yards, a complete knowledge of the principles of resuscitation, release and rescue work, and the bringing up of an object over five pounds in weight from a depth of not less than five feet.

The award of merit with silver medal, which went to Mrs. F. D. Craig, was the feature of the evening. This is an extremely difficult test, requiring the swimmer to do nearly an hour and one-half's work in the water. Mrs. Craig chose the hardest tests in this section coming through them all with flying colors, and receiving high praise for proficiency from the examiner. Requirements include a swim of 500 yards, using various strokes, with ordinary wearing apparel on, also an exhibition of rescue work with clothes on. The competitor undresses in deep water, brings up an object and performs successfully several stunts. Those chosen by Mrs. Craig were among the most difficult, the pendulum, the porpoise, and revolving. Then a low dive and a high dive is given, the latter being taken by the contestant from the balcony of the swimming-pool.

Winners in the different sections were as follows: Elementary: Margaret McCulloch, Anna I. Edmondson, Irene Foster, Gwendolyn Lucas, Ena Young, Evelyn Armstrong.

Proficiency: Evelyn Armstrong, Margaret McCulloch, Mary Menzies, Anna Edmondson, Bertha Edmondson, Irene Foster, Gwendolyn Lucas, Ena Young, Ruth Sutton.

Bronze Medallions: Kathleen Cooney, Marguerite Mason, Frances Ackerman, Gertrude Comstock, Eva Outram.

Award of merit (silver medal:—Mrs. F. D. Craig.

In the afternoon, two small tots, Betty Manning and Margaret Dunlop (6 and 7 years old respectively) passed successfully and with great praise, a special test which entitles them to compete with older girls at next Friday's swimming xhibition, when further tests will be held.

POLITICAL FARMING MOVEMENT IS DEAD

Such is the Conviction of Premier Ferguson Expressed in Montreal.

MONTREAL, November 5. Canadian Press. — The political farming movement in Ontario is as dead as Julius Caesar. This is the conviction of Hon. Howard Ferguson, the Premier of the Province, who is in Montreal to-day.

Premier Ferguson discussed various problems that confronted the province. He complimented Quebec and said that Ontario fully appreciated its greatness, and is well mindful of the past, and the part it played in laying the foundation of Confederation.

In conection with prohibition, he said his province had it, and it was there to suit the majority of the people. As to racing, he said they still race, but expressed disbelief in further extending the sport.

"The general conditions in the province of Ontario," he said, "are very good. "There is no unemployment. Everything is goining in a satisfactory manner, and in spring, I think, there will be some rapid development in our northern land. There will be a great boom there.

"Unmistakably indications point to a big influx of capital and great activity is anticipated in our mining country. Our building trades are doing well, and this covers a wide field. A progressive building programe affects all classes of industry."

Pals

The kids and the pups came into their own in Cincinnati the other day. Hundreds of 'em took part in the boys' dog parade. And here we behold the winners of the first prize —seven-year-old Howard Harding and his dog Rags. Judges said they were typical of the American youngster and his canine pal.

PREFERENCE UP BEFORE SESSION

Economic Conference will Deal With Issue in London Tomorrow.

LONDON, Nov. 5. — (Special cable to Canadian Press by George Hambleton, Staff Correspondent.)—The question of British preference is scheduled for discussion before the Economic Coference to-morrow. It will arise in two ofrms, namely, tariff preference to Empire products and preference in public contracts. Then it is anticipated British Government will formulate any new proposal it may have for consideration by representatives, of Dominions.

With a general election impending, however, it is not thought likely that Baldwin Government will be in a position now to go into any extensive details of the new scheme for imperial preference. That, it is thought, would be showing its hand too much in view of the campaign which has been opened already and the fact that British Parliament will meet a week from tomorrow.

Whole conference proceedings, in fact, it is quite evident, have become largely a side issue to British Ministers. Scene is shifting from British conference room to Hustings. British ministers are occupied rather in reparations for election battle and parliamenary session which promises to lack nothing in excitement than in breaking new ground at the Imperial conference.

Lack Cash For Brazil Monument

(By U. G. KEENER)

RIO DE JANEIRO (By Mail to United Press).—The friendship monument, purchased through popular subscription among North Americans and which was intended to be presented to the Brazilian people on the occasion of the first centenary of Brazilian political independence, September, 1922, is now resting in the warehouse of a United States firm here, and it will probably be several months before the actual work of erecting the monument commences.

During the visit of Secretary of State Hughes to Brazil last year the Secretary delivered an address dedicating the site on which the monument was to have been erected. This site was directly in front of the new United States Embassy, facing the entrance to Rio Harbor. This site dedicated so splendidly by Secretary Hughes, proved to be only a fictitious one, and it was some months after the speech of the Secretary that the municipality set aside a plot for the monument.

The new plot is about twenty feet under water in Rio bay at present, but the work of filling in that part of the bay is being carried out rapidly and the plot should be ready within a few weeks for commencement of work on the monument.

Too much water, however, is not the only drawback, for the commission entrusted with raising necessary funds for this token of friendship still lacks quite a few dollars toward the $10,000 necessary for construction of a base worthy of the shaft and figure, which cost something like $37,000.

Look

And note the prettier teeth you see everywhere today

Note how many teeth now glisten where dainty people gather. Mark what added beauty those whiter teeth convey.

Millions now clean teeth in a new way. They combat the film. Accept this test and learn how much that method means to you.

Film a dingy coat

You feel on teeth a viscous film. Much of it resists the tooth brush, clings and stays.

Soon that film discolors, then forms dingy coats which cloud the beauty of the teeth.

But film does more. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Under old-way methods, very few escaped the film-caused troubles.

The modern way

Dental science has found two effective ways to fight that film, and has amply proved them. One acts to disintegrate the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

A new-type tooth paste was created to apply these methods daily. The name is Pepsodent. Now leading dentists the world over advise it, and careful people of some 50 nations use it.

'Twill surprise you

Pepsodent brings these whiter, cleaner, safer teeth in natural ways, without any harmful scouring.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, also its starch digestant. Those are Nature's agents for fighting acids and digesting starch deposits. Pepsodent gives them a manifold effect, while old ways reduced their power.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

The Million Dollar Doll

By C. N. and A. M. Williamson

Authors of "The Lightning Conductor"

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

Miles Sheridan has just learned that the girl with whom he has been taking a yacht trip, under the impression that she was

Juliet Divine, the Million Dollar Doll, a beautiful show-girl, is, in reality

Teresa Desmond (Terry), Juliet's innocent half-sister, whom the Doll sent to masquerade as herself. Miles is madly in love with Terry and is eager to divorce his wife.

Betty Sheridan, who is infatuated with

Paul di Salvano, a handsome Italian. Salvano has now deserted Betty for

Rose Callahan, a somewhat ordinary young heiress, travelling in Europe with her father. Betty, learning of Paul's desertion is not anxious to lose her husband also, and goes to Algiers where Miles yacht is lying.

Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy Greek, long in love with Terry, has almost succeeded in persuading the girl that her only course is to marry him.

Miles and Terry are enjoying a brief sojourn at Boussaada with Miles servant Mrs. Harkness as chaperone. Miles is preparing to rejoin his wife at Algiers.

Terry prepares to give up Miles for his own sake.

Mrs. Harkness, now aware of Terry's real identity is amazed to learn that Juliet Divine is her half-sister.

Terry, persuaded by Harky's eloquence, decides to wait for her Prince who is on his way to Algiers.

Betty, on board the yacht, heatedly insists on her maid's occupying Terry's room.

CHAPTER LXXXIII.

On the Terrace

As Madame desires," Estelle the maid meekly agreed, delighted with the fit of temper into which she had thrown her mistress. "I merely wished to show Madame that so much trouble was not needed for my sake."

It was noon when Betty, her maid and her luggage arrived on board "Silverwood." She was not consciously hungry, but she had a throbbing headache and felt rather inclined to faint, therefore luncheon was hastily ordered. She ate little when it was served, crumbling a roll, tasting some delicately favoured riz de veau, and drinking three glasses of champagne. The cold, sparkling wine soothed her nerves, as she had hoped, (there was only one thing better, but she'd had none of that—or almost none—for months) and sleepy after a restless night, she wrote a short note before going to lie down for an hour.

Estelle had been told to call her mistress at three, and was prompt.

"Madame looks much better!" the Frenchwoman remarked, when she had drawn back the curtains.

"Did I look badly before?" the question had a note of sharpness, for Betty wished to be at her best today.

"But no, Madame, only a little pale and tired. The rest has done Madame good."

At four o'clock Betty was dressed in a bewitching frock of knitted silk, of the same pale, primrose yellow as the tint at which she had kept her hair. She wore a Parisian evolution of a toque that matched in colour, with a deft touch of turquoise, like her eyes. Suede shoes and filmy silk stockings were primrose tinted, too; and when, half an hour later, a taxi deposited her at the door of the St. George, the dainty figure in yellow seemed to be illumined by the afternoon sun.

There had been no open scandal about Betty Sheridan's flirtation with Paul di Salvano or any of the men she had favoured; and she was sure that Miles' conduct must have made of her a sympathetic figure. She was horribly unhappy about Paolo, yet she had a thrill of something like pleasure as she sauntered out upon the terrace. She thought of herself as very beautiful, more beautiful than any of the women who sat at little tables looking up at her as she slowly passed. If Rose Callahan were there with Paolo, he could not help being struck by the contrast between them; the exquisite, perfectly dressed woman he had loved, and the common creature he sought for money.

Betty shrank not at all from the eyes that stared. There was no reason why she should object to being seen! She bowed to four or five people from New York whom she knew, smiling a sad, sweet smile, and hoping half-consciously that her blue eyes looked tragic. Her friends pushed their chairs back and got up to greet her. Several pressed her to join them for tea, but Betty gently refused. She was rather hoping that her husband might come, she said. She'd arrived only that morning, to surprise him, but he was away for part of the day, not having expected her so soon. He might return at any moment, and come to meet her, as she'd left word on the yacht where she meant to spend the afternoon.

"Poor girl, can it be she really doesn't know?" the women whispered to each other. "How awful for her when she finds out!"

And one or two murmured what an odd coincidence it was, Prince Paul di Salvano being in Algiers at such a time, because he'd been talked about a good deal with poor little Betty before the Callahan affair developed. Everyone felt faintly excited, wondering what would happen. They thought that they hoped nothing would happen but in their secret hearts they yearned for a thrill, as if they waited for the curtain to rise at the Grand Guignol.

Betty indicated to an admiring waiter a small table laid for two, and sat down to gaze sorrowfully, with raised eyebrows, out over the violet expanse of bay. She looked as if she were thinking, "Why is the world so fair and happy, when I am so sad?" But under that attractive expression she was wondering whether Salvano and the Callahans—or Paul and Rose alone—would presently appear.

On entering the hotel she had stopped for an instant to question the concierge. She had written a note which she wished to leave for Prince Paul di Salvano. Was he still stopping at the St. George? Yes. And Monsieur Callahan and Mademoiselle his daughter? Ah, that was good! She would give the letter to the concierge, but, perhaps, the Prince and his friends might be having tea on the terrace? In that case she would meet them.

Betty knew that if she did, there would be little, if any, chance for a private word with Paolo. Still she was nervously keen to see him. Her letter left with the hall-porter had been a threatening one. Salvano could sue her for blackmail on the strength of it if he cared to do so. But that would be the last course of action he would take. Even if he was married to Rose, she could ruin him with old Callahan, she thought. And if he were not yet married, he would have to come back to her. If he looked agitated at sight of her, all the better! The Callahans would notice, and she wanted them to notice.

She wondered if Paolo would take the letter from the concierge and glance it over before coming out on the terrace—if he dared to come out after that! He'd recognize the writing on the envelope, and hearing from the porter that it had been left by a lady, he would be frightened—traitor that he was! Betty imagined that, in self-defence, he would open it at once. Then, he would want to turn back and avoid seeing the woman whose love he had betrayed—or tried to betray—even if he loved her still in his heart.

He wouldn't however, dare take the risk of letting her meet Rose Callahan and the girl's father with him away. Altogether, Betty convinced herself that Fate would soon deliver Paolo into her hands. And she hoped that Eustace Nazlo would keep out of the way till the meeting was over, for good or ill. After that, the Shoe King might join her, and welcome!

"China tea, please, with orange flower-water instead of milk; and nothing to eat," she instructed the hovering waiter.

He hurried conscientiously away, and as her eyes idly followed the short black figure, she saw Rose Callahan come out on the terrace. Behind her strolled the old man; and behind him was Paul di Salvano.

JAPAN IS SAVING FOR RE-CONSTRUCTION

By CLARENCE DUBOSE)

TOKYO (By mail to United Press).—The first two orders of the Reconstruction Commission, appointed to rebuild Tokyo and the devastated district were:

"No red tape. No pull."

The orders specified that everything must be done in the most expeditious manner, regardless of precedents and rules and regulations—and that nobody was to have a fat job, or any kind of job, because of family connections or political pull.

The next order, or rather appeal, was for everybody to exercise the utmost economy, and not spend money in useless personal extravagances.

The imperial family are setting the nation an example in that respect.

The Emperor's birthday party in October and the Imperial garden party in that month both were cancelled this year by Imperial decree. The Prince Regent has postponed his wedding, which would have been in November.

"Rebuild Tokyo and then play," sums up the spirit with which the post-earthquake and fire job is being tackled.

Orders have also been issued, cancelling the usual autumn maneuvers of the Japanese fleet, and the two weeks' mobilization and grand maneuvers and sham battle of the army, both of which are customarily conducted in October or November. This is the first slashing, many here believe, in army and navy expenditures, in order that funds heretofore used for war preparedness may go into reconstruction.

Was Constipated For Several Years

If you have suffered from constipation for years, tried all kinds of remedies without getting relief, if you have been subject to all the miseries associated with constipation, wouldn't you consider it a blessing to be able to keep the bowels regular and in a good healthy condition and prevent disease getting a foothold on your system?

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are indicated just for this purpose; their regular use relieving the worst cases of constipation.

Mr. M. Hedican, Sudbury, Ont., writes. "I have been troubled with constipation for several years. I began to use Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and find them to be the best remedy I have ever used for regulating the bowels and liver. I always keep them now and recommend them highly."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

APSLEY ANNUAL MASKED PARTY

Thirty Fancy Costumes in Grand March—Net Receipts $16.

APSLEY, Nov. 5.—The annual masquerade party was held at the Parish Room on Wednesday evening, and surpassed all expectations, everyone voting it the prettiest and most successful ever staged in Apsley.

Nearly thirty of those attending were in fancy costumes, all of them participating in the grand march with which the function opened. This was a new feature, and the intricacies of the maze were well executed, and presented a charming effect which was enhanced by the appropriate setting of the gaily decorated hall. Six prizes were given, three to gentlemen and three to ladies for the prettiest, funniest and best representation of a character in each sex. The judges were Mrs. P. Tanner, Mrs. J. Downing and Mr. Collins, who gave their decision as follows: Ladies characters—Best representation, Mrs. Z. Tucker, as a nun; prettiest costume, Miss Myrtle Windsor, as a Turkish lady; funniest, Miss M. Tanner, as a witch. Gents—Prettiest, Miss Marjorie Spence, as 'Prince Charming'; best character, Phil Willis as a schoolmaster; funniest, Herb Tucker, as a bootlegger.

Some of those taking part were, besides the prizewinners, Mrs. Everett, Bopeep; Mary Hill, gypsy; Lulu Knox, sunflower; Amy Lean, Hallowe'en fancy Mrs. Staples ,Knight Mrs. R. Scott, folly; Phyllis Tanner, Laura Tanner, witches; Mrs. Spence, fairy godmother; Mrs. Kylie and little daughter, witches; Miss Drain, gypsy; Cecily Spence, ghost; P. Spence, Hallowe'en fancy; Mrs. V. Windsor, Red Riding Hood; V. Windsor and J. Lean, pirates; George Kilborne, pierrot; Teddy Knox, ghost; Max Tucker, departed spirits; W. Staples, tramp; Eddie Everett, clown; W. Everett, black knight; C. Smith, Dutchman; R. Tucker, Chinaman; Herb Earnshaw, clown; Elijah McKay, Mutt.

John Coones was the musician for the evening, and was assisted by Mrs. Kylie and Mrs. R. Scott. The sum of sixteen dollars was netted for the

BELIEVES AMERICAN POLICY TO FOLLOW AMERICAN CASH

Heavy Investment Being Made By U.S. Bankers at the Bargan Sales Now in Progress on the Continent Viewed With Apprehension Abroad.

(By HENRY WOOD)

GENEVA, Nov. 5 (United Press).—That the American flag, or rather American governmental policy, will eventually follow the American dollar is the prediction of European statesmen.

Statesmen and financiers are following with interest, if not with open interest, if not with open alarm, the financial hegemony which American financiers are steadily extending over Europe.

Once they declare, a goodly portion of the investable money of the man in the street back home has been placed by the big Wall Street banking houses in European loans, both government and private, the average American voter won't be so keen about having his Government follow the traditional policy of aloofness from European affairs.

Instead, he will be very much interested in seeing to it that the White House, Congress and the Senate, do all they can to keep good old Europe on its feet and agoing, until their investments abroad have been repaid.

Both American and European financiers are now unanimously agreed that the final salvation of Europe will have to come, financially, from the United States. The biggest American banking houses in the United States are steadily placing loans in European countries.

Rivalry of Groups

Were it not for the fact that there is no other remedy, Europeans declared that they might have reason to view with alarm the steady financial hegemony which Wall Street, since the close of the war, has begun spreading steadily over Europe. The one gleam of hope which they profess to see is that in the rivalry between the big American groups, such as Morgan & Co., the Standard Oil, and Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Europe may not fare so badly as though all of the American loans were to come from one source.

As the situation now stands they declare that the sphere of influence of the Morgan group is for the moment confined to Poland, Rumania and Austria, while the Rockefeller group is working in Tchezko-Slovakia, Hungary and Serbia.

Some idea of the degree with which the Wall Street financial hegemony is extending over Europe can be gathered from the loans that have been placed since the war and those now in negotiation.

Aside from the various loans that were granted to allied countries during the war or immediately thereafter, and all of which are to countries of such magnitude as England, France and Italy, where a foreign financial hegemony is hardly a possibility, the two first loans after the war were made to Serbia and Belgium.

Loans Under League

Since then the Morgan house has participated to the extent of $25,000,000 in the League of Nations' plan for the financial reconstruction of Austria. Two other loans of this character that are soon to be floated under the auspices of the League, and in which the American banking houses are expected to participate heavily, is one for the permanent installation of a million refugees in Greece and one for the financial reconstruction of Hungary.

According to advices received at the League of Nations headquarters, American banking houses favor highly League control of these loans for financial reconstruction of various European countries, and should the eventual international loan for the reconstruction of Germany call for some outside control of German finances, it is confidently expected that this will come to the League.

In the meantime, however, the American banking groups are steadily placing loans on guarantees negotiated solely by themselves. While these usually consist of the customs receipts or revenues from tobacco and other governmental monopolies, they also almost invariably carry with them big mining, railway, petroleum, forest or other concessions.

It is this passing into the hands of American financiers of the big industrial resources of Europe that Europeans claim to view with alarm, more than the mere government guarantees that are given to cover loans.

It is precisely the nature of these concessions, they declare, that determine largely the sphere of influence of American banking houses in Europe.

Controls Utilities

For example, the $150,000,000 loan of the Morgan group to Poland will, in addition to the usual guarantees of certain State revenues, carry with it the control of a whole series of State enterprises, such as railways and oil wells.

Rumania's $10,000,000 fifty-year loan with the Morgan group, and which is to be used largely in the development of railways and oil fields, will carry valuable concessions in both these industries.

Of the $400,000,000 loan to Serbia, granted through the Standard Oil group, and of which only $15,000,000 has been paid to date, the great bulk is to be used for railway construction, which will remain more or less under American control.

In the meantime, negotiations by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. for placing loans in Czecho-Solvakia and Hungary that would carry valuable railway concessions, are being opposed by the Rothschild and other European groups.

Generally speaking, however, the great bulk of the European countries favor American financial help. While they remain convinced that this American financial hegemony will eventually bring with it an American political interest and policy in American affairs, they figure this will be far more disinterested than that which the great French, English, German and other European financial groups would exert through their respective governments.

A THOUGHT

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

RINGTAIL COON PLAYS FORTUNE TELLER

It was Ringtail Coon himself.

Nancy and Nick and Will o' the Wisp began to look for Pokenose Pickerel.

They wanted to make sure that the little fish was safe, for Ringtail Coon had come down from his tree that night at moonrise and snooped off to the pond to get his supper.

"I wish Pokenose liked deep water, but he doesn't," said Will o' the Wisp. "He just likes to loaf around in muddy shallow water near to the bank, and that makes it easy for Ringtail to reach in and grab him. Ringtail's no swimmer like Mister Mink and the Otter boys. He has to do his fishing from the shore. Sh! There comes somebody now."

The Twins hid quickly behind some tall marsh-grass, and Will o' the Wisp put out his lantern.

It was almost too dark to see, but the light from the stars and a baby moon helped them to make out a dark figure shuffling along the bank near them. And then they saw the white marks on his tail. It was Ringtail Coon himself.

Ringtail's eyes are like a cat's and he can see better at night than in the daytime.

By 'nd by he stopped with a queer little satisfied grunt and squatted down, ground-hog fashion, close to the water, but not so close that Pikenose could see him. "Evening, Mister Pickerel," he said in a voice like honey. "Nice evening this evening!"

"Who is it?" came up the little fish's voice out of the water. "I was just dozing off. I don't see anybody. Who are you?"

"I'm a fairy!" answered Ringtail soltemnly. "And I've come to tell your fortune."

"My, my! That's interesting," said Pokenose excitedly. "But I'd like to see you. Can you come nearer?"

"Oh, no, no! I couldn't do that!" declared Ringtail, "or it wouldn't come out right, the fortune wouldn't."

"All right, I'll do whatever you tell me," said Pokenose Pickerel patiently. "I like fortunes. What's mine?"

"I always tell fortunes by looking at hands," said Ringtail. "But as you haven't any, I'll have to take hold of one of your fins. You close your eyes tight and promise not to look, and I'll hold onto one of your fins, and see what a nice fortune I can tell you. Perhaps you are going to leave home."

"Oo!" shivered the little fish. "Do you think so? There! My eyes are tight shut and here's my fin. Now what comes first?"

Suddenly a bright light flashed into Ringtail's eyes and a voice said, "This comes first. Ringtail Coon, you let go of Pokenose Pickerel and go home where you belong." It was Will o' the Wisp.

It didn't take Ringtail long to clear out.

Cottage Cheese Easy to Make

On most farms there is produced considerable skim milk. It is fed to calves, hogs or chickens, while little thought is given to its value as human food on the farm. One form of utilizing this valuable food in the household is as cottage cheese, or Dutch cheese.

Cottage cheese contains all of the proteins of milk and a little fat. It contains more protein than most meats and the cost is very slight. Each pound of cottage cheese contains about one-fifth of a pound of protein, most of which is digestible.

This food is delicious alone and palatable, and it may be made more so by adding a little sweet or sour cream, salt, chopped onion, and pimentos. It may be used in sandwiches and salads, and served with fruits, jellies and nuts. As a meat substitute cottage cheese rolls make a pleasing dish.

Cottage cheese may be made in any home by permitting the milk to sour naturally until it curdles or clabbers. Cut the curd into fine pieces with a knife and cook slowly over a slow fire, preferably at the back of the stove, until the curd contracts and wheys off. Remove the whey, wash with cold water to firm the curd and wash out some of the acid taste. Place in colander or hang in a cloth sack to drain. After cooling and draining it is ready for the table. It requires no curing.

UNABLE TO SLEEP—DEPRESSED AND NERVOUS

Quickly Relieved by Wincarnis

"For several years I had been in a weak and run-down condition. I had frequent fainting spells which always left me almost completely exhausted. I suffered so with nervousness that the least little thing would make me jump and it got to be almost impossible for me to get a good night's sleep. I would get terrible fits of depression which would last for days. I had taken doctors' medicines and tonics without number, but nothing seemed to do me much good.

I saw Wincarnis advertised and decided to try a bottle. In an incredibly short time I got back my strength, my nervousness disappeared and I could sleep as peacefully as a child. I really believe Wincarnis is the greatest of all tonics.

AT THE REGENT.

Director Praises Canadian Hospitality

Henry Alexander MacRae, who directed "Cameron of the Royal Mounted," the screen adaptation of Ralph Connor's novel, "Corporal Cameron" the newest Hodkinson release which will be the featured attraction today at the Regent Theatre was most enthusiastic concerning the reception accorded him and his company when they went to Winnipeg to make the picture.

Said Mr. MacRae: "The Governor of Manitoba, the mayor of the city and the different city officials all turned out to meet the train which bore us to Winnpeg. They were most enthusiastic over the idea of having a big picture producing company make Winnipeg its base of operations. The above mentioned officals gave us every bit of help that was in their power and co-operated with us to the fullest possible extent is helping us get the many necessary props and accessories. High officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway spent a vast amount of time in procuring for us a real old engine, one of the type in use in the period in which Cameron of the Royal Mounted is laid. Finally they provided for us the "Lady Dufferin," which, it developed, was the very first engine to cross the lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway upon its completion.

"But the courtesy and kindness of the people and of the officials of Winnipeg did not stop with their active co-operation. We were given what practically amounted to the freedom of the city. We were entertained in the leading homes and all the clubs were open to us so that our stay in Canada was one so pleasant that neither I nor a single member of my company will ever forget it.

"Canada gave us one more thing that I must mention in closing: she gave us all the advantages of her rare scenic beauty which forms the background for "Cameron of the Mounted.' I feel confident that after viewing the picture you will join me and say that not in a very long time have so many scenes of absolute grandeur appeared upon the screen."

Y.W.C.A. WEEK'S ACTIVITIES.

The Y.W.C.A. financial campaign has been extended for another week as a number of the canvassers have been unable to complete their lists. The Association sincerely appreciates the help of those who have given and those that are going to give.

The closing swimming exhibition of the Y.W.C.A. pool will be held on Friday night, November 9. The pool has been kept open a whole month later than usual, and the swimmers have thoroughly enjoyed the long season. Several swimming meets have been held during the season, and the final contest will take place on Friday evening. Numerous prizes have been donated for the various competitions. Any swimmer who is a member of the Association wishing to enter the races for Friday evening must register at the office not later than Thursday evening this week.

PRESENTATION ON EVE OF MARRIAGE

Miss Margaret Eaton Gets a Walnut Mantle Clock From Fellow Employees

A very pleasant event took place in the local office of The Hydro Electric Power Commission on Saturday morning last, when Miss Margaret Eaton, (whose marriage to Mr. Arthur D. Wood takes place this month), was presented with a beautiful walnut mantle clock by her fellow employees. The presentation being made by W. G. Ferguson local Manager and the following address was read by E. F. Reid.

Miss Margaret Eaton:—

After living in anticipation for the day when you would announce to the world, that you were about to leave your present position to seek employment in your own kitchen amid the rattle of dishpans, mops, etc. we have gathered here to-day to tell you how real glad we are that you have at least decided to take to the "Wood (s)" and also to tell you how real sorry we are to see you leave your old pals for a life that we are sure you, at least, do not know anything of.

We are glad to have had the privilege of working with you during the past few years and we have learned by our experience, that you will be missed from your old position.

We congratulate you and Mr. Wood heartily, and we ask you to accept this token of our appreciation in the manner in which it is given, trusting that the Giver of all Good will bless and keep you both throughout the coming years.

(Signed by your fellow employees) W. G. Ferguson, John McCann, H. L. Beal, W. A. Hinds, H. Spargo, E. F. Reid, S. Harris, Geo. W. Stenton, C. Paquette, C. Detcher.

After the presentation, Miss Eaton although taken completely by surprise thanked those present for her beautiful gift and good wishes. Speeches were made by heads of the several departments and the happy gathering broke up by singing "She's A Jolly Good Fellow."

300 CHILDREN AT HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Visitors Attended in a Bright Array of Costume

Over three hundred children attended the junior Hallowe'en party for little tots at the Young Women's Christian Association on Saturday morning from ten to twelve o'clock. This was one of the biggest and brightest Hallowe'en parties ever held for kiddies at the "Y," and the small men and women came in a great variety of original and pretty costumes to enjoy a morning of fun, with all sorts of games and stunts, finished up with refreshments in the shape of cocoa and cakes.

Many of the ladies of the Board of Management were present, judges for the costumes including Mesdames Cormack, Cruikshank, Morrison, Carr and the Misses G. Glover, D. Engel and M. Widdiss.

Prizes were awarded as follows: For the most original outfits: Genevieve Fowler, who created much amusement as Buster Brown, with Tige, her dog, taking part gravely in the Grand March; Inez Roy, as a Chinaman; Betty Manning, as Powder Puff; Bessie Chandler, as Topsy, and Ruth Barnes, as an Old Maid. Best fancy dresses: Marion Wood, who was a hit as Mary and her little lamb, carrying a small fuzzy white lambkin; Bertha Belleghem, a dainty Pierrot; Eleanor Storey, as Bo-Peep; Bertha Lobban, as Dolly Varden, and Dorothy Robertson, as a Harem Lady. Comic outfits: Jackie Legon, as Rags; Evelyn Rennolds, as a Farmer; Helen Curtis and Margaret Curtis, as a Dutch boy and girl; Dorothy Routley, as a Farmer's Wife; Mary Dunlop and Adell Panter, as a bride and bridegroom, and Mary Westbye, in Swedish costume.

THE WHOLE FAMILY WAS LAID UP WITH SEVERE COLDS

On the first appearance of a cough or cold our advice to you is to get rid of it before it has a chance to grow worse; gets settled on the lungs, and causes bronchitis, pneumonia, or other serious lung troubles.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will immediately relieve the cold or cough on its inception.

Mrs. David Ayres, Kearney, Ont., writes: "Our whole family was laid up with severe colds ,and we didn't seem to be able to get any relief from anything we used until, one day, a friend came in and told me we would be sure to get rid of our colds if we used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I decided to take her advice, and in no time our colds were all gone.

"Now, knowing the value of your remedy, we will always keep it on hand so as to have it in case of emergency."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is 35c a bottle; large family size 60c; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Just History Now

The historic elm tree, under whose spreading boughs George Washington took over the command of the continental army at Cambridge, Mass., is gone for ever. It crashed to the ground the other day while workmen were removing shaky limbs that had begun to prove a traffic menace. Pieces of the wood will be distributed among the different states.

Cobourg and District

COBOURG, Nov. 5.—An aged pedler is yet unidentified, who was apparently about sixty years of age, and who was instantly killed on Wednesday on the railway tracks about two miles east of Brighton, when the International Limited struck him. Shortly after the accident the C. N. R. surgeon, Dr. Dure, arrived on the scene, and Dr. Brown, of Colborne, coroner. It is stated that bundles of laces and needles, which deceased was carrying, indicated that he had been dealing with the Needle and Fishing Tackle Co., Wellington Street, Toronto, and the man's name is believed to have been John Williams. When the body was found, it is further stated, in one hand was a parcel of bacon, which he is believed to have purchased at a store in Brighton that morning. Dr. Brown will hold an inquest, and the provincial police are making investigations.

Local Fishing Over

Local fishermen have about given up their avocation for this season, which is reported to have been a poor one, as the fish did not begin to frequent this shore until late in the summer, owing, no doubt, to the cold season.

Forestry Branch Here

It is expected that Mr. Fred W. Brown, of the Canadian Forestry Association, will be in Cobourg some time in the near future, with the object of establishing a branch of the Canadian Forestry Association here. This association is stated to represent a union of fifteen thousand Canadian citizens actively engaged in the work of developing reforestation, and forest fire prevention. It has also been decided, it is stated, to form branches in Cobourg, Belleville, Brockville, Kingston and Oshawa, being among the centres mentioned. Already branches have been established in over 1600 Canadian communities.

To Look For "Miss Cobourg"

At a meeting of the council of the town of Cobourg a formal invitation was extended to the corporation to send a representative to the International Beauty Contest, to be held at the Royal Coliseum, Toronto, on December 7 and 8. Upon motion the matter of selecting a representative was referred to a committee of the members of the council. The Beauty Contest Club has invited the corporation to send its most beautiful daughter to represent it as Miss Cobourg, when young ladies from all parts of the United States and Canada will have the opportunity of winning the distinction of being pronounced the most beautiful lady in North America.

Want Fees Increased

The Cobourg Board of Trade sent a communication to the town council asking that body to increase the peddler's license for the town. The matter was referred to the by-law committee to report upon.

Cobourg Hospital Association

The adjourned meeting of what was known as the Cobourg College Hospital, was held in the council chamber here on Wednesday afternoon. The new organization is to be known in future as the Cobourg Hospital Association. Col. Neil F. MacNachton, C.V.O., took the chair, upon motion, and Mr. H. Fullerton acted as secretary. A draft of a constitution with amendments was then made and the association, after discussion, adopted it clause by clause. The association has the privilege of electing seven representatives, and six others are to be elected by the Ministerial Association, the Medical Association, etc., including the mayor.

The question as to whether honorary members should have full voting powers with the other directors elected by the association was debated at some length. It was pointed out that directors, representing the different organizations, and having no voice in the affairs of the hospital, would simply be figure heads, and would not take an interest in board meetings under such conditions. This clause in the constitution was voted down. The standing committees of the hospital board will be membership, house, grounds, finance, building and publicity.

Cobourg has a beautiful hospital building which, by the enterprise of the hospital board, with Mr. J. D. Hayden as president, and the kindly assistance of Cobourg citizens and interested American summer visitors, is well equipped and fitted up with the most up-to-date conveniences and accessories. There is needed a wing for a nurses' residence, and also for a maternity ward, and it is understood that the nucleus of a fund for this is available.

No Memorial Yet

With Armistice Day drawing near the thoughts of a number of citizens, as well as returned men, recur to the fact that as yet the town of Cobourg has not erected a memorial to her fallen heroes during the last great war, and this not withstanding the fact that patriotism ran high here throughout the terrible conflict and the town gave about one-tenth of her population for their country's service. The Cobourg Primary Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire, has been working some time to raise a memorial fund. An open letter to the local press this week emphasizes the need for concerted action on the part of all citizens and organizations, in order that the sacrifice of those from this town who paid the supreme sacrifice may receive adequate recognition. Armistice Day, 1924, is spoken of as a suitable day to see the consummation of a matter that has been so long in the public mind.

Cobourg Reading Club

The Cobourg Reading Club began its winter season on Wednesday of this week. The club meets at the homes of different members and has a membership of almost 30 ladies. "John Drinkwater" was the subject discussed this week and was taken by Mrs. Alloway. Mrs. Kerr will take up "Jane Austin" next week.

Successful Anniversary

The Cobourg Methodist Church has made a record in the success of its annual thankoffering services, $724.00 was placed on the plates in cash, and it is expected this sum will be considerably augmented during the week, raising it to practically $800. A part of these funds will be used to pay for fuel for the coming winter.

Married at Port Hope

The marriage took place at the Methodist parsonage, Port Hope, on Thursday, of Mr. George Falls, of Hamilton Township, to Mrs. Ella Roberts, of Hope Township.

Made Hurried Exit

Chief Rsue was called to the Dunham Hotel on Wednesday night. The night porter, it is stated, reported that when he went out in the back yard he saw two men running away, who, in jumping the fence, dropped a spare tire and cushion which they had attempted to steal, it is assumed, from one of the cars in the hotel yard. The men, however, made good use of their hasty exit and were nowhere to be found.

School Work

In the schools 860 children have been inspected. Seventeen were referred to physicians and 11 to dentists. Nine classroom talks were given, and 91 children were examined by the nurse, superficially. A large number of mothers in Cobourg are taking advantage of the Child Welfare clinics and it is felt that a large amount of good is being accomplished in this way alone.

Collegiate Literary Society

The Cobourg Collegiate Literary Society has elected the following officers for the ensuing year:

Hon. President—Rev. R. F. Stillman.
President—R. Montgomery.
Vice-President—Miss Beulah Garland
Secretary—Miss Stillman.
Treasurer—C. Samis.
Representative of Form V.—A. Linton; Form IV.—Miss McCallum; Form III.—W. Armstrong; Form IIa—Miss Macdonald; Form IIb—W. Ovens; Form Ia—Miss Tait; Form Ib—N. Hardcastle; Form Ic—M. Chelton.

S. O. E. Euchre

The Sons of England held a progressive euchre Thursday evening. Play started at 8.30 p.m., with a large attendance. There were special prizes and a pleasant time was spent. Refreshments were served thus adding to the sociability of a very pleasant occasion.

Mr. Justice Riddell Honored

Mr. Justice Riddell, a former Cobourg resident, where he practiced for a short time after being called to the bar, has been honored by the Boston University, which upon the occasion of its golden jubilee anniversary, conferred upon Mr. Justice Riddell the degree of Doctor of Laws. William Renwick Riddell is a son of the late Walter Riddell, a prominent agriculturist and historian of Hamilton township.

Shipping Apples

Mr. W. J. Oke of the Durham Fruit Growers' Association, shipped a carload of apples to Quebec this week, and it is expected that ten cars for different points will leave the storehouse during the week. The apples are mostly of fine quality, well colored, and are a credit to the apple producing districts of the counties of Northumberland and Durham.

Canton Fowl Supper

A large number from the district attended the fowl supper at Canton on Tuesday evening and pronounced a great success. Cold roast chicken, meats of various kinds, salads, jellies, pies and cakes were all of the very best and were served in abundance, and needless to say, very greatly enjoyed. A nice sum was realized to help in the work of the Methodist church, and every one had a good time.

A Hallowe'en Fete

Newcastle High School students invited members of the Newcastle Board of Education and their wives to a Hallowe'en fete, which was much enjoyed. Present also were ex-students and other friends of the school, to participate in a merry evening of games, competition and fortune telling. A delectable lunch of pumpkin pie, sandwiches, biscuits and coffee was served to complete a pleasant evening, which many present wishe might come oftener than once a year.

Presentation of Portrait

A fine painting of the late Thomas Moore Benson, late County Judge, presented by the bar of the United Counties to Judge Benson, some time before his death, is now being presented by the family to the Counties, and the formal presentation is to take place on Monday.

Witches Were There

An enjoyable Hallowe'en tea was held in the Council Chamber at Frankford that was attended by many guests who spent a happy evening. Seventy-six young ladies of the Mission Circle of the Methodist church decorated the rooms in handsome style. The guests, it is stated, were met at the door by two witches in robes befitting the occasion.

Local and Personal

Mrs. Alex. McBride, who held an auction sale of her household effects one day this week, is going to Toronto to make her home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Menicom, who retired from farming in Hamilton township a few years ago, and have been residing in town, are leaving for Strathroy, where Mr. Menicom, assisted by his sons, intends to take up farming.

Mrs. Nelson Tait was called to Toronto the early part of the week because of the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. McWilliams, who passed away on Tuesday.

The committee of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church here, who are in charge of the anniversary services, have been able to secure Rev. Prof. Manson of Knox College, to be the special preacher upon the occasion, November 25.

COBOURG, Nov. 5.—The death took place here Thursday morning of Mrs. Cannom, widow of the late Rev. J. W. Cannom of the Bay of Quinte Methodist conference. Mr. Cannom died five years ago during his pastorate on the Canton circuit. Mrs. Cannom was a daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. Edward Roberts, Cobourg. She is survived by two daughters, Misses Hazel and Velma Cannom; by two brothers, Mr. Thomas Roberts, Port Hope, and Mr. Edward Roberts, Toronto, and by one sister, Miss Ada Roberts, Cobourg. She had been an invalid for several years, but had been apparently as well as usual until the Tuesday before her death.

Armistice Day

The committee appointed to secure speakers for the Armistice Day banquet to be held on Monday, November 12, have secured Hon. Mr. Boland of Ottawa, head of the Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, also Hon. General A. E. Ross, C.M.G., D.S.O., of Kingston. Both are recognized as able and interesting speakers and the banquet is expected to be one of the best yet held, and is being looked forward to.

Helping Crippled Children

Rotary in the Lakefront District, at Oshawa, Cobourg and other placesl is devoting itself to the help of cripped children. In this connection, it is understood that a crippled children's clinic will be held in Cobourg at an early date, by some of the best surgeons in the province. This is a good work and no doubt spells relief for some children now handicapped by physical disability.

Doing Good Work

The report of the Community nurse, Miss Alford, of her work in Cobourg during the last three months shows that much has been accomplished. 330 home visits have been made, 114 first instruction visits and 113 return instruction visits, and 151 cases have been supervised. 13 child welfare clinics have been held with a total attendance of 254. Eight meetings have been held.

Broke His Wrist

Mr. James Comrie, a well-known citizen, met with a bad accident one day recently. He slipped a step in his cellar stairway, falling headlong down the stairs, fracturing his left wrist.

Bereaved by Brother's Death

Rev. and Miss W. H. Spargo, Bowmanville, formerly of Camborne, were called to Exeter this week because of the death of Mrs. Spargo's brother, Mr. Thomas Passmore.

To Celebrate Armistice Day

A meeting was held last night of returned men in order to make the final arrangements for the big Armistice Day banquet which is to be held here on Nov. 11.

Barley Property Sold

The estate of the late Robert H. Barley, of Clarke Township, has been disposed of as follows, it is stated. A farm of 135 acres has been sold to Mr. James Barley. Six thousand dollars is mentioned as the price. A brick house at Newtonville has been purchased by Mrs. Barley for $1,500, while Mr. Spencer Barley has purchased a farm of 50 acres, the property of the same estate.

Marriage at Southend

The marriage is announced to have taken place recently at the manse, Southend, Ontario, the Rev. G. Munroe officiating, of Miss Edna Irene Cock, barn, of Southend, formerly of Colborne, and Mr. George Robson, of Niagara Falls, Ont. Mr. and Mrs. Robson have congratulations and good wishes from many friends in this district.

Vaccination Against Diphtheria

Department of Health. Peterborough Public Schools, Peterborough, Ont.

PARENTS! GUARDIANS!

Vaccination against smallpox was a wonderful discovery. Millions of lives have been saved by it. You had your children vaccinated to keep them from getting smallpox. Now science has won another great victory! WE CAN NOW VACCINATE YOUR CHILDREN AGAINST DIPHTHERIA, so that they are protected against this terrible disease!

Save Your Children from Diphtheria.

This is no longer an experiment; it is a certainty! More than 200,000 school children have been protected against Diphtheria during the past two years in the public schools of New York City.

This is how it is done:

First, the children are given a very small injection into the skin, called the Schick Test, to find out if they are liable to catch diphtheria;

Second, those that are found to be liable to catch it are given three injections of a different kind, which protects them for many years and probably life.

Diphtheria Protection Is Absolutely Safe!

One of the fine things about this method of protection against Diphtheria is that YOUNG CHILDREN ARE NOT MADE SICK BY IT. The younger children are, the better they take it.

Diphtheria Is a Dangerous Disease and Kills .... Many Children!

In 1921 there were over 209,000 cases of Diphtheria in the United States, and over 20,000 died from the disease! In the city of New York there were 15,761 cases and 871 deaths. In the Province of Ontario there were 6,313 cases and 525 deaths. In the City of Peterborough —166 cases and 17 deaths.

Diphtheria is a treacherous disease. It not only kills many children, but even when they recover many of them are left crippled with heart disease for years, if not for life. Nor is the child always protected against Diphtheria after one attack.

Since the new prevention methods have been extensively employed in New York, the number of deaths from Diphtheria has been reduced from 1,239 in the year 1919 to 871 during 1921. Will you help reduce the number in Peterborough?

Your Children Expect You to Help Them in Their Fight Against Diphtheria! ....

DON'T DELAY! DON'T WAIT! DO YOUR SIMPLE DUTY BY YOUR CHILDREN! Why not have them protected against Diphtheria as you have them protected against Smallpox?

Will You Help to Wipe Out Diphtheria?

Don't keep this to yourself! If your neighbours' children are too young to go to school, be sure to show them this circular. You may help save other lives!

THE MINSTREL SHOW.

Owing to the fact that the management has been persuaded to remain over in the city to-day, Peterboro theatre goers have another opportunity at the Grand to-night of witnessing the splendid performance given by the Gus Hill and Honey Boy George Evans' Minstrels. As seen at the Grand on Saturday, the show which is under the management of John W. Vogel, has "everything." A first part replete with splendid vocalists, and really funny comedians, a rich setting that puts most of the minstrel entertainments seen here in the shade, an olio full of superior vaudeville features, an orchestra that is a gem, all combine to make the offering an outstanding success. The featured comedians in the first part are Homer Meachum and Billy Williams, and both are successful in their fun making methods, although neither has anything on Bart Crawford, another of the black-faced end men, whose "Oh, What a Feeling," number, is one of the comedy hits of the night. A whistling specialty introduced in the first part by Carl Ruth, who besides straight whistling, contributes some clever bird imitations, is one of the high lights of the performance. Clyde Chain, the interlocutor, keeps the entertainers going at top speed, and the work of the circle is high class.

The outstanding feature of the second part, and of the whole performance, is the playing of the Empire State Eight, whose jazz numbers are the last word in syncopation. The number' "Stopped the Show" Saturday night, and two encores had to be given. The Aviation Four, a well balanced quartette, got a lot of fun as well as a lot of harmony out of their numbers, especially in the "Jelly Roll Blues," and scored a big hit. Gartelle Brothers contributed a very amusing comedy roller skating act. The great Celest does some unusual things in an unusual way on the slack wire. Homer Meachum has an amusing monologue, and the second part ends with a very funny skit, "King of the Bolo Islands."

The work of the orchestra throughout is a treat, and one of the biggest features of the entertainment

The Minstrels will be the attraction at the Grand again to-night.

"THE MAID OF THE MOUNTAINS."

What could be more delightful to us as patrons of the theatre than a real high-class musical comedy? One so full of lilting airs that once heard are never forgotten, a musical play with a love story of exceptional charm and, over and above all this, a company presenting this musical comedy of forty well-known favorites of the stage.

Such a musical comedy as described above is coming to the Grand Opera House Thanskgiving Day, Nov. 12, for a matinee and evening performance.

"The Maid of the Mountains," better known to us all as "The World's Greatest Musical Comedy," this title having been bestowed on it owing to its tremendous success both in London, where it ran to a world's record run of over five years during and after the war, where it became so well-known to us through practically every Canadian soldier seeing it there; also on its record-breaking tour of three years it played to capacity business, and even at that thousands were unable to secure seats. Now we have the chance again which many of us missed, and we should not be backward in taking advantage of it. This will in all probability be our last chance.

The story deals with Theresa (The Maid of the Mountains) and her love for Baldararre (The Brigand Chief), her betrayal of him to the authorities through jealousy caused by his infatuation for Angela, the daughter of the Governor. Of course there is a happy ending, but the unfolding of the story is so gripping that one sits as if transfixed through it all. To say that the musical numbers are some of the most delightful ever heard is putting it mildly. Hear "Love Will Find a Way," or "A Bachelor Gay," "A Paradise For Two," or any of the many other hits, on your victrola or on your piano at home. They will bring the story all back to you after seeing the play. Therefore our advice to you is not to miss the last opportunity to see "The Maid of the Mountains."

There will be a special matinee given at popular prices at 2.30.

AT THE ROYAL.

Betty Balfour "Squibbs" England's Foremost Comedienne in "Mord Em'ly at Royal to-night.

Royal patrons will remember with pleasure the previous appearences here of Betty Balfour, the Mary Pickford of England, in "Me and My Gal' and Squibs wins the Calcutta sweeps. They also will be pleased to know that the third of the series of her productions "Mord Em'ly" is the big attraction at the Royal, to-night and Wed. and Thurs day matinee and evening.

In this production she depicts just the sort of character that has made her famous. "Mord Em'ly is a cockney girl, incorrigible its true, always out for a good time, but in spite of her high spirits, there is nuothing bad about her. She merely wants to get as much fun as possible out of life and judging from the reception this production received in Toronto recently the public is with her in every moves she makes. It has the usual uproarious comedy you expect from "Squibs," also moments when your handkerchief will come in handy, and to wind it all up a real boxing bout. There is not doubt about it the Royal will be a busy place to-night.

ROYAL THURSDAY.

Reginald Denny in "The Kentucky Derby Coming.

Trips to faraway locations for motion pictures are expensive. Usually the expense is so great as to be prohibitive.

Universal wanted to film a story, "The Kentucky Derby," adapted from an old stage play, in the original backgrounds of the plot—the Blue Grass State.

When King Baggott was assigned to direct it a conference between him and Universal officials resulted in a decision to take twenty players, forty technical men and two carloads of equipment to Kentucky. It was decided that only in the midst of the Blue Grass itself could the story be filmed in the best fashion.

The mayors of Louisville and Lexington headed a large group of citizens which in each place accorded typical Southern hospitality, and a large measure of co-operation to the film artists. The time for the trip was set at the date of the annual Kentucky derby, the most famous racing classic in America, and the Derby was filmed in its entirety as an element in the spectacle. The picture will be seen at the Royal Theatre on Thursday.

Against the historic back ground of the Louisville and Lexington racing centers, and the beauty of the Kentucky hills and estates, Baggott obtained for the screen all the beauty and thrills of Charles T. Dazey's old time stage success, "The Suburban," from which "The Kentucky Derby" was adapted.

Reginald Deny, Lillian Rich, Gertrude Astor, Lionel Belmore, Wilfred Lucas, Kingsley Benedict, Walter McGrail, Harry Carter, Emmett King, Pat Harmon, Verne Winter, Anna Hernandez, Bert Woodruff and Bert Tracy have the important roles.

TRAVEL "THE NATIONAL WAY"

The Canadian National Railways, Canada's all-Canadian transcontinental route, is the new way across the Continent. In addition to the fact that the territory traversed is unsurpassed in scenic interest and grandeur, the Rocky Mountains are crossed at the lowest altitude and easiest gradients of any transcontinental railway in America and at the same time Canada's highest peaks, including Mount Robson, are in full view from passing trains. "The Continental Limited," one of the finest long distance trains in the world, is operated every day between Montreal and Vancouver, with close connections from Toronto. In its journey of nearly three thousand miles across Canada it traverses six of the provinces of the Dominion, and directly or through its connections reaches all centres in Western Canada and on the Pacific Coast. This train is made up of all-steel modern equipment and affords the traveller the opportunity of making the trip in a splendid tourist sleeping car at a minimum of cost, or if taste dictates the more sumptuous standard sleeping cars or compartment-library observation car may be enjoyed. The dining-car service is unexcelled. "The National Way" is the new way. Post yourself on its advantages when contemplating your next trip. P.C.I. Win Their Round --- Both Zev and My Own Beaten --- Ottawa In Big Four Cellar

COLLEGIATE SCORED EARLY AND OFTEN IN WINNING THEIR ROUND

Defeated Lindsay Collegiate By 45-0 at Riverside on Saturday — Outclassed the Visitors in Every Department — Plays Worked Smoothly

MEET OSHAWA NEXT.

Coach Brown's well-drilled Peterborough Collegiate squad eliminated Lindsay Collegiates from the Interscholastic O.R.F. in race on Saturday afternoon and earned the right to meet Oshawa, by beating the Lindsay crew at Riverside Park by 45 points to nil. Their victory was just as decisive as the score indicates for the visitors succeeded in making their yards but twice all day, and were only once within scoring range, while the Peterboro students went through the line or around the end almost at will, keeping the play in Lindsay territory for nine tenths of the time.

Although the local team lost most of last year's regulars, Coach Brown has uncovered some very promising material this season, and he has given them a repertoire of clever plays, making full use of the interference allowed by the modern rules, that were smartly executed by the youngsters on Saturday. Offensively and defensively, they were vastly superior. Lindsay were unable to solve the "hop-hop" shifts of the wingline or to stop the criss-crosses, extension runs, and "fake" plays of the back division, while with the ball in their possession the visitors found many of their plays stopped before they were fairly started. The result was just about what might have been expected—a steady march on the part of the winners, and the carrying of the ball under the Lindsay goal line eight times for touch downs.

Team well Balanced.

The whole Peterboro crew had a hand in the victory. Young at quarter back, handled his campaign of attack with rare judgment, and in addition contributed some beautiful individual efforts, taking advantage of every break. Bookhout was as hard to stop as a runaway engine when carrying the ball on end runs. Cole caught well, got distance and height to his punts and fitted in neatly into the extension plays, while Stevens ran splendidly both in carrying back kicks and in plays from scrimmage formation. At flying wing Chew proved a fine ball carrier and his tackling asd speed helped materially on the defensive. All the line were good with Rye especially prominent by reason of his successful plunging.

The best man on the Lindsay line-up was Piercy, the fleet-footed little half back, who, although closely watched, did some fine work for the visitors. His break through the line and the 40 yard run that followed in the third period, gave Lindsay their only opportunity of the game to score. Quarter back Balfour, at tackweight, contributed a plucky, hard-working game, and the rest of the team gave all they had, and never stopped trying, although they were plainly at sea when the Petes had the ball.

The winners scored 11 points in the first quarter; 10 in the second; 6 in the third, and 18 in the last 15 minutes.

The game was well handled by Referee Sweeney Davis of Toronto, and Umpire Ross Dobbin of Peterboro. The best of feeling was shown by the teams, and the absence of bickering was in pleasing contrast to the verbal battles that distinguished the junior game of the previous Saturday.

The teams:

LINDSAY C. I.:
Flying wing, Lonergan.
Halves, Piercy Hall and Cook.
Quarter, Balfour.
Snap, Moore.
Inside wings, Blackwell, Webster.
Midle wings, Lagon, Lockie.
Outside wings, Barker, Myers.
Subs., Peel, Begley, Rogers.

PETERBORO C. I.:
Flying wing, Chew.
Halves, Stevens, Bookhout, Cole.
Quarter, Young.
Inside wings, Thompson, Martin.
Middle wings, Craw, Rye.
Outside wings, Outram, Yelland.
Subs., Pogue, Neal, Ebbs.
Referee, Sweeney Davis, Toronto.
Umpire, Ross Dobbin, Peterboro.

Started Quickly.

Young kicked off for Peterboro, and the local students holding the visitors for downs, secured possession thirty-five yards out. A series of smoothly executed plays carried them within scoring range, and Young went over for the first touch down on a line plunge, two minutes after the game started. Young failed to convert. Peterboro 5, Lindsay 0.

A swinging buck by Rye aided by smooth interference gave the locals a 40 yard gain immediately after the kick off but they lost possession on an off side. Play was in mid-field for some time until the Petes secured at Lindsay's 40 yard line. Chew shot round Lindsay's left wing for 20 yards. Brookhout added 15 more on the next play, and from the line up Young half carried by Bookhout plunged for a touch down which he converted neatly. Peterboro 11; Lindsay 0.

Early in the second quarter, the Peterboro crew were again dangerous when Copping recovered a loose ball and a series of snappy plays carried the leather to Lindsay's 15 yard line. Bookhout went over for a try but the play was called back for a forward pass, and Lindsay secured possession. They were forced to kick, however, and the Petes got the ball at Lindsay's 45 yards line, and started another parade. A criss-cross play with a neat pass from Cole to Bookhout sent the latter away for 30 yards. Rye plunged for five more, and on the next play Stevens went round the end for a touch down which was not converted. Peterboro 16; Lindsay 0.

The local machine continued to press, another march from centre field winding up by Rye tearing through for another unconverted touch down. Half time was called soon after.

Lindsay Lost Chance.

Lindsay made their best showing during the early portion of the third period. They kicked off to Stevens, who made a beautiful run through a broken field carrying the ball past centre. Peterboro lost possession when Young's off-side kick rolled into touch, and Piercy broke through the P.C.I. line and ran 40 yards before young stopped him at the Petes' quarter. It was the best chance the visitors had to score but they got over-anxious and lost the ball on interference, a long punt by Cole carrying the play into Lindsay territory again. The Petes secured possession when a Lindsay on side kick failed, and a beautiful end run, Young to Cole to Bookhout carried the ball to Lindsay's ten yard line. Stevens went over for a touch down on the next play. Young converted, the ball striking the bar, and bouncing over. Peterboro 27; Lindsay 0.

Outram recovered a loose ball immediately after the kick off, and quarter time was called.

On the first play in the last quarter a fumbled pass gave Lindsay possession but they lost again on interference, and a Young to Bookout play gained thirty yards. Lindsay then forced the Petes to kick, and Lindsay were penalized for interference, giving Peterboro the ball five yards out. Two line plunges failed to gain but on the third down Young faked an onside kick and then plunged through the centre for a try which he easily converted. Peterboro 33; Lindsay 0.

Lindsay seemed unable to stop the Petes' play. Following the kick off Chew got away for thirty yards and Bookhout made twenty on the next play. Cole kicked over the line to Cook who ran into touch-in-goal, giving the Petes another point. Peterboro 34; Lindsay 0.

Missed Drop Dick.

Lindsay put the ball into play at their quarter but lost on interference and Bookhout rammed through for ten yards. Young attempted to drop a goal, missing by a narrow margin, but the Petes got a point out of it, a Lindsay half tossing the ball over the dead line. Peterboro 35; Lindsay 0.

Lindsay could not work the ball out of their territory, and when the P.C.I. got possession again, a Young to Cole to Bookhout end run, neatly executed, gave the winners another try, which was not converted. Peterboro 40; Lindsay 0.

The last touch down of the game came in the last minute. A Lindsay fumble gave Craw a chance to drop on a loose ball three yards out and on the next play he was given the honour of carrying the leather over for the final try. Young did not convert. Final score Peterboro 45; Lindsay 0.

The following summary shows how Peterboro points were scored:

Greatest Fighter In Game? Dundee! Here's the Proof

Who is the greatest fighter in the world?

Jack Dempsey?

Nope.

Johnny Dundee!

Aw, quit your kidding.

Well just issen: Dundee whipped Joe Shugrue. Joe Shugrue stopped Benny Leonard. Benny Leonard whipped Ted Lewis. Ted Lewis whipped Soldier Bartfield. Soldier Bartfield whipped Harry Greb. Harry Greb whipped Tommy Gibbons. Tommy Gibbons whipped Billy Miske. Billy Miske stopped Fred Fulton. Fred Fulton stopped Sam Langford. Sam Langford stopped Jim Flynn, and Jim Flynn knocked out Jack Dempsey in one round.

If that doesn't make Johnny Dundee the greatest fighter in the world we'd like to know where all the bananas went to, anyhow.

ARGOS CRUSHED BY ARMY CORPS

Handicapped By Inexperience in American Rugby — Played in the Yankee Stadium.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(Canadian Press). — Handicapped by strange rules and crushed under the concentrated force of Third Army Corps' attack, the Argonauts, rugby champions of Canada, went down to defeat at the Yankee Stadium on Saturday, 55 to 7.

The Canadians, however, went down fighting, and the game furnished thrills for the few thousand spectators who turned out to witness it. In the second period the Argos temporarily shook off the handicaps they were playing under and made a brilliant showing. A lateral pass, Hughes to Munro, gained twenty yards. Quarterback Mackenzie gained ten more off tackle, and then Munro dashed down the line for twenty-nine yards and a touchdown. Hughes drop-kicked for the extra point.

Powerful Attack.

The army team outweighed the Argos man to man and the sheer power of their attack swept the Argos off their feet during the other periods. The Canadians were bewildered by the strange rules and they had no opportunity to display the open field running for which they are famous, for the soldiers usually came down on the ball carrier like a ton of brick and more often than not stopped him for a loss. The Army scored three touchdowns in the first period, one in the second, three more in the third and another in the fourth.

The first Army score came soon after the kick-off when Vic Noyes dashed around right end for eighteen yards. Soon after a long forward, Noyes to Dodd, brought the ball to the Argonauts' 18-yard mark, and on two off-tackle plays Timberlake went over for the second score. The Army team received a punt and again started for the goal, Dodd carrying the ball most of the time and following a thirty-yard off-tackle run with a five-yard plunge over the line, Noyes made it 20 to 0.

Dinner Guests.

The Argonauts were guests of the Canadian Club at dinner after the game. J. J. Dolan, their manager, said he thought his team could defeat the Third Army Corps eleven in Toronto at the Canadian game.

He said the Argos did well under the circumstances.

Other speakers at the dinner included Leslie Sutherland, President of the Canadian Club; Dr. Charles F. Jones, Secretary; Dr. Woodruff Law Post, President of the British War Veterans' Association, and Frederick Huff, Canadian Trade Commissioner.

Argos Play Tigers in Hamilton For the Championship — This Week's Feature.

TORONTO, Nov. 5.—Not since Varsity bearded the Tigers for the dominion championship right under the mountain has there been as much interest manifested in an Ambitious City fixture as is being shown in the Big Four play-off next Saturday.

Enough Argo supporters would journey to the Bengals' lair to make a good sized rugby following without counting on the large section of Hamilton that would like to see the inter provincial champions dethroned, so that the Tiger management will find a small army of rugby enthusiasts looking for something with which to pry an opening into their stadium.

Outcome is a Toss-up.

There is plenty of material with which to base a prediction on the outcome, but when it has all been sorted out and properly pigeon-holed you would get just as much satisfaction by flipping a coin.

Seldom have two teams with a more even record on their season's performance been called on to battle for a championship.

When the two squads clashed in the first game of the season Argos had a wide margin in the first half, only to fade so badly that they appeared lucky to hold the score to a tie. Against the Senators both found it tough sledding. The Argos made a big gain by winning in the capital, while the Tigers lost, but on the other hand Tigers played at the top of their form in Montreal, while the Oarsmen were nearly bumped off the top rung of the ladder.

21st Battalion Men Held Annual Re-union.

OTTAWA, Nov. 5.—(Canadian Press)—More than 200 members of the 21st Battalion one of Ontario's first battalions in the recent war, mobilized Nov. 3, 1914, met last night at Aylmer, for the fifth annual reunion of the battalion. They gathered from all over Eastern Canada, many spending several days on the journey. Frank Mahieux raised to the rank of King's Sergeant at the Somme, possibly went to more trouble to be present than anyone else. He had travelled by canoe 365 miles, being a fire ranger about 225 miles north of Maniwaki.

Lieut.-Col. Donald Hector McLean, D.S.O., presided. The next annual reunion will be held in Kingston.

TIGERS BEATEN BY SHAG'S TEAM

Cope of McGill Kicked on Head and Hurried to the Hospital.

MONTREAL, Nov. 5.—(Canadian Press)—McGill Intercollegiate rugby players triumphed over the Hamilton Tigers, interprovincial title-seekers, in an exhibition game played at the Percival Molson Memorial Stadium Saturday afternoon, the collegians rallying in the final quarter to score a touchdown and win 7 to 4.

It was a good battle for one in which nothing was at stake and in the second half the play developed to fair speed and in the last quarter became strenuous as the players on both sides fought for the decision. The result was that several halts had to be called by the officials as players were temporarily knocked out by the heavy smashing and deadly tackling.

Campbell Cope, substitute flying wing of McGill squad who started at that position for McGill against the visitors was injured when he received a kick in the head going after a line drive. He was carried from the field and on examination by the doctors was later removed to the Montreal General Hospital suffering from concussion and a slight paralysis. X-ray photos Sunday show the case is not serious and paralysis has disappeared.

TRIPLE TIE IN CUE CONTEST

Jake Schaefer Made Poor Showing Against Cochran Who Is Now Favorite.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(Canadian Press)—William F. Hoppe, the champion, defeated Roger Conti of France, 500 points to 361 yesterday in the 12th game of the world's 18.2 balkline billiards championship. Hoppe had high runs of 135, 103, and 98. Conti played more consistently than in his other matches of the tournament. He had a high run of 97.

Conti, who finished third in last year's championship, failed to win a match this year.

Welker Cochran of Los Angeles, defeated Jacob Schaefer, 500 points to 54, in the 13th game, and brought about a triple tie between himself, Schaefer and William F. Hoppe for the lead in the tournament.

Cochran, in running out in eight innings, set the single high average tournament, 62.5-8. He had high runs of 141, 124, and 87, and an unfinished run of 82. Cochran defeated Hoppe Wednesday night. Cochran's victory gave him a decided edge for the championship as his opponent for Monday is Edouar Horemans, while Schaefer must meet Hoppe. Should Cochran defeat the Belgian he will be tied with the winner of the Hoppe-Schaefer match and a play-off for the title will be necessitated. In the event Cochran is defeated the winner of the Hoppe-Schaefer match will be champion.

In the afternoon matche Saturday, Horemans defeated Hagenlacher 500 to 201 and Hoppe won from Conti, 500 to 361.

The standing of the tournament to date follows:

Payers	Won	Lost
Hoppe	3	1
Schaefer	3	1
Cochran	3	1
Horemans	2	2
Hagenlacher	2	3
Conti	5	0

Billy Evans Says

Safety-First Champion Making Joke of Referee Boxing Game Suffers Lacks Directing Head

Once a fighter wins a championship he immediately puts the title in camphor balls. He makes it a business to shun states in which decision bouts are staged. When a championship contest is suggested, in which there is a possibility of the title changing hands, he seeks to safeguard himself by insisting on his own referee.

Not more than 10 years back the champions did not pursue the safety first tactics that are now in vogue. In those days it didn't take a purse of $50,000 or more to lure a champion into the ring with a real contender. Those were the days when the title holders were willing to take a chance, were real fighting men. Now when a fighter wins a title he immediately becomes a business man. He seeks to get all the money and insists he shall be permitted to select his own referee.

Nothing is doing more to hurt the boxing game than the custom adopted by many champions of carrying their own referee. If is an easy matter to see how a champion would not care to risk his title with some incompetent referee presiding. However, it is always possible to arbitrate a difference over the referee if one exists. Some state boxing commission could make the selection or it could be put up to a group of reputable newspaper men to settle the dispute.

This thing of a champion insisting that he permitted to name the referee, simply because he is champion, is all wrong. There is nothing sportsmanlike in such tactics. It at once makes a bout seem a sure thing affair rather than a real contest. It is a bad thing for the ring game, and the sooner the promoters staging championship bouts realize it and insist on having some say in the selection the better it will be for the game.

The boxing game has developed into big business. It is to be regretted that better supervision and administration seems impossible. Boxing should have a governing head like baseball and in each state where boxing is legalized his word should be final in all matters. It must come to that if boxing is to continue to make proper progress in the sport world.

MAY MAKE MATCH FOR FRENCH COLT

PARIS, Nov. 4.—In the absence of Pierre Wertheimer, owner of the French champion 3-year-old colt Epinard, who is away for the week end, hunting, no decision has been taken concerning a match race between Epinard and the horse chosen as the best 3-year-old in the United States.

The committee which is trying to organize a race is all at sea as to which horse to invite to come to France, should M. Wertheimer accept the proposal for a race, and the American Jockey Club may be requested to nominate the 3-year-old considered most worthy to represent the United States.

ROUGH RIDERS LOSE THE LAST

Defeated By M. A. A. A. and Their Season In Fourth Place.

OTTAWA, Nov. 5.—(Canadian Press)—The Ottawa rugby team closed their rugby season here Saturday and suffered a defeat at the hands of the M.A.A.A. twelve by a score of 9 to 6. As little interest was attached to the game, other than the possession of third place in the league standing, only a small crowd attended. Perfect weather prevailed and the fans who were present were treated to a smart exhibition.

For half the distance it was even Stephen with the visitors gaining a one-point lead at the half way rest when Tubman and Miller waited for each other to take one of Gardner's punts which went so far behind that Miller was rouged when he tried to take it out. Ottawa scored a touch in the third period, and Montreal brought the score 5 to 4 when Carroll dropped a goal. Harding let one of Gardner's hoists get away from him and Glickman promptly pounced on it and raced over for a touch, which Carroll failed to convert, making the score 9 to 5 for M.A.A.A. at the end of the third period. Minore rouged Sennett on Tubman's kick immediately after the last quarter started for the final tally of the game. While both teams resorted to line plunging to get the necessary ten, much open work was in evidence. Ottawa featured this more so than the visitors. Their end runs were big ground gainers, and preceding their touchdown, they carried the ball sixty-five yards up the field on a succession of end runs. On the other hand M.A.M.A. seldom passed up an opportunity to send their sprinters around the flanks and Anderson, Gardner, Russell and Bennett all shone at this game.

With 4,000,000 players throughout the United States, billiards boasts of more actual participants than an yother sport.

QUEEN'S RETAIN COLLEGE TITLE

Outplayed U. of T. at Every Stage of Concluding Game in Kingston.

KINGSTON, Nov. 5.—(Canadian Press)—Queen's are again Senior Inter-Collegiate champions. Battling the Varsity squad into submission, the tri-color won on Saturday at the Richardson Stadium by the score of 18-5. At all stages of the game the winners had the edge. They outplayed Varsity at every stage of the game and it was only the efforts of Warren Snyder that prevented Queen's from piling up a bigger score. Over 3,000 fans saws the tri-color batter the Varsity line to pieces in the first quarter, and a continual march down the field gave Queen's a comparative easy victory. But the Varsity team fought hard and died game, and when the final whistle blew they were battling as hard as ever against a forlorn hope.

Pep Leadley again proved to be the stumbling block against which the Varsity team fell. At the outset when it seemed that Varsity had a chance, the trusty half back commenced his kicking tactics and soon had victory assured. Big Roy Reynolds was the line plunging hero of the winner. Time and again the big fellow smashed the Varsity line for gains, while Leadley and Batstone, though they were not as prominent in running as against McGill, made several nice gains. Red McKelvey did not seem to be working with his usual effectiveness, though he got in some good work. For Varsity Snyder was the star, and many were of the opinion that he was the best man on the field. True he made some bad passes, but he was practically alone on the back division, and had not the dependable team mates Leadley and Batstone had. Pequegant made some nice gains, but at times seemed uncertain and this hesitancy cost Varsity many yards. Varsity's line failed to hold up as it should, and the result was Queen's were able to gain advantageous positions.

NEW "BETLESS" TRACK.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 5.—(Canadian Press)—Horse racing came back to California Saturday after an absence of 12 years and before a crowd of between 25,000 and 30,000 persons at Tanforan Track. All Over, owned by Thomas F. Ryan, won the Inaugura Handicap for 3 year olds and over at a mile and a sixteenth, in 1:45 4-5.

It was a "betless" race track, but this seemed to detract little from the enthusiasm of the crowd which was present at the opening of a month's meeting, under the auspices of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club.

"RUGGER" AT MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Nov. 5.—(Canadian Press)—Before the largest crowd that ever witnessed an English rugby game in the city of Montreal the Halifax Wanderers took the Montreal English rugby club into camp on Saturday afternoon by the score of 18 points to 3. The game took place on the McGill campus.

ENGINEERS IN VICTIMS' LIST

Lost to De Laval Team in One of the Most Spectacular Games of the Softball Season.

Saturday's five soft ball games were all of a high calibre, with most of teams getting in the nine innings in the hour allowed. At the afternoon's games there was a fair crowd and in the evening there was a large crowd who never ceased to yell throughout the games. The teams that played on Saturday were as follows,—in the afternoon the DeLaval and Engineers, Lock Works and Teachers and the C.N.R. and Woollens. In the evening from 7 to 8 the Quakers and the Brass played and from 8 till 9 it was a battle between the Porcelain and the Brintons.

In the first game the DeLaval and the Engineers clashed and it was a battle royal from start to finish the De Laval winning after nine of the snappiest innings played in the Armouries this year by the score of 10 to 9. The feature of the game was a double play from McIntyre to Ward The teams lined up as follows:

De Laval—1b Ward; rf McIntyre; p Frick; c Kennedy; c Marchen; ss Laplante; lf Kingdon; 2b Fowler; ss Bullied.

Engineers—rf McCarney; ss Burgess; c McPherson; 1b Munroe; p Langley; 2b Metheral; 3b Cruthers; ss Jackson; lf Patterson.

Score by innings:

De Laval .....103300030—10
Engineers ....232011000— 9

Umpires—Kay and Lebarr.

In the second game the Lock Works and the Teachers played a one-sided game the Lock Works winning easily by the score of 14 to 1 after nine innngs of heavy hitting and snappy fielding on the part of Lock Works and poor fielding on the part of the Teachers.

The teams lined up as follows:

Lock Works—McDougal ss; Nicholls 3b; Thorndyke p; Taylor c; G. Conners 2b; J. Conners ss; Black 1b Westbrooke rf; Guerin lf.

Teachers—Langford c; Park lf; Deyell p; Bolton 3b; Copp 1b; Dearborn 2b; Steer ss; Frost rf; Kerr ss.

Umpires Lebarr, Ross and Shaughnessy.

Score by innings: x

Lock Works .....028100003—14
Teachers..... ....000000100— 1

The feature of the game was a double play by McDougal to Black.

In the third game between the C.N.R. and the Woollens the Thornton crew won by the close score of 5 to 4 after seven fast innings. The score indicates the closeness of the game.

The teams lined up as follows:

C.N.R.— c Delahey; p Bradley; 1b Delahey; 2b McLaren; 3b Clancy ss Howard; ss Turnbull and Rowe; rf Morden; lf Houlihan.

Woollens—c A. Legros; p Anthony; 1b Hillier; ss Martin; 3b O'Conner; lf Vinette; rf Yeaman; ss Clarke.

Score by innings:

C.W.C. .... 2001010—4

Umpires—Lebarr, Holyman and Shaughnessy.

Evening Progrem

In the evening the Quakers and the Brass played from 7 to 8 and the Porcelain and the Brintons from 8 to 9. In the first game the Quakers won by the score of 10 to 5. They scored 3 in the first 1 in the second 4 in the third, 1 in the fourth, and one in the sixth making a total of 10. The Brass scored 3 in the first and 2 in the sixth totalling 5. Although the Brass never gave up hopes they could not prevent the Quakers from scoring. The main thing that caused much interest among the spectators and also the players of the opposing team was the peculiar delivery of "Stuffy" Mahood the Brass twirler. Mahood instead of pitching the ball in the ordinary way shoots the ball around behind his back and out the other side of his body which is something new in soft ball in Peterboro. The feature of the game was a double play made by Williams to Killenbeck to Bennett.

The teams lined up as follows:

Quakers—ss Kearnes; 1b Guerin; 3b Kirn; ss Collins; c Turner; p Carruthers; 2b Cunningham; rf Graham; lf Merritte and Pillow.

Brass—c Bennett; p Mahood; 1b Killenbeck; ss Toole; 2b Ahern; ss Bailey; 3b Williams; lf Thompson and Pacey; rf Sanderson.

Score by innings:

Quakers .....314101—10
Brass.. ....300002— 5

Umpires— Kay and Lebarr.

In the second game the Brintons defeated the Porcelain by the score of 12 to 9. The features of the game were a sensational one handed catch by F. Dyer and a home run by McMartin in the ninth with two on which put the Brintons one run to the good.

The teams lined up as follows.

Brintons— p Hoops; 1b Jenkins; c Taylor; 2b Cross; 3b Corbett; ss Odette; ss McMunn; rf Martin; lf Thomas.

Porcelain — c Dyer; 3b O'Dette; 1b Murphy; ss Richmond; 2b Elliott lf F. Dyer; ss Mosher! rf Poquette and Tremmun; p Nicholls.

Score by innings:

MOTOR PARTY HAD A MIRACULOUS ESCAPE

NIAGARA FALLS, Nov. 5 — (Canadian Press.)—Motor party had a miraculous escape from death here last night when car went over steep railway embankment falling 15 feet. The auto suffered only a broken axle. George Smith of Thorold was driving and did not see the railway cutting at the end of Ellis street. He drove right ahead and landed on the track just as a flier whizzed past on the other track.

CENTRAL SCHOOL WON ALEX. KAY'S SOCCER TROPHY

Splendid Exhibition By the Schoolboys—Score 1 to 0—Cup Presented.

Dame Fortune smiled upon the school boys on Saturday when she ordered ideal weather for the final game of the Alex. Kay Soccer Trophy. Central won, one goal to nothing, in an excellent brand of football. King George team showed two changes from the previous game, Page in goal and Calladine taking Batchelor's place at full back. Central boys' team was the same as in the semi-final.

THE GAME.

In opening minutes both goals were raided but the defences prevailed, till Dyer, and Calladine met in an interesting tussle, to go to the touch line. A determined effort by King George forwards culminated in a fruitless corner. Calladine returned the ball back into their area, which was cleared by Hutchison. Coleman made a splendid effort to get through, but he was closely watched at any period, in fact, if Bud Williams had not been on his game, no doubt, Central would have played havoc around theri goal. In the last few minutes of the first half a free kick was given against King George. Hutchison was trusted with the kick and picking an opening in the goal put Central ahead one goal to nothing. Half time, Central 1, King George 0.

HALF TIME.

On resuming, King George boys took up the play seriously to compel Central boys to defend their goal. Lewis was working hard all the time to relieve the pressure. Ultimately he passed forward to H. Coleman, who made tracks along the wing. Star stopped him cleverly to let Tooms go to the other end. Then Hutchinson punted back to Dyer at the left wing. He dribbled nicely and manouevred around three players, centred across for Taylor to go close in, until Pat Calladine robbed him of a sure goal. For a time King George side had the better of the exchanges, and kept Central defence busy, but Lewis opened up the play once more, and gave Mitchell a chance to make headway, but Williams held him. At last there was a big flutter when Playford and Pammett slipped past Kiff into Central goal, but Snelgrove kicked clear. There were many interesting pieces of football displayed by both teams which were enjoyed by the spectators. All the players have to be congratulated upon the splendid sportsmanship shown throughout the whole competition. They have made great progress and are a hundred per cent improvement since the beginning. The game was value a draw—and Central were the fortunate winners—full time, Central 1, King George 0.

Goal scorer — Hutchison (free kick.)

King George— Page, goal; Calladine and Clark, backs; Star, B. Williams, B. McCarthy, half-backs; Playford, Pammett, J. Ellis, McCarney and T. Tooms forwards.

Central— Baker, goal; Hutchison and Kiff, backs; Tuck, Lewis and Snelgrove, half-backs; H. Coleman, B. Taylor, G. Coleman, Mitchell and Dyer, forwards.

Referee—Alex. Mitchell, Peterborough.

Cup Presented to Winners.

Mr. Sutcliffe, a director of P. and D.F.A., introduced the donor of the trophy, Mr. Alex Kay, well known umpire—in a few well chosen words, and thanked him on behalf of the P. and D.F.A. for such a splendid Challenge Cup. Mr. Kay replied: "I congratulate the winners and hope some day that the boys will be playing in Ontario soccer championships." He also gave his reason why he was interested in clean, healthy sport. He then handed over the trophy to Capt. Lewis of Central team. Mr. Steer, Central school, replied in his behalf in suitable terms, also Mr. Munro, speaking for King George boys, who emphasized the need of an association to cultivate the boys of school age before they become eligible for higher company. Three cheers were given all round at the finish.

BROKEN ANKLES IN HAMILTON GAME

Two Players of Y.M.H.A. Team of Toronto Injured —Victory Was Costly.

HAMILTON, Nov. 5. — In the first of home and home games for junior O.R.F.U. honors played here Saturday afternoon, the Y.M.H.A. of Toronto defeated Tiger juniors by a score of 12 to 3. The visitors looked best at all stages and only good work on the part of Crawford, who turned in a strong game for Tigers, prevented them from running up a much larger count. The game was marred somewhat by serious injury to severol players. Samous injury to several players. Sammy Gold and Solomon, playing for broken ankles.

The teams:

Y.M.H.A.—Flying wing, Gorback; backs, Gold, Goldman and Cohen; quarter, Levine; snap, Litowitz; insides, Salamonsky and Cremre; middles, G. Lister and Herschenborne; outsides, L. Lister and Allman; subs, Sniderman, Bronstein, Solomon, Einbinder, Samuels, Godker and Roberts.

Tigers—Flying wing, Woodcroft; backs, Rogers, Peters and Nugent; quarter, Litzen; snap, Springstead; insides, Berry and Brice; middles, Peene ond Sadlier; outsides, James and Mettleton; subs, J. Nugent, Bawdene, Fitzsimmons, Duncan, Crawford and Leitch.

ORDER MEDALS FOR BANTAMS

O. A. B. A. Also Arrange For Midget and Bantam Series Trophies.

TORONTO, Nov. 5.—Delegates representing many of the amateur baseball leagues throughout the Province gathered at the Carls-Rite Hotel Saturday afternoon for the semi-annual meeting of the Ontario Amateur Baseball Association. President D. P. McFarlane of Harrison presided.

The first matter discussed was the securing of trophies for midget and bantam series. Past President P. M. Kennedy of Toronto announced he would secure a trophy for midget, and Mr. Grimes of Ottawa for bantam series.

The meeting passed a motion authorizing the purchase of medals for the 1923 bantam winners.

Concerning the question of mileage, relative to play-offs where a third game was necessary and played on neutral grounds, Secretary Mark M. Dulmage, of Guelph, made the following recommendation, seconded by P. M. Kennedy:

That all legitimate expenses incurred by both teams in a play-off on neutral grounds be deducted from the gate receipts before a division is made to the teams and association.

C. K. Jutten, of Hamilton, was in favor of the above, but changed it to read from ligitimate expenses to ten cents per mile a man for expenses, which carried.

W. F. Jackson, of Peterborough, called attention to the matter of postponed games, owing to rain, and suggested that instead of the home team paying seven and a half cents per mile to the visitors, the team stay over until the next day at the expense of the home teams. The motion, which was seconded by H. Maguire, St. Catharines, carried.

Representatives of the Inter-County League presented their league president, C. R. Penfold, with a gold watch and chain. Mr. Penfold is severing his connection with the league, and the gift was an appreciation of his splendid service rendered the league.

The association decided to honor past presidents with a medal, President D. P. McFarlane made the initial presentation to the immediate past president, P. M. Kennedy.

The Inter-County League presented a motion to rescind a by-law with reference to a professional coach sitting on bench during the progress of games. The Inter-County resolution was carried unanimously. Judging from the feeling it looks as if this clause will be wiped out next spring.

It was favorably recommended by this association that the Galt team, senior Ontario champions of 1922-23, be given an opportunity to meet the winners of Western Canada, and will be passed on by the Canadian Amoteur Baseball Association.

Under By-laws Sec. II. Clause (c) was added: "The age limit for bantam to be under fifteen years. May 1st."

The question of umpire's fee was brought before the meeting and all delegates were satisfied with the rates set in the constitution.

In reference to protests, Mr. Jutten, of Hamilton, put forth the following motion, that was seconded by C. R. Penfold, of Guelph, that the executive take up the protest question and present an amendment at the annual meeting.

The association recommend a card filing system, where the record of each registered player would be kept. Secretary Mark Dulmage and Mr. C. R. Penfold are working on the scheme, and are to give a complete report at the annual meeting.

The secretary hos received several letters from leagues in different sections of the Province, asking for affiliation.

CHICAGO TEAM WIN LONG GRIND

Only Eight Teams Finished Six-Day Bicycle Race--Pedalled 2,437 Miles.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—(Canadian Press)—Ernest "Hy" Kockler and Carl Stockholm, both of Chicago, won the six-day bicycle race at the Coliseum which closed at 11 o'clock Saturday night. Maurice Brocco, of Italy, and Willie Coburn, of Kearney, N.J., were second and Percy Lawrence, of San Francisco, and Joe Kopsky, of Bohemia, were third.

Only eight teams finished the 146-hour grind, which started last Sunday night at nine o'clock. Four teams were dropped out during the week, and three tail-enders were taken out Saturday afternoon when the sprints for high points started.

The winners covered 2,437 miles and three laps, and had 485 points gained in the sprints. The Brocco-Coburn combination had the same mileage, but 469 points. Lawrence and Kopsky also had the same mileage but only 466 points.

The team of Reggie McNamara of Australia and Harry Horan of Newark, N.J., had 1,092 points, but were one lap behind the leaders and the Holland combination of Peter Moekop and Peter Van Kempen, also a lap behind the winners took fifth place with 640 points. Sixth place went to Alfred Grenda of Tasmania and Alex McBeath of Australia with 476 points and one lap behind the winners. Beckman and Declerc took seventh place with 154 points, they also being a lap behind the leaders. Eighth place went to William Hanley of San Francisco and Eddie Madden of New York, two laps behind the winners but with 631 points.

Zev and My Own Defeated by In Memoriam

ZEV IN MEMORIAM MY OWN

LATONIA, Ky., Nov. 4.—(Canadian Press).—A Kentucky-bred and owned horse, with a Kentucky boy in the saddle, caused the greatest surprise that has climaxed a turf spectacle in years when In Memoriam defeated Zev and his greatest rival, My Own, in the $50,000 Latonia Championship Stakes, Saturday, before a crowd of 45,000 spectators. The victory of the bay son of McGee-Enchantress, owned by Carl Wiedemann, millionaire horseman of Newport, Ky., was convincing. Sprinting into the stretch, In Memoriam conquered Zev, the conqueror of Papyrus and winner of the Kentucky Derby, raced him into submission, and flashed across the wire a winner by at least six lengths.

Back of the flashing heels of Zev came Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson's My Own, trailing eight lengths back. Rialto, the fourth starter in the race, was distanced in the stretch and pulled up without even trying to catch the flying leaders.

The great race, a gruelling test of one and three-quarter miles, was run in 3 minutes and 45 seconds, 5 1-5 seconds slower than the United States record for the distance, established by Rockminster in the same race a year ago. Jockey Mack Garner, the pride of Kentucky's Knights of the Saddle, who rode In Memoriam to victory Saturday, holds the distinction of riding Rockminster when that 3-year-old established the record.

Sinclair Lost $63,000.

Harry F. Sinclair, owner of Zev, evidently was convinced that Zev could not be beaten because he plunged $63,000 in the pari-mutuel machines before the race. Sinclair first wagered $30,000. Then he dumped $20,000 more. As the hour of the start drew near he wagered an additional $9,000, and finally threw $4,000 more on Zev's chances to win. These sums were wagered at the track Saturday afternoon, in addition to the amounts he wagered before leaving the east.

Because Zev and My Own were such overwhelming favorites, a $2 ticket in the pari-mutuels on In Memoriam paid the liberal price of $23.60 to win. The price on Zev was 40 cents to a dollar, while the figure on My Own was $3.75 to $1. The odds on Rialto were $14.90 to $1.

Jockey Gets $10,000

The spectacle aside from the three minutes of stirring struggle, was the most brilliant in the history of the classic race. The crowd at the finish cheered wildly as Jockey Garner, his boyish face alight, was lifted to the platform in front of the stand and took his place with Owner Wiedemann while James M. Cox, former Governor of Ohio, made the presentation speech in presenting Wiedemann with a gold cup valued at $5,000.

Wiedemann, who won $50,000 in cash as first prize for In Memoriam's triumph, presented the boyish-looking Garner with a check for $10,000 as a reward for his victory.

THREE VICTORS MIGHTY GAMES

Cornell, Yale and Syracuse Survive in U.S. College Rugby.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Cornell, Yale and Syracuse now bask in the football spotlight in the East.

Each of the three on Saturday clashed with mighty foes. Cornell encountered the then unbeaten Dartmouth eleven and the Ithacans came away with a 32 to 7 victory. Yale battled the powerful Army team and the Blue left the field a winner by 31 to 10. Syracuse had as its opponent the then unbeaten Penn State team, and when the smoke of battle had cleared the Orange stood forth a victor, 10 to 0. By their victories, Cornell, Yale and Syracuse remain as the only big eastern teams victorious in all games played.

Three other elevens, Rutgers, West Virginia and Washington and Jefferson, have yet to taste defeat, but in each instance a tie score shows on its record and its standing is thereby lowered.

The defeat of Penn State, the whipping of Dartmouth and the defeat of Tufts by Harvard served to remove three of the hitherto undefeated elevens from the list of possible eastern champions.

Battled To a Tie.

New Yorkers witnessed a rugged battle between Lafayette and Washington and Jefferson. Last year the latter eleven won, 14 to 13, but on Saturday the two were deadlocked, six to six, when the final whistle sounded, with Lafayette having a decided edge on the ground gained.

Pennsylvanians will long remember Saturday. It witnessed the Blue and Red's first defeat of Pittsburgh in the fifteen years in which they have engaged in gridiron duels. Penn won 6 to 0, and proved itself to be much the better eleven.

Other noteworthy happenings were Columbia's 9 to 6 comeback against the Middlebury team, which had tied Harvard; Navy's 9 to 0 defeat of Colgate; Amherst's unexpected win over Wesleyan, 12 to 10, and Princeton's easy 35 to 0 victory over Swarthmore.

Games in the West.

Plowing through muddy fields, Big Ten football teams yesterday played true to the dope in three western conference and three non-conference games, one contender, Chicago, being eliminated from the championship race. Four conference teams remain undefeated.

Chicago went down in the feature game of the day before the University of Illinois team, playing before a crowd of 60,000 persons, at the opening of the new stadium at Illinois Field.

In the other principal conference contest, Michigan kept its record clean by walloping Iowa, 9 to 3, at Iowa City. The Volverines piled up nine points in the first period.

Minnesota exhibited a fast, sure attack and a knowledge of ground gaining by the aerial route in walking all over Northwestern at Minneapolis, defeating the Purple 34 to 14.

In non-conference games Purdue managed to score on Notre Dame, the intersectional winner, Notre Dame winning 34 to 7. Ohio State had no difficulty defeating Denison, 42 to 0, and Indiana won easily from Hanover, 32 to 0. Wisconsin was idle.

EMPIRE FRUIT IN BRITISH MARKET

Premier King Has Replied From London to a Request of the Okanagan Boards.

VERNON, B.C., Nov. 5.— Premier King has replied from London to a request of the Okanagan Associated Boards of Trade that he urge at the Imperial Conference, a preference for Empire-grown fruit in the British market, saying that "every effort is being made to secure favorable consideration of the proposal."

TORNADO LEVELS BARNS IN QUEBEC

Damage Is Considerable, But No Lives Lost—Unusual Storm in Province

QUEBEC, Nov. 5. — (Canadian Press.)— Fifteen to twenty barns, containing crops of last season, and in several cases also farm implements and even cattle, were torn down by a tornado which swept through St. George De Beauce Saturday, according to reports reaching here.

The damage will be quite considerabe, but fortunately no farm houses weer destroyed by the wind and no loss of life is recorded

The tornado which is an unusual occurrence in that section of the province, blew up early in the morning.

England's Harvest of Wheat Shows Decline.

LONDON, Nov. 5. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—The official estimate of the wheat harvest in England and Wales is that it is generally of good quality with a total production of 1,515,000 tons, a reduction of 159,000 tonsas compared with that of last year. The decrease is due to a decline in acreage under cultivation. The yield is estimated at 17.4 hundredweights per acre or nearly half a hundredweight more than last year. Barley is the only grain crop to give a yield below the average, being estimated at 14 1-2 hundredweights per acre or a quarter hundredweight below last year's average. The average total production of oats is 1,522,000 tons or 70,000 tons in excess of that of last year.

ESCAPING GAS CAUSED THE DEATHS OF FOUR

NEW YORK, Nov 5.—Canadian Press.—Illuminating gas escaping from a water heater caused the deaths of Lawrence O'Brien, his wife, son and daughter as they slep at their home in Brooklyn early yesterday. Another daughter was found unconsolous, but recovered.

AIRMEN BREAK SPEED RECORD

U.S. Lieutenant Attained 274.2 Miles An Hour With Wind.

MITCHELL FIELD, N.Y., Nov. 5.—(Canadian Press)—Lieut. Alford J. Williams and Lieut. Harod J. Brow, United States airmen, yesterday fought a speed duel in the air and Williams won after both had smashed world's records.

Williams, former pitcher on the New York Giants, captured the record of 259.16 miles an hour set last Friday over a three-kilometer course, lost it again to Brown and re-captured it just as dusk was setting in.

Williams' unofficial time, which remains to be officially verified, was an average of 266.6 miles an hour over a three-kilometer course. Brow, however, travelled faster than ever mortal man had, doing one leg with the wind at a rate of 274.2 miles per hour.

Both flyers who have been battling for speed in the air for several days are due to renew their dule today.

Williams twice just escaped death, once diving several thousand feet at more than 250 miles an hour to within 10 feet of the ground. His second escape came the last time he flew the course when he darted straight through a squadron of five Martin Bombers which were just reaching the field from Aberdeen, Md.

STORMY WEATHER REDUCED CROWDS IN OLD COUNTRY

Saturday's Football Games Were Featured By Individual Feats--Baldwin Attended.

LONDON, November 5 (Canadian Press Cable). — Stormy weather adversely affected the attendances at the Leagues Association football games on Saturday afternoon, and in many places the aggregate spectators were only 55,000, although Liverpool, Manchester, and Blackburn each attracted over 30,000

Unusual individual feats were reported. Thus Johnson scored the whole of the Sheffield United's four goals, and this performance was duplicated by Darlington's centre forward Brown.

The goal which Barnes got for Manchester City makes him the leading goal-scorer of the First League, with 11 to his credit.

For once Arsenal's forwards were a line of shooting stars. Notwithstanding the absence of Rutherford and Milne, they kept the Middlesboro' goalie uncomfortably busy.

Bolton were minus two of the cup final team, namely Seddon and Smith, in the scoreless tie with Chelsea.

Premier Baldwin and Lord Derby watched the Liverpool-Huddersfield game, which was featured by a succession of minor accidents, although the play was by no means rough.

West Ham United played robust rather than clever football to overcome the lowly-placed Birmingham, who were much more scientific.

A fast and furious game at Clapton resulted in the retirement of Butler from the Port Vale side with a wrenched arm, and thereafter the Orient tried desperately to score, but their efforts were nullified by offsides.

Goalkeeper Mercer saved the situation for Hull against Crystal Palace. Two fouls against Hull and three corners towards the hard rushes at goal produced plenty of excitement around Mercer, but his citadel remained intact.

Swindon were unlucky in view of the fact that most of the game centred around the Charlton goal, yet the latter won 3 to 1.

Newport's solitary and winning goal against Norwich was due to the sole effort of Charlton, who took the ball the whole length of the field and scored brilliantly

HALLOWE'EN PARTY AT DOWNEYVILLE

Masquerade Attracted a Crowd of Merry-makers From the District.

DOWNEYVILLE, Nov. 5.—The masquerade held in the hall here Friday night last was a decided success, and was a splendid night's entertainment for every one both young and old. The night was ideal and the people turned out in large numbers from Ops, Lindsay, Ennismore, Dunsford and Peterboro. The costumes were very pretty and the comic ones created much merriment by their actions especially the clowns. Messrs. D. M. O'Leary, Geo. O'Donnell, John O'Neill, were a few of the clowns, while Mrs. W. C. Herlihey, Mrs. Geo. O'Donnell and Miss Mae O'Donnell flitted through the hall in their witches attire. The Misses Agnes Murray, Nora Costello, Viola Herlihey and Regina Costello were representing Night and their costumes were beautiful indeed. Among others were Miss H. Mathews, Gypsy Queen; Miss B. Morrissey, Japanese girl; Maud O'Neill, Canada; Loretta Hoolihan, rainbow, while Messrs. Wm. O'Neill, Fergus O'Neill, Paul McGuire and John O'Neill were excellent Indian chiefs. Prizes were awarded for the best comic costumes and best costumes.

The judges found it a difficult task to pick out the winners. Miss C. Morrissey won the prize for the ladies' first as Japanese girl, and Mr. Paul Maguire gentlemen's first as Indian chief. The comics were won by Mrs. John Murray and Mr. Patrick Winn as the Old Lady and Old Gentlemen, and must be congratulated on their costumes as they were perfect. The costumes of all indeed were beautiful and were much admired by all present.

The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing the music being supplied by Messrs. Charles and Albert Lucas with violins and Mrs. Patrick Perdue, Miss Pearl Herlihey and Mrs. Chas. Lucas at the piano.

The masquerade was under the auspices of the Catholic Women's League and they deserve credit for the excellent lunch served and the decorations in the hall.

It's the Blade that Counts

In the last quarter—score tied—everyone "on their toes"—each man on both teams straining for an advantage, and using his last ounce of energy toward one purpose—to "bulge" the net and score the winning "counter".

That's when the skate blade counts—it must have just the right "edge" that it has early in the game—It must grip the hard ice sufficiently to give you the speed advantage over your opponent.

In moments like this the skates are all-important—games have been won or lost on the efficiency or inefficiency of a single player's skates.

That's why, year after year, hockey players, whose names are almost household words, stick to STARR Skates with their correctly tempered blades—the blades that hold their "edge" long after ordinary skates are dull.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR
Those who accept Satan's lie, "ye shall not surely die" Gen. 3:4 tell us that the beast dies but man does not, that only his body dies, and the spirit or soul does not die. Scripture says what befalleth man befalleth beasts, as one dieth, so dieth, the other, yea, they have all one breath (spirit), man has no preeminence over beasts all go into one place, all turn to dust again. Ecc 3: 19 20. And again in Psalms 49 12 "man is like the beasts that perish". They say that the spirit (breath) goes to heaven or to a place of end less torments. The Scripture say the spirit (breath) of man goes to God who gave it Ecc 12 7. The tell us that the righteous dead are praising God in heaven. The Scripture say that "the dead praise not God" Psalms 115 17 and further that there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom in the grave whether man goest. Ecc. 9 10. And Jesus said "no man hath ascended into heaven, but he that descended out of heaven, even the Son of Man.' John 3 13. —M. T. BUTCHER

OBITUARY

JOHN LEE

Death came with startling suddenness this morning to Mr. John Lee of Spenceley's Lane, Auburn. Mr. Lee, who was in his 78th year, arose in his usual good health, and after performing his chores, returned to the house and was preparing for breakfast when he fell to the floor, dead. Dr. T. G. Loudon was called but death had been instantaneous.

The deceased, who formerly resided in Smith Township removed to Auburn just one year ago today. He is survived by his widow, four daughters and one son Mrs. F. C. Hooper, Edmonton Alta., Mrs. Adam Cox, Mrs. W. F. Skitch and Miss Ada Lee of Peterboro, and Russell Lee also of this city. Other helatives are Mrs. Martin Parnell of Peterboro, Wm. Lee of Otonabee, Thos. Lee of Gilbert Plains, Man., and Jos. Lee of Saskatoon, Sask.

F. A. BRADY.
Many Peterboro people will be sorry to learn of the sudden death in Toronto, on Saturday, of Mr. F. A. Brady, of the National Drug and Chemical Company, one of the best known commercial travellers on the road. For over thirty years Mr. Brady had been calling on the local trade every week, and enjoyed the esteem and regard of all with whom he did business.

DEATH OF INFANT.
The death occurred yesterday of the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Connely, of 197 Rink Street.

The funeral took place this afternoon at three o'clock from the family residence to St. Martin's Cemetery, Ennismore.

THE WHITE SOUL.
(By H. W. Harris.)

A negro sat on the wagon seat, driving a pair of mules,
Trotting them briskly down the street, but observing the traffi rules,
When, suddenly stopping, he sprang to the ground, and I saw him from where I sat,
Raise from in front of th: hoofs of the mules somebody's half-grown cat.

He did not do, as some would have done who think themselves quite humane,
Just throw the wee thing on the sidewalk and start on his j.-m again,
But gently, yea, even tenderly, he carried it off the street,
And, placing it on a store doorstep, returned to his wagon seat.

"A fanciful tale," some folks may say, but it happens to be quite true,
And, I'm wondering if, as it did to me, the thought will occur to you
That, in spite of dark skin and curly hair,
So plain to the outward sight,
The soul of the man I saw that day was unmistakably white.
—From Dumb Animals.

DEATH.
LEE.— On Monday, Nov. 5th, suddenly, at Auburn, John Lee, in his 78th year.

FOUR GOVERNMENTS SHOWING INTEREST

Attempt to Harness St. Lawrence River of International Importance

OTTAWA, Nov. 5. — (Canadian Press.) — No discussion between Federal and Provincial authorities regarding Premier Ferguson's suggestion that power be developed upon the St .Lawrence river is likely to take place until the return to Canada of Premier King and Hon. George P. Graham, according to opinion expressed in government circles here.

So far as can be learned, Mr. Graham is not upon record as expressing the view credited to him by Premier Ferguson that Ontario has "an unequivocal right" to use of waters of the St. Lawrence, but it is understood that the Minister of Railways and Canals, in discussing the matter in the House pointed out that four governments would be directly concerned in any attempt to harness the St. Lawrence, namely, Federal governments of Canada and the United States and the Governments of Ontario and New York State.

Mr. Graham is also upon record as holding the opinion that Ontario could not undertake the entire work of developing power on the St. Lawrence, because the situation is closely interwoven with Canadian and American federal interests.

Officials here believe that the Ontario government might be prepared to discuss some temporary arrangement for using St. Lawrence water power, but they point out that any work undertaken upon such a basis might clash with provisions inserted in a permanent agreement.

MILITARY HONORS FOR J. W. WALLER

English Butler Inspired Whole Allied Air Service During War.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(United Press.)—James W. Waller, an English butler, was buried with full military honors here to-day.

Waller, chief of C. K. G. Billings' staff of servants, was revealed in death as the man who shot down the German ace, Max Immel Mann, and as the holder of half a dozen decorations for bravery.

The British Great War Veterans had charge of the services.

Comrades recalled how Waller, then a sergeant-major machine gunner for aviation, inspired the whole allied air service by his heroic feat in shooting down the German ace.

Lieut. Herald McCubbin, 18 year old ace, and pilot of the planes in which Waller was machine gunner, told how the butler killed Immel Mann.

"Waller was the coolest man I ever saw," his comrades said McCubbin told them. "He held his fire until the wings of the planes almost touched."

Waller died of the effects of gas poison contracted while a German prisoner .He went back to his work as a butler as soon as the war was over.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — | New York Stock Exchang — and Curb Prices —

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, November 5 (United Press). — Washington's proposal to abandon the plans for the reparations conference unless Premier Poincare of France modified his attitude, had no effect on stock prices at the start of the new week. Wall Street had its attention concentrated upon the test of market's ability to continue last week's sudden reversal of trend and technical considerations were the governing influence in the early dealings.

General Electric maintained its rapid advance, reaching a new high on the movement at 182 3-4, but the price changes among the other industrial leaders were irregularly divided.

The rails were generally higher. Stocks had to absorb considerable selling in the first hour, but the offerings in the general list were taken at scant recessions from the best levels on the movement, while Dupont and a few other issues continued to move ahead.

Judging from the action of the industrialist staff, a business depression so freely discussed while stocks were declining, is not likely to materialise this winter. There are inquiries in the market for close to 100,000 freight cars. American Can. had contracted for the delivery of more tinplate than at any time in the history of the company. The chain stores and mail order houses are doing second business.

After several weeks of dullness, the Cooper industry had been revived with large scales. railroads are making large contracts for steel mills. Building contractors awarded in New York Central in October show a 61 per cent. increase over September and 133 per cent. over October, 1922. This indicates a good demand for structural steel.

The automobile industry is exceptionally active for this time of the year, an indication that the consumption of gasoline will continue at a record rate.

There may not be a boom in business, but it looks as though the volume would be sufficient to keep labour fully employed.

Speculative sentiment was encouraged by the action of the market in the late morning. Not only did the general list continue to hold well and special stocks like General Electric move into higher ground, but interest was revived in a number of the backward groups.

The oils were prominent in this class. Issues like Texas Company, Marland, and Cosden which were heavy in the early stages of last week's recovery scored substantial rebounds from their recent lowers.

Attention was drawn by Stewart Warner's sharp up turn to 78 was attributed to the fact that the company has sufficient cash on hand to pay handsome ex dividend if so minded. Stewart Warner is continually adding to its line, assuring not only a continuance of the present dividend, but also placing the company in a position to do something additional for the stock holders before the close of the year. Another very large order will probably be signed before Wednesday.

CONRADI SLEW SOVIET CHIEF, TRIAL BEGINS

Charged With Assassination During Famous Near East Peace Parley of Engineer Vorowsky.

OF WORLD INTEREST

By HENRY WOOD.

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Nov. 5. —(United Press).—The trial of Maurice Conradi, charged with the assassination on May 10, during the famous Near East Peace Conference, of Engineer Vorowsky, chief of the Russian delegation, is scheduled to begin to-day in the district court of Lausanne.

There is every indication that the case will attract world-wide attention, first, because of the evident determination of the Soviets to build as much political capital and propaganda out of it as they can, and, second, because, coupled with the recent murder of the Italian frontier mission in Greece and the ensuing Greco-Italian conflict, the question of the responsibility of nations for political crimes committed on their territory has definitely come before the League of Nations for definition and settlement.

According to Swiss official circles, an effort will be made to postpone the Conradi trial until the League of Nations Commission of Jurists, which is to establish the international legal aspect of the question of responsibility, has completed its labors.

Switzerland has already been advised by the Soviets of their intention to wreak as much vengeance as possible on Switzerland for the assassination, and Switzerland is very anxious to have this point of responsibility of States for political crimes committed on their territory fully established before the Conradi case comes on for trial.

The international jurists who are handling the question of responsibility for political crimes is not to hand in its report until the meeting of the League Council on December 10, and it is regarded certain that the Soviet's attorneys will oppose a long delay.

The crime for which Conradi will be tried occurred on the evening of Ascension Day, May 10, in the dining-room of the Hotel Cecil at Lausanne. The young Swiss, who had come to the hotel early in the evening and quietly dined, had paid his bill, and was apparently on the point of leaving the dining-room, when he whipped out a revolver, levelling it at the table where Vorowski and other members of the Russion delegation were dining, and opened fire at short range.

Three Were Hit.

Vorowski was killed almost instantly and two other members of the Russian press section, Jean Ahrens and Monsier Divilkowski, were wounded about the head and abdomen. Their wounds were slight and they were fully recovered within a few days afterwards.

After emptying his revolver young Conradi surrendered his weapon and asked to be arrested. After considerable delay his wishes were complied with.

In the investigations that followed all efforts to link up Conradi's act as a part of a political plot failed and the authorities were obliged to accept his statement that the crime was one purely of personal vengeance.

Young Conradi, whose parents were natives of the Grisons, Switzerland, was himself born in Petrograd. Following his early education in the Russian schools, he entered the Polytechnic school at Petrograd to perfect himself in chemistry.

With the outbreak of the war, however, he volunteered, although he was a neutral, and served with the Czar's armies. Still later, he entered the military school at Petrograd and in 1917 was graduated there with the rank of lieutenant, where he was retained as instructor.

Later, however, he rejoined the army at the front, and was promoted rapidly to the rank of commandant in the Imperial Guards. With the break-up of the Imperial army, however, Conradi, with 500 other officers, who remained faithful to the French and English, made their way to Jassy in Roumania, determined to fight their way through to the Caucasia and join up with the anti-Bolshevik army under Korniloff.

This they finally succeeded in doing after untold fighting, horrors, hunger and hardships.

Family Persecuted.

With the close of the war Conradi and his wife succeeded in finding refuge in Turkey, and finally returned to Switerland. In the meantime, however, he had learned that the Bolsheviki had wreaked full vengeance on his family because of his desertion of their cause. His father died of hunger in 1918 and his brother, Victor, was executed by the Bolsheviki.

It was to revenge himself for this that Conradi, according to his confessions, assassinated Vorowski.

His original intention had been to kill Tchitcherine and the other Soviet leaders who attended the first Lausanne Conference from November, 1922, to February, 1923. The occasion, however, did not present itself.

As an engineer by profession, Vorowski had always occupied himself more with the technical side of the Bolsheviki movement than the political aspects. In 1921 he was sent to Rome as Soviet commercial representative, where he succeeded in drawing up a commercial treaty between Italy and Russia, and participated in the Genoa Conference. He was still serving as commercial representative at Rome when he was ordered to the second Lausanne conference as chief of the Soviet delegation.

With his assassination constituting the first Soviet victim in foreign countries, Soviet leaders endeavored to hold the Allies responsible for not having given sufficient protection to the Russian delegation. The Allies replied by pointing out that the Russians had not been invited to the conference and that Vorowski was there not at their request, invitation or responsibility. When Tchitcherine failed to hold the Allies responsible he then turned his wrath on Switzerland. The Swiss denied all responsibility on the grounds that the Russians, having come of their own initiative, the Swiss were in no way responsible for their protection.

Declared a Boycott.

Unable to secure satisfaction, the Soviets then declared a commercial boycott against Switzerland and all Swiss who might want to participate in Russian commerce or exploitations.

Owing, however, to similar political crimes on Swiss soil, such as the assassination of the Empress of Austria at Geneva, Switzerland declared emphatically that she is beginning to have enough. As a country that has always been a political refuge for all nationalities, Switzerland figures she will continue for a long time to come to be victimized by political crimes and she wants the question of her responsibility to be thoroughly fought out in the present case.

The Soviets have sent as their attorney in the prosecution Dr. Tschlenoff, professor of law at the University of Moscow.

CALL A PARLEY WITH FRANCE AN ABSENTEE

Such is England's Next Step Foreshadowed Should Poincare Adhere to Conditions.

GERMANY IS FEARED

PARIS, Nov. 6. — (By John De Gandt, United Press Staff Correspondent).—Premier Poincare will adhere to his reparations inquiry conditions despite the attempts of the Allies to hold a conference without him, semi-official sources said today. The declaration was made in connection with rumors current here and in London that the next step by England if the present inquiry proposal fails, would be to call a conference with France absent, as foreshadowed by General Smuts.

Premier Poincare was understood to adhere to his belief that it would be unjust to allow a new fixation of Germany's reparations debt on the basis of the present chaotic conditions, when in a few years Germany might recuperate and be able to regain her former position as a menace to France.

All indications showed that he adhere to his determination not to let any body of experts in which France was represented discuss the evacuation of the Ruhr by France and Belgium.

Duplicate Achievement.

England's efforts to detach Belgium from her former adherence to the French policy toward Germany would not change the Premier, it was understood.

Confidence was felt in many quarters that the Premier will duplicate his accomplishment of last summer when he diplomatically headed off Britain's attempt to draw him out of the Ruhr and held on until Germany was forced to capitulate.

The Premier was reported to be anxious to keep the high regard of the United States, but was determined that any scaling down of the legal reparations should be met by a corresponding reduction in France's debt to America.

Receive French Reply.

The French reply to British reparations made through Lord Crewe, Ambassador in Paris, was received at the Foreign Office today.

While the note was not made public, it was understood to contain suggestions which would slightly widen the scope of the proposed reparations inquiry.

The strict limitations made by Premier Poincare regarding the determination of Germany's capacity to pay reparations were reported to have been manifested by the suggestion that Germany's "productivity" be estimated for a limited period of years.

The note was said to adhere to the French Premier's previous condition that the inquiry should only determine Germany's "present" capacity for payment.

Belgians Have Own Policy.

The Belgian Government is trying to bring the French and British views on the proposed reparations inquiry into line, it was indicated in a semi-official statement, despatches from Brussels said to-day.

The statement decried the report of the "Franco-Belgian tension" emanating from Paris and explained that the Brussels Government was following a policy of its own.

While this policy was not exactly similar to that of Paris, the statement said, it was pursued with the object of bringing London and Paris into agreement.

Friendly Conversation.

Premier Poincare to-day received Ambassador Jusserand's cabled report on his conversation with Secretary of State Hughes in Washington yesterday. The conversation is described as most friendly, but no further indications of the United States Government's attitude is given in official quarters.

CARE OF MATTRESS.

A mattress should be thoroughly brushed and beaten with a flat rattan beater at least once a month. By turning it every few days the wear will be more evenly distributed.

"GERMANS MUST NOT FIGHT GERMANS IS LATEST PLEA"

All Classes Urged to Unite in the Defence of the Republic—Thursday Zero Day

BERLIN, Nov. 6.— Germany organized her forces to-day to beat a threatened Monarchist putsch.

President Ebert's proclamation warning of ruthless suppression of any rising and calling for public support was answered by Socialist leaders, who said they could furnish several hundred thousand ex-soldiers for the defence of the Republic.

Chancellor Stresemann was reported to-day to have been advised that Thursday would be the zero day for the putsch. The Government's call for support of the Republic awakened realization to-day of the menace from the re-actionary organizations along the Bavarian border and elsewhere.

"Germans must not fight Germans," was the plea of the Government proclamation issued Monday, as growing bands of Monarchistic bands threatened civil war.

Urging all classes to unite in defence of the Republic government, that any attempt to overthrow the Republic would be rigorously suppressed.

Efforts to establish an unconstitutional regime would nullify efforts of outside nations to aid Germany, the appeal declared.

Herr Matthes, President of the "Rhineland Republic," has announced unofficially the intention of the Republicans of retaking Aix-La-Chapelle, a despatch from Cologne said to-day.

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS WASTED BY IGNORANCE IN HEATING OF HOMES

Survey Indicates $2,000,000 a Day Could Be Saved in Fuel by Efficient Methods — Poor Radiation and Combustion Bring Losses.

PRINCIPLES ADVANCED

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The average use of fuel in the home is grossly inefficient. If correct methods were generally understood and applied throughout the country, the same heating service could be obtained with one-half the fuel and there would result a saving of $2,000,000 a day. These are conclusions reached as a result of research by the United States Bureau of Mines in co-operation with other agencies and with other data assembled by Samuel S. Wyer, Associate in Mineral Technology, of Smithsonian Institution, in an educational programme of resource conservation.

It is pointed out that the urgent need in this country's fuel crisis is not for more research work, but for a quick and wide diffusion and immediate application of facts already known. Among these as set forth are:

Anthracite, although a natural monopoly from a geographical viewpoint, is not a monopoly from the point of use, since "man-made anthracite"—that is coke—can easily be made to take its place. Furthermore, the small sizes of anthracite—representing 29 per cent. of the total—and now sold to the steam trade at low prices, could easily be used in the homes with proper utilization methods.

Bituminous coal should never be used in its raw state. That is, the by-products should be separated and only the residue coke used for heating. Oil is desirable for cooking and incidental house heating when gas it not available, but because of operating limitations and and inevitable future price conditions will not come into general use for house heating.

Many principles are advanced for the guidance of the fuel user. For instance, combustion (that is, burning) of every fuel is the chemical combustion of the ingredients in the fuel with oxygen of the air. Different fuel require different quantities of air and applied in different ways. Efficient fuel use can be obtained only by the use of the correct amount of air and applied in the right way. As this is entirely in the hands of the fuel user, the importance of correct information is obvious.

Waste in Ashes.

"The burning of fuel with perfect combustion will produce carbon dioxide—the same substance that is exhaled from the lungs — and water vapor," continues Mr. Wyer's paper. "If the combustion is not perfect, carbon monoxide—a poison—and condensible vapors and smoke will be formed. No heating device has or can be made that will absorb its combustion products, hence they must be properly removed from the house by adequate flues. An opening should be provided at the base of all chimneys for occasional cleaning. Solid fuels require larger connections than gas or oil. When bituminous coal is used, horizontal sections of flue pipes require frequent cleaning.

"Tests show that ashes frequently contain 50 per cent. of carbon. This is because the grates do not receive proper attention. In shaking grates, stop when the first glow from above appears and before live coals go into the ash pit. Never leave ashes under the grates after shaking. Remove at once, as this will protect grates and give better circulation of air.

"Even with proper combustion of fuel, the heating problem is only partially solved. The big task is getting the heat into the room, water or food that is to be heated in the most direct and effective manner. The ordinary furnace or water heater for the average house does not have enough heat absorbing surface, with the result that the combustion products go into the chimney at too high temperature and much heat is needlessly lost. This is especially marked when gas or oil are burned in the ordinary coal furnaces.

Took Poison to Make Life Easier For Her Mother

WAYNESBORO, November 6. — A pitiful story of poverty and a desire to sacrifice her own life in order to make life easier for her eight sisters and brothers was unfolded to-day by fifteen-year-old Laura Bumbaugh, who is in a serious condition as a result of drinking poison.

To-day, able to talk for the first time since Thursday morning, Laura told the attending physician that she did not have shoes to wear to school, and for that reason did not attend the sessions regularly.

By committing suicide, she said, she hoped to relieve her mother of the task of providing for at least one member of the large family.

SUCCESSOR TO LATE PREMIER

Rumor That Winston Spencer Churchill Invited to Contest Glasgow Central Division.

LONDON, Nov. 6. — (Canadian Press.)—Interest in domestic politics for the moment is aroused on representation of the Glasgow Central Division in the House of Commons, for a successor to the late Andrew Bonar Law to be elected forthwith.

Attention of the public was sharply drawn to that district last evening by a report that Winston Spencer Churchill had received an invitation from local Liberals to become their candidate. Mr. Churchill declines to confirm or deny the rumor, but theer seems to be no doubt that the invitation was received.

The incident has caused a great flutter in official quarters and in both factions of the Liberal party, for not only was it a complete surprise, but it immediately raised the question of whether the invitation involves an attempt to re-unite the two wings of the party, Asquithian and Lloyd Georgian groups.

The invitation to Mr. Churchill is stated to have come from the Asquithian side.

Conservatives have not yet chosen their candidate for the seat. Labor's representative will be E. R. Mitchell, a local lawyer who ran fairly close to Mr. Bonar Law in the last election. Labor entertains strong hopes of adding the Central Division to its list of Glasgow pearls.

MORAL CALAMITY IF THE U.S. QUIT THE REPARATIONS

Any Readjustment in Europe Without American Participations Would Be Precarious.

ROME, Nov. 6.—(United Press.)—Withdrawal of the United States from the proposed reparations inquiry would be a material and moral calamity, declares the tribunal.

The newspaper states that it would be a material calamity due to the fact that any readjusmtent in Europe without American participation would be "precarious" and a moral calamity because this is the second time the United States have endeavoured to establish contact with the European powers.

Population of London is only 13,700—that's the city proper.

MANY AILMENTS ARE THE RESULT OF OVEREATING

Large Number Chronic Ills Are Attributed to Self-Indulgence of the Prosperous.

URGES SANE EATING

New York, November 6. — Is overeating the physiological sin of the United States? asks the editor of the New York Medical Journal and Medical Record. He then goes on to elaborate an argument tending to show that this is the case. He asserts that diabetes and other chronic diseases, which he says chiefly affect those who are prosperous, are probably due to habitual over-indulgence in food. Temperance in eating is the surest method of preventing these ailments, he asserts. As proof of this statement he cites the cases of Germany and Austria, in both of which countries these chronic maladies have decreased since their inhabitants have been obliged to get along on a more restricted diet.

Lastly it appears that the writer is inclined to think seriously that cancer is a dietetic disease of civilization—probably the result of overeating.

A large number of people have dug their graves with their teeth, and many are still digging their graves in this manner, says the writer. Even children, who can of course consume much more proportionately than adults and flourish, frequently eat a great deal more food than is good for them. A mother is inclined to plume herself on the fact that her infant is continupally or almost continually taking nourishment, and is surprised that it is peevish and does not seem to progress.

Mothers Warned Often.

Dr. Eric Pritchard is one of those who have preached in and out of season that infants are often stuffed with food to their lasting detriment by their mothers or by those who have charge of them. While much is heard and written concerning deficiency diseases, and rightly too, the writer says, little is heard of the diseases consequent on or aggravated by overeating, among both children and adults. There are agents without which we cannot live which at the same time may kill in excess, he adds.

A well balanced diet in sufficiency, is needful for health, but such a diet taken in excess during a prolonged period may easily be highly injurious and in time kill, he asserts. In hot weather and so far as infants and young children are concerned, this is especially the case, and in those fed artificially the fat in the milk may be reduced with benefit. We cannot live without some sugar in the blood, but too much constitutes disease, and the suggestion has been made that diabetes, owing to the system being unable to produce insulin for itself, is brought about by excessive activity, whereby the particular cells in the isles of Langerhans, in the pancreas, whose function it is to supply insulin in proportion to the demands made upon them by the diet, become exhausted, or at any rate impaired, so that they cannot provide insulin in adequate amounts, he explains.

Diabetes Suggests Excess.

"All diabetic individuals do not necessarily consume to excess starchy and sugary foods; in the chronic diseases each person has probably a predisposition to one or other disease," he continues, "but the contraction of diabetes does suggest the results of excess in relation to the particular capacity of the cells of the islands of Langerhans of the person afflicted. Thus diabetes is more prevalent among the rich thas the poor, and to a certain extent may be termed a dietetic disease.

"In a similar way many of the chronic diseases may be termed dietetic disease.

"In a similar way many of the chronic diseases may be termed dietetic diseases in the sense of overeating. By continually over-straining the digestive organs by eating unsuitable food to excess, alimentary toxemia is produced, which directly or indirectly causes or intensifies various diseases. That dietary excess is responsible for many diseases and conditions of ill health seems to have been plainly proved by the experience of the war.

"In all countries and especially in Germany and Austria, there was and is, in these latter countries a marked reduction in certain forms of diseases associated as to cause with overeating. Diabetes, renal diseases and arterial degeneration have been reduced among the formerly prosperous self-indulgent inhabitants of Germany and Austria, although it is true that the lean diet has icreased the prevalence of rickets and tuberculosis in childhood. The intrease of cancer among civilized people, and particularly among prosperous high-living people, gives one cause to think seriously and to help the belief that after all cancer is a disease of civilization.

A Theory of Cancer.

"The state of affairs with regard to cancer in this country—it is increasing—and the death rate from it tend to suggest, to put it mildly, that cancer is a disease of civilization, that is a disease chiefly affecting a well to do people who eat generously perhaps too generously. This is a prosperous country, a sanitary country, and a clean country, and one in which the general standard of

WOMEN IMMIGRANTS

(Special despatch to Examiner)

LONDON, Nov. 6.—"Canada is doing splendidly by the female immigrants who enter her territory," said Dame Meriel Talbot, Acting President of the Society for the Overseas Settlement of British Women, when dealing with the question of emigration, which, at the moment, bulks very largely in the public eye. "It is rather invidious," she continued, "to make comparisons between the Dominions, but I think if Canada wants to stimulate emigration she might consider whether it would not be possible to make the conditions of transit more attractive financially as has been done by the Commonwealth of Australia and New Zealand.

"Times are so bad here that many women do not care to assume the financial responsibility of the repayment of advances when seeking to open up a new career in Canada. Nevertheless, the numbers of women and girls going to Canada are steadily increasing and the prospects are good. Many women of education are good. Many women of education and refinement are seeking to go out. Their ambition is to become companion-help in an overseas household. The women are applying and who are being sent out as domestic servants are of a very good class. There are others, absolutely untrained in domestic work, who look upon emigration to Canada as a great adventure. These we turn down."

Assisted Passages.

Miss Durham, Superintendant of the special department of the Canadian National Railways which deals with the emigration of domestic servants, has gone to Scotland on a special organizing mission. With the sanction of the Canadian Superintendent of Emigration in the British Isles, Miss Durham is working out a plan by which more girls of the educated class may be able to take advantage of the assisted passage scheme. The Acting Superintendent of the Company's office states that there is a great demand from British Columbia for educated girls who want to go out as domestic companions. "This morning", she said, "I had an interview with an applicant of this type. She cannot pay her passage but she will have £5 at her disposal when she reaches her destination, and she was perfectly willing to go out on these conditions. We consider that the prospects of making good the deficiency of domestic servants in Canada are satisfactory. We are also getting a great many applications from teachers, governesses, nurses, etc.

"It is true that the demand for domestic servants in England far exceeds the supply, but there are many who turn down housework in this country who would gladly accept it in Canada. There are several reasons for this. In the first place, houses in Canada are much more easily worked; the hours of work are shorter; servents have more freedom; there is more play for individual initiative, social distinctions are not so marked and, lastly not least important, there are more men to "go round," and so chances of marriage are much better in Canaad than at home."

Australia's Case.

An Official of the Canadian Emigration Department said that the Canadian Government were doing as much as they could be expected to do in the matter of assisted passages and that the comparison with Australia was scarcely fair. It was a practical certainty that a domestic servant going to Australia or New Zealand would remain in those countries for at least five years. They had not as Canada had, to contend with the lure of higher wages presented by the United States. On that ground Canada could not be expected to assume an equal financial responsibility per head of her assisted immigrants. Since the Department started making advances to cover fares in July, the number of applicants had increased four-fold. In the majority of cases full fare has been advanced.

"When the Empire Settlement Scheme is in full operation I believe we will be able to make good the deficiency in female emigration and to solve the problem of domestic service in Canada," said this official.

"The demand is for women trained in household work. We cannot guarantee work for women who desire to live in family as companions and domestic helps throughout Canada generally. British Columbia is really the only province which to any extent employs women in this way. Throughout the Dominion as a whole there are relatively few mistresses who will employ a girl other than of the servant basis.

"The system of assisted passages which has been in operation in On-

CONFISCATED LIQUOR SAID TO BE OBJECT OF THIEVES

Home of License Inspector J. Stewart Entered and Cellar Searched—Cut Bars on Windows

Confiscated liquor is said to have been the object of men who, at 2.30 on Monday morning, broke into the home of License Inspector Joseph Stewart, 197 Murray Street, but were frightened away without reaching their objective.

License Inspector Stewart resides in a double house, the second portion of which is occupied by the Misses Kingan.

The thieves first attacked the wrong cellar window, cutting away three steel bars, searching the cellar, and making their way through the house.

They next cut four bars on Stewart's cellar window. The window itself was propped open, and they allowed it to fall, making a noise which awoke Mrs. Stewart.

On her appearance they ran away.

The steel bars are three-quarters of an inch in thickness, and were cut cleanly through.

The marauders cut the telephone line, making certain they would not be interrupted by an alarm by that means.

Because of the telephone line being cut, Mr. Stewart said, he was unable to give the alarm to the police, and they received no official report of the incident until the telephone was repaired and Mr. Stewart called at 4.45 p.m. yesterday, by which time the would-be thieves had 15 hours' start.

Men who attempt a daring entry of this kind are described by Chief Newhall as a dangerous class of criminal, and every effort will be made to pick up the now cold scent.

Mr. Stewart thinks, since nothing was disturbed in the next-door house that the objective of the men was the liquor which he had seized at Norwood a few days ago, and which was stored in his cellar pending shipment to Toronto.

It consisted of 48 bottles Scotch, 7 bottles gin, 3 bottles Old Curio, 58 bottles in all, weighing 200 pounds.

The liquor was shipped to Toronto this morning.

THE POLICE ROUND UP FOUR MEN CONNECTION WITH LOCAL BURGLARY

Three of the Men Pleaded Guilty and Were Remanded For Sentence

FINGER PRINT CLUE

Investigations by Detectives W. Meagher and W. Carey, of the local police force in connection with the petty thieving that has swept the city lately, resulted in the arrest yesterday of four men who appeared in court this morning. Three of them pleaded guilty to the charges brought against them and were remanded until Tuesday next for sentence, while the fourth pleaded not guilty, elected trial in the usual way and was committed.

Chief S. Newhall, interviewed regarding the epidemic of house-breaking, said it has occurred only since the police force has been depleted by one man, leaving the outlying districts unguarded.

On the resignation of George Grange, the Chief said, he left one place on the force unfilled in an effort to conserve the Department's appropriation which was dwindling to the vanishing point.

Frederick Earl Schewier, described as the ring leader of the gang, was charged with breaking into the Adam Hall Ltd. foundry, with intent to commit an indictable offence. He pleaded not guilty, but evidence given by Chief Newhall and by Maitland Wells, who was the first to arrive at the foundry and discover the burglary, was sufficient to warrant the committal of Schewier for trial. This prisoner has a police record extending back to 1911, when he was sentenced to 6 months in the Ontario Reformatory on a charge of housebreaking and theft. Other convictions were: 1912, at Ingersoll, 20 months in the reformatory for burglary; 1913, at Guelph, 30 months in Central prison for escaping from custody; 1915, at Toronto, 6 months for escaping from Central prison; 1916, at Guelph, 2 years in Kingston penitentiary for escaping from prison. Several other convictions have been registered against him, Chief Newhall said.

Stole Vending Machines.

Gerald Chatten, Morley James and Harry Ward were jointly charged with stealing two chewing gum machines from R. C. Braund at the corner of Park and Albert streets on October 15. The machines were valued at $20 each. To this, and to a second charge of stealing a chewing gum machine from Mrs. Heastman at Patterson—and Rutherford streets they pleaded guilty.

Morley James was charged with Schewier in the Adam Hall burglary, and plaeded guilty. James was committed for trial.

Chattan and James were charged with breaking into the Dominion pool room by cutting their way through a door at the rear and stealing a large quantity of cigars, cigarettes and money. Both pleaded guilty and will appear for sentence on this and other charges on Tuesday next.

Finger prints found on glass taken from windows were instrumetnal in wringing a confession from these men. Chief Newhall showed them their prints on the glass and those taken in the police station, and they pleaded guilty, confessing knowledge of several entries.

Chattan had a previous conviction on a shop-breaking and theft charge, on which he was sentenced to suspended sentence, and another charge of contributing to the delinquency of a juvenile gained for him 1 year suspended sentence.

Typewriter Bruise Caused Death of Professor, Aged 70

PITTSBURGH, November 6 — A bruise, received while operating a typewriter, caused the death of Professor James Boden Smith, seventy, of California, secretary and treasurer of the California State Normal School, according to the report made by Morgue Superintendent John P. Black.

Professor Smith died on Friday at the Western Pennsylvania Hospital, where he was taken after the bruise had become infected.

The body was taken to California for burial.

LADIES APPLY FOR A CHANGE

Do Not Like the Name "East City" and Would Revert to Ashburnham

The postponed meeting of the Women's Patriotic League of Ashburnham, took place last evening at the home of the president, Mrs. R. H. Parsons, when the regular business session was followed by a pleasant social hour, with service of dainty refreshments by the hostess.

A discussion that occupied the attention of the ladies at their meeting last night was a proposition to ask the City Council to change the name of East City, now applied to that portion of Peterboro which is situated on the eastern banks of the Otonabee, and revert once more to the old time name of Ashburnham. The ladies do not like the cognomen of East City, as applied to that section of Peterboro, and are anxious to have "Ashburnham" used once more.

Ashburnham was the name of the settlement which lives and moves and has its being on the eastern banks of the river for nearly a century of time. It had its origin according to popular report, in a combination of the family name of the Burnhams, who were among the oldest residents of the district, and "ash," from the quantity of ash trees which abounded in that section. "Ashburnham" has a more euphonious quality than the somewhat harsh term of "East City," and for that reason, as well as for the associations clustered about the name, the ladies are agitating for a return to the old appellation. The secretary was instructed to write to the City Council in regard to the matter.

The next meeting of the Society will be held on the last Monday in November, at the home of Miss E. Scott.

HUNGER STRIKERS IN STATE PRISON

Have Been Reduced to About Five Hundred Prisoners.

DUBLIN, Nov. 6.—Number of hunger strikers in Free State prisons and camps has been reduced to about five hundred, it is stated in authorative quarters to-day. This result is declared to have been brought about in part by governments repeated announcement that De Valera was not taking part in hunger strike. Announcement by Sinn Fein Publicity Department that rebel leader was refraining on orders from his cabinet was met by govern ment with comment that it did not discover these orders until twenty-fourth day of strike.

BRO. J. NUGENT FIFTY YEARS AN ODDFELLOW

Presented With Exceptionally Beautiful and Costly Jewel by His Oddfellow Companions

WAS SIGNAL HONOR

At the meeting of Otonabee Lodge No. 13, Independent Order of Oddfellows, held last evening in the Oddfellows Hall when twenty-five year jewels were presented to four members ;Bros. E. R. Milburn C. B. Thornton and F. Detcher of Peterboro and H. Phillips of Toronto, a signal honor was conferred on one of the veteran members of the Lodge, in the person of Bro. John Nugent, an active member for the past fifty years. The gift presented to Bro. Nugent by his companion Oddfellows, in recognition of his half century of unfailing fidelity and devotion to the society, was an exceptionally costly and beautiful jewel. A miniature half globe, its expanse crossed by a pennant in blue enamel, stamped with the world "universal," projects in solid gold from an encircling wreaths of laurel leaves, based by the triple golden link emblem which signify the Order's watchwords of "Fidelity love and truth." Pendant from the gold bar pin above is the numeral "fifty," outlined in chip diamonds. On the reverse of the elaborate and artistic design is inscribed 'To Brother John Nugent, P.D. D.G.M. (Past District Deputy Grand Master) by Otonabee Lodge Number 13, Ontario 55."

Initiated at Lindsay

Mr. Nugent has been a member of Otonabee Lodge of the I.O.O.F. in Peterboro for the past thirty-eight years. He was initiated into Lindsay Lodge No. 100 on December 5th 1872. During an eight years' residence some time later on at Fenelon Falls, where there was no Lodge, he often drove the sixteen miles into Lindsay to participate in initiation ceremonies, and has been, since his coming to Peterboro in 1885, an active and devoted worker in the Otonabee Lodge. Mr. Nugent is also an active member of Hiawatha Encampment No. 66.

The possession of a fifty-year jewel from Oddfellow brother members is shared by Mr. Nugent in Peterboro with two other men, Bro. W. J. Green of the Peterboro Lodge and Bro. J. M. Brooks of the Pheonix Lodge, Oshawa. Mr. Nugents jewel, however, is of a different and more elaborate type than either of the other two, which are adaptations of the twenty-five year jewel of the Order a round medallion whose design of red and khite enamel bears the central inscription of "25."

Four Other Jewels

These emblems of twenty-five year membership were also presented last evening to four seniors, Bro. E. R. Milburn, C. B. Thornton and F. Detcher of Peterboro and H. Phillips of Toronto. Presentation of the various jewels was made by District Deputy Grand Master Brother J. E. Anderson of Lindsay, assisted by Grand Scribe S. C. Parks of Toronto. Bro. Anderson, in making the presentation to Bro. Nugent, referred to the exemplary life of the fifty-year member, who had exemplified in his career his adherence to the beautiful teachings of his Order also to the pleasure experienced by himself in the fact that Bro. Nugent was a member of the parent lodge in Lindsay. Bro. S. C. Parks spoke of the endorsation of his own application to Otonabee Lodge by Bro. Nugent just twenty-three years ago.

Work by Veterans

Ten candidates received the initiatory degree last evening, at the hands of the following veterans, all of whom have been members of the Order for between thirty and fifty years, Bro. M. Mowry giving Bro. John Nugent a close race or the half-century record, having completed nearly forty-eight years' membership in the I.O.O.F.: Noble Grand Bro. J. E. Anderson, D.D. G.N. of Lindsay; Vice Grand Bro. H. W. Watts, P.G., Past Grand Bro. M. Mowry, P. G., Chaplain Bro. M. T. Breckenridge P.G. and Outside Conductor Bro. W. S. Robinson, P. G. of Toronto: former ly of Otonabee Lodge, assisted by Bro. E. H. Bartlett, P.G., Bro. R. J. Craig P.G, District deputy Grand Master R R. Ford and W. H. Morton, P.G., Warden Bro. John Mathieson, P.G., Conductor Bro. John Nugent P.G. R. S. Supporter Bro. Chas. H. Huifman, P.G., L. S. Supporter Bro. W. J. Paterson, P.G., Inside Guard Bro. Col. J. W. Miller, P. G., R. S. RAILWAY DEFICIT TOO MUCH BURDEN FOR CANADA NOW living as regards both housing and food, is th highest m the world. Asd yet the cancer death rate is very high and rising rapidly.

Grand Trunk Stockholders Had a Long Interview With Premier King and Hon. George P. Graham.

LONDON, Nov. 6.— Delegations representative of Grand Trunk junior stockholders and also Grand Trunk Pacific four per cent. debenture holders, had another long interview last evening with Premier King and Hon. George P. Graham to renew their appeal for special consideration in connection with taking over of railways by Canadian government In regard to question of compassionate consideration they were informed as on last occasion when they interviewed Canadian ministers, that the burden of railway deficits on the Canadian people at present was too heavy to think of compassionate allowance.

"As said before the standard of living regarded from every point of view, is extremely satisfactory, and with the exception of a perhaps too liberal diet on the part of the population at large there absolutely seems no reason why malignant disease should be so prevalent and deadly. Is overeating the physiological sin of the citizens of the United States, and is cancer initiated or developed or both by errors of diet in quality and particularly in quantity in those who are predisposed to the disease?

"The presence of cancer in prosperous countries in which the people eat largely is so suggestive that the problem should be closely studied from the viewpoint of civilized life, and particularly from the viewpoint of diet. Eating to excess may be the cause of more disease than is imagined and in suitable food eaten with discretion may be found the master key of preventive medicine."

GERMAN LEADERS SEND OUT NATIONAL APPEAL TO PROTECT REPUBLIC

Declare Their Determination to Withstand All Internal Attacks — Demand For Dictator Grows But Lacks Unity in Choice of Man.

BERLIN LACKS FOOD.

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—Armistice week finds the five-year-old German Republic in the throes of a nation-wide political, economic and social crisis, the outcome of which may be determined through such minor factors as the rising or falling prices for bread, potatoes and coal.

It may also terminate in the sudden proclamation of a national dictatorship, the demand for which is gaining perceptible momentum among all classes of the people, who apparently are willing to barter their present political liberties for even a hazy prospect of amelioration of their social condition. Germany tonight outwardly suggests a loosely federated pseudo-republic without such elementary pre-requisites as a national currency or a safely anchored constitutional government supported by a representative parliament.

A National Appeal.

Into this situation President Ebert and Chancellor Stresemann tonight projected an appeal to the nation, in which they affirm their determination to defend the republic and its constitution from all attacks from within and summon the citizens to come to their aid. In part the proclamation says:

"In this very serious time, Germany is threatened with internal convulsions. Certain sections of the community, although numerically not strong, are relying on the distress of the people to attempt to exercise illegal pressure on the government and to throw the torch of internecine warfare among the people."

After declaring the Government's determination to repel such attempts, the proclamation continues:

"The maintenance of the unity of the Reich and law and order in the interior are necessary pre-requisites for overcoming the present distress resulting from unemployment, serious economic conditions and unparalleled political pressure."

Prepared to Fight.

In the way of warning the proclamation says:

"Those nations and leading personages who are aware of Germany's intolerable distress and who desire to help Germany should not despair of the German people. The German Government possesses the necessary strength to deal with any "putsch" and protect the constitution of the Reich. The Reichswehr and police, loyal to their oath, will do their duty. The Government firmly believes that if against its will it is forced to fight, the whole German people will stand behind it in defence of order and the freedom of the German Reich."

The Government's pronouncement finds the bakeshops of greater Berlin shut down, market stalls locked up, and long rows of shops in the eastern section of the city disfigured by broken windows, with shelves and counters looted. Berlin is virtually in the grip of a hunger blockade, as agrarian producers within a radius of one hundred and fifty miles continue their refusal to deliver their products in exchange for paper marks.

This is one aspect of the situation which suggests to the mass of the people that a dictator who ruled with a mailed fist would promptly coax forth flour, potatoes and such necessaries through the preliminary punishment of food profiteers and agricultural magnates. Yet the growing clamor for a dictator has failed thus far to mention a single man, whatever his political antecedents, who would fit into the situation, and even the Nationalists, who are loudest in their demands for an iron rule, advocate a Government composed of a limited directorate.

Ask For Dictator.

The Chancellor to-night received a telegraphic appeal from the Executive committee of the National League of Front Soldiers, popularly known as "The Steel Helmets," requesting the immediate installation of a dictatorship free of partisan parliamentary influences, and suggesting that he make immediate use of the prerogatives accorded him, before other elements assume the initiative.

The Chancellor informed the conference of the German People's Party to-day that he did not propose to retire from his post in the present internal and foreign situation, but that he intended to fill the gaps in his rump parliament with men possessed of patriotic sentiment. He informed his party colleagues that he would not invite German Nationalists into his Cabinet. He also declared that he was opposed to calling up volunteers for the protection of the republic, on the ground that the Reich Government could completely rely on the Reichswehr, which alone would become masters of the situation.

Urge Holland To Keep Prince

PARIS, Nov. 5. — Premier Poincare has approved the suggestion of Great Britain that the Allies make a joint representation to Holland to prevent former Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm from leaving Holland for Germany.

Lord Crewe, the British Ambassador, communicated the suggestion to Premier Poincare this afternoon.

According to a semi-official source Lord Crewe also impressed upon M. Poincare the necessity of instructing all French officials in the Rhineland to maintain strict neutrality towards the Separatists.

BELGIUM SEEKS OWN INTERESTS

Does Not Blindly Follow France or Britain on Reparations.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 5.— Belgium's reparation policy is her own; it does not follow blindly either France or Great Britain, says a semi-official communique issued to-day through the Belgian Telegraphic Agency.

The present discussion shows, according to the communique, that Belgium has always followed a personal policy inspired by her own interests, and that she is not subservient to any one. This statement is "national in its essence, and also has the character of an entente cordiale with France and England. It is not correct to speak of any tension of relations between Belgium and France or of a change of front by the Belgian Government through abandonment of the French view in favor of the British. The Belgian Government continues to follow its own policy; wherever it is not exactly parallel to that of France or England it discusses the questions with its friends in London and Paris, with the intent and the hope of establishing an accord."

CANADIAN PRESS DENIES AUTHORSHIP.

Financial Circulars Mailed Into Canada Falsely Credited to That Association.

TORONTO, Nov. 6.—(Canadian Press)— J. F. B. Livesay, General Manager of the Canadian Press, has issued the following statement:

"Elaborate printed circulars are being mailed into Canada from New York, purporting to be based on financial articles published in Montreal daily newspapers. These circulars are labelled "By Canadian Press." The Canadian Press is the co-operative news gathering and distributing association of the daily newspapers of Canada, and of course has nothing to do in any way whatsoever with these circulars which is ascribing their authorship to Canadian Press are in that respect at least entirely false and misleading."

ALASKA WILL ENGAGE IN PAPER INDUSTRY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(Associated Press)—Deveopment of an important pulp and paper industry in southeastern Alaska is inevitable because of the water power, timber and transportation conditions there, in the opinion of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

"The rate of development of the pulp and paper industry of the territory," says Mr. Wallace, "will be controlled by the economic factor of distance from present consumption centers, and by the necessity, inherent in the industry itself, for large capital investments, rather than by physical disadvantages. The physical conditions in southeastern Alaska—presence of cheaply developed power, an enormous supply of inexpensive wood, and the availability of water transportation—are the very factors which make inevitable the expansion of pulp and paper manufacturing in the Territory."

EX-BANK TELLER ON TRIAL.

WINDSOR, November 6. — The trial of James A. Waldie, 23 years of age, former bank teller at Amherstburg, was begun at Sandwich on Saturday before Justice Orde and a jury.

Waldie is charged with receiving $6,000 that was stolen from a mail bag two years ago.

Frank Snyder, who was arrested at Everett, Wash., has confessed his part in the robbery from an Amherstburg interurban. He will be sentenced by Magistrate Gundy.

HOIST SIGNALS OF ELECTION IN GREAT BRITAIN

Churchill Invited By Section of Glasgow Liberals to Contest Bonar Law's Seat.

BIRKENHEAD HOME.

LONDON, Nov. 5. —(Canadian Press Cable)—A section of the Glasgow Liberals has telegraphed an invitation to Winston Churchill, former colonial secretary, to contest the late Bonar Law's seat. It s thought that Churchill is eager to return to the house of commons. A triangular contest for the vacant seat is anticipated. It is rumored that if Churchill is nominated by a section of the Liberals the Asquithian Liberals will put up another nominee.

The free traders of Lancashire have decided to invite Lloyd-George to address a great demonstration in free trade hall, Manchester, in December. This, following Winston Churchill's visit to Manchester on November 16, will rank as the beginning of the battle in the general election

Lord Birkenhead was interviewed on his arrival at Southampton on his return from Canada and the United States. He declined to make an statement relating to the political situation. He said to the press men: "I have been with gentle men of your fraternity for many weeks. I found them very enterprising and on the whole, extraordinarily reliable."

Lord Birkenhead smilingly assented to a request to pose for his photograph, observing "that is non-committal. He arrived at Glasgow tonight and to-morrow will deliver an address there.

OPEN MURDER BY KLAN AGENT

Ku Klux Publicity Man Shoots Faction Lawyer in His Office.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 5.— J. E. Fox, publicity man for the Ku Klux Klan ,late to-day shot and killed W. S. Coburn, Atlanta attorney and counsel for the faction fighting Imperial Wizard H .W. Evans and other officials of the order. Fox is held at police headquarters without bond under a charge of murder.

Mrs. W. A. Holbrook, stenographer for Coburn, said that Fox came to the office and wanted tto talk to Coburn about the Klan case in which Coburn is representing what is called the insurgent element. They talked for five minutes, according to Mrs. Holbrook, and Coburn asked Fox to come back in about an hour. Fox started out and got outside the door, then turned back and fired five shots at Coburn.

NEW SPECIES OF FOWL

MACON, Ga., Nov. 6.—(United Press).—A new species of fowl, a cross between a guinea-hen and a red turkey-gobbler, was displayed at the Georgia State Exposition here.

The queer bird is the property of M. S. Adams, a farmer living near Thomaston. The male has the color of the red gobbler and tail-feathers like a guinea and makes a noise that is a cross between the gurgles of each.

The general appearance of the new fowl is that of an over-grown chicken.

Severe 'Quake In California

CALEXICO, Calif., Nov. 5.— The most pronounced earthquake shock felt in recent years in the Imperial Valley was recorded to-day. The Virginia Hotel here, was shifted several inches on its foundations, and damage was done to other buildings.

WHITE HOUSE SILENT FOLLOWING VISIT OF FRENCH AMBASSADOR

Jules Jusserand, on His Arrival From Paris, Laid the French Government's Views on Reparations Before Secretary Hughes—Believe Issue Not Closed.

Hughes Saw Coolidge.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5. — Views of the French Government on reparations were laid before Secretary Hughes to-day by Ambassador Jusserand, just returned from Paris. Their talk in the Secretary's office lasted an hour and forty minutes. Whether it resulted in any change in the situation that has thus far prevented final agreement among the allied governments on the expert enquiry proposal was not disclosed. Neither Mr. Hughes nor the Ambassador would make any statement whatever with respect to their conversation.

Before Ambassador Jusserand sought his appointment with Secretary Hughes, information had reached the State Department that Great Britain, Italy and Belgium had reached an agreement on the form of the invitation to the United States to participate in the inquiry. As the situation then was understood by the Washington officials, it was said authoritatively, French insistence that the experts be limited to an enquiry into "the present capacity" of Germany to pay alone prevented final agreement. The hope was expressed by the government spokesman that France could be induced to join in a full inquiry, but no indication was given of the course the United States would pursue if the allied nations found it impossible to reach an agreement.

White House Silent.

To what extent the conference between Secretary Hughes and Ambassador Jusserand may have influenced the course of events, was the subject of wide speculation in the absence of any word of explanation from any source. Shortly after the conference, Mr. Hughes went to the White House and informed President Coolidge what had transpired in his talk with the ambassador. The White House also was silent as to developments in the situation.

It was difficult to determine the exact reason for the silence at this vital stage of the negotiations which are occupying chief attention at all the major capitals of the world. Ambassador Jusserand referred all inquiries to Secretary Hughes, while at the latter's office it was said that the secretary was not in a position to make any comment. In view of this an impression prevailed that neither side regarded the question at issue, that of the scope of the expert inquiry into German economic capacity as closed, official silence being necessary during further delicate negotiations.

Reason for Silence.

In emphasizing the United States viewpoint that the experts must be free to examine inpartially every fact and economic condition underlying Germany's capacity for industrial productivity, a government spokesman pointed out that reparations payments were not being received from Germany by the allies, nor was there any present or future prospect that they would be forthcoming.

In this connection it was added the United States government was under consideration, as disclosed recently by a White House spokesman, the probability that the United States people would be called upon to finance as a matter of charity efforts to prevent widespread starvation in Germany.

The "phonogram" messages will be delivered to local operators and transmitted by them to long distance stations.

ASHES OF LAW REST IN ABBEY

Handful of Dust That Was Former British Premier Borne in Splendour.

LONDON, Nov. 5. — Andrew Bonar Law rests amid Great Britain's honored dead in Westminster Abbey, the shrine of the nation. The ashes of the former prime minister, contained in a beautiful urn, were deposited to-day in the south bay of the great edifice in the presence of a distinguished company of nearly 3,000 persons, including members of the royal family, the Dominion Premiers, foreign diplomats, parliamentarians and representatives of the Army and Navy and the business and financial worlds.

The ceremony was of the simplest and briefest character. Stalwart soldiers carried the coffin containing the urn through the great west door to a catafalque before the sacrarium.

After the Dean had read a brief lesson and the choir and congregation had sung one of Mr. Bonar Law's favorite hymns, "The Strife is Over, the Battle Won," the coffin was again shouldered and taken to the graveside. Only the mourners followed, the rest of the congregation remaining in their places while the family gathered close to the grave for the solemn moment when the urn was lowered into its small resting place beneath the pavement. The congregation joined in singing Kipling's Recessional, after which the organ boomed Chopin's Funeral March ,and the clergy, pall-bearers, cabinet members, dominion premiers and others filed past the grave.

DEPUTY MINISTER GETS A SURPRISE.

Finds That the Province Moves Faster Than Royal Commission.

OTTAWA, November 6. — Canadian Press. — Surprise was expressed by E. L. Newcombe, the Deputy Minister of Justice, yesterday, at the action of British Columbia provincial authorities in prosecuting a constable and the special agents of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police upon dope charges without waiting for a royal commisston appointed by the federal government to institute a probe into the case.

The federal agents and the constable were arrested upon charges of trafficking in narcotic drugs, and Attorney General Mannon of British Columbia asked the Dominion government to appoint a royal commission to go thoroughly into the case, Mr. Newcombe explained. He felt that the ends of justice would have been served had the provincial authorities placed any information they had concerning the men before the Department of Justice.

"As far as we know," said the Deputy Minister, "the officers were all right. If they were breaking the law we would have been glad to know it."

The commission was delayed in getting under way by a demand on the part of British Columbia that the expenses of its counsel in the case be defrayed by the Federal Government, Mr. Newcombe said. Finally the Federal authorities conceded this point and the deputy minister was surprised at the decision of the provincial authorities to prosecute the three men before the investigation was carried out.

FIGURE OF LUDENDORF BEHIND MOVEMENT TO OVERTHROW REPUBLIC

Nationalist Menace on the Bavarian Border—Workers Pillage Houses When Bread Reaches Fabulous Prices --- Anti - Semitic Flare-Up.

No Political Debates.

BERLIN, November 5. — Estimates of the total strength of the irregular bands on the Bavarian-Thuringham frontier range from 5,000 to 10,000. The Nationalists are said to be under the supreme command of Captain Ehrhardt, whose "Iron Brigade" figured in the notorious Kapp Putsch.

The charge has also been made that General Ludendorf stands behind the whole movement, and that the aims sought for are overthrow of the Republic and the establishment of a Nationalist military dictatorship.

Debates Suspended.

Thinking it inopportune to allow political debates in the Reichstag at a time of such high tension, Chancellor Stresemann has requested the president of the House to postpone its next sitting indefinitely.

With the object of countering rumors that the Reichswehr cannot be relied upon to cope with the Nationalist movement, Defence Minister Gessler, who holds dictatorial powers under the state of emergency, has issued a decree forbidding public calumnies of the Reichswehr or circulation of reports calculated to prejudice the reputation of the Reichwehr organiaztion in the public mind.

Many houses suffered severely in outbreaks of plundering in outer parts of the capital to-day, the pillaging evidently arising from the workers' indignation over the tremendous price of bread, which was quoted at 150,000,000,000 marks a loaf —with none available at that price after the early morning sales. One Jew was surrounded by a crowd which ordered him to hand over all foreign money in his possession and on his refusal he was stripped from head to foot and all his money was taken.

Anti-Jewish Outbreak.

The neighborhood of the Bourse was the scene of an anti-Jewish demonstration, but the police there prevented serious excesses. The disorders continued for two hours before order was finally restored. The available reports show no fatalities.

In order to alleviate the bread situation the government has ordered concentration of the stocks of flour held in warehouses and its distribution among the bakers at a reasonable price. Negotiations are also proceeding between the bakers and the Food Ministry with the object of fixing a fair price for bread.

There is a modern tendency to think well-fed means well-bred.

"I Can Now Do My Work Without Feeling Tired"

Mrs. A. Moffatt, Roxton Falls, Que., writes:

"I suffered from a run-down system and nervous debility. I could not sleep or rest at night, and felt so weak I could not walk any distance. I took several tonics, but they only helped me while I was taking them. Mother advised me to take Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I felt great benefit from the first box, and continued taking several boxes. Today I feel like a new woman, and am able to do my work without that dreadful tired feeling."

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1923.

AFTER NOVEMBER 15TH, WHAT?

The appropriations for the Police Department will be exhausted by the middle of this month, and there will be no funds to pay the police after November 15th.

That is the situation at present, and nobody seems to know what will happen after the funds run out.

The Chief of Police says he is "sitting pat," which is indeed all he can do; the Council are following the same policy, and there has been no statement from the Police Commission.

But after the 15th, what?

Is Peterborough to do without a Police Department for the next month and a half, or are the police expected to work without pay until the New Year?

No answer on these points is forthcoming from anybody.

It is high time there was an answer of some kind, for the situation is a serious one and should give concern to thinking citizens.

There should be some steps taken to meet the crisis that is developing, for if there are no salaries after the 15th and the members of the Polire Department decline to work for nothing, as is quite likely, some sort of a volunteer police force will be needed to cope with the emergency.

At all events the matter should not be allowed to drift along until the last moment.

WELCOMING THE IMMIGRANTS.

The suggestion advanced by Hon. J. S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, in a recent speech that local reception committees should be formed in various centres throughout the Province to welcome immigrants and to assist them in getting located, strikes the Examiner as one that might well be followed.

These newcomers from across the Atlantic come to us as citizens who are going to help us develop this great country.

We should be glad to see them, and moreover we should show them that we are glad and assist during the trying period when they are shaking themselves down to the new and strange conditions amidst which they find themselves.

A welcome league that might well include a goodly representation of citizens who not very long ago were immigrants themselves, and therefore are in a position to realize the feeling of the newcomers and to sympathize with their problems, would be capable of very useful work.

Our immigration methods usually fall down at this stage.

The efforts of those responsible for inducing immigrants to come to Canada stop at that point.

They are satisfied to get them here and are apparently quite willing to let them shift for themselves afterwards.

A committee such as advocated by Ontario's Minister of Agriculture would go a long way towards making up for the failure of the immigration authorities.

KEEPING LATE HOURS.

A Belleville school principal has issued a warning to parents that many children are being allowed to remain up too late at night, and are therefore not in fit condition next morning to do good work, their education suffering as a result.

It is to be feared that this phenomenon is not peculiar to Belleville; here in Peterborough, for example, children are being given similar latitude and are taking full advantage of the license granted by over-indulgent parents.

The effect of such a policy is shown by Dr. Hastings, Medical Officer of Health for Toronto, who declares, after a full investigation, that seventy per cent. of the children who fail in their school examinations are youngsters who go to school without breakfast, and of that number ninety per cent. are allowed to remain up so late at night that they are often unable to arise in time to eat breakfast before going to school.

Peterborough parents can use their own judgment as to whether that indictment will apply here.

At the same time this tendency towards late hours is not confined to school children.

It involves most of our young people, and not a few of the old ones.

Our social functions commence at a foolishly late hour and are prolonged unnecessarily, keeping young people at dances long hours after they should be in bed, with the result that their business efficiency in the morning cannot possibly function completely.

And now comes the radio with its midnight revues and its alluring dance music coming out of the air long after the witching hour to keep even the stay-at-homes out of the arms of Morpheus.

The old "Early to bed" proverb seems to be a dead language in this year of grace.

RIVERSIDE PARK.

While the application of the Peterborough Baseball Club for a renewal of their lease of Riverside Park for 1924 may not be dealt with by this year's Council, it would seem good business on the part of the Council to at least proceed with the improvement to the baseball diamond suggested by the ball club.

This work, which is very necessary if the infield is to be put into proper condition, must be done this autumn to be of much use.

The danger of the ground being flooded in the spring as it was this year makes it a risky matter to delay the ploughing up of the diamond and its reconstruction with loam until that time.

It is a foregone conclusion that no matter to whom Riverside Park is leased next season that baseball will be the principal game played there, and in view of the fact that Peterborough ball teams won four Provincial championships this year and that the sport itself had the most successful season on record here the Council should have no hesitation in authorizing the carrying out of this work.

It may be a surprise to all except the players themselves and those connected with the management of the teams to know that the infield a Riverside Park, once considered the best in the district, has been allowed to deteriorate until at present it is one of the worst playing fields in the East, being so uneven and rough that infielders are handicapped considerably.

Members of the Council should satisfy themselves of the conditions by a personal inspection, and then endeavour to have the grounds improved before next season.

The various ball clubs of the city have earned the right to better playing facilities.

BRITAIN'S DIFFICULT INDUSTRIAL PLIGHT.

The anxiety of the British Government to promote schemes of overseas settlement can be properly attributed to the present unemployment situation which makes almost a million and a half workers dependent on the state dole and exposed to its demoralizing effects. But behind it is a deeper fear that the existing unemployment may not be a transitory phenomenon bu that Britain through the destruction of the old econocic order on which her prosperity was based may have reached the limit of her ability to maintain an expanding population at an improving standard of life. Mr. J. M. Keynes in his "Economic Consequences of the Peace" argued that even before the war the balance in Europe between population and the means of life was very precarious, and that once the economic foundations on which that delicate balance rested were shattered it might be impossible to restore them and in later writings he has expanded this view with particular reference to Britain.

At the recent meeting of the British Association at Liverpool his Malthusian views were sharply challenged by Sir William Beveridge, a distinguished civil servant who was a Liberal candidate at the last election. Sir William contended that the bogey of over-population in Britain was sheer nonsense, and that if proper policies, economic and political, were pursued Britain could maintain in comfort a much larger population than she now possessed; incidentally he assailed the two schools of thought who advocate birth-control and emigration as remedies for the peril which they foresee. Mr. Keynes, however, is a determned controversialist and he has joined battle with Sir William Beveridge on the subject, and confronted him with some disturbing figures which are worth examining. Omitting Ireland from the calculation the population of Great Britain was in 1851 21,000,000; in 1901, 37,000,000 and in 1921, 43,000,000. It is a significant fact despite emigration from the one and immigration to the other in the last 70 years the gross increase of Britain's white population has been double that of all her Dominions. But the British population which is growing old is the remnant of a population not much more than half the size of the population which is growing up; moreover the expectation of the average life has been lengthened at least ten years in the last half century. From these facts several conclusions follow:

1. Although there has been a steady fall in the birth rate, yet the fall in the death rate has been steeper, and today the absolute number of daily births in Britain is double the daily number of deaths.

2. The fact that the average age of the population is much less than it would be in a stationary population like France's implies that the proportion of old people whom the community will in due course have to support will steadily increase and become an increasing burden upon the national purse.

3. The supply of labor will increase each year regardless of the present birth rate because the number of boys now growing to working age will vastly surpass each year the number of old men dying or giving up work. Today the male population of Britain between the ages of 20 and 65 is betwen 14 and 15 millions. Yet in the next 20 years the boys entering these age limits will exceed by at least four millions the number of old men passing out.

What, according to Mr. Keynes, Britain is confronted with within this short period is the problem of finding employment, equipment and houses for at least 25 per cent. more working families than at present exist in Britain and at the same time of supporting a larger proportion of old people, and even if the birth rate continues to fall as big a number of children. Yet at the same time very few of the staple industries of Britain are operating above their pre-war level; some of them, like shipbuilding, are seriously below it. All of them would be glad to regain their former level of activity. Again the competition of the United States, Japan, and other countries in the export markets is much keener and the United States with their vast financial strength can afford to pay higher prices for certain essential raw materials. This combination of circumstances makes it improbable that there can be any expansion of British industry sufficient to provide for more than a meagre fraction of the additional population which is already in sight.

Is it any wonder that faced with this difficult prospect the British people and their Government are desperately anxious to promote emigration schemes and are prepared to back them with generous funds? Not that emigration of the young on a large scale is regarded with any enthusiasm, for it is a ruinous expedient for an old country. The cost of rearing a child to working age is a heavy charge for which there will be no return of productivity if it emigrates.—Ottawa Journal.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, November 6. — Last week's carry-over at Union Stock Yards resulted as about expected, and there were only 432 stall cattle on hand for yesterday.

Receipts yesterday morning showed another full supply with 6,344 cattle, 627 calves, 2,271 hogs, and 4,416 sheep and lambs. The cattle were about an average of the past few weeks and not much more than 10 per cent. would class as good to choice. There was again a fair proportion of heavy export steers, and the buyers started taking these at steady prices.

The first stuff over the scales was a supply of canner cows which sold at 1 1-4 to 1 3-4 cents a pound. Common butchers' cows followed at $2.65 to $3.00 a cwt. The U.F.O. sold two good loads of export steers at 6 1-2 and 7 cents a pound. The latter load was a well finished bunch of dehorned blacks. During the morning the exporters took over 300 steers from 6 1-2 to 7 cents.

Packers were indifferent buyers, and trade was slow. Joe Wilson said the class of offerings was unusually poor and not in the saleable class. Choise handyweight butchers were in inquiry and 6 1-2 to 6 3-4 cents would be paid for these, but they were scarce. Stockers held about steady. A load of fairly even 800-pound steers sold at $4.00 a cwt., and a bunch of heifers about the same weight brought 3 3-4 cents.

An exceptional sale of a baby beef was made yesterday morning at 15 cents a pound. This was shipped by W. A. McKenzie, of Mitchell, and taken by Puddy Bros. Frank Hunnisett paid the top for medium-weight butchers. Two were bought at 7 1-4 cents a pound and two loads averaging 1,250 pounds, cast $7.00 a cwt. This buyer took 100 head in all, and some of the handyweight were bought at $5.85.

The market was steady to firmer for good to choice butchers, but draggy and a shade easier for common butchers. Fat cows were not too firm. Several medium milchers and springers sold at $60.00 and $65.00 each. The average quality of the heavy steers was not as good as last week. A heavy carry-over of unfinished butchers is the prospect for to-day.

Trade was slow in starting in the sheep pens. Sellers held top lambs at 12 cents, but buyers wanted an 11-cent market. The first sale made was a deck of heavy lambs 100 to 110 pounds each. These brought 11 cents a pound. Towards noon better lambs made 11 1-2 cents, and this appeared to be a settling point for the day.

Sheep held about steady.

Good calves were a ready sale in inches at 11 cents, and extra good ones were half a cent better. Heavy calves are the hard ones to sell, and the best of these do not reach 7 cents.

Some buyers of hogs say the market is more complex than in years. Packers are operating in the country and buyers are busy trying to keep track of the prices paid. The over-the-week price sent out by the local packers was $8.25 a cwt. f.o.b., and this price was quoted yesterday morning.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, November 6 (Canadian Press). — Wheat underwent a sharp decline in price yesterday owing largely to the fact that a report to President Coolidge from the officials of the War Finance Corporation omitted to recommend increasing the wheat tariff or to advocate any other immediate help toward raising values.

The market closed nervous, 3-4c to 1 5-8c to 1 3-4c net lower, with December $1.06 1-8 to $1.06 1-8 to 1-4 and May $1.11 1-8 to $1.11 1-8 to 1-4.

Corn finished unchanged to 1-4c to 3-8c higher; oats at a shade down to 1-8c to 1-4c up; and provisions varying from 2c off to 5c to 7c gain.

Wheat started downward in price as soon as trading began, and although some slight rallies were witnessed, the close was at the day's bottom figures. In addition to selling out on the part of holders who had been realising on expected Government aid, the bull side of the market was handicapped by Washington advices that Russian agriculture was recovering. Uncertainty over the outlook for the proposed German reparations conference was also a bearish factor, despite news that Belgium and Italy were no longer siding with the unyielding stand taken by France.

Announcement that the United States visible supply of wheat showed nearly 1,500,000 bushels increase as compared with last Monday, was more or less responsible for the further decline of wheat prices near the end of the day. It was pointed out that the present visible supply total is more than double that of a year ago. Bears made much also of reports that about 100 cars of Canadian wheat, duty paid, had been received in Minneapolis over the week-end.

Buying on the part of houses with Eastern connections gave strength to corn, notwithstanding a forecast of favourable weather.

Oats followed corn.

Provisions averaged higher in response to moderate buying of lard.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, November 6 (Canadian Press).—Cattle, receipts 28,000; market unevenly lower in spots on plain weighty steers; top, $11.65; lower grade native cows slow; bulls generally steady; vealers 25c lower; bulk vealers around $9.50 to the packers.

Hogs, receipts 56,000; slow; steady to 10c lower; bulk good and choice 200 to 325 pound butchers, $7.15 to $7.50; top, $7.50.

Sheep, receipts 24,000; fat lambs and yearlings 25c to 50c lower; steep steady to strong; feeding lambs strong to 15c higher; most fat lambs $12.50 to $12.75; top, $12.85; good to choice fat yearling wethers around 82 pounds, $10.50; good aged wethers, $8.25; bulk fat ewes, $5.00 to $6.25; top feeding lambs, $13.00.

William Richmond played square with his son —

W. T. Richmond, a widower, died practically penniless the year before his son was to enter college. It seemed like a veritable tragedy; for Fred Richmond, the son, was an exceptionally brilliant student and a great future seemed ahead of him. His friends were all pitying him. But the pity was misplaced—for William Richmond had played square by his boy.

The North American Life man called with a cheque for $7,000 "payable to Fred Richmond."

"What is this?" Fred asked.

"Your father took out a Child's Endowment policy when you were two years old.

This policy guaranteed the payment of $7,000 to you when you were seventeen, even if your father died before this time."

You may be surprised, as others have been, at the protection afforded all concerned in this policy. Send for our booklet "The Child's Endowment Policy."

FOR 15 YEARS WAS TROUBLED WITH ECZEMA

There is no other remedy like Burdock Blood Bitters that can possibly give such relief to all sufferers from eczema, salt rheum and all other diseases of the blood for the reason that this old and well tried remedy goes right to the seat of the trouble and completely and permanently drives these diseases out of the system by cleansing the blood and making it pure and rich.

Mr. F. W. H. Schultz, Pembroke, Ont., writes: "Having been troubled with eczema for fifteen years, during which time I tried everything I could think of, including doctors, but without getting anything to do me much good I finally decided to take Burdock Blood Bitters, and I was certainly surprised to find that two weeks after I had started to take it I was relieved of my trouble. That was nine months ago, and I have not had a sign of it since. I surely wish to thank you for this wonderful medicine and strongly recommend it to anyone suffering from the same trouble as I had."

BULGARS MUST MAKE APOLOGY

Jugo-Slav Note Modeled After Italy's Humiliation of Greece—Attache Was Attacked.

BELGRADE, Nov. 6. —Jugo-Slavia, in a note presented at Sofia yesterday morning, gave Bulgaria 48 hours in which to fulfill three demands for reparation in consequence of the attack on the Jugo-Slav Military Attache in Sofia by three armed men last Friday.

The conditions are:

First, the Bulgarian Government must present its excuses and regrets to the Jugo-Slav representative in Sofia; second, the Bulgarian Minister of War must present his personal regrets to the Jugo-Slav Minister, and third, a detachment of 250 Bulgarian soldiers with a flag must render homage before the Jugo-Slav Legation.

Two additioanl demands are for an energetic investigation to find and punish those guilty of the attack, and for an indemnity to be determined by the International Court at The Hague.

The note states that the attack is regarded as a political crime.

ASQUITH TALKS ON PROTECTION

Tariff Would Not Help Depressed Trades Like Shipbuilding and Cotton

LONDON, Nov. 6.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Former Premier H. H. Asquith leader of the Independent liberals, speaking at Dewsbury last night attacked the ' government's protection policy and twitted Premier Baldwin and Lord Derby, secretary for war with being "open minders."

"It looked as if the country," continued Mr. Asquith "was about to witness the evolution of a new type which, if he might borrow a term from the woollen industry, one might call without offence the crossbred free trader."

So far as he could gather the new policy had two avowed objects, namely, to fight unemployment and to develop and cement the unity of the Empire.

Mr. Asquith proceeded to deal with the first of these proposals reserving the second for a second speech asserting only that an imperial preference which did not extend either to food or raw materials was nothing but a hollow sham.

The former premier quoted figures to show that unemployment could be helped by the new tariff and the most depressed trades like shipbuilding, engineering, cotton and transportation would be unaffected by a tariff.

In further enumication of the liberal policy Mr. Asquith said the liberals believed their proposals for joint control of industrial undertakings and the sharing of surplus profits world bring about an equitable distribution of the product of industry. They believed that the taxes, both direct and indirect, falling on people with small incomes could be reduced. The willing worker, he said, must have security of livelihood throughout his working life.

An occasional dose of DR. CALDWELL'S LAXATIVE SYRUP PEPSIN Keeps young girls fit

False Modesty Wrecks Health

THE young lady just assuming the responsibilities of a woman is very apt to be self-conscious of her physical functions, and in consequence neglect them. There is no time, however, when it is more important for her to look after them. Chief among her troubles is constipation, and her suffering will be serious when she gets older if she does not regulate her bowels now. Mrs. J. Charbonneau, 3410 Adam, Montreal, recommends Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin to all her friends, and Mrs. Henry Joyce, Croton, Ont. says it is the best remedy for constipation she ever used.

Safe for Young and Old

Let mothers with growing daughters interest themselves in this matter and see that their judgment is enforced. A rule followed by many is to take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin once a week until the bowels function daily, and at such other times as there is headache, biliousness, sores and fever blisters, lack of energy and appetite, sleeplessness, indigestion.

A dose can be given in these conditions to any member of the family however young or old as Laxative Syrup Pepsin is a simple compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and pleasing aromatics, and perfectly safe.

Public Recognizes Merit

You will quickly see the difference between a mild laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin and castor oil, or rough cathartics and physics. Syrup Pepsin acts gently and does not gripe. Increased doses are not necessary. A bottle can be had at any drug store, and a spoonful costs less than a cent. It has been successfully used for thirty years and is the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, over 10 million bottles having been sold in drug stores last year. Keep Laxative Syrup Pepsin in your medicine chest.

LAPOINTE SAYS U.S. WILL ENTER

Minister of Marine Advocates League of Nations in Winnipeg Speech.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 6.—The entry of the United States into the League of Nations is only a question of time, declared Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Marine and Fisheries in an address before the Canadian Club here yesterday in which he pointed out the good so far accomplished by the league.

"Those who read," he said, "may see that the public opinion in the United States is going that way All the strongest men in that country are in favor of membership in the league—the women's organizations the American Federation of Labor, the United Boards of Trade all in agricultural associations; all these bodies have declared in favor of an international association to promote the peace of the world."

Declaring that the league is not designed to promote "entangling alliances," but is an association of all peoples against war, Mr. Lapointe said the nations would make the league effective in its work when they gave it universal backing.

CHURCHES HELP IN NATION BUILDING

Rev. Dr. Gandier Indicates Wider Sphere in International Affairs.

REGINA, November 6. — Need for the erection of a brotherhood of mankind that would end nationalism, racialism and denominationalism was urged by Rev. Dr. Alfred Gandier, Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, and Principal of Knox College, Toronto, in addressing a joint meeting of the Canadian and Rotary Clubs yesterday.

Announcing his subject as the "Need of Getting Together," Dr. Gandier declared that he would devote his remarks to the wider sphere of international affairs, and the part that rests with the churches of the world to assist in moulding the future destinies of international affairs.

Dr. George Pidgeon, Toronto, addressed the meeting preceding Dr. Gandier's speech. He dealt with "Service," with special regard to community spirit.

In his introductory remarks, Dr. Gandier asserted that the church had already done much toward assisting the Dominion toward the status of nationhood, and pleaded for assistance toward further progress by recognizing the rights of the other fellow.

ARBITRATE AFTER RESUMING WORK

Hon. James Murdock Fixes Basis of Government Intervention in Strike.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 6. — Return to work, and the department will act, is the substance of conditions which Hon. James Murdock, Minister of Labor, has laid down as the basis upon which the government will establish a board of conciliation looking to a settlement of the longshoremen's strike. The strikers have replied expressing willingness to accede to the conditions providing the situation can be restored as before the strike. Up to the present time the shipping federation has refused to deal with the International Longshoremen's Union.

C. N. R. EARNINGS SHOW INCREASE FOR WEEK.

MONTREAL, Nov. 6. — The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways for the week ending Oct. 31, 1923, were $8,967,537, being an increase of $1,138,223, or 15 per cent. as compared with the corresponding week of 1922.

PASTOR'S MESSAGE WAS HELPFUL ONE.

Rev. S. T. Tucker Delivers Inspiring Sermon at Millbrook.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 6.—The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed in the Methodist church on Sunday morning, Rev. J. Wilks assisting the pastor, Rev. S. T. Tucker, with the service throughout. The attendance was somewhat smaller than is usual at a quarterly occasion, though the altar was filled four times with communicants, and the spirit of reverance and worship was deeply significant promising a prayerful interest and consecration on the part of the church members for the series of special services which are to begin next week. Rev. H. Arthur Barton, of Ottawa, is the evangelist who will have charge of the meetings which are under the joint auspices of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches, and will continue for two weeks.

The pastor's message, on Sunday morning, from Jeremiah 31:31, "Behold the days come, saith the Lord, that I will make a new convenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah", which dealt especially with the "new covenant," brought helpful inspiration to his hearers, and laid emphasis upon the promise of Christ, "I am the Bread of Life; he hath that cometh to Me shall never hunger; and he that believeth in Me shall never thirst." The new convenant is a spiritual one and has to do with the personal experience of the individual soul, not alone with the nation as a whole. God's laws is to be written, not on tables of stone, but in the human heart, and the convenant sees its comsummation in the words of Joel: "I will pour our My Spirit upon all flesh."

The Suffering Servants.

Preceding this outpouring, there was its fulfillment in the personality and redeeming work of Christ, who came as the Suffering Servant, and sealed the convenant with His blood. Just as Israel of old, by repentance, faith and obedience restored to her place in God's favor, so by the same pathway we today know that "old things are passed away and all things have become new," and by spiritual affinity become children of Abraham. In the sacramental service we commemorate our faith in our Saviour, and renew our allegiance to Him. Herein lies the very heart of the Christian's hope, the salvation which is the free gift of God and the evidence of His grace and love, bringing to His children peace and joy amid all the contingencies of life.

EUROPEAN ALLIES HAVE ALIGNMENT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.— State Department advices to-day indicated that Great Britain, Italy and Belgium have reached an accord favoring free and full reparations inquiry by an expert committee.

This development, indicating an entirely new alignment of European allies over reparations question appeared to stimulate a hope here that eventually French, too, would accept an unrestricted inquiry rather than risk dipolmatic isolation. Heretofore both Belgium and Italy have followed the French lead in most of the questions affecting reaparations.

Administration spokesmen declined to-day to indicate the probable attitude of Washington Government in case the French Government maintains its position.

A real whole wheat toast

Perhaps you have given up trying to get a real whole wheat toast—that's because you have never discovered TRISCUIT, the shredded whole wheat cracker. It is 100 per cent whole wheat, steam-cooked, shredded, pressed into a wafer and baked a crisp, golden brown. It is easily digested because so thoroughly cooked, and it contains all the bran you need to promote bowel movement. It is eaten in place of ordinary white bread toast. Crisp it in the oven and butter it while it is hot. Nothing so tasty and appetizing.

THE AMAZING REVELATIONS OF A LONDON TAXI-CAB DRIVER

TEN YEARS IN THE LONDON UNDERWORLD

Crooks' Chariots

The third instalment of this Series reveals the wiles of the taxi-driver who is not above assisting the criminal—the black sheep among drivers, rare indeed, but capable of helping the crook. Memories of the infamous "Bludger Bill" will be found of intense interest.

I have dealt, in a previous article, with some of the ways in which taxis are used in crime. In pursuing this subject I should like to state, at the outset, that what I have to say in no way reflects upon the honest London taxi-driver. He is an upright, keen and dependable fellow, and any fare who tempted him to dishonesty would never repeat the experiment.

The "Straight-up" Taxi

The 'vagrant' driver, to whom I shall refer, is usually the owner of the car which he drives about the streets, and very often he does not lawfully seek fares at all. In the Mason trail such a vehicle was called a "straight-up" taxi.

The driver may be in the pay of several masters. For one thing, he may be working for a 'dope' trader and if so he will have varied asks. Dope salesmen may be posted at more than a score of prominent spots in London and he may have to be at their beck and call in case of emergency, such as when one of these salesmen who tout their wares is in danger of arrest. The 'vagrant' driver will know exactly where to take him, and he will whisk his 'fare' into safety as fast as he can.

Then again, there are 'vagrant' drivers who place themselves and their cars at the disposal of the 'gentleman crook.' Their fare may be visiting a jewellery establishment with the intention of stealing valuables there, and then making a quick 'get-away' or he may be visiting other kinds of shops for the same purpose. The 'vagrant' driver will wait outside for him, and, the moment his fare reappears, off he will go, as fast as he can.

There are taxi burglars who 'work the game' on their own with great profit to themselves. Perhaps, while driving his cab for public hire, he may learn that a certain house is unoccupied, its owners being on a holiday. For a few days he will keep an eye on the house in question, learning, among other things, the times at night when policemen pass it.

When all his plans are laid he will drive up to the house at a late hour, pull up before the door, walk up to the door when he sees that he is not likely to be disturbed for some minutes, and effect an entrance.

A few minutes, or perhaps half-an-hour later he will emerge, with a travelling case or anything of that character he can find. Often he will take a case with him. When he comes out, starts his cab and drives off, he has more often been quite free from suspicion.

A stationary cab before a house is not an unusual sight. Neither would a passer-by think it extraordinary if the driver came out with a travelling case, put it in the cab and drove off.

He has enjoyed tremendous advantages. He has worked quite openly, and there has been no danger loitering necessary. And more often than not he will drive straight to a 'fence' and dispose of the goods stolen immediately.

Sometimes he will work with an expert cracksman, driving the burglar to the house, waiting for him outside and then—after helping him to remove the swag in unsuspicious travelling cases,—will drive him away.

Reflect what an unsuspicious series of events these are. What more ordinary than a waiting cab, an open door, a driver assisting a well-dressed gentleman (supposedly the occupant of the house) to carry his 'luggage' to the cab, the closing of the door and the driving away?

And what an excellent advantage the driver has, as he waits in his cab to act as guard and warning for the man inside the house.

If most people were told how often these methods has been practiced, and news would cause them an unpleasant shock.

One more 'trick' of the 'vagrant' driver may, perhaps, be mentioned here. He will sometimes use a set of false number-plates on his cab and ply for hire among passengers alighting at the chief London terminal. He will pick up a fare, say, for Bayswater, and if that fare has an abundance of luggage, the driver is better pleased.

He makes for the address which his fare gives him but, when very near to the destination, his cab suddenly comes to a halt. There is something wrong....h with the engine.

He offers profuse apologies, but the fare does not care to wait in a cab for any length of time within a score of yards of his own doorstep, so he tells the driver to hurry up and bring on the luggage when he has fixed the engine.

It is because the genuine taxi-driver is an honest man that everyone trusts him and trusts him implicitly.

Trading on this, the 'vagrant' driver left alone with his cab, waits until his fare has gone into his house and then, hastily springing to the wheel, he drives down a side-turning and off. Some distance away he will remove the false number plates, substitute the correct ones and remove any facial disguise he has been wearing. One cab is so much like another that he would not hesitate to take another fare in the same district as he had just 'worked' in almost immediately afterwards.

False Numbers

The 'vagrant' driver is very subtle. It is so easy to disguise a cab. The art of disguise in this direction is to give a cab little distinguishing marks which can be easily removed and which the ordinary person will remember it by. Then, by wearing a false moustache, a different coat and cap he completes the alternative picture that decludes his fare absolutely. When a search is made for a bearded driver of a blue cab, number XYZ (for argument) and with a set of white curtains on the cushions inside, no such cab is found. Of course, no one thinks of questioning the driver (clean shaven) of a blue cab of which there are hundreds in London) number RQP without curtains on the upholstering.

Sometimes the 'vagrant' driver uses a false set of numbers which are really those attached to the cab of a genuine taxi-driver. When the latter is questioned and cannot prove he was elsewhere at the time when the driver of a car bearing his number committed a theft of some sort, he is likely to suffer great trouble as a result.

I once remember a constable coming up to me and saying that the driver of a cab, of the same color as mine, and bearing my numbers worked the "luggage trick' on a fare living at Baker-street. I was asked to explain my movements at a certain hour that morning. Now for two hours that morning I had been driving through main thoroughfares and no one had hired me during that time either. It took me days to find someone who had seen me during those two hours—and that someone I stumbled on quite by chance.

'If a taxi-driver wants to be unseen, the best thing he can do is to keep in the main roads and the crowds of traffic and pedestrians, because here he will be least noticed. That fact is remarkable, but perfectly true.

Some years ago there masqueraded in London a man who was known to taxi-drivers as 'Bludger Bill' and of whom one dared only speak in a whisper. His name has recently sprung into prominence in Paris, where he has just been sentenced for fraud.

I do not think there has been any one like him before or since. On the outbreak of war his activities ceased, and it was thought that 'Bludger Bill' made amends for his misdeeds on the fields of France; but after the armistice he became more daring.

'Bludger Bill' was a burly, devil-may-care fellow, as his nick-name suggests. He owned a cab which he plied for hire on the streets of the great city and during the earlier part of his startling career, the police were searching for him in vain.

The Great Crook

He was the greatest crook of his type that ever lived, and I cannot speak of him without experiencing a thrill of admiration for his superb nerve and cunning.

I never saw Bill in the flesh, but one or two of my colleagues did, and they are not likely to forget it. He was utterly callous.

His cab—and I believe he had only one—was a perfect maze of mechanism. He had various coverings for it—blue, red, dark green, black and purple.

When the windows were closed a fare was inside and Bill was at the wheel, that fare was entirely at his mercy. His disguises were manifold and he was a master at 'make-up.'

A favorite method of his—if it may be called by such a name—was to have one of his henchmen dress up in the latest fashion, shadow a wealthy victim and eventually, in a not too-crowded thoroughfare, get in front and pretend to accidentally drop a wallet from his pocket.

The wealthy victim would see it on the ground, hurry forward and offer it to the man in front. The owner of the wallet would proffer profuse thanks and get into conversation with the victim. If possible, he would suggest—as soon as their conversation had gone on long enough—that they were going the same way and that, as he was about to hail a taxi, his companion might share it.

A little later the victim would be unconscious, after the accomplice has hastily leaned over and pressed a wad of cottonwool soaked with chloroform to his mouth and nose, springing on to his victim and securing him as he did so.

He would be searched, and his money and valuables stolen. Bill would drive to their victim's house, knock and say that he had found him unconscious in the roadway and had learned his address from a card in his pocket.

The servant at the house would take in his master, summon a doctor—Bill would volunteer to drive off for one immediately—and that would be the last either he or his master saw of 'Bludger Bill.' No doctor could be summoned, but the victim would soon recover consciousness. By that time it would be impossible to trace the cab, for Bill would be sure to have had both his cab and himself disguised, and false number-plate attached.

Sometimes the wallet would be dropped by an accomplice who was about to get into Bill's cab, and then the suggestion of sharing a taxi would be more natural. Often the 'loser' of the wallet would suggest having a drink, if the victim seemed that type of affable person, and then Bill would be ready to take them to their 'near-by destinations' afterwards.

Some wealthy people are so credulous and easily deceived that such tricks as these are quite simple to work, when a crook has an iron nerve and knows his job thoroughly.

Bill often used a female accomplice for these tricks of his. Her name was 'Silk Jane' and she was a very beautiful and fascinating person, I believe. She would drop her purse, appear very grateful to the victim who returned it to her and then use all her feminine charms to lure her victim into Bill's clutches.

Sometimes she would, at night, approach a victim and say that she was being followed, was frightened, and would he kindly see her home in a taxi.

She would be followed up to that point, and when the victim looked round he would catch sight of an elusive figure some distance behind who would disappear immediately the victim sought to apprehend him.

Bill had another accomplice, and this man—who moved about in society as 'Lord Raglan'—was useful in bringing wealthy members of the idle-rich into his web. 'Lord Raglan,' too, supplied much valuable information about intended victims, and I shall refer to him later on in these articles.

German Movies Gone To Pot

(By GUS M. OEHM)

BERLIN (By Mail to United Press)—Germany's movie industry—once the producer of the world's greatest historic screen dramas—to day has gone to pot.

Much less film production is being recorded this year than last. In 1922 the production was 65 per cent. less than 1921. This has reduced the number of companies turning reels of celluloid into circulation. In fact, in 1921 Germany had 555 firms in this industry, while in 1922 only 302 had survived, while this year one after another has closed its doors or consolidated with other wavering organizations.

Germany's film world is pessimistic about the outlook. The high cost of producing pictures in Germany has brought the final price far beyond the world level, and in most cases beyond the ability of German movie houses to pay.

Meantime, the market is being flooded with scores of old worn-out American films, which cost little or nothing and which draw as big houses as the expensive German pictures.

A few modern features have been shipped from America and these play to standing room only every night. They aren't exactly new, but are better than the old one-reel comedies made before the war—before Jackie Coogan or Baby Peggy saw the light of day, to say nothing of the calcium lights of Hollywood.

SAVING FENCE POSTS

Ontario Puts In Twenty Million Fence Posts Yearly

White Cedar Posts Will Soon Be Unobtainable—Coal Tar Creosote the Best Wood Preservative—Directions for Application—Cottage Cheese Easy to Make.

Every year the decay of fence posts on Ontario farms requires a replacement of not less than twenty million posts. This repair bill of five million dollars each year could be very greatly reduced through the use of wood preservatives. A white cedar post costing twenty-five cents may last fifteen years in the natural condition, but treated with creosote it will last thirty years. It should be good business to treat all posts, saving money, posts and labor.

White Cedar Posts Soon Unobtainable

White cedar posts will soon be unobtainable. Other woods can be used; woods with a reputation for early decay, but which can be made very efficient by the creosote treatment. For instance, soft maple or willow posts will last but four years in the natural condition; treat them with creosote and such will be serviceable for twenty years. It costs about twenty cents per post for creosote treatment. If the post will last double or five times as long through being creosoted, surely the twenty cent investment is a profitable one.

Decay Caused by Fungi and Bacteria

Decay or rot in fence posts is caused by fungi and bacteria. Wood tissue being largely cellulose is a good food for bacteria and fungi, and the moist, away from light, condition just beneath the surface of the soil is also suitable to their development. Hence we see the posts rotting off just below the surface of the soil in which such are set. When a post is soaked with creosote it becomes a poison medium to the fungi and bacteria that may attack it; and their growth is greatly retarded. Coal tar creosote is the most satisfactory preservative that we can use on the farms. The posts to be treated must be thoroughly seasoned and dry to absorb sufficient creosote. The practice of spraying or brushing on hot creosote is not a very profitable one, as the wood does not absorb enough of the preservative to be of much use.

How to Get Best Results

To get good results, an open tank with fire place beneath, or other heating arrangement, should be set up. The coal tar creosote is heated in the open tank, and then the posts are immersed long enough to permit a good soaking with the hot oil. A large oil drum with one end removed and set over a fireplace makes a cheap and efficient tank, if nothing larger is at hand on the farm. The following points should be kept in mind by the man doing the work:

(1) Have the posts clean, dry and free from bark.

(2) Heat the creosote to 180° F., and maintain for 2 to 6 hours, according to condition of posts.

(3) Immerse the posts in the creosote deep enough to give a treatment that will extend six inches above the ground line after posts are set in fence row.

(4) Leave the posts in the hot oil long enough to permit them to cool after the fire has been drawn.

(5) Add more creosote to the tank to take the place of that absorbed.

(6) Use small posts; 4½ inches in diameter and round are to be preferred.

(7) Do not let the temperature go above 200° F.—L. Stevenson, O.A.C., Guelph.

SUDDEN DEATH OF THOS. HARD

Respected Farmer of Cavan Township—Lived 55 Years at Zion.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 6.—The death of Thomas Hard last Wednesday evening removes one of the most highly respected residents of Cavan township. Deceased was the second son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Hard, and was one of a family of four boys, of whom the remaining three, Richard in the West, Charles and Frederick living on the Zion Line, survive their brother.

The late Mr. Hard was born at Zion, Cavan township, and his entire life was spent in the immediate vicinity of the family homestead, his death occurring in his fifty-fifth year. Mr. Hard's father, who predeceased his son by more than forty years, was a devoted worker in the Zion Methodist church, and deceased followed in his father's footsteps to a considerable degree, having been superintendent of the Sunday School for several years, faithful in the discharge of his duties and by his zeal and energy keeping the School in active existence as long as health permitted.

A severe attack of 'flu last winter left behind a form of heart trouble from which he never fully recovered and which finally resulted fatally. Deceased had been about his usual occupations on his farm on Wednesday, but complained of being indisposed shortly after coming in from the field at tea-time, and his brother summoned medical aid, though no alarming symptoms were in evidence. However, within an hour after the doctor's visit the end had come with startling suddenness.

The late Mr. Hard was highly esteemed by all who formed his acquaintance as a man of upright Christain character, the fact that his home church was filled to capacity for the funeral services on Sunday afternoon being evidence of the genuine affection and respect with which friends and neighbors regarded him. St. Ives' Sons of England Lodge, No. 243, held their impressive service at the graveside, Brothers Henry Hubbeard, W.P., and F. N. Alcorn, chaplain, officiating, and from their membership the pall-bearers were chosen including Brothers W. Brown, H. Hubbeard, W. Mullen, W. Hilton, N. Lamb and T. Robinson.

Rev. S. T. Tucker held a brief service at the house, and the Lodge brethren draped the casket with the Union Jack, and also laid upon it in loving memory the four crimson roses with their ritual prescribes as emblematic of the Order, before the remains of the departed brother were conveyed to the church for the public service. The hymns chosen, "Nearer My God to Thee," 'Jesus, Lover of my Soul,' and 'Forever with the Lord," were favorites of the deceased and were selected on that account. Mr. Tucker spoke from the text found in Numbers 23:10, "Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his," developing his subject under three heads, (a) the end of the Christian life is one of victory and conquest; (b) the end of the Christian life is one of assurance and hope; (c) the end of the Christian life means transfiguration and transition.

Fifty or more cars and buggies followed the ddeceased to his last resting place, interment being in the family plot in the Zion cemetery.

A.Y.P.A. Programme

The A.Y.P.A. of St. Thomas' church has recently issued its annual programme for the year's activities beginning with the installation of officers which took place on October 2nd, and continuing fortnightly until the last Thursday in May, 1924, when the regular meetings are closed for the summer months though a garden party, picnic, and corn roast are all listed for July and August, and are invariably carried out with considerable success.

A new feature introduced this season is having the Association members attend the Corporate Communion service at 8 a.m., in a body, three times during the year, the first occasion when this was done having been on October 21st, the concluding Sunday of the special mission conducted in the parish by Rev. Canon Vernon, of Toronto. The other dates are February 17th and April 20th.

A banquet, debates, an evening when the A.Y.P.A. will be "At Home" early in January, literary and social evenings, musical programmes, with Bible studies and lantern slides during Lent, together with certain meetings devoted to business matters, make up a most attractive and interesting year's work and promise both instruction and entertainment for the members, coupled with considerable responsibility and effort on the part of officers and committees if success is to crown the carefully planned programme.

The officers are: Patron, Rev. Canon Allen; president, Rev. M. G. B. Williams; vice-president, Mr. Robert Stone; Secretary, Miss Gertrude Gray; Treasurer, Allen Pitt.

Programme committee—Miss E. Grandy, Miss L. Clarke, Mrs. (Canon) Allen, Miss A. Attwooll, Mr. F. Rowe, Mr. M. Gray.

Missionary Committee—Mrs. W. Hilton, Miss L. Shaw, Miss M. Attwooll, Miss S. McCorry.

Social Committee—Mrs. L. Morton, Miss M. Fee, Miss P. Lamb, Miss Elsie Weeks, Mr. A. A. Needler, Mr. D. Fowler.

Look-out Committee—Miss M. White Miss O. Fallis, Miss Irene Lamb, Mr. A. Dunn, Mr. A. Needler, Mr. R. Shaw.

Ministerial Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the ministerial association was held on Monday at 9.30 a.m., the president, Rev. G. S. Gervan, being in the chair. Rev. H. Wilkinson, of Pontypool, was the speaker for the occasion, and delivered a well-prepared and thought-provoking address on "The Character and Composition of the Book of Psalms from the Hebrew Poetic Point of View." Mr. Wilkinson went into his subject very thoroughly and a general discussion followed during which much interesting information was developed.

Those present included Rev. R. M. Paterson, of Frazerville, secretary of the association, Rev. M. G. Williams, Rev. G. S. Gervan, Rev. G. I. Graw, of Springville, and Rev. S. T. Tucker. Rev. Canon Allen was unavoidably absent from the gathering.

Piano at School

The new piano recently purchased by the pupils of the Continuation School has been placed in the Assembly Hall and was in use for the regular literary meeting last Friday proving a decided acquisition for such an occasion as it doubtless will for many others also. Some of those who gave musical selections on Friday were, Ernest Burnham, Lawrence Winslow, Lola Carley, Marjorie Sayles and Gladys Tucker. The school paper, "The Fortnightly Star," was read by the editor, Luella Shaw, and Mildred Brown contributed a recitation.

SOME RECORDS MADE BY RADIO

Some One Tube Sets Have Set Marks That Are Hard to Equal.

Some remarkable records have been reported with one tube sets and many fans who have constructed sets employing two or more tubes and not able to to equal such records are inclined to regard such reports as "Bunk," and the reporters of such records as—well, fellows with colorful imaginations or people who report dreams as actual happenings.

The secret, however, of such seemingly extraordinary results lies in careful construction, realization of the fact that the best quality of parts alone will make the best receiver and careful attention to refinements which make the difference between "to be or not to be" in the matter of getting that faint whisper when the announcer gives the call letters and location of the station.

In receiving local stations it is often possible to make a rather big change in the adjustments of the receiver without losing the station or perceptibly decreasing the intensity of the signal. In receiving from distant stations, however, such is not the case. The movement of a dial by a hair's breadth or even the movement of a hand or of the body away from or toward the set is enough to change the tuning of the set sufficiently to lose the station or make the announcement unintelligible.

Here then is where those little refinements change the story.

It is well-known that for best results in tuning, the maximum of inductance must be used in the circuit. If you want greatest efficiency therefore construct your coils so that the number of turns in the circuit can be varied in steps of one turn at a time so that it will only be necessary to use a minimum amount of capacity to tune the circuit into resonance.

Variable condensers should always be of the vernier type. No matter how steady your hand or wrist may be and no matter how delicate the touch of your fingers, many condensers are so constructed that they move only in jerks. The result is that when you are tuning in a distant station, you are very apt to pass over the point where the circuit would have been tuned just right to receive the DX station.

In the majority of condensers now being put on the market the vernier feature is made part of the condenser. Usually this consists of three extra plates mounted at the back of the condenser and supported by the same framework. A movable plate is made to move between the two outer plates by a shaft running through the main shaft of the condenser and controlled by a small knob at the front of the condenser.

If you already have a large condenser and do not care to scrap it to buy one of the new type, you can buy a three plate condenser which you can use in conjunction with the lartger one. All you have to do is mount it on your panel, connect the rotary plate of the small condenser with the rotary plates of the larger one and the stationary plates of the smaller one with the stationary plates of the larger condenser.

The reason why a vernier condenser gives a much finer adjustment than the other type is not difficult to understand.

The capacity of a condenser depends on the area which one set of plates exposes to the other set of plates. If you move a one plate condenser through one degree on the dial you have exposed a certain extra portion of the surface of the rotary plates to the stationary plates or taken out a certain portion of the area of the rotary plate exposed to the stationary plates, depending on which way you move the plates. If, however, you are using a twenty-three plate or forty-three plate condenser the movement of the plates one degree will move all the rotary plates and the change in capacity will be in proportion to the number of plates which are moved. Where a vernier attachment is used a rough adjustment can be made by moving the large set of plates an the finer adjustment made with the single plate.

OLD REMEDY FOR WEAK CHILDREN WAS OIL OF COD

Because of the Taste Substitutes and Emulsions Began to Be Manufactured.

An old-fashioned remedy for children who did not seem to thrive was cod-liver oil.

This was before science knew about vitamines. However, the reason that cod-liver oil was a good remedy was that it contained Vitamine A in considerable quantities.

Because of the taste of cod-liver oil, substitutes and emulsions began to be manufactured. These are easier to take but they do not have the same effect. Vitamine A does not occur in them in the same degree as in cod-liver oil.

Children with rickets who are given cod-liver oil in proper doses and who are given sun treatments will get well. Sunshine that has passed through glass of any kind is useless in these treatments. The ultra-violet rays are all stopped by glass and these are the ones of value.

Was Always Constipated

Peterborough Lady Finds Dreco a Wonderful Remedy, and No Longer Needs to Take Harsh Laxatives. General Health Shows Great Improvement as a Result.

Most everyday illnesses are directly traceable to sluggish, lazy bowels that do not properly clear the system of impurities. A chronic condition of this kind is, therefore, fraught with great danger, and unless checked, will sooner or later result in serious disability, to say nothing of its gradual weakinging effect on the whole body. The surest way of relieving constipation is by using Dreco. Miss Helena Nixon, of 258 McDonnel Street, Peterborough, Ont., proved it. Here is her experience:

"Ever since I can remember, I hav been a chronic victim of constipation. I had to be continually taking harsh laxatives, and many times these failed to do me any good. This condition kept my whole system weak, and I had a dull, worn-out feeling nearly all the time. Although I was fairly healthy every other way, I was worried because I realized that sooner or later, my more serious.

"About three weeks ago, I started taking Dreco, and found it to be just the thing for me. My bowels are regular every day, and I haven't taken a laxative of any kind since. My entire system is in better condition than for years, and I naturally am very grateful for what Dreco has done for me. After trying everything for many years, I feel that I have found a real medicine at last."

Dreco is prepared solely from the pure extracts of herbs, roots, bark, and leaves, known through the centuries for their medicinal value. These juices soothe the bowels and stimulate them to action in a natural way and benefit all the other organs of digestion as well. Dreco contains no mercury potash, or habit-forming drugs.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterboro by Bond's Drug Store. Go there today and ask for Mr. Vaughan, the Dreco Expert, and let him explain the merits of this great remedy. There is no charge and he will tell you honestly if he believes Dreco will benefit you. Dreco is also sold in Lakefield by E. H. Northey, in Campbellford by J. E. Birks, and by a good druggist everywhere.

Tragedy Behind Smile

The Million Dollar Doll

By C. N. and A. M. Williamson

Authors of "The Lightning Conductor"

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

Miles Sheridan has just learned that the girl with whom he has been taking a yacht trip, under the impression that she was

Juliet Divine, the Million Dollar Doll, a beautiful show-girl, is, in reality

Teresa Desmond (Terry), Juliet's innocent half-sister, whom the Doll sent to masquerade as herself. Miles is madly in love with Terry and is eager to divorce his wife.

Betty Sheridan, who is infatuated with

Paul di Salvano, a handsome Italian. Salvano has now deserted Betty for

Rose Callahan, a somewhat ordinary young heiress, travelling in Europe with her father. Betty, learning of Paul's desertion is not anxious to lose her husband also, and goes to Algiers where Miles yacht is lying.

Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy Greek, long in love with Terry, has almost succeeded in persuading the girl that her only course is to marry him.

Miles and Terry are enjoying a brief sojourn at Bousaada with Miles servant Mrs. Harkness as chaperone. Miles is preparing to rejoin his wife at Algiers.

Terry prepares to give up Miles for his own sake.

Mrs. Harkness, now aware of Terry's real identity is amazed to learn that Juliet Divine is her half-sister.

Terry, persuaded by Harkys elo quence, decides to wait for her Prince who is on his way to Algiers.

Betty, on board the yacht, heatedly insists on her maid's occupying Terry's room.

CHAPTER LXXXIV.

Law of Love and Decency

Betty saw the three from a long way off, but she looked only at Paola. His dark face was haggard. His eyes glanced about anxiously. He had read the letter.

Callahan, a big-headed, short-necked man, with grizzled, curly hair, made straight for a table whose three tilted chairs indicated that it was reserved. He had a sullen, bull-dog air. Betty thought, as if life had gone awry with him, and he was trying, without quite knowing how, to make the best of it. He had been very different when he first arrived from the West with Rose, to conquer New York. His blunt-featured face had been fresh-colored. He had worn and almost perpetual grin of self-satisfaction, and pleasure in his possessions—including Rose. He had walked with a swagger, almost a strut, his chin up, glancing about to see if he and his daughter were observed. Now he marched doggedly, his head down.

Even a casual observer might have guessed that the man was morose from some secret disappointment; and Betty more than guessed. She was sure; and she knew what the disappointment was. All that had glitteerd about Paul di Salvano wasn't gold! Once Callahan had wanted the Prince for a son-in-law. Now he didn't want him. But was Paul his son-in-law? That was the only part about which Betty felt uncertain.

Rose's looks told nothing. The girl was pretty, with the beauty of youth, but her features were blunt like her father's, and already she began to be too full-blown. As the old man strode ahead, the girl had time to throw Salvano a smile, with raised eye-brows. Whether it were a married smile or an engaged smile Betty could not tell.

The three sat down, Rose between the two men, and directly facing Betty. Miss Callahan had never been introduced to Mrs. Miles Sheridan, but they had often seen each other in New York; and father and daughter would at one time have given a good deal to squeeze in Betty Sheridan's set. Later, Rose had doubtless heard of the flirtation between Salvano and the young married woman; or Betty's firm intention to snub had made an impression. At all events, the girl's wistful, admiring glances at theatre or restaurant, had changed to a stoney stare; and it was now with graven-image gaze that she regarded the lady from New York.

Betty saw this, without looking up; just the ordinary trick that women are born with, and men can never learn. She saw also that Rose turned to Paola, and spoke. He kept his profile in Mrs. Sheridan's direction, but Mr. Callahan's head moved, and Betty felt his gaze upon her.

This little drama, just begun, meant joy or misery for her future; but it hadn't developed to tragedy yet, and Betty found herself slightly amused, as if she were a spectator of the play, instead of a leading character. Could it be that Salvano would try to brazen it out, or was he working up the scene to make things easy for himself? She would soon know, because if the note she had warned him that Eustace Nazlo was in the offing, and that they had better have a talk before the latter came to her table.

The tea she had ordered was brought, and as she glanced up, after pouring herself a cup, she met Paola's eyes. He was deliberately looking at her, as if seeing her for the first moment. She bowed, and he bowed, slightly rising from his chair. Then, with a word of excuse of explanation to Rose and Callahan, he walked to her table.

"How do you do, Mrs. Sheridan?" he asked, in a tone audible to everyone near. "This is a surprise. I thought you were in New York."

Betty held out her hand, and Salvano took it in his, pressing it sharply, so that the rings hurt her fingers. In spite of the pain, however, an electric thrill shot through her arm to her heart, for there was hope in that pressure, hope in the one flashing look telegraphed from the Italian's eyes to hers.

"He cares!" she told herself.

"May I sit down and talk for just a moment?" Salvano asked, still in the same "everybody can hear" tone. "I've promised Miss Callahan and her father to see a moving picture with them after tea, but— —"

"Is she Miss Callahan?" Betty broke in. Her tone was not meant for everyone. It was for Paola alone.

"You mean — —"

"You know what I mean."

"I know there's been talk."

"Of course, there's been talk! Paola, you've got to tell me. Are you married to the girl?"

"No. I — —"

"Are you engaged to her?"

"Betty—you shoot accusations at me! I've allowed them to think—"

"And everybody else to think! Paola, what did you take me for—a marble statue? It's to me you're engaged."

"My dear," he soothed her, you're a married woman. I heard that your husband wouldn't go in for a divorce, after all. What hope was there? I was desperate, and—and these things happen— —"

"Listen, Paola," she cut him short, "don't try any melodrama with me. You know all about Miles and his girl. One's only got to look at old Callahan to see that he doesn't trust you, or like you.

"I realize that you need money, but I'm not poor," she added. "I'll have more even than we thought when we thrashed things out one day, you won't have forgotten. I'm doing you a good turn, taking you away from that girl and that old man who despises you. You won't have to be ashamed of me as your wife—and you would of Rose. Besides you love me! You can't have changed so soon. I've come half across the world to claim you, because by the love of law and decency, you're mine."

CHATHAM ELECTS YOUNGEST MAYOR

Alderman Sullman, 26 Years Old, Assumes Higher Office in January

CHATHAM, Ont., Nov. 6.—With a majority of 1,644 over his nearest opponent in a three-cornered contest, Alderman C. D. Sullman was yesterday elected Mayor of Chatham for the 1924-25 term.

Alderman C. D. Sullman when he assumes the office of Mayor at the first of next year will be the youngest Mayor to head the civic administration. In his twenty-sixth year, he sought election on his four years' record as an alderman. During his term of office as alderman he served on the Parks and Cemeteries committee and during the past two years had headed the city property committee. He is a son of C. W. Sullman, ex-M.P.P. for West Kent.

A BIG WEEK-END ON GRAIN ROUTE.

Heavy Cargoes Moved Towards the Seaboard.

FORT WILLIAM, Nov. 6.—A big week-end movement of grain cleaned out 5,196,000 bushels of grain from the local elevators, the movement being marked by considerably more varied cargoes of grain than have recently been going east, wheat, oats, barley, flax, and rye all figuring in the cargoes. Twenty-eight vessels cleared on Sunday and yesterday, including nine United States boats.

The largest number of bushels went down on the Berryton, which had a mixed cargo of wheat and oats for Tiffin, totalling 419,000 bushels, and the American boat H. H. Brown, took 380,000 bushels of wheat consigned to Buffalo.

REV. CROOKSHANKS HIGHLY HONORED

Superannuated Methodist Minister Was Banqueted on Eightieth Birthday.

A pleasant testimonial to the worth of Rev. Simon Crookshanks, one of the superannuated ministers of the Methodist church, who on Saturday celebrated the eightieth anniversary of his birth, and an enduring remembrance of the kindly feelings entertained by his Sunday-school class at George street church, and the congregation generally, was the complimentary banquet tendered him by his class on Saturday evening, and attended by various members of church organizations gathered together to do honor to one of their senior pastors.

Rev. Mr. Crookshanks, who was born on the thirteenth line of Smith township, and who was for forty-three years an active worker, in this conference and the Montreal field, has, for the past eight years, ever since his superannuation, conducted one of the Sunday school classes in George street Methodist church. Saturday evening's festivities were designed to commemorate the celebration of his eightieth birthday, to mark the fifty-first milestone of his active church service, and to serve also as a testimonial of appreciation toward a retiring teacher, relinquishing, on his arrival at the four-score mark, the final reins of service in his active church life.

The banquet was held in the Sunday school room of the church, and attended by about one hundred people, with Rev. W. H. Young as Master of Ceremonies. Mr. Young referred in eloquent terms to the length of service given the church by the octogenarian in whose honor the banquet was held, and to the remarkable fidelity and devotion to church work shown by the consecrated life of Rev. Mr. Crookshanks.

Rev. B. Greatrix also spoke of his half century of association in church work with the reverend minister, and brief ecomiums on the splendid character, the faithful work and the far-reaching influence of a noble life, as epitomized by the Rev. Mr. Crookshanks, were made by Mr. George Robertson, superintendent of the Sunday-school, by Mr. S. R. Armstrong, representing the congregation, and by Mrs. E. A. Stinson speaking for his Sunday school class. The presentation of a purse containing a substantial sum of money was then made by Mrs. Paul Hagerman.

Rev. Mr. Crookshanks replied in feeling terms, referring to the manifold changes wrought by the passage of time, as experienced in eighty years of life, and to the great satisfaction to himself of his half century of work in the life of the Methodist church. Although no longer able to take an active part in the work of the church, Mr. Crookshanks expressed hope that he would still be able to play a part in its life, and that of the Sunday school.

The address which accompanied the presentation to Rev. Mr. Crookshanks was as follows:

"Dear Mr. Crookshanks: It is always a pleasure to extend good wishes to a friend on his birthday, but it is not often we have the happiness of congratulating one who has spent so many years in useful service to his God and his fellowman.

"We do certainly wish to express the hope that you may be spared to spend many more happy birthdays, and that each passing year may be one of peace and joy.

"But while we rejoice with you on this happy occasion there is a thread of sadness through it all, as we realize that we have come to the parting of the ways.

"We regret very much that it has become necessary for you to resign your position as our teacher. Our relations in the class have always been so pleasant and helpful, and your attitude as teacher so broad-minded, that we looked forward to our Sunday sessions with pleasure.

"We know your place will be hard to fill. The high ideals you have placed before us and the many lessons you have taught us by precept and example, will, we feel sure, have a lasting inbuence on our lives.

"We, your Sunday school class and your friends, felt that mere words were not enough to express our appreciation of your loyal service, and we ask you to accept this purse as a small token of the place which you have in our esteem."

Signed on behalf of the class, Grace Stinson, Cor. Secy.

At the church services yesterday morning, Rev. W. Harold Young referred to the birthday celebration and the long term of service by the Rev. Mr. Crookshanks.

During the celebration of the banquet on Saturday evening, several enjoyable vocal selections were given by Mrs. J. H. Renwick.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Clive Roberts Barton

MISTER NUT-FUDGE ALLIGATOR

"That's Mister Alligator, whispered Nancy.

The next place the Twins came to in Dixie Land was a muddy river.

And there on the bank lay a queer-looking object, pointed at both ends.

It was as flat as a mattress, as long as a log, and as brown and lumpy as a pan of nut-fudge. Besides, it was all marked off in a little squares, just like nut-fudge.

Nick was just going to say, "Hello, Mr. Nut-Fudge, who are you?" when suddenly one of Mister Fudge's pointe ends opened, showing two rows of white teeth like icicles—only some of them were upside down.

"That's Mister Alligator," whispered Nancy. "I've seen his picture in a book."

At that minute the Twins spied a little brown furry creature not ten feet away from Mister Alligator's nose. The little creature was shivering and shaking like a bowl of lemon jelly, and his name was Roly Poly Muskrat. Mister Alligator laughed when he saw him pop out of a hole in the bank right in front of him.

"Hello!" he called as pleasant as custard pie, "How are you, Roly?"

"I—I— I'm w— well!" stuttered Roly.

"That's fine!" laughed Mister Alligator. "How much do you weigh now?"

"A— a—about three p—pounds," answered Roly.

"Tut, tut, tut!" exclaimed Mister Alligator. "That's not enough. You ought to weigh six pounds. I'll bet you do and you don't know it. Come here and let me lift you."

"Oh, no! I— I c—couldn't!" stuttered Roly. "M— mammy wouldn't let me."

"She wouldn't, hey?" snapped Mister Alligator, and he stopped laughing and began to slash his tail around like a carpet-beater.

Roly Poly began to run and this was exactly what Mister Alligator did not want. He was so big and heavy he couldn't go very fast himself.

"Look out, Roly," called Mister Alligator sharply. "What's that in front of you?"

"Where?" gasped the little muskrat, stopping suddenly.

"I'll show you!" said Mister Alligator, starting to move along on his four fat legs as fast as—well, about as fast as a slow freight train. He would have had a hold of poor little Roly Poly in about four seconds if the Twins hadn't grabbed the little muskrat and run off with him to a place of safety.

"Goodby, Mister Nut-Fudge," called Nick. "Next time pick somebody your own size."

"Ugh!" snorted Mister Alligator in disgust.

SOLVING PROBLEM OF WORLD'S UNEMPLOYED

By HENRY WOOD

GENEVA, Nov. 6.—(United Press)—That the world is steadily fighting its way back to "normalcy" is indicated by the latest statistics gathered by the International Labor Bureau on unemployment.

Since the close of the war world-wide unemployment has constituted the most serious economic problem and the greatest obstacle to a return of normal, pre-war industrial and economic conditions.

As a matter of fact, despite the united efforts of virtually every government in the world there was absolutely no serious improvement in the situation until a few months ago. Then, the monthly statistics of the International Labor Bureau indicated that possibly the turning points had been reached.

This indication has now been fully confirmed by later statistics, and despite occasional variations, the problem of unemployment may now be regarded as marching definitely toward normalcy.

TAKE PEPS NOW!

All sufferers from Coughs, Colds, Sore Throats or deep-seated Chest Trouble should know that it is no longer necessary to swallow liquid cough mixtures into the stomach. This is now an obsolete method. The new Peps tablets provide you with a powerful natural medicine which is actually breathed straight into throat, chest and lungs.

You simply strip a Peps of its silver jacket and dissolve the tablet on your tongue. The medicinal fumes then given off, mix with the breath and percolate through the throat and bronchial tubes into the deepest and smallest air-cells in the lungs.

A MEDICINE YOU BREATHE!

This demulcent Peps medicine reaches inner parts of the chest. It ends germ trouble in the throat and air-tubes, and relieves and heals the swollen, inflamed, mucus membrane. Coughing is promptly allayed; hard, stringy phlegm loosened and expelled, breathing becomes easy.

There is no other remedy so pleasant, so safe, or so efficacious as Peps for daggers and weaknesnes threatening the throat, chest and lungs at this season.

Take Peps to secure freedom from coughs, colds, grippe, sore throat, bronchitis, etc. Don't venture out day or night without the protection of Peps. Always dissolve one in your mouth at the very first sign of throat irritation or chest discomfort. Lastly—be sure you get PEPS.

CHURCH AFFAIRS AT JANETVILLE

Meeting of Young People's Society—Social at Mount Horeb.

JANETVILLE, Nov. 6.—Last Friday evening an excellent program was furnished by the Christian Endeavor Department of the Y.P.S. The subject was, "What and Where is God?" Rev. G. E. Ross being in charge of this department, divided the subject into four seven-minute addresses, assigning one to each of four young people. "Who is God?" was well handled by Archie Stinson. Victor Blatherwick gave a splendid talk on "Where is God?" While Miss Jacket dealt with "The Activities of God." This literary portion of the program was interspersed with vocal and instrumental music, Miss Blatherwick furnishing an instrumental selection, while Miss Hilda Paul sang a solo very sweetly. The program was introduced by the President, with a five-minute address.

Mission Social

On Friday evening last the W.M.S. of Mount Horeb held a Missionary pie social which was well attended. The social element was preceded by a good program at which the following took part: Solo, Miss Fern Magahy; reading, Ross Parks; duett, Rev. and Mrs. Ross; dialogue entitled "The Mouse Trap"; recitation, Mrs. Parks; duet, by the Misses Porter; dialogue, "From Down East"; and a reading by Miss Ruby Magahy. The chair was occupied by the pastor and the proceeds amounted to about $40.00.

Mission Band

On Saturday afternoon the Mission Band met in the Sunday School room, and held a most enthusiastic meeting. After the routine of business and excellent program was furnished. The "Boy's Chorus" prepared by Mrs. Ross was a "hit," for the boys who sang the chorus for the first time acquitted themselves with great credit. Mrs. John Bradburn, organizer for the Lindsay district, was present and gave a very inspiring address.

Communion Service

Yesterday was Communion service, and a fine congregation gathered in the morning. Owing to the rain at night the audience was small. The services of the day were characterized by unusual spiritual power. The church at Janetville is laying plans for a great Forward Movement.

FOUND BURIED TREASURE.

AMSTERDAM (United Press).—The family named Faan, who have lived in a hovel-like cottage near here for four or five generations, have been begging on the streets of Amsterdam. The latest generation, a sister and two brothers, have been in a sorry plight. Just as they were about to give up the struggle one of the brothers unwittingly opened a recess in the wall where he found 300,000 francs. The savings of the great-grandfather had been visited upon the third generation.

$80 For Library

The rummage sale held on Saturday afternoon in the Council rooms in aid of the Public Library was a real success. The homemade cooking sold quickly. A number had afternoon tea and the other articles for sale sold readily. The proceeds amounted to over $80. This is to be spent in the purchase of new books. Saturday a number of new books came to the Library. The Library although small in size keeps in touch with the newest books and amongst these new ones are Curwood's latest "The Alaskan," Gene Stratton Porter's "The White Flag," Lord Hamilton's "Here, There and Everywhere." These are only a few of the new books which have just been purchased. A number of juvenile books have also been received.

Stanley Peare entertained a number of his boy friends on Hallowe'en.

On Sunday afternoon, November 4, the Rev. D. R. Clare preached in the Methodist church to L.O.L. No. 319. The choir provided special music. Mr. Clare took as his subject, "The Bible," and tried to show the importance of the Word of God. His text was Psalms 119, verse 130.

On Saturday Miss Mary Maloney entertained a number of her friends at her home.

Mr. W. Bedore spent most of last week in Bancroft.

Mr. Stafford Clement, Marlbank, visited his mother, Mrs. Tim Clement, over the week-end.

Mr. Breene Hogan, Millbridge, visited Mr. and Mrs. Edward O'Connor on Sunday.

Mr. H. S. Scarlett, Trenton, visited at the home of Mr. Chas. Burns on Saturday.

PROHIBITION DEFEAT IN ALBERTA CERTAIN, GOVERNMENT CONTROL

Late Last Night Returns Gave the Moderate Wets a Majority of 23,545 in a Total Counted Vote of 114,933.

RESULT CAN'T CHANGE

CALGARY, Nov. 6. — (Canadian Press).—The defeat of prohibition in Alberta was certain late last night. Thirty per cent. of the country polls at that hour had rolled up a majority of close to 8,000 for Government control and sale of liquors, and early returns from the cities showed a decided "wet" tendency. Eighty polls out of 124 in Calgary showed the "moderation" clause leading by about four thousand, and in Edmonton and Medicine Hat prohibition was going down to defeat. Complete returns from Lethbridge gave a majority for Government control of 1,509.

It was predicted that Clause D, which involves the Government sale of all liquors and sale of beer in licensed premises, would defeat Clause A, which means the continuation of the present legislation, by probably 20,000. Clauses B and C, providing for the sale of beer under varying conditions, made a bad showing, and apparently were popular neither in the city nor country.

The Counted Vote.

On figures compiled at 10.30 last night there was a majority for Government control of 23,545 in the total counted vote of 114,933. Slightly more than half of the polls had reported, but they accounted for about 75 per cent. of the expected vote, so the result will not be altered appreciably.

At 10.30 a total of 1,170 polls, including the majority of those in Calgary and Edmonton, gave the following result:

A—Meaning continuance of prohibition, 42,963.

B—Meaning sale of beer in hotels, 3,114.

C—Meaning sale of beer by Government, 2,248.

D—Meaning Government control, plus sale of beer in licensed premises, 66,508.

"The much-lauded system of Government control should have a fair trial," said H. H. Cragg, secretary of the Prohibitionist Committee of One Hundred, commenting last night on the result. "Every prohibitionist," he added, "knows well what the result will be without waiting for experience to teach us."

Mr. Cragg said the result was disappointing, in view of the reports they had received.

L. F. P. Conybeare, president of the Moderation League of Alberta, in expressing his satisfaction with the verdict, said he hoped the Government would appoint a liquor commissioner for a fixed term, subject to earlier removal only if found guilty by the Supreme Court of misconduct. Such a board, he said, should have absolute control over its staff, with political patronage completely eliminated.

TEMPERANCE LAWS UNDER DISCUSSION

"How Dry We Are" by the Toronto Conservatives

TORONTO, Nov. 6.—(Canadian Press).—At a meeting of the North Toronto Conservative Association in Eglington Hall last night, President J. H. Armitage, after declaring that the Ontario Temperance Act was "a disgrace to any law-abiding people," announced that the next meeting of the Association would be devoted to a discussion of the O. T. A. under the direction of J. A. McCausland, J. A. Currie and E. W. J. Ownes, three Toronto members of the Legislature who have been attacking the vehicle of prohibition in Ontario.

No sooner had the President concluded his brief but pointed reference to a well-known statute than J. M. Skelton was on his feet to move a resolution asking that the next meeting be set aside for the discussion of Federal politics.

"I am not prepared to countenance the vaudeville antics of McCausland and Currie," he said. "They have already done too much damage to the reputation of the Conservative party in Ontario. If we go on shouting about how dry we are, we are going to lose thousands of voters at the next Dominion election, and that's not very far away."

GROCERY PREMISES A FIRE, MILLBROOK

Thought That Mice Caused Blaze by Nibbling at Matches.

MILLBROOK, November 6. — Fire broke out in J. L. Byam's grocery premises, King Street, at twelve o'clock last night, resulting in damage to the extent of about $200.00 or $300.00, partly covered by insurance.

The blaze started in a store house at the rear of the store in the neighbourhood of a case of matches, which it is thought, were ignited by mice nibbling at them.

There was no fire left burning in store itself at the end of the day's business.

The flames were got under control after an hour's energtic fire-fighting.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Presentations Testify to Esteem in Which Recipients Are Held—News and Personal Paragraphs.

CAMPBELLFORD, November 6.—A very pleasing event took place on Sunday evning in St. Andrew's Church, when Miss Andrews, one of the choir members, was presented with a handsome silk umbrella. Miss Andrews leaves on Thursday morning for her home in Scotland. Although she has been a member of the choir but a few months, her services will be greatly missed, as well as her bright face and cheerful disposition. Her friends here will regret to lose her, but the friends "over there" will be glad to welcome her back again.

Rev. Mr. McIntosh, before making the presentation made a few very appropriate remarks, and Miss Andrews made a fitting reply, thanking her choir friends for their thoughtfulness.

Will Reside Here.

Mrs. Hatfield and her son Archie, who have lately purchasd a house from Mrs. W. E. Hart here were respected residents of the Oak Hills, near Stirling. Before their departure the Women's Institute made Mrs. Hatfield a life member of their society, and presented her with a handsome purse, the members of the Guild of the Anglican Church, Stirling gave her an electric toaster, and friends and neighbours presented them with a pair of handsome chairs. They will have a hearty welcome as citizens of Campbellford.

Personal Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Mitchell spent Sunday in Brighton, guests of Mrs. and Miss Lillian Davidson.

Mr and Mrs. E. Plummer were in Belleville on Sunday.

Mr. Thos. O'Connor is visiting his mother, Mrs. James O'Connor, Sebastopol Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Free and family motored to Lindsay and spent the day with the former's mother Mrs. Eliza Free.

Rev. A. R. Sanderson, former pastor of the Methodist Church here, passed through town recently.

Mr. F. Montgomery, of Peterborough is visiting his friend, Mr. T. McCook.

Several Campbellford hunters left this morning for the north. Among them are Messrs. Thos. McCook, and Drs. F. and E. Free.

Miss Hazel Mason, who is attending Normal School in Peterborough, spent the week-end under the parental roof.

SAVED A GIRL'S LIFE, BRANTFORD

Two Kiwanians Volunteered in a Race With Death.

BRANTFORD, November 6 (Canadian Press). .... Two Brantford Kiwanians, D. T. Williamson, vice-president, and H. E. Gignac, secretary, raced death and won.

On Saturday at noon they received word from Nurse Anguish, of the Social Service League, that unless at once taken to the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, and operated on, a little girl would die.

Within thirty minutes Williamson in his sedan, with Gignac, Nurse Anglish, and the child and her mother, was on his way to Toronto.

At Mimico the child collapsed, and a stimulant had to be secured from a doctor to maintain life for the rest of the journey.

The run to the Hospital for Sick Children was made in excellnt time, and ten minutes after arrival the operation was under way.

At its conclusion the surgeon reported it successful, but blood transfusion was necessary.

Both Kiwanians voluntered, underwent blood tests, and Williamson was chosen.

The girl is recovering nicely.

A HUMANE JUDGE RELEASED PRISONER

Fuller Escaped From Reformatory and Returned After Visiting Sick Mother.

GOSHEN, N.Y., November 6. — Canadian Press. — John Fuller was arraigned before Judge Wiggins in county court here yesterday on a charge of escaping from the New York reformatory at Hampton farms

His escape followed the receipt of a letter announcing his mother's serious illness. Fuller remained with her until she had recovered, and then went back to the institution.

Upon hearing that Fuller had risked the weapons of the guards, and the penalty of a long sentence through love of his mother, Judge Wiggins suspended sentence of three months more in the institution, and allowed him to return to the city happy.

A BIG DAY'S WORK.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Nov. 6.—Several large cargoes of grain, including four over 300,000 bushels each, are going forward from Port Arthur and Fort William elevators. Sixteen steamers were expected to clear yesterday afternoon. They will carry a total of 3,178,000 bushels, considered to be a big day's work.

MAN-HUNT FOR BAD INDIAN EXPECT GENERAL GUN PLAY

South Alberta Police Forces All Engaged in Search For Murder Suspect—Little Ranch Girl Killed.

Lethbridge, Alberta, Nov. 6. — So far the police dragnet has not caught Joe Blackhorse, the Blood Indian, wanted for the murder of 16-year-old Winnie Tollestrup, Raymond High School girl, whose charred remains were found in a strawstack over three miles from that town at midnight on Saturday, more than 24 hours after the slaying.

Police from all forces in southern Alberta are engaged in the man hunt, and the hunt is concentrating on the Blood reserve, where the Indian was last seen on Saturday morning.

To-day the coal mine owned by Blackhorse, 15 miles northwest of Raymond, is to be searched. He is known as a bad Indian and shooting is expected when the police come up with him.

Two theories are held by the police. One is that the Indian killed the girl in a fit of rage over the fact that she had only $10 to pay him for a load of coal when $12 was the price. The other is that he committed a criminal assault, then murdered the girl to hide his crime.

Blackhorse is 25 years of age, is married, and has four children.

PROF. MACLEOD WAS GUEST OF HONOR

Participator in Nobel Prize Banquetted at Hart House, Toronto.

TORONTO, Nov 6. — Canadian Press.—Prof. J. J. R. Macleod of the department of Physiology of the University of Toronto, honored jointly with Dr. F. G. Banting in recent award of this year's Nobel prize for their achievements in medical research in discovery of insulin, was the guest of honor at a banquet last evening at Hart House on the occasion of his return from Edinburgh where he delivered the Cameron lectures in Physiology. There were seventy guests representative of the Medical profession, several coming from outside points in Ontario.

The toast to the guest of the evening was proposed by Dr. Nobel and supported by Dr. H. B. Anderson. Prof. Macleod in replying said: "There is sometimes a tendency to consider that research in medicine can be carried out only by the selected few who are skilled in the use of laboratory methods of investigation, and that a general practitioner is unqualified and incompetent to do his part.

The great object of a teacher of medical science should be to break down this false idea and in its stead to impress his students with the fact that in the varied experiences of general practice there exists a multitude of problems of disease that can never be elucidated unless they are made the subject of investigation by minds trained to think independently and to detect relationship between cause and effect.

RICHARD ELMHIRST BUIRED ON SUNDAY

Deceased Was a General Favorite in the Community.

INDIAN RIVER, Nov. 6.—The funeral of the late Richard Elmhirst of Indian River was held on Sunday last from the family residence to Fife's Cemetery, Otonabee, the pallbearers being three sons and three sons-in-law; Stephen, William, and Charles Elmhirst, William Borland, John Faux and Cecil W. Stark.

The late Mr. Elmhirst whose death, after a brief illness, occurred at his home on Thursday last, was in his 73rd year. He was born in Otonabee, the descendant of an old pioneer family, his parents being the late Richard and Margaret (Steel) Elmhirst and resided in the township all his life. He was a Methodist in religion and in politics a Conservative. Because of his genial disposition and hearty good nature, he was a general favorite with all with whom he came in contact.

Survivors of the deceased, whose wife, Ellen Shaw, died about four years ago are nine daughters and three sons; Mrs. Wm. Borland of Indian River, Mrs. Howard Pepin and Mrs. Hugh Lancaster of Silverton, B.C., Mrs. Sam Grier of Calgary, Mrs. Cecil Stark of Peterboro Miss Alice of Saskatchewan, Mrs. John Faux, Mrs. John Lancaster and Miss Mary, all of Otonabee, and Stephen, William and Charles all of Otonabee. A fourth son, Percy, died eight years ago. Three sisters also survive: Mrs. Joseph Comstock, Mrs. Wm. Comstock and Mrs. John Comstock, all of Asphodel and three brothers, Robert of Parry Sound, John and James of Otonabee.

OTTAWA, Nov. 6.— The local store of the Dominion Floral Company of Montreal was badly damaged by fire here last night, at an estimated loss of $3,000, partly covered by insurance. The origin of the blaze is unknown.

The GRESSMAN Company Limited

DECLARES PULPWOOD EMBARGO IS FEASIBLE

Secretary of Canadian Pulp and Paper Association Says the American Paper Interests Would Establish Mills in Canada

SETTLERS OPPOSED.

OTTAWA Ont, Nov.. 5. — (By Canadinan Press).—An embargo on the export of pulpwood from Canada, "offers a prospect of a consider able improvement in forest conservation is constitutionally and economically feasible," reads a statement made by Edward Beck, Montreal, Secretary of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, before the Royal Commission investigating the Canadian Pulp and paper industry, at its opening session here this afternoon.

Mr. Beck read a long printed statement illustrated with a number of charts giving statistics of Canadian pulp and paper business and drawing deductions relative to consumption and destruction of forests An embargo of the export of the raw product it is contended would mean the establishment of mills in Canada by American paper interests. Canada now gets $10 a cord out of the pulpwood export, half of which goes to the railway. If manufacture were carried on in the Dominion instead of outside of it, the value of Canada would be $50 a cord instead of $10.

Hector Authier M.P.P. Amos, Que., was the first witness before the commission. He said the residents of his constituency were at present opposed to any restriction of pulpwood export. This, he contended, was the main business of settlers in the Abitibi district which he represented. Prices for pulpwood had been very low in past years, he said, and the demand from the United States had helped to improve them. If Canadian manufactures would cooperate with the government in paying a "fairly reasonable" price how ever, said Mr. Authier, the objection to an embargo or other export restrictions would be considerably less pronounced.

Urges Higher Prices

Questioned by Chairman Joseph Picard as to whether the Canadian or the United States market govern ed the price, the witness said he felt the wider the market the better the chance for a fair price. A statement which he had prepared made the contention that the clearing of trees and selling of the wood was essential to the successful settling of the land. In these days stimulation rather than restriction was required. The Abitibi settler was at present getting an entirely inadequate price for his wood. At present he received about $5 a cord for the rough and $10 for the peeled product. To sufficiently recompense him these prices should be boosted to $10 for the rough and $15 to $18 for the barked wood. He believed it would be to the advantage of Canadian manufacturers to organize to the end of buying the whole of the settlers' production of pulpwood at a remunerative price. Until this co-operation was affected however, the settlers should have free access to the American market. Witness said the Abitibi settlers cut about 100,000 cords of wood annually half of this went to Ontario mills and the remainder in about equal quantities to Quebec and the United States concerns. In regard to suggestions which had been made to restrict the area cut over, Mr. Authier thought such restrictions should apply to crown lands and not to the work of settlers who were doing good service in extending the cultivated areas.

Questioned by Commissioner A. B. Kerr, Toronto, witness said American buyers were not very active in the Abitibi district; he knew of no United States contracts extending over a long period.

Where Fires Occur

Commissioner R. N. McLellan. Fredericton, N.S., brought up the question of forest fires. Witness said fires had not been so extensive of late as in former years. While the railway right-of-way was frequently fired on either side he said settlers and prospectors were responsible for their share of fires. The worst fires had occurred in townships opened for settlement. Recent regulations, however which prohibited settlers burning over their land during certain seasons had been effective in obviating fires. After forest had been burned over the burned lumber was attacked by boring insects and ruined within twelve to twenty months. Chairman Picard wanted to know what would be the effect of an embargo on pulpwood export, supposing it prevented the settler from disposing of his lumber. Witness said that the wood cutting was the settler's only source of income until he had a fair amount of land cleared for crops. The Quebec government was starting a scheme this year by which the settler would be paid a small premium for clearng land.

Canada's Supply

Mr. Beck then proceeded to read his statement covering Canadian pulpwood resources, the need for conservation and so forth. It was claimed that the rate of depletion of forests was continuing at a dangerous rate and that in the not distant future the pulp and paper industry would be seriously affected. Quoting the authority of the Dominion Forestry Branch it was estimated that Canada's supply of merchantable spruce and balsam was some 580,000,000 cords, of which some 80,000,008 cords were regarded as inaccessible. The total cut of pulp wood hitherto had not greatly exceeded four million cords, but indications were that a cut of 5 million cords a year would soon be the minimum. To this had to be added the immense loss by fire and disease, which was estimated as greater than the amount of increment. An author ity was quoted, though with reservation that the annual cut was only about one-tenth of the quantity lost through destruction by insects, fungii, fire and wind. The document also emphasized the loss to the soil by deforestation, since the forest was naturally a preserver of moisture and a regulator of stream flow.

It is admitted by the statement that it is difficult to interest owners or licenses of timber limits in replanting trees which will give no return for 50 to 100 years. And so far as fire protection went, the system adopted had to be general over a large area to be of any value. Thus fire protection and forest renewal must eventually become the responsibility in great part of the government. The protective legislation in the four eastern provinces ought to be uniform, it was contended, since fire and pest are likely to be common to all.

The question of settling men on forest lands was regarded as questionable. The land was often stripped of its forest and then abandoned by the settler, who proceeded to a new area to repeat the operation.

U. S. Demand Grows

It was pointed out that out of less than six million cords of pulpwood annually used by the United States over a million cords had been drawn from Canada yearly for the past 15 years, and this proportion was increasing. An embargo on pulpwood exportation, it was asserted would have the effect of inducing American concerns to establish mills in Canada in order to grind the wood here and export the wood in form of pulp. It was shown that since 1910 Canada's yearly exports of pulp and paper had grown from $4,484,000 to $122,554,000. The milling of Canadian pulpwood within the Dominion it is computed would bring about a capital investment in Canada of some $150,000,000. This would be sufficient to keep 33 pulp and paper mills busy each producing 100 tons a day, with employment for 8,250 operatives earning $11,140,500 in wages, American concerns, furthermore, would be far more concerned in forest presevation if the forest were at the door of their mills instead of in a foreign country.

The alternative of an export tax is considered, and it is pointed out as an objection to an export trade, though undesirable once it became a source of revenue to the government, was likely to be encouraged. Another alternative to be considered was the use of the embargo in negotiations with the United States to secure a tariff concession in the shape of free admission of Canadian paper of other kinds than newsprint. These now bear a duty of 25 per cent and upward.

The commission will continue its sessions at the Carnegie Library here on Tuesday morning.

HERE IS SOME REAL DIVERSIFIED FARMING

KINSTON, N.C., Nov. 6.—(United Press).—Egbert Waller may not have any bananas, but he has plenty of fruit. In fact, on Waller's hillside farm, near here, 266 separate products are grown.

"What we are doing is only typical of what can be done on most any farm in this part of the country," Waller said. "Eastern Carolina soil is adaptable to more crops than that of any other region in America."

Wheat is one of the few products not raised on this unusual farm. However, meal for cornbread is available. In addition, many kinds of vegetables and fruits are produced and the Wallers raise their own beef, pork nd poultry. When fish is desired they go to the pond on the farm and catch a number of varieties. In addition, there is a "bullfrog pasture" on the premises, and in the game season birds and fish are available.

With all these things avaiable for home consumption, the plantation produces tobacco and cotton as cash crops.
